Pursuant to resolutions adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular adjourned meeting thereof held June 8th, 1908, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 29th day of June, 1908, at eight o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 151 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, the Common Council of said city will receive and open sealed proposals for the purchase of the $95,000 of School Bonds called for by the resolutions adopted by the Common Council June 1st, 1908, and June 8th, 1908, and duly approved by the Mayor, and the $25,500 of Police Station House Bonds called for by resolutions adopted by the Common Council May 11th, 1908, and June 8th, 1908, and duly approved by the Mayor.

The School Bonds referred to are in denominations of $1,000 each, and will bear date July 1, 1908, and be payable July 1, 1958. The Police Station House Bonds referred to are in denominations of $500 each, and will bear date July 1, 1908, and be payable serially as follows: July 1, 1909, one bond, and July 1 of each year from 1910 to 1916, both inclusive, two bonds, and July 1 in each year from 1917 to 1928, both inclusive, three bonds. Both School Bonds and Police Station House Bonds will bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum (4½%) per annum, payable semi-annually. Principal and interest will be payable in gold coin of U. S. of the present standard of weight and fineness. The forms of both sets of bonds and coupons are on file in the office of the City Clerk and there open to inspection by bidders. The bonds will be delivered to the purchasers on July 1st, 1908, at the office of the City Treasurer of the City of Plainfield, N. J., or at the option of the purchasers on written notice to the City Clerk, at the office of the Columbia Trust Company in the City of New York.

A certified check for two per cent. (2%) of the face value of the bonds bid for, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield, N. J., must accompany each bid. All such checks except the checks of the party or parties whose bids shall be accepted will be promptly returned by the City Treasurer. If all bids are rejected, all checks will be returned. All proposals for bids must be submitted in the forms of proposal especially prepared for that purpose, copies of which may be obtained from the City Clerk or from the Columbia Trust Company in the City of New York. The legality of the issue has been examined by Delafield & Longfellow, Esqs., of New York City, whose favorable opinion will be furnished to the purchasers.

The bonds will be engraved under the supervision of and certified as to genuineness by the Columbia Trust Company of New York City. Each proposal together with the certified check accompanying the same shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope endorsed "proposal for bonds" and addressed "The Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J.," and delivered to the Common Council at the time and place specified in this advertisement.

No bid for less than par and accrued interest will be accepted.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council, together with that of waiving any informalities or defects.

At the time and place appointed, to wit, on Monday, June 29th, 1908, at eight o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the bids or sealed proposals and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, providing said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Common Council.

By order of the Common Council.

JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

AN ORDINANCE

To Vacate An Unnamed and Unaccepted Street, On Property of Lemuel E. Hart, in the Rear of Elmwood Place.

WHEREAS it is alleged, that the hereinafter described unnamed street, referred to in two certain deeds hereinafter referred to from Job Male to Lemuel E. Hart, both dated September 1, 1884, have never been opened to public use or accepted by the City, although dedicated as a street, and that Lemuel E. Hart and Lucy Wooley are all the owners of the abutting lands of said street, and have applied to the Common Council of said city to vacate said street, pursuant to Chapter 139 of the laws of 1897 and have filed with the City Clerk the consents required by said act:

AND WHEREAS, the opening of said street would require a large expenditure of public funds and it is to the interest of the city that such street should be vacated:

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

That the unnamed street referred to in two certain deeds from Job Male to Lemuel E. Hart, dated September 1, 1884, and recorded in Book 168 of deeds for Union County, pages 491 and 493, which street begins at the south corner of property owned by Thomas E. Curran on Elmwood Place and runs thence with property of Lemuel E. Hart, south fifty-one degrees and forty-three minutes west two hundred and eight (208) feet more or less, to property of Lucy Wooley; thence with her line south thirty-eight degrees and four minutes east a distance of forty (40) feet; thence still with property of Lemuel E. Hart, north fifty-one degrees and forty-three minutes east two hundred and eight (208) feet more or less, to south corner of lot owned by Lemuel E. Hart fronting on Elmwood Place; thence with the south boundary line of said Elmwood Place lot, north thirty-nine degrees and fifty-seven minutes west forty (40) feet to the beginning, be and the same is hereby vacated, pursuant to the acts of the Legislature in such case made and provided.

CHAS. J. FISK, Mayor.

A CONVENTION PRIMER

Important Information Concerning Past and Coming National Political Conventions.

CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS.

Who issues the call for the national party conventions?

The national committee, which also selects the temporary chairman of the convention, who presides immediately after the convention has been opened by the chairman of the national committee and prayer has been offered.

How is the temporary organization perfected?

On the conclusion of the address by the temporary chairman the temporary officers selected by the national committee are announced and the following committees: Permanent organization, rules and order of business, credentials, resolutions. These committees are made up of one member on each committee from each state, selected by the state delegation.

How are contests settled?

For the temporary organization by the national committee. The committee on credentials then reports to the convention.

Then how does the convention proceed?

By adopting the report of the committee on permanent organization, which recommends the permanent chairman and officers. After the address of the permanent chairman the report of the committee on rules and order of business is presented, then the report of the committee on resolutions, whose chairman reads the platform. Then follow the nominating speeches and the balloting, first for president and then for vice president; then the appointment of committees for notifying the nominees.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wharton Edwards, of Franklin place, have gone to Mohegan, Maine, for the summer.

Mrs. Charles W. Foster and family, of East Seventh street, will spend their summer vacation at Tolland, Mass.

Mulford Estil, of Park avenue, who has been detained at home several weeks with rheumatism, is greatly improved.

Miles Roberts, of Putnam avenue, will spend most of July and August at Tolland, Mass., where his family is staying for the summer at the Tunis Club.

Ralph K. Miner and daughter, of Oriskany Falls, N. Y., who have been visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Morse, of Franklin place, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley and daughters, of North Plainfield, who sailed on the Baltic Thursday for a trip abroad, will attend the London Horse Show while away.

Martin Stutsman, of this city, who was recently graduated from the law department of the New York University, is planning to open offices in this city, after he is admitted to the Bar.

Miss Harriet Halloway, who has been teaching at the Scotch Plains Public School, is planning to spend a portion of the summer at Silver Bay, Lake George. The remainder of the summer will be spent at Tolland, Mass., where she has a cottage.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. A. C. McCrea, of Central avenue, who have been spending the week at Carlisle, Pa., where they attended the commencement week exercises at Dickinson College, have returned home. Dr. McCrea will occupy his pulpit at the First M. E. church, tomorrow.

AMUSEMENTS.

For the week commencing June 15, the premier place on the bill will be occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Mark Murphy in their laughable one act sketch entitled "The Coal Strike." Mr. Murphy's reputation as a fun maker of the Celtic brand is unquestioned. Mrs. Murphy is no small factor in making merriment during the action of the skit. The American appearance of La Sylphe, a wonderful dancer who has been the reigning sensation at the Alhambra Music Hall in London for the past year. Various electrical and mirror effects are used by this terpsichorist to enhance her artistic dancing. Lew Hawkins, he of minstrel fame, will sing and jest as merrily as of yore. To the atheletically inclined McPhee and Hill in their comedy acrobatic turn. Eldridge, a sand artist will exhibit his skill in drawing pictures with sand of different hues. Max Witt's Singing Colleen's offer a dainty singing novelty with elaborate scenic and costume effects. Julia Curtis a former musical comedy favorite will be heard in a pleasing singing specialty. These with other acts of like worth and prominence and a new serie of animated pictures will complete the program.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring will deliver the eleventh sermon in the series on "The Apostles Creed," at the First Presbyterian church, tomorrow night.

Rev. A. E. Finn and George E. Hall, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, have decided to attend the International Sunday-school Convention to be held at Louisville, Ky., within a short time.

Attractive programs have been arranged for the Children's Day exercises to be held in the various churches of the city and borough tomorrow. They wil comprise songs, recitations and dialogues, and in some instances special music by the choir.

A feature of the musical to be given in connection with the lawn party at the home of Miss May Randolph on East Second street, tonight, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, will be whistling solos by Miss Hillyer, of Dunellen. No admission fee will be charged to the grounds.

"Fellows's Folly" Gets a Buyer.

The house known as "Fellows's Folley" at Montclair, has been purchased by Frederick H. Tiplin. The building, which is one of the handsomest in Montclair, stands at Fullerton avenue and Union street. It cost about $100,000. William C. Fellows, who made a fortune in a day in cotton on the New York Exchange, constructed it of sandstone, and it is said to have marked the beginning of his financial downfall. The tile for the roof was brought from Holland at a cost of $12,000, and the chimneys cost $1,000 each. The interior of the building was never completed. Mr. Fellows lived in it about a year, dying suddenly in the South. Since then the large castlelike structure has been somewhat of a mystery, as it remained unoccupied for the last ten years. Mr. Tiplin has not announced what he intends to do with his new property.

THE SITUATION IN UNION CO.

It is not surprising that the New Ideaites in Union county should endorse State Senator Ackerman and Assemblyman Pierce for renomination for they could not consistently do otherwise. Both have been shining lights in the Legislature and no earthly reason could be advanced for retiring either one. What the Newark News says of Mr. Pierce equally applies to the Senator, particularly when it declares that the Cranford man is deserving of a renomination, "because of his independence and good judgment."

As for the political future of Assemblymen Kirstein and Moxon some doubt is expressed among those in touch with the trend of political affairs, aside from any action that the New Idea men may see fit to take. The Rahway man was not particularly conspicuous during his first term but on the whole he was by no means an unfit representative. As to Mr. Moxon, who according to current report, would not refuse a renomination, party custom may prevent his ambitions being satisfied. The same rule that was enforced against Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, applies to the Elizabethan who has already served two terms. There are plenty of good men in the county who would be willing to take these places and it is not altogether improbable that the nominating convention may view the situation in this light.

It seems that the Netherwood section is deserving of better police protection than it gets at present. The patrolman on duty there is an efficient man but the territory he is supposed to cover is entirely too large. As sooner or later it will be a case of "locking the stable door after the horse is stolen," the police board might better take early action.

What is the Police Board's idea in not filling the vacancy in the position of roundsmen in that department? There are several capable men who have served the city long and faithfully as patrolmen, any one of whom would discharge the duties satisfactorily.

PRIEST FILES PROTEST.

Objects to Baccalaureate Sermons in Churches.

Asbury Park, June 13.—Father A. Roche, rector of the Catholic church of the Holy Spirit, has written letters to Miss L. A. Doren, principal of the schools in Neptune Township, and Dr. F. S. Shepherd, principal of the Asbury Park Schools, protesting against the delivery of baccaleureeate sermons in churches.

Father Roche yesterday refused to discuss the protest for publication. It is stated, however, that the children of the schools who are Roman Catholics are not permitted, under the rule of their church, to attend services of any character in Protestant churches.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR HURRIED HOUSEWIVES.

Leather chairs may be much improved in appearance by being treated with the following mixture, which cleans the leather, at the same time softening it and preventing it from cracking. Take one part of best vinegar and two parts of boiled linseed oil and shake them well together. Apply very sparingly on a soft rag and afterward polish with a silk duster or a chamois leather. The leather of the chairs should be polished as regularly as their woodwork.

When making beef tea never add the sail till the meat has been cooking for some time. Salt acts upon the fibre and prevents it giving out all its nourishing properties.

To cut fur, draw a razor down the back of the skin where it is required to be cut, and this will not injure the long hair at all, as scissors are apt to do.

Stains on wallpaper, such as are likely to be found over a couch or beside a fireplace, or anywhere where head and hands are likely to touch, may be removed with whiting, mixed with a little water, applied to the stain and allowed to dry, and then should be well brushed off with a soft brush.

If in the making of pastry the juice of a lemon is added to the water, it not only makes the pastry lighter, but takes away the taste of the lard.

Kitchen utensils can be beautifully cleaned with wood ashes. Dempen a cloth with hot water, dip in the ashes and well scour kettles, saucepans and all kinds of tinware; afterward rub off with a clean rag and polish with a leather and whiting.

Save woden and meat skewers, as they are useful for getting into corners when scrubbing paint work, etc. Let a skewer soak in the bucket while you are scrubbing wainscoting. After being used once or twice it forms a little brush, and is invaluable.

A piece of yellow soap tied up in old linen will clean a hot iron beautifully if it is quickly rubbed on the surface. The iron should be very hot to prevent sticking.

After using a frying pan it should never be washed, but, while still hot rubbed very hard with a piece of white paper until perfectly clean. This method will make the pan last longer, and when in use it will never burn.

To preserve fish sprinkle powered borax over it lightly and place in a good situation.

Pieces of soap should be saved and not left to wastee by the kitchen sink. Put them in a jar and when there are several pieces shred them and put them into a saucepan, allowing a teacupful of soap to a quart of water. Add a dessertspoonful of borax and boil till dissolved. Pour into jam pots and keep the jelly for washing flannels and light things. The soap jelly is easily dissolved in hot water, and in a lather made in this way the finest wolen gods can be washed.

BONES OF "TIPPECANOE."

The recent reinterment of the remains of George Clinton, the first Governor of New York, in the place of his nativity, is evidently not the only movement to be started this year to establish historical proprieties in connection with the final resting places of the country's distingushed men. The Grand Army of the Republic will have its annual gathering this year in August at Toledo, and it is expected that it will cooperate with the Maumee Valley Pioneer and Historical Association in its effort to have the bones of President William Henry Harrison removed from North Bend, just below Cincinnati, where they now lie, to the Fort Meigs property which the State acquired some time ago. This property covers thirty-seven acres, which, according to present plans, will be ultimately converted into a park. In August there will be unveiled at that place a shaft, now in process of erection, in memory of the soldiers who fought in the War of 1812. General Harrison was the commanding general of the Army of the Northwest in that struggle, and was one of the few general officers who survived that war with a military reputation. It was at Fort Meigs and vicinity that this reputation was largely made and maintained, and won for him a popularity that made him President of the republic. The association that is laboring to bring about this removal urges this action on the basis of historical fitness and contends that military genius which added to the country twelve States should be permanently associated with the secene of the deeds which produced that momentous result. Of course a fitting monument would be ultimately involved in the proposed enterprise. Perhaps the promoters of this project are not unmindful of the fact that it would add to the attractions of a State park as well as invest with fresh honors a figure of great national prominence.

Useful When Traveling.

A new and dainty gift which may be made at home is a collar box, or a small round pasteboard box about three inches high covered with denim. Such an one has been konwn to have its foundation in the wooden box supplied with camenbert cheese, but it may be made of any other box convenient. When it is covered, it is decorated with designs cut from wallpaper, which are applied on the top and round the sides.

Thus a rose would be pasted on the top of a box, leaving the leaves to extend over the sides and to twine gracefully around the outer edge.

WILL SUE PHILLIPSBURG.

State Health Board Would Force it to Cease Polluting Delaware River.

Trenton, June 13.—Papers are in course of preparation for a suit to be begun at once by the State Board of Health against the city of Phillipsburg.

Trenton will be materially affected by the result of the proceedings, as the case involves the question of whether this city can be forced to install a sewage disposal plant.

There was a conference in connection with this in the office of the attorney-general yesterday, though no one present would say just what happened.

It is known, however, that the proceedings will be in the nature of an injunction to restrain the municipality from further polluting the Delaware River, and will mark the beginning of some important litigation that has long been threatened.

The State Board of Health asserts its ability to force the abatement of such nuisances as Phillipsburg and other cities, including Trenton, are maintaining in emptying their sewage into the Delaware. On the other hand, Phillipsburg officials have contended that they could not be compelled to abide by the arbitrary determination of the Health Board, and there has been somewhat the same feeling in this city.

Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter is expected to apply next Tuesday for a restraining order from the Court of Chancery.

BOY FATALLY SHOT CLIMBING OVER FENCE.

Pennington, June 13.—Le Roy Dennis, fourteen years old, died in Mercer Hospital yesterday as the result of a gunshot wound received while he was attempting to climb a fence on the farm of former Sheriff Samuel T. Atchley, on the Scotch road. The boy's mother has been an inmate of a hospital for several months, suffering from lung trouble, and his father died a few months ago.

The boy had been employed on the farm for three years and yesterday started out to shoot at crows. Russell Atchley twenty years old, advised him not to go, but the boy did not heed.

He left the house and fired the gun a few times. A few minutes later Atchley heard a scream and ran out of the house. Dennis was lying unconscious on the ground, with blood flowing from an ugly wound. He had made an attempt to climb the fence, and the trigger of the gun got caught, discharging the weapon. Atchley telephoned to Dr. Radcliffe, at Pennington. The physician found that young Dennis's left lung had been punctured by the shot, and an ugly wound was torn in his breast just above the heart. Death occurred soon after he was admitted to the hospital.

Run Over by His Own Wagon.

Glen Gardner, June 13.—John Ray one of the team dirvers at the State Sanatorium here, was severely injjured yesterday. He was delivering a load of ice, and when near the service building slipped from the load and fell under the wagon. The front wheel passed over his leg, but the team was stopped before the rear wheel struck him. He was taken to his home in this place, but no bones were broken. A few weeks ago Ray was injured by the sanatorium hack upsetting with him, and he had jujst returned to work. Last winter he fell from a haymow upon a thrashing machine and one ear was cut off.

I. O. O. F. Memorial Service.

Rahway, June 13.—Essex county Lodge, No. 27, I. O. O. F., of this city, will on Sunday at 6 p. m. visit the Rahway cemetery, and hold memorial services at their plot, after which they will attend services at St. Paul's Episcopal church and listen to a memorial sermon by the rector, the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Coder.

OLHAUSEN TESTIMONY ENDS.

Former Central Railroad of New Jersey Official to Test Pennsylvania's Deserted Wife Law.

Philadelphia, June 13.—Avoiding further reference to the unknown "affinity," who was said to have caused the separation of Jacob H. Olhausen, seventy years old, and his wife, Emily C. Olhausen, counsel for both sides closed their testimony yesterday in Mrs. Olhausen's suit for support. The court considered reference to "the other woman" irrelevant.

Judge Ferguson reserved decision, and instructed counsel to submit written arguments. As the case is the first to be tried under the deserted wife act of 1907, Eugene Raymond, counsel for Olhausen, will attack the validity of the law, which provides for the seizure and sale of a defendant's property to insure the proper support of his family.

Olhausen was for many years general passenger agent of the Jersey Central Railroad. He is said to be worth $200,000. He received an annual pension of $3,000 from the railroad company. Since the separation last October Olhausen has been living in handsomely furnished apartments at 260 West Ninety-ninth street, New York. It was expected that he would be in court yesterday to deny the assertion of his wife that he refused to give up the "other woman." His counsel produced a doctor's certificate, which declared that Olhausen was suffering with senile debility and other ailments, which prevented his attendance at court.

Judge Ferguson refused to accept the certificate as evidence, whereupon Mr. Raymond declared: "My purpose in offering it was to prevent any criticism on account of the absence of my aged client."

In an effort to refute the "affinity" charge, Mr. Raymond also sought to show by George P. White, a son-in-law of the defendant, that Olhausen occupied his New York apartments alone. Judge Ferguson would not permit this testimony.

Mrs. Olhausen, who is twenty years younger than her husband, is demanding an allowance of at least $50 a week for the support of herself and their son, who is twenty years old. Joseph Olhausen, a son of the defendant by a former marriage, declared yesterday that his step-mother had told him after the separation that she wanted to avoid publicity, but thats he refused an offer of $100 a month support. "I told her," said the witness, "that I thought the case could be settled if she and my father would only get rid of their lawyers."

SECOND TROLLEY HEARING.

Elizabeth's Fight to Enforce Schedule Ordinance Will Come Up Again Next Wednesday.

Elizabeth, June 13.—The second hearing on the certiorari proceedings growing out of the enactment and the attempt to enforce the local trolley schedule ordinance will be held in the city hall next Wednesday morning. City Attorney James C. Connolly, who is conducting the city's case against the Public Service Corporation, said yesterday that in view of the fact that the evidence established the city's contention that the provisions of the ordinance were not being observed by the company, the Supreme Court would undoubtedly uphold the municipality.

Counsel for the Public Service deny that the city has the authority to enact such an ordinance and also declare that the trolley officials are supplying all the accommdations required by the amount of patronage on local lines. They also say that it is impossible to effectively maintain a regular schedule in view of the delays caused by the halting of freight trains at the numerous grade crossings intersected by the trolley tracks running through the lower part of the city.

Should the city attorney win his case, local attorneys say, the Supreme Court will have established an important precedent with respect to municipal regulation of trolley service.

MURDER AND SUICIDE DISCOVERED AT MORRISTOWN.

Morristown, June 13.—Frank Ferraro shot and killed Mrs. Margaret Littz yesterday and then sent a bullet through his own brain, both of them probably dying instantly. Their bodies were found just outside the skating house of the Morristown Field Club by the superintendent, George Grove.

They had been dead several hours and Coroner Bliss Coultas announces it as a murder and suicide. The woman was shot twice, through the left ear and in the right eye. Ferraro evidently then placed the pistol to his right ear and sent a bullet through his head.

The woman was formerly a Miss Art and lived with her sister, Mrs. Philip McDermott, on Madison street, near the scene of the shooting. She has four children, but her husband, it is said, left her a year or more ago. She was about thirty years old.

Ferraro was about the same age. He was a barber and had worked for his brother William, who has a shop on Morris street.

Frank had a shop at Lake Hopatcong last summer and had just made arrangements to take the shop on the Mt. Tabor campmeeting grounds this season. There is no known cause for the double crime.

DRIVER INSTANTLY KILLED WITH HORSES AT MILLINGTON.

Summit, June 13.—On the crossing near the Millington stone quarry, on the Passaic and Delaware branch of the Lackawanna Railroad, which is but a short distance from the point at which the "Millionaires' Express" was wrecked last Friday, a train, with Charles Emmons, engineer, and Harry Billings, conductor, yesterday struck and instantly killed Emiel Pelick and a team of horses which the man was driving.

The team was hitched to a wagon loaded with crushed stone, the driver being on the seat when the engine struck the vehicle, which was about in the centre of the crossing. The driver was thrown in the air and, when picked up by the trainmen, his head was found to have been completely crushed in. The horses were tossed along the railroad tracks, both being dead when the train crew reached them.

The stones in the wagon were tossed in all directions, the windows in the engine cab being broken. The horses were owned by August Dufore, whose son-in-law, James Wells, was a brakeman on the train. There is no flagman nor are there any gates at the crossing, as it is a private driveway for the Millington quarry.

HARVARD MAN IS BANISHED COUNTRY.

Boston, June 13.—On the eve of his graduation from the Harvard Dental School, George Willervall, charged with having improper pictures in his possession, was found guilty and received one of the strongest sentences ever imposed in a lower court. He was ordered to leave the country within seven days. In addition he was fined $100.

Willervall came here from France four years ago. Last February he was brought into court on the same charge as that on which he was convicted yesterday. At the same time a story of a martial mixup in which he was involved was told, and he was warned to stop having improper pictures in his possession and to keep away from the woman.

Jess to Be Acting Governor.

Trenton, June 13.—As both Governor Fort and President of the Senate Thomas J. Hillery have gone to the national convention with the New Jersey delegates, the reins of government will fall upon the shoulders of Speaker of the House Frank B. Jess, of Camden, next in succession under the constitution.

The Merry Widow

By ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE

COPYRIGHT, 1908, BY HENRY W. SAVAGE

"No, no! It can't be! It can't!" he moaned. "And yet I could hardly be mistaken. My wife! And"—

"Brace up, your excellency!" entreated Danilo in genuine distress. "Pull yourself together. There are people coming along the walk. Don't make a scene. Perhaps you were mistaken."

"No; I saw her!" groaned Popoff. "My own wife and De Jolidon! And he kissed her hand."

"Oh, I dare say she was more kissed against than kissing!" Danilo observed consolingly. "But be careful, sir. A whole lot of people are within earshot."

"Then let them know the worst!" cried Popoff in a voice that brought a number of guests hurrying to the spot. "I'll denounce her before them all! Come out of there," he bellowed, rushing forward, "both of you! Come out!"

He threw the summer house door wide open and shrank back, incredulous, aghast.

On the threshold stood De Jolidon and—Sonia!

"What—what does this mean," gurgled the confused ambassador, "this—this change and"—

"You called to us to come out," returned Sonia calmly. "May I ask what you wanted of us?"

"Sonia!" gasped Danilo. And through the confusion of many excited voices she heard him and thrilled to the note of anguish in his half stifled cry.

"If—if it was you who were in there with M. de Jolidon," stammered Popoff, "where is my wife?"

"Here I am, dear," answered Natalie, stepping out of the crowd, with which she had mingled after her hurried exit through the rear door of the summer house. "Here I am! What is the matter?"

"Matter enough!" cried her husband. "I could have sworn I saw you sitting in that arbor with M. de Jolidon."

"My dear!"

Natalie's exclamation was a triumph of shocked propriety.

"He was kissing your hand, I thought," went on the dazed ambassador.

This time Natalie moved away from him in offended dignity. But Popoff hastened to throw his arm about her and draw her back.

"I was wrong," he assured her—"a blunder of eyesight! I apologize! I'm sorry. I"—

"I begin to understand," put in Sonia, stepping forward in fear lest Natalie overdo her pose of virtuous indignation. "It seems that the Marsovian ambassador has done me the honor to listen at a keyhole in hopes of overhearing my conversation. Sooner than disappoint him, M. de Jolidon, will you please repeat to him just what you said to me in there?"

De Jolidon understood. If Natalie was to be saved, if Sonia was not to be talked about, heroic measures were necessary.

"I asked Mme. Sonia Sadowa," said he, "to do me the honor to become my wife!"

Danilo stood motionless, his lips set in a white line, amid the buzz of congratulations and laughter that followed De Jolidon's announcement. Sonia noted his agony and said joyfully to herself:

"My prince, I think I've won! You'll have to speak, soon or late, now, and when you do"—

"And Marsovia loses the twenty millions!" Popoff muttered, recovering his self possession and somewhat belatedly remembering his country's needs.

"Prince," called Sonia mischievously, "I haven't heard your congratulations yet. You don't look as happy as you might at the news."

"Happy!" echoed Danilo, with a scornful, mirthless laugh. "Why shouldn't I be? Accept my congratulations, my paternal blessing and anything else you choose to levy on me for. My own motto is, 'Love when you may, propose seldom and marry—not at all!'

"Let me tell you a little fairy story! There were once a prince and a princess. They loved each other. But the prince was poor and dared not tell of his love for fear of being thought a fortune hunter. His silence made the princess angry. So she went and promised her hand to another man, and they all lived miserably unhappy ever after. And the moral of that stupid little story is that I'm sick of respectability, and I'm awake from my crazy dream of love, and I'm going back to Maxim's, and you can all go to—Marsovia!"

"He loves me! He loves me!" panted Sonia under her breath.

CHAPTER VI.

At Maxim's

MAXIM'S after midnight—the show restaurant whither sightseeing Americans and other tourists flock and whose dizzy machine made merriment they solemnly believe to be a part and parcel of true Parisian life.

On the night of Sonia's garden party one group of men and women who entered the jolly restaurant were so different from the usual habitues of the place as to come in for not a few amused glances from their neighbors. They were Mme. Natalie Popoff, Mme. Nova Kovitch and Cascada and St. Brioche. The visit was Natalie's idea. She had heard Danilo's wild speech of goodby to Sonia and his announcement that he was off to Maxim's. Hence the ambassador's wife, with a feeble yearning to atone in some way for the false position into which the widow had been thrust for her sake, had resolved to follow in the hope of securing a word in private with Danilo and setting matters right again.

Natalie had not confided her plan to her husband, and now as the party were ushered to a secluded table in an alcove she glanced at the riotous scene about her with a delighted nervousness. The delight vanished suddenly, however, and the nervousness waxed to a panic fear as a familiar voice smote upon her ear.

At Maxim's.

Popoff had just come in and was standing not ten feet away from the secluded table where his wife sat trembling.

"I want to see Prince Danilo at once," he said to the head waiter. "Has he arrived?"

"Not yet, sir," was the reply, "but he will be here very soon. There is a supper party waiting for him over there," waving to a tableful of gayly appareled girls with tired eyed men.

"Really!" exclaimed the ambassador. "I'll just join them till he comes."

He toddled off to the distant table, where, to Natalie's jealous eye, he seemed to make himself at home with a phenomenal ease and quickness. He was scarce seated when Danilo strode in. The whole table rose to give the prince noisy greeting

"Why, hello, your excellency!" cried Danilo. "This is queer company for a monument of respectability like yourself to wander into!"

"I came only to see you," protested the ambassador, drawing him aside. "I was bound I'd come here and wait till you appeared if"—

"Oh, I see," cut in the prince, thoroughly enjoying his confusion. "Fools rush in where"—

"I didn't rush in," fumed the ambassador; "I crept here in a measly cab, and I sneaked into the place like a pickpocket for fear some one would recognize me. I sacrificed myself to my country. Suppose my wife should hear of it! I came to implore you, to cast myself on your mercy, to beg you once more to prevent the widow from"—

"I must see his excellency," insisted a portly man behind them, his voice booming through the whole room. "He is here, and I— Oh!" he broke off on sight of Popoff. "Here you are! I"—

"My dear Nova Kovitch," pettishly interrupted the ambassador, "is it necessary to hunt for me with a brass band? Couldn't you"—

"I'm sorry to interrupt you," answered Nova Kovitch, "but here's a dispatch from the Marsovian ministry. It seemed to me important, and I brought it on."

Popoff took the slip of paper and read aloud:

"If Mme. Sadowa's twenty millions are allowed to leave Marsovia we are a bankrupt country."

"There, Prince Danilo," continued the ambassador, turning on the young man in melodramatic appeal; "you see it's right up to you! Your country appeals to you to save it! You are Marsovia's last hope. Marry the widow and"—

"I'll marry no one!" flared up Danilo. "To the deuce with matrimony and Marsovia and myself! I'm done with silly dreams of love and all that nonsense. I'm free, and I'm going to make a night of it. I"—

He paused and stood silent, dumfounded. Down the little flight of stairs leading into the room a woman was advancing alone.

"Sonia!" exclaimed Danilo.

With a word of excuse to the others, he hurried across and met the widow as she reached the foot of the steps.

"You're here," he muttered in horrified wonder—"here alone?"

"Yes," replied Sonia coldly. "Is it any affair of yours?"

"First the summer house," he went on as in a daze, "then Maxim's."

"Quite so. Is that all you have to say?"

"No," he retorted; "I have one thing more. You should not marry De Jolidon."

"No? Why not, pray?"

"Because I"—

He checked himself. She finished the sentence for him.

"Because you love me?" she suggested.

He broke into a discordant, miserable laugh.

"Don't laugh that silly way!" she reprimanded sharply.

"I am sorry you don't like it," he observed. "It's the only way I know."

"Then don't laugh at all. The laugh is on my side, anyway."

"On your side?"

"Yes. You are angry at what happened this evening. But it wasn't I who was in the summer house with M. de Jolidon."

"But I saw you there," he declared. "I"—

"I took another woman's place to get her out of an awkward scrape with her husband—with M. Popoff. She was"—

"And I never even guessed it!" cried Danilo, his sullen face breaking into a smile of utter relief. "What a fool I was! I was green and yellow with jealousy. I"—

He caught himself up, but it was too late. Sonia's eyes danced.

"But since you don't love me," she asked, "why were you yellow and green with"—

"Because green and yellow are our national colors. I am nothing if not patriotic. You see"—

"Mme. Sadowa—prince!" gurgled Popoff, trotting up to them, unable longer to restrain his anxiety. "I hope it is all settled. All nicely arranged, eh?"

"If you mean is madame to marry De Jolidon," answered Danilo, "she is not."

"But this evening," ejaculated Popoff, "in the summer house!"

"Dear me!" squealed Popoff, his curiosity reviving. "Who was she?"

"Excuse me, your excellency," remarked Nish, who had entered with Nova Kovitch and had hovered aimlessly about waiting to get in a word, "but here is a fan that was picked up in the summer house after the party. You told me to search the place, and I did. If I may say so, I"—

"Same old fan!" commented Popoff, idly opening it. Then, with a jump as his eye vaguely caught the sentence Natalie had scribbled beneath De Jolidon's avowal, he screamed:

"My wife's handwriting! Then it was my wife after all!"

"Sir," quoted Nova Kovitch, "Caesar's wife should be above suspicion."

"No, no!" pleaded Natalie, who at sight of the fatal trinket had left her table and run forward. "It's all a horrid mistake. I can explain. I"—

"Silence!" commanded Popoff in his most magisterial manner. "Madame, under section 4 of the Marsovian code I hereby divorce you. This fan is sufficient evidence."

As Natalie started back, dumb with horror, Popoff turned impressively to Sonia and, to the widow's amused dismay, sank on one knee before her.

"Mme. Sadowa," he declaimed, "I am free, and in the name of our fatherland I beseech you to become my wife!"

Sonia was seemingly blind to the white misery in Natalie's face and the look of angry surprise in Danilo's. She answered, with perfect composure:

"My dear M. Popoff, I am deeply honored by your proposal, but before I accept it is only fair to tell you that if I marry again I lose all my fortune."

"Madame, I hereby divorce you."

The ambassador scrambled hastily to his feet.

"I—I was perhaps just a wee bit hasty," he stuttered, looking sheepishly about for a way of escape.

Natalie came forward and handed him the fan.

"Did you read the words I wrote on it?" she asked timidly.

"I—am—a—dutiful—wife!" spelled out the ambassador. "Forgive me! I didn't understand. Shall we let bygones be bygones?"

Danilo, who had stood silent during the odd proposal, now stepped past Popoff and faced Sonia, a new light in his eyes.

"Is it true you will lose all your money if you marry again?" he asked in a voice he tried in vain to keep steady.

"Yes," she admitted; "it is true."

"Then why shouldn't I say now what I want to?"

"Why not?" she agreed demurely.

He drew a step nearer.

"I love you, Sonia," he whispered.

Steadily, happily, she met his burning eyes as she answered.

"I love you, Danilo. I have always loved you."

"Tut, tut!" fretted Popoff, pushing peevishly between them. "Thi'll never do. You can't marry her, prince. You'll both be paupers."

"Not quite," gently corrected Sonia. "I shall lose my money, it is true, but—only because I am going to give it all to my husband."

[The End.]

"I LOVE YOU, SONIA," HE WHISPERED.

Coats and Coats.

Where a woman could once get along with two coats and be moderately well dressed she now needs a good half-dozen at the least. This season the commonplace and very necessary coat has attained the status of a fad and is out in fabrics unheard of in other seasons for such purposes. The last thing that the tailor evidently considers in the making of a coat today seems to be warmth. Warmth is not what the coat is made for. Looks is its first, last and principal also. Of separate wraps there are as many kinds as there are of separate waists, and, indeed more. Many of the coats being made for the summer are sleeveless and mere skeletons, simply furnishing a garnishment for the bodice and sash ends for the skirt drapery.

An Extraordinary Life Insurance Payment.

H. W., of Newark, N. J., insured in The Prudential for $2,000 in 1889. Ten years after he stopped payment and later destroyed the policy.

He died recently, leaving a wife, two children, and a $1,000 mortgage on his home. The Prudential learned of his death and informed the wife that instead of being valueless, the policy was in full force, the Extended Insurance Clause, now incorporated in all Ordinary policies of The Prudential, having saved it.

The Company paid the widow $2,000, the full amount of the policy. Would your family fare as well if you were called away? Are you insured in

The Prudential?

If not, you should write for full particulars of policies today.

P. H. S. TEAM LOSES SEASON'S LAST GAME

The Plainfield High School baseball team ended the season with an ignominious defeat yesterday, when the Bayonne High School nine won a poorly contested game at Bayonne by the score of 11-3. Murphey, who was on the slab for the local nine, had poor control, giving five bases on balls and deceiving very few of the Bayonne boys with curves. "Ottr" Doane was the only High School player who solved Daly's delivery and his single in the eighth, scoring Snyder, was the only hit made by the local boys during the entire game.

The Bayonne boys were only blanked in three innings, scoring in the second, third, fourth, sixth and eighth. The less said about the eighth, the better for local laurel aspirants on the diamond. When the Bayonne boys first took the stick in that session, the score was 5-1 in their favor, but by the time the Plainfield High School balloon came down, seven of the metropolitan players had crossed the plate. Be it further said that the score book, resting on the knee of Manager W. V. Rafferty, only records two outs made in this inning by P. H. S.

A faint rally came in the last two stick sessions for the locals, when Snyder and Dutcher completed the circuit. Errors were plentiful by the local nine during the entire contest, eight being recorded. The shocking details:

P. H. S.	0 1 0 0 0 0 0 1 1	3	1	8

THE MISSES WILDEY WIN METROPOLITAN CHAMPIONSHIP

Miss Edna Wildey and Miss Natalie Wildey, of the Plainfield Country Club, who, for the past two years have been prominent figures in all the leading tennis tournaments in this part of the country, won the first of the Metropolitan championship lawn tennis titles to be decided yesterday, scoring two sets to one in the final of the women's doubles. On the courts of the West Side Club, New York, they defeated Miss Elsie Little and Miss Louise Hammond, 6-4, 2-6, 6-0, in a contest that was filled with fast playing at the net on both sides.

The net playing of Miss Natalie Wildey and her sister's steadiness throughout the play were features. During the present season they have been formidable opponents of the leading tennis players and they have been greatly admired for their pluck and perseverance which have won for them an enviable position in the world of tennis.

SOLD ALL HIS GOODS DESPITE A PROTEST.

The auction sale of goods belonging to William Lindsay, Jr., the milkman at 965 West Front street, proceeded this morning under the direction of Hezekiah Hand as bailiff, despite the fact that Walter L. Hetfield appeared on the scene with two chattle mortgages held by Henry Nischwitz, of the borough, and warned everyone from purchasing the goods. The sale concluded everything listed, excepting a horse, harness and wagon, claimed by C. W. Squier under a sale previous to the attachment of the goods. They are still being restrained, pending a settlement.

The sale yesterday was the result of an attachment obtained by Rev. P. J. Reeves, of Palermo, acting as agent for his wife, who owns the property at 965 West Front street which was occupied by Mr. Lindsay, and who she sued for rent. At the trial of the landlord and tenant case in the district court the plaintiff was given a decision and execution papers were issued. $230 was realized from the sale yesterday which it is thought will satisfy the claims of Mrs. Reeves. It is not known what action will be taken by Mr. Nischwitz, who claims that the sale of goods was illegal in view of the fact that he holds chattle mortgages.

Epworthians Hold Lawn Party.

The members and friends of the Epworth League of the First M. E. church closed its active season last night with a lawn party and social at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson A. Miller on Washington avenue. The evening was devoted chiefly to playing all sorts of games and later ice cream and cake were served by the social committee of which Miss Helen Whitney is the chairman. She was also assisted by Mrs. Stephen H. Tugwell. The porch and the lawn were attractively decorated for the occasion.

Mrs. Vreeland, of Bensonhurst, L. I., is visiting Louis VanAlstyne, of West Front street.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Representatives from Bethany Mission, Brooklyn, will have charge of the Gospel temperance meeting to be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

There will be baptismal services at the Christian church following the evening sermon tomorrow. The pastor, Rev. Phil. A. Parsons, will preach on "Church Membership, Its Nature and Purpose."

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Philathea Bible Class of Faith chapel, a strawberry and ice cream festival will be held on the lawn of Mrs. William La Rue's home, 620 East Second street, on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

William V. Mundy, of Duer street, insurance agent, who was obliged to suffer the amputation of his left leg several months ago, has sufficiently recovered to go out-of-doors on crutches. He has purchased a wooden leg which will facilitate his getting about considerably.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—H. C. Compton's reputation as a fruit-grower has never been questioned and the large, luscious strawberries that he is now bringing to market are second to none in size, flavor or cleanliness.

—The following pupils of the Plainfield Business College have taken positions during the past week: Lillian Merrill, of Bound Brook, stenographer; Frank Cramer, bookkeeper in the Pathe Frerers plant in Bound Brook, and Harry Lunger with F. A. Duttenhofer.

—Lewis Meier, of Newark, has moved to this city and is now residing at 1173 South Second street. He is engaged in general insurance business. Mr. Meier was famous as a ball player, having been a member of one of the big college teams, where he made a fine record.

JAIL FOR SHOOTING EDITOR.

Ex-Police Inspector Resented Attacks in Newspaper.

New Orleans, June 13.—In the First City Criminal Court yesterday ex-Police Inspector Edward S. Whitaker was sentenced to three months in the parish prison and fined $100 or two months additional imprisonment for murderous assault.

Resenting attacks on him in the editorial columns of a newspaper, Whitaker, while Inspector of Police, entered the newspaper's building several months ago with detectives and fired two shots at the editor, Joseph Sevique. Whitaker resigned his office shortly the shooting.

U. S. CROPS WORTH NEARLY $8,000,000,000.

Washington, June 13.—The crops of 1908 will be worth nearly $8,000,000,000, according to figures prepared by Department of Agriculture officials. Chief Statistician Clark said yesterday:

"Indications are for great crops. For eight years the American farmer has enjoyed unprecedented prosperity, and now the ninth promising harvest is practically assured. Never have there been nine such years, of big yields and high prices."

Children's Day Exercises.

Children's Day exercises will be held at the Park Avenue Baptist church at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning, under the auspices of the main department of the Sunday-school.

BOY DEFENDANT'S FATHER MAKES A GOOD LAWYER

Mrs. Mary McPherson, a colored woman living on West Third street, has a fine garden in her yard. Boys in the neighborhood play ball on a lot next to it and the leather sphere is occasionally knocked over into the beds of lettuce, celery and other growing vegetables. In getting the ball back, the boys have been in the habit of taking short cuts over the fence and as a result the garden has had an awful fight for existence.

The usual stampede over the vegetables followed a "fly" knocked into them yesterday and when Mrs. McPherson instructed her young son to grab the ball and hold it, her back door was biffed and banged with stones. She claimed that one missile, weighing at least two pounds, was hurled by Mason Sachar while Charles Garfinkel shied a couple of smaller ones that made her step lively to escape getting hit. She preferred charges against the two and both were in court before Judge Runyon this morning.

Young Sachar had an able champion in his father, Kussell Sachar, who cross-examined, quizzed and quipped the complainant and her witnesses. Sachar, Jr., admitted throwing one stone after Mrs. McPherson's son had taken a shot at him and when the mother protested her hopeful was being wrongly accused, Sachar, Sr., proved that she couldn't see what had transpired because a barn stood between her back door and the warring boys. In summing up, the father made an earnest plea for the defendants' dismissal and Judge Runyon let them go on their promise to keep away from Mrs. McPherson and her garden.

After the case had been disposed of, the elder Sachar stepped before the desk and said:

"Judge, my boy wouldn't get in trouble fi he would stay away from that bad bunch on Third street. I told him if he wants to play ball, he's got brothers at home to pitch and catch and I want you to tell him not to go with that other crowd."

'The boy is certainly fortunate in having enough brothers at home to make up a team for him," was His Honor's comment, "but I think the best thing for you to do if he won't play with them is to lay him across your knee."

Father Sachar is about four feet high and in the bantam weight class but he promised that there would be something doing if his four-and-a-half foot son din't keep away from the bad bunch.

J. J. SAVITZ TALKS TO SCOTCH PLAINS PUPILS

Dr. J. J. Savitz, County Superintend of Schools made the address to the Scotch Plains grammar school graduates at the commencement exercises held in the Scotch Plains Baptist church last night. There were twelve pupils to receive diplomas, presented by A. T. Beeken, vice-president of the Board of Education. Diplomas were given to Emma Elliott, Viola Garda, Leora Henry, Bertha Knowlton, Bertha Miller, Anna Louise Outwater, Margaret Reynolds, Jessie Spencer, John Brick, William Manning, Louis Morel, Vincent Terry.

"Union County has unbounded faith in education. It has been said that the Aemrican people are education mad, but there is nothing which will fit the boy or girl better for the responsibilities of life. Young people should have a purpose in life, and strive to attain that good which they have set out for when they really begin their school life. Some graduates take too hopeful a view of the future when they leave the school, and their dreams are rudely shattered, when they come face to face with the actual problem of life. An education means more than what we learn from the text book at school.

The real benefit of an education is to fit us for actual life in this busy world.

There is no excuse today for young people in New Jersey not being able to secure a high school education for $610,000 has been appropriated by the State for school work this year. This is for free tuition. Let us all do what we can to give every boy and every girl an education that will place them in position to meet the problem of life, when they go out with the world."

The music which was enjoyed by all was furnished by Mrs. J. H. Buckley.

BATTERED BY AMAZON.

Lusty Hoboken Woman Mistook Reilly for a Burglar.

Hoboken, June 13.—Hitting him over the head with an ash can, picking him up and slamming him down to the floor again, dislocating several bones, shaking him until his teeth rattled, and finally sitting on him until the arrival of the police, Mrs. Anna Boyd, of 106 Ferry street, so thoroughly thrashed James Reilly, suspected of burglary, yesterday that he was glad to surrender to the bluecoats and escape further punishment from his muscular antagonist.

Mrs. Boyd was robbed about two weeks ago and has been looking for the burglar ever since. Yesterday she met Reilly, who was passing through the hall. Believing him to be the culprit, she pounced upon him.

UNION LABELS ON BALLOTS.

First Time in Five Years Such Has Been the Case.

It was announced at the Essex Trades Council meeting in Newark last night that all of the ballots at the coming elections will be printed in union shops, for the first time in five years.

It was reported by Carpenters' Union No. 723 that one of the oldest bar manufacturers in the city had signed an agreement to employ none but union men, and that other firms in the same business would do so in a short time.

At the request of Musicians' Union No. 16 a committee was appointed to ask the Road Horse Association to employ only union musicians at the races at Weequahic Park Saturday afternoon. Messrs. Charles H. Curtis, I. Stuart Smith and M. R. Welch will serve on the committee.

BIG DAMAGE SUITS.

Young Woman Wants $30,000 From Railroads.

Trenton, June 13.—Miss Grace E. Cherry, of Morrisville, Pa., began suit for $30,000 damages in the United States Court here yesterday, naming the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Traction Company as defendant. She claims that she was permanently injured last fall by being thrown from a trolley car in Morrisville.

Another damage suit instituted here yesterday was one for $3,000 against the Trenton Amusement Company, the complainant being Abram R. Edinger, a Trenton boy, who sustained a broken leg and other injjuries when a theatrical billboard blew over on him as he was walking along the street.

Press Advs. Never Fail.

Miss Louise Meyer, of Scotch Plains, lost a plain gold bracelet, and advertised the same in The Daily Press. Miss Mamie McNeil, of Fourth street and Elk place, this city, found the article, saw the advertisement and promptly returned to the owner the lost article receiving a reward.

Festival at Marconnier Chapel.

Under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of Marconnier chapel a successful ice cream and strawberry festival was held at the chapel, last night. There was a large attendance and the patronage was liberal, netting a gratifying sum for the treasury.

CHILDREN'S DAY AND FLAG DAY SIMULTANEOUSLY OBSERVED IN THE CHURCHES

Appropriate Exercises as a Rule Take Place of Reglar Morning Services in Many Fdifices.

ADDRESSES AND RECITATIONS.

Father Bogan Gives a Stirring Talk at St. Mary's—The Detail Programs of the Congregations.

Children's Day and Flag Day were jointly observed in the churches yesterday. The programs as a rule consisted of addresses, music and recitations. As a rule there were elaborate floral decorations and a display of the Starry Banner.

At St. Mary's.

At St. Mary's Catholic church, Father B. M. Bogan made a patriotic address.

He said in part:

"In compliance with the expressed wish of the Governor of our State said the priest, "that on this day the flag be displayed and proper allusion be made to its significance, I turn from the solemn lesson of the Gospel of the day to the no less solemn lesson of the Gospel of our Flag. Here where our thoughts are concerned in the destiny of our immortal souls, it is fitting that we turn our thoughts to the destiny of our Republic. It was my pleasure in the early hours of this bright morning to pull the rope that sent the flag aloft swelling in the gentle breeze, its stars and stripes resplendent in the glory of an unclouded sky, and the heavy foliage of the surrounding trees. And as I looked upon it a thought of deep significance came in the eloquent back-ground of the picture, for there stood St. Mary's School. Though there is splendor in every fold of our glorious flag it has the promise of perpetual beauty and unfading youth only in the moral teaching of its doctrine. Raised above the Constitution it waves as sponsor for its promises—liberty and speech, liberty of the press, and liberty of conscience.

"Wherever that flag flies it tells an admiring world that here every man is a free man, that here the infidel, the atheist and the believer are in matters of conscience on an equal footing. That though the Constitution breathes deep of the spirit of Christianity, it guarantees on principles of Christian equity the safe, unhampered exercise of liberty in matters of conscience to all. 'A fair field and no favor' is the motto shaken free from every fold of that glorious flag. Seen in the light of our Constitution how stands the record of morality as an essential in education? In that school where the spirit of our flag,—the spirit of absolute fairness, the spirit of indomitable courage for conscience' sake, in the face of almost overwhelming opposition, the spirit of respect for authority is taught, yes, and assimilated, in that school where the child of tender years and the boy and girl of developing mind is daily told of the presence of the God who created him, the God who redeemed him, and the God who shall inevitably judge him, the reason for patriotism becomes a part of religion as religion must ever form the basic reason for patriotism.

"What is the moving spirit of patriotism if it be not obedience to authority? And whence comes authority but from God. Hence the patriotic significance of the school that fosters a spirit of obedience to recognized authority. What a travesty of Americanism when the flag is unfurled over the Councils of men, who, though they read in the Constitution of our country that they and you and I stand under the same American flag, in the free exercises of conscience, close the hand of friendship against us except when we carry an American's vote.

"In the presence of this continued unfairness what is the principle of retaliation taught in that school? The retaliation of worth, not the retaliation of the bomb-throwing anarchist, but the ever increasing conviction that payment redress can come alone from a morality of conduct that shall be the standard of real preservative Americanism."

First Baptist.

Children's Day exercises were held at the First Baptist church, in the afternoon, under the auspices of the Sunday school, when a program of more than ordinary interest was presented. The exercises ETAOIN N sented, including the promotion of children from the various departments. The exercises were in charge of Superintendent G. H. Batchelor. The church was attractively decorated with a profusion of flowers and American flags, it being the purpose to also observe Flag Day.

There was a processional, the children marching from the Sunday school room to the church, singing an appropriate hymn. Then followed recitations by Gertrude King, Anna Blume, Ethel Runyon, Elmer French, Dorothy Krewson, Hazel Coddington, Lester Chandler; a valedictory address by Lawrence French, of the Junior department; a solo, Elsie Moore and chorus of Juniors. There was also a few remarks by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Cambliss, who presented the certificates and diplomas to the children.

Those promoted from the Beginners' department to the Primary were Evelyn M. Tennyson, Kathryn Herrman, Isabel Milne Wilson, Violet Lavinia Hunt, Dorothy LeMattey, Genevieve Elsie Letson, William Bellis. Primary to Junior department: Mildred G. Weiss, Emily Pilger, Erma G. Dobbins, Helen Vanderhoff, Ruth Johnson, Anna Sherwin, Dorothy Lee, Margaret Applegate, Helen Ryno, Alene Chandler, Catherine Endress, Caroline Grannatt, Emma Mantz, Preston Smith, Harold Gerhold, Russell Hunt, Mary Buchanan Each one of these children received a Bible.

Junior department to Intermediate: Hazel Godown, Emeline Manning, Mable Douglass, Flora Krausse, Alma Carver, Lillian Fountain, Lawrence French, Henry Zook, William Blume, Nellie Mantz. These children received diplomas.

The exercises were in charge of Mrs. J. W. Powlison, Mrs. Harold Serrell, Mrs. Dudley S. Miller and Miss Perry, who trained the children for their parts.

In the morning services appropriate to Flag Day were held, during which the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss preached an appropriate sermon and the chorus choir sang several anthems. Last night Rev. Charles Fountain occupied the pulpit.

Hope chapel.

Children's day exercises were held at Hope chapel yesterday afternoon, the program comprising recitations, singing and addresses. The attendance was very large. Superintendent G. Herbert Condict was in charge and he was assisted by Rev. L. R. Howard. The Sunday school room was appropriately decorated with flags and an abundance of flowers contributed by the Christian Endeavor society.

The addresses were made by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie and William D. Murray while Superintendent Condict spoke briefly in presenting graduation diplomas to the members of the beginners' class entering the Primary department. The school took part in responsive readings and songs and the chapel choir gave special anthems.

The pupils who took part in recitations were the following: Eva Chamberlain, Edith McComb, Harriet Mortimer, Martha Williams, Gladys Vail, Florence Leighs, Harry Chamberlain, Edith Wills, Edith Roseberry, Elsie Leighs, Arthur McVoy, Jessie Ross, Robert Marsh, Jack Rimmer, Charles Radford, Wilhemina Nicholson, Florence Gordon, Margaret Lounsbury, Minnie Slorah, Lillian Ball, Ruth Carson, Edith Cox, Eva Ball, Elizabeth Brown, Constance Durant, Gretchen Peterson, Hazel Nicholson, Dorothy Durant, Elsie Slorah, Harold Condict, Florence Terry and John Barton. Miss Cornelia Lounsbury had charge of the drilling and was complimented for her work.

Park Avenue Baptist.

With the church beautifully decorated with flags and cut flowers in abundance, and with seven canary birds, hanging in cages about the edifice, singing, the service at the Park Avenue Baptist church yesterday morning comprised an excellent program of recitations and music and was largely attended. In the congregation was Miss Sara Curry, manager of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, who came with a dozen New York children. The young people gave several recitations and songs in connection with the program and the morning's collection, amounting to $70, will be devoted to the interests of the camp.

Music was a feature of the service at which Superintendent George E. Hall officiated. Mrs. Von Brakle was at the organ and Harry C. Runyon played the piano. An orchestra of eight pieces accompanied the singing and rendered two selections. It was composed of Arthur Mosher, G W. V. Moy, Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Arline Brown and George Higham, violins; Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, bass viol; Whitney Frazee, cornet and Mr. Wheeler, flute. At the conclusion of the service, each member of the primary department was presented with a potted plant in bloom.

After an opening selection by the orchestra, seven young women of the church, dressed in white and carrying parasols, took part in a "Welcome" exercise. These were the Misses Marjorie and Arline Brown, Mabel Stutsman, Isabel, Von Brakle, Autumn De Lany, Marion Mortimer, and Susan Whitney. Following a hymn by the Sunday school came a prayer by Rev. A. E. Finn, the pastor, song, "Lullaby," primary department; carol, "Fields and Vineyards," young ladies' choir; recitation, "Little Things," Miss Clara Hadley; hymn by the school, offertory, "Calvary," cornet solo by W. C. Frazee; carol, "The Story Never Old," young ladies' choir; recitation, "Why we are glad," Miss Cornelia Smith; hymn by the school; soprano solo, "The Holy City," sung by Mrs. W. H. Sebring, with pantomime by Miss Arline Brown; flute solo and chorus, "The Half Has Never Been Told," thirteen young ladies; hymn by the school; distribution of plants to members of the primary department; "America," by the school; benediction, by the pastor; closing selection by the orchestra.

Seventh Day Baptist.

Children's Day at the Seventh Day Baptist church was an occasion of exceeding interest and was greatly enjjoyed by a full congregation. Appropriate songs and recitations by a goodly number of the children were finely rendered and also three anthems, by the Young People's choir, numbering about fifteen voices, with the organ.

William D. Murray delivered a fine address to the children, which was greatly appreciated by the audience as well.

First M. E.

Children's Day exercises were held at the First M. E. church, yesterday morning, the members of the school marching from Vincent chapel to the church. This program was followed:

Anthem, choir; tenor solo, William Tallamy; recitations, Muriel Courser, Roy Love, Edith Hartpense, Marion Lynn; song, Clarence Skiff; song, Intermediate department. Beginners' department: Recitations, Carol Williams, Leonard Dennick, Alice Beekman, Howard Fisher, Jessie Randall, Russell Lynn, Ruth Starbuck, Gertrude Joy, Margaret Dunavan, Lloyd Randall, Lois Beekman, Ella Vail, Gertrude Belcher, Roswell Ewart, Kenneth Sheppard, Mildred Covely, Margaret Evans, Marion Covely. Primary department: Greetings, Elton Greenleaf; recitations, Gladys Sherwood, Norman McGee; song, chorus, Edward Crone, Alive Joy, Elizabeth Hicks, Frank Rowley, Violet Sutton, Maud Edell, Cora Bender, Howard Hile; recitations, Carol Dunavan, Elizabeth Hicks, Carleton Moore, Cora Bender, John Bolsterli, Alice Joy and Edward Crone.

In connection with this service, the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, baptized seven infants and he delivered an appropriate sermon. Last night James R. Joy gave a half-hour talk on incidents in connection with the General Conference of the Methodist church at Baltimore, which he attended, after which the pastor, who was a delegate to the convention, also spoke briefly of the big gathering.

Trinity Reformed.

Children's Day was a bright and happy one for the members of Sunday-school of Trinity Reformed church, as well as those of the church and congregation, who were present in large numbers at the morning service which was devoted entirely to special exercises. The floral display consisted chiefly of daisies in great profusion arranged by Mrs. H. C. Crawford and other women of the Sunday-school There were also several flags displayed which served to make appropriate decorations.

In the singing by the quartet choir and Sunday-school there was the assistance of the organ, piano and cornet. Arthur L. Titsworth, organist, was at the organ and Miss Lillian A. Force and Miss Lucy Coriell alternated at the piano, while Edmund D. Young played the cornet.

An impressive part of the service was the baptism and dedication to God of eleven children by the acting pastor, Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson. Those baptized were as follows:

Dorothy Evelyn Schenck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond G. Schenck; Louise Katharine Anson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Joseph Anson; Hervey Buchanan and Robert Brand Van Nest, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert William Van Nest; Earle Stewart Cooke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mitchell Cooke; Alfred Tindsdale Townley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Doud Townley; Willard Lee Tunison, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Gaston Tunison; Robert Emmons Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Smith; Dorothy Wyman Kenyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Kenyon; Walter

POLICE CAPTURE AN ALLEGED WHEEL THIEF

Charged by the police with having stolen Druggist B. J. Schreiner's bicycle, Saturday night, William Bremmer, a young man residing on lower Terrill road, was arrested this morning and locked up at headquarters. He will be given a hearing tomorrow morning.

The police received a report from Bremmer early Saturday night that a wheel on which he had ridden into town had been stolen from its resting place at Second street and Park avenue. An hour later Mr. Schreiner told of his wheel having been taken and it looked as though a bike thief was en tour.

Detective-Sergeant Flynn made an investigation and it was learned that Bremmer did not ride into town on a wheel but that he had gone back home on one. The conclusion was reached that he had planned to take the Schreiner wheel and reported one of his own missing to avert suspicion. Chief Kiely ordered his arrest and he was taken in custody shortly before noon.

CARNIVAL OPENING PUT OVER BECAUSE OF RAIN

The twenty different shows and free acts that go to make up the amusement end at the Firemen's Carnival, to be held at Fourth street and Darrow avenue, arrived at noon yesterday over the Jersey Central from Jersey City, where the Berger Amusement Co. has been exhibiting for the past two weeks for the benefit of the Jersey Central Firemen's Relief Association.

The special train that brought the show in is a heavy one, consisting of twenty full length circus cars. It was switched at the freight house on its arrival and the rush of unloading the cages of animals and other show paraphernalia followed. The erecting of the tents and getting everything in readiness for the opening has since been in progress. Carpenters and electricians have worked overtime to have everything in place and ready when Chief Doane of the fire department gives the word to throw open the doors.

The opening was to have taken place tonight but owing to the heavy shower and the prospects of a continuance at 2:30 this afternoon, Captain William Townley announced a postponement until tomorrow.

The vote for the carnival queen continues to arouse enthusiasm and a large number of ballots were cast since the count on Saturday morning. Miss Townley still holds the lead but she is only a few votes ahead of Miss Mattie DeCamp, while Miss Sarah Hopewell made big gains over Sunday. The total vote to noon today was as follows: Miss Townley, 3,232; Miss DeCamp, 3,162; Miss Hopewell, 2, 555; Miss King, 2,127; Miss Adams, 1,946.

Rigs in Collision.

While Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clarkson, of this city, were driving on the Dunellen-Bound Brook road near Gallagher's corner, yesterday afternoon, their rig was run into from the rear by another driven by George Miller, of West Front street. It is alleged that the latter was racing with a third rig in charge of a young man named Conover, from the borough, and that both were urging their horses on at reckless speed. Mr. and Mrs. Clarkson were thrown to the roadway but miraculously escaped injury, although their carriage was badly damaged. Mr. Clarkson was only recently discharged from a New York hospital after undergoing several serious operations as the result of a trolley accident and from which he has not yet fully recovered.

New Turnout Installed.

The Public Service Corporation has completed the work of installing a new turnout on West Fourth street, near Liberty, as directed by the Common Council, and it is now being used by the trolleys. It is expected that an improvement in the service will follow. The old turnout near Hope chapel has been removed.

A. C. Stebbins Weds.

Albert C. Stebbins, of West Seventh street, vice-president of the Niles-Bennett-Pond Company, married Mrs. Hammerstad, of New Dorp, Staten Island, Wednesday noon. Rev. J. O. McKelvey performed the ceremony, which was a quiet affair. The couple will reside in this city.

DUNELLEN POKER RAID

John Peters, Jr. and Somerville Man are Nabbed and Fined but Others Escape.

MAYOR SWACKHAMER'S IDEA.

Suspicious of Borough Pool Room, He Forced an Entrance Saturday Midnight With Raiding Party.

John Peters, Jr., of Dunellen, was arrested at a game of poker conducted in a pool room owned by him on North avenue, Dunellen, at midnight Saturday night, when Mayor Harry H. Swackhamer, Borough Recorder David S. Campbell and Chief Marshal Bambach raided the place while five young men were playing. Peters and a man who gave his name as John Brown, of Somerville, were fined $5 at a hearing held immediately after the raid before the Borough Recorder. Young Peters was completely unstrung at the hearing and fainted upon hearing his sentence.

The raid was the idea of Mayor Swackhamer, who had a suspicion that there was gambling going on in the North avenue pool-room. He notified Recorder Campbell and Marshal Bambach and the three went to the back door and Bambach demanded entrance from the front. As soon as those inside recognized Bambach, somebody put out the lamp burning on the poker table and the five men in the place ducked for freedom. Peters and Brown were nabbed, but the other three got away. They were recognized, however, and the Dunellen police have warrants out for their arrest. Two of them are Dunellenites.

Mayor Swackhamer seized the cards found on the table, and $4.28 which was in the pot when the play was interrupted. The two prisoners had no defence to put up at their hearing, but Peters asked Recorder Campbell if he might have the cards back. The Mayor refused the request. The pool-room has been running for the past eighteen months, and it is said that the games during the past few months have been for money. Mayor Swackhamer said yesterday that there will be other raids of suspected places.

AUTO POLICE ARREST TWO SPEED LAW VIOLATORS

The local auto police have become cognizant of the fact that the owners of big touring cars passing through the city have been exceeding the speed limit and steps were taken yesterday to put a stop to the practice. Three of Mayor Fisk's specials, Robert Tilney, S. A. Cruikshank and Benjamin Wood, patrolled East Front street in their own machines in the afternoon and made two arrests. The men taken in custody gave their names as Dr. G. H. Thatcher, of 2,008 Chestnut street, Philadelphia, and Henry B. Vaughan, a broker, of Orange.

The defendants were taken before Mayor Fisk in the absence of Judge Runyon and after admitting that they had been running their machines at a speed in excess of the limit were let go on suspended sentence. They were warned by the executive that a close watch would be kept on all the city thoroughfares and that a repetition of the offense would result in a heavy fine.

The auto police act independent of the regular officers and during the summer will take turns in watching for speed violations or the reckless running of machines.

$8 Fine For Jones.

Sheridan Jones, who recently rounded out a sixty days sentence for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, appeared before Judge Runyon on the same charge this morning. Patrolmen Nolan and Messler gathered him in Saturday night. He paid an $8 fine in preference to going back to Warden Dodd for another twenty days.

Approaching Wedding.

Miss Lulu Randolph, daughter of Mrs. Sylvester Randolph, of West Seventh street, and Clifford D. Manning, will be married Wednesday at the home of the bride's mother. After a honeymoon the couple will reside in a new house recently built by Mr. Manning at Washington avenue and Prospect place.

Eleanor Graves Givens.

Eleanor Graves Givens, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Givens, died this morning at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Charles Graves, of Liberty street. The child was one year and eight months old. The funeral will be at Mrs. Graves' home and will be private.

ELEVENTH TALK ON GREED

Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring Explains Meaning of "I Believe in Communion of Saints."

HE QUOTES BISHOP GORE.

Presbyterian Divine Tells a McKinley Incident—The Saints as Holy Persons.

In his eleventh discourse on "The Apostles Creed," Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church took for his theme, last night, "I Believe in the Communion of Saints,' and he emphasized the importance of the belief in the Saints and their communion, which he declared should stimulate one's faith in God. Dr. Herring spoke as follows:

"Saints! Perhaps you say in your heart that you have no particular interest in saints and for this reason, that they seem so far removed from the practical things of earth that you can take little interest in their communion.

"You must remember that this Creed is intensely practical. It is meant to be a stimulus to hopeful living. Your belief in the articles of the Creed is meant to intensify your trust in God and His revelation.

"Therefore, does the belief in the saints and their communion stimulate your faith in God?

"Who are the saints? In the English church before the Reformation, the Latin 'Communio Sanctorum' was interpreted to mean 'a fellowship of holy things' so that this part of the Creed read 'I believe in the fellowship of Holy things,'—and the statement then referred to the sacraments of the church. Men confessed that they believed that those who partook of these holy rites enjoyed the blessings of holy fellowship.

"Bishop Gore of the Anglican church believes that this interpretation is wrong. He adheres to the common interpretation that it refers 'to the fellowship of holy persons, of all members of the body of Christ living or dead.' His view is the general view of the church.

"The saints then are these 'holy persons' who belong to the 'Holy Catholic church.' They are holy in that they have taken Christ as their Saviour and Guide. Paul speaks of the Romans as 'saints' not because of their extreme sanctity but because they belonged to Christ and therefore any man who has given his life to Christ and means to do His will with His strength to help him, is a saint. I imagine if Paul were writing to the Christian church of Plainfield today he would write to them as 'saints of God.'

"With this definition of the saints clearly in our minds, we can say, 'I believe in the fellowship and mutual helpfulness of all God's people, for all together they are the body of Christ."

"There is a story told of the late President McKinley, that, after the battle of Gettsyburg, he and a friend, an officer in the army, passed over the battelfield. He noticed that his friend gave money to the wounded soldiers,—sometimes to a Confederate and sometimes to a Union soldier, and when asked why he made no distinction between them, he said that all the men he helped belonged to a secret order of which he too was a member, and were therefore bound by the ties of brotherhood even though one wore the gray and the other the blue. There is another order. It is the Household of Faith, and the ties of that brotherhood are stronger than the ties of any human organization, for that brotherhood is no less than the body of Christ, Christ Himself being the living dead.

"Pearson in his work on the Creed says that the word Communion could be translated Communication. Then our Creed would read 'I believe in the communication of the saints.' That means the helpfulness of the saints to each other. I hardly think we can utter this part of the Creed when in our own hearts is a caste or class spirit. We are one with the household of faith not because of a similarity of our circumstances but because of the oneness of our inner life. Heaven is a place where we shall be interested in men, for it is called a 'city;' and it is a city not because it is a place but because 'it is a community which has a common life.' If in heaven, then, we shall be interested in other people, we might as well get used to it here or we shall be out of place there.

"You do believe then in the helpfulness of Christian fellowship, but what would be the power of the church today if every one of the five hundred millions of nominal Christians were Christians at heart and devoted to Christ and His Gospel.

"But the fellowship of God's people is more than the fellowship of saints on earth. We are in fellowship with patriarchs, prophets, apostles and martyrs. The Huns believed that when they fought the battles

SISTERS' ROMANCE ENDS

Engagements of the Misses Sturman to the Drs Short Suddenly Broken.

GIRLS' FATHER DID IT.

Dunellen Maidens Were to Have Wedded New York Doctors—It's All Over Now—Presents Returned.

Short—Sturman—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sturman, of Dunellen, N. J., wish to announce that they have broken off the engagement of their daughters, Byrde and Lillian, to Drs. Samuel and David Short, of 1,547 Madison avenue, New York city, which was announced May 31. Plainfield and Dunellen papers please copy.

When Charles Sturman was asked to explain this peculiar advertisement, which appeared in yesterday's New York Herald, he did so willingly. According to him, some months ago he consented to his daughters' engagements to the two doctors in question. Later, he says, he learned soms things that convinced him that the engagements had better be broken His daughters gave their consent and Mr. Sturman personally informed the Drs. Short of the decision.

On Wednesday last, the Misses Sturman, according to their father, received letters from the two doctors pleading with them to reconsider and declaring that their father had acted too hasty. The following day an announcement appeared in the New York Times in which the two doctors said that they never had been and never intended to become engaged to the Dunellen girls. Then followed the notice in yesterday's Herald.

Dr. Samuel Short is thirty-eight years of age, while his nephew, Dr. David Short, is four years his junior. The oldest Miss Sturman is nineteen. Her sister is seventeen. The father, Charles Sturman, declines to give his reason for having the engagement broken saying that they are purely personal.

Charles Sturman says that he voluntarily returned all the gifts that the Drs. Short had showered on his daughters.

FAILS IN SECOND ATTEMPT TO SECURE NEGRO'S RELEASE.

John E. Miller, a well known Westfielder, who is evidently laboring under a wrong impression, called at police headquarters for the second time today in an effort to have Judge Runyon rescind his sentence of sixty days imposed a week ago on a negro giving his name as "John Smith." He advanced the argument that the prisoner had been misrepresented and that he was entitled to his freedom. It developed in the course of Miller's argument that "Smith" has been employed by him and the need of his services is evidently the paramount reason for the great interest in his case.

As a matter of fact, the negro got all that was coming to him. He acted in an unusually disorderly manner at Gloekler's saloon before his arrest and when taken in custody by officers Messler and Nolan resisted all the way to the police station. He struck Nolan a stinging blow on the head and had to be clubbed before he would go along quietly. Judge Runyon informed Miller that he is not in the habit of sending innocent men to jail and that any attempt to get "Smith" out is simply a waste of time.

The Westfielder was accompanied by a former assemblyman but if he counted on the latter to carry any weight it wasn't enough for anyone about headquarters to notice it.

Epstein Saw the Judge.

In his effort to gain patronage for an attraction at the firemen's carnival, Joseph Epstein, a representative, went about the city yesterday and painted signs indiscriminately, announcing that "U O 2 C Leola." Patrolman Saffron told Epstein he ought to come around and see Judge Runyon and showed him the way over to Sycamore street. He saw him at this morning's session of court and paid $5 for the privilege.

In the City Court.

Charged by his wife with non-support, Harry Bennett was arraigned before Judge Runyon this morning. He admitted that he had not been contributing to his family regularly but promised to turn over all his wages with the exception of a dollar a week if given a chance. He was paroled with this understanding.

Albert Harsen on Trial.

The trial of Albert Harsen, of this city, on a charge of being implicated in the theft of numerous bicycles here, was begun in the Union County Court, this morning.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

NORTH BRANCH.

Miss Mabel F. Wallace, principal of the public school at Readington, reports May Cole, Marguerite Lane and Walter Peabody on the honor roll for the past school month.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Beekman and Daniel H. Beekman and family have removed from Somerville to their country home, near this place, for the summer.

Mrs. J. P. Hall and the Misses Helen and Bessie Hall, of South Branch, have been visiting Mrs. Charles Van Derbeek in North Branch.

Communion services were held in the Presbyterian church at Pluckemin yesterday morning, conducted by Rev. Thomas D. Wesley, the pastor.

Mrs. Edward B. Voorhees, of New Brunswick, has been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Jane Amerman, in South Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Brokaw, of South Branch, have been entertaining Mrs. Marie Brokaw, of Somerville.

Willard DuMont, of Newark, has been a guest of his sister, Mrs. Henry Hammann, in North Branch.

Mrs. Charles Ernst and children, of Harrison, have been spending a week with relatives near Neshanic.

SOMERVILLE.

The report of Probation Officer John B. Osborn has just been presented to Judge Schenck. It shows that since the office was created in 1905 there have been seventy-five probationers. Of this number only four have been sent to the Reform School. Thirty have been discharged from their probation. Fines amounting to $912.04 have been paid by probationers.

Rev. Audley Bliss, pastor of the Methodist church, will leave tomorrow for his summer vacation of a month.

Children's Day was observed in the Reformed, Baptist and Methodist churches yesterday.

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Children's Day was observed in the churches of the Bound Brooks yesterday morning. In the afternoon union services were held in the Presbyterian church of Bound Brook, at which Rev. Dr. H. H. Sleeper, rector of Grace Episcopal church of Elizabeth, preached.

Mrs. Jane Hall, of Brooklyn, is being entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Tatum, in Canal road, South Bound Brook.

Miss Marie Campbell, of Brooklyn, has been spending a week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln A. Riffert in Bound Brook.

Mrs. Peter S. Clark, of Bound Brook, has been entertaining Mrs. Peter Garretson, of East Millstone, for several days.

Mrs. J. H. V. Bache, of Beachwood avenue, Beachwood Heights, is spending several days with relatives at Bergenfield.

Mrs. D. G. DeWitt is entertaining Miss Edythe Goodwin, of New York, at her home in Union avenue, Bound Brook.

A son was recently born to Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Mundy, at their home in East Second street, Bound Brook.

Mrs. Sylvanus Ayres, Jr., of East High street, Bound Brook, is spending several days at Deal Beach.

N. K. Benedict has moved his family from near Bound Brook to Chicago.

WESTFIELD.

The funeral services of Mrs. Barbara Westenfelder were held at her late home Friday afternoon. Mrs. Westenfelder was in her seventy-eighth year. Rev. E. Berger, of Jersey City Heights, conducted the services.

The Garwood Firemen's Relief Association has elected Richard Watt, John Daushenk and William Sargent representatives to the State convention of exempt firemen to be held at Atlantic City.

The Women's Guild of St. Paul's church, Westfield, held a lawn party at the home of Mrs. Dr. Sinclair Saturday afternoon.

Children's Day was generally observed in the Westfield churches yesterday.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The fact that yesterday was Flag Day in the churches as well as Children's Day caused patriotic songs and recitations to be a feature of the exercises at the various churches. Bishop Scarborough administered the rite of confirmation to a class of nine candidates at Holy Innocents church yesterday afternoon. The Bishop preached the customary confirmation sermon, congratulating the parish on its growth since his last visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Abram Giddes entertained the graduating class of the Piscataway township schools at their home at Beechwood Heights Saturday night. The affair was well attended by the pupils and their friends and proved a decided social success. Pupils of the eighth and tenth grade acted as a reception committee.

As members of the senior class of the Plainfield High School, Miss Margery Harris, Raymond and John Dutcher were present at the class supper in the school gymnasium, Saturday night.

John C. Dilts' mare "Anna Ashley," entered in Class B at the trotting meet of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Association at Plainfield Saturday, finished third in the first heat, fourth in the second and ran a dead heat for show with J. B. Guttride's "Sydney Leland" in the third heat. Several Dunellenites attended the meet.

Fines will be imposed on Building and Loan delinquents in arrears for dues after 9 o'clock tonight.

Mrs. John M. Dayton, of New Market, is the guest of relatives at Peekskill, N. Y.

A CONVENTION PRIMER

Important Information Concerning Past and Coming National Political Conventions.

DIFFERING CONVENTION RULES.

In what way does the procedure at Democratic conventions differ from Republican?

First in the number required to nominate. The Republicans require only a majority, while the Democrats require two-thirds.

When did the Democrats adopt the two-thirds rule?

At their first convention in 1832, since which time the rule has prevailed, requiring that "two-thirds of the whole number of the votes in the convention shall be necessary to constitute a choice."

Have the Republicans ever attempted to adopt this rule?

No.

What is the unit rule?

A rule which has always prevailed in Democratic conventions that a delegation from a state must vote as a unit according to the wishes of a majority of the delegation.

Have the Republicans ever adopted this rule?

No, though an unsuccessful attempt was made in 1880.

What candidates have been nominated by acclamation or without opposition?

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bowlby, of Netherwood avenue, are the parents of a twelve pound son who came to their home last week.

Frank Schuck and Edwin Bellis, of the borough, returned Saturday after a two weeks stay at Camp Ram's Horn, Lake Hopatcong.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bentley, of Richmond street, left Saturday, for Watkin's Glen and other points of interest in Western New York.

William Griscom, of Sycamore avenue, who with his family will spend the summer at Orr's Island, Maine, has leased his house to William P. Macindoe, of New York.

Roland Horn is visiting his parents, Mr. and Charles E. Horn, of Willow avenue, after spending a year in Cuba, where he was engaged in mining and engineering.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will hold its last meeting of the season tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. A large attendance is desired.

Miss Nettie Beeching and Martin A. Korff were the principal speakers at the Children's Day exercises at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, Watchung, yesterday. There was also a program of special music.

Rev. Dr. Henderson, who several years ago conducted a successful series of evangelisitc services here, and who has been in charge of the evangelical department of work for the Methodist church, has been succeeded by another divine of that church, and it is said that he will take up evangelical work under the direction of the college association of this country.

WHEN DRESSING THE HAIR.

There is the comet aigrette.

It shoots straight from the forehead.

It seems very vionetly backward.

There are tinsel ornaments in silver and gold.

There are flowers and foliage in the greatest variety.

Jeweled ornaments in wing shapes are in very high favor.

When A Traveling She Goes.

One of the most useful garments for the woman traveler by sea or her sister who must take a sleeper for a land journey is a black china silk negligee. Let it be cut with ample fullness both back and front, full length to the floor, open in front, and finished with a sailor collar. A dressy touch may be given by edging the collar and sleeves with lace and jaboting lace down either side of the front. Fasten the front with ribbon bows at intervals of eight inches. The garment takes but small compass, does not show the effect of close packing, and may be substituted for the bulky bath robe on shipboard or in the sleeper. Those who have been the fortunate possessors of such an acquisition to the wardrobe cannot speak enthusiastically enough of the comfort coming form its use.

It was a wise move on the part of Manager Doflinger in putting "Billy" O'Loughlin behind the bat for Clinton Avenue. Randolph has more confidence in this player and is sure to do better work. The management has determined to strengthen this position, realizing it to be the only weak spot.

Clinton Avenue is fortunate in having the services of Clifford Randolph as a pitcher. He is destined for faster company within a short time. He has promised, however, to remain with the team this season, preferring to get all the experince possible before breaking into league ball.

The Mono A. C. hope to schedule a game with Bound Brook soon. The Plainfield boys are looking for new teams to conquer and believe that they can hold their own with the best of them.

The local Y. M. C. A. team will play at Orange on Saturday and it will prove a good try-out for them. The Orange boys have been playing good ball and will doubtless give Plainfield a lively run.

The Providence Grays are playing over their heads for Hughey Duffy, their popular manager. Duffy is in the game heart and soul and the players are all pulling for him and playing the very best they know how. With these harmonious conditions prevailing and every player on the jump, the Grays appear to be on the road to success. Duffy is quick to give credit to his men for their good work in a game, and when a player falls down or makes a blunder, he nevers resorts to nagging tactics. It is these qualities that have made him solid with his men.

Duffy, like Hughey Jennings, enlivens the game by his presence on the coaching line when his men are at the bat. To hear Duffy coach his players during a game is always one of the itneresting features. It is just twenty years since Duffy broke into the National League under Pop Anson, then with the Chicago Nationals, but time, apparently, has not taken away any of the aggressiveness of the former star.

Frank Donohue, the Providence second baseman, is a brother of Jiggs Donohue, the famous first baseman of the Chicago White Sox. Donohue is playing such a fast game that he is sure to be in the major league drag net at drafting time.

Gastmeyer has succeeded Gleason on third base for Jersey City. It is reported that the change may be permanent.

GOLF.

Four well-known golfers met at Baltusrol last week in the first half of their annual home-and-home match. T. C. Ennever, one of the committeemen of the Baltusrol Golf Club, and George Low, the home "pro," played against J. F. Shanley, Jr., of Deal, and Willie Norton, the professional. While no actual results were given out for publication, it is at least allowable to say that Ennever and Low won by a comfortable margin; also that the Deal pair hope to return the compliment when the match is renewed at the shore.

Jerome D. Travers, of Montclair, failed to do himself proud in the invitation tournament at the Wykagyl Country Club. His score of 178 for thirty-six holes just missed the first sixteen, and it was the first time since this great player has been prominent that such a thing has happened.

Phil Pointer, the former Newarker, competed at Wykagyl. It was the second time he had played this season, and under the circumstances his score was all that could be expected. Some ten months ago Phil checked his bag of clubs at a railroad station, and as he had about decided to give up the game he neglected to go after the weapons. Early last week he called for the clubs, and was amazed to learn that there was a charge of $15 storage, at the rate of $1.50 per month. Pointer couldn't see that at all, so they finally compromised on $2.50.

At Wykagyl Pointer drove beautiful balls all the way from 200 to 250 yards, but he did other stunts that were not so beautiful, though scarcely less spectacular, notably an attempt to play out of running water. When it was all over Pointer's partner, thoroughly bewildered, expressed the hope that they would never meet again on a golf course. Now Phil has an idea that he might do better at cricket.

Programs are out for the two days' Invitation Tournament at the Nassau Country Club on Friday and Saturday of next week. Players will qualify in six eights and then fight it out at match play. Some of the best amateurs are expected to take part and as the course is at its best now, low scores may reasonably be expected.

HINTS FOR HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Persons of defective sight when threading a needle should hold it over something white, by which the sight will be assisted.

Bolting the food has ruined many a good complexion. Teeth were given for a purpose, and if one does not use them they will suffer along with digestion and skins.

A mixture of half a dram of muriate of ammonia, a quarter of a dram of tannic acid, an ounce of glycerin and one and a half ounces of rose water is said to reduce the size of a fleshy nose. The ammonia and tannic acid are dissolved in the glycerin and the rose water goes in last. The nose is wiped over with this several times a day, and a cloth wet with it is laid over at night.

If you do not react well after your bath try what vigorous rubbing of all parts of your body will do. This may either be a dry rub with alcohol, or aromatic vinegars can be used. Rubbing the entire body with the palm of the hand has a good effect not alone on the skin, but on the circulation. Where the hand will not reach with any force double the crash towel or take a long strip of flannel and, holding it in both hands, draw it vigorously from left to right. This is good as a gymnastic exercise as well as beneficial to the skin.

TRINITY ENDEAVORERS HOLD A LAWN PARTY

The lawn party and musical given Saturday evening at the home of Miss May Randolph on East Second street under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, was largely attended and a success. The affar was arranged by Miss May Randolph and Miss Harriet Randall and over $30 was realized. The lawn was attractively decorated with lanterns, flags and flowers, and here refreshments, ice cream, candy and lemonade were sold.

During the evening a delightful musical was given in the house. There were whistling solos by Miss Hillyer, of Dunellen; sprano solos by Mrs. Edmund D. Young; medley trio by Edmund D. Young, cornet; Miss Lucy Coriell, piano and Mr. Belleyeau, of Brooklyn, vocalist; piano duet by Miss May Randolph and Miss Elsie Dunavan. During the entertainment Miss Lillian A. Force and Miss May Randolph presided at the piano. Those in charge of the program comprised Elmer Gayle, Elsworth Bennett, Russell Dorenger, Arthur Gaskill. Miss Ella Miller and Miss Irma Coddington were in charge of the lemonade and Miss Alice Vroom and Miss Edna Cole were at the candy table. At the ice cream table were Fred Soper, William La Tourette, LeRoy Layton and Howard Debele and the waitresses were Miss Ida Van Arsdale, Miss Anna Bach, Miss Clara Allen and Miss Lucy Coriell. The cashiers were Miss Anna Randall and LeRoy Layton. Miss Eva Dunavan and Miss Myra Dunavan assisted the various committees.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE KITCHEN SCRAPBOOK.

A tin cup filled with vinegar and placed on the back of the stove will prevent the odor of cooking from pervading the house.

To polish a looking glass first rub it with a duster wrung out of cold water and dipped in whiting, and then polish with a dry cloth.

As soon as a salt ham or tongue is cooked remove it from the boiling water to a pan of cold water for a few seconds. This will loosen the skin, which may be asily peeled off.

To remove smoke stains from ivory immerse it in benzine andl go over it with a brush.

Boil six peach kernels in a quart of milk to be used for custard; it will improve the flavor.

For cleaning tinware there is nothing better than dry flour applied with newspaper.

Keep all the kitchen utensils in one place and a small one at that; it will save time and steps.

CHILDREN'S DAY OBSERVED

Duckworth Emmons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Emmons; William Harold Kriney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kriney.

Another interesting sight was the processional by the members of the Primary and Beginners' departments, in charge of Mrs. J. M. Tier and Mrs. H. E. Gayle, each child carrying a flag. This program was then rendered:

Welcome speech, Howard Allegar; son, "'Tis Children's Day," Primary department; recitations, "Our Day," Reginald Applegate; "Jesus Loves the Children," Harold Scribner; "A Struggle," Elsie Zipp; song, "The Boy and the Bird," Alfred Willett, Roy Macintyre, Harold Gayle, Howard Willett, Walter Kenyon; recitation, "Isn't it Wonderful," John Stillwell; dialogue, "Little Children," Beatrice Tier, Madeline Blair, Dorothy Martin; "Little Children," Beatrice Tier, Madeline Blair, Dorothy Martin, Malcolm Sheppard, Beatrice Bodine, Helen MacAfee; exercise, "A Garland of June Blossoms," Edna Smith, Margaret Smith, Mable Laury, Ruth Freeman, Lillie Laury, Elsie Kurzhals; son, "Daisies," Theodosia Vail, Louise Seader, Laura Smith, Marion Woolley, Carrie Hafner, Harriet Higgins, Mildred Oliver, Adele Freeman; lullaby song, Beatrice Tier, Marguerite Barkelew, Helen Saffron, Ruth Hoffman, Marion Blair, Lillian Schleif; recitation, "Countless Blessings," Charles Todd; song, 'Beautiful Daisies," Primary department; 'exercise by beginners, "Golden Daisies," Robert Blair, Helen Willett, Gladys Bye, Dorothy Ross, Lena Wirth, Ellis Enander, Alma Allegar.

There was an excellent address by Dr. Johnson to the Sunday-school, his topic being, "Be Good; Do Good." His words were full of encouragement to both young and old.

First Presbyterian.

The Sunday-school of the First Presbyterian church held its special exercises in the morning, when the following program was rendered:

Processional, school entering the church; anthem, choir; invocation, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, and Lord's prayer; hymn, "Golden Harps are Sounding," school; address by superintendent, L. H. Gates. Primary department: Recitations, "Children's Day;" "Beautiful Day;" song, "All for Jesus;" recitations, "Flower Voices;" "Little Daisies, Bright and Gay;" song, 'Everything Sings in Summer;" recitation, "Summer's Come Again."

Diplomas were presented to the following children who were promoted from the Primary to the Main department: Helen Gates, Dorothy Dickerson, Mildred Boyle, David Hand, Donald Ween, Fred Ross, Arthur Adams, Charles Burnett; cradle roll to Primary department: Edith Shotwell, Ruth Kennedy, Raymond Adams and Elizabeth Burroughs.

Continuing the program there was an anthem by the choir, recitations, "A Good Name," Benjamin Kriney; "The Two Words," Ruth Waldorf; song, school; recitations, "If I Were a Sunbeam," Eleanor Searing; "Be Sincere," Dayton Ballantyne; song, school; sermon, paster.

Congregational Church.

Superintendent J. M. Whiton, of the Congregational Sunday-school, gave an informal talk on the history of the development of the flag at the combination Flag Day and Children's Day service at the Congregational church yesterday morning. He displayed the nine flags which have represented our country from the Declaration of Independence to the present time. At the conclusion of his remarks, he presented each member of the Sunday-school with a silk flag.

The church was handsomely decorated with flags and wild flowers and the service was the occasion of the graduation of seven pupils from the primary to the junior department of the Sunday-school. The graduates were Ruth Fuller, Anita Barrett, Donald Hyland, Clark Mundy, Eugene S. Martin, Romeyne Voorhees, and Axel Brandt. The diplomas were given by Rev. C. L. Goodrich and each of the pupils was presented with a Bible as a graduation present.

Water brought by Superintendent Whiton from the river Jordan was used in the baptismal service, when Mr. Goodrich administered the rite to eight young people. In accordance with a custom of the school, Miss Margaret Beck received a Bible to mark her seven years identification with the Sunday-school. A thousand and thirty-eight pennies, representing the birthday offering of the primary department, was received for the Children's Home.

"The Cottonwood Tree" was the topic of a short address by the pastor. Music was a feature of the service, and Charles L. Lewis, the precentor, who was in charge, sang a solo "Suffer Little Children." Miss Alice Morgan was at the piano and Henry Brandt furnished a violin obligato. The service concluded with the singing of "America" by the school.

Faith Chapel.

Special exercises, consisting of vocal and instrumental music, recitations and a cantata, "Queen of June" combined to make the Children's Day exercises at Faith chapel, last night, one of enjoyment to the large audience. There were 137 members of the school present, in addition to members of the chapel and congregation. Superintendent L. W. Randolph was in charge of the program.

The program opened with an organ and violin selection by W. A. Conger and Clarence Lawrence; song by the school, "Listen to the Call of Spring;" Scripture reading by Frank Stewart, assistant superintendent and prayer by Superintendent Randolph, which was followed by a vocal duet, by David Patterson and Mrs. Charles Quint; a trio, piano, violin and organ, Miss May Randolph, Clarence Lawrence and W. A. Conger; song by the school, after which the cantata was given. Those who took part were as follows:

In the afternoon the following promotions were made: Primary to Intermediate department—Miss Bessie Van Nest, teacher; Mary Conway, Edna Stewart, Bessie Griffin, Grace Baker, Anna Carson. Miss Florence Randolph, teacher; Frank Dower, George Patterson, Monroe Gullberg, Marcel Touchon, Robert Cartright.

After the exercises in the evening the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson made an appropriate address, basing his remarks on suggestions from the cantata.

Grace M. E.

Children's Day exercises at Grace M. E. church yesterday consisted of recitations, songs, drills and motion pieces by the pupils of the Sunday-school, and the church edifice, which was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and flags, was filled to its capacity. Five infants were received for baptism by Rev. O. J. Shoop, pastor of the church. They were the children of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Herman, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Winckler, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Austin and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott. As the christening party entered the church, it was met at the vestry door by two little flower girls, who led the way to the chancel, strewing flowers and singing "God Bless the Babies." Miss Helen Bolen, Miss May Winans and Richard Mellick sang solos and Elsworth Runyon and Allen Pierson recited. Twenty-six pupils took part in the program.

At the conclusion of the program, potted plants were presented to the children of the Sunday-school. The collection, taken up in flower baskets by the children themselves, will be devoted to helping worthy young men secure higher education. Miss Mary G. Steiner was in charge of the exercises and Miss Voehl was chairman of the decorating committee.

Crescent Avenue Church.

The exercises at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday-school were held yesterday morning and were in charge of Superintendent L. R. Hopton. The program comprised responsive readings, hymns by the primary department and a sermon by Rev. J. S. Zelie. Sunday-school for the primary department was omitted for the day.

ABOLISH MIDNIGHT SUPPER.

"The fashion of after-theatre suppers causes as much appendicitis as anything else. What chance have a man's stomach and appendix when he persists in loading himself up with rich food late at night?" Thus spoke Dr. Jabez Jackson, in the course of an address before the American Medical Association at Chicago.

It was time that some one should sound a warning note against a demoralizing custom that has made its appearance in this country within the past few years and that is growing apace.

Dr. Jackson names only one count in the indictment against the midnight supper. There are others. Not only is it injurious to health, but it is at war with American traditions and conditions, it is extravagant, and in many instances it leads to immorality.

Every man in the United States is supposed to follow the business life. How can he be able to devote himself to business in the morning if he stays up three parts of the night? When the theatres let out it is high time for decent people to go home. If they catch the first train they will not get to bed much before 12 o'clock. To drop into a cafe usually means to miss the car and be obliged to go home in a carriage. But the midnight lunch is extravagant in every way—in the time it takes which should be devoted to rest; in the money it costs, and in the recklessness it implies and leads to. When people begin to set common sense at defiance there is no telling where they will stop.

The cafe supper at midnight has in more than one case led to embezzlement. A woman of strong sense and pronounced opinions was lately heard to remark: "Husbands who take their wives into a cafe after theatre and crazy, and mothers who permit young men to take their daughters there are criminal." Certainly the custom is unwise, and the warning uttered by Dr. Jackson should be heeded.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Owing to a misunderstanding, the Parkaways, of Newark, came to town Saturday afternoon to play the local team. Manager Albert and the team were busy at Flemington administering a coat of white wash to the crack Femington team. The Parkaways had a game scheduled with the locals for last Saturday but the Manager claims it was cancelled. The Parkaways claim the game was postponed one week only.

The Annual Children's Day exercises were held last night at the Methodist church. The church was prettily trimmed with flowers and ferns and an excellent program of recitations, responsive reading and songs was enjoyed by the school and its friends.

Owing to the Children's day exercises, no meeting of the Epworth League was held at the Methodist church.

The second ball team defeated the Dunellen Junior nine 24-1 in the game at Dunellen on Saturday.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held last night in the parlors of the church.

ELEVENTH TALK ON CREED

of earth their ancestors fought the same battle with them in the skies. The Huns were not entirely wrong. You remember the story of Elisha and his servant, that when the servant saw the enemies of Irael he was appalled at their number; the prophet prayed that his eyes might be opened. Then he saw the spiritual hosts that were fighting for Israel.

"There is a picture presented in the Epistle to the Hebrews which shows that the saints have an departed interest in our earthly life. In that letter, the apostle tells us that 'seeing we are encompassed with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside everything that would impede us while we run the race that is before us.' You recognize the picture. It is that of a race course surrounded with interested spectators. You have in the eleventh chapter of Hebrews the roll of these witnesses who were themsives contestants in life's battle, and now take an active interest in the race which men today are running.

"In other words, the saints in glory are interested in the saints on earth. At the end of the eleventh chapter of Hebrews we read that so close is the relation between God's people who have passed into the other life, with God's people who are still fighting life's battle on earth, that 'they without us shall not be made perfect.' Those who have passed on, then, into the other life are not dead nor even asleep until the Resurrection Day, but are alive and interested in our battles. That certainly should be an inspiration to us."

When Superintendent Henry M. Maxson opened his desk for work at the Plainfield High School this morning, he found on it a little box, on which was written "A little circle of gold to suggest the mighty circle of love from many teachers."

Inside the box was a heavy gold ring, a present of appreciation from the members of the High School faculty. It is to be inscribed with Dr. Maxson's initials. The gift was a complete surprise to the Superintendent.

"Blind Tom" Dies in Hoboken.

"Blind Tom," the world-famed negro pianist, died on Saturday at the home of a daughter of his old master, and one-time owner, Col. James N. Bethune, of Georgia, who is now residing in Hoboken. His right name was Thomas Wiggins, but for a great many years he was known as "Blind Tom." Several years ago he appeared at Stillman Music Hall, this city.

Mrs. Hattie Louise Howard Warren.

Mrs. Hattie Louise Howard, widow of George Warren, died yesterday at her home on Madison avenue. She had been a resident of this city for many years, living for a long time at Seventh street and Park avenue. She was a sister to Mrs. W. B. Ostrom and the late Mrs. R. M. Stover. She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Nellie Kerr. The funeral will be private.

Will be Tried June 25.

Fred Terrino and Guisepe Angelino, two of the gang of Italians engaged in a stabbing affray in this city recently, were arraigned in the Union County Court, this morning. They both pleaded not guilty and their trials were set down for June 25. Terrino was released in $500 bail and Angelino was put under $300 bail.

Who Was the Man?

While walking upon an unfrequented path I met an aged man who was carrying two lighted lanterns. Recognizing him, I cried:

"Ah, Diogenes, isn't it about time you gave up your search for an honest man?"

"Friend," answered he, "I am often tempted to desist; but you mistake the object of my quest; I found an honest man several centuries ago. I am hunting now for an absolutely truthful woman."

And he passed on, weeping; for he had far to go.—Life.

The Reason.

The speaker was plainly excited.

"Why in thunder!" he shouted, "did you misrepresent the points of that dog you sold me? You claimed that he was a coon-dog—a coon-dog! Why, he couldn't trail a polecat across a tennis court."

"Well, well, well!" muttered the person addressed, "that's strange—very strange. While it is true that I have never hunted coons myself with that dog, I was certain that he was a coon-dog because he wasn't worth a cuss at anything else."—Judge.

Saved the Pie.

Our Landlady—It's the strangest thing in the world! Do you know, our dear old pet cat disappeared very suddenly yesterday. Excuse me, Mr. Rudolph; will you have another piece of rabbit pie?

Mr. Rudolph (promptly)—No, thank you!

Our Landlady (an hour later)—That's three more pies saved. This season will be a profitable one indeed!

Not the Same at All.

Harry—Clara, dearest, you are the only woman I ever really and truly loved.

Clara Dearest—You said that very same thing only last week to May Blossom. She told me so herself.

Harry—True, but that was only a dress rehearsal; this is the first performance.

FRANKNESS.

Asker—Is your wife entertaining this season?

Tellit—Not very.—Chicago Daily News.

His Foolish Fear.

"The only thing I am afraid of, darling," he said, "is that we shall not be able to live on my salary."

"Pooh!" replied the brave girl, "don't let that worry you. Remember that I shall not be a mere, useless luxury, as many a man's wife is. Didn't I earn $7.40 writing for the children's department of a ladies' magazine last year?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

It Might Pay.

Great Editor (meditatively)—I wonder if it wouldn't pay for us to start a religious department in our Sunday edition?

Managing Editor—It might. I've got a scrapbook at home full of first-rate jokes about bishops.—New York Weekly.

Business with Pleasure.

Richman—And you intend yours to be a cemetery of moundless graves?

Cemetery Promoter—Precisely so, sir. The graveyard has long been the pleasure resort of countless people and our idea is to create a combined cemetery and golf links.

More Than Surprised.

Bacon—We were tramping through the woods, last summer, and suddenly we came to a lake four miles wide!

Egbert—And you were surprised?

"Surprised? Why, we couldn't get over it."—Yonkers Statesman.

The Proper Relation.

"I say," said the disgusted old toper, "where's this prohibition business going to end? Is legislation being directed by the grandmothers?"

"No," said the cackling idiot, "by the antis."—Baltimore American.

The Material Convenient.

"There seems to be such uncompromising hostility in this Congo affair. Can't the disputants stretch a point?"

"They ought to; it is all over rubber."—Baltimore American.

MORAL GAIN OF THE PANIC.

Many foreign critics from Anna Held to Seymour Bell, the British commercial agent in this country, and also not a few American experts in finance, have told us that the business troubles we are just getting over were brought on by extravagance. Madame Held condemned with delicious sarcasm the practise which she said wives of $15 a week clerks indulge in of dressing in the silks and laces of heiresses. Her follow critic have not gone to such extremes in their criticism of the extravagance of American women, but it is clear enough that they believe this one of the causes of the recent financial depression.

To most Americans the question now comes: "Has this trying experience taugh extravagant wives and daughters any lasting lesson?" Only time will provide a completely satisfactory answer, but it is probably only too safe to say that the direct effect upon them will not be great.

Women who have acquired a passion for extravagant living are not reformed by a shortage of money. They spend less, to be sure, for they are forced to, but they will send all they can get, and that principle does not permit economy. It provides that as soon as the family income increases the expenditures shall increase. Indeed, in many cases families save less when their incomes are at maximum than when at their minimum. While the habit of spending is at its height it is almost impossible for it to stop short of a considerable debt limit. Extravagant and thoughtless women have probably been taught little by the financial depression.

What, then, has been the moral gain of the disaster? It has been this: The men have been taught some valuable lessons. If they do not make good use of them it is all their own fault. They have learned that extravagance in the home has had much to do with businss difficultis in general and their own private misfortunes in particular.

Borough Exempts to be at Carnival.

The North Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association held a special meeting Saturday night and accepted an invitation to take charge of the attractions at the carnival on Wednesday night. They have asked Chief Woolston's men to accompany them and extend the same invitation to all interested. They will assemble at Somerset street and Manning avenue at 7:30 Wednesday night and with fife and drum corps leading will proceed to the carnival grounds.

P. H. S. Concert Tonight.

The Plainfield High School musical clubs will give the annual concert in the school auditorium. Assisting artists will be Miss Anna Lucretia Case, Miss Maida Hyde, Miss Frances Van Deventer, Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson, Miss Mabel Maxson, George Bemus, A. A. Farland, Clifford Braider and Charles L. Lewis.

Mrs. Radford Entertains.

Mrs. George Radford, of West Fifth street, entertained twenty friends at her home Saturday night at an informal party. Musical selections were given by Mr. and Mrs. William Stewart, Miss Viola Stewart and Miss Mary Radford and games were played. Refreshments were served in conclusion.

Thief at Work in Borough.

While John Genisman, who keeps a vegetable and grocery store on Somerset street, was out walking with his wife yesterday afternoon, someone broke into his store and stole $17 from the cash drawer.

WOMAN'S LOVE.

"You've been so good to me," she said,
"You've simply been perfection,
And when you ask me now to wed,
How can I make objection?
That you are all a man should be
Can scarcely be disputed,
And you are just the man for me,
We're so exactly suited!

"Your tastes are just the same as mine,
I'm sure we'd never quarrel;
You're destined in the world to shine
You're learned, rich and moral;
I'd be so proud to be the wife
Of one so great and noted,
And you, I know, would all your life
Be loving and devoted.

"Now, there's that wicked Charley Dash—
He's also come to woo me;
He's gay and careless, wild and rash,
And half-indifferent to me;
He swears he'll love me all my days—
Then gives me cause to doubt him,
And thinks with all his wicked ways,
I cannot live without him!

"I'm sure he'd fill my life with woe,
And prove a poor defender,
While you would e'er be good, I know,
And generous, true and tender;
So when you tell your love to me,
Why, there's no cause to parley,
Except that—how absurd!—you see,
I—that is—I love Charley!"

MUST HAVE BEEN.

Uncle—I've brought a nice book for you, Bobby. It's about a beautiful girl who slept and slept, and no one could wake her.

Bobby—Was she a servant, uncle?

Heavy Tips.

"Yes," said the talkative barber, "in recent years we barbers expect tips."

"I'll give you three," sputtered the man in the chair, as he blew the lather out of his mouth.

"You are very kind, sir."

"Yes, I'll give you a tip that this shaving soap tastes like axle grease, the razor feels like a saw and if you don't stop clipping the skin off my ear I'll get up and thrash you within an inch of your life."—Chicago Daily News.

"Honesty the Best Policy."

They were interviewing the crafty manager of the "get rich quick" syndicate.

"But don't you believe that honesty pays?" asked the interviewer.

"I certainly do," chuckled the manager. "It pays us. For instance, as long as the young men and women who answer our advertisements keep up their agreement to send us $10 weekly we are that much better off."—Chicago Daily News.

Took Advantage.

"There is nothing in this business of being patient," remarked the humble cow.

"What is the trouble now?" queried the sheep.

"Why, I thought I'd be patient and stand under the shade tree all day without moving and I'm a sinner if a lot of village loafers didn't come around and try to play quoits on my horns."—Chicago Daily News.

Of Two Evils.

Milliner—And madame will not take zis beautiful and so cheap hat! But why?

Customer—My husband doesn't like it, so I suppose I must change it.

Milliner—But, madame! Why not change ze husband?—Cleveland Leader.

The Wrong Kind.

"What's dat, boss?"

"That's a safety razor, Sam. Didn't you ever use one?"

"No, sah! Why, boss, what use would dat be at a colored party, do you s'pose?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Forewarned.

Hercules was poisoned by the shirt of Nessus.

"I should have been suspicious," he muttered. "The top button was on."

Treasuring.

Madge—How do you know you can keep a secret?

Marjorie—I know something about Dolly, and I'm keeping it from her until some time I get angry with her.—Puck.

How He Wiped His Lips.

Bacon—He's a plain man, I suppose. Believes that fingers were made before forks?

Egbert—Oh, yes; he also believes that coat sleeves were made before finger bowls.—Yonkers Statesman.

What Callers Are For.

"Now, Hannah, just look at these chairs! There must be an inch of dust on them."

"Well, ma'am, you know yourself you haven't had a caller for nearly a week."

Unimpeachable Evidence.

"I am a broken man," said the poet.

"So I should think," was the answer; "for I have seen your pieces."

Did You Burn Too Much Coal?

It's cheaper to have a good furnace, to say nothing of the comfort. The best furnace is the

BOYNTON

The Furnace with the Square Fire Pot

It has the only fire pot that furnishes perfect combustion, burns all the coal cleanly, without clinkers or clogging, and at the same time saves coal and labor. Look up a Boynton dealer and ask him to explain.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for steam or hot water. Also ranges.

THE OLD COLONEL

By HUGH JOHNSON

(Copyright.)

In the colonel's office the blinds were drawn save one, the wood fire was half white embers, and the room was stuffy and dark. In the gloomiest corner of all, where the great polished desk was dimly outlined in the shadows, sat the leonine old man himself, his weakening gray eyes strained out across the drill ground where a squadron of his cavalry was maneuvering in the white glare of a Texas sun on naked Texas limestone. The motives and the song of the rapidly shifting picture was youth, triumphant and resistless.

The horses were wild, eyes bloodshot, nostrils red, but the men who rode them still loosened rein, stood in their stirrups and yelled like the demoniac horsemen of Attila. Their cheeks were flushed with the adolescence of 20; and as the gait grew furious, boot to boot and shoulder to shoulder, they, too, became crazed with the primal fervor of swift, irresistible motion. The flapping pennants of the guidons and the flying manes blew in their faces, and through the dust clouds from their horses' feet their sabers flashed glints of the sun to the colonel's eyes and his own blood quickened with theirs; but as they wheeled into column and broke to right and left at the end of the course, he drooped back in his chair, his eyes gazing dumbly at the rows of photographs above the bronze mortars of Chapultepec.

There were they—the men who had been young with him—in all their quaint bravery, baldric, tunic and dolman, and out on the plain were the men who were young when he was old—so old. It was they—they and their youth—who were slowly forcing him from the service that he loved; and he almost hated—them and their youth. They were always respectful—even admiring; but between him and them there was no one thing in common. Even his majors were young majors, and in a garrison of a thousand souls he was pitifully alone. He remembered the hill and the general on his immortal white horse and every face that looked down on him from the wall. The youngsters might laugh, but it was all very real to the colonel; and he was sure that he hated them and their youth.

He arose and crossed over to the mess as they came in all aglow from drill. The boisterous excitement of the charge was still with them, their spurs dragged with the bravado that young spur-wearers know, their sabers clanked with every movement, and they talked of "I" troop's error or "C" troop's mistake in loud, boyish voices; but as the colonel passed into the billiard room every voice quieted, hats came off, and chairs rasped across the floor as their occupants got to their feet, all laughing ceased. He was not of them and they could not have said so in plainer words; his very presence was a discomfort to them, and he scowled from under his hat brim and gutturaled unintelligibly. He walked angrily into the steward's room and the door crashed behind him; he stalked along the gravel path to headquarters and sank again into the big leather chair beneath the rows of photographs on the wall, glooming. Once he raised his eyes to the brave faces; his own drooped forward on his hands and rested there long. Perhaps he drowsed a little.

This was why the adjutant, who sat in the colonel's outer office and acted as a buffer between him and his regiment, shook his head to subalterns, and even to a youngish major who stood ready to tap the colonel's door.

"Better cuidado," he warned. "The old man's all liver to-day," and the subalterns and the youngish major tiptoed away thankfully, having intimate knowledge of the bitter tongue of the choloric old man.

"Lord pity that new youngster from the Point if he joins to-day, two days over his leave," breathed the youngish major, safe in the mess window seat; and "O Lord!" echoed the subalterns.

"He's coming all right," volunteered the quartermaster, whose business it is to know everything in a garrison. "Here's his telegram from Perdido station. The Daugherty's been gone to meet him for over two hours."

"Poor kid!" patronized the subalterns from the prestige of their two years' service.

The Daugherty clanked into Fort Perdido in the late afternoon, the four mules, the boot, everything, white with alkali dust. It drew up with a creaking of brakes before the adjutant's quarter and a very straight, very slender, brown-eyed boy climbed out of its depths as the teamster tumbled a long military trunk from the boot and threw a chamois-covered saber on the walk. The boy, whose cheeks glowed through their coating of dust like the bloom of a dead ripe peach through its fuzz, stood by his suit case and gazed about him in bewilderment; then, as the subalterns flocked out to greet him who was to be one of them, he stiffened cadet-wise to attention and saluted very ceremoniously like an officer of the day at guard mount, all of which was woefully incongruous from a military viewpoint. The youngish major watched it all from the club window.

"Like that," he sighed. "And two days overdue. Poor, poor kid!"

The subalterns took the slender boy under tutelage at once. They hurried him to the bachelor quarters; and, while their brown muchachos drew his bath and laid out his linen and fitted the bronze buttons into his painfully new khaki, they warned and coached him and commiserated with him. When he was arrayed as to uniform and girded and spurred, they walked with him to the headquarters veranda and watched him enter the low, dark doorway, while their hearts beat in sympathy with him; he was such a clean-cut, wholesome boy. One of them went as far with him as the adjutant's desk, unconsciously tiptoeing in dread of the painful shriek of his companion's new boots. The subalterns' faces were framed white in the window, and the adjutant and the men outside held their breath as the new boots creaked in the strained silence straight up to the dreaded door.

A dropping pin would have sounded clearly, and the boy's firm tap, tap, tap shattered the stillness and echoed in the bare room. The silence closed in again for five anxious seconds, a bass growl rumbled from the shadows, and the boy was in the presence.

Perhaps the colonel drowsed a little. He often did in these latter days beneath the kindly faces on the wall that smiled and grew dim as seen through something in his eyes. Perhaps he did, for surely this was the Nashville pike that thrummed like a tocsin beneath his horses' feet; and surely this was his own troop that clattered along behind him in route order; this was his own dark hair that drooped below his ears and framed his bronzed young face.

Then that last dance with the little girl with brown eyes came up in his dream.

But with the incongruity of dreams the colonel was far away from the Franklin pike, though journeying thereward on a trip that he had long promised himself after Appomattox. No troop clanged behind him now, and only the rise and fall of a glossy bay shoulder met his eye as he rested on his pommel and dreamed his dream. Again he drew rein at a house near Nashville, for his destination was miles beyond; and though the spires of the city showed blue-tinged in the twilight distance, the night was rolling in from the valleys and the road was strange. Soon he was asking a cheery young man for a night's hospitality and superintending the stabling of his horse.

This portion of the colonel's dream was apt to be intermittent, with no ordered sequence of events worth mentioning, for now he stood with his back to an open fire and his hostess was on the stairs. There was a rustle of skirts in the hall and he had advanced a step toward the door and now stood with hand half raised, staring dumbly into the pained face of a woman with brown eyes; and in that surge of emotion, forgetting the blanch of his own face or the wonder of his host's.

The bountiful supper was a torture, and the endless winter evening, with the host rattling brainlessly of fields and stock and events, satisfied with abstract monosyllabic answers, was unbearable. A hundred times that sleepless, miserable night he checked an impulse to steal down the stairs and ride away with his misery, uncheered. He walked down in the first wan light of morning, but the man was there to meet him, goading his mind to frenzy with well-intended banalities. To go without breakfast was unheard of in the south? Would he thus injure the self-pride of his willing host? He must sit quietly while everything was done to speed him on his way. The host himself would—must—see to the saddling of his horse, and he was almost forced into a chair.

If only he had been spared that moment before the last, and yet, if he had missed it! when he stood facing that accusation that had been repeated with her heart throbs and that at last took words and fell upon him blameless, with a quaver more bitter than sobs, a bitterness that had remained with him until now, leavening his life and changing every attribute of youth.

"Why didn't you come? Oh, why didn't you come?" said the woman, whose lot it was to wait for his coming always.

And the man, her husband, stood aghast as his guest rode on his frantic mission straight away from Nashville, with never a glance in that direction or a word of farewell.

For the guest heard only the tread of his horse's feet on the frost-hardened road that intoned a question on his anguish-numbed mind, over and over again, and it grew loud and receded and grew loud and became a tapping on his office door; and he raised his head and looked straight into those brown eyes and that face, and heard a fresh young voice saying:

"Lieut. —— reports for duty," and he was on his feet, quickly grasping the lad by the arm.

"What is your name, boy, your name?"

And the bitterness was gone away forever.

Sig. Sugenio Padova's tradespeople will bless his memory. He was a rich Italian gentleman, who lived for years in Paris, and has just died, leaving an original but generous will. He bequeaths $600 to be divided among all the barbers who ever shaved him at a hair dresser's where he went regularly. Every waiter who served him in the restaurants in which he was accustomed to dine gets a legacy. He leaves money also to the clerks of the shops of which he was a regular customer, and to the servants of the clubs to which he belonged.

DESERTER GOT SAFELY AWAY.

Story of an Ingenious Escape from Governor's Island.

An army officer, who was talking of the escape a few days ago of a couple of prisoners from Castle William, told several stories of other attempts, frequently unsuccessful, to get away from Governor's Island.

"One of the most ingenious that I remember," he said, "took place a few years ago and succeeded beautifully. The man who escaped had been a barber before he entered the army, and his job at Castle William was to shave and cut the hair of the other prisoners. He managed to save enough of the clippings to make a false mustache. Then in some way—it's hard to tell how those things are contrived—he had a suit of plain clothes smuggled in to him. Still, he wasn't in any rash hurry to get away, but waited till a really good opportunity occurred. This came to him when a gang of plumbers were in the old fort making repairs. One evening he rigged himself up in his clothes and mustache and, picking up a couple of pieces of lead pipe and a forgotten solder pot, he walked leisurely out with the plumbers when they quit work. Right past the guard he went without being recognized, and, so far as I ever heard, he was not recaptured. I always thought that was a really clever escape—rather a theatrical one, too."

BROOM A RELIC OF THE PAST.

Modern Housekeeping Declared to Have No Longer Use for It.

The newest household invention, found only in the buildings most recently erected, is the vacuum cleaning system, says the Delineator. The broom is almost ready to be relegated to the glass case of a museum and labeled a tool of ancient household industry, for now we are sweeping by electricity. All the dust and dirt is actually pumped out from a house and, through pipes in the walls, carried to the sewer. A rubber hose in the room, adjusted to a connection in the wall, communicates directly with the pump in the basement. The metal tool with a narrow groove in the underside, at the other end of the hose, is easily guided by the operator as it passes over the surface of floors, walls, furniture, clothing or bedding, sucking up every foreign particle.

There have recently been invented portable vacuum machines which may be operated at an expense of two cents an hour. The latest one is just on the market at a cost of only $125.

"Hearing" of "Deaf Mutes."

Contrary to the general belief, nearly all deaf people, according to a foreign scientific magazine, can hear some sound, but, unlike the normal ear, the deaf ear hears only very deep sounds.

It happens that some of the lower animals hear only deep sounds; this is to be concluded from the fact that they do not seem to notice any other. The spider is of this class; since it does not possess hearing organs, it must get the sound by a process akin to touch. If this be the fact, could not deaf-mutes develop the power to "hear" more than they have heard up to the present time, asks the writer in the above magazine.

Death and Tired Legs.

Alpine climbing, long walking tours and similar fatiguing recreations may be suitable enough for those who keep in training all the year round but are disastrous for those whose ordinary exercise consists of a short daily walk.

I have often thought that the reason of the many mountaineering accidents which we read of lies in the inability of the muscles of the legs to retain that steadiness and firmness which climbing demands and which are soon lost in the absence of strenuous practice or in those who have never followed the sport seriously.—Cassell's Magazine.

Goosepits in Russia.

In Russia pits for cock fighting are unknown, but "goosepits" some 60 years ago were common throughout that mighty kingdom. The effect of this can be seen to-day in the geese which are indigenous to the country, the Arsamas and the Tula varieties particularly showing to a marked degree the fighting characteristics of their ancestors. The Arsamas gander has a bill which is entirely different in form from that of the geese known in any other part of the world. This special structure enables the bird to take a firm hold on the neck or back of its antagonist.

Scene and Circumstance.

When a noble act is done—perchance in a scene of great natural beauty; when Leonidas and his 300 martyrs consume one day in dying, and the sun and moon come each and look at them once in the steep defile of Thermopylae; when Arnold Winkelried, in the high Alps, under the shadow of the avalanche, gathers in his side a sheaf of Austrian spears to break the line for his comrades; are not these heroes entitled to add the beauty of the scene to the beauty of the deed?—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Cholly's Awful Mistake.

Marie—Wasn't it shocking about Cholly Worthington! He fell out of his new airship when it got stalled a half mile up in the air!

Lilly—How did Cholly come to fall?

Marie—He thought he was in his automobile and jumped out to push it back home!—Bohemian.

DOG WHIPS YOUNG LION; BEAST CAPTURED ALIVE

TRAPPER FINDS ANIMAL UNCONSCIOUS UNDER TREE AFTER FIGHT WITH CANINE.

Helena, Mont.—Frank Sedlak of Flathead county gives a most interesting account of an adventure which his dog had with a mountain lion, and which he managed to capture alive after a chase lasting three nights and two days.

While going over his line of traps he missed one of his dogs, and after a long search he came to the conclusion that he had been killed and devoured by a mountain lion.

While returning home he heard a howling quite a distance from the trail. He whistled and soon brought the missing dog to him. The appearance of the dog at once indicated that something unusual had been going on wherever the dog had been.

Instead of going home, he followed the dog over the trail the animal had made in coming to him after being called by the whistle. The dog led him to a big tree at which there was lying a young mountain lion with which the dog had evidently had a tussle. The lion had every appearance of being dead and showed the marks of the dog's teeth upon his neck. Sedlak supposed the lion was dead and was making arrangements to carry him home when the animal gave signs of restoration of life, and recovered so rapidly that he had to act very quickly in order to get a rope wound around him.

He at once conceived the idea of capturing the lion alive, and with this object succeeded in getting it to his cabin, at which place he made the lion fast in the stable.

For four days the lion refused to eat anything and evidently rebelled at its captivity. However, on the fifth he ate everything which was given to him, and has apparently recovered from the fight with the dog.

From the indications around the tree Mr. Sedlak thinks the dog had been fighting with the lion which he captured alive and also that there was another lion in the tree during that time, and that as soon as the dog left to answer the call of the whistle the lion which was up the tree came down and got away.

This is one of the few instances on record where a live lion has been taken, and if the dog had been engaged in the struggle as long as his master thinks he had been, it must have been a battle royal.

GUARDS HUBBY WITH GUN.

Bride of Seventy Defies Her Relatives to Separate Them.

Meriden, Conn.—To prevent her relatives from separating her from her husband, who is 30 years her junior, Mrs. Samuel A. Mallory, a bride of 70, has intrenched herself in her farmhouse at East Lyme, with a shotgun trained on the approach to drive back constables who are seeking to serve papers in a suit for the annulment of her marriage. So far none of them has tempted fate by crossing the line, and Mrs. Mallory is in possession of her husband.

The annulment suit was brought by Fred Leeds of Preston, who alleges Mallory became the fourth husband of his sister, not because he cherished any affection for her, but because he had a covetous eye on the $25,000 fortune she possessed. When it became known that Mallory and the widow were to marry strong efforts were made to prevent it, but without success.

Although the prospective bride was nearly twice as old as her prospective husband, both of them declared the affair was a love match, pure and simple, and that they would brook no interference with their plans. So they were married and would be living happily were not so much of the bride's time occupied in defending herself against the constables.

Girl Strips as She Skates.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Pearl White, 16 years old, one of the best roller skaters in the country, created a sensation on the north side the other morning by racing through the streets pursued by a policeman with a warrant.

Pearl was disrobing as she ran and was down to her underskirt when the blushing cop overhauled her and stopped the disrobing.

The skater came here from Monongahela City some time ago and is thought to have become deranged by overwork.

Y.M.C.A. BESTS TRENTON

Clinches Second Place in State League by Defeating Capitol City Nine.

THE SCORE WAS NINE TO SIX.

Three Trenton Pitchers Used in Effrot to Stop Opponents Run Geting at Crescent Oval Saturday.

The Trenton Y. M. C. A. nine started the season Saturday afternoon at Crescent Oval, with a defeat, and the local association team chinched second place in the Y. M. C. A. state league by administering that defeat. The score was 9-6. The Newark nine continued its 1,000 per cent. pace by trimming Summit, 7-3, and Orange won an uphill game from Elizabeth, 8-6.

The Trenton team has some good material, but the manager hasn't quite figured out where each member is best qualified to play. The experiments in the pitchers box meant runs for the local nine, although the game was not decided until the seventh, when three hits off Stewart and a base on balls brought three runs and the pitcher's retirement. Penrose, the first experiment, lasted one inning, and Slack, who succeeded Stewart showed the most speed.

Schoolboy playing marked the work of both nines. The Trenton outfielders took no pains to get under several short flies, though on one occassion three players collided in trying to nab the ball at the same time. Plainfield excelled on the bags, but four errors were tallied against each team.

The winners took the lead in the second, when three hits and a pass netted three runs. Another run was added in the third. Two in the sixth put Trenton in the lead, but Will Schoonmaker circled in the same session and the seventh proved the visitors' Waterloo.

Willing's heavy batting was a feature of the game, for he got a two-bagger and a three bagger out of four times at bat. Jacot made a two base hit in the fifth. Scott had his batting eye early in the game and planted out singles the first two times up. He later hit the wrong ball six times for two outs. His pitching was steady and he kept the hits scattered. He fanned seven and gave three passes. The details.

RANDOLPH'S PITCHING HOLDS DOWN WEST ENDS

Clifford Randolph was the king-pin of the show at Somerville on Saturday, when the Clinton Avenue ball team clashed with the West Ends for the first time this season. He was in rare form and allowed his opponents but one scratch hit. This, however, with some clever playing on the part of the county seat boys combined to give them their single tally in the fifth inning. Randolph held the West Ends safe at all times and he was given fine support, but two errors being charged against the Plainfielders.

Another big feature of the game was the home run drive of Barnes in the third inning. Kraft was pitching a good game, almost good enough to win under some circumstances. He blanked the Plainfield boys in seven innings, the score being a tie up to the ninth, when by a combination of a couple of hits and a couple of errors gave Plainfield two runs. Throughout the contest they were only able to gather five hits off of Kraft. The game was a fast and clean one throughout. The Plainfield boys were accompanied by a big crowd of rooters, who encouraged them by constant cheering. The same teams will meet here on July 11, when a large crowd is sure to be attracted to Crescent Oval. The score:

Who Won This Game?

The Benedicts and single men of Scotch Plains played a game of baseball Saturday afternoon for the borough championship. The contest was a nerve-racking one, especially for the score-keeper. The single men claim victory, while the married men are equally sure they won. There is some talk of a recount or another contest to decide the important question.

DUNELLENITES SWAMP A BOUND BROOK NINE

The Dunellen nine swamped the St. Joseph's team, of Bound Brook, in a one-sided game played at Dunellen Saturday afternoon. The final score was 12-6. Will Russell, on the slab for the winning team, pitched gilt-edged ball, fanning ten and giving but two bases on balls. His home run was a feature of the game.

Had Russell been given proper support, the score would have been 12-1 in favor of the Dunellenites, but the five errors were expensive and meant more in the run getting than did the seven hits off his delivery. Hawk secured four of the thirteen hits for the Dunellenties and fielded accurately. The summaries:

MANY PARTICIPANTS AT PARK GOLF CLUB

The largest field of the season was out at the Park Golf Club Saturday to take part in the many competitions scheduled for the day. Never before in the history of the club has the course been in better condition and the play was fast. There was unusual interest in the contests for the various challenge trophies, which promises to be a big feature of the club this year.

For challenge trophy number one. Charles B. Morse, challenger, defeated W. R. Faber, holder, by 3 up and 2 to play; for challenge trophy number 3, Dr. A. W. Anderson, challenger, defeated W. V. Byard, holder, by 4 up and 2 to play; for challenge trophy number 5, Leon R. Thurlow, challenger, defeated Dr. H. K. Carroll, holder, by 3 up and 2 to play.

Hydewood Park challenge trophy, Walter C. McNaughton, holder, challenged by Charles B. Morse; trophy number 2, W. R. Faber, holder, challenged by Dr. A. W. Anderson; trophy number 4, W. V. Byard, holder, challenged by Leon R. Thurlow.

In the weekly competition for the President's Golf Club and Summer cups these scores were returned:

Dr. A. W. Anderson, 98, 21-77; Charles A. Reed, 93, 8-85; Leon R. Thurlow, 101, 13-88; W. V. Byard, 101, 13-88; Charles B. Morse, 103, 14-89; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 104, 10-94; E. E. Gano, 101, 6-95; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 102, 5-97; A. W. Kenworth, 112, 15-97; W. R. Faber, 110, 12-98; J. B. Betts, 118, 20-98.

There was also the opening play for the Green committee cup, women's competition, nine holes, to be continued during June and July. The leading scores returned follow:

Miss May Shreve, 71, 12-59; Miss Harriet Shreve, 77, 18-59; Miss Lydie Loizeaux, 60, 0-60; Miss Grace Ten Eyck, 90, 25-65; Mrs. F. W. Jones, 93, 25-68.

BARROWS BREAKS COUNTRY CLUB GOLF COURSE RECORD

Dudley H. Barrows broke the course record at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, in competition for the Spring Handicap cup, Class A, when he returned a net score of 66. The previous best record in competition was a 72 made by Robert Abbott. Barrows played an exceptionally fast game, as indicated by his score. He went out in 36 and returned in 34. Coming home he had five 3s, showing that he was playing a steady and consistent game. His score of 66 is quite likely to remain the lowest for sometime, although there is no doubt but that many will try to beat it during the season.

FLEMINGTON SHUT OUT BY SCOTCH PLAINS NINE

The Scotch Plains baseball team continued its perfect record and winning streak Saturday by defeating the Flemington team at the latter place by a score of 5 to 0. It was the first defeat and shutout for the home team this season and the Hunterdon county seat folks have not recovered from the shock yet. Ortlieb, pitching for the 'Plains, was in great form, holding Flemington to three little hits. They could do nothing at all with his delivery.

On the other hand the 'Plains aggregation had its eye on the ball and gathered in eight singles for a total of twelve bases. The home team was so disheartened over the result of the contst that they want another game within a short time to retrieve lost honors. The score:

MONO A. C.'S DEFEAT EAST MILLSTONE; 10 INNINGS.

The Mono A. C. played the East Millstone team at the latter place, Saturday afternoon, defeating the locals after ten hard-fought innings. "Hub" Conover was in the best of condition and he held his opponents to four hits, while the Monos gathered ten singles off of Hockey. Conover also struck out eleven batsmen. The final score was 8 to 7.

The line-up:

MISS MILDRED WILDEY WINS STATE CONSOLATION SINGLES.

Miss Mildred Wildey won the title in the consolation round of women's singles at the Plainfield Country Club courts Saturday afternoon by defeating Mrs. A. H. Church 2-6, 6-1 and 6-3. In the early rounds, played during the week, Mrs. Church beat Miss Elizabeth Thomas, of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club in a three set match at Elizabeth Thursday. Miss Mildred Wildey defeated her sister, Miss Janet Wildey at the Country Club courts Friday afternoon after three sets, 6-3, 2-6 and 6-4.

The consolation tournament was between the four women put out of the East Jersey title play in the first round two weeks ago. As winner of the tournament, Miss Wildey will receive a silver cup.

Juniors Win by Big Score.

The Juniors defeated the Plainfield A. C., Saturday, on Hope Commons, by the overwhelming score of 10 to 3, the losing team being outclassed, but played a fair game. Van Arsdale and Dixon formed the battery for the winning team and Luthman and Clarke were in the points for Plainfield A. C.

P. H. S. Seniors Banquet.

Pupils of the class of 1908, Plainfield High School, gathered in the school gymnasium Saturday night for a class banquet, which proved a highly successful affair. William T. Lambert, president of the class, was toastmaster, and among the speakers were Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, Principal Ira W. Travell, Lindsey Best and Miss Mary E. Ferry, of the school faculty, with Miss Sara Sanderson, Miss Elsie Knowlton, Chauncey Murphey, Wallace Pierce, Walter Hammond, Orlando Lounsbury, Francis Foster, Percy Mygrant and Sallo M. Kahn. The banquet was by Mrs. H. L. Johnson and Miss Sanderson was chairman of the general committee in charge of the affair.

Miss Nicholl's Piano Recital.

Pupils of Miss M. Florence Nicholl gave a delightful piano recital at her studio in the Babcock building Saturday afternoon. They were assisted by Mrs. Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr., formerly contralto at the Presbyterian church, and Miss Helen M. Patterson, violiniste. The pupils who took part were the Misses Irene Cooper, Grace Thompson, Ethelwynn Walker, Margaret Russell, Ruth Hatfield, Marian Dorthy, Ada Woodworth, Gertrude Spalckhaver, Dorothy Beeken and Miss Bettman.

PAINTING TIME

Much time spent in painting is often wasted because the paint is bad and cracks, peels or rubs off before the season is over. It is false economy to use cheap paint, because the labor required to apply it costs as much or more than if good paint is used.

FORT HEADS DELEGATION

Jerseymen Choose Governor Chairman After Senator Declines Unanimous Election.

E. R. ACKERMAN NAMED KEAN.

Plainfielder the State's Member of Committee on Notification to Vice-Presidential Nominee.

Governor J. Franklin Fort has carried out his determination to be the chairman of the New Jersey delegation to the Republican National convention, the delegates at Chicago from this State having elected him at their headquarters in the Auditorium Annex yesterday afternoon. But this action was not taken until after United States Senator John Kean had been chosen to fill the position and had withdrawn for the sake of harmony, Fort, it is said, having given notice that the sore would not be healed for some time to come.

Senator Kean's name was placed in nomination by State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, amid great applause. United States Senator Kean, who was Governor Fort's rival for the chairmanship of the State delegation, after being declared elected accepted an honorary election as chairman and withdrew from the office.

Thomas Webb, one of the delegates from Essex county and a man who made one of Governor Fort's twelve votes out of the twenty-four in the Convention, decided late last night that he would like to visit Cincinnati Monday to attend his father and mother's fiftieth wedding anniversary. Mr. Webb had hardly left before the Kean forces, who thought they controlled twelve votes positively, and also Denman, Webb's alternate, started a movement to hold the caucus at the scheduled time yesterday afternoon, thus making certain Governor Fort's defeat.

Governor Fort served notice on them that if they carried out this program he for one was prepared to make trouble in every way he could, not only here but after he returned to New Jersey, and his friends in the delegation and out of it who are here backed him up.

As soon as the meeting started Senator Kean, it is said, sent word to Governor Fort that if he would consent to Kean's election as chairman of the delegation he would withdraw from the position and allow Mr. Fort to be elected. As the latter had enough votes to elect him, he agreed to this program in the interest of harmony, and Kean was first elected to the office, resigning to be succeeded by Governor Fort. During the morning the Governor consented to withdraw from the race if he was placed on the committee on resolutions, as he is said to be strongly opposed to any anti-injunction plank, and was prepared to send in a minority report on that feature in case it is incorporated in the program.

After the chairmanship had been disposed of, C. Ledyard Blair was unanimously chosen secretary of the delegation, and the committeemen were chosen as follows: Credentials, Senator Samuel K. Robbins; Rules and Order of Business, Colonel William Barbour; Permanent Organization, Joseph A. Dear; Resolutions, Thomas N. McCarter; Vice President, Dr. Leslie D. Ward; to notify President, F. W. Roebling; to notify Vice President, Senator E. R. Ackerman, and Member of National Committee, Franklin Murphy.

That New Jersey will not stand for the anti-injunction plank which President Rosevelt wants in the platform was made evident by the action of the delegates from that State in the caucus when, on motion of United States Senator Frank O. Briggs, the following resolution was adopted unanimously:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this committee that there shall be no plank in the platform in favor of the anti-injunction or any reference thereto."

The entire delegation is strongly opposed to such a plank, and this opposition has been strengthened by a large number of telegrams received from manufacturers in that State protesting against such a plank. Governor Fort, who served several years on the bench of the Supreme Court before election to the Governorship, is strongly opposed to the plank, and, although he is a warm admirer of the President and Mr. Taft, he is prepared to fight this feature of the platform on the floor of the Convention.

Another resolution adopted was introduced by Judge E. Ambler Armstrong, and read: "Resolved, that it is the sense of this delegation that the tariff plank in the Republican platform shall conform to the traditional policy of the Republican party."

AUTHORIZE BOND ISSUE FOR BRICK PAVE WORK

Through the amendment of an ordinance, offered by Councilman Frank Randolph, the Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night, authorized the issuance of $40,000 worth of bonds to cover the cost of the brick pavement, recently completed. This action was necessary because last year's Common Council failed to complete this part of the work, and as a result it was necessary to pass the amended ordinance authorizing the Council to date the proposed issue of bonds September 1, 1907. The issue is to be $40,000 coupon bonds of $1,000 denomination each, bearing 4½ per cent. interest and are to run from September 1, 1907 to September 1, 1924.

It was stated by Mayor Fisk, who was asked to explain the matter, that the city had borrowed $40,000 on temporary notes to cover the cost of the improvement, and when the issue of bonds was prepared and Delafield and Longfellow, the bond experts, were asked to pass on them, one or two irregularities were discovered and these had to be corrected before the city could offer them for sale. He said that he wanted it understood that it was not a new issue of bonds. Mr. Mygatt also explained the matter and added that the action had the approval of Corporation Counsel Marsh.

The ordinance as amneded was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised in the usual way.

MERCHANTS DESERT U. S. EXPRESS COMPANY

Complaining of the exorbitant charges of the United States Express Company in the transportation of goods to and from New York, the Plainfield Merchants' Association has inaugurated a system of delivery with the New York and Plainfield Transfer Company, whereby goods can be obtained just as quick and the charges are much less. The company which is composed of Robert Rittenhouse, of Elizabeth, and Charles C. Tompkins, of Roselle, will carry overland goods both ways between Plainfield and New York.

The New York office of the company is at 340 Canal street, and goods can be sent there for delivery in Plainfield or if notified by telephone the company will send for them and deliver them to any address here. Goods purchased in New York during the day will reach the purchaser early the following morning. The telephone call for the New York office is 757 Franklin. The local office is at Frank Rowley's store on West Front street.

It was announced today by the merchants association that the new arrangement is for the purpose of competing with the United States Express Company. The new company will charge forty cents for each one hundred pounds and for small packages from one to fifteen pounds the charge will be twenty cents. Although the service has been in operation but a week the company has been doing a good business and thus far has proved satisfactory.

In case the U. S. Express Company lowers its rates to meet those of the new company, the local merchants will not give their patronage to the old company, having pledged themselves to continue with the New York and Plainfield Transfer Company.

HOPE YOUNG MEN'S CLUB GIVES ENTERTAINMENT.

Under the auspices of the Young Men's Club, the Atlanta University quartet gave an excellent concert at Hope chapel, last night. It was well attended despite the opposition in the form of rain.

The quartet is composed of R. M. Smith, first tenor; F. V. Wilson, second tenor; W. H. Watson, first bass; E. S. Richardson, second bass. The program comprised plantation melodies, dialect readings and duets, each number being heartily applauded. In the course of the concert, W. B. Matthews, manager for the organization, told of the beginning and growth of Atlanta University and its needs.

The entertainment was in charge of the Young Men's Club social committee consisting of Peter C. Sweeney, chairman; Allen Snyder and John Slorah. The Ladies' Aid Society conducted a sale of ice cream and cake at the close of the program, those in charge including Mrs. George Rittenhouse, Mrs. George Leighs, Mrs. L. R. Howard, Mrs. William Jones, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Eckert and Mrs. W. Hughes.

—The street railway company has a large force of men at work on the new Fourth street turn-out, near Liberty street, in order to complete the job before the carnival crowds begin to use that line.

CARNIVAL OPENS TONIGHT

All Attractions in Readiness for the Firemen's Big Benefit.

TWENTY SHOWS ON GROUNDS.

Miss Mattie DeCamp Takes the Lead in the Voting Contest for the Queen— Miss Townley in Second Place.

Prevented from opening according to schedule because of yesterday's heavy rain but making good use of the extra time by adding finishing touches to everything, the Berger carnival company is in readiness for a big crowd at the firemen's benefit inaugural tonight. All the attractions are conveniently located on the grounds at Fourth street and Darrow avenue and hundreds of electric lights strung about will give the place a brilliant appearance. The firemen will have representatives at all shows and booths and the volunteers will exert themselves to the limit in securing patronage.

The attractions comprised in the assemblage number twenty in all, headed by Sig. Ferari's trained wild animal exhibition, practically a circus in itself. There are ten big acts on the program and all are the same as were seen with the show at The Jamestown Exposition last year. In other canvas auditoriums are attractions as varied as they are numerous and it will be a truly jaded Plainfielder who wont beable to find somefielder who wont be able to find some

A feature that is counted to be a big drawing card is the Firemen's "country store" where everything from the proverbial needle to an elephant may be obtained. Members of the department will be in charge each night and they will have a large corps of young women assistants in disposing of stock.

The carnival staff includes a concert band of fifteen pieces and music on the grounds will enliven the crowd. The band made a tour of the city by wagon this noon and serenaded The Daily Press office as well as a number of other places.

Manager "Sam" Haller expressed himself today as being greatly pleased with the prospect of success in Plainfield. The firemen's share of the proceeds will be added to their pension fund, maintained solely for the purpose of aiding sick and disabled members of the department or thier families. It is dependent upon general donations and a small assessments and at the present time the fund is not very large. Both Mr. Berger and Mr. Haller have had many years of experience in the carnival business and they assert without press agents' frills that the present combination is the best they have ever assembled.

Voting for the carnival queen still goes on with unabated interest and large numbers of ballots continue to be cast. Miss Mattie Decamp, the Jr. O. U. A. M. candidate forged ahead in today's count and now holds the lead with a total of 3,655 votes to her credit. There were 493 cast for her since yesterday noon. Miss Townley gained 247 over the previous count and is credited with 3,479. The other candidates' standing is as follows: Miss Hopewell, 2,730; Miss King, 2,427, and Miss Adams, 2,112.

Hungarian Assailed by Negroes.

Refusing to give up his muchcherished can of beer, a South Plainfield Hungarian was set upon and beaten by two negroes, while returning to his home Saturday night. The assailants wanted the liquid joy, but the Hungarian could not see it that way. After they knocked him down, they took the beer and made off with it. They gave their names as W. Casey and E. Boughton and said that their home was in Chicago. They were given fifteen days in the county jail to think it over.

Alfred Harsen Found Guilty.

Alfred Harsen, of Dunellen, who was implicated with another man in the stealing of several bicycles, was found guilty in the Union County Court this morning following a trial which began yesterday. The jury recommended that mercy be shown the prisoner in the sentence. Harsen, shortly after his arrest, tried to hang himself at police headquarters. He declared himself to be innocent and that the disgrace was more than he could bear.

Frank Marrell.

Frank Marrell, the infant son of Thomas and the late Rosa Marrell, died yesterday at the father's home on Hunter avenue, Scotch Plains. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock and burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Hohnan, of West Sixth street, are entertaining relatives from Worcester, Mass.

REV. P. A. PARSONS TO GO

Resignation of the Christian Church Pastor Reluctantly Accepted.

NO SUCCESSOR YET CHOSEN.

Retiring Pastor Will Teach in a Westren University After His Book Is Published.

After serving as pastor of the Christian church on Grove street for the past four years, Rev. Phil A. Parsons has resigned and will become professor of philosophy at the Christian University at Canton, Ohio, a year from this fall. His resignation has been accepted, but no successor has been named as yet. A farewell reception will be tendered in his honor Thursday night at the church. He will be in charge of the service at the North Plainfield church for the last time Sunday, and will preach his farewell sermon at the morning service.

Upon leaving his work as head of the local church, Mr. Parsons will go to his home in Hamilton, Illinois, for the summer. He is an enthusiastic student of sociology and is preparing a book on "Responsibility for Crime," which will be published within a year. He is a graduate of Columbia University, where he received an "A. B." in 1904, and "A. M." the following year. He will receive his degree as Doctor of Philosophy from the same university in the fall.

Genuine regret is felt in the congregation at the leaving of the pastor, who has been a powerful factor in the growth of the Grove street church during the four years he has been in charge. Within a few weeks he will leave for the West and will spend the summer at his parents' home at work upon his book.

BOY PRISONER TELLS OF RELATIVE'S CRUELTY

Arraigned in the city court, this morning, on a charge of stealing Druggist B. J. Schreiner's bicycle, William Bremer, a boy less than fourteen years old, told a story that softened the judicial temperament of Judge Runyon and induced the owner of the wheel to withdraw his complaint. Disposition of the case was laid over to Saturday morning and the boy was released in his own recognizance until then.

In telling why he had taken the bicycle, Bremer declared he had been cajoled into doing it by two other boys with whom he is but slightly acquainted but who are known to the police. His mother stood beside him while he was addressing the magistrate and through a remark made by her it was brought out that he has had a very hard time of it in his few years of life. Prompted by the judge he told between sobs that he had been working since his father died three years ago, most of the time for an uncle who had abused him cruelly.

"He beat me most all the time," the boy said, "and only two weeks ago he struck me on the knee with the butt end of a whip. The lump is there yet and it pains me very much."

The mother corroborated his statements and added that she had recently placed the boy with George Meisner, of Terrill road, and that he was doing very nicely there. The uncle spoken of lives in the same neighborhood. Judge Runyon gave the prisoner a kindly talking to and told him on account of the "hard row he had to hoe" and his previous good record he was not inclined to treat him harshly. It is probable that he will be indefinitely paroled.

Netherwood Camp Fete.

An open air fete and bazaar will be held at the grounds of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp July 4, and the metropolitan campers will come here for the summer Monday, July 6. Miss Florence G. Hawkins, who has been named as chairman of the committee in charge of the fete, will be assisted by Mrs. Benjamin Hadley and Mrs. George, and the plans are now well under way. To facilitate transportation to the camp, several persons interested in the camp have offered their automobiles, and the machines will run from the trolley at Woodland avenue and East Seventh street to the fair grounds during the entire afternoon and evening

St. Mary's Graduation Exercises.

The graduation exercises of the Commercial department and Eighth Grammar of St. Mary's Parochial school will be held in the school hall next Monday night at 8 o'clock. Three hundred invitations have been issued to the parents and friends of the pupils.

OBJECT TO A GAS TANK

Councilmanic Committee Not Satisfied with P.S.C. Plans to Erect Another Tank.

MANY PETITIONS CONSIDERED.

Fire Department Supplies and Repairs—Permit Alterations at Reform Hall.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Common Council met last night for the third time this month there seemed to be plenty of business to be considered and it was nearly 10 o'clock when an adjournment was taken until Monday night, June 29, when bids for the several issues of bonds will be received. President Tolles and Councilmen Taylor, Gloak, Frank Randolph, Mygatt, Hall and Suydam comprised the seven members present.

Regarding the protest of Charles H. Hand against the plan of the P. S. C. to erect a gas tank on Watchung avenue, Mr. Suydam moved that the same be filed, and he explained that the fire and building committee is not satisfied with the plans and has requested the company to present others showing the elevation.

Regarding the petition of Andrew Vanderbeek and A. L. Force pertaining to the removal of the iron railing protecting the entrance to the cellar of the Vanderbeek building at North and Park avenues, Mr. Gloak chairman of the street committee, reported that after a thorough investigation and a report from Corporation Counsel Marsh, the committee had been unable to learn that any permission had ever been given to place the railing there, as mentioned in the petition, upon the advice of Mr. Marsh the petition to have it remain, was denied on motion of Mr. Gloak.

The petition stated that the permission referred to was granted during the term of the late Mayor G. W. Rockfellow, about twenty-five years ago, but Mr. Marsh stated that if such permission was given by him he had no right to do so and it should be rescinded. The railing is a safe-guard for pedestrians at that point and as stated in the petition it would be almost impossible to close the entrance to the cellarway there as it affords the only one to the basement under the drug store from outside and is used as an entrance for the newsboys and regular carriers who carry The Daily Press. The removal of the railing is likely to render that point a more dangerous one as the iron doors cannot be kept closed all the time.

Mr. Gloak also reported back the petitions of property-owners to have Union street macadamized, and instructed the clerk to inform them that if they will advance their share of the expense for the work, which in one case amounts to $1,060 and the other $680, the Common Council may consider the improvement.

Several resolutions were offered by Mr. Suydam, in the absence of the chairmen of the committees having the matters in charge, and they were adopted. One authorized the building inspector to grant W. J. Counihan permission to make alterations and repairs to Reform Hall, according to the plans presented, it being his idea to transform the hall into a vaudeville theatre. Another one authorized the location of three two-way hydrants, one at Woodland avenue and East Seventh street, the other at Lennox avenue and Loraine road and the third at Cameron avenue and Loraine road, in accordance with petitions received from property owners.

Other resolutions offered by Mr. Suydam and adopted, authorized the city clerk to advertise for bids for furnishing the fire department with one hundred tons of coal, the bids to be opened Monday night, July 6. The fire and building committee was authorized to have the roofs of the fire headquarters' building and No. 3 house painted at an expense not to exceed $60, and the same committee was authorized to purchase 500 tons of hay at $20 a ton and 300 bushels of oats at sixty cents a bushel for the fire department, while repairs to No. 2 hose wagon were authorized at an expense not to exceed $10. The repairs consist of cutting down and resetting the tires.

Time New Jersey Acted.

The action of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, in Brooklyn, sustaining the judgment of Justice Dickey, that the Osteopaths are qualified physicians, indicates the trend of legislation regarding Osteopathy. Since the legislation of last year, recognizing Osteopaths, the tendency has been for those unable to come up to the requirements to flock into New Jersey, and it is therefore evident that action must be taken by the State to regulate the practice of Osteopathy.

PUBLIC HEARING ON SEWAGE AGREEMENT

Believing that the time is opportune for a free and full discussion of the matter of allowing North Plainfield to connect with the city's system of sanitary sewers, Mr. Mygatt at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, offered a resolution which was adopted, fixing Monday night, July 13, as the time when a public hearing will be granted and an effort will be made to secure the attendance of every person interested in the proposition. The action was the result of that taken by the North Plainfield Sewage Commission, which requested the Common Council to fix and determine upon plans and the price for caring for the borough sewage for a term of years. The public hearing is fixed for the purpose of ascertaining whether it would be advisable for the city to enter into such a contract with North Plainfield.

The borough commission has for some time been quite anxious that the Common Council should take this matter up and settle it one way or the other and Mr. Mygatt, as well as the other members feel that the date fixed upon will be a convenient time to discuss the problem. The resolution offered by Mr. Mygatt followed an executive session of nearly three-quarters of an hour, and it was the unanimous opinion that the action was timely. It is the desire that as much publicity as possible be given to the proposed hearing so that everyone interested may have an opportunity to express an opinion.

"TED" CLEVELY ENDS LONG BUSINESS CAREER

Announcement was made today that E. H. Clevely, North avenue's pioneer quick lunch man, who is best known to his patrons and friends as "Ted," has sold his extensive restaurant and confectionery business to Patrick J. Melvin, who has been his manager for the past fourteen years. The change in ownership will take place next Sunday but the new proprietor is already receiving the congratulations of hosts of well wishers.

Mr. Clevely first began the business in the center store of the three it now occupies on North avenue twenty years ago. He succeeded "Ted" Dunn, with whom he had been associated and with whom he inaugurated what is known as "quick lunch." Through methods of which he was the originator the place became a very popular resort and every year saw a great increase in patronage. Mr. Clevely devoted his entire time to the supervision of the business and he retires at this time in order to enjoy a well-earned rest. He has planned to go to Florida for an extended stay and while there may inspect orange and lemon groves with a view to purchasing an interest in some of them.

Mr. Clevely's successor, "Pat" Melvin, has absorbed the genial ways of his former employer and starts in with every prospect of enjoying the success that preceded him. He is thoroughly acquainted with the various phases of the restaurant and quick lunch trade and will continue the policy that made "Ted's" place one of the most popular in town. James McDonough will be his main assistant.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF THE Y. M. H. A. BIBLE SCHOOL.

The Young Men's Hebrew Association Bible School held its closing exercises for the season in the local Synagogue Sunday. The examination of the pupils was in charge of Rev. Dr. I. L. Bril, of New York, each class being examined separately. Prizes were awarded to those having the highest average. Speeches were made by Rabbi M. Davidson, of this city; Henry Rosenbaum, M. Andrew and Meyer Molodysky, of this city.

Samuel Rothberg in behalf of the association presented to Harry Feinberg a beautiful loving cup in appreciation of his faithful services in making the Bibles chool a success. He accepted the same with a few words of response, thanking the donors. The school was opened November 17 with an enrollment of twenty-eight and today there are 178 children on the roll with an average atendance of 110. The school will reopen on a much larger scale in the fall. A feature of the exercises Sunday was the singing by the pupils.

In the City Court.

William Finnigan, a travelling man, was arrested late last night for causing a disturbance at the Hotel Iroquois through losing his bearings. He was arraigned in court this morning but the matter was adjourned until tomorrow to give him a chance to get some witnesses.

G. O. P. IN CONVENTION

National Chairman New Introduces Burrows as the Temporary Chairman.

NOW "TAFT AND FAIRBANKS."

Chicago, June 16.—The Republican National convention was called to order at noon by Harry S. New, of Indiana, chairman of the Republican National Committee. Bishop P. J. Muldoon, of Chicago, offered prayer and then there was a presentation of a gavel to Chairman New. The call for the convention was read by Elmer Dover, of Ohio, secretary of the Republican National Committee.

After the introduction of the temporary chairman by Chairman New an address was made by Temporary Chairman Senator Julius C. Burrows, of Michigan. The presentation of a gavel to the temporary chairman followed. After the election of temporary officers the selection of committees on permanent organization, rules and order of business, credentials and resolutions took place.

The five most imporant planks of the Republican platform formulated by President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft, and now in the possession, for consideration, of members of the resolutions committee of the national convention, are hereby given. They are the planks on trusts, anti-injunction, railroad rate, tariff revision and currency.

The anti-injunction plank is as follows:

"We declare for such an amendment of the statutes of procedure in the federal courts with respect to the use of writ of injunction as will on the one hand, prevent the summary issue of such orders without proper consideration, and, on the other, will preserve undiminished the power of the courts to enforce their process, to the end that justice may be done at all times and to all parties."

Over this plank there is a very sharp contest. The labor leaders are urging it adoption and hundreds of telegrams are pouring in from manufacturers and other employers of labor apposing the measure.

The following is the tariff revision plank:

"The Republican party declares unequivocally for a revision of the tariff by a special session of Congress immediately following the inauguration of the next President, and commends the steps already taken to this end in the work assigned to the appropriate committees of the two houses which are now investigating the operation and effect of existing schedules. In all tariff legislation the true principle of protection is best maintained by the imposition of such duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to American industries, and the benefits that follow are best secured by the establishment of maximum and minimum rates, which shall be applied automatically to the trade of other countries in accordance with their treatment of our trade. The minimum should represent the normal measure of protection required for the benefit of our own industries. The aim and purpose of the Republican policy is not only to preserve, without execessive duties, that security against foreign competition to which American manufacturers, farmers and producers are entitled, but also to maintain the high standard of living of the wage earners of this country, who are the most direct beneficiaries of the protective system. Between the United States and the Philippines we believe in a free interchange of products, with such limitations as to sugar and tobacco as will avoid injury to domestic interests."

The anti-injunction plank prepared by the Administration was subjected to a severe cross-fire all of today. While Speaker Cannon and other conservatives were endeavoring to line up delegates against it on the ground that it went too far, Samuel Gompers and the labor leaders were emphatic in declaring it did not go far enough.

The slate for nominations remains unchanged since Saturday. It is Taft and Fairbanks unless the convention can be stampeded into renominating the President. In that event the ticket will be Roosevelt and Fairbanks. The Vice-President is to be placed in nomination in the convention and permitted to have his complimentary vote recorded. But it is reported on high authority that he has been persuaded to accept a renomination for second place.

Have You a Summer Stove?

The stifling air of a close kitchen is changed to comfortable coolness by installing a New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove to do the family cooking.

No kitchen furnishing is so convenient as this stove. Gives a working heat at once, and maintains it until turned out—that too, without overheating the room. If you examine the

NEW PERFECTION

you will see why this is so. The heat from the chimney of the "New Perfection" is concentrated under the kettle and not dissipated through the room by radiation. Thus it does the work of the coal range without its discomfort. Ask your dealer about this stove—if not with him, write our nearest agency.

The Rayo Lamp is a very handsome piece of housefurnishing and gives a clear, powerful light more agreeable than gas or electricity. Safe everywhere and always. Made of brass finely nickel plated—just the thing for the living-room. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

WESTFIELD CLERGYMAN TO BE TRIED ON JUNE 24.

George A. Francis, once pastor of the Westfield Baptist church, was arraigned before Judge Atwater Saturday charged with having obtained a power of attorney on some property from Jack Capitelli, of Westfield, through false pretenses, and having converted it to his own use. The indictment charges also that he obtained execution on the property involved with "intent to cheat and defraud." Mr. Francis entered a plea of not guilty and the bail of $2,000 which he has been under since the charges were preferred was continued. William E. Tuttle, Jr., is his bondsman. The trial was fixed for June 24. The property involved is valued at $2,500.

The success of the Plainfield baseball teams this year is enough to satisfy the most rabid crank. On Saturday Clinton Avenue trimmed the West Ends, of Somerville, by a score of 3 to 1; Y. M. C. A. triumphed over the Trenton Association by a score of 9 to 6; the Mono A. C. defeated East Millstone by a score of 8 to 7, ten innings, while Scotch Plains shutout Flemington 5 to 0.

On Saturday the Juniors will journey to East Millstone and try conclusions with the Somerset county boys. East Millstone is playing a fast game this season and an opposing nine has to play the best they know how to beat the aggregation.

Somerville will be here on Saturday, July 11, when the Clinton Avenues hope to again score a victory.

Catcher Bowerman will be lost to Joe Kelley for two weeks. A foul tip from Harry Steinfeldt's bat recently split the middle finger of his right hand to the knuckle.

Charles Webb Murphy, who is not a little worried over his pitching staff, has signed Mack, a Syracuse University flinger. He will join the Cubs in two weeks.

Manager Griffith has suspended Pitcher Hogg without pay. The latter has refused to get into condition.

The White Sox have released Hub Hart, their extra catcher. Hart has been with Chicago four years, but with Sullivan doing all the work, he had no chance to show the qualities which it is asserted he possesses.

Shaughnessy, Mack's new outfielder, is a collegian. He played on the University of Illinois team in the days of Jake Stahl.

Mike Mitchell, who was the sensation of the Cincinnati team last year, has been doing weak willow work this season. Other Reds, however, are batting so hard that the team is high in the race.

It was not so much Joe McGinnity, but that $5,000 salary that major league teams wouldn't take a chance on.

Joe Cantillion has notified Jesse Tannehill that he will instantly release him if he does not show proper ambition.

Osborne is hardly graceful in his operations on the sack. One day last week he actually slid on his ear into second base, and the throw was not made to that bag, either.

Sherwood Magee is hiting the ball as hard as he ever did, but he can't get them safe. Some of these days he will start to push them in vacant spots of the field.

Now that Corridon has shown that he is in shape for regular hill duty, it's up to Manager Murray to give $7,000 Brown a trial.

Joe Doyle did not make the trip West with the Highlanders, because he has a sore arm. Griffith is hard put for pitchers.

Bill McCloskey has two great young outfielders in Murray and Delehanty. The former can field as well as bat.

Billy Gilbert is still as lively as a cricket around the second base spot, but one wonders why McCloskey doesn't find room in his infield for Charles, the former Williamsport star.

GOLF.

The standing for the various trophies offered in competition at the Park Golf Club is as follows: President's cup—C. A. Reed, 5 points; W. R. Faber, 3½; W. C. McNaughton, 3; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 3; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 3. Golf Club cup—Charles A. Reed, 6 points; W. R. Faber, 4½; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 3; E. E. Gano, 2 1-3; Charles B. Morse, 2; W. C. McNaughton, 2; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 2. Summer cup—W. V. Byard, 7½ points; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 6; Charles B. Morse, 5½; W. C. McNaughton, 5; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 5.

In the opening play for the Green committee cup, women's competition, nine holes, at the Park Golf Club, Saturday, the Misses Shreve each won 2½ points and Miss Loizeaux received one point.

It is the general opinion that never before in the history of the Park Golf Club has the course been in such fine condition. A great deal of time has been spent on it this season and the result is most satisfactory to the members. It permits fast playing even by the less experienced and low scores are the rule these days.

Dudley H. Barrows' record score of 66 for the Plainfield Country Club made in competition on Saturday, is likely to remain the lowest score for the present. His work on the course this year has been steady and consistent.

Conflicting golf attractions are on the tapis for this week—the seventh annual championship tournament of the Hudson River Golf Association at the Briarcliff Golf Club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, the invitation tournament of the Nassau Country Club on Friday and Saturday, and the annual gathering of the East Jersey Golf League at the Forest Hill Field Club, also on Friday and Saturday. As these competitions, especially the Hudson River and the East Jersey, are interesting more particularly to certain localities, it cannot be said that the conflict is likely to work any hardship.

Quick action is promised at Nassau, where the contestants on Friday morning will qualify in six eights for the Nassau Country Club, North Country, Red Spring, Dosoris, Overlook and Mill Neck cups respectively. The first round will be played that afternoon, with the semi-final and final rounds the following day. There will also be an eighteen-hole medal play handicap on Saturday. It is quite probable that Walter J. Travis and Findlay S. Douglas will compete.

Union County Politics.

It is evident already that Union County politics will be of the mixed variety next fall, with a strong flavoring of the "new idea" principles. The renomination of Senator Ernest R. Ackerman is foreshadowed, and his re-election is likely to follow. Senator Ackerman was not a "new idea" man nor did he follow the "new idea" example in the Legislature as often as he might have done with credit. He did not vote for the public utilities bill with ratemaking power, but in most other respects he was a fair-minded, reliable lawmaker, with views and conclusions of his own, independent of the bosses. The general opinion in Union County is that Assemblyman Carlton B. Pierce, of Cranford, should be renominated and re-elected, because of his independence and good judgment. It is significant, however, that nothing is heard about renominating Kirstein, of Rahway, and that already two Republicans in Elizabeth are hot foot after the place in which Assemblyman Moxon wabbled around during the session of the last Legislature. As Rahway has practically all to say about the assemblyman from that section of the county, and is not very particular, Kirstein may get a renomination, but it seems likely that Moxon will have a fight on his hands. He ought not to be sent back to the Legislature.—Newark News.

Ackerman's Candidacy.

Senator Ernest R. Ackerman, of Union county, who was disinclined to become a candidate for a second term, has finally decided to accept a renomination if his party desires it, and there is no opposition. Mr. Ackerman has been an industrious, painstaking and conscientious Senator and belongs to the class of men who should be kept in the Legislature. Another man who deserves the same consideration is Mark A. Sullivan, of Hudson County, who is one of the ablest in the prest House. While he is hesitating about neglecting his law business, it is said he is to be renominated; which means that he will be re-elected.—Trenton Times.

—The regular run of the Plainfield Cycling Club to Newark on Sunday, by way of Elizabeth was attended by twenty members. After dinner at Newark they went to the Veledrome where two of their members competed in the races. They came back by the way of Springfield. No accidents of any account were reported.

NEWLY ELECTED BISHOP COMES HERE ON SUNDAY

Rev. Dr. W. F. Anderson, the first of the eight bishops chosen at the recent eneral Conference of the M. E. church at Baltimore, last month, will preach in the First M. E. church, Sunday night, and the pastor, Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, has invited the members of race and the Monroe Avenue M. E. churches to attend this service.

Bishop Anderson was not only the first of the new bishops to be elected, but he received the highest number of votes for the office. He is considered one of the strongest men in the denomination. He was born in West Virginia and after completing his college course entered Drew Seminary, from which institution he was graduated also. After that he joined the New York Conference and in succession received prominent appointments, being pastor of the Newburg M. E. church, the Washington Square church, New York, and the denominational church at Ossining, N. Y.

In 1900 he was appointed recording secretary of the Board of Education of the denomination with offices in New York and at the General Conference in 1904 was made corresponding secretary of the Board of Education, which position he held with credit until made a Bishop. He is a man of pronounced executive ability and thoroughly acquainted with every phase of the denominational work. He was scheduled to speak at the last session of the Newark Conference, but was prevented. Dr. McCrea considers himself fortunate in being able to secure his presence here on Sunday.

Pianist Found Dead.

Trenton, June 16.—Charles Arnold Khune, a pianist of considerable local repute, was found dead in his lodging house here today, and is supposed to have been lying there a corpse since last Thursday, when he disappeared. It was not unusual for him to be away for a week at a time, and his absence was not noted until a smell coming from his room led to an investigation. His body was found badly decomposed. He was badly hurt in an automobile accident about two years ago, and since then had been subject to fainting spells. It is supposed he died in one of these. His father lives at 32 St. Nicholas place, New York city.

Presiding Elder May Live Here.

Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph, the new presiding elder of the Elizabeth district, is quite likely to become a resident of Plainfield. His home has been at Paterson, where he previously held a charge, but as presiding elder his work brings him more in this part of the State. For this reason he is considering the advisability of moving to this city. The pastors of the local Methodist churches are also anxious to have him locate here. The matter will be decided within a few days.

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS TO GRADUATE 74 PUPILS

Seventy-four local grammar school pupils, of whom forty-four are girls, will receive diplomas as graduates at the commencement exercises of the city grammar schools to be held at the Stillman school tomorrow afternoon. The presentation of diplomas will be by Leander N. Lovell, president of the Board of Education, and Superintendent Henry M. Maxson will make a short address to the graduating class. The principal address will be by William D. Murray, and the program will include choruses by the graduating class, selections by a girls' chorus, a recitation and a piano duet. Miss Helen Louise Ryder, one of the graduates, will read an essay, the subject of which is "The Gathering of the Clans." The list of graduates follows:

BLOW TO PIER OWNERS.

Errors Court Decides Only One Admission Fee is Legal.

Trenton, June 16.—Atlantic City's pier owners received a severe shock in the Court of Errors yesterday, when an opinion was handed down directing that they shall charge only a single entrance fee for whatever attractions they choose to provide. And this means that only one fee of ten cents can be exacted, no matter haw many different shows and exhibitions are crowded on a pier. Heretofore the owners have collected separate admissions for half a dozen or more amusement features, some of which have been so arranged that reserved seats were sold after patrons had already paid to get in.

It was in the suit of Atlantic City against the Associated Realties Company that the decision was presented. In the Chancery Court it was decided that the covenant with the city, under which it was agreed that only a single admission to the piers might be charged, was not actually being violated in separate charges for various attractions. The covenant reads that the pier owners "be confined to charging only an entrance fee."

There is no likelihood, however, that the piers will be abandoned or that there will be any material changes in the grade or character of the pier attractions. The only possible effect the opinion may have is that the number of different features may be cut down to more nearly meet the income from a single charge of ten cents.

SUICIDE IN BARROOM.

Butcher Drinks Carbolic Acid from Whiskey Glass.

Elizabeth, June 16.—Harry Trainer, 25 years old, employed as a butcher by Charles Schwartz, of Cranford, who boarded at Serpicos Hotel, 1175 Elizabeth avenue, this city, committed suicide last night in William Beehmer's saloon at 12 West Grand street, by drinking a whiskey glass full of carbolic acid. His motive is not known.

"Here's my regards," he said to a number of friends who were with him at th ebar, as he raised the glass of poison to his lips.

Swallowing the contents, he fell prostrate upon the floor. He died in the ambulance on his way to the General Hospital.

point a committee of five to effect an organization to further Mr. Murphy's candidacy for the Vice-Presidency. Governor Fort named Representatives H. C. Loudenslager and John J. Gardner, Alfred N. Dalrymple, Quartermaster General C. Edward Murray and E. C. Stokes. Mr. Loudenslager asked to be relieved and George Gonzales, of Hudson county, was named in his place, while Representative Gardner was made chairman.

Another committee, consisting of Governor Fort, Senators Frelinghuysen and Ackerman and John H. Capstick, called upon General Stewart L. Woodford, of New York, to see what chances Mr. Murphy had there. General Woodford said that if New York could not land first place he had a half a dozen candidates for second and that they would probably try to get that as "a consolation prize."

Dr. Leslie D. Ward, of Essex county, gave a dinner last night for the New Jersey delegates and alternates and about fifty other friends from different parts of the country, to help along the Murphy boom. Mr. Murphy, Governor Fort and others made brief speeches.

LOSING HER FAITH IN DEATH ANGEL.

Passaic, June 16.—At the General Hospital it is now believed that Mrs. Anna Kiselcia, the widow who dreamed that she was going to die yesterday morning, will entirely recover. This morning she awoke in better condition than at any time since being admitted to the hospital, and she asked to be allowed to leave bed. She was little inclined to talk, but ate a hearty breakfast without uttering a word.

At her owne request Mrs. Kiselcia was allowed to do some light work about the hospital. Yesterday afternoon she started a conversation on religious matters, and said she was disappointed in not having been carried away at the time God promised to take her. The nurses stopped her talk, but she evidently thought a great deal over what she considered her disappointment. Late in the afternoon she became weak again and had to be put back to bed, where she became silent.

The nurses think she is growing stronger in mind and are keeping her perfectly quiet. Unless the relapse of yesterday afternoon does not ebcome serious Mrs. Kiselcia will not be removed to the insane asylum. Se is eating well and sleeping soundly.

OFFERS SALARY TO CHARITY.

Ex-Sheriff Thropp Makes Bid for Another Election.

Trenton, June 16.—Eager to take another try at the office, former Sheriff Thomas H. Thropp, of this city, announced yesterday that if he should be elected next fall he would devote the whole of his three years' salary, $16,500 in all, to the three hospitals of the city—St. Francis, Catholic, and McKinley and Mercer, Protestant institutions. He offers to deposit a bond for $15,000 to guarantee his faithful performances of the duties required. The only requirement which he tacks to his unique proposition is that Under Sheriff Harry Holden shall be continued as his deputy, and that the party taking him up as a candidate shall not ask him to make any campaign speeches.

Ex-Sheriff Thropp has been prominent in Republican politics for years. In addition to having served one term as Sheriff, he was also County Collector. In those days the Sheriff received fees instead of a salary. Fellow-politicians do not know what to make of Thropp's offer, and he will make no explanation other than to say that the proposition is a bona fide one, and he is ready to file his bond at any time.

THIEVES INFEST BAYONNE.

Bayonne, June 16.—The police today scoured the city for a man and woman who robbed George J. Donegan, a furniture dealer, of 696 Broadway, of $90, and burglars who got several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry from the residence of Dr. George W. Mellor, a dentist, of 899 Avenue C. The man and woman called upon Donegan and said they wanted to fit out a boarding house. While Donegan was showing the man the gods upstairs the woman slid behind the office counter on the lower floor, used a key to open each drawer and took the money. She didn't bother with the silver or checks.

Dr. Mellor and his wife were out when their house was robbed, and several neighbors were on their porches. The thieves ransacked the house from top to bottom, but didn't bother about the silver. They got away with a $250 diamond pin belonging to Mrs. Mellor and took all the gold—$40 worth—which the dentist had bought to fill teeth with. A gold watch and numerous other pieces of jewelry were taken.

TELEPHONE DIRECTORY IN TWO VOLUMES NOW

Thes New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, announces that the new summer telephone directory, the distribution of which will soon begin, is issued in two volumes instead of one. The number of telephone subscribers in the metropolitan area has become so large that the complete telephone directory of this area is a book nearly one foot square, with over 800 pages, and weighing three pounds, and the companies have worked out a plan of dividing this directory into smaller volumes which will be more convenient for subscribers.

Subscribers in this territory will receive volume No. 1, New York City Directory, which will contain the listings of telephone subscribers in the five boroughs of New York city: Manhattan, the Bronx, Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond; volume No. 2, a complete list of all subscribers in the company's New Jersey territory arranged in one alphabetical list, together with an alphabetical list of the subscribers in Rockland and Westchester counties, New York. In addition to these books, subscribers will receive a small local list printed with very legible type and numbers.

Another new feature of this directory is the elimination of the local town headings in the suburban book, all subscribers in any suburban section, such as New Jersey, for instance being listed in one alphabetical listing group. It is felt that this method will be a great improvement over the old way of listing subscribers of each little town under the town heading.

The total number of books of the summer edition of telephone directories, for all divisions, will number about 1,011,000, enough books to fill over 50 freight cars.

ELECTRIC TRAIN IN USE.

Lehigh Valley Adopts Motor Car Generating Its Own "Juice."

The steam "shuttle" train, which has been running between South Plainfield and Perth Amboy, was relegated to the andedeluvian exhibit yesterday, and the electric motor train took its regular run. The motor car, as it is called, has been carefully experimented with by the Lehigh Valley railroad officials for some time past and is now running on a twenty-five minute schedule over the nine mile line.

The power is generated for the motor by a gas engine, placed in the rear vestibule of the single car, which is slightly shorter than a railroad coach. It accommodates forty-four passengers and has a compartment for baggage. The running time, twenty-five minutes, is the same as that of the steam "shuttle."

New Idea Meeting Tonight.

The Plainfield New Idea Republicans will meet tonight at the Coward building in Park avenue near Front street to effect a permanent organization. Officers will be chosen and plans will be made for the coming campaign. All Independent Republicans, according to te call, are invited to be present.

Heptasophs at Somerville.

A delegation from Protective Conclave, No. 505, of this city, in company with Supreme Committeeman J. V. E. Vanderhoef, went to Somerville last night and conferred the degree on four candidates. Supper was served at the close of the ceremonies to the visiting members.

Miss Antoniette D. Hill, of the junior class of Barnard College, Columbia Uunivesity, has returned to her home, 740 Belvidere avenue, for the summer vacation.

EXCELLENT MUSIC AT P.H.S. PUPILS' CONCERT

A concert comprising choruses by the student body of the Plainfield High School, assisted by vocal and instrumental selections by nine well-known musicians, won the keenest appreciation at the school auditorium last night, when, despite the storm, an appreciative audience was in attendance. Charles L. Lewis, as singing instructor at the school, acted as conductor and Miss Mabel Maxson was the accompanist. The chorus comprised about seventy-five pupils and the five numbers by the school showed excellent training and appreciation.

Those who assisted in the program were Miss Anna Lucretia Case, soprano; Miss Maida Hyde, soprano; Miss Frances VanDeventer, contralto, Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson, violinist; Miss Mabel Maxson, pianist and accompanist, George Bemus, basso; A. A. Farland, banjoist; and Clifford Braider, accompanist. Especially successful was the singing of Mr. Bemus, who is a member of the Lotus Glee Club. He sang the "Song of Hybreas the Cretan," "I Love Thee" and "Phosphorescence," and as encores gave several comic songs, Irish and Japanese. A. A. Farland, the banjoist, who has been in this city before, won hearty applause by his playing. His selection, "Alice, where art thou going," was particularly well done, and as an encore he demonstrated what could be produced on a banjo in the way of tone, without the snap and rattle generally characterizing banjo playing. Miss Case sang three songs and showed her usual fullness of tone and breadth of range. The harmony and tone in the violin selections by Mrs. Truell-Johnson won true appreciation and Miss Hyde and Miss VanDeventer were excellent in their rendition of three two part songs by Mendelssohn. In observance of Flag Day, Mrs. Lewis led the chorus and audience in the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," all standing. At the conclusion of the program, the school chorus sang the Plainfield High School song, "The Red and Blue." The program follows:

"Unfold, Ye Portals," chorus from "The Redemption," (Gounod), by the school; "I would that my Love," "O wert thou in the cauld, cauld blast," and "Greeting," two part songs by Mendelssohn, Miss Hyde and Miss VanDeventer; "Song of Hybreas the Cretan," (Elliott), Mr. Bemus; "The Grenadiers," (Schumann) and "Zion Awake," (Costa), by the school; violin selections, "The Swan," (Saint-Saens), romance from second concerto of Wieniawski, and Serenade by Pierne, by Mrs. Truell-Johnson; Request number, "The Blue Danube Waltzes, (Strauss) and "A Merry Life," (Denza), by the school; "The Lamp of Love," (Salter), "Songs my Mother Taught Me," (Dvorak), and "Phillis," (Wilson), by Miss Case; "I Love Thee," (Mildenberg) and "Phosphorescence," (Lowe), by Mr. Bemus; Bridal Chorus from "The Rose Maiden," (Cowan), by the school; "Alice, Where Art Thou Going,' (Ascher-Farland), by Mr. Farland; "Pilgrims' Chorus from Tannhauser, by the school.

SCREEN LAW IS VALID.

Trenton, June 16.—Chancellor Pitney yesterday filed the opinion of the Court of Errors and Appeals, announced at the opening of the March term, sustaining the constitutionality of the screen clause of the Bishops law of 1906. The case was that of Hugh Meehan, of Jersey City.

In the Court of Errors the point was raised that section 4 of the Bishops' law conflicts with that provision of the State Constitution which prohibits the Legislature from passing private local or special laws regulating the interal affairs of municipalities.

Counsel for Meehan insisted that the Bishops' law is special because its classification is arbitrary and illusory. Chancellor Pitney says that if the act was special for this reason, it does not follow that the section conflicts with the constitutional provision thus invoked. He says that it does not in any wise regulate the internal affairs of municipalities.

Several decisions cited by the prosecutors in support of their arguments are held by the Chancellor to not affect the case at bar. These related chiefly to the classification of cities on the basis of population, for the purpose of excise legislation.

Has Church Chimes Stopped.

Because of the serious illness of his wife, ex-Mayor Henry H. Truman, of Orange, who is a New York banker, has had the chimes stopped in the Orange Valley Congregational church, the church officials immediately acquiescing in his request. A church social, which was to have been held out of doors, was transferred to the social room of the church on the same account.

Exercises at the Groszmann School.

The spring term exercises of the Groszmann School on Watchung Crest, will be held Saturday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock and admission will be by card. The program will include gymnastic dances and exercises, games and songs; also a dramatization of two literary selections.

CLASH IN DATES ADJUSTED.

Master Painters' Association Defers Convention a Week to Enable Dentists to Meet.

Asbury Park, June 16.—The clash between the New Jersey State Dental Association and the Master Painters and Decorators' Association, because both organizations were allotted the same week in which to hold their conventions here in July, has been amicably settled, after a conference of the publicity bureau and the public grounds bureau.

The conflict in dates was due to the fact that arrangements for one convention was made by the beach commission and for the other by the convention bureau. There was some difficulty in arranging the matter, and at one time there was fear that either one or the other of the associations might go elsewhere.

The Master Painters' Association, however, has consented to meet the last week in July, and the Dentists will convene the week before, which was the time they had originally fixed.

Blacksmith Near Death From Auto.

George Fischer, employed as a blacksmith at the shop of Joseph Coleman, in Glen Ridge avenue, narrowly escaped being killed by an automobile at Montclair yesterday while shoeing a horse. The automobile, to avoid a passing wagon, turned on to the sidewalk, where Fischer was at work. The car struck the box of blacksmith's tools and sent them flying in all directions. The frightened horse leaped forward and Fischer was sent sprawling in the dirt. He rolled out of reach of the horse's heels and escaped serious injury. The automobile disappeared before its driver could be identified.

Motorman Released in $2,500 Bail.

Patrick Derrig, motorman of the car from which pasengers jumped in East Orange on Saturday night when he and the conductor, Frank Nutly, deserted it, was released yesterday in $2,500 bail on a charge of manslaughter at Orange. County Detective James Mason, who happened to be on the car when the fuse blew out and the confusion occurred, resulting in the death of one woman and the injury of four other persons, says Derrig jumped over the gates of the car. Derrig says he was blown from the car, but he shows no injuries.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The women of Hammonton will see that the streets are sprinkled, and with that end in view the Civic Club has purchased a sprinkler.

In the First M. E. church, Gloucester, Sunday, there was a children's baptism by Rev. J. L. Roe, with water from the River Jordan.

Four women were baptized in the Delaware river along the North Cramer Hill shore, Camden, Sunday afternoon, by Rev. Charles M. Peters, of the Beach Street Mission, Philadelphia, assisted by Rev. J. M. Layton.

Attempting to walk the gangplank of her father's boat, Verna, little daughter of Captain William Eastlack, of Swedesboro, fell overboard, and would have drowned had not Harvey McCollister and Henry Conover rescued her.

While working on a Washington street building, Cape May, Saturday, two painters, Angus Morris and Angus Stewart, were precipitated to the ground from a height of thirty feet and badly hurt. The accident was due to the breaking of a board.

Arrested while in the act of robbing the home of William N. Drigus, at Seventh street and Kaign avenue, Camden, Saturday afternoon, Frank Camac, Joseph Drigus and Bazy Wonderlin, all boys, were locked up in the city jail for a hearing.

William Gunn, aged seventeen years, of Franklinville, Gloucester county, was being initiated into a new "lodge" by a number of his companions when he had his arm crushed. He will take his next degree when he gets out of a Camden hospital.

H. Martensen, of Chicago, attempted to alight from a moving electric train at Pitman station yesterday, and was thrown between the wheels and the platform. Fred Yetter grabbed him by the feet and saved him when the electric "shoe" had already caught in his clothing. He escaped with a few bruises.

Oregon J. Ward, a former Philadelphian, was struck and killed Saturday by an outbound passenger train at Wildwood. He moved to that resort last April, when he and his son bought a coal yard along the railroad. While walking across the tracks from his office he was struck by the train.

Warned by County Detectives Smith and Carroll that arrests would be made if a vaudeville show was given at Wood Lynne Park, near Camden, Sunday, Frank Melville, the manager, who was at Bayonne, telephoned his wife at the Park and called off the show. Outside of sacred music by a band everything was quiet during the day.

Mrs. Mary Linderman, wife of an Atlantic City mechanic, used the money given to her for beefsteak and bought laudanum, which she took because of a family quarrel. Before the poison had taken fatal effect her husband arrived home for his supper. He smelled the fumes of the drug and discovered the plight of his wife, who was rushed to the hospital. She has a chance for recovery.

NEWARKER LET OFF.

Chauffeur Was Caught in Justice Housell's Trap.

New Brunswick, June 16.—William Traphagen, of Newark, was charged before Justice Housell yesterday morning with exceeding the automobile speed limit on May 27, and sentence was suspended. He was driving C. H. Stengel's car when caught in Housell's trap. The chauffeur was to have appeared later for a hearing, but failed to come to the office, and Constable Mundy was sent after him. Traphagen claimed yesterday that he had lost his job and that his wife is ill, and the justice took pity on him.

Garret L. Reilly, of Philadelphia, who was running thirty-nine miles an hour according to Housell's men, didn't appear yesterday for a hearing. His lawyer, S. Boyd Davis, sent a note say that Mr. Reilly is a very busy man, and asking the justice to fix a fine so that he can send the fine on without coming here. The justice adjourned the case two weeks.

ARSON CONVICTIONS UPHELD.

Trenton, Jpne 16.—The Supreme Court affirmed yesterday the conviction of David H. Brandt and his brother John, merchants of this city, who were convicted for complicity in the burning of a large department store opposite the postoffice, of which they were the lessees.

David Brandt was sentenced to seven years in State prison and pay a fine of $2,000, and his brother John to one year in State prison. David is under $40,000 bail and his brother under $7,500 bail.

The case developed one of the most sensational trials ever held in Mercer Court. According to the evidence large quantities of oil had been scattered through the building and on the stock.

The Brandts claimed that the only oil in the building was that which had been placed upon the floors a short time before the fire. At the time of the fire, David Brandt was in Grand Rapids. Following the fire and a contest with the insurance companies, the Brandts were put into bankruptcy.

New Jersey's Greatest Mail Order Organization.

We are justly proud of our mail order system. We feel that it is one of the strongest links in the chain of this great store's success. We want you to use it—test it thoroughly and allow us to demonstrate its many splendid advantages. The Bamberger mail order system is not the result of a day, but the culmination of years of painstaking effort. In fact, this branch of our business is so perfectly organized that you may shop as quickly by mail as in person. There are no delays—no errors—satisfaction is snugly packed with each parcel we send out. If you are not a patron (which is highly improbable) send in a trial order and you'll quickly realize the truth of the foregoing statements.

KILLS HIMSELF ON LOSING POSITION.

Elizabeth, June 16.—Gustave Lindenkohl, who for the past year had charge of the crematory at Rose Hill Cemetery, in Linden Township, committed suicide in his home there Saturday by sending a bullet into his brain during the temporary absence of his wife. He died almost instantly. His wife heard the report of the shot, and, hastening to the house, found her husband lying lifeless on the floor, with the revolver tightly clutched in his hand.

Mr. Lindenkohl was fifty-five years old, and for seven years had charge of the crematory at Fresh Pond, Long Island, before coming to Rose Hill. His act was caused by despondency over the loss of his position, having been informed by the cemetery authorities, it is said, that his services would be dispensed with on July 1. He worried greatly over this notification, and talked over the matter frequently with his wife, saying to her that at his age he did not know where to look for employment. The couple had no children.

Mr. Lindenkohl had a good education and was a musician. He used to play the organ at the crematory while bodies were being incinerated. In a letter, which his wife found after his death, he wrote that he was weary of life, and under the circumstances had no desire to remain any longer on this earth. He also left directions for the disposition of his body, which he instructed his wife to have cremated at Fresh Pond. According to this request, Charles J. Jenson, an undertaker of Elizabeth, took the body there this afternoon.

ARM OF A PASSENGER IS ALMOST TORN OFF.

Somerville, June 16.—Frank Cuttner, of Alpha, this State, is in a critical condition in the Somerset Hospital here as the result of an injury which he sustained in an odd manner while riding on a passenger train on the Central Railroad of New Jersey Saturday night. Cuttner was a passenger on the Easton express.

Near Asbury the train on which he was riding passed the "Cannon Ball" freight when some projecting object on the freight train ripped through the side of the passenger coach and crushed Cuttner's arm, almost tearing it from the socket. The same object also passed through the back of a seat occupied by a man and woman in front of Cuttner, but left them unharmed.

Cuttner was in great agony from his terrible injury. A physician on the train administered to Cuttner, and the train made a record-breaking run to this place. Cuttner was very weak from loss of blood when taken from the train here and placed in a hospital ambulance.

VICTIMS OF MAD DOG AT PASTEUR INSTITUTE.

Rahway, June 16.—Charles Oppenheimer and Morris Rippan, Jr., the children who were bitten by a supposed rabid dog Thursday night, were taken to Pasteur Institute, New York, yesterday, accompanied by their mothers, Mrs. George Oppenheimer and Mrs. Morris Rippan. The head of the canine was sent Friday to the institute for examination and word has been received that the head showed symptoms of a well-developed case of rabies.

Prompt treatment for the children and the destruction of dogs known to have been bitten was urged. One of the bitten dogs is still roaming about in Upper Rahway. The city paid the expenses of the treatment of the children and Dr. F. W. Sell, the Health Board physician, will attend the patients after their return.

WORKMAN FALLS 42 FEET.

Somerville, June 16.—Patrick Burns, 21 years old, a plumber employed on Somerset county's new $40,000 white marble court house, had a miraculous escape from death yesterday. As it is he suffered severe injuries which will lay him up for several weeks. He was working on the top of the structure in the rain, when he stepped on a slippery plank and lost his footing, plunging forty-two feet to the ground.

He broke the force of his fall somewhat by grasping at a scaffolding. He was severely cut about the head and face, one arm is badly injured and it is feared he may be injured internally. This is the second accident to workmen on the building in the past week.

HUNTERDON COUNTY AROUSED OVER MURDER.

Flemington, June 16.—Meager reports of the murder of Rocco Cernor, twenty-four years old, who was employed on the new paper mills being erected between Frenchtown and Milford, reached Sheriff Elisha W. Opdyke yesterday morning.

The authorities are searching for Joseph Macciocia, twenty-eight years old, who, it is believed, knows something of the crime. Macciocia is described as being five feet six inches tall, blonde mustache and weighs 145 pounds.

Cernor was shot about 11 o'clock last night. There is said to be eye witnesses to the tragedy, but what the motive was has not been made known.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sebring, of Merchantville, have been visiting relatives in town for a few days.

THE ROYAL ADVENTURE

By ZONA GALE

(Copyright.)

He greeted her with: "Good morning, Princess."

She answered him sadly enough: "Good morning, Prince."

"What is your highness goin' to do to-morrow?" he inquired.

"To-day an' to-morrow they're puttin' up rhubarb," she answered indifferently.

"Let's skip out to the orchard an' read," he suggested. "An' I've got sumthin' to tell you, Princess."

At which she burst suddenly into tears. "Don't call me that any more," she cried; "I'm sick to death o' this pretendin'."

Then, the seat by the well-house being sheltered in hollyhocks, he came and sat beside her and touched her hand. But there was in his touch nothing of the lover, though he was toward 20 and well-favored, and the girl, of fewer years, was of dainty prettiness.

"Discouraged?" he said.

"Nothin's any use," she answered. "We can't never do it."

His brown face shone with his eagerness.

"What if you was to hear," he said, "that I come here to tell you I know a way now?"

She looked at him, her face flushing to the pink of her cambric frock.

"There's a double carriage comin' to Friendship with some folks to-morrow mornin'," he said, "from the city. It's goin' back to the city empty. We could walk into Friendship about daylight an' get a ride in the carriage those 20 miles."

"Oh," she said, "are you sure—"

"As good as sure," he answered, "an' what risk there is is fun. We'll be in the city soon after noon. You go up to the school an' tell 'em you've come to stay—tell 'em you've got to stay. I'll go to the law office I told you about. They'll take me. I'll make 'em take me. What do you say?"

Her fears and alarms were easily reasoned away. She had longed as passionately as he for what the city could give—such a little city it was, but it meant to them all magic. It was there that the Female Seminary Home posed in broad acres, its white towers like a beacon to the eyes of the country girl. And it was there that Hollister & Hollister, a firm with which the boy's father had had some dealing, carried on a prosperous law business, to which for years a chance-word of the junior member had beckoned the boy. It was true that the work of a farm-house called for the girl to have willing hands, and that on the farm adjoining, the boy's father, already aged with work, struggled with stony ground and needed broad young shoulders for the burden. Nevertheless, the girl and the boy had found out each other's dreams for "something better," had fed on each other's ambitions and devoured each other's books until the country-side coupled their names. But this they never guessed, for they were living another romance, filled with deeds past, dreaming of court and camp and, when no one was by, calling each other prince and princess, for the sake of many an old tale that they loved.

It was rather like an old tale—their meeting next morning. It was hardly light when the prince turned down the ragged honeysuckle walk where the princess lived. The honeysuckle was all ablossom, sweet and wet, and an early wind made free of its fragrance. There was yet no stir at all at the farm. By the well-house behind the hollyhocks the princess had been waiting, and she came to meet him neatly clothed and carrying a small bundle of belongings.

"See it!" he said, as they gained the quiet highroad and faced the open east. "Did you ever think if we had been a real prince and a real princess the sky couldn't possibly look any different to us?"

"Why, no," she said wonderingly; "but it couldn't, could it?"

The east was cherry-red. High overhead burned a late star, a lonely outpost. The birds were all wonderfully awake, and as the two walked they named them, by note or flight or coat, for no wild thing was wholly strange to them. But the princess sighed, looking toward the expectant east.

"What lots o' things there is to know in the world," she said. "It must be fun to know 'em."

"I know," said the prince. "I've thought of that. Like knowin' about birds—only more an' more."

"Folks that do know must feel different in the head," said the princess.

"Oh, they do," said the prince confidently.

When they reached Friendship at seven it would be an hour before the carriage was ready to leave. Meanwhile the driver was making merry, too merry, in the public room of the little hotel, where the host of the place had joined him. The man gave a jolly assent to taking two passengers to the city, and he pocketed the offered fee for the increase of hilarity.

The driver, having sung songs right lustily in the hotel-yard as he hitched his horses with many a wrong buckling of harness, took to the road soon after eight o'clock. The carriage was low and old and comfortable. They went rolling between green roadside trees that glistened in bright sun, and the world seemed very wonderful with fortune and wisdom waiting over the rim of the way.

Toward noon they ate their lunch as they rode, pretending it to be other than it was—of rich cheese, sweet bread and butter and ripe fruit, filched from both homes they were leaving behind and fit for any king.

When they reached the fringes of the city the girl gave a little ecstatic bounce on the cushions.

"Think o' me goin' to the Female Seminary Home," she said. She was not very clear how she meant to arrange this. She was merely going to offer to do anything in order to stay. She had heard of girls going to school that way—though not to this school, it was true. And the rest was vague and possible.

"Think o' me bein' a lawyer," said the boy.

Then the driver, still in great good humor, ceased trolling to himself and looked back to ask them where they wanted to go.

"Take us first to the Female Seminary Home," said the prince grandly. "And then take me to Hollister & Hollister's law office."

The man stared.

"Hollister & Hollister!" he said. "They're gone this six months."

"Gone?" they both echoed.

"Sure," said the man. "I use' to drive for the son. They up an' moved their office to New York. Female Seminary Home first, did you say?"

"Yes," said the prince dully.

Crushing as this was, yet before they came in sight of the Female Seminary Home, youth had recovered itself.

"They's other law offices—they must be," he said. "I'll wait at the gate till you tell me what happens. An' then I'll find one."

The great gate was fearfully imposing. So were the great lawns and the great doors and the great reception room. But there must have been worse than these, for when, after an incredibly short space, the princess appeared, she was crying, quite sobbing. And she stepped in the carriage without a word. On which the driver, humming softly to himself, without a word pricked his horses leisurely back toward the heart of the town.

The princess sobbed as she told it—of the great lady who had shut the door of hope. Certainly no student who worked for her board could be admitted to classes. Had she a certificate of standings from her former school? What were her references? And no exceptions were ever made in the tuition, which was $500.

"Look here," said the prince, "what do you care?"

But the princess only sobbed the more.

"What do you care?" he persisted, and thought helplessly that there must be something more to say or some way to do; only he couldn't hit on it. He blamed himself wretchedly for her tears.

"I—I don't know," said the prince. It seemed as if the whole world were as irresponsible as the driver.

"Might just as well set still till I get to the stable," said the man hospitably. "You can walk f'm there. Mebbe a rig'll be goin' back, if you want to go back."

The prince nodded vaguely and gratefully.

"Look here," he said to the princess, "what do you care?" He touched her hand as he had touched it on the well-seat by the holly-hocks—much as if it were a flower itself, or a bird.

Then when they had reached the stable a man came running out and parleyed. Whereat the driver, looking thoroughly scared, got down and helped to change the horses.

"Set still," he said hurriedly to the prince and princess. "If you want to go back to Friendship I'll take ye. I'm hitched to the wrong con-veyance. This ain't ours. Can't see how it happened," he mumbled, now wholly alert.

So as the afternoon shadows lengthened the prince and princess rode back between green trees on the way that they had come in bright morning. For somehow the courage of the prince for visiting other offices had become a thing of no moment. And the sobs of the princess tugged curiously at his heart.

The other "con-veyance" was safely in the hotel yard all the time. The prince and princess waited long enough to be sure of that.

They hurried out in the main street, which would widen to become the plank road and would lead to their homes. And on the street the boy fell silent and looked away, but the girl thought of many little things to say about the trivialities of the town and of the time. She had a pretty way of making merry, and she laughed at this and that—with a manner of escaping from the moment.

As they struck into the plank road the real moon rose exquisitely, potent as the moon in the picture. The frogs were chorusing in the marshes and a little warm wind went rollicking up and away.

"Smells nice," said the boy with a deep breath; and all his pulses were mysteriously a-tingle.

The mounting moon sent the shadows receding to the hedges, and as the boy and the girl walked together, little rugs of light lay ready to their feet. And the throngs which trooped and clamored by the wayside were the little marsh things singing night marches in the green thickets; and the two moved forward as two who make a royal progress, and for them both in every wind was sounding long life to king and queen.

The boy looked up in the sky.

"Oh," he said. "Think—think! If we's really a prince and a princess, it couldn't be any different to us than what it is!"

"No," said the girl; "it couldn't, could it?"

MIGHT HAVE PUZZLED SOLOMON.

Decision Over Which Country Squire Is Still Deliberating.

"That is a complicated question," said a statesman of a certain practical proposal. "It reminds me of a question that was once put to old Squire Briggs.

"The squire was noted for his long, Solomon-like head, and he was frequently asked to settle disputes.

"'Squire,' said a farmer to him one day at the tavern, 'there's a difficult point I want you to settle, and whatever you say I'll abide by.'

"'Well, fire away,' said the squire, good humoredly, 'and I'll see what I can do for you.'

"'It's like this,' said the man. 'Blankson wants to trade farms with me, but we can't agree on terms. His land is better than mine, but I've got twice as many cranberry vines; his corn is all stacked and mine ain't, but I've got screens to four windows and two doors to the shack. There's less stones in his meadow land than there is in mine, but there's more bog.'

"The man paused and took breath. Then he went on:

"'Now, I won't tell you which is which, but one of us thinks Blankson's pointer dog ought to be thrown in, and the other one thinks that my heifer would just about even things up. Now what do you say is fair?'

"At last accounts the squire was still deliberating.

DIPLOMACY SURELY HIS LINE.

Bridegroom Knew the Value of a Few Honeyed Words.

They sat in the express, billing and cooing. Now and again they would shake themselves like damp dogs and tiny particles of rice would scatter on the carpet.

"Sweetheart," said the bridegroom at length, speaking in tender but manly tones—"sweetheart, would you mind if I went into the 'smoker' for a bit?"

She pouted.

"What?" she exclaimed. "To smoke, love?"

He cast up his hands.

"Oh, no, no, no!" he assured her. "I may smoke, but that is not why I wish to leave you. I only want to suffer for a brief space the agony of absence from your side so that I may subsequently experience the intense joy of my return."

She smiled sweetly and watched him depart with a pale-purple lovelight in her eye. And he, as he lit the cigar he had been longing for during the last two hours, smiled profoundly and wondered why he was not in the diplomatic service.—Tatler.

A Kissing Acquaintance.

As Rev. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the United States senate, was walking along a Boston street, in company with a friend, he was suddenly accosted most familiarly and affectionately by a woman who, without further warning, proceeded to throw her arms round his neck and kiss him on both cheeks.

Then followed a brief conversation—gushing on the woman's part, guarded on Dr. Hale's, who confined himself to discreet inquiries as to the welfare of the woman's family; were they well?—and living in the same place?—and so forth.

Finally the woman tore herself away, and the venerable divine turned to his companion.

"I should have been glad to introduce you; but I did not know the lady's name," he said, with his gentle smile. "To tell the truth," he added, reflectively, "I didn't even know I had a kissing acquaintance with her."—Sunday Magazine.

The Shanghai Judgeship.

Just judges are appreciated in Shanghai, and, indeed, the need of their being men of fearless integrity may be said to increase with the square of the distance from home, since here there are many judges and possibilities and facilities of appeal, while in remote places all may depend upon the decision of a single judge. Let it be known that the American judge at Shanghai does strict and impartial justice, regardless of fear or favor, and that he is supported in so doing by the government at Washington, and every honest American sojourning in those parts will feel more secure and will take greater pride in his citizenship before the world.—New York Tribune.

Reason for Thanks.

The impecunious author's wife was trying on a new dress and endeavoring to observe the hang of it by means of a round mirror on top of a high chiffonier. Every woman will appreciatt what that means.

"Oh, dear," she exclaimed, as she thought with some pathos, "I haven't seen the bottom of my skirt since I was married."

Her husband looked up, brute that he was, and remarked:

"Well, you can thank God for that."

WEALTH IN SANDS OF OCEAN.

Cheap Mining the Problem That Has to Be Faced.

From Shasta to San Diego, all the way along the shores of the Pacific ocean there is gold in the black sand which, for the greater part of the length of the state, underlies the gray and yellow sand of the beach. This has been known to mining men for a score of years or more, but ever since they found it out they have been completely baffled in all efforts to get it.

The values in the sand are low, not more than 25 cents per ton, and the sea washes heavily over all manner of structures which are set up on the beach to separate the sand from its gold. These were the two principal obstacles to be overcome: To find a machine which would withstand the storms of winter and the tides of summer and at the same time be delicate enough to draw the gold from the black mass of the beach.

At last, however, the riddle has been solved, despite the wrecking of one of the plants with which the work was commenced, and a recent clean-up of one day's run of 1,000 tons of black sand paid $200 over and above all expenses. The full value of the gold in the sand, could it have been entirely removed, would have been $250, the actual amount taken out was about $235 worth, making the cost of handling that 1,000 tons of sand a trifle more than three cents a ton, the cheapest mining yet known to man.—Technical World Magazine.

SOME LARGE FRENCH FAMILIES.

Official Statistics Give Figures That Are Rather Surprising.

Small families are the rule in France, but there are some striking exceptions. The following data were taken by Consul Chapman Coleman of Roubaix from the latest official statistics of the population of France. According to these statistics the total population of France is 38,350,788. The female sex exceeds the masculine in numbers, the figures being, respectively, 19,533,899 and 18,816,889. On the other hand, an excess in the number of unmarried is shown on the masculine side, the respective figures be- 9,917,178 and 9,114,356. There are 2,384,897 widows and divorced women, as against 1,005,884 widowers and divorced men.

The number of French families is 9,781,117, of which 1,314,773 are without children; 2,249,337 have but one child; 2,018,665 have two; 1,246,264 have three; 748,841 have four; 429,799 have five; 248,159 have six; 138,769 have seven; 71,841 have eight, and 33,917 have nine children. These figures represent, in a rapidly decreasing proportion, the number of families having a large number of children.

For about two-thirds of the families of France the average number of children does not exceed three; while for about 1½ per cent. of them the average number is seven, and for less than one per cent of the families, eight children. Twenty-four families are recorded, however, as possessing 17 and 34 as possessing 18 children.

How Fast Wind Travels.

Most people at some time or other have used the expression "went like the wind," wishing to convey the idea of extraordinary velocity.

Coming down to actual figures, however, the wind is not such a speedy traveler after all, says the Boston Transcript. The month of March more than any other in the year has a windy record, so the figures supplied by the local weather bureau station for the month will do to illustrate the fallacy of the expression.

From the first to the thirty-first the wind movement as registered at the top of the federal building was 8,326 miles, or an average of 278 miles a day for 30 days. Here is an overage of only 11½ miles an hour, a speed which even a slow moving freight steamer approaches.

Education and Matrimony.

A teacher in one of the local grades was speaking to the mother of one of her girl pupils not long ago about Elsie's frequent absences from school.

"You know she won't be promoted," pointed out the teacher, "unless she is more regular in her attendance."

"Yes," put in the other, "and I don't want her to be promoted. I want her to stop school and then when she gets older she'll get married, as every girl ought to. My two daughters that stayed in school aren't married yet and the one that didn't finish up at school could have been married about four times, and when she did marry she was only 19. I'm going to take this one out of school and bring her up right."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Baby's Quilt.

A most attractive baby's quilt is made by putting two thicknesses of lamb's wool between surah silk. The quilting, instead of being made with stitches, is caught in place by large roses made of ribbon. Ribbon is also used in the style of art nouveau to decorate the border of the quilt. Usually it is made in long green stems, terminating each petal of the flower being a loop of the ribbon caught at the point by a single stitch. Quilts of such an elaborate design are used as coach covers for the baby indoors does not wear anything quite so exquisite.

A Noble Lover.

"Darling," said the American heiress, "it is not true, is it, that you want to marry me for my money?"

"No, dearest," answered the duke de Ragges et Patchez, "but I don't hold it against you."—Baltimore American.

Baseball and General Sports

Clinton Avenues vs. 'Plains.

The fans are promised a strong attraction for Saturday on Crescent Oval, when the Clinton Avenues and Scotch Plains will meet for the second time this season. In the first game at the 'Plains, the home team won out by a small margin after a hard-fought struggle, and the fact that on Saturday it defeated Flemington by a score of 5 to 0, while the Clinton Avenues defeated Somerville 3 to 1, should make the approaching game a good one.

Giants to Play at Elizabeth.

Arthur Irwin, of baseball fame, has obtained control of the grounds in Elizabeth, where the defunct Union League team played, and he has signed a first-class team for Sunday games in that city. On Sunday he has scheduled a contest with the New York Giants, and he intends to have a National or American League team for an attraction every Sunday during the season. Mahoney, of the Hoboken club, will do the pitching for the new Elizabeth team.

Will Pitch Quoits.

There will be a quoit match at Thomas Brantingham's hotel, Thursday afternoon, between Mr. Brantingham and Fred Quad, of South River. The match will be for 100 points, $25 a side.

Plan Another Race Meet.

The next matinee race meet will be held at the Driving Park under the auspices of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Association, on Saturday afternoon, June 27.

METHODISTS TO UNDERTAKKE WORK AMONG ITALIANS.

Plans for co-operating with representatives of other local religious bodies in undertaking work among the Italians of Plainfield and North Plainfield, were discussed at the first quarterly conference of the First M. E. church in Vincent chapel last night. The presiding elder, Rev. Dr. D. B. F. Randolph was present and joined in the discussion.

It was the opinion that the work is an important one and that all of the churches should co-operate in its undertaking. A committee comprising Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, Samuel Bingaman and James R. Joy, was appointed for that purpose. The customary reports were presented from the various departments of church work and all were satisfactory, showing the church to be in excellent condition spiritually and financially.

Artistic Posters.

An artist friend of H. Raymond Loder in New York city, has drawn two handsome posters advertising the operetta "Robinson Crusoe," to be given in connection with a concert by the Holy Cross choir at the parish house next Wednesday evening. The posters, which are displayed at L. W. Randolph's and A. E. Force's, are excellent examples of first class color work, and their display is creating much favorable comment. The proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to the choir boys' outing.

How the Bungalow Boys Live.

William Jeffery, the "Bungalow Man," has contributed an illustrated article on his sons' life in their bungalow at Berkeley Heights in the July Delineator. The article, which is written in an attractive breezy style, shows how successfully the author has tarined his boys in manly independence and industriousness. It is illustrated with many pictures of the boys at work in their own bungalow, where they keep house.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

A Danish Lutheran service will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in W. C. T. U. Hall. There will be preaching by Rev. Mr. Beck, of Brooklyn.

The last regular monthly business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Hope chapel, until fall, will be held at the home of Mrs. William Vogel, 931 West Fifth street, tomorrow afternoon. All members are requested to attend.

An interesting feature of the exercises that marked the observance of Flag Day on Sunday in the First Baptist church was the singing by the choir of some national hymns, composed by the late Dr. Abraham S. Coles, of Scotch Plains, and the music of which was written by the late Rev. Dr. Robert Lowry, an esteemed pastor and musically endowed citizen of this city.

Miss Florence MacDonald a Bride.

Miss Florence Marion MacDonald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard MacDonald, of Watchung avenue, and E. Newton Norman, of Midland Park, were married by the Rev. William Haines, of Irvington, Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. The bride was gowned in Copenhagen blue silk, with hat to match. They were accompanied by Mrs. J. L. Bennett, sister of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Brokaw, in a touring car. After the ceremony the party proceeded to New York, where a wedding supper was enjoyed at the Hotel St. Denis. The bride and groom have left for a short honeymoon, after which they will reside at Midland Park. The groom is interested in the leather business in New York.

Metuchenites Want Bus Line.

Dr. A. Lauder Ellis, Mayor of Metuchen, gave his enthusiastic endorsement of the Plainfield-Metuchen auto bus line scheme in an address before the Borough Improvement League of Metuchen at the formal opening and dedication of their league house Saturday afternoon. Milton Mendel, of Holly Park, promoters of the line, was a guest at the exercises, which included addresses by Mrs. Henry H. Dawson, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, and Miss Anna Garland Spencer. The dedication address was by Mrs. Frank A. Pattison, president of the Borough Improvement League, and a musical program was given in connection with the exercises.

"YOUNGEST-OLD" MAN NOW IN HIS 96TH YEAR

Bennet Britton, who has the distinction of being Plainfield's oldest citizen and is known as the "old-young man" because of his remarkable physique, is today celebrating his ninety-fifth birthday. He has been observing the event in a quiet way at his pool room and cigar store at West Front street and Clinton avenue which he has conducted for several years.

Mr. Britton was born at Paterson on June 16, 1813, but has resided either in Scotch Plains or Plainfield since the close of the Civil War in which he took part. Despite his advanced age he resembles a man of but sixty and has the vitality to go with it. He walks from Clinton avenue to the business district almost every day, scorns glasses and has exceptionally good hearing. He participated in the G. A. R. Memorial Day parade despite the storm and insisted on taking his place in line when advised to remain indors.

GET SALOON MAN.

New York Cops Raid Buckwheat Island from Elizabeth.

Elizabeth, June 16.—In a raid on Buckwheat Island yesterday William Farrin, of East Jersey street, this city, was arrested by the New York harbor police, charged with having violated the New York excise laws. He was arraigned in the Staten Issand Court this morning, pleaded not guilty, and was bailed for hearing on Thursday.

The raid was made from this city, the officers coming here from Staten Island. Fearing to approach the island in the patrol, which would give the offenders warning of their intention, they hired a boat at the foot of the Elizabeth river and proceeded down the sound along the Jersey shore to the island.

Independence Party.

If the efforts of the Union County Independence Party count for much and the efforts of twenty-five determined delegates are crowned with success, William C. Morton, of this city, will be sent as a delegate from the State of New Jersey to the National Convention of the Independence Party at Chicago, July 27. On Saturday evening, June 20, the State convention of the Independence party will be held at Johnson Hall, Newark, and there the election of Jersey's 24 delegates will take place.

Plainfielders in Litigation.

ERRORS COURT UPHOLDS NEW JERSEY JR.O.U.A.M.

The New Jersey State Council, Junior Order United American Mechanics, won another legal victory over the National Council in a decision handed down by the Court of Errors and Appeals yesterday, at Trenton. This cuts off any further legal action on the part of the national body in this State and makes the New Jersey State Council supreme in this jurisdiction.

The question at issue was the right of the National Council to appeal to the highest judicial tribunal of New Jersey within three years of a decision of the lower court. The legislature of 1907 passed an act changing the time for appeals from three years to one year, with an allowance of six months for pending cases.

The national Council filed an appel January 20 of this year from a decision of August 16, 1906, claiming that the three-year limit should apply. The errors and appeal decision dismisses the motion, the opinion of Justice Swayze saying that the legislature had the authority to pass such an act and that six months was sufficient time for filing the appeal.

When the State and National Councils "split" the national body came into New Jersey and organized Councils at Camden and Long Branch. The State Council secured a court order restraining these Councils from acting at Jr. O. U. A. M. organizations except by charter from the State body, and also stopping the National Council from going on with the formation of subordinate lodges. The National Council took an appeal, withdrew it and then appealed again after the passage of the 1907 act.

PERSONAL.

Charles W. McCutchen and family, of Rockview avenue, left today for Europe were they will spend the summer.

ROB PAPER FIRM OF $10,000.

One of the Accused Confesses and Implicates Another.

Elizabeth, June 16.—Upon a charge of defrauding the Barrett Manufacturing Company out of $10,000 by false returns of paper stock sent, Ralph Marone, of 1240 Parke avenue, Hoboken, was yesterday held by Police Justice Mahon. A confession by William H. Kitchell, of 21 Second street, weighmaster of the company, with whom Marone is declared to have acted in collusion, caused Marone's arrest.

In court yesterday Kitchell repeated the confession. Marone, he declared, between November, 1906 and 1907, whenever paper stock was sent out, would forward to the Barrett Company a memoranda calling for weights far in excess. By these means the Barrett Company claims to have lost $10,000. Marone went to jail, in default of bail. He denies the charge.

Commuters Dodge Runaway Horse.

New York commuters had a narrow escape yesterday morning at the Lackawanna Railroad station, when a runaway horse, attached to a wagon laden with sewer pipes, dashed among them at Montclair. The horse belonged to W. O. Persons. As it galloped over the street leading to the railroad station the pipes flew in every direction, and the commuters had to step lively to get out of the way. Several were almost run down. The horse was captured after it had run a mile.

Former Borough Officials in Court.

Ex-Mayor Robert A. Sibbald and Councilmen Harry S. Stark, William H. Dean and Edward M. Lyman, of Park Ridge Borough, were arraigned before Judge Demarest in Hackensack yesterday afternoon on indictments charging them with misappropriating funds. They are said to have spent more money on the municipal electric lighting plant in 1906 than was appropriated. The council and the people in the borough say spite caused the indictments. All pleaedd not guilty. Their trials were set for September.

Receiver for Bayonne Theatres.

Jersey City, June 16.—Vice-Chancellor Garrison yesterday morning appointed George Carragan, president of the First National Bank of Bayonne, receiver of the Bayonne Amusement Company, owning the Bayonne Opera House and lessee of the Bayonne Theatre. The complainant was Leowus Brothers, wholesale liquor dealers of Jersey City. They claim an indebtedness of $304.

1908'S LAST GOOD TIME

Class Day Festivities at City High School Draw Large Audience.

NUMEROUS NOVEL FEATURES.

Final festivities of the graduates of the Plainfield High School as the class of 1908 took place at the school auditorium last night, when the Class Day exercises, novel in conception, tended to give the graduates their last informal "good time" and proved the season's most successful social function at the school. The program was arranged by a committee headed by William T. Lambert, president of the class, and the entire forty-nine graduates took part, seated on the platform. The auditorium was crowded to its utmost capacity, and alumni and friends of the pupils took part in the informal dancing which followed.

The singing of parodies on popular songs was a feature of the musical part of the program. Music was furnished by Miss Elsie Knowlton at the piano, with a cornet obligato by Percy Mygrant. Miss M. Elizabeth Pound, acted as percentor and the entire class sang. The general scheme of the program was a farewell and when the curtain went up, it disclosed the pupils seated, each with a suit case. The first song was a parody on "Moving Day," composed by Miss Elizabeth Randall. Following this came the class history, read by Miss Randall, in which the various social and curriculum events of the four years course were summarized. The history was composed by Miss Eleanor Van Tuyl, Miss Edna Eckert and Sallo M. Kahn. In connection with this, steriopticon views of many of the incidents alluded to were shown, explained by Sallo M. Kahn.

An air of mock solemnity settled over the class as Miss M. Elizabeth Pound read the class will, abounding in school "hits," and this was followed by the song hit of the evening, "The Brilliant Class of 1908," to the tune of "I'm Afraid to go Home in the Dark." The words were by Miss Sara L. Sanderson. Class statistics followed, given by William T. Lambert. As the results of the balloting by the class for the leaders of the class in different ways was announced, Percy Mygrant passed out tickets for the awards, which were worn by the recipients.

Miss M. Elizabeth Pound and Chauncey Murphey were voted the most popular girl and boy in the class, Miss Catherine Grey and Donald Mortimer seemed to the most to be the most likely to succeed. Miss Esther Crampton and Murphey were voted the best athletes of the class, and Miss Pound received the award as "the best all-'round girl in 1908." A telescope was next produced and Miss Sanderson, peering through it, took a look into the future and to Mars at the same time, telling what each pupil was doing as seen. This caused much merriment. A parody on "Heidleberg," "Old Naught Eight," composed by Orlando Lounsbury, was then sung. The fareweil message to the school followed, delivered by President Lambert. He spoke of the character-building influences of the four years' course and announced that the class was going to keep together for at least thirty years, doing all in their power to help the school and each other.

The program concluded with a song to the tune of "The Merry Widow." The pupils opened their suitcases, producing "merry-wwids" of enormous size, which they donned before singing the song. With the final chorus, the class "waltzed" off the stage. The words were by Sallo M. Kahn.

Following the program by the class there was an informal dance. Music was furnished by an orchestra of three, headed by Miss Mabel Maxson at the piano. There were twelve dances.

WILL TRY TO REFORM A WAYWARD WOMAN

Edward Kiely, of the borough, and May Willis, who has no particula abiding place, were arrested at an early hour this morning by Patrolman Saunders, who saw them enter a vacant barn on lower Central avenue. They were locked up on charges of disorderly conduct. After a hearing in the city court, Kiely was sent to jail for forty days, while the other defendant was remanded at her own request in order that she might be committed to the House of the Good Shepherd at Newark.

The Willis woman is but twenty-six years old but has frequently been arraigned before Judge Runyon for vagrancy and various offenses. She came to this city from Newark where it is said she also has a police record. The local authorities made an attempt to have her taken care of by relatives but she preferred to lead a wayward life.

P.H.S. BOYS AWARDED ATHLETIC INSIGNIA

Athletic insignia were presented to members of the various Plainfield High School teams at the opening exercises of school this morning in connection with a meeting of the Boys' Athletic Association of the school. Marcus Dey, Benjamin Dodwell, Harry Giddes and Elmer Dodwell were presented with baseball insignia, Dey, Russell Miller and Donld Mortimer received the "P. H. S." as members of the school track team, and the letters were awarded to the managers,—Gus Nash in basketball, W. V. Rafferty, in baseball, Henry Pound in football and G. Stanley Robins in track. The insignia were presented by Principal Ira W. Travell, of the school.

Preceeding the presentation was the termend meeting of the athletic association. This included reports from the various officers and a statement from the treasurer, showing a balance on hand. No more meetings will be held until after the opening of school in September.

The silver cup for the inter-class basketball championship of the school was awarded to the senior class team. The presentation speech was by Principal Travell and the cup was received by Henry Pound, in the absence of the captain, Walter B. Caldwell. It will be added to the school collection of trophies.

NEW BRUNSWICK EAGLES' VISIT TO PLAINFIELD

A delegation of fifty New Brunswick Golden Eagles, including their famous degree team, came to this city in a special car last night and were the guests of the members of Freedom Castle, No. 42. The team worked the third degree on a local candidate in approved style, using their new paraphenalia and costumes. Twenty-five members of the castle at Somerville also came by special trolley and the large turnout of the Freedom Castle members made the meeting am ost successful one.

Following the business session and the degree administration, an informal social hour was spent in the lodge rooms. Grand Sir Herald Horace J. Martin, Sr., made an excellent address, welcoming the visitors and complimenting the New Brunswick degree team. Representatives from the visiting castles also spoke. A sumptuous banquet was served late in the evening. The good and welfare committee, of which Casper Waglow is chairman, provided the feast, which won the hearty approbation of all the Knights.

Oystermen Disproved Story.

After a thorough investigation the Oyster Growers and Dealers Association of North America has refuted the alleged facts concerning the cause of death of Mr. and Mrs. Ferdinand Brendt, of Newark, whose untimely end has been attributed to eating infected oysters. The official report of the Newark Board of Health, it has been found, shows that the husband died from typhoid fever and that the wife from cerebro spinal fever, and, further, that neither had partaken of oysters for a long time before the last illness.

AGED WOMAN IS INJURED

Mrs. Fanny Block Hit by a Motorcycle at the Trolley Stand.

CYCLIST KIRCH IS PAROLED.

While a crowd of people were transferring at the Watchung avenue trolley "stand" at 4:30 yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Fanny Block, 65 years old, of Orchard place, was struck by a motorcycle ridden by Peter Kirch, of West Sixth street. The aged woman was tossed to the sidewalk and collided with a pole, receiving numerous severe bruises about the body. She also bled from the nose and mouth, giving the impression that she had been badly injured.

Mrs. Block was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Morris Abrams, and at the latter's request Patrolman John Kelley had her placed in a cab and removed to her home. Dr. Clawson conducted an examination and found that she suffered greatly from shock but was not seriously injured.

Kirch was placed under arrest and later paroled by Mayor Fisk, his bicycle being held as bail. Mrs. Abrams was in the city court, this morning, for the purpose of preferring a charge against the young man although the police version of the affair attaches no blame to him. He was riding on the right side of the street at a moderate rate of speed and witnesses assert that Mrs. Block stepped in front of the machine after he had sounded a warning. After discussing the matter with Judge Runyon, Mrs. Abrams said she would defer making complaint until she had consulted her lawyer and Mr. Abrams, who is at present out of town.

WEEK END PARTY OF MISS NATALIE BRADLEY.

An enjoyable week-end party was given by Miss Natalie Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morton, at their home on Martine avenue, Fanwood, on June 13. The guests, which included the Misses Amy B. Chapman, Bessie Wilson, Jennie Gould, Dorothy Hoar, Marion Todd, Hazel Gardner and the Messrs. Rex Pelz, Norman Kieb, Herber Knight, Phillip Nieder, Harold Todd, John Kyte and Johua Brush, enjoyed a moonlight strawride chaperoned by Mrs. William Himman on Saturday evening.

On returning from the ride, supper was served on the piazza, which was effectively decorated for the occasion with roses, ferns and Jayanese lanterns. Music and dancing was indulged in, until a late hour. A feature of the evening, was the rendering of some fine selections on the mandolin, by Mr. Philip Nieder of Fanwood, giving additional pleasure to the merry party. Miss Bradley who is an exceedingly attractive girl, has many friends here, and in Brooklyn, where until recently she resided.

THIRTY DAYS IN JAIL FOR CONFIDENCE CROOKS.

Entering a formal charge of vagrancy against them, Detective-Sergeant Flynn arraigned two men in the city court this morning who he declared are confidence crooks of the first calibre. One of them, who gave his age as sixty-four years, the officer described as Cornelius J. Mason, well known to the police all through the East and having a record of several terms in prison. He gave his name as Matthew F. Merrigo. The other defendant went on the blotter as William Hoffman, but this is also an alias.

Both men had pawn tickets in their clothing and neither could give any satisfactory explanation of their presence in the city. Officer Flynn arrested them in the West End last night on recognizing Mason mingling with a crowd. Judge Runyon committed both for thirty days while the police makes inquiries about them.

"The Knockers' Club" Outing.

The members of "The Knockers' Club," have returned from a pleasure trip to Albany and Troy, N. Y. They made the journey by the Albany Day Line steamboats, remaining at Albany long enough to visit the State Capitol and other points of interest there and at Troy. Those in the party were E. M. Laing, Hezekiah Hand, Horace G. Adams, Walter L. Hetfield, Chris. Gloeckler, Henry Liefke, Harry Werner and B. Frank Coriell.

MISS TOWNLEY RESUMES LEAD IN VOTING CONTEST

Impelled to great efforts by her losing first place yesterday, friends of Miss Margaret Townley corraled bunches of votes for her in the Carnival Queen contest, last night, and as a result she returned to the lead today. In this morning's collection there were 930 ballots cast for her and she now has a total of 4,409. Miss Mattie DeCamp, who passed Miss Townley, remains with exactly the same number of votes, 3,655, although this is taken as an indication that her constituents are reserving their strength.

The next largest nmber of ballots polled by a candidate since yesterday is 428, credited to Miss Adams, who is being supported by Plainfield aerie, No. 866, F. O. E. Her standing is 2,540. Miss Hopewell has 2,775 and Miss King 2,713.

In counting the ballots, Captain Daley, the official collector and custodian, finds that somebody with a facetious turn of mind is dropping spurious coins and pieces of lead in the boxes in voting envelopes. It is evidently done as a "bluff" to some one that money is being placed to the credit of a candidate and it gives a false impression as to the daily poll, friends of the young women believing they are not getting full credit. As an instance, an envelope opened today, marked 100 votes, contained a steel washer about the size of a dollar. Anyone not knowing of the deception but seeing the figures would wonder what became of the 100 votes when the standing is given.

MAIL CARRIER FINED BECAUSE HE'S HURT

William Jones, the colored mail carrier, received a severe injury to his foot this morning, while assisting in the unloading of cans of milk from the 10:09 eastbound passenger train. One of the cans slipped and in falling off the truck landed on the man's foot, crushing it. Patrolman John Kelly was nearby at the time and he rendered "first aid to the injured" by making use of strips of flannel obtained from the local bootblack with which he temporarily stopped the flow of blood. Jones was removed to the hospital, where after receiving further treatment at the clinic was taken to his home on West Front street, and is now under the care of Dr. J. C. Anderson.

The accident to Jones would not have happened had he been on time with his load of mail for the 9:59 train. He missed the train by a minute and was obliged to wait for the 10:09. The delay will cost him $1, that being the fine imposed by the postoffice apthorities every time he misses a train. Postmaster Bird is now looking for another man to carry the mail.

"UNCLE JOE" ENTERTAINS JERSEY'S DELEGATION

State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen entertained—as only "Uncle Joe" can—all the New Jersey delegates as well as the visitors from this State to the Republican National convention. The "blow-out" took place at the South Side Athletic Club in the "Windy City," and wireless reports have it that the Union county "hot air" was kept well under control during the painful proceedings in which the Bishops' law played an important part.

B. H. Williams, of Morris county, acted as chairman of an amateur convention, which in exciting incidents had the genuine article "beat a mile." Tom Hillery placed former Governor Murphy in nomination for the Vice-President. Colonel William Barber, of Passaic, representing himself as official political morgue-keeper, strolled in on the scene to announce that he was "looking for dead ones." At that juncture, the Morris county Senator beat a hast exit with his boom.

In Honor of Mrs. F. M. DuBois.

An entertainment and birthday party was given in honor of Mrs. F. M. DuBois, of Fanwood, on Sunday, the affair being attended by guests from Elizabeth, Newark and this city. There was a program of vocal and instrumental music, followed by dancing and supper. There were also recitations by Robert Major, Jr., Melvin and Wilbur Lutes. Mrs. DuBois received many beautiful flowers and other gifts.

FIGHT INJUNCTION PLANK

Battle over Platform on Today at the Republican National Convention.

VERY LITTLE PROGRESS MADE.

Sam Gompers on the Spot—Committee on Credentials to Make Its Report.

Convention called to order by temporary chairman.

Report of Committee on Credentials.

(If the Committee on Credentials is not ready to report, the other business of the Convention will be suspended and the visiting marching clubs will be received by the Convention).

After the Convention has acted on the report of the Committee on Credentials the reports of the following committees will be called for:

Permanent organization.

Rules and Order of Business.

Resolutions.

Selection of honorary vice presidents.

As the delegates assembled for the second day's session of the Republican National Convent on today, according to the New York Evening Telegram reporter there was an air of intense excitement about the big Coliseum.

That there would be a mighty struggle between the administration forces, who want to incorporate a plank in the platform to regulate the issue of injunctions by courts in labor disputes, and the "antis," who favor the elmination of this plank, was believed by all.

There was much discusssion among the arriving delegates over a report that the fight over the labor plank might result in the convention breking away from the President and Taft, but conservative leaders place little credence in these rumors.

They said there was not the shadow of a doubt that the program as already outlined would be carried out and Taft nominated.

They believe that the fight will be settled outside of the convention hall. There are many, however, who do not agree with them and think that the entire subject will be threshed out by the full Convention.

Forces Hard at Work.

The forces on both sides are working harder than ever today. On the one hand is Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, and other labor leaders backed by the President and Mr. Taft, and the Taft managers, and on the other are representatives of the big manufacturing and commercial interests, led by Speaker Cannon, who do not want the party to put itself on record as throwing such a sop to the labor vote.

The Platform Committee held a session before the Convention began and it was said to be a lively one.

Another fruitful topic of discussion for the delegates was the action of the Sub-Committee on Credentials, which, after an all night session, settled the various contests over the seating of delegates in favor of the Taft men.

In view of these disputes in the Committees on Credentials on Platform, there seems to be a fair prospect that the nominating speeches may not be made tomorrow. If there is a battle on the convention floor over the report of the Majority and Minority Committees on Credentials the deliberations of the convention will be prolonged.

Wedding Anniversary Party.

A party was given last evening by Mrs. Bella Ellis, of East Second street, in honor of her sister and the latter's husband, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Barber, who have recently come here from Alfred, N. Y., intending to make Plainfield their future home. About thirty were in attendance, most of whom were former residents of Alfred and acquaintances of Mr. and Mrs. Barber. As it was the sixth anniversary of their marriage.

Van Arsdale Girl Free.

Margaret Van Arsdale, the Dunellen girl convicted of conspiracy and using the mails for the purpose of defrauding investors in Horace A. Blackmur's bucket shop business in New York, through the action of Judge Hough, in the Criminal Branch of the United States Court has escaped a term in prison. Sentence was suspended yesterday.

HOTEL IROQUOIS SITE FOR FEDERAL BUILDING

Another choice site, it is reliably reported, has been offered the Government for the proposed Federal building to be located in this city at a cost of $100,000. It is the Iroquois hotel property at Park avenue and Second street, in the very heart of the business section.

Business men say that this would be an ideal site, situated as it is in the very centre of the Plainfield-North Plainfield community and near the main station of the Jersey Central Railroad. In close proximity is the handsome structure of the Plainfield Trust Company as well as the three other prosperous local banks, the New Plaineld theatre and the many thriving stores.

Report has it that adjoining properties may be obtained by the Government, if Secretary Cortelyou decides that the Iroquois location is the most desirable.

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS HOLD BUSY SESSION

The Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders met in Bedminister township yesterday and viewed the following bridges: One near the residence of John Rynearson, the river bridge near Thomas Moore's and the bridge near William Van Neste's in Peapack; afterwards organization was effected at Howard's Hotel, in the latter place. Mr. Vreeland was the only member absent.

Mr. Poulson moved that a new concrete bridge 40x8 feet be built at the Peapack site and that a paved gutter be made at the junction of the branch road. Carried. Messrs. Poulson, Bunn and Lutkins were appointed as the committee. It was decided to extend the bridge near Rynearson's six feet on the easterly end. The committee appointed were Messrs. Poulson, Bunn and Hoagland.

Mr. Smith reported that two bridges on West Union avenue, borough of Bound Brook, were out of repair. One should be strengthened and a concrete top laid upon the other. The following were appointed the committee, with power: Messrs. Smith, Fitzga and Lutkins.

The board adjourned to meet at the Milltown bridge tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

NEW IDEAITES DEFER FORMAL ORGANIZATION

George W. V. Moy, R. Henry Depew, Frank L. Holt, Arthur Lovell and J. Stephen Higham were the only members of the New Idea party that attended the meeting held in the Coward building last night, called for the purpose of organization, election of officers and adoption of plans for the cming campaign. After a half-hour's informal talk, it was decided to adjourn the meeting to Tuesday night, June 23.

It was stated that through a misunderstanding on the part of the secretary the proper notices were not sent out for last night's meeting and this fact, together with several counter attractions resulted to keeping many persons away. The members present were not the least disturbed over the slim attendance and they expressed th opinion that nothing was to be lost in delay at this time.

A. H. Rubenstein, LL. B.

Among the graduates of the New York Law School who will receive degrees at the commencement exercises to be held at Carnegie Music Hall, New York, tomorrow night, is A. H. Rubenstein, son of I. M. Rubenstein, of East Seventh street. Rubenstein is a graduate of the Plainfield High School in the class of 1905, and during his school course he was High School correspondent for The Daily Press. He has completed his law course in three years. During his work, this bright young man has been getting practical experience at a New York law office. He will study in a law office during the summer, taking his bar examinations in the fall.

Gave a Farewell Reception.

In honor of Mrs. Nicholas Brouard and her daughter, Miss Daisy Brouard, of West Seventh street, who sail for Europe on Saturday, the Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, gave a reception, last night. The affair was an informal one, the whole evening being devoted to sociability, after which refreshments were served. Mrs. Brouard and her daughter will spend the summer abroad, returning home in September.

5,000 AT THE CARNIVAL

Opening of the Firemen's Big Benefit Brings Out a Record Crowd.

PLENTY OF FINE ATTRACTIONS.

The firemen's big carnival is on. It opened at Darrow avenue and Fourth street at 7 o'clock last night and will remain there for the rest of the week, giving delight and entertainment to young and old with its two score forms of diversion. The heavy rain of Monday put over the initial performances but everything was spick-and-span and in apple pie order when Chief Doane gave the word last evening to open up. The crowd came early and by 9 o'clock a conservative estimate places the number of people in attendance at 5,000.

The appearance of the grounds surpasses anything of the kind that has ever been seen in the city and first entrance shows that Manager Berger and his corps of assistants have lived up to all promises. The "fronts" of the main attractions are the costliest carried by a carnival company and are great works of art. They are made up of fancy scroll effects in gold and silver, topped off with genuine oil paintings in place of the cheap circus banners usually displayed. The tents are fitted with comfortable chairs and seats and attendants are stationed to look after the comfort of patrons.

While there are several of the shows that can be called "features," the most pretentious of the twelve that are on the grounds is Sig. Ferari's trained wild animal exhibition. It is located in a big tent faced by the most attractive front on the lot and which conceals a $10,000 electric organ. Cages are arranged about in a circle inside and the collection of jungle beasts shown is equal to that carried by many circuses. It comprises three lions, several tigers, a cage of jaguars and leopards, pumas, bears, hybrids and cougars. The program includes several thrilling acts in a steel arena while others are given in separate cages. The most daring trainer is Captain Clarke, who enters a den which confines "Sultan," a ferocious lion which has killed three men and refuses to be placed in subjection. While Captain Clark accomplishes this daring feat, armed guards are stationed about the cage ready to shoot the animal should it pounce upon him. Another thrilling act is given by Mlle. LaSalle, a handsome young women, who exhibits lions, tigers, leopards and hybrids in a "family" act. She is absolutely fearless and orders the treacherous beasts about as though they were dogs and cats.

The Hindu theatre, with its manifold mysteries, served to draw hundreds of people and gave great satisfaction to all who paid it a visit. This is also housed in a very attractive tent. The Katzenjammer castle, wherein Hans and Fritz and many assistants disport themselves, the Aztec girl; George, the turtle boy, the electric theatre and Leola, the mysterious, are all splendid attractions and deserve the liberal patronage that was accorded them. In addition to these shows there are a score of concessions that furnish diversion for the attendant.

One of the big features, or two of them rather, is the free outdoor acts that Manager erBger has provided. They are a sensational aerial act given by the well known Gilmore family of four members and an entirely new and novel tight-wire performance by the Three Olivers, Miss Hattie Oliver, Perry P. and William J. Oliver. They will be seen each afternoon at 5 o'clock and at night at 10:30. The number given by the Gilmores is one of the breath-catching variety and is exteremely hazardous. The aerialists make sensational leaps from one trapeze to another and at the finish toss a small boy through the air as though they were playing with a baseball.

The tight-wire act of the Oliver is "worth the price of admission alone." All three performers are extremely clever in accomplishing feats of balancing on the slender strand but Miss Hattie does a number of "stunts" that are really marvellous. She is an exceptionally clever young woman and her efforts last night were vigorously applauded by the large crowd that watched her.

Outside of the attractions included in the carnival company's array are a number of booths and bazaars that are solely the arrangement of the firemen and are conducted by them and a corps of volunteers. One of the most popular is the ice cream and cake pavilion in charge of Mrs. William Townley. She has for her assistants, Miss Leona Waters, Miss Alice Mehl, Miss Therea McGinley,

Miss Liela B. Hoagland, of Philadelphia, was entertained over Sunday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hoagland, at Washington and Canal streets, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. Kaziah Corsatt, of Main street, South Bound Brook, is spending several days at the home of her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Sutton, at Farmersville.

Miss Alvira Pearce, of Keyport, is being entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Byer, in Elizabeth street, South Bound Brook.

Mrs. Cornelius Brower spent Sunday with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Millard F. Gray, at Frankfot.

NORTH BRANCH.

William S. Shanks, twenty-nine years old, died a few days ago at his home, near Mt. Horeb. He came to Somerset County about six weeks ago, hoping to benefit his health. He leaves a widow and one son. The body was sent to his former home in New York for burial.

Isaac Davis and family, of Peapack, have been spending a few days with Mr. Davis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willim S. Davis, near North Branch.

Mr. and Mrs. James V. D. Quick have returned to their home in North Branch, after a visit to John Trumpore and family at Centreville.

There will be a business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society in the schoolhouse at North Branch this evening.

Miss Mabel Van Derbeek, of Whitehouse Station, is a guest of Miss Phebe Studdiford at South Branch.

WESTFIELD.

Westfield's Board of Education received bids Monday evening for the new schoolhouse. As there was some points on which the bidders varied the bids will be turned over to the architect and the successful bidder announced later.

Dr. J. J. Savitz, of Westfield, county school superintendent, was one of the judges at the junior oratorical contest at Rutgers College last evening.

The first series of the Westfield Mutual Building and Loan Association were kept open until the meeting last evening, when entries were closed.

The heavy rain of Monday saved the strawberry crop of the farms around Westfield. The crop was suffering from lack of rain.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Veteran Zouaves, of Lincoln, will be guests of Silas Dewey Drake at his home at Beechwood Heights Independence Day. There are now about fifteen surviving members of the organization, commanded by General J. Madison Drake. The corps will parade at Bound Brook in the morning, and will spend the rest of the day at Mr. Drake's home, where dinner will be served and fireworks displayed in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Coffey will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home Saturday night. Two hundred invitations have been issued, and guests are expected from San Francisco, Baltimore and New York. The regular meeting of the Saturday Night Club will be held at Mr. and Mrs. Coffey's the same night.

As graduates of the Plainfield High School in the class of 1908, Miss Marjorie Harris and John Dutcher took part in the class day exercises at the school last night. In the class statistics it was stated that Dutcher is not only the tallest member of the class but also the tallest boy ever graduated from the school.

Mrs. Charles H. Berkheiser has returned home after spending the week with her mother and sister, Mrs. and Miss Cunningham, of New York city.

Members of Friendship Circle will be entertained tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Abraham Van Cleef, of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. McGowan are guests of relatives at Martinsville.

SHOT TO SAVE BROTHER.

Slayer Captured as He Was About To Board a Train.

Flemington, June 17.—Joseph Macciocia, charged with having murdered Rocco Cernore Sunday night, was arrested at Bloomsburg yesterday and committed to jail here. Macciocia says he shot Cernore as the latter was about to stab his brother. The bullet passed through Cernore's brain, killing him instantly.

The trouble, it is said, arose over a game of cards. Macciocia was arrested by Mayor Thomas Hoffman and Chief Dittsworth just as he was about to board a train for Philadelphia.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Heidloff, of Allen place, have purchased a 1908 automobile.

CHURCH FEDERATION FOR SOMERSET COUNTY.

Somerville, June 17.—About thirty representatives of the various churches of Somerset County met in the First Reformed Church of Somerville Monday afternoon, and organized a county inter-church federation. This was in accordance with a resolution adopted at the May meeting of the Raritan Ministerial Association.

Rev. Dr. E. G. Read explained that the objects of such an organization as set forth in the bylaws of the Trenton organization were to express the unity and fellowship of the Christian churches, to bring Christian bodies into united service for Christ, to encourage devotional fellowship, to promote union evangelistic movements and to protect the interests of the Sabbath, temperance, good citizenship and law and order. Fear was expressed by a number of the delegates that such an organization might drift into politics and become a detriment to the church.

It was finally voted to organize and the following officers were elected: President, James L. Griggs; vice-presidents, Rev. P. C. Bascom and Rev. A. S. Philps, of Bound Brook; recording secretary, Rev. E. A. Woods; corresponding secretary, Rev. Samuel Parry; treasurer, W. W. Smalley.

An executive committee, consisting of the officers will have charge of the organization.

DYNAMITE IN OVERALLS SENT TO A LAUNDRY.

Paterson, June 17.—While Isaac Lochman, proprietor of a laundry plant here, was feeding a pair of quarryman's overalls between machine rollers yesterday he felt a hard substance in one of the pockets, and withdrew the garment from the machine to investigate. He was badly scared when he found the articles to be three sticks of dynamite.

The explosive was carried to Garret Mountain and word was sent to the house from which the garments were secured. A woman responded to the summons and stated that her husband was a quarryman. He had thrown the overalls across the railing of a rear porch and believing that the garment was intended for the wash, the woman placed the overalls in a bundle and handed them to a collector for the laundry.

Had the dynamite gone through the rollers of the machine an explosion would likely have occurred sufficiently to wreck part of the establishment.

L. L. Pierce Coming Back.

Trenton, June 17.—Lyman L. Pierce, former general secretary of the Trenton Y. M. C. A., and later general secretary of the Washington Y. M. C. A., has resigned the general secretaryship of the Y. M. C. A movement in Australia and will return to America to become the field officer of the Laymen's Missionary movement. He is likely to establish headquarters in Trenton. During his stay in Australia he raised more than $1,000,000 for Y. M. C. A. work.

—H. C. Compton, of West Front street, has leased a fishing smack at Point Pleasant for the summer, and is planning to spend a greater part of the season there with his son, Alfred Compton, who now resides at that place.

AGED, BUT ATHLETIC.

Paterson Justice Blacks Fighter's Eye and Arrests Him.

Paterson, June 17.—Justice of the Peace David Thompson proved Monday night that age and gray hairs and athletic ability are not inconsistent, when he blacked the eye of Arthur Allen, who is a reputed fighter, and then lugged him off to jail.

The justice told the recorder yesterday morning that he had been called by the young son of Allen, who said his father was fighting on the street; that after he had parted the battlers, Allen "squared" off and wanted to fight. Thompson then remembered that Allen was wanted on charges made before Justice Persey and he decided to arrest him.

The recorder, after listening to the stories of both parties, decided to hold Allen for Justice Persey.

In Honor of Miss Higgins.

The Watchung Euchre Club gave a surprise party Saturday night in honor of Miss A. G. Higgins, who is about to remove to Springfield. Progressive euchre and "Five Hundred" were enjoyed, after which refreshments were served. Miss Higgins was presented with two handsome books, Shakespeare's complete works and Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter." The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Louie Snoden, Mr. and Mrs. George Mobus, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cleaves, the Misses Bicknell and Walter Linbarger, John Clark, William Cleaves, Mrs. Hattie Williams, of Brooklyn and Miss Helen Johnson, of Hopewell.

Merchants Postpone Meeting.

The Plainfield Merchants' Association met Monday night and although there was a quorum present, it was decided not to transact any business until the adjourned meeting next Tuesday night, when matters of importance are to be discussed. The rain Monday night detained many of the members whose presence is desired. As to the question of keeping the local shops open on Saturday, July 4, the association will take no action, allowing the merchants to do as they think best.

The Woman's Side of It.

How can a man say that a woman has nothing to do? In one year she gets dinner 365 times, washes the dishes 1,095 times, gets the children ready for school twice a day or 180 days, puts the baby to sleep 1,460 times, makes about 300 calls; and as she wishes for something she hasn't every minute, she wishes 60 things an hour, or 53,600 things in a year. Who says that a woman has nothing to do?

Summer Privileges at the Library.

The summer privileges of taking books away for one's vacation has been inaugurated at the Public Library and already a number have availed themselves of the privilege. Recently, the library purchased a number of illustrated pamphlets on vacation tours, rates, etc., and these are on a table in the reading room where they may be freely consulted.

Last Meeting of Church Society.

Closing exercises marking the conclusion of the season's work of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Warren Chapel will be held tomorrow at the chapel. W. D. Murray will be the speaker. All are invited.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

During the balance of the summer the Sunday-school of the First Baptist church will meet in the morning, instead of the afternoon.

The missionary and aid society of Warren Chapel will hold the final meeting of the season in the chapel, Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The Intermediate and Junior Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will suspend its meetings during July and August.

"Doing Christ's Service Not Only With an Outward but With Our Inward Life," will be the subject of the mid-week prayer service at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tonight.

The members of the choir of the First Baptist church will have their annual vacation during the month of August, at which time the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will be enjoying his summer outing.

Mrs. C. K. Compton and Mrs. B. J. Shreve were in charge of the meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society and the Women's Foreign Mission Circle, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, held yesterday at the home of Mrs. H. H. Moore, 95 Grove street. The Ladies' Aid Society also received the money that the members have been earning in place of holding the annual lawn fete. It was the closing meeting for the year.

PERSONAL.

James R. Blair, Isaac Vail and Elvain VanNamee spent yesterday fishing at Bound Brook.

Miss Helen Smith, of Jersey City, has returned home after spending a week with relatives here.

Miss Marguerite McCutchen, who has been visiting out of town for a few weeks, has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sehring, of Merchantville, who have been visiting relatives and friends here, have returned home.

Miss Margaret Kenney, of East Second street, a student at Barnard College, has returned home for the summer vacation.

Robert Guttridge, of South avenue, who has been detained at home with an injury to his back, is improving under the care of Dr. A. F. VanHorn.

Tenadore Van Cleef and his daughter, Miss Edna Van Cleef, who have been spending several months with Plainfield relatives, returned to their home in East Millstone, yesterday.

WOMAN GRAPPLES BURGLAR.

Bayonne Housewife Knocked Unconscious with Blackjack—Two Arrests in Elizabethport.

Bayonne, June 17.—Mrs. William C. Cody, of Trosk avenue and Third street, was knocked unconscious by two burglars late yesterday afternoon, after she had struggled with them several minutes when she surprised them at work in her home, and while she lay insensible they escaped.

The woman was found on the floor of her home by Overseer of the Poor Fred C. Boorman, a neighbor, who had heard her screams, and he summoned a doctor, who restored her. Today she is ill abed from the shock.

Mrs. Cody had been shopping and returned about 5:30 o'clock and came upon the intruders in a rear room. She realized their purpose when she saw a bundle of her husband's clothes and other articles tied up with a table cloth. Without hesitation she grappled with one of the men and endeavored to get hold of a baseball bat belonging to her son, which was standing in the corner of the hallway. During her fight one of the men hit her with a blackjack on the head and she dropped unconscious.

The men made their exit through a rear window they had forced open. The police sent out an alarm to adjacent cities.

James Carr, nineteen years old, and John Coyle, twenty years old, were arrested at the Elizabethport Station of the Jersey Central Railroad this morning on suspicion of being the men implicated.

BAN ON HARD CIDER.

Summit Seller Fined for Selling It on a Sunday.

Summit, June 17.—Police Justice Hicks yesterday imposed a fine of $25 on Vincenzo Lamdolfi, proprietor of a store in Chestnut avenue, who pleaded guilty to selling hard cider on Sundays. Chief of Police Brown purchased a jug of the cider sold by Lamdolfi, and testified that after imbibing a small quantity he felt an intoxicating effect.

Elmer McKirgan, for Lamdolfi, argued that cider might make one sick, but would not cause intoxication, but the chief had present a number of witnesses whom he expected to show had become drunk from drinking the cider. These witnesses, however, were not called.

Watchung Pupils Picnic.

The teachers and pupils of the Watchung School held a picnic Monday at the mill property of H. Texier, the rain preventing the carrying out of the original plans. The pupils of Mrs. Higgins presented her with a handsome carving set, while Miss Higgins received a seal ring. The pupils succeeded in making the gifts a complete surprise to their teachers, adding another to their many tributes of loyalty and affection.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Horses in Gloucester are dying with a strange new disease, in which they are attacked with a cough and a swelling in the throat.

Puncturing a blister on his left hand with a piece of ice, William J. Kelton, a commission merchant, of 811 Spruce street, Camden, is suffering from blood poisoning.

Michael Duffy, of Trenton, was seated in his yard yesterday holding a little grandchild in his lap, when a runaway horse dashed against him and broke his leg. The child was not hurt in the least.

Samuel Kendall, of Millville, who fell asleep on the trolley track and had one of his legs so badly mangled that amputation was necessary, is reported by Dr. Kirk at the Emergency Hospital to be recovering.

The South Jersey Farmers' Picnic Association, which is composed of the leading farmers of Camden, Burlington, Gloucester, Salem and Atlantic counties, has decided to hold its annual picnic this year at Washington Park, on Wednesday, August 13.

Losing its balance while leaning from the second floor window at its home on Cohansey avenue, Bridgeton, yesterday, the three-year-old son of David Blumenfield fell to the ground, a distance of twenty-five feet, but escaped with slight bruises.

Forty dollars in gold, intended for teeth filling, was part of the booty stolen yesterday from the home of Dr. George W. Mellor, a dentist, of 899 Avenue C, Bayonne. The thieves stole considerable jewelry, including a diamond pin belonging to Mrs. Mellor, valued at $250.

The Bayonne police are searching for a man and woman who swindled George J. Donegan, of 696 Broadway, a furniture dealer, out of $90. While the man took Mr. Donegan upstairs, saying he wanted to purchase furniture, the woman robbed the till, using a key to open the drawer.

Dr. Lewis H. Miller, of Woodstown, seems to be having more than his share of trouble. Sunday night he fell downstairs and injured his leg. Five weeks ago he buried his only child. Two weeks later he was shot in the shoulder by a crazy man and yesterday he buried his wife.

The parents of Mary Kelly, aged seventeen years, of 254 Twelfth street, Bayonne, asked the police yesterday to search for her. She has been missing since Saturday, when she left home to go to Melville Park, a local amusement resort. She wore a Merry Widow hat, white shirtwaist and dark skirt.

The condition of Miss Amey Mark Watson, thirty years old, daughter of Mark W. Watson, a prominent resident of Allegheny City, who was found unconscious from gas from a range in Rev. George Young's cottage, in Plymouth place, Ocean City, Sunday night, is critical.

Policemen Elliott and Lyons, Sergeant Gallagher, Mayor Lincoln and a big crowd of citizens of Gloucester, with guns and clubs, yesterday joined in a mad dog chase, and for seven squares they followed in hot pursuit of the dog, which was frothing at the mouth, before they killed it at Middlesex street and Railroad avenue.

Kraft, who has been the slab artist for Somerville this season, has signed to pitch for High Bridge and will be with that club for the rest of the year.

"Billy" O'Loughlin will continue to receive Randolph's deceptive curves and twists for the rest of the season. His work last Saturday at Somerville showed that he is equal to the position. Moffett, who is a good fielder, will be stationed in the outer-garden.

It is thought Elmer Flick will be able to don a uniform for the Clevelands in about ten days.

Bridwell, the New York Nationals' shortstop, has been laid off indefinitely. He wasn't sufficiently active in obeying instructions, it is said.

It would be hard to make anybody around here believe that the Cincinnatis have much chance of beating the Pittsburgs out.

Two points in which Hugh Jennings is achieving success this season are criticising rival teams and getting suspended by Ban Johnson.

Leroy, the Indian pitcher, formerly with the New York Americans, is now with the St. Paul team, and with Catcher Meyers forms a genuine aborigne battery.

The game last Saturday wasn't the first extra inning one Bob Ewing has pitched at the Polo Grounds. He won an eleven inning game there a few seasons ago and held the New Yorks to one hit.

Elberfield, it is argued, will when he gets in the game again, be a help to the Highlanders because of his ginger. But anybody who hits the ball as hard as Ball does must have something that is a valuable substitute for ginger.

Griffith's pitching staff misses Joe Doyle very much just now. It ought to improve as soon as Doyle joins the team. At that, however, the team would be higher up if the work in other departments had been as good as it has been in the box.

GOLF.

Prizes galore have been offered for the Hudson Rivers golfers. According to the conditions, the men will qualify in three sixteens, and in addition to cups for beaten eights in these three divisions the Briarcliff Golf Club has offered a trophy for all players defeated in the morning rounds on Friday. There will be the usual eighteen-hole medal play handicap on the last day. The Hudson River title has been won four times in succession by Gilman P. Tiffany, of the Powelton Golf Club, but it is extremely doubtful if he will defend his title this year.

It is expected that at least one hundred players will take part in the East Jersey Golf League tournament at Forest Hill. Competitions at both match and medal play have been provided for, and in addition there will be a team contest extending through both days. Contestants will qualify in four sets of eights on Friday morning. Since the last important tournament was held over the Forest Hill links the course has been extended until now it covers a playing length only a trifle less than six thousand yards.

Several team matches for the season have been arranged by the New Brunswick Golf Club. On June 27 the New Brunswick forces will play at the Trenton Country Club, while on July 18 the former will receive a deleagtion from the Suburban Club, of Elizabeth. The return match with Suburban has been arranged for August 22. The New Brunswick team will visit the course of the Flushing Golf Club on September 12, and on October 3 the Trenton team will visit New Brunswick. The latter's team will consist of Tracy Smith, M. A. Wilson, N. N. Williamson, A. Kirkpatrick, C. T. Letson, K. R. Wilson, R. A. Smith and C. A. McCormick.

The abandonment of the Olympic golf tournament that was to have been held over the Deal and Sandwich courses, England, last week, has created considerable criticism in golf circles. Considering, however, the antagonistic feeling entertained by many of the leading golfers abroad, the action was not unexpected. A foreign publication has this to say on the subject:

"The attitude of leading Scottish golfers and the involved conditions of entry have combined to wreck the schemes for the Olympic tests at golf. During the championship meeting at Sandwich, in the last week of May, no one could be found who possessed any information on the subject. Ryder Richardson had submitted the names of those eligible under the St. George's Cup competition to the Olympic committee in London, and there his duties for the moment ceased, though had the meeting taken place at Sandwich and Deal he would have had some voice in its control as secretary of the Royal St. George's Club, but after the strongly antagonistic attitude of certain members of the Royal and Ancient Club it was not altogether surprising that the Olympic committee decided to abandon the meeting. G. S. Lyon, Lambton Golf and Country, Toronto, made a good entry, and H. L. Gaw, Philadelphia County, also desired to play, but through some informality he came without the specific nomination of his club.

SENIOR-JUNIOR RIVALRIES MARK END OF N. P. H. S. TERM

Term-end "high jinks" prevailed at the Somerset street school today, for the seniors and juniors had no examinations and spent the morning in the proverbial inter-class rivalry. This year the main object was to get a class banner on the main flag pole of the school. The seniors, after considerable trouble, got possession of the tower and swung their yellow and purple banner from there to the top of the flag pole.

Rejoicing in this victory, the graduates got careless and the juniors succeeded in locking them up in the tower, where they spent more than an hour, released only on the intervention of the school authorities. The seniors consider the flag raising a victory for their class, however, although the maker of the banner, in the haste and enthusiasm of the moment, produced the general effect of "80," in stead of "'08" desired.

The Emperor and Dr. Hill.

Plainfielders who have watched with interest the career of Dr. David J. Hill, American Ambassador to Germany, once a Plainfield lad, cannot fail to be interested in the account of his reception by the German Emperor, which was most gracious.

According to Monday's cable from Berlin, from one who was present when Dr. Hill presented his letters crediting him, the Kaiser, who received him in audience, was full of small attentions to America's latest representative and was highly pleased with Dr. Hill's ready replies upon the subjects discussed.

Dr. Hill, on his side, was much impressed by the Emperor's magnetism, his knowledge of American matters and his friendly, informal manner. It was a case of mutual interest at sight. The audience took place in the garden of the Berlin palace.

ELEVATOR CABLE BREAKS; OCCUPANTS GET A FRIGHT

Prosecutor Swift, of Elizabeth, and Assistant Prosecutor Walter L. Heifield, Jr., of this city, in particular, and all the occupants of the Dix building at Elizabeth in general, were given a nervous shock when the elevator became deranged yesterday afternoon, and a broken cable end was sent hurtling through the skylight, which broke with a crash and showered glass down the shaft. The weight fell with a thud to the bottom of the elevator well. No one was hurt.

The Prosecutor and his assistant were in the elevator. Charles Jackson, who runs it, had stopped the car to let them off at the fourth floor. Just as the elevator came to a stop, and as Jackson was opening the door, the car gave a slight lurch and the crash came. Jackson, thoroughly frightened, pushed his passengers one side and dove into the hallway, closely followed by the others. Those in the various offices, hearing the commotion, rushed into the halls to see what had happened.

The trouble was caused by a defective strand at the point where the cable is joined to the large weight which acts as a counterbalance to the car. This broke and the weight fell with a crash to the bottom of the shaft, pulling the cable over the pulley at the top with such speed as to send the end whirling through the skylight, which was shattered, adding to the general commotion. That the car did not drop was due to the fact that an emergency clutch was thrown on by the slight tipping of the car.

The "country store," which occupies a prominent place near the center of the grounds, has William Chamberlain for its proprietor and the saleswomen are the Misses Florence and Cora Neighbor and Miss Anna Boyd. They have a fine line of general "notions" and quote bargains by the yard. They did a thriving business last night and will undoubtedly make a great showing when finances are reckoned. An auxiliary booth, somewhat on the lines of those very much in evidence at the hospital carnivals, is in charge of Mrs. Joseph Clark, Mrs. Mamie Clark, Miss Elizabeth Casey and Miss Theresa Hibbits. Candy is sold at a separate stand by Miss Anna Daley, Miss Mary Smith and Miss Sarah Gilligan.

No carnival is complete without a "hot dog" stand and the firemen's affair has a big one personally supervised by Thomas Timbo, inventor and patentee of the hurry-up process of serving a large roll and half a pound of meat for a nickle. His staff of French chefs and expert servers comprises Thomas Burke, Joseph Lane, Frank Schuck and Theodore Larew. It is needless to state that they passed out a few thousand of the simmering canines to say nothing of the cigars and bowls of Timbo's famous coffee.

The list of firemen and volunteers who acted as ticket-takers, sellers or barkers at the various attractions, is as follows: Carousal No. 1, Edward Grannatt, Stephen Staats and Edward Brown; carousal No. 2, James McLean; the Aztec girl, John Kriney; Hindu theatre, E. Victor Lorton; Ferari animal show, Howard Manning and Martin Connaughton; Katzenjammer castle, Edward Vail; Leola, Herbert Fluck; plantation show, Joseph Robinson; Little George, the turtle boy, John McClelland; the ferris wheel, Arthur Robinson; Little Amy, Bert Willoughby; vaudeville show, Lewis Feiring and Captain James Daley. Firemen Neylon and Pennington gather up tickets at the main entrance.

The general committee in charge of the firemen's end of the carnival is made up of Chief T. O. Doane, chairman; John H. Cose, secretary; Assistant Chief Andrew Jennings, treasurer; Captain James Daley, Captain William Townley, Foreman Williams Addis and Joseph Clark.

The carnival grounds will be open every afternoon from 1 o'clock on and special attractions will be provided for children. Competent attendants will look after them at all of the shows and amusement devices and in this way they can be much better pleased than if they visit the carnival in the evenings when the rush is on.

Tomorrow night will be "Plainfield Business College Night" at the grounds and pupils and former pupils of the school will be assigned some special work in connection with the management of the various attractions. Many of the pupils have volunteered to help the firemen by working at the Carnival.

Teachers' R. R. Tickets.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Any of your readers who are thinking of attending the meeting of the National Education Association in Cleveland would be interested in the following notice:

Owing to a decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the method of getting reduced rates has been changed. Heretofore it has been the custom to buy a ticket one way and a certificate, getting the return ticket at the place of the meeting. Instead of this, it is now necessary to buy a round trip ticket which can be purchased at the rate of one and one-half fare for the round trip. Any person who purchases a ticket one way, only, according to previous custom, cannot secure reduced rates at Cleveland.

Anent Voting Machines.

Editor, The Daily Press:

To the citizen there is but one aspect of the voting machine subject that is really worth while, and that is the moral side of it, as it affects the citizen, his community and his country. Not only to permit him but to compel him to vote honestly is the needful thing.

You may shout about ballot reform until doomsday and cry out against corruption of the voter and the debauching of his ballot until the last trump, but you will never be nearer the reform or farther from the corruption and debauching than when closeted alone with your conscience within the curtains of a voting machine. There, no man's hand stays, no influence of pelf reaches, no mark or sign identifies. The voter comes out with full assurance and consequent joy that no man has knowledge of his act.

In this matter of the use of voting machines, law aside then all questions of mere utility, all consideration of time and expense saving, all prejudices growing out of inertia, ignorance or chagrin of defeat, look straight at the question. "Do you or do you not desire a pure ballot?

CHANCERY'S DECREE FAVORS FORECLOSURE

Before Vice Chancellor Howell in Chancery chambers at Newark, yesterday afternoon, argument was made in the case of the New Jersey Produce Company against Morris Kunzman and Louis Pollock, both of this city, anoutcome of a suit in the District court.

James Nash, president of the complaining company, secured judgment for $195 for goods sold Pollock. When levy was about to be made, Kunzman claimed possession of Pollock's property, stating that he held a mortgage on it for $650. A trial for right of property resulted, the case being heard in the District court and a jury returning a verdict in favor of Kunzman. Nash then took the matter to the Court of Chancery and secured a rule from Chancellor Pitney for Kunzman and Pollock to show cause why Kunzman should not be restrained from foreclosing the mortgage, claiming it was fraudulent and that no consideration had been given for it, gaining a temporary injunction.

The injunction argument was heard before Vice Chancellor Howell yesterday and at its conclusion he dismissed the rule and bill with costs. This will allow Kunzman to foreclose. The vice chancellor also announced that the decision of the district courts in matters of this kind should be allowed to stand and that he would receive no appeals.

MUNICIPAL WATER PLANT COMMISSION REPORT READY.

It is announced that the final meeting of the Plainfield Water Commission, appointed by Mayor Fisk a year ago, will be held at the Smalley building on Friday night when the voluminous and thorough report will be signed by the members. This report, which is spread over 100 typewritten pages, will be transmitted to City Clerk MacMurray and will be laid before the Common Council on Monday night, June 6.

What the report will be is still problematical but it is generally believed that the Commission will confine itself to laying before the city fathers the exact results of its investigations. It is supposed that no direct recommendations will be made.

"BEECHWOOD HEIGHTS" NEW C. R. R. STATION.

Through the influence of Silas Dewey Drake, the promoter, a depot is now in course of construction on the Central Railroad at Beechwood Heights. The road granted his request for a station at that point and the building is being put up on land owned by George H. Hill, of New York. A regular schedule of trains to stop at the new station will be announced shortly.

This is the third depot that Mr. Drake has succeeded in securing for new tracts on the Central in the past fifteen years. He was influential in the construction of the stations at Lorraine and Lincoln.

Annual Lawn Party and Sale.

The annual sale of home-made cakes and candies, combined with a lawn party and tea will be held Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock under the auspices of the Benevolent Band of The King's Daughters on the lawn of Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna on Watchung avenue. This affair is always looked for to by the members and friends of the Band with unusual pleasure. The proceeds will be used for the charitable work carried on by the members.

STONE ROADS.

Proposals are asked for the construction of a Macadam Road on Terrill Road, which is the dividing line between the City of Plainfield and the Borough and Township of Fanwood, Union County, New Jersey, from Green Brook to South Avenue.

The length of the roadway between said points is about 5,495 lineal feet. The width of the stonework is sixteen (16) feet.

Earth excavation, 7703¾ cubic yards.

Extra earth excavation for embankment, 4,054 cubic yards.

Eight inch macadam, 9587.2 square yards.

Six inch underdrains, 0.

Plans, profiles and specifications for this work may be examined at the office of the County Engineer, 201 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Bidders must enclose with their bids a certified check for $1,000.00, made payable to the Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., as a guarantee that if the contract be awarded to such bidder, the bidder will enter into an agreement with the Board of Chosen Freeholders for the performance of the work according to the specifications.

Bids for the above described work will be received and opened by the County Road Committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, New Jersey, at the Court House, Elizabeth, N. J., at 2:30 p. m., on Friday, July 3, 1908.

The said Board of Chosen Freeholders or its Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, as they may deem best for the interests of the county.

J., at 8 o'clock p. m. on Monday, the sixth day of July, A. D. Nineteen Hundred and Eight, at which time and place prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.

J. T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., June 16, 1908.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with Permanent and Durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council July 1st, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 3 of an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with Permanent and Durable Brick Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council July 1st, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907, be amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the city do hereby, pursuant to the authority of an act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled 'An Act to authorize the improvement of streets and highways in cities of this State, and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same,' approved June 13, 1898, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, authorize the issuing of forty coupon municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield, of One Thousand Dollars each, amounting in all to Forty Thousand Dollars, which bonds shall be dated September 1st, 1907, shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, and be payable as follows, that is to say, on the first day of September of each of the years 1910 and 1911 four bonds of $1,000 each, and on the first day of September of each and every year from 1912 to 1918, both inclusive, two bonds of $1,000 each, and on the first day of September of each and every year from 1919 to 1924, both inclusive, three bonds of $1,000 each, which bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and bear the corporate seal of the city, attested by the City Clerk, and may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than par value, and there shall be raised by tax in each year hereafter such sum of money as may be necessary to pay the interest on all outstanding bonds, and the principal of such bonds as may mature during that year, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds."

AND IT'S SUCH A LITTLE THING, TOO!

Mr. Luggins made a wild dash for an up-town subway express and missed it by the tenth of an inch. Then he walked back to the center of the platform and stopped.

"I've forgotten something," he muttered. "I know I've forgotten something."

Now, Mr. Luggins' arms and pockets were so filled with bundles that it seemed utterly ridiculous for him to say he had forgotten anything.

"Yes," he continued; "I have forgotten something. But what in thunder it is I can't make out. It's not Susan's hair ribbon, for that's in my upper vest pocket; it's not Ann's tooth paste, for that's in my lower vest pocket; and it's not Bobbie's collars, for I'm sure I stuffed them in my hat. Now, what in the dickens can it be? It can't be the stove polish, or the picture wire, or the bird seed, or the sample package of Peeled Wheat, or the toothpicks, for they're in this bundle; and it can't be the carpet tacks, or the spool of No. 40 cotton, or the bottle of marking ink, or the colored post cards, for they're all in that bundle. Maybe it's— Yes, by heavens, that's it! I've forgotten to buy the piano!"—J. P. Rome, in Judge.

The Weight of Years.

"A woman," remarked the observer of things and events, "doesn't begin to feel the weight of years until she discovers her first gray hair."

"And a man," rejoined the strong-minded female, "begins to feel the weight of them on his twenty-first birthday, and it takes about 15 years for it to wear off."—Chicago Daily News.

Why Not?

Tommie was having his hair cut, and the barber got the shears pretty close to the boy's head, so Tommie began to cry.

"Oh, fie, Tommie!" said his mother; "you don't cry when I'm cutting you a piece of pie!"

"Well, I do if you cut it too short!"—Yonkers Statesman.

Sign of Trouble.

"I'm afraid I'm going to lose our hired girl."

"What makes you think so?"

"I heard her telephoning to her beau and she said she expected to spend the summer at Newport. I wish to goodness those hotel men would hire their dining-room girls elsewhere."—Detroit Free Press.

SMART MAN, BROWN!

"But I say, Brown, why do you wear that awful hat?"

"Because, my dear chap, Mrs. Brown vows she will not go out of the house with me till I get a new one."

Vernal Immunity.

Who cares though north winds feebly blow
And skies look down in sullen rage?
At present 'tis enough to know
We've gotten past the blizard stage.
—Washington Star.

A Wise One.

"That author keeps his identity closely concealed."

"Yes; until I read his books I thought it was due to modesty."

"Isn't it?"

"No; discretion."—Sacred Heart Review.

The Archives.

"You can't always judge a politician by his campaign text-book."

"No," answered Senator Sorghum, "but you could often find out a lot that's interesting and important by getting a look into his check-book."—Washington Star.

Tenure Explained.

"That man makes a great many mistakes," said one factory employe.

"Yes," answered the other, "more than all the rest of us put together. The foreman keeps him around to have some one to jump on and show that he's boss."—Washington Star.

Signs of Favor.

"What makes you think our candidate is not popular with the masses?" inquired one political promoter.

"Because," answered the other, "no one makes fun of his whiskers or calls him by his first name."—Washington Star.

Expectations and Hopes.

"You must expect to work if you are elected to office," said the serious statesman.

"Of course," answered the easy-going man. "I'll expect to work. But that won't prevent me from hoping to be disappointed."—Washington Star.

Quite of Her Opinion.

Gushing Young Lady (to famous actor)—Oh, Mr. Sinclair, I did so want to have a talk with you. I'm kimply mad to go on the stage.

Sinclair—Yes; I should think you would be, my dear young lady!

EVER HAVE IT?

If You Have, the Statement of This Plainfield Citizen Will Interest You.

Ever have a "low-down" pain in the back?

In the "small," right over the hips?

That's the home of backache.

It's caused by sick kidneys.

That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.

Plainfield people endorse this. Read a case of it:

Mrs. Julia Hynes, of 523 Sixth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For nearly a year I was suffering from a severe pain in the lions, or what is generally called backache. I was also afflicted with a stiffness or lameness of the limbs and the kidney secretions were highly colored and contained some sediment. Any remedies that I took to clear up the kidney secretions and rid me of my aches and pains did me apparently no good. I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills doing so much for people suffering as I was, so began using them, getting a supply at Randolph's drug store. Though at first I saw no change in my condition, I soon began to have less pain in my back and my limbs were not stiff any more. I kept right on with their use and took them several months, with the result that they cured me of my trouble. I am glad to endorse them."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Freedom From Furnace Dust

To shake a furnace and have the dust sift throughout a freshly cleaned house is exasperating to any housewife, and a needless annoyance. The

BOYNTON

is constructed with a special flue for carrying off all the dust when shaking, and a cutting bar for smashing clinkers so that no poker is needed. A talk with a Boynton dealer will make you aware of its many labor-saving and coal-saving advantages, and why you should get rid of your old furnace and install a Boynton

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for steam or hot water. Also ranges.

SUBMARINE FINANCE.

There was an ancient mariner
For threescore years and ten
He'd worked upon a submarine
Until the proud day when
He'd viewed his warlike craft complete,
The happiest of men.

The government inspectors came
And marveled greatly o'er
The wonderful invention that
Was moored down by the shore
The old inventor glowed with pride
And dreamed of wealth galore

They sped across the ocean's foam
The men began to think
This craft the great problem had solved.
Its wonders made them blink
In fact, it would do anything
Required of it but—sink

The old man was no financier,
His purse was not rotund,
He'd just enough to float his craft,
But not a cent beyond
You see, he'd been unable to Provide a sinking fund
—Roy K. Moulton, in Judge.

Not So Bad.

Mr. Subbs (after engaging cook)—There's one other thing I suppose you should know, Miss Flannigan—my wife is a chronic invalid, confined to her room.

Miss Flannigan—That's fine! I wor afeerd she might be wan iv thim chronic kickers that ar're confined t' th' kitchen, begobs!—Puck.

Being Firm.

Wife (displaying a large lampshade, recently purchased)—Isn't that perfectly lovely, my dear? And it only cost five dollars.

Husband (severely)—If you wear that to church to-morrow, you'll go alone. There's a limit to everything, including hats.

No Pride About Her.

Mistress—You have always been so careful, Mary, that I can't understand how you happened to break that vase this morning.

Mary—Well, you see, mum, I never have broke nothing, and I was afraid you would be thinking that I might want to get above my station.

As Advertised.

"What's your time?" asked the old farmer of the brisk salesman.

"Twenty minutes after five. What can I do for you?"

"I want them pants," said the old farmer, leading the way to the window and pointing at a ticket marked: "Given away at 5.10."—Judge.

Ran the Ark.

Sunday-school Teacher—Now, Willie, can you tell me who were the archangels?

Willie—I s'pose Noah must have been one of them.—Judge.

HE WAS WISE.

Grace—Now, when you ask papa, face him like a man.

Harry—You bet I will. I'm not going to give him a chance to kick.

Father to the Man.

The man who sighs for the bygone day
When a barefoot boy he ran
Is the same old boy who used to say:
"Gee, I wish I was a man!"
—Chicago Daily News.

Taking No Chances.

"Oh, the sorrow of it!" sobbed the fair maid. "Last night I refused Mr. Blank, and this morning his body was found in the river."

"Poor fellow!" murmured her girl friend. "I suppose he was afraid you might change your mind."—Chicago Daily News.

Very Likely.

Church—You know out in Pittsburg the dust and soot settle down on everything.

Gotham—I suppose the baseball fields must look like black diamonds, then?—Yonkers Statesman.

Foreign and Domestic.

His Wife (reading)—I see they had a bread riot in Spain recently.

Her Husband—Yes; and we'll have one at home soon if there isn't an improvement in your biscuits.—Chicago Daily News.

Exaggerated Language.

Son (who has been caught reading a penny dreadful)—Unhand me, tyrant, or there may be bloodshed.

Father—No, my son; there will be nothing more serious than toolshed. Come, that is where the strap hangs.

A Better Idea.

Clara Winterbloom—There is only enough to about half fill this trunk. What shall I do—fill it with papers?

Mrs. Winterbloom—No, let your father pack it.

Conversation.

"A man likes to hear hisse'f talk so well," said Uncle Eben, "dat mos' conversation looks jes' like people impatiently waitin' deir turns to say somp'in.'"—Washington Star.

WAITRESS THRASHES PUGILISTIC PATRON

HURLS OUT CAPTIOUS DINER WHO BEATS HER BOSS AND THE MAN CASHIER.

Waterbury, Conn.—Miss Bessie Hogan has been an athletic and social leader in fashionable waitress society ever since she carried 16 meals on one tray to hungry prisoners in the courthouse on a day so cold and slippery that not a waiter dared to take as much as a cup of coffee across the street. But Miss Bessie has won new athletic laurels. She "fired" from the restaurant, where she serves, but never stands and waits, a person who had thrashed the proprietor and the man cashier.

Miss Bessie, who is 25 years old, weighs 150 pounds and stands five feet nine inches, not measuring one of the lovellest pompadours in Waterbury. She had placed a portion of chicken livers and mushrooms before Miss Bunny De Grey, a favorite on the New England vaudeville circuit, and was conversing pleasantly, as is her wont, with Miss De Grey, when the person entered the restaurant.

He was large and unpleasant of visage, and he bore a cargo of alcohol that had listed to starboard. He ordered three boiled eggs. After opening them he said he had "asked for eggs, not fricasseed chicken." He made so many other radical remarks that L. W. Hale, the restaurateur, started to put him out. In a second Mr. Hale found himself under Miss De Grey's table, with much of chicken livers and mushrooms scattered over him.

"I'm going to clean out this place," yelled the intruder.

Miss De Grey fled, shrieking. Other women and men at the tables shivered with fear. Calmly Miss Bessie rolled up her sleeves. She got a neck and nearthigh hold of the unpleasant person, ran him, face forward, about 15 feet and hurled him into the street without taking the trouble to open the door.

"What's your name?" asked the police surgeon, called to headquarters to pick pieces of glass from the egg critic.

"I'm ashamed to tell you," said he. "Just to think—a woman—"

Miss Bessie remains at her post of duty, simple, unaffected still.

NAUGHTY MEN WITH RATS.

They Drop 'Em Near Pretty Hello Girls' Skirts and Then—! !

Pittsburg, Pa.—A small army of telephone girls have made formal complaint to Superintendent of Police McQuaide that the feminine weakness to lift skirts when they see a rat is known to men in offices near the Bell telephone exchange in Seventh avenue, and is being utilized in a mean manner. A committee of the Bell's girls called on McQuaide, and the speaker came right to the point, saying: "We girls have to pass these warehouses and big wholesale houses as we come to work in the morning. The men and boys catch rats in traps during the night and they always manage to drop them out of the traps about the time we telephone girls are going past. Nine times out of ten the rat will try to escape by getting under our skirts and—"

"I see, I see," said McQuaide, rubbing his hands.

"Sir!" almost screamed the little speaker.

"I mean that I will see that there is no more of this," stammered McQuaide.

Forces Hens to Sign Pledge.

Champaign, Ill.—The sight of 40 drunken chickens lying helpless opposite his door has caused George Henson of Urbana to insist that all applicants for positions in his henhouse must hereafter sign the pledge.

When Henson threw away a quantity of fermenting cherries the chickens eagerly ate them. They all became so helpless that they could not stand without the assistance of a fence or a tree. Next morning all were afflicted with headaches, and egg laying was suspended for several days after the bout.

Every fowl has now been forced to sign the pledge on pain of instantly being turned into fricasseed chicken.

French India imports about $1,250,000 and exports about $5,000,000. The colony has a population of 275,000, of whom only 1,100 are Europeans.

HAPPY DESPITE THEIR POVERTY.

Residents of Sunny Naples Seem Never to Repine.

It is estimated that a quarter of a million people in Naples live from hand to mouth, and there are hundreds of children who subsist out of the garbage boxes, and who sleep in churches and on doorsteps.

The taxes in Italy to provide warships and to keep the nation on a war footing with the other powers are really stupendous. There is a tax on everything, says the Delineator—grain in the field, fruit on the vine, old bottles. Fuel and foodstuffs are very dear—only labor is cheap. For the very poor, meat is a luxury unheard of and even macaroni is too dear to be indulged in often. There are any number of perambulating street kitchens, where various kinds of soup, cakes and fruits are sold in portions costing one cent. And yet these people seem very happy. Bands of musicians are always playing in the streets; the guitar and the mandolin are to be heard everywhere—on the boats, in the hotels—and the stranger is lulled to sleep by a soft serenade under his balcony.

The story teller thrives in Naples, as there are so many idlers there. He collects a little crowd around him and proceeds in the most dramatic way, gesticulating wildly and working his face into the most excruciating expressions, to relate stories of adventure or other events, much to the edification of his hearers, who, to show their appreciation, are often betrayed into giving a sou which might have been better spent for bread or polenta.

The public letter writer is another street dignitary of importance, and in great demand, especially with timid and buxom maids of all work, who have themselves neglecfed to learn the art of writing. Of such the public letter writer holds all the secrets of their loves and is often their adviser as well as amanuensis.

RISING IN BOY'S ESTIMATION.

Drummer's Gifts Caused Rapid Advancement in Titles.

Titles have their value in the south. "Here, boy!" said the drummer as he handed a dollar bill to the bellboy at the hotel in Atlanta, "take a dime out of this for bringing up that ice water."

"Yes, cap'n," answered the boy as he saluted.

"And, by the way, boy," continued the drummer, "if you will go down and get me more letter paper you may keep a quarter out of that dollar."

"Right away, majah; right away! I'll shuah bring you that ah stash'nery," replied the boy, as he bowed low.

"And, while I think of it, boy," remarked the knight of the grip, "if you can bring out my trousers and have them pressed and back here inside of an hour you can keep a half dollar of that dollar."

"Ah suttinly can do dat ah same, colonel—'deed ah kin!" quickly replied the youth as he turned to go toward the door.

"Wait a minute now, boy," Mr. Samples said as he walked over to his trunk, "if you can take out this suit and have it pressed and back here in time for me to go to the Bijou tonight I'll let you keep every cent of that dollar."

"General," said the boy, his eyes bulging out of their sockets, "I'll do dat shuah, general, or give you all dat money back."—N. Y. Times.

Fewer Women Than Men Color Blind.

The physician continued his experiments with the testing machine.

"You," he said, "can't tell green from blue and are therefore defective, sir. But you are not absolutely color blind. Absolutely color blind persons are very, very rare. I have met but one. He couldn't tell red from yellow or yellow from blue.

"Why are men's eyes less reliable than women's as regards colors? Some say it is the tobacco smoke that dulls and weakens them. I have noticed that non-smokers have a somewhat sharper vision."

Look Under Foot.

The lesson which life repeats and constantly enforces is "look under foot." You are always nearer the divine and the true sources of power than you think. The lure of the distant and the difficult is deceptive. The great opportunity is where you are. Do not despise your own place and hour. Every place is under the stars, every place is the center of the world.—John Burroughs in the Atlantic.

Authoress Who Hated Water.

Mme. d'Arblay, better known as Miss Fanny Burney, who took such an important place in the literature of the eighteenth century, had an extraordinary and most undesirable peculiarity—she had the greatest aversion to washing and water. Sir Henry Holland was the physician who attended the gifted authoress during the last year of her life and she confided to him that she had not washed for 15 years.

An Objection.

"Why don't you explain to your constituents that you are making a sacrifice of personal income to remain in office?"

"I haven't any faith in that argument," answered Senator Sorghum. "People never appreciate what they think they are getting cheap."

PEASANTS OF SOUTHERN ITALY.

During three months spent in the southern Italian provinces, I saw enough to make me wonder why the people have borne the burden so long. In several of the towns through which I passed there were pointed out to me caves cut into the solid rocks of the hillside where people are living. In one such cave house in Scili, Sicily, there was a rough bed on one side of the cave, on the other an oil press turned by a donkey. Often I have seen houses whose walls were constructed of brush and mud and the roofs made of rough tiles or thatched with straw. The peasant has been most patient. Naturally light-hearted and long-suffering, he would cheerfully eat a piece of black bread and an onion for his morning meal, corn-meal mush seasoned with a little olive oil and bread for dinner, boiled potatoes and a piece of goat's cheese with more black bread at night; and then, at the close of his humble repast, stoop down and touch the ground with his hand and kissing it, thank God for his favors. In some of the remoter towns the simpler-minded people continue to do so. But contentment under such conditions could exist only so long as there was no contact with the outside world. Whether the land-holders desire it or not, progress is bound to come.—Antonio Mangano, in Charities and The Commons.

RULES FOR SUCCESS IN LIFE.

Apportion Day's Work, and Give Every Energy to It.

The over-scrupulous and methodical individual who can neither sleep nor take a vacation until all the affairs of his life are arranged must remind himself that this happy consummation will not be attained in his lifetime, says Lippincott's. It behooves him, therefore, if he is ever to sleep, or if he is ever to take a vacation, to do it now, nor need he postpone indefinitely.

The day's work should be started with the resolution that every task shall be taken up in its turn, without doubts and without forebodings, that bridges shall not be crossed until they are reached, that the vagaries of others shall amuse and interest, not distress us, and that we shall live in the present, not in the past or the future. We must avoid undertaking too much, and whatever we do undertake we must try not to worry as to whether we shall succeed. This only prevents our succeeding. We should devote all our efforts to the task itself, and remember that even failure under these circumstances may be better than success at the expense of prolonged nervous agitation.

Responsibility.

Some one has said truly that responsibility walks hand in hand with capacity and power. Little is expected of the incapable. The very mention of duty, task, responsibility weighs like a burden upon the minds of weak men and women. Every one must have met men of good parts who will sedulously dodge anything like a responsibility. They shun everything like responsibility though high rewards may be offered. The mere thought of being held to strict accountability dismays them, and no remuneration and no honor are great enough to tempt them to leave the pleasant ways of peace to undertake a course which involves contention or strife, or even serious prolonged attention.

Another Role.

"Speaking about game tenderfeet," drawled Amber Pete as he skinned a cinnamon bear, "reminds me that the 'Human Pincushion' in the circus sideshow was the gamest that ever hit this settlement."

"Game, eh?" echoed the advance agent for the Mastodon Minstrel show.

"Wall, I should smile. The boys told him if he didn't make good as the 'Human Pincushion' they were going to shoot him full of holes at the first performance."

"And was he frightened?"

"Not a bit, pardner. He said if they shot him full of holes he'd do away with the 'Human Pincushion' heading and bill himself as the 'Human Porous Plaster.'"

Be Ready for Your Luck.

The mistake which the generality of people make is in not being ready for their luck when it comes. While they are still considering its possibilities, it is up the chimney and down the next street. The really lucky people are those who lie in wait for their luck and seize it, and cling to it till the moment when the sleeping Furies awake and, hurling themselves on them, snatch it out of their hand. To toy with their luck, as so many people do, to treat it as if it were something that could wait till to-morrow, is to court inevitable disaster.—Woman's Life.

Curiosity.

Mr. Stubb—Yes, Maria, 20 years is supposed to elapse between the third and fourth acts.

Mrs. Stubb—Do tell! Then we must certainly stay.

Mr. Stubb—Ah, you are interested in the play?

Mrs. Stubb—Yes; I want to see the change in the style of hat the heroine wears.

Innocence.

The cat had just eaten the canary.

"I hated to eat the foolish thing," remarked the cat, "but when a bird breaks out of its cage and flies down your throat what can you do?"

36 HOURS IN OPEN BOAT WITH CORPSE

FISHERMAN RELATES EXPERIENCE IN WINTER STORM OF LAKE SUPERIOR.

COMPANION DIES SUDDENLY

Oars Are Lost and Little Skiff Is Driven Before Terrific Gale—Survivor Finally Reaches Shore Over Ice.

Houghton, Mich.—Thirty-six hours in an open boat with a dead companion in one of the worst winter's storms was the experience of Eric Peterson, the fisherman who walked half dead into Hebard's lumber camp at Point Abbaye. Peterson arrived in Houghton on his way to St. Joseph's hospital at Hancock. He was little worse for his terrible experience, except that his hands were swollen and his feet stiff and painful.

Peterson is a Finnish fisherman who lives at the Betsey river in Keweenaw county, five miles from Gay. He is about 45 years of age and gives the appearance of rugged health and strength such as a man must have to live through a midwinter storm on Lake Superior two nights and a day in an open skiff with no more protection than that afforded by ordinary clothing and continual exertion to keep warm. From his story it is gathered that he, August Bell and Jacob Saari went to Gay for supplies.

They went in a flat-bottomed skiff, 14 feet long, provided with one pair of oars. They secured a load of provisions at Gay and in the evening started to row back to their home. Saari had a sore hand and could not take his turn at rowing, so he decided to lighten the boat and they put him ashore. He walked home.

Peterson and Bell rowed out into the storm, which was then blowing pretty strongly, but they gave it no thought, having made the trip before in all kinds of weather. It soon became too strong, however, for them to make headway against, and to add to their danger they lost their oars. There was nothing to it for them but to let the wind have its way, and the little skiff was driven before the gale.

Peterson soon felt the effect of the cold and he called to Bell to come toward him so that they might lie down together to keep warm. Bell did not answer.

"I moved over and touched him and felt his pulse. There was no use."

That is the way Peterson told the story of his friend's death. The man was apparently numbed by his privations and did not appear to realize what he had gone through. He was asked if he felt any horror of being alone in an open boat with a dead man.

"I was too busy," he said. "I had to keep moving so as not to go to sleep or I would go the same way." He did not sleep from the time he got into the boat Tuesday night till he staggered into Hebard's camp Thursday morning.

The boat ran before the wind all Tuesday night, but with apparently little speed, and in the morning Peterson saw that ice was collecting about it. This fact undoubtedly save his life.

The wind was from the northwest for a long time, but it changed to the northeast. Peterson does not know when. He stayed in the skiff all that long Wednesday and Wednesday night, walking up and down, beating his hands and stamping his feet. He did not eat anything, just kept up the motions which long experience had told him would keep him from freezing to death. All day Wednesday and Wednesday night he kept up his fight against death.

Thursday morning he saw that the boat was stationary and as far as he could see the ice was unbroken. He knew that to stay in the boat meant death anyway and he took his chances with the ice. The boat was full of provisions for his family and two others. It contained the dead body of his friend. He does not remember that he gave a thought to this. He thought his hands and feet were freezing and he set out across the ice to seek shelter. He walked three miles before he struck the shore. After that it was easy and he found Hebard's camp.

MISS ALICE M. KELLY BRIDE OR GEORGE GAUGHAN.

Miss Alice M. Kelly, daughter of Mrs. Mary Kelly, of South Second street, and George Gaughan, of Scranton, Pa., were married yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York, by Father Burns, one of the assistant pastors. The bridesmaid was Miss Elizabeth O'Keefe, of this city, and the best man was Thomas Flood, of Scranton. Immediately after the ceremony the couple left for a wedding trip. They will reside at Scranton, where the groom is in the employ of the Postal Cable and Telegraph Company.

The bride is a graduate of the Parochial School, this city, and a trained nurse, being graduated from St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, in the Class of '05. Since then she has been following her profession in New York.

Tramps Wanted His New Shoes.

Held up by four tramps on Plainfield avenue late last night, a Hungarian, walking from South Plainfield to this city, was ordered to take off his shoes and give them to the knights of the road. He offered no resistence and seemed about to comply with the request when he fooled the hold-up gang by taking flight. The four gave chase, but the Hungarian ran to a near-by house for protection, emitting cries for help that aroused the neighborhood. Frightened at the general alarm raised, the hoboes quit the chase and slunk away. The pedestrian walked on, wearing his new shoes.

Settles for Injuries Received.

Edward Clarkson, of Elm place, who was severely injured in New York last year when a Lexington avenue surface car collided with a vacum cleaning motor car he was running, has effected a settlement with the Metropolitan Railway Company. It is understood the consideration accepted was $10,000. Clarkson, who is just passed his majority, had one leg amputated as a result of the accident and was in Belleveue Hospital for many months, submitting to numerous operations before the other limb was saved.

Mrs. Jonathan Clawson, of Brook avenue, is very ill at her home with heart trouble.

WARRANT FOR FRONE.

Warrenville Man Charges Former Watchung Grocer With Being an Absconding Debtor.

William Cooper, of Warrenville, has secured a warrant from Justice Kitchen, of Somerville, for the arrest of Charles Frone, the Watchung grocer, who disappeared last week. He is charged with being an absconding debtor. The warrant has been placed in the hands of County Detective George Totten, who is making an effort to locate the man.

Cooper had a chattel mortgage for $300 on the horses, wagons and harness used by Frone in his business. When he went away he took one of the rigs with him and the complainant seeks to recover the property. It is understood that Frone left a number of other creditors, mostly business firms from whom he purchased supplies. His whereabouts are unknown but it is believed he went to his former home in Westchester county, N. Y.

Local Lawrenceville Graduates.

John Valiant and George B. Yerkes, of this city, are among the thirteen New Jersey boys to graduate from the Lawrenceville School with the class of 1908. They received their diplomas yesterday when the commencement included the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the school. Professor William M. Sloane, of Columbia University, the only living member of the first board of trustees, made the founder's day address.

Police Gather Up Rigs.

Because of complaints received from property owners, the police gathered in all horses found tied to trees on the streets near the carnival grounds last night. Several rigs were sent to the pound and were redeemed by the owners this morning. The complainants stated that the animals injured the trees by tearing the bark from them.

Entertained the Hospital Staff.

Dr. T. H. Tomlinson the members of the staff of Muhlenberg Hospital at his home last night, at dinner, after which he presented a paper, which was followed by an informal discussion.

GETS BLACK HAND THREAT.

Elizabeth Man Appeals to Police for Protection.

Elizabeth, June 17.—Three letters, each containing a demand for $300, received by Nichole Sarnello, a prosperous Italian, of 926 Spring street, and threatening death if he failed to comply with the request, have caused the police to start an investigation. There is, however, nothing very tangible for them to work upon. All three letters are similar in character. They are written in Italian and instruct Sarnello to deposit $300 beneath a rock along a small creek that runs through the meadows near his home. Each is signed with a cross traced in blood.

Sarnello has a good position in New York. He gets home about 8 o'clock every night, and, living in a secluded part of the city near the old Dwyer racertack, is fearful of being attacked. For that reason he decided to refer the matter to the police. The time given in the last letter in which he was supposed to turn over the money elapsed a few days ago.

POLICEMEN SAVE EIGHT.

Whole Family Had Been Overcome by Escaping Gas.

West Hoboken, June 17.—A family of eight persons was overcome by illuminating gas during the night, and only prompt and heroic treatment by three policemen saved their lives. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Sokolow, who with their six children live at 155 Summit avenue, were the victims.

Mrs. Sokolow said that when the family retired she, herself, turned out all the lights except the one in the hall, and this one she turned low, as is her custom, so that in case of sickness during the night she would have no difficulty in getting about the rooms and through the hall. In some manner this light went out and the gas continued to flow into the rooms.

Toward morning she was awakened with a choking sensation and a painful headache. She detected the odor of gas and tried to rouse her husband. Failing in this she slid out of bed, and crawling on her hands and knees across the floor, she opened the window and called for help and then fainted. Patrolmen Schaumberg, Suhr and Parentini responded and, detecting the odor of gas and no one coming to the door to admit them, they broke in and rushed upstairs.

They hurriedly opened all the windows and began to work over the sufferers, fearing to lose the time required to secure the services of a physician at that hour of the night. After an hour of hard work they all showed signs of returning consciousness, and a physician was then summoned to complete the work of resuscitation.

All the members of the family are under the care of a physician today, but none of them is in any great danger.

BOY GLUED TO TREE.

Had Grasped Live Wire Which Passed Through Branches.

Asbury Park, June 17.—Oakley Mooney, 12 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Mooney, of Asbury Park, climbed a maple tree Monday and caught hold of a bare feed wire which passed between the branches. With a heavy current running through his body, Mooney was glued to the tree.

The current so charged the tree that Charles Van Middlesworth, Mooney's companion, 10 years old, was thrown from his perch a little below Mooney and fell to the ground. Harry R. Joste, despite the fact that the wet tree was heavily charged, climbed up to Mooney and pulled him loose. The boys were not seriously injured. The insulation had been torn off where the wire passed throught the tree.

STATE PAPERS STOLEN.

Taken by Thief at Pennsy Terminal in Jersey City.

Jersey City, June 17.—Secret service men were engaged in a search for important letters interchanged between President Roosevelt, Secretary Root and Governor Magoon and Catholic Church dignitaries in Porto Rico and Cuba, which were stolen from the Pennsylvania depot here Monday.

Grammond Kennedy, an international lawyer who has done much important work for the State Department, had the letters in his suit case, which he laid aside for a moment to purchase a parlor car ticket to Washington. When he returned the suit case was gone. Several of the letters cannot be replaced, no copies having been made of them.

Serious delay in the settlement of the insular ecclesiastical claims, to which the papers refer, will result from their loss.

The papers stolen are now of value largely in connection with the claim of the church to title upon convent property in Porto Rico, which does not come under the decision already rendered.

The Women's Relief Corps wil hold strawberry and ice cream festival in Reform Hall tonight. There will also be an entertainment.

WIFE GETS $6,000.

Hackensack, June 17.—Mrs. Ida S. Fahr, of Essex street, this city, yesterday afternoon was awarded $6,000 and her husband Frederick, was allowed $3,500 in their suits against the Susquehanna and Western Railroad Company for injuries claimed to have been received by Mrs. Fahr in February, 1907, when a passenger train crashed into a Pennsylvania freight car at the Marion Junction, Jersey City.

The plaintiff, who said she has been unable to walk since the accident, testified while in a wheel chair. Dr. McGill said Mrs. Fahr could walk if she wanted to, as he found no injuries, and that the only cure would be a settlement of the suit. The case was tried before Judge Charles C. Black.

New Manasquan Bank.

Asbury Park, June 17.—Word received from Washington yesterday confirmed a previous statement that the defunct First National Bank of Manasquan would not reopen, and that permission to organize a new national bank in Manasquan had been obtained. The permit came to Frank Durand, W. J. Couse and Henry C. Winsor. The new bank will be called the Mansquan National Bank. It will be capitalized at $50,000, will have a surplus of $10,000 and will open for business July 1.

POLLUTION OF MANASQUAN.

State Directed to Change Sewerage of State Camp.

Trenton, June 17.—The State Board of Health has issued an order directing Quartermaster-General C. Edward Murray to change the sewerage system at the State campgrounds at Sea Girt to prevent further pollution of the Manasquan River. Private land owners at Sea Girt have also been notified to cease draining into the river.

General Murray communicated with the board and asked that time for completion of the work be extended until July 10, 1909. His reason for this was that he was unsuccessful in having the last Legislature appropriate money with which carry out the work.

TRAIN KILLS WOMAN.

Hackensack, June 17.—Mrs. Maria A. Pratt, 53 years old, of Bergenfields, was instantly killed on the unprotected West Shore Railroad crossing in that borough at 2:30 p. m. yesterday. Mrs. Pratt was on her way to attend a meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society when she met her death.

She waited for a freight train to pass and then attempted to cross the track when a Chicago limited express hurled her a considerable distance. She leaves a husband and five children.

SEVENTY-FOUR GRADUATED

Largest Class in History of Grammar School Gets Diplomas at Exercises.

WILLIAM D. MURRAY SPEAKS.

Superintendent Maxson Also Gives a Talk—F. T. Woodhull Presents Diplomas.

Ready to enter the High School in the fall, seventy-four pupils of the grammar grades of the city schools received diplomas of graduation at the grammar school commencement exercises held yesterday afternoon in the Plainfield High School auditorium. This is the largest graduation class in the history of the city grammar schools, and the auditorium was crowded with parents and friends of the graduates.

In the absence of President Leander N. Lovell, of the Board of Education, the diplomas were presented by Floyd T. Woodhull, the pupils marching across the auditorium stage to receive them. So large was the class that only the girls could be accommodated with seats on the platform. The thirty boy graduates were seated in the front of the auditorium, facong the audience. Singing by the class was a feature of the exercises, and there were recitations and essays by the graduates. The invocation was by Rev. Charles E. Herring The principal address was by William D. Murray, and previous to the presentation of diplomas, Dr. Maxson, superintendent of the local schools, made a few remarks to the graduates.

Mr. Murray's remarks emphasized the value of co-operation between teacher and pupil and the value of education through such co-operation. He said in part:

"The education prosposition in this country today is a great one. You may be able to better realize the broadness of the public school education when I tell you that one-fifth of the population of the United States is daily in our public schools. Teachers' salaries amount to $350,000,000 a year.

"I want our teachers to appreciate the opportunity they have in being teachers. There is no individual who comes in more constant association with our children than the teacher in the school. The child spends more time with his teacher than with his parents, and the teachers ought to appreciate this opportunity they have for character development of the individual children. They ought to realize the individuality of the pupil. To be really successful, the teacher should understand the home environment and outside influences upon every boy and girl in the class. The successful teacher is the teacher who has the ability to put herself in the place of the pupil.

"I wish you pupils might learn to respect your teachers and work with them. Co-operation cannot be one-sided. Remember that almost all of the teachers in the Plainfield public schools could make more doing something else. They are literally laying down their lives for your sake. All classroom success comes through 'team work' by teacher and pupil.

"It is not what you study in school that counts, but it is your attitude toward the work that helps you. Remember hat you must get an education not to qualify yourselves to make a living so much as to qualify yourselves to live."

Dr. Maxson, in speaking of the value of a public school training, said: "Every great man get his training somehow. He doesn't necessarily get in school, but school is the most effective and quickest way of getting the training. A grammar school education adds much to the earning capacity of a pupil, but a high school education adds far more, giving a graduate a larger field in which to work."

The declamatory success of the program was the recitation "Through the Flood" by Miss Helen Wooley, one of the graduates. She mastered the difficulties of Scotch dialect in the reproduction of the incident by Ian Maclaren with success which won the keenest appreciation. The graduates sang four selections in a way which showed careful training. Miss Helene Pope was at the piano. The ushers were Guion Fountain, Russell Morris, G. Stanley Robins and Roy Woodhull, of the Plainfield High School.

The graduates:

DEATH OF FORMER FREEHOLDER EMMONS

John Emmons, a former Somerset county freeholder and a respected resident of the borough for many years, died last night at his home on Stone street. He had been ailing a long time. Mr. Emmons was born in Hunterdon county in 1835, but had lived in North Plainfield since the close of the Civil War, in which he served. His home for years was on Rockview avenue, near West End, where he tilled a small farm until it was bought for residential sites.

Mr. Emmons was elected to the Somerset Board of Freeholders on the Democratic ticket a few years ago and served one term that was satisfactory to both parties. He is survived by a wife, three daughters and two sons.

The funeral will be held at his late home Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and burial will be in the cemetery at New Germantown, Hunterdon county .

MISS LULU RANDOLPH BECOMES MRS. MANNING

Miss Lulu Randolph, daughter of Mrs. Sylvester Randolph, and Clifford D. Manning, son of Daniel H. Manning, of Dunellen avenue, were married last night at 7 o'clock at the home of the bride's mother on West Seventh street, in the presence of a large number of gusts from Pittsburg, Brooklyn, Newark, New York, Passaic, Philadelphia, Salem and this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the First Baptist church.

The bride's gown was of white messaline, trimmed with Honiton and princess lace. She wore a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Lulu Fuller was the maid-of-honor. Her gown was of white net over white taffeta and she carried a bouquet of white carnations. The bridesmaids were Miss May Hazelwood, of Brooklyn and Miss Marion Fitch, of Passaic. They were gowned in pink satin striped chiffon, over pink taffeta, trimmed with silk filet and they carried bouquets of sweet peas. Katharine Randolph, niece of the bride and Dorothy Manning, cousin of the groom, were ribbon bearers. They wore white dresses over pink silk. The best man was Harry Crispin, of Salem, and the ushers were Richard Randolph, brother of the bride, and Frederick Martin.

While the Mendelssohn Wedding March was being played on the piano by Miss Alberta Bush, of rBooklyn, the bridal party descended the stairway and entered the parlor, where the ceremony was performed. The ushers led the way through an aisle formed of ribbons and held by the two ribbon-bearers. Then followed the bridesmaids and maid-of-honor and the bride, accompanied by her brother, E. S. F. Randolph, who gave her in marriage.

After the ceremony a reception was held, during which Mr. and Mrs. Manning received the congratulations of their friends and supper was served. The guests also took much pleasure in admiring the large collection of gifts received by the bride. They included furniture, cut-glass, silverware, goldware, china, and one of the gifts prized highly by the bride was a handworked bed spread from Miss Fitch, who purchased it abroad. Another handsome gift was a costly piano the gift of the groom.

In the decoration of the home an attractive scheme was arranged. Daises were used in the library, roses in the parlor, where an improvised altar was provided and a large floral bel suspended in the corner where the ceremony was performed. Crimson ramblers were used in profusion in the reception hall and dining room.

In the exchange of gifts among the bridal party, the maid-of-honor, bridesmaids, ribbon-bearers and Miss Bush, who played the wedding march received gold brooches, while the best man and ushers were given stickpins.

Upon their return from a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Manning will reside in a new home at 20 Washington avenue, North Plainfield, just completed and furnished by the groom. Mr. Manning is engaged in the real estate and insurance business, having offices on North avenue. Both he and his bride have a host of friends in this city, where they are well-known and where they have always lived.

Will Receive Bids July 3.

The plans for the improvement of Terrill road, making it a State aid throughfare, have been approved by the State road commissioner and Friday, July 3, has been fixed as the time the Union County Freeholders will meet and receive bids for doing the work. The stretch to be improved is about two miles long.

N.P.H.S. SENIORS MERRY

Novel Program at Their Class Day Exercises in the Borough Last Night.

PRESENTATIONS TO SCHOOL.

Stereopticon Pictures Portray Futures of Various Pupils and Celver Parodies Mark Final Jollification.

Cleverly arranged and including many novel features and "roasts" upon the graduates, faculty and pupils, the Class Day exercises of the North Plainfield High School, held last night at the Somerset School, proved a great success. The affair was arranged by the entire senior class acting as a committee and at the conclusion of the program, there was an informal dance in the kindergarten room.

Features of the program were two presentations to the school. One gift was a handsome leather-bound Bible, inscribed "North Plainfield High School" in gold on the cover. It was presented by the class to the school to be used at the morning exercises. Miss Lulu Acken made the presentation speech and Principal B. K. Phelps accepted in the name of the school. The German Club, an organization with about thirty members, presented a bust of Goethe for the school platform. The cast is a handsome piece of work. Eldon Miller made the presentation speech and Supervising Principal H. C. Krebs responded.

Informal jollity marked the evening's program, from the opening song, a parody on "I'm Afraid to Go Home in the Dark," by the class, to the closing "Juanita" chorus, with the words of the senior song adapted. Other song hits were the sophomore song, to the tune of "Smarty, Smarty, Smarty," and a clever parody on "The Merry Widow" in honor of the juniors. Miss Agnes Cooley, president of the class, gave the president's address, and Miss Ida Englehardt read the class history, summarizing the events of the course. "Advice to the Undergraduates," containing many "knocks," was given by Clarence Steiner, after which Miss Agnes Cooley read the class poem, composed by herself for the occasion.

Miss Louise Andrews read the class will, abounding in "slams" on the faculty and witty "hopes" for the school's future. In connection with the class prophecy, read by Miss Ethel Webster, steriopticon pictures, supposedly taken in the future, told the story of what may be expected of each member of the class. These pictures were the hit of the evening, and were posed for by the members of the class. William Day, vice-president of the class, gave a clever prophecy of the class prophet.

Miss Myra Emmons acted as accompanist for the various songs, composed by Fred McClintock and Miss Helen George played a selection on the piano. At the conclusion of the exercises, an informal dance was held in the kindergarten room.

Plainfielders Held Up on Liner.

Miss Arnold, of the Plainfield Seminary, and Julian Linke, of West Second street, were among the passengers aboard the Luisitania, outward bound yesterday, which was held up in the bay while the regulars and National Guardsmen carried on their mimic battle. She came to an anchor under Fort Wadsworth, but before her mud hook hit the bottom the current set her over on a bank to the northward and there she stuck for nearly a half hour after the signal had been given for her to proceed.

Bridesmaid to Be a Bride.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Miss May Hazelwood and Harold Campbell, both of Brooklyn. The event will be celebrated on Wednesday, July 1. Miss Hazelwood was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Lulu Randolph and Clifford D. Manning, last night, and Mr. Campbell is a teacher in the Brooklyn High School.

Prof. L. H. Miller to Speak.

Prof. L. H. Miller, of Princeton University, a former graduate of John Leal's School, will make the address at the commencement exercises of Leal's School at the Casino tomorrow night. There will be prize speaking, after which there will be a dance and reception.

Graduates from Mt. Holyoke.

Miss Dorothy Waldo, of West Eighth street, graduated from Mt. Holyoke College, South Hadley, Mass., yesterday. Miss Belle V. Godshall, of Westfield, was also a member of the graduating class.

INJUNCTION PLANK WINS

Republican Convention at Chicago Will Not Adjourn Until Tomorrow.

MURPHY STOCK IS HIGHER.

New Jersey Plays Big Part in Convention—Roosevelt Cheered for Forty-seven Minutes.

What was expected to be the live day of the Republican National Convention began at Chicago this morning when the delegates were called to order at 10:18 o'clock by Chairman Lodge. The platform contains an anti-injunction plank.

At 10:30 o'clock, according to the New York Evening Sun correspondent, Chairman Lodge recognized Senator Albert J. Hopkins of Illinois, chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, to read the platform. As soon as Chairman Lodge had told the newspaper correspondents that the convention would be adjourned until 10 o'clock tomorrow after nominating the candidate for President, the news seemed to fly all over the Hall and there were groans from the sweltering audience at the prospect of another day in such weather.

Mr. McCarter of New Jersey says that he does not intend to introduce a minority report in opposition to the anti-injunction plank. "I have had my day in court and I decided that no good purpose would be conserved by taking up the fight on the floor of the House," he says.

The announcement of Mr. McCarter, which was made in response to a query, means that there will be no organized fight on the floor over the platform, and that nominations for President will be in order as soon as the platform is adopted.

How much of an attempt, if any, will be made to create a stampede to Roosevelt, or even to nominate him in the regular way, none can foretell with any degree of accuracy. The shadow of the Big Stick may deter the insurgents from making an attempt of any kind. Should there be another Rosevelt demonstration today and all the long nominating speeches delivered balloting may not begin until evening.

Before the opening of today's session, says te New York Evening Sun man, no one in authority could or would do more than guess at Vice-Presidential candidates. So far as can be learned, the live wire from Washington has not been received. Vice-President Fairbanks has written al etter to his campaign managers here saying that he will not, under any circumstances, accept a renomination. Senator Dolliver, of Iowa, wrote a similar letter two days ago, yet he is still regarded as almost, if not quite, a first-choice selection. Other mentioned candidates are ex-Gov. Franklin Murphy, of New Jersey; Gov. Curtis Guild, Jr., and John Hays Hammond, of Massachusetts, Secretary Cortelyou and Congressman Sherman, of New York, and George S. Knight, of California. The man selected by President Roosevelt will be nominated.

In the fight for a change in the representation to the National Convention, none of those from New Jersey took any part, although Colonel William Barbour, in the Rules Committee, made a strong effort to get the rule in. New Jersey cast twenty-three votes for the rule and one against it, the latter being Governor Fort, who believes that representation in National Conventions, which have practically taken the place of the Electoral College, is a matter for State representation, the electors now being mere machines to record the result of the action of a National Convention.

The old method, Governor Fort holds, before conventions existed, was for the electors to exercise an independent judgment in selecting a President, and from the foundation of the government until the present time the basis of representation in all bodies having to do with the selection of President, has been that of the representation in the Senate and House of Representatives in the United States, and the House of Representatives is based on population and not political votes. He also holds that the negroes of the South would vote if they had the chance; that they are all republicans and that they should not be punished for the laws which the Democrats inflict upon them.

New Jersey's delegation is all split up now on the Presidency. Colonel Barbour wil vote for Fairbanks, he says, and David Baird and Senator Briggs are said to favor Knoz, Representative Loudenslager and Judge Blair favor Mr. Cannon, and George Gonzales, of Hoboken, is for Roosevelt. There may be other deflections but who they will be is not knowu. It seems to be the impression that this split will help Mr. Murphy.

Men in cahrge of the New Jersey headquarters were in an optimistic

CARNIVAL DRAWS AGAIN

Second Night of the Firemen's Benefit Brings Out Still Larger Crowd.

BOROUGH EXEMPTS BARKERS.

With a still larger attendance than was noted at the opening, the firemen's big pension fund benefit carnival continued on its merry way at Darrow avenue and Fourth street, last night. The grounds were crowded from early in the evening until after 11 o'clock and all of the attractions did the proverbial "rushing" business.

The North Plainfield Exempts were on as volunteer barkers and ticket takers and their efforts had much to do with drawing patronage. The boroughites assembled on Somerset street at 7:30 and headed by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps and Chief Woolston in his rig, marched to the carnival site. All were in uniform while they were helped out by many friends. David Bodine was in general charge and the following answered his roll call: J. J. Stahl, John Schenck, P. H. Currin, Rudolph Spiegel, John Shroop, George Hummer, William Rickett, David Allen, Patrick Kellegher, Elmer Volk, Lewis Feiring, George Schlereth, Augustus Feiring, Herman Klinsman, Thos. McGann and Charles O. Smith.

Tonight, the students at the Plainfield Business College will be the volunteers and as they had great success at the hospital carnivals the top-notch business is expected to continue.

An attraction on the grounds that is proving a big drawing card is the Hindu theatre, which has been seen in Plainfield before only on a less pretentious scale. It is managed by L. Leon, who gained many local friends by his courteous treatment of patrons at the Knights of Columbus affair last season. His troupe numbers nine white Yagi, the most expert masters of levitation in the country. They give a performance that defies explanation and induces people to return a couple of times in the hope of finding out how the illusions are accomplished. One of the best feats of the Yagi is the raising of a young woman in a cataleptic state to a height of six feet from the floor of the stage, with no supports of any kind to hold her. Mayor Fisk was one of the spectators at a performance last night and he declared it to be "a great show."

The Leola attraction is also a great talk-maker and people who have seen it are its best advertisers. Eight people are rqeuired for its presentation and they give a fine program of fire dances, plastique poses and electrical illusions. The tent was well filled at every performance. The Ferari animal show, the Katzenjammer castle, the moving pictures and Amy continue to draw big crowds while the concessions pulled in the nickels by the hundred.

Edward Lloyd, who has been in Plainfield several times, was kept busy last night handling out silver watches to the lucky guessers who pressed about his booth. Its worth a dime to hear him "jolly" the bunch and the big returns he gives for money spent with him certainly does attract the coin.

The various shows and attractions are kept open in the afternoons and these matinees are well patronized by women and children. The free acts given at 5 in the afternoon and 10:30 at night by the Oliver troupe and the Gilmore family delighted and thrilled the crowds that viewed them yesterday.

The auxiliary booth, which is presided over by a bevy of local young women, is getting to be an attractive rendezvous for everyone. It is in this place that ice cream, candy and popcorn as well as fancy articles are sold. Make sure you pay it a visit when you take in the sights and it will give you an opportunity to rest after all the excitement.

Rabbi Wise to Speak Here.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of the Free Synagogue, New York, will be one of the principal speakers at the exercises to be held at the Groszmann School Saturday afternoon. Other speakers will be Miss Elizabeth E. Farrell, supervisor of the ungraded classes in the public schools of New York, and George W. V. Moy, of this city. They will explain the advantages of the kind of teaching that Dr. Groszmann has adopted for his school. It is expected that a large number of visitors from New York and Brooklyn will attend the exercises.

Miss Cora Gano, of this city, has been visiting at Clinton for a few days, where she was the guest of the family of C. W. Gano.

CLASS OF 1908 JOINS ALUMNI RANKS TONIGHT

Forty-seven pupils will receive diplomas as graduates of the Plainfield High School at the commencement exercises to be held at the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The exercises will begin promptly at 7:45 o'clock. The "sheepskins" will be handed out by Leander N. Lovell, president of the Board of Education. Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the local schools, will deliver the address of the evening, at the unanimous request of the graduates.

The salutatory "Thomas Alva Edison," will be delivered by LeRoy Whitall, and Miss Esther Crampton will deliver the valedictory address, "Child Labor a Disgrace and a Menace." Prizes for excellence in school work will be awarded by Eugene M. Cave, of the Board of Education. Following the exercises at the theatre, the annual reception and dance by the alumni of the classes of 1906 and 1907 will be given at the Casino.

PRIZE BABY CONTEST TO BE HELD AT THE CARNIVAL

Proud Plainfield mothers with young hopefuls below the ages of two years, will be given an opportunity to prove claims of superiority for their children, at the Firemen's carnival Saturday afternoon. After much careful forethought, Manager Berger has announced that he will conduct a prize baby contest, having secured two able and efficient gentlemen to select the prettiest girl baby two years and under and the prettiest baby boy two years and under. They wil also decide which of the entries, either boy or girl, is the fattest.

The contest will take place at 4 o'clock and entries may be made previous to that time by applying at the headquarters pavilion on the show grounds. Mothers bringing children to compete will be admitted free and will also have free entrance to all the attractions. The winners in the contest are to be presented with a go-cart or other suitable prize. It is needless to state that the judges are heavily insured and will take the first train out of town after making the awards.

Manager Berger has also announced that he will start in housekeeping any young couple who will be married on the carnival grounds Saturday afternoon. A local official stands ready to tie the knot hard and fast and the entire carnival committee will confer the customary blessing.

WEDDED AT ST. MARY'S.

Miss Margaret Dorgan Becomes Bride of John McCaffrey, of Elizabeth.

Miss Margaret Dorgan, daughter of Mrs. Abby Dorgan, of Arlington avenue, and John McCaffrey, of Elizabeth, were married in St. Mary's church yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Bogan and was witnessed by a gathering of relatives and friends.

Miss Abby Dorgan, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Edward McCaffrey, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were James Saverd, of this city, cousin of the bride, and Thomas Malone, of Trenton.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Mr. and Mrs. McCaffrey's new home on Arlington avenue and which has been completely furnished. Later the bride and groom left for Atlantic City to spend a week. The groom is employed in the shipping department at Singer's factory, Elizabethport.

Wants to Join U. S. Navy.

Clyde Doane, son of Freeholder and Mrs. J. Hervey Doane, of aEst Seventh street, who is at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, taking entrance examinations, is expected home on Saturday. He received the appointment as alternative, and as the candidate who received first appointment defaulted, Doane has been given the chance to enter the academy. He will be informed of the result of his examinations within a short time.

Excursion to Atlantic City.

Choosing the longest day in the year for its annual outing, the Thomas Maccabees Timbo Social Club will hold its excursion to Atlantic City on Sunday. The Timbo-ites and their friends will leave in a special vestibuled train at 7:30 and will start on the return trip at 10 o'clock at night. A big dinner will be served at the Hotel Isleworth on the boardwalk.

Strawberry Festival.

A successful strawberry and ice cream festival was held on the lawn of Mrs. William C. LaRue's home in East Second street last night under the auspices of the Philathea Class of Faith chapel.

AGED WOMAN IS KILLED

Miss Sarah Ann Vermeule Meets Horrible Death on Railroad Tracks.

GROUND UNDER THE WHEELS.

Victim's Body Cut in Two—She Had Been a Lifelong Resident of Plainfield.

Miss Sarah Ann Vermeule, an aged maiden lady who resided in the borough until five weeks ago, was killed at the Broad street crossing of the New Jersey Central at Westfield this morning. She was on her way rfom the home of her grand-nephew, Elwin G. Marsh, at 8:30 and attempted to go over the tracks after the gates had been lowered. Being hard of hearing and having impaired vision, she did not notice the approach of a fast eastbound train that bore down upon her. She was struck by the engine and knocked beneath the wheels the body being cut in two.

Miss Vermeule was eighty-six years old and had lived in Plainfield practically all her life. Her home for a long time was at 57 Manning avenue and jujst before going to Westfield to live she resided on Howard street. She is survived by a brother, Suydam Vermeule, of Newark, formerly of this city.

The body was taken to Brown's undertaking rooms at Westfield and County Physician Westcott granted a burial permit after an investigation. The funeral arrangements have not yet been made but interment will probably be made here.

TROLLEY CAR CONDUCTOR FINED ON ASSAULT CHARGE.

Lewis Fulton, a conductor on the main line trolley system, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged by Thomas Coulter, another conductor, with hiving assaulted him at West Front street and Rock avenue, yesterday afternoon. The complainant appeared with an eye in deep mourning to bear out his statement that it had come in contact with a bunch of fives.

The trouble started over the confiscation of a trolleyman's day book belonging to Coulter and who in turn picked up Fulton's as he was leaving the Dewey Park barns. Foulton learned of it and when the cars they were in charge of met at the Rock avenue switch an argument ensued. Coulter refused to give up the book, statfng that he would return it to where he had found it when he had secured his own. Fulton's temper got the better of him and he swung against Coulter's left optic.

The defendant admitted being in the wrong and was fined $10 with the alternative of twenty days in jail. He produced the money.

WOMEN'S RELIEF CORPS HOLD MUSICAL AND FESTIVAL

Under the auspices of the Women's Relief Corps an ice cream, strawberry and cake festival was held last night in Reform Hall. There was a good attendince and everything was sold out early in the evening. A feature was a musical program, a number of piano selections being given by Mrs. Jennie Bergman.

Small tables placed about the hall were decorated with flowers and made attractive with the decoration of the red, white and blue. The committee in charge of the affair comprised Mrs. E. V. Cox, chairman; Mrs. Stephen R. Struthers, Mrs. John Naylor and Mrs. Sarah Mattox, while they were assisted by a number of young women as waitresses. The proceeds will go into the relief corps treasury.

Veterans Are Appreciative.

Freeholder J. Hervey Doane has received an official communication from Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., thanking him and his associates in the Union County Board of Freeholders for their interest in obtaining suitable markers to be placed in the soldiers' plot at Hillside Cemetery. This action was the result of efforts on the part of the freeholders to provide and care for the soldiers' graves in the various cemeteries throughout the county.

Dr. Cicero J. Moore Weds.

Plainfield friends will be interested in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Lillian Tarr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Simpers Tarr, of Baltimore, and Dr. Cicero J. Moore, of Terryville, after August 1, where Dr. Moore is a practicing dentist.

Another Wheel Stolen.

Fred Yose, of South avenue, reported to the police this morning that a bicycle belonging to him had been stolen from the yard ath is home sometime during the night. It is described as a blue frame affair.

TAFT'S RELIGION.

Unitarian but Attends Episcopal Church Services.

Word reached Washington yesterday that the report is being energetically circulated that Secretary Taft is an atheist, and the Secretary's friends are indignant. It was given out on the highest authority that Secretary Taft is of a Unitarian family, his father and mother both being Unitarians, his grandmother having joined the Unitarian movement with the famous Dr. Channing.

Secretary Taft, like his father before him, is a member of the Unitarian Church of Cincinnati. He has a pew, and attends the services of the Unitarian church at Fourteenth and I streets, Washington, D. C., of which the Rev. Dr. Pierce is pastor, but he sometimes goes with Mrs. Taft, who, like her family, is Episcopalian, to St. John's Episcopal church at Washington, which she attends and where she has a pew. Their daughter was confirmed in this church last year.

In the summer at Murray Bay for the last sixteen years Mr. Taft has taken particular interest in the Union Chapel of the Presbyterian and Episcopal churches, where he has attended every Sunday for the three months of his vacation.

Corset Steel Saves Life.

Camden, June 18.—Serious injury to Miss Ella Stanford, 18 years old, of this city, was averted by a corset steel at Woodlynne Park, near here, yesterday. Several men were examining rifles in the shooting gallery, when one was accidentally discharged, and the bullet struck Miss Stanford in the side. She collapsed after the mishap, and was carried to a nearby building, where a physician was summoned, who found that the lead had been flattened by the steel in the corset.

Montclair's Horse Show.

The Montclair Riding, Driving and Automobile Club will make its horse show to be held on October 10, an all-day affair. It wil be an open show and already $1,000 has been donated by the club members for cups and cash prizes. The annual horse show dance will be omitted this year.

Charge Political Holdup.

Atlantic City, June 18.—Charges of a holdup for political purposes are made against the license committee of the Council here, which has tabled fifteen applications for renewal of licenses. The applications are all by big cafes on the boardwalk.

Coroner's Body Recovered.

Atlantic City, June 18.—State Senator Edward A. Wilson, who saw Coroner Sontheimer in Mullica river and didn't realize the official was drowning, is seriously ill from shock. Sontheimer's body has been recovered.

—John McCullough, of Steiner place, returned Tuesday night from York, Pa., with a new Bullman automobile, fro which he has taken the agency. He made the trip in eight hours, including several stops.

The Juniors have changed their plans for Saturday's game, and instead of play the East Millstone club, they will cross bats with the team at Belle Mead. The locals will leave here on the 1:15 trolley from the Watchung avenue stand for Bound Brook, from which place they will take a train on the Reading to Belle Mead.

The Plainfield Y. M. C. A. will play the Orange Association nine at Orange, Saturday afternoon, and a large crowd of rooters will accompany the team. Scott and Schoonmaker will be the battery for Plainfield. Orange is playing a fast game at present and will make Manager Listman's aggregation hustle to win.

Those who want to see a good game should visit Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, when the Clinton Avenues and Scotch Plains will clash for the second time this season. The Plainfield boys have not forgotten their first defeat and promise to make good this week. Randolph and O'Loughlin will be in the points for the local team, while Ortleib and Alberts will officiate for the 'Plains.

Ortleib is pitching great ball for Scotch Plains this year, his work of last Saturday when he shut out Flemington 5 to 0, being a noteworthy feat. He will try to repeat the performance against Clinton Avenue Saturday.

Among those who witnessed the Princeton-Yale defeat at the Polo Grounds Tuesday was Harry Blimm, of this city, an old-time rooter for the Orange and Black.

The fact that Yale had seventeen men left on bases in their game with Princeton shows that Heyniger was going some on the firing line, but it does not speak so well for the Tigers' work in the field.

The members of the "Amen Corner," composed of local baseball fans, will witness the game between the Giants and Chicago at the Polo Grounds on Monday.

The Trenton Tri-State Club has averaged ten hits a game for the past ten games.

Lancaster, of the Tri-State League, has lost twelve games this season by one run.

GOLF.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Metropolitan Golf Association held on Monday it was decided to have the Lesley cup competitions held on the links of the Garden City Golf Club. The Metropolitan team has won for three years in succession; in fact, ever since the cup was put up. Mr. Travis has been captain of each team and has again been selected to captain the team next October. Mr. Travis stated a year ago that with so many good players to choose from he personally would prefer to have the team selected by a committee instead of leaving the choice to the captain. Accordingly a special committee consisting of William Fellowes Morgan, Leighton Calkins and Findlay S. Douglas has been appointed to select the players for the New York team.

The Baltusrol Golf Club has offered its links for the open event, which is to be held on Thursday and Friday, September 24 and 25. The event this year is to be limited to seventy-two holes medal play for the championship and the Saturday features, consisting of a four ball match and handicap, are to be eliminated.

There will be a gold medal for the winner in addition to the money prize, and the prizes will be graded so as to allow eight players to get within the money. In addition there will be a special money prize for the best single round morning or afternoon and the best double round each day.

New dates for tournaments are as follows: August 20, 21, 22, Deal Golf Club; also for the second or third week in October an invitation tournament at Morristown.

The annual Staten Island golf championship tournament will this year be held on the attractive course of the Fox Hills Golf Club, at Clifton, on June 25, 26, and 27. The qualifying round will be at eighteen holes. There will be two sets of sixteens and no less than nine prizes will be competed for. The winner of the tournament will be allowed to hold the Branch medal for a year, besides receiving a replica of the same, which he wil retain permanently. He also receives a beautiful solid silver cup as the winner of the first sixteen.

There will also be a silver cup for the runner-up in the first sixteen, a solid gold medal for the low gross score in the qualifying round, a silver cup for the winner of the second sixteen and silver cups for the winners of the beaten eights in the first and second sixteens. On Saturday there will be an eighteen-hole handicap, the player having the low gross score receiving an attractive gold medal and the player with the best net score a solid silver loving cup of attractive design. It is not improbable that Walter J. Travis, Jerome Travers and H. J. Wigham will represent the Fox Hills Club, they all being members.

The tournament committee has stated positively that stymies must be played in the preliminary match rounds. The rules of the United States Golf Association will govern, there being no local rules. At the adjourned annual meeting of the Fox Hills Golf Club, held at the clubhouse nearly $1,000 was subscribed by the members for added improvements to the course. With this aditional appropriation, the greens committee will give the members and their friends a course which in condition will be excelled by few courses in America.

Stillman Nine Wins in the Eleventh.

It took eleven innings for the Stillman School nine to win from the freshman class team of the Plainfield High School Tuesday afternoon at Hope Common. The score was 1-0, Rogers scoring the tally on an error. Douglass and Vail were the battery for the Stillman, and Terry and Trembath were the points for the freshmen.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The annual convention of the Atlantic district of the German Evangelic Synod of North America will be opened in St. Paul's church, Trenton, this evening.

Camden city wharves, valued at $200,000, are now in possession of squatters, and have been for many years. Councilman James E. Hewitt is planning to wrest this public property from private concerns.

Assemblyman Corsville E. Stile, of Cape May county, is not only a good legislator but a scientific farmer, and sets the pace in Upper Township, where he resides, having harvested the first crop of early potatoes in the county.

Caught between a wharf and a boat at the plant of the General Chemical Company, in Camden, yesterday, David J. Baxter, twenty-one years old, of 1186 Lemon street, Camden, was badly injured about the shoulder. He was taken to Cooper Hospital.

Arrested in Philadelphia, a week ago, on a charge of abandoning an infant at a furnished room house on Kaighn avenue, Camden, William Hutchinson and Lottie Cross were committed to the Camden County Jail on requisition papers yesterday.

Richard Becker, sixteen years old, residing at Midland Park, had two fingers blown off and his hand badly mangled in a premature explosion of a toy cannon near his home last night. A companion who was assisting him escaped with a few bruises.

The body of James Anderson, of 2015 Moyamensing avenue, Philadelphia, was found in the river at Washington Park yesterday. The mother identified the body as that of her son, who went in bathing last Saturday. She had been watching along the river front since that time.

Immediate action to relieve the sanitary condition of lower Broadway is urged by Mayor Ellis, of Camden, in a letter sent to the Board of Health yesterday. Since the building orf the Line Ditch sewer water lays in the low places until it stagnates, forming large mosquito breeding areas.

The Passaic City Council has in hand the annual budget. The total amount is $493,447.50, but the amount to go in the tax levy is only $261,577.44, the remainder being the city's income from sources other than taxation. The tax rate will go up about eleven points. It is now 1.41. The increase to be raised by taxation over last year is $8,521.92.

A freakish electrical bolt which descended in Chelsea early yesterday morning knocked a bunch of brass keys from the hands of Policeman William Wray just as he started to open a call box and sent them spinning across the boardwalk and stuck fast in a telegraph pole. Wray received a slight shock, but suffered no serious injury.

W. J. Barnes and Pearl Constantine, schoolmates at Vineland thirty years ago, met yesterday for the first since then. They arrived from Cripple Creek, Col., and Rawhide, Nev., to visit friends. In those towns they had brushed elbows in the hustle for wealth and both have been fairly successful. They knew and often talked to the partners of each other, but never discovered that they were boyhood friends.

A horse attached to a feed wagon took fright at a locomotive entering the Susquehanna spur at Straight street, Paterson, yesterday afternoon and ran away. At Ellison and Paterson streets the horse took to the sidewalk and ran into an iron fence. The fence was torn down and three columns on the porch were dislodged. The animal became fastened in the wreckage and was caught. The only injury sustained by the horse was a scratch on the knee.

When a jury in the case of David E. Oakes against Mrs. Ellen Thompson rendered a verdict of $3,848.73 against the woman in the Camden Circuit Court yesterday Mrs. Thompson became hysterical and shouted: "Oh, my; oh, my; that isn't a just verdict; that isn't right!" Attempts to pacify the woman were futile and Constable Bates was compelled to escort her from the courtroom. Oakes built a house for the defendant at Oaklyn, and he entered suit on a machanic's lien.

ONE CANNOT NOW BE JAILED FOR DEBTS

That a person cannot be imprisoned for debt on a civil process is demonstrated in an opinion filed by Justice Bergen in the Court of Erors and Appeals at Trenton in the case of John Maroney against Viola La Barre, who was sentenced by the Hudson County Common Pleas court for debt.

In his opinion, Justice Bergen declares that if the rule, as laid down by the Hudson Common Pleas Court and the Supreme Court of this State, is a good one, a person so arrested and imprisoned may be held in jail for life.

Continuing, he says:

"The act under consideration has for its principal object the discharge of persons imprisoned under civil process. It undoubtedly has some of the features of a bankrupt act, but it lacks the essential characteristics of a bankruptcy law in that it does not absolutely discharge the debt, but restrains its use as a basis for imprisonment, and while the debtor is required to assign his property towards the liquidation of his debts, such assignment is subject, so far as his property and estate is concerned, to proceedings that may be instituted under the national bankrupt act. The conclusion we reach is that the act is not in conflict with the federal bankruptcy law and is not suspended thereby."

Want $498,321.82 for Elizabeth.

Mayor Ryan and Comptroller Bonnett of Elizabeth, have submitted to the aldermanic board their estimate of the amount which it will require to run the various departments of the city government for the ensuing fiscal year, beginning July 1. The total amount of the budget is $498,321.82. The estimate was referred to the Finance Committee of the board, to report on July 1.

DR. THOMAS B. STILLMAN FINDS A VEIN OF GOLD

A vein of gold ore has been discovered by Dr. Thomas B. Stillman, formerly of Plainfield and now professor of engineering chemistry at Stevens Institute of Technology, in the excavations being made on the institute property for teh annex to the Stevens preparatory school at Hoboken. It was by the merest accident that Dr. Stillman noticed the presence of the ore. He was watching the workmen digging next his home, where the preparatory school is located, and saw several specimens of rock which he recognized as very similar to the honeycomb quartz of the Bodie Consolidated Mine of California, which was at one time one of the most valuable mines in the United States.

Upon examining the ground near which he found the specimens, Dr. Stillman discovered that they had come from a very narrow deposit, having hardly enough of the ore to make mining feasible, but nevertheless such of the rock as was there had undoubted value.

Dr. Stillman gave the specimens to his son, Albert Leeds Stillman, an expert assayer from the School of Mines of Columbia University, who reported that in his analysis he found that the quantity of gold contained in the quartz was such to give value of about $8.50 a ton. According to Dr. Stillman, the rock in other veins in the same location may have a value either greater or smaller than that which was found yesterday.

It is not the first time gold has been found in this locality, for thirty-five years ago Professor Henry Morton, the late president of Stevens, and one of the best known scientific men in this country, discovered some small amounts of gold in the trap rock on which the main institute building was being erected. With the assistance of Professor Albert Leeds, Professor Morton assayed the specimens that he picked up there and found that they possessed a value of about $3 a ton.

These deposits of ore are most unevenly distributed and Dr. Stillman says one may be found at nearly any point on the Castle Point property.

Dr. Stillman laughed at the suggestion that the institute start to mine the rock and said that the trouble and expense entailed would not be repaid in a region where gold mines are, to say the least, not plentiful and where the deposits or ore would be exhausted in a short time.

THREE REPORTED BURIED IN RUINS.

Building Fell and Police and Firemen Work for Hours, but Found No Body.

Jersey City, June 18.—A building burned in the Salvation Army fire in the rear of 133 Steuben street collapsed last night, and it was reported that under its ruins a man and two children, who with a crowd of Italians and Poles were picking waste wood alongside of it, had been buried.

Police reserves and firemen were hurried to the scene, and aided by a dozen volunteers tore away the roof and floors with axes and hooks, but after over an hour's search no body was found under them. The men worked by lantern light until they were satisfied that no one was killed.

Some of the tenants of the Steuben street houses say they saw a man and woman and several children alongside of the house before the crash was heard. Others say they saw them running to get out of the way. The man was Stenfanki Borski, of 125 Steuben street. He was struck over the shoulders by part of the falling wall, but escaped with bruises and a cut hand. He was not sure whether the woman and the children nearby escaped.

PEDDIE INSTITUTE.

E. O. Silver, of East Orange, Elected President.

Hightstown, June 18.—The following officers were elected at the meeting of the board of corporations of Peddie Institute Tuesday: Dr. William, New Monmouth; president, Edgar O. Silver, East Orange; first vice-president, Henry U. Coleman, Trenton; second vice-president, Dr. George W. Clark, Hightstown; secretary, H. E. Deats, Flemington; treasurer, D. G. Garrabrant, Bloomfield.

Mr. Silver, the new president of the corporation, is head of the publishing house of Silver, Burdett & Co., of New York city, and widely known in educational work. He is a graduate of Brown University, class of 1883; a trustee of Brown, president of the American Institute of Applied Music and chairman of the board of trustees of Shaw University, at Raleigh, N. C. He is a member of the North Orange Baptist church, the New England Society of Orange and the Republican Club of East Orange.

Elopers Released.

New Brunswick, June 18.—John J. Sealey, the New York letter carrier who eloped with Mrs. Louisa Bond, and who was arrested in this city last week, was released from jail yesterday. Mrs. Bond was released last Saturday. The Middlesex authorities decided not to prosecute the couple here.

Rutgers Grads Give One Loving Cup, Other Bracelet.

New Brunswick, June 18.—A silver loving cup is coming to the young son of the Rev. John Black, pastor of the Altamont Reformed church, New York, and a gold bracelet to the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Strassburger, of Philadelphia, the gifts being the present of the class of 1898 of Rutgers College to the first son and daughter born to class members. Mrs. Strassburger was formerly Miss Ethel Merchant, of Highland Park, and Mrs. Black Miss Hattie DeMott, of this city.

These members of the class were present: C. B. Smith, King S. Oram, Reynolds S. Bennett, the Rev. Edward Dawson, the Rev. John Black, Louis H. Strassburger, James Collins, Jacob Lipman, Elliott E. Van Cleef, William E. Kelly, Willard P. Clark, Jacob Wyckoff and J. Jarvis Vail.

At the business meeting Elliott E. Van Cleef was elected president of the class for the next five years; the Rev. John Black, vice-president; Willard P. Clark, secretary, and Louis Strassburger, treasurer.

Following is a copy of a Resolution adopted by the Common Council, and approved by the Mayor, June 15, 1908, of which public notice was ordered given—

By order of the Common Council.

J. T. MAC MURRAY,
City Clerk.

Whereas, A Committee appointed by the Mayor and Council of the Borough of North Plainfield have requested the Common Council of the City of Plainfield to intimate on what terms they would enter into a contract to receive, care for or dispose of the sewage of the Borough of North Plainfield;

Resolved, that public hearing be had at the Council Chamber on July 13, 1908, at 8 o'clock p. m., on the question, "Whether or not the City of Plainfield shall enter into a contract with the Borough of North Plainfield whereby the City shall undertake, for a period of years, to receive, care for or dispose of the sewage of the Borough; and further

Resolved, That public notice of such hearing be given by the City Clerk in the official newspapers. 6 18 2 tu

ADRIAN, SILZER & PEARSE HAVE ENDED PARTNERSHIP.

The law firm of Adrain, Silzer and Pearse, with offices in the Scheuer biulding 738 Broad street, Newark, has dissolved. The firm was composed of Robert Adrain and Senator George S. Silzer, of New Brunswick, and Frederick M. Pearse of Metuchen and South Amboy. The law firm was organized on May 1, 1905.

The lawyers have found that they could not devote time enough to the Newark office, Senator Silzer and Mr. Adrain each having an extensive practice in New Brunswick. Mr. Pearse and Mr. Adrain will continue individual offices at 738 Broad street, Newark, which was formerly occupied by the firm. Senator Silzer will withdraw from the Newark practice entirely and devote all his time to his office at New Brunswick.

Boy Killed by Train.

New Brunswick, June 18.—James Low, the 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Low, was playing along the tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, near Millstone Junction Tuesday afternoon, when he ran in front of a passenger train and was instantly killed. His 8-year-old brother, Thomas, witnessed the accident, and ran to his home in the city and notified his mother, who found the body, the head almost severed, beside the track. The trainmen did not know that they had struck a body.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Teh graduation exercises of the local grammar school will be held tonight at the First Presbyterian church. The class this year numbers thirteen, and the diplomas will be given out by President A. F. Todd, Jr., of the Board of Education. Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer will be the speaker of the evening. All of the pupils will continue their studies in the Plainfield High School.

A special meeting of the township Board of Education will be held at the township school building Saturday night, to consider the proposition of erecting a new school in the northeast section of the township. This meeting was postponed from last Tuesday, when there were only about a dozen voters out. Plans for the new building will be shown at this week's meeting.

While at work on a local job yesterday, Wesley Gaskill, who is employed by Rimmer, Apgar and Cuzen, fell from a scaffold and was painfully bruised about the body. He was at work about ten feet from the ground and in moving about on the scaffold stepped off the side. While there are no broken bones or internal injuries, he is "off the job" for a few days.

Miss Marjorie Harris and John Dutcher are among the graduates of the Plainfield High School this year and will receive diplomas from President Leander N. Lovell, of the Board of Education at the commenceemnt exercises to be held in the New Plainfield theatre tonight. The reception and dance at the Casino will follow the graduation exercises.

Bishop McFaul will be in charge of the dedication ceremonies at the new Sacred Heart church, South Plainfield, Sunday morning. Rev. Edward J. Dunphy is in charge of the new church and will also take part in the ceremonies, assisted by clergymen from various parts.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Miss Marion Goodman, who recently underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital for appendicitis, continues to improve and will soon be able to be around again.

Ortlieb will be in the box again Saturday for the locals in the game at Crescent Oval against the Clinton Avenue team.

The second ball team are trying to arrange a game for Saturday on the home grounds with a Plainfield team.

Mrs. Charles N. Flanders has returned from a visit with her niece, Mrs. Cottrell, at Bayonne, N. J.

Benjamin Clark, of Prospect avenue, has been confined to his home for several weeks by illness.

William Spicer has taken a position with the Seeley Mill Company in the Valley.

Mrs. Robert Guttridge has returned from a visit with relatives in Plainfield.

James Fitzgerald has purchased a team and started in the carting business.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Ladies Aid Society met yesterday at Mrs. Oscar Thorne's. There was a good attendance. The principal matter that came up for discussion was the Independence Day celebration. The report received from the general committee was very satisfactory, and the women felt that it was necessary to make provision for at least twice the number of guests than last year. The dinner committee has so far been successful in obtaining promises of provisions and cash.

There was a rehearsal of "Mrs. Matildas School" yesterday. This pretty little musical comedy will be given by the children of the village at the celebration on July Fourth.

Cihldren's Day will be observed in the Baptist church on Sunday evening. An excellent program is being arranged and the pupils show great proficiency.

Mrs. William Norman is spending two weeks with Mrs. Riddle, of Pattenburg.

FIGHT ON VOTING MACHINE.

Morristown, June 18.—The Board of Aldermen last night fixed July 21 as teh day for a special election in all the districts of the town upon the retention or rejection of voting machines.

Bayonne, June 18.—Sixteen petitions from as many districts were presented to the Council last night asking for a special election on the use of voting machines.

Paterson, June 18.—Petitions are being circulated in the districts and wards of the cityfor signatures calling for a special election with a view to oust the voting machines. When the proper number of names have been affixed to the petitions they will be presented to the Board of Aldermen.

AMERICAN RIFLEMEN OUT OF OLYMPIC SHOOT

The American rifle team, of which Major William B. Martin, of Elizabeth, formerly captain of Company K, is a member, and which was to have sailed Saturday for England to take part in the Olympic shoot in Bisley, will not go. Yesterday morning Major Martin received the following telegram from General Drain:

"Team will not go. Entry finally rejected. DRAIN."

In explanation of the above telegram, Major Martin, who was much disappointed, said that under the rule all entries should have been in by June 1, which was done by all those intending to take part in the contest, outside of the American team. General Drain, recognizing that it would be impossible to select a team to represent this country within the time prescribed, endeavored to have the entry time in so far as the American riflemen were concerned, postponed until June 13.

With this object in view the general cabled to England and then selecting his men went on the the trial practice at Camp Perry, O., where from among many contestants were selected the ten men already announced—one of the number being Major Martin. The scores made by the men selected to represent this country were, it is claimed, the most remarkable ever made in this country in a shoot of this sort.

General Drain at once cabled the fact that the team had been selected, giving the name of each member and stating that the team would be in readiness to sail Saturday. Having done this, and believeing that the request he had made would be granted and everything was satisfactory, he gave himself no further concern about the matter, but proceeded to get the team in readiness for the trip.

The cablegram that came yesterday morning announcing that the American team had been shut out, because of it having failed to qualify in time, has proved a great disappointment, for the probabilities are that the team would have won, from all that can be learned of the prospective competition.

LESS WOOD IN BUILDINGS.

In all the comment on the decreasing use of wood in building, scarcely a word has been said about the effect on the carpenter. Concrete, stone, brick and steel are replacing the material that is conveniently easy to cut and fatally easy to burn, and while the general population of tre country increased by 14,000,000 during the decade between 1890 and 1900, the number of carpenters actually decreased, the figures standing at 618,000 in 1890 and 600,000 in 1900. Some might think that in the face of these facts the carpenters would oppose the growing use of fireproof materials. We are assured by the American Carpenter and Builder, however, that no such resentment is left. "Our carpenters and builders," it says, "are actuated by a progressive and open-minded spirit." And further:

"We all look forward gladly to the time of better and more substantial building. As far as the builders of this country are concerned, there was not need of the Boston suburb horror to impress on them the desirability of fireproof construction for all classes of buildings. The use of fireproof material means unquestionably an improvement in building construction. The building trades are now so closely allied that improvement in one line means improvement in all.

"We want to take the stand strongly and unequivocally that universal fireproofing does not sound the death knell of carpentry. We see no reason for the carpenter to be dismayed at the present change and tendency in building construction. The increasing use of concrete and of terra cotta and of steel presents new problems to the carpenter, but it does not eliminate him; far from it. True it is, there will be less work for the 'wood butcher,' but more for the skilled woodworker. The fine interior woodwork for a well-constructed residence of cement and steel will unquestionably be more valuable to the carpenter than the whole of a cheaply built frame house. His work will be of a finer grade, requiring greater skill, and paying him bigger money than ever before. As for the 'wood butcher,' none of us will regret to see him go, nor will we miss him when he's gone. But we must all turn in and dig—to keep out of that class! Satisfaction with present knowledge and skill will not do. Conditions are changing; yet we feel sure that carpentry is here to stay. Our carpenters are the most progressive workmen in the world; they stand ready now to do their share, and more, toward better and more substantial building."

THREE CARPENTERS HELD.

Elizabeth Men All Under Assault and Battery Charges.

Elizabeth, June 18.—In the Union County Court of Common Pleas yesterday here, before Judge Atwater, Charles Hoffman, Frederick W. Louis and John McDonald, union carpenters of this city, who were on strike and were indicted by the May grand jury for assault and battery here of John Mulcahy, a non-union carpenter, were arraigned to plead to the charge. The men entered a plea of not guilty. Their trial was set down for June 26. They are under $500 bail for the alleged offense. Frederick Thomas, Sr., proprietor of the Keystone Hotel, on Morris avenue here, against whom two indictments were found for running a disorderly house, retracted his former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty. He will be sentenced June 27. The application of the Westfield Golf Club to maintain a cafe on its ground was laid over for one week.

RUTGERS FACULTY CHANGES.

Messrs. Parmelee and Thompson Made Full Professors.

New Brunswick, June 18.—At the annual meeting of the Rutgers College trustees yesterday morning the following faculty appointments were announced by the trustees: Cullen W. Parmelee, associate professor of applied chemistry, appointed professor of ceremics; Frank F. Thompson, associate professor of physics, appointed professor of electrical engineering; Kary Cadmus Davis, appointed association professor of agriculture, and Frederick Charles Minkler, appointed instructor in the same department. These appointments will take effect July 1. Professor Edwin B. Davis received leave of absence for one year for study abroad. Professor Louis Bevier, Jr., received leave of absence until November 1 to carry on certain reseaches abroad.

MORRIS COUNTY ATTRACTION.

Work to Be Pushed Soon on Line From Hopatcong to Elizabeth.

Morristown, June 18.—The Morris County Traction Company, the work of which in this section has been held up because of its inability to float its stock and bonds during the stringency of the money market, is still suffering from the depressed financial conditions. But its officers say they are encouraged to believe that better conditions will soon prevail and that they will then push the line to completion, from Hopatcong to Elizabeth.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders, held yesterday, the following board of directors was elected their organizations to be effected later in the week: F. H. Alleman, L. A. Gimmy, Arthur W. Dunkle, T. F. Lozier, William L. Gorgas.

Davis Grows Optimistic.

Jersey City, June 18.—Robert Davis is developing into an optimist. He said today:

"I wouldn't be surprised to see the entire New Jersey delegation climb on the Bryan band wagon before the balloting begins at the Democratic national convention in Denver in July.

"Secretary Taft has antagonized labor and he has made enemies of the colored men. The colored vote holds the balance of power in some States. I wouldn't be surprised at all to see Taft go down in defeat."

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

Being good is an awful complacent job.

He who marries a rich wife makes a poor husband.

The more a man shaves himself the more he talks about his barber.

The girl you kiss under the mistletoe acts as if it would be much better somewhere else.

When you see a man advertising his virtues it's to keep your attention off his real character.

When a girl gets engaged she is sorry she can't talk in a million telephones all at once.

A bustle is a great protection to a woman who sits down suddenly, specially if it isn't artificial.

Your wife will believe any explanation you make for being out late if she knows nobody else will.

A boy can be a lot prouder of his father for not dressing out of style than for being one of the big men of the world.

One of the most useful things about men going into politics is it's sufficient warning to the public not to trust them.—New York Press.

WEATHER WISDOM.

A rainbow in the morning is a sign of rain, but one in the evening indicates fine weather.

A morning fog usually clears away before noon; an afternoon fog has set in for the day.

If the cat lies with her back to the fire, there will be a squall.

The 12 days immediately following Christmas are said to denote the weather for the coming year, one day for each month.

The day of the month on which the first snowstorm appears is believed by some people to indicate the number of snowstorms the winter will bring. For instance, if the first snowstorm is on November 29, there will be 29 snowstorms in the winter.

ABOUT PROMINENT PEOPLE.

Mme. Patti speaks Italian, Spanish, Russian, German, French and Portuguese perfectly and, of course, her English is faultless.

Emperor William is going to make crusade against the introduction into the German language of so many words from other languages.

Mrs. Jan Kubelik, wife of the famous violin virtuoso, recently said that she did not mind how many women kissed the violinist because it was a tribute to his genius.

Queen Taitu, the consort of Menelik, is an elderly and dignified woman, good looking according to the Ethiopian point of view, and a great stickler for etiquette.

Although his famous silver mine has yielded him $18,000,000, Pedro Alvarado, the "Mexican Croesus," has been so extravagant that he has run into debt, and has been constrained to lease his property for 15 years to an American syndicate.

JUDGE'S DECISIONS.

The beam in most men's eye is I.

There are social lions in asses' skins.

On shipboard a man finds it hard to hold his own.

A man often burns his fingers when he has too many irons in the fire.

When a man has one foot in the grave he's mighty glad he was born a biped.

Some people trip themselves up in their frantic effort to put their best foot foremost.—Judge.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the following Ordinance has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Council to adopt the same.

J. T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., June 8, 1908.

A Supplement to an Ordinance entitled, "An Ordinance for the assessment of taxes for the year 1908," approved May 4, 1908.

WHEREAS, The Board of School Estimate of this district, that is to say, the school district comprising the City of Plainfield, has fixed upon and determined the amount of Thirty-five Thousand Dollars ($35,000) as the amount of money necessary to be appropriated for the use of the public schools in such district, for the ensuing school year exclusive of the amount apportioned to it by the County Superintendent of Schools (all amounts apportioned to said school district under and by virtue of Chapter 267 of the Laws of this State for the year 1908 having been applied in reduction of local taxation for said year) and has made two certificates of said amount signed by all the members of said Board of School Estimate, one of which certificates has been delivered to the Board of Education of said school district, and the other to the Common Council of said city.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That pursuant to the act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey entitled: "An Act to establish a thorough and efficient system of free public schools, and to provide for the maintenance, support and management thereof," approved October 19, 1903, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, the sum of Thirty-five Thousand Dollars ($35,000) be and the same is hereby appropriated for the purposes aforesaid as other appropriations are made by the Common Council, and that said amount shall be assessed, levied and collected for the year nineteen hundred and eight in the same manner as moneys appropriated for other purposes in this city are required to be assessed, levied and collected.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 21, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

This topic naturally follows the one considered a week ago—namely, "How to choose a life work." Having made this choice, we must then find the opportunity to carry it into effect. If we choose certain careers, such as a profesional one, for instance, the pathway is plain before us. We must graduate from college and the professional school and begin our professional work. But if we elect to follow a trade or to engage in business the question arises, How shall we get a situation? Or if no particular choice has been made, but that is left to the best opportunity in any life work that will offer itself to us, the same question arises.

No definite rules can be laid down for securing a situation. Many men in all walks of life could hardly tell how they came to be where they are. In the final analysis there is but one answer—God directed their lives for them. This was true in Joseph's case, and let us hope it has been true or will be true in our lives regardless of the human means used by Providence. Speaking practically, situations are secured through personal applications for vacant positions, advertising in the newspapers or answering advertisements in the papers and through the influence and recommendations of relatives or friends, or it may be that we ourselves may attract attention and have a position offered to us. This, however, is rarely the case. A place worth having is worth seeking for.

We should not wait for something to turn up, but turn something up. But these are really only the incidentals. Before we can secure a desirable situation we must show in some way that we are worthy of it, especially in character and in ability. Character is essential above all things. Ability can only be judged before it has been tested, but a good moral character is an immediate necessity. No one knows this better than pastors, who not only frequently recommend young people for situations, but are even more frequently asked for references after applications have been made. These reference blanks often ask for an opinion as to ability, but they want specific and definite answers as to honesty, sobriety and trustworthiness. The writer of this article in his early ministry kept a record of the first question asked by business men to whom he applied personally for positions for other men. The number of applications recorded was eighty, and in seventy-nine cases out of the eighty the first question asked was, "Does he drink?" No respectable business firm wants a drinking man in its employment. Nor will it engage boys with bad habits. But a boy or young man who possesses good health, a fair amount of intelligence, is honest, upright and willing to work need not want for a situation. The world will give him a trial, and success or failure then depends upon him.

Keeping a situation after it has been secured depends upon ourselves. Many try to put the blame upon others for lost positions, but they seldom succeed. (1) We must show ourselves worthy of the position intrusted to us. If we cannot perform the duties required, we will soon have successors. (2) Business must mean business. Punctuality and regularity must characterize our business lives. Every duty required should be promptly and willingly performed. (3) There should be no fear of doing a little extra work. A young man lost a good position with a reliable firm because when, having nothing for the moment to do, he disdained to clean a window. Nor should we be frightened at a little work overtime. The employee who cannot get to the street too quickly after the bell rings will probably soon have all his time to himself. (4) Be cheerful and respectful at all times, no matter how hard the task set before you. (5) Take Christ with you to your place of business. Make him your life partner in business, whether you are an errand boy or a bank cashier. Do thoroughly and well your duties in the humbler positions, and advancement and success will be your reward.

BIBLE READINGS.

Eccl. ix, 10; Matt. xx, 1-16; xxv, 14-29; Acts v, 1-11; Eph. v, 15-18; vi, 5-8; Phil. iv, 8, 9; Col. iii, 17; I Cor. iv, 1, 2; II Tim. ii, 15.

Christian Endeavor Forerunner.

Rev. Richard Richard tells in the Christian Endeavor Times of England about a boys' religious society formed in 1766 in a school kept by Rev. John Ryland, the Baptist clergyman who baptized William Carey. After a revival in this school a few of the boys met together regularly for prayer in the "summer house," and when they reached the number of half a dozen they framed and signed the following rules for their society:

First.—To meet at 5:30 in the evening on Monday and Wednesday.

Third.—To take in none till they have been first talked with and examined.

Fourth.—Such as behave not according to these rules and according to the rules of Christ or whose conduct shall be disgraceful to their profession shall be excluded after the second admonition.

Fifth.—No member shall say anything about this society to the other boys.

Sixth.—None shall be absent without a good reason.

It will be noticed that in many points this is similar to the Christian Endeavor plan, though rule No. 5 is certainly quite the opposite of Christian Endeavor ideas. With this old time pledge as a text Mr. Richard makes an earnest plea for the organization of Christian Endeavor societies in schools and colleges, a plan which we heartily second.

LAPLAND HAS MANY RESOURCES.

Recent Efforts to Develop Them Are Full of Promise.

Within a recent period efforts have been made to develop the natural resources of Lapland, and there seems to be a considerable economic future in store for this region, which is especially due to the large deposits of iron ore. A great step was the building of the trans-Lapland railroad, which was finished in 1903. With the annex lines which are building it will soon put Lapland in connection with Tornea, in Finland, with St. Petersburg and with the eastern region. The Stockholm-Narvik railroad line, which runs north and south, has a length of 950 miles. The transverse east-west line starts from Lulea, a Swedish Lapland port on the Gulf of Bothnia, and ends at the Norwegian port of Narvik (292 miles), passing by the mines of Gellivara and Kiruna. These latter mines, which have been worked only since 1902, were known as long back as 1735. The ore is taken out from the surface in an open digging. Each day there are six trains of 28 cars of 38 tons sent to Narvik. The annual product of the mine is 1,400,000 tons. The town of Kiruna, with its attractive frame houses, has only four years' existence. M. Parmentier, secretary of the St. Quentin Geological society, recently made an interesting conference at Paris upon the trans-Lapland railroad, in which he showed that Lapland, now connected with the international railroad systems, will open a field for immigrants, who can find remunerative work there.—Scientific American.

BENEFIT IN CHICKEN RAISING.

Leads to Development of Brotherly Love, According to Writer.

"If you want to give me real pleasure," said the genial man, "just set me down among a group of amateur chicken raisers. Their conversation is a study in brotherly love. More than any other set of people they are willing, even anxious, to help each other. Professional men and men engaged in the trades do not, when talking together, sound the note of mutual helpfulness. Each man keeps his secrets of success to himself. Now and then one may drop a hint that may by chance prove valuable to his hearers, but he doesn't mean to do even that, because the rule is for each to work out his own salvation.

"Amateur chicken raisers, on the other hand, are inspiring examples of altruism. When one discovers a new cure for the pip he hastens to spread the information among his friends and neighbors who are also wrestling with the pip proposition. If another man hits upon a new idea in feeding or hatching he never rests till he gives his brother chicken raisers a chance to profit by his discovery. Commuters who live in a chicken raising community exhibit a friendliness of spirit that is foreign to commuters from chickenless neighborhoods. They have their incubators, the relative value of different breeds of fowls, and the possibility of premiums at the next county fair to talk about, and so cultivate a spirit of kindly courtesy unknown to persons engaged in other pursuits."

Like Some Men.

Mrs. Belle De Rivera, president of the Equal Suffrage League of New York, said, at a recent dinner:

"We'd have had the suffrage, we women, long ago, were it not that, where women are concerned, men are inclined to be a little unfair, a little churlish.

"Their treatment of women is on a par with old Hiram Doolitttle's treatment of his wife. He made her keep a cash account, and he would go over it every night, growing and grumbling like this:

"'Look here, Hannah—mustard plasters, 50 cents; three teeth extracted, two dollars. There's $2.50 in one day spent for your own private pleasure. Do you think I'm made of money?'"

The Flea a Dangerous Enemy.

The principal indictment against the flea is that it is the partner of the rat in the propagation of the bubonic plague, and is, indeed, the more guilty of the two. It is perfectly well established that the bacillus of the plague exists in rats of a certain breed. These rats are infested with fleas which by their biting transfer the disease germs to other rats. When the rats die the fleas desert their bodies for other rats or for human beings. So fleas are the essential factors in conveying the plague virus to men, and it is possible that they convey it from one man to another, from a plague patient to a healthy man, without the co-operation of rats at all.

Got the Benefit.

"Oh, yes, Skinner was a beneficiary under old Roxley's will."

"I didn't know he was a relative of Roxley's."

"He wasn't, but he was attorney for a relative."

A Question of Nerve.

"Does it require much nerve to ask a woman to marry you?" inquired the inquisitive youth.

"Not half as much as asking for a raise in salary," was the prompt reply."—Detroit Free Press.

No Liking Apparent.

"Your wife likes the last word, doesn't she?"

"I don't think so," answered Mr. Meekton. "Anyway, she's mighty reluctant about reaching it."

ARE LEARNING TO DRINK MILK.

Only Lately Have the Japanese Even Tolerated the Beverage.

Japan is learning to drink milk. A Japanese newspaper says of the phenomenon: "There was a time when milk was regarded in Japan with the same abhorrence as cheese is in China, especially the pungent and strong-smelling variety. Recent statistics, however, show that time has worked a great change in this respect and milk and butter are now in great favor in Japan. Whereas 25 years ago not more than one or two per cent. of the persons visiting a European restaurant or eating a European meal at a friend's home would have thought of touching butter, fully 40 or 50 per cent. now eat it with a relish. They are, however, quite content to do without it.

"As to dairy farms, they have increased notably in recent years. Thirty or 40 years ago milk was abhorred. The average Japanese could not induce himself to drink it. But to-day many a household consumes one or two bottles of milk daily, partly because people have come to like it and partly because the doctors have recommended it as a unique and wholesome beverage.

"'Milk halls,' too, are now quite numerous. Butter will probably take much longer to come widely into vogue, because of its expensiveness. A pound of fresh butter costs at least one yen (49.8 cents gold) in Tokyo today, an extremely high price for Japan."

KEPT UP FIRE OF COMMENTS.

Duke of Cambridge Took Lively Interest in the Sermon.

"The late Dr. William M. Stonehill," said a college settlement worker of New York, "was called the bishop of the Bowery. It was a title of affection. The Bowery loved this good man.

"He sometimes used to laugh over the naivete of his Bowery audiences. He used to say that in their frequent audible comments on his sermons they reminded him of the famous duke of Cambridge—the old duke, you know.

"From his great pew the duke rumbled out all sorts of remarks and criticisms every Sunday morning. It would be, said Dr. Stonehill, like this:

"Preacher—'Let us pray.'

"Duke—'By all means.'

"Preacher prays for rain.

"Duke—'No good in that as long as the wind is in the east.'

"Preacher (reading) — 'Zaccheus stood forth and said, "Behold, Lord, one-half of my lands I gave to the poor."'

"Duke—'Too much, too much. Don't mind subscribing, but can't stand that.'

"Preacher quotes a certain commandment.

"Duke—'Quite right, quite right, but very difficult sometimes.'

"Preacher quotes another commandment, which need not be indicated.

"Duke—'No, no! It was my brother Ernest did that.'"

Snake Opal Lucky.

A "snake opal" must be an invaluable possession. It is the "lucky stone" of the Mojave Indians, who say it frightens away bad luck. The stone is not beautiful, but might appeal to those who like "gems" that are "different." It is said that the Indians never allow these stones to leave the tribe if they can help it, and will not part with one for any consideration. Tradition has made the stone one of good omen, but that counts for little, as tradition is generally hooted at in the present day, and wherever it raises its head other stones than snake opals are shied at it. Perhaps some superstitious bridge player, however, will try to get hold of a snake opal and try its efficacy.

Eels and the Searchlight.

Danish investigators have found a means of checking the downward migration of breeding eels to the sea, whereby it is hoped that a valuable food supply may be saved for the country, for these migrating eels, when they have once reached the sea never return to their native rivers. The method is simplicity itself. A large acetylene searchlight is placed by the river bank in such a position that its rays can be made to illuminate the comparatively shallow water and it is found that by this means the downward movement of the fish can be effectively checked.

A Very Odd Clock.

An extraordinary addition has been made to the exhibition of inventions now being held in Berlin. A shoemaker named Wegner, living in Strasburg, has sent in a clock of the grandfather shape, nearly six feet high, made entirely of straw. The wheels, pointers, case and every detail are exclusively of straw. Wegner has taken 15 years to construct this strange piece of mechanism. It keeps perfect time, but under the most favorable circumstances cannot last longer than two years.

Good for the Nerves.

"John," said Mrs. Stubb, proudly, when her husband returned that evening, "here is a parrot I bought from a Brazilian sailor. Isn't it a good parrot?"

"No," snapped Mr. Stubb, in anticipation of interrupted slumbers, "that is not a good parrot."

"Not a good parrot? Why, John, what do you call a good parrot?"

"Why, a dead parrot, Maria."

SEND IN "CONSCIENCE MONEY."

Londoners Make Amends for Faults in Many Queer Ways.

"Conscience money" advertisements are published from time to time in the London papers, acknowledging receipt by the chancellor of the exchequer of various sums from anonymous people who have evaded taxation and later repented of cheating their country.

A remarkable instance of this was the published acknowledgment of $1,800 in gold from "X X X." The bullion was sent by registered post to the treasury, where it was suspected of being a bomb or infernal machine, but it proved to be a tin box containing 360 sovereigns neatly packed, with a note signed "X X X" stating that the coin was "conscience money," and asking for an acknowledgment in the newspaper.

Five thousand dollars was the largest amount ever received by the treasury as "conscience money." Perhaps the queerest form of sending "conscience money" was that adopted by one conscience-stricken taxpayer, who sent 100 sovereigns, each neatly wrapped in paper and inserted in one of the 100 round holes made in a tablet of wood. The offering was inclosed in a large envelope, which a secretary of the treasury found on his desk one morning.

DISTANCES SEEM TO SHORTEN.

Thing That Struck New Yorker on His Latest Visit to Old Home.

"The thing that struck me this time," said a New Yorker who had just made a little visit to the town in which he was born, "was the shortness of the distances in the old place.

"I remember that when I first used to go back the buildings there that had seemed big to me in my youth gradually grew small, but this time the distance had dwindled remarkably, too.

"The railroad station there is on the edge of the town and you take a street car to ride to the business center. That used to seem to me to be quite a ride; but this time we got there before I knew it.

"'What!' I said, 'you don't mean we've got to Blank street?'

"'Yes, here we are,' said the old home friend, and so we were.

"You see, the distances were shrinking now, as the buildings had already done; and friendly and pleasant as the old town seemed—and it's steadily growing, too, and is a bigger place than ever—still it seemed smaller and smaller to one whose later and now fixed impressions were of the big buildings and the big distances of the big town of New York."

Nervousness.

Nervousness is often due to some poison formed in the blood by the decomposition of undigested food—in other words, often arises primarily from indigestion.

Nervousness when due to this cause may sometimes continue through many years without causing dangerous conditions. On the other hand nervous disturbances due to this auto-intoxication or self-poisoning may be immediately fatal.

Many people, however, suffer from "nervous indigestion," as they call it, for 20 years or more without fatal termination. In these cases there is of course a gradual weakening of the general system which predisposes to many diseases, and death is always premature, usually being traceable to what is called "heart failure."—Health Culture.

Casting Out the Devils.

It seems to be necessary for the human body to exhale the poisonous constituents of the blood. A big, stout pair of lungs trained to do their duty will stave off a multitude of diseases by blowing them into the air. Diseases vanish in carbonic acid (carbon dioxide, or dioxide), and it is interesting to know how much of this is exhaled in the course of certain exercises. In a healthy sleep you exhale about six-tenths of an ounce an hour; in walking at the rate of two miles an hour, 2.1 ounces; walking three miles an hour, 3 ounces; horseback riding, 4 ounces; swimming, 4.4 ounces; working a treadmill, 5½ ounces.

The Best He Knew.

Gladstone, a Jamaica negro, was assistant to a district physician in the canal zone, and being rather poor in his Latin, the bottles had been numbered for his benefit. One day a Spanish laborer came in for medicine, and the doctor told his worthy assistant to give him two pills out of No. 6. After he had gone the doctor asked:

"Gladstone, did you give the man a dose of No. 6?"

"Oh, no, sah, doctor; numbah six war finished, so I just give him one pill out of numbah foah and one out of numbah two."—Lippincott's.

All Wish to Live Happily.

All men, Brother Gallio, wish to live happily, but are dull at perceiving exactly what it is that makes life happy; and so far is it from being easy to attain to happiness that the more eagerly a man struggles to reach it the farther he departs from it, if he takes the wrong road; for since this leads in the opposite direction, his very swiftness carries him all the farther away.—Seneca.

The Donator.

"Why don't you do something for literature?" asked Mr. Sirius Barker.

"I have helped to put up some of the finest library buildings in the country," answered Mr. Dustin Stax.

"That's architecture; not literature."

DOG WITH STICK OF DYNAMITE CHASES MAN

Thomas Olmstead, lumber jobber, from his lofty perch in the branches of a towering elm sought to soothe his pet. But the dog only wagged his tail with greater vigor and set his teeth the harder on the explosive he had retrieved from a log jam.

"Drop it, Shep! Drop it!" called William Butler, Olmstead's companion, who had fled to a neighboring field.

When the dog heard Butler's voice, he relaxed his vigil beneath the tree in which Olmstead had sought refuge. Then he ran toward Butler.

Bang!

"Dog gone!" murmured Olmstead, as he slid down the tree trunk.

Olmstead and Butler, who reside at Standish, set out in the morning to break a log jam in the south branch of Pine river. They were accompanied by Shep, noted for his ability as a retriever. When Olmstead tossed a stick of dynamite among the logs, Shep brought it back. Olmstead climbed a tree and Butler dashed to a nearby field.

"When that dynamite exploded," said Olmstead, "Shep just naturally disappeared."

WOLVES HOLD MEN IN TREE.

Hungry Beasts Howl All Night at the Freezing Captives.

Port Arthur, Ont.—Compelled to cling to the branches of a tree all through a winter night, with the thermometer below zero, without food or warm clothing, as one had his clothes partially torn from his back, with a pack of 20 ravenous wolves howling around the tree from dusk until daylight, was the fate of two trappers from this city in Silver mountains.

The men were Patrick and William Murphy. All through the night the wolves kept up their howls, waiting for the treat which did not come, and they did not disperse until daylight came and the men were able to get a few shots at them, killing nine of them, for which they collected $135 in bounty.

For several weeks wolves have been very ferocious in the woods around here, but no fatalities have been reported so far. The wolves are bold enough to attack men, owing to the scarcity of rabbits and other small animals.

Corpse Rolls on Floor.

Wheeling, W. Va.—When the funeral services over the remains of William Houston were being conducted at McMechen, the floor of the house gave way and the corpse rolled out of the casket and onto the floor and against the mourners' feet. At the time a quartette was singing "Lift Me Up, Oh, Jesus," and a mild panic ensued before the guests realized what was taking place.

Houston was killed on the railroad. On the morning of that day his intended bride, Mrs. Julia Ritchie, former wife of "Bob" Ritchie, the escaped murderer of Michael McGodin, procured a marriage license in the county court here for the ceremony, which was set for that evening.

Sharp Teeth Save Life.

Nutley, N. J.—The sharp teeth of Mabel Swenson, ten years old, saved the life of her chum, Minnie Arnolt, when the latter's foot caught in a "frog" while the girls were walking along the Erie tracks near here.

Miss Arnott could not release her foot nor untie the knotted lace. While she was struggling with the knot the whistle of a train was heard. The girls became frantic. Then Miss Swenson threw herself on the ground and with her teeth severed the lace. It required only a second to release Miss Arnott's foot and she stepped off the tracks just a moment before a train rushed by.

American Education Best.

At the examinations recently held in Pekin for official degrees men who had studied in American universities received the highest honors. Out of a large number examined, only seven got the highest degree obtainable, and of these five were graduates of the University of California, while the other two had studied in Japan.

JOHN CROWLEY MUST PAY FOR HORSE HE PURCHASED.

Jacob Arnold, of Somerville, through his counsel, Horace Codington, brought suit against John Crowley, of this city, in the District Court, this morning, seeking to recover $125, the price of a horse he sold to the defendant. The case was not contested and Judge Newcorn gave the plaintiff judgment for the amount and interest, $129.37.

According to the story of the plaintiff Mr. Crowley took the horse on trial for two weeks with the understanding that if the animal suited him he was to pay $125 for him. The two weeks passed and nothing was said about a settlement. Later the horse was killed on the Lehigh Valley Railroad. It is said that Mr. Crowley has instituted a suit against the railroad company for damages.

Jury Trials Adjourned.

Three jury trials were set down for today's session of the district court, but counsel in each case asked for an adjournment and Judge Newcorn granted the request. One of the cases to have been tried today was that of Calloway against Bohl, assault and battery, the jjury failing to agree at the first trial. Francis J. Blatz represents Bohl and S. S. Swackhamer is counsel for Calloway. It was at the request of Mr. Swackhamer, who was called elssewhere that the case was adjourned.

For Y. M. C. A. State Camp.

Robert Meggy, William Brower and Alfred and Raymond Mapley will go to Camp Wawayanda, the State Y. M. C. A. camp in northern New Jersey, for two weeks, beginning July 1. With them will be Walter Bliss, Hilary Watts and Howard Day, of Westfield. The party will be accompanied by Boys' Secretary Charles B. Batchelor.

Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold a regular meeting tonight.

CHAUNCEY MURPHEY GETS A YALE ATHLETIC CUP

Chauncey R. Murphey, 1908, captain of the football and baseball teams at the Plainfield High School, was awarded the Yale cup as the high school senior with the highest rank in athletics and scholarship for the past year at the morning exercises in the school auditorium today. The trophy, which is a three-handled pewter loving-cup, bearing the Yale University seal, was presented by E. A. Stevenson, president of the Plaineld Yale Club, who made a congratulatory speech. Similar cups will be presented to seniors of the North Plainfield High School and Leal's School tomorrow. In addition, the Yale Club has oered a prize of $25 to the local high school boy passing the highest college entrance examination.

Today was the last day of school at P. H. S. before the spring vacation. The morning exercises were marked by special singing and addresses of farewell by Principal Ira W. Travell and Superintendent Henry M. Maxson. Contrary to custom, the senior class marched into the essembly room last, all the other pupils remaining standing until they had taken their places.

Later in the moring, the entore class, accompanied by Principal Ira W. Travell and Lindsey Best, of the faculty, went "down to Randolph's" where the druggist "shouted" for the whole forty-nine of them. This is another annual custom much cherry-ished.

mood last night. It was given out that Charles F. Brooker, of Connecticut, had been instructed to cast the whole vote of the delegation of that State for Franklin Murphy for Vice President on the first ballot. Assurance also has been given the New Jersey leaders, it was said at headquarters, that when the right time comes, Massachusetts will vote for Mr. Murphy. This is taken to mean that the Bay State delegation will turn to Murphy, after the first complimentary ballot has been cast for Curtis Guild, Jr.

It was further given out that delegates from Ohio, Missouri, Michigan and Indiana had visited the New Jersey leaders and expressed intentions of supporting the candidacy of Mr. Murphy for the Vice Presidency.

HORSE, ENTAGLED IN SHAFTS, CAUSES MORNING EXCITEMENT.

A brown horse, attached to a light runabout, and driven by Percy Gaddis, of the borough, got excited on Park avenue near Second street at about 9 o'clock today and kicked the front of the rig to pieces before it could be calmed. The accident happened when the animal got its left hind leg over the cross bar of the runabout and became wild with fright. It bolted, kicking frantically, and Gaddis and a companion jumped, escaping without injury. The horse tripped in getting up on the sidewalk at Schreiner's drug store and fell heavily in the gutter. A runaway was prevented by Elijah Ash, a by-stander, who seized the bridle. "Jim" Babbitt, the city's ex-dog catcher, also did the hero act and the two prevented the animal from doing more damage by its kicking.

The horse was unhitched from the wrecked wagon and taken to a nerby livery, where it was found to be but slightly cut about the legs. Gaddis drove away in another rig, leaving the animal at the stable to calm down.

Would Sleep on Lawn.

Internally soaked with intoxicants, Charles Mundy, who lives in Martinsville, tried to sleep off a first-class jag on a lawn on Grandview avenue yesterday afternoon. Residents complained and Marshal Charles Keller, of the borough force, transferred the toper to a cell to conclude his nap. At his hearing today Borough Recorder Dolliver he was fined $2.

CARNIVAL QUEEN CONTEST CLOSES TOMORROW NIGHT

It was announced by the management of the Firemen's carnival today, that the voting contest for the queen will be declared at an end at 11 o'clock tomorrow night. The winner will be announced as soon afterward as possible and plans will at once be made for the crowning to take place Saturday afternoon. No votes will be received after the polls are officially declared closed.

In today's count of votes, it was found that Miss Mattie DeCamp had again secured a large number, 740, but Miss Margaret Townley gained 351 so she still remains in the lead. Miss Townley's total is 4,760 and Miss DeCamp's 4,395. The other counts for today were 415 for Miss King, 126 for Miss Hopewell and 146 for Miss Adams. The totals for these three are Miss King 3,128, Miss Hopewell 2,898 and Mis Adams 2,680.

The carnival will go from this city to Passaic and in the queen contest started there, thirty-five contestants are already in the field.

Alfred P. Egan a Benedict.

Miss Beulah F. Lightfoot, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Lightfoot, of Westfield, and Alfred P. Egan, of this city, were married last night at the home of the bride's parents, by Rev. C. J. Greenwood, jastor of the Baptist church, that place. Miss Clara Lightfoot, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, while the groom was unattended. The affair was attended by a number of guests from this city, Westfield and Elizabeth. The groom is well-known here, where he was formerly prominent in athletics. The couple will reside at Westfield for the summer, following a honeymoon.

District Court Cases.

Judgment for $159.75 was given the plaintiff in the district court, this morning, in an action brought by Max Kebpfer, of New York, against James W. Tygard, of South avenue, to recover on a note given by the defendant. H. C. Runyon represented the plaintiff. The case was not contested. Possession of the premises was also given the plaintiff in the landlord and tenant case of Fred C. Lounsbury against Israel Howell, the premises being on West Second street.

Newspaper Sale Confirmed.

Vice-Chancellor Howell yesterday, at Newark, confirmed the sale of the Orange Chronicle property to Alfred Yankauer for $21,600. The application was made in behalf of Henry L. Holmes, the receiver. The sale was opposed by Frank W. Baldwin, through counsel, on the ground that the offer was inadequate, but it was shown that no better offer was in sight.

Business College Night.

All pupils of the Plainfield Business College who will assist in the carnival tonight are requested to meet at the college at 6:45. Those who are unable to do this may report at Business College headquarters on the carnival grounds.

TEACHING CORPS CHANGES

Dan Cupid Has Enveigled Some Away and Others Take Absence Leave.

IN THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

Seventeen New Faces Will be Seen in the Public School Staff —When Fall Term Opens.

Dan Cupid has been making some successful bull-eyes among local school teachers during the past few months, and half a dozen instructors in the city and borough schools have tendered their resignations to the Board of Education. None of the grooms' names have been made public, but it is said that Miss Mary H. Budd, of the Stillman School, Miss Stella M. Greene, of the Whittier School, Miss Lila A. Partridge, of the Irving School and "nearly all the teachers who leave the borough school teaching staff" are wearing engagement rings.

Eleven teachers in the city schools will go, and six vacancies will be caused in the borough school faculty by resignations. Fourteen new teachers will come to the Plainfield schools, and there will be three transfers to fill vacancies. In the borough five new faces will appear at schoolroom desks when the fall term begins.

Miss Mary Lock, of the Plainfield High School faculty, who has been out for part of the term by illness, will spend next year recuperating. Miss Helene M. Pope, of the Whittier School, will take her classes. Miss Carolina M. Shaver, of the Whittier School will take a year's special study in geography at Cornell, and Miss Stella M. Barnett will take Miss Mary H. Budd's place in the Stillman School. Miss Grace Hubbard, of the Franklin School, will return to her home in Winchester, Mass., on account of her mother's death. She will teach in the public school there. Miss Mary E. Decker, of the Franklin School, will go to the High School to assist Mr. Bostwick in the manual training department. Miss Alice Wells, of the Washington School, has resigned to take a position in the west.

At the Irving School, there will be four changes in the teaching staff. Miss Anna Gosman will spend the year in the Philippines with her sister, the wife of an army officer stationed in the islands. Miss Louise Stowell will take a year of study at Ann Arbor, Michigan, and Miss Adelaide D. Ballou, who has resigned, has not yet announced her plans. Miss Maud Doolittle will take charge of a class in the model school of the Framingham Normal School. A new classroom is to be opened at the Lincoln School, where Miss Gladys Brown, of the Bryant School will be assigned as teacher.

New teachers who will come to take classes in the city schools are Miss Alice Forsyth, of Mount Holyoke, now teaching in the Bangor High School; Miss Mary E. Perley, of the North Adams Normal School, now teaching in Cambridge, Mass.; Miss Charlotte Reynolds, of Potsdam Normal School, now teaching in Watertown, N. Y.; Ora M. McIntyre, of Fitchburg Normal School, now teaching at Chicopee, Mass.; Miss Pearl V. Knapp, of the Potsdam Normal School; Miss Fannie L. Beckwith, of Salem Normal School, Somerville, Mass.; Miss Florence Martin, a graduate of the Plainfield High School and the Trenton Normal School, now teaching at Aldene; Miss Edith Weaver, of the Potsdam Normal School; Miss Alice G. Barrett, of North Adams Normal School, now teaching at North Adams Normal in the model school; Miss Wilwarder Steele, of North Carolina State Normal School, now teaching at Greensboro, N. C.; Mis Hattie H. Humphrey, of West Chester Normal School, now teaching at Slatington, Pa.; Miss Marjorie B. Barbour, of Potsdam Normal School; Miss Susan R. Waters, of Rhode Island Normal School, now teaching in Providence; Miss Minnie C. Copeland, of Bridgewater Normal School, now teaching in Westerly, R. I.

Borough School Changes.

Miss Agnes Scudder, who has had charge of the English department in the North Plainfield High School, will be succeeded by Miss Phoebe Waller, of Maysville, Kentucky; Miss Waller is a graduate of Oxford College, Ohio, and has had post-graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, and at Teacher's College, New York. She has had six years of experience as a teacher, mostly in Kentucky, and has specialized in both English and History. The vacancy caused by the departure of Miss Virna M. Carpenter will be filled by Miss Jane Crawford, of Cortland, New York. She has been assigned to the second grade, the other teachers will be moved forward one grade. Miss Crawford is a graduate of the Cortland State Normal School, and has taught very successfully for one year at Luzerne, New York.

Miss Sarah H. Brundage, who had been engaged to fill out the term for Miss Bateman, will teach next year in Madison. Her place will be taken by Miss Rita Dalley, of Raritan. Miss Dalley taught in the North Plainfield schools some years ago, but was compelled to rtire for a year because of ill health. She recovered and for several years has been teaching at Raritan. Miss Edna L. French will succeed Miss Adele Milne as head of the Somerset school kindergarten, Miss Myra Emmons remaining as assistant. Miss Alice Martin, who has been assistant in the Watchung School for several years, has been made head teacher. Miss Martin is a graduate of the North Plainfield High School, and of the Elliman Kindergarten School of New York city. Miss Martin's assistant will be Miss Myra Cheesman, of New York, who is also a graduate of the Elliman School.

George I. Webster, who will have charge of the manual training department and advanced mathematics at the North Plainfield High School is a graduate of Bucknell University, Pa. Mr. Webster had charge of the manual training department of the State Normal School at Millersville, Pa., for three years. He is a member of one of the military companies of Pennsylvania, and his enrollment in the borough corps of teachers is expected to add to the athletic department ETAOINN AOIN partment. Miss Myrtie M. Montague, who has had charge of the Commercial department for the past ten years, has been granted leave of absence for one year to recuperate. Miss Montague will go abroad, sailing on the Oceanic, July 1. Her place will be taken by Miss Frances Ives, a graduate of the Torrington, Conn., high school, and of Drexel Institute, Philadelphia.

SKIPPED WITH $25,000 RETURNS FROM EUROPE.

George Lentz, a wealthy farmer of Schuyler avenue, Arlington, who disappeared on February 7 last with more than $25,000, which he had received from the sale of a portion of his property to the Roman Catholic diocese of Newark, returned to his home on Tuesday night in the same mysterious manner that he went away. More than that he has been abroad and has spent his time travelling about Germany, England and Scotland, he has made no explanation of his doings to his wife or any one else, and says that so far as he knows there is no need for any explanation.

Lentz was first heard of when his wife received a letter from him asking her to meet him in a Newark hotel on Tuesday. Relatives to whom she showed the letter advised her not to do so, but she refsued to listen to them and went to Newark. When she returned to Arlington in the evening she was accompanied by Lentz and one of his sons. They were evidently fully reconciled and yesterday Lentz took up the work on his farm.

Dr. Mott Quits Church.

The Presbytery of Elizabeth Tuesday, by a unanimous vote, severed the pastoral relations between the Rev. Dr. Henry Elliott Mott and the congregation of the Westminster Presbyterian church, of Elizabeth. While this ends Dr. Mott's connection with the Westminster church, he still remains a member of the presbytery. The dissolution was at his request. There was no discussion as to the cause of Dr. Mott's resignation.

FORTY-NINE BOYS AND GIRLS RECEIVE DIPLOMAS AT PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

Receiving their diplomas from President Leander N. Lovell, of the city Board of Education, forty-nine members of the class of 1908, Plainfield High School, ended their undergraduate days and joined the ranks of the alumni at the school commencement held in the New Plainfield theatre last night. The class is the largest ever graduated from the school, and the theatre was taxed to its utmost seating capacity at the exercises, where the speakers and graduates won rounds of applause.

The graduates were seated in a semi-circle on the stage, with President Lovell, Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, speaker of the evening, Principal Ira W. Travell and members of the Board of Education. Flanking the stage and bordering the foot lights were masses of green, palms, ferns and smilax. The music was furnished by Frank's orchestra.

At the earnest request and by the unanimous vote of the graduating class, Dr. Maxson was the speaker of the evening. His address was on the value of education and his remarks to the class at its conclusion were on "The Art of Living."

Dr. Maxson began by saying that although the Declaration of Independence asserts that all men are created equal, the gradual growth of the country has forced wise thinkers to realize that all men are not equal but merely a right to equal opportunities. The hope of the nation lies in its children, the wide development of public school privileges, the enriching of graded schools, the multiplying of high schools, he declared are giving to every child an equal chance, and the co-operative education of mind and land is giving to each a fit opportunity. Education, originally planned for the children of the rich and cultured, is offered to the children of all classes, regardless of their antecedents, tastes, or possible future.

Dr. Maxson further said that the school world is bound to change vastly during the next generation for effort is being continually made to give the school work a closer bearing upon the future of the child. "But," he said, "let us not forget that the most important end of education is not technical skill; it is not the absorption of knowledge. Far above all this lies the effect of the educative process on the pupil's mind and soul. The result of all education ought to be increased power to distinguish between right and wrong and increased desire to use that power for the regulation of one's life."

Continuing this thought, the speaker said that the greatest danger to national life is not the man of ignorance, but the educated man who has not enough moral fibre to direct into right channels the power education gives, that the dominating purpose of studies must be to give a child real mental power and moral strength. Emphasis was laid on the co-operation there should be between home and school, between teacher and parent, in the educating of the child.

"When I take the long look forward" he concluded, "there comes to my mind the immortal words of Daniel Webster: 'If we work upon marble, it will perish; if we work upon brass, time wil efface it; if we rear temples, they will crumble into dust; but if we work upon immortal souls, if we imbue them with principles, with the just fear of God and love of fellowship, we engrave on those tablets something that will brighten all eternity.'"

Turning to the class, the speaker spoke of the regret he felt at the graduation of the pupils. "You have been my boys and girls for the past four years," he said, "but tonight you escape from my power and I can no longer directly influence your destinies." He then called attention to the priceless opportunities offered in the work of the school, and emphasized the training of character derived as pre-eminent in value.

He spoke of work as the universal characteristic of all thinking men and women and urged the graduates to work with the idea of more fully developing the best that is in each one rather than the amassing of wealth. "Earn every dollar you receive," Dr. Maxson said, "and never let the question of wages outweigh the question of the character of the work itself. See to it that your particular work, however humble it may be, is performed with the utmost conscientiousness and effectiveness, and thank God that it is given you to do."

Dr. Maxson continued his remarks to the class by urging the graduates to aim to give the world something rather than trying to get all out of the world possible. In this connection he told the pupils to preserve integrity of conduct and purity of soul through all their work, stating that by so doing they would certainly attain true happiness.

After the invocation, offered by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, and a selection by the orchestra, came the salutatory address and oration by LeRoy Clifton Whitall. His topic was "Thomas Alva Edison." After outlining the achievements of the scientist, the speaker stated that his success has been due to his "rare and remarkable combination of scientific imagination, wonderful vitality, and dogged persistence that knows no defeat." Finishing his oration, he said:

"Mr. President and members of the Board of Education: We give you cordial greeting tonight, and take this opportunity to express to you our hearty appreciation and gratitude for all that you have done for us. You have planned and built a splendidly equipped building, which we have enjoyed for two years; you have given us an excellent Superintendent and corps of teachers who, in our estimation, cannot be equalled; and you have, in countless ways that we know nothing of, sacrificed time and strength that we might be profited. We grieve with you in the loss of the late President of the Board, Dr. Probasco, who was our tried and proved friend; and we include him with you in our gratitude. From our hearts we thank you.

"Dr. Maxson, words can not express what is in our hearts to say to you. Throughout our school life, your presence has cheered us on, and you have made us happy by words of comfort, advice and praise.

"Mr. Travell, you have been untiring in efforts to help us, both as a class and as individuals, over the stumbling blocks in our path through the High School. You have advised us in our moments of indecision, and have shown us the right course. We earnestly thank you for this helpful co-operation, and for the many pleasures you have given us.

"To you, the citizens of Plainfield, we are grateful for this day, the day which marks the climax and the end of our public education. It is you who have given us our school buildings and the opportunity of an education; it is you who have elected as members of the Board of Education the best men in the community; it is you who have supported the Board of Education, the Superintendent, and the Principals in exercising good management throughout the school system. We have enjoyed our school life; we have profited by it; and we thank you for it."

Following the salutatory came Dr. Maxson's address and then the presentation of scholarship rewards was made by Eugene M. Cave, of the Board of Education. The awards follow:

MISS SANDERSON WINS

Daily Press Prize Carried Off By Charming Vice-President of Senior Class.

Miss Sara Louise Sanderson, vice-president of the class of 1908 at the Plainfield High School, was awarded The Daily Press prize for the best essay by a senior on a topic relating to municipal affairs at the commencement exercises of the class held last night at the New Plainfield theatre. The prize is a ten dollar gold piece, and the subject this year was "Plainfield as a Surburban City." Miss Laura May Baker received honorable mention in the contest.

Keen interest was shown in The Daily Press prize competition this year and there were nine contestants for the gold piece. Charles B. Morse acted as judge in the competition, which was held in connection with the annual "prize composition" contest for the George H. Babcock prize. The winner of this Babcock prize was Walter Edward Knowlton, High School correspondent for The Daily Press.

Plainfield is situated at the junction of the three counties, Middlesex, Union and Somerset. It lies at the base of the Watchung mountains, thus having a great deal added to its scenery. It is also near enough to the coast to get a little of the salt air, so that the climate is delightful, neither sweltering in summer nor snow-bound in winter.

A very delightful feature of Plainfield is that the old and the new are well combined, for in the up-to-date flurry which it gets from the city, its people still cherish fondly their Revolutionary history, in which the city abounds. The old Springfield road is especially attractive, both for its history of old, as well as its modern usefulness, for like all New Jersey towns, Plainfield possesses numerous fine roads which lead hither and thither throughout the State.

Not only by means of its roads, however, is Plainfield connected with the outside world, but it never lacks communication with lands far and near by means of its excellent railroad, telegraph and telephone service. Hundreds of people commute daily, thus combining with their necessarily busy city life the quiet repose of the restful suburbs.

No political strifes, no blazoned public graft annoy the taxpayers of this excellently governed town, for it is a well known fact that the citizens of Plainfield gladly contribute their time and their efforts to the management of their city's affairs. This same public spirit extends to the school system; and it is through the work of such good men that Plainfield today prides herself on the high standard of her schools. Besides the well-equipped grades an excellent high school and four private schools give the city a standing second to none in her own State, from this point of view.

Closely allied to the fine schools, are Plainfield's thirty or more beautiful churches. These represent every denomination so that the town is well guarded on the religious side, which also largely embraces the social element, especially among the men and boys, for whom a thriving Young Men's Christian Association is kept up and encouraged.

Besides this are the two social clubs, equal in their attraction to any city club, while the excellent standing of the Ladies' Literary Club attracts many of the country's best artists throughout the active winter season. Of equally high rank is the attractive new theatre, which for its high class productions is well patronized by the best people from all the nearby towns as well as Plainfield itself.

But to return to the city's natural scenery which has only been suggested—Plainfield is well called "The City Beautiful." Its wide, attractive walks are evenly laid, and while there is no large tract set aside for park purposes, the whole city is a vast park, to which is devoted the utmost care and attention. The large shade trees have been well preserved and line the city's walks at every turn. The residents of the community have even gone so far as to support a commission for the special purpose of planting new trees and diligently caring for the old ones.

Few towns of its size can claim a greater variety of birds than Plainfield. Not only the common-place inhabitants but even ornithologists delight in this attractive feature, and a general attention and love for birds pervades the community.

Less beautiful perhaps, but certainly most practical is another of Plainfield's attractions—the excellent water supply. The city's pipes are fed from artesian wells which are a great source of pride to Plainfielders.

One might dwell upon the specific attractions of Plainfield throughout many chapters. It is part of the city's charm to contemplative settlers. Everything bears the closest inspection. The purity of the air extends thru every phase of life in this town.

"On the whole, enough cannot be said of Plainfield's attractions. Its old families speak well for it, but even they behind their rightful exclusiveness of old residency are glad to welcome the hot, dusty wayfarers from the city. No need of booming this section of the country. The climate, the trees, the broad spreading lawns, and the all-pervading air of cleanliness possess a subtle yet irresistable charm for even the most transient visitors.

Mrs. John Clapp, of Mercer avenue, has gone to East Gloucester, Mass., where she will spend the summer.

ATTACK ON "OPEN PULPIT"

St. Stephen's Messenger Intimates that Bishops are Not to Be Trusted.

Saint Stephen's Messenger, a monthly publication of St. Stephen's church, Netherwood, strongly attacks "the open pulpit" of the Episcopal church in its current issue at the same time declaring that the men who obtained the enactment of the unusual canon at the recent General Convention of the Episcopal church were the very same ones that gave aid and comfort to the famous Dr. Crapsey, who was deposed from the church ministry.

"It is most significant," says the Messenger, "that those men and dioceses that upheld Dr. Crapsey in his denial of the fundamental truths of the Christian faith should be those who are now contending for an 'open pupit.' The canon in question does not give an 'open pupit' though the bishops of Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York and Rhode Island have so legislated as if it did. Even if the canon did explicitely allow such a procedure, it would never be lawful for it would be in direct contradiction of the vows and teaching of the ordination services contained in our book of common prayer and of the faith and practise of the Catholic Church since the day it was founded by Christ himself."

Attacking the bishops of the church, the editor says the slogan has been raised "Trust Our Bishops!" and he adds "that it would be well if it were always possible," and after mentioning the bishops of Pennsylvania and Utah in connection with alleged incidents that the editor holds as violations of the church law, he concludes: "And so it is, that by those who are importing Protestant ministers into our pulpits and allowing them to serve at our altars, the cry goes up, 'Trust Our Bishops.' Can we?"

MISS CORA LAIRE WEDS AT THE HOTEL ST. REGIS

Miss Cora Emily Laire, daughter of J. P. Laire, of Truell Court, and S. Cunington MacIlroy, of Brooklyn, were quietly married yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Hotel St. Regis, New York, in the presence of the members of the immediate families. Rev. George H. Stephens, of Philadelphia, a Presbyterian minister and an uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of lavendar color and carried a boquet of bride roses. Both she and the groom were unattended. After a wedding luncheon Mr. and Mrs. MacIlroy left for a wedding trip. They expect to spend the summer along the Jersey Coast, and later may return to Plainfield. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

The groom, whose home is in Brooklyn, has been stopping in this city for sometime. He is engaged in the wholesale cloth business in New York. The bride has a large circle of friends and acquaintances here.

UNITY LODGE ELECTION.

Unity lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias, elected the following officers for the ensuing six months, at the regular meeting last night: Chancellor Commander, Jere VanWinkle, Jr.; vice chancellor, Benjamin Voorhees; prelate, Samuel Rottberg; master of the work, Joseph F. Sheppard; master at arms, James D. Anderson; inner guard, Robert Fitz-Randolph; outer guard, Charles E. Harris. The members enjoyed a smoker and social session after the election. The officers will be installed next month.

Unity lodge, accompanied by the families and friends of the members, wil attend the Pythian memorial services, to be held in the New Plainfield theatre Sunday night.

Bride's Daughter a Bridesmaid.

Mrs. Aghie Ford, of Cottage place, and Thomas Edward Brooks, of this city, were married last night at the home of Mrs. Henry, by Rev. M. A. Alexander, pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends. The bride was gowned in silk and carried white and pink carnations. The bridesmaid was her daughter, Miss Ford, who was gowned in white silk and carried white roses. A son of the bride was best man. A reception followed, during which supper was served.

POST OFFICE QUANDARY

Failure of Congress to Provide for Carriers' Vacations Means Poorer Service.

Congress failing to pass the customary appropriation for the postal employes during the summer vacation period, the local letter-carriers and postal clerks are in a quandary as to when they will get their usual fifteen days off. The same condition exists throughout the country and is causing Uncle Sam's employes a great deal of anxiety. Heretofore, an appropriation has been made to employ extra men while the regulars are on a vacation, but this year Postmaster E. H. Bird, in common with other postmasters, has received instructions from Washington that he must get along with his regular force.

This means that the various routes must be re-arranged so that one carrier will be obliged to take care of two routes while the other man is off. The circular letter from Washington instructs Mr. Bird to double up the routes and cut down the deliveries and collections. All though during July, August and September the mail is usually light, this arrangement is sure to cause much dissatisfaction on the part of the people and complaint on the part of the carriers who are called upon to do extra work.

There are twenty-one regular carriers and nine regular clerks attached to the local office and heetofore Mr. Bird has been able to get an appropriation of $36 for every substitute and when he was in Washington about a month ago he made the usual requisition. At the time he was informed that he might not get the appropriation and this statement was followed by a letter to that effect from the postal authorities. Under the new ruling it will be possible to provide only one delivery a day in certain sections of the city.

Another interesting fact about the new rule is that where heretofore the carriers and clerks received a vacation of fifteen days straight, they will now get approximately seventeen days at the least, for the order says that they are to have the usual time off exclusive of Sundays and holidays and every man is sure to have two Sundays during that period.

Postmaster Bird is not at all pleased with the new arrangement, and he declared today that it would be a difficult matter to double-up the routes and maintain the service in a way that will give general satisfaction. He said that while it is true that the mail is light during the summer, many people leaving town, others are coming in to take their places.

CHILDREN WILL BE GUESTS OF FIREMEN TOMORROW

By the co-operation of Manager Berger and Chief Doane, the firemen have extended a general invitation for all children below the age of nine years to attend the carnival tomorrow afternoon. There will be no admission fee charged them and special attractions will be put on for their amusement. The afternoon will practically be devoted to "children" as the baby contest will be one of the features. The firemen are particularly anxious that all the youngsters in town be on hand as its a case of "the more the merrier."

Master Leo Gilmore, the boy member of the family of aerial acrobats that gives a thrilling act in the center of the carnival grounds, has consented to do several clever "stunts" for the especial benefit of the "kiddies." Mlle. Lasalle, the animal trainer, is another performer who wants the children to have a good time and she will put her lions, tigers, pumas and hybrids through a new series of tricks. All-in-all, it will be a big day for the little one while the firemen wil enjoy seeing them have a lot of fun.

Rifle Team Is Going.

Coming unexpectedly in the wake of the telegram announcing that the American rifle team would not be allowed to compete in the Olympic contests at Bisley, England, a second wire has reached Major W. B. Martin stating that the American entries are to be allowed and that the team will sail on Saturday.

IT IS "TAFT AND SHERMAN"

N. Y. Congressman Nominated as War Secretary's Running-mate by G.O.P.

"Taft and Sherman!" shouted the exultant delegates at the close of the Republican National Convention this morning at the Coliseum, in Chicago, after having completed its labors by nominating Congressman James S. Sherman, of New York, as the running mate of Secretary of War William H. Taft, of Ohio, who was also named on the first ballot yesterday.

"It was all over but the shouting" long before the roll call on the Vice-Presidency was half ended. Here is the result of the ballot: Sherman, 816; Murphy, 77; Guild, 75; Sheldon, 10; Fairbanks, 1. The New Jersey delegation made a heroic fight for former Governor Fraklin Murphy but it was early apparent that he had no chance of winning. The same is true of the Massachusetts contingent which fought for Governor Curtis Guild, Jr.

William Howard Taft, Secretary of War, was chosen as the Republican candidate for President on the first ballot yesterday afternoon, receiving 702 ballots out of a total of 980, with one delegate absent. A great demonstration marked the presentation of his name, and the nomination was made unanimous.

The others nominated and the number of ballots cast were: Senator Philander C. Knox, of Pennsylvania, 68; Governor Charles E. Hughes, of New York, 6; Speaker Joseph G. Canno, of Illinois, 58; Vice-President Charles W. Fairbanks, of Indiana, 40; Senator Robert M. La Follette, of Wisconsin, 25; Senator Joseph B. Foraker, of Ohio, 16.

MISS HOPEWELL LEADS IN CARNIVAL QUEEN CONTEST

The tabulators of the Carnival Queen contest received a big surprise in today's count when it was found that Miss Sarah Hopewell had made the largest single gain yet recorded and had gone from fourth place to first. Friends had rallied to her support since yesterday and had cast 5,011 votes in her favor, making her total to date just 7,909. It gives her a big lead over Miss Margaret Townley, who has been holding first place, the latter now having 5,738. The other candidates' figures at noon today were as follows: Miss DeCamp, 4,703; Miss King, 4,601; Miss Adams, 4,591.

The result of the voting will be reported at intervals at the carnival grounds until 9:30 tonight. After that an hour will be allowed for secret voting but no ballot will be received later than 10:30. It is predicted that the closing hours will bring about an avalanche of votes and that the counters will have a big job getting them in shape. The winner of the contest will be crowned queen of the carnival tomorrow afternoon.

POLAK, CLEANING REVOLVER, SHOOTS BULLET THROUGH HAND

While cleaning a revolver in preparation for the Fourth of JJuly celebration, Nicholas Depero, a Polak employed by the Automatic Shie Repairing Company, of Somerset street, was shot through the left hand when the weapon, which he thought was unloaded, was accidently discharged. The accident happened in the store late yesterday afternoon. With blood streaming from his torn hand, the injured man ran from the store meeting Andrew Polon, who is employed next door. He was assisted to the office of Dr. F. J. Hughes, for treatment, and was later taken to Muhlen berg hospital, where the bullet was removed.

In explanation of the accident, Depero, who was alone in the store at the time, can only say that "da gun went off when I pull da triggerer." The hand is badly torn, but there is little danger of tetanic infection.

Mrs. Jonathan Clawson.

Mrs. Sarah E. Clawson, wife of Jonathan Clawson, died at her home on Brook avenue at 6:15 this morning following an illness of two weeks with acute Bright's disease. She was in her seventieth year and had lived in the city or borough practically all her life. She was a member of the First Baptist church. A daughter, Mrs. George H. Smith, and a son, Albert Clawson, survive her. The funeral will be held at the late residence Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

A Midsummer Smash in Watson Suit Prices

On Saturday morning we shall open our doors with over 400 Watson Suits on sale, marked at end-of-the season reductions.

Every Suit is NEW, made this season, by us, guaranteed through and through.

Among these are the season's best sellers—the most popular styles, the same distinctive patterns that we have been selling Newark's most critical dressers for the last few months.

In all, 18 different styles. And it is because of the large number of styles on hand, and the excessive supply of suits, that we have been persuaded to let down the bars and get our stock down to normal size by this deep price-cutting right in the season's midst.

Compare These Savings With the Suits and you will be astonished that we can make any reduction whatever from suits of such unquestionable superiority—each bearing the ear-marks of superb style, elegance, fit and service such as no other Newark-sold clothing CAN possess in equal degree.

Sewer Assessments

SECOND NOTICE.

The subscriber, the Collector of Taxes of the City of Plainfield, hereby gives notice pursuant to section 25 of the act of the Legislature entitled, "An Act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," Approved April 7th, 1890, and the amendments thereof and supplements thereto, that unless the assessments hereinafter specified, with interest thereon at the rate of six per centum per annum, and all costs and fees shall be paid to the subscriber, at his office, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., within thirty days after the first publication of this (being the second) notice, the subscriber will, on at his said office, No. 151 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, between the hours of one and five o'clock in the afternoon, that is to say, at two o'clock in the afternoon of that day, proceed to make sale of and to sell at public auction, the several parcels of land and real estate upon which the said assessments shall remain due and unpaid, being those hereinafter particularly described, for the lowest term of years, but in no case exceeding fifty years, for which any person will take the same and pay the amount of such assessment, with the interest thereon as aforesaid, and all costs and fees, including the expense of advertisement and sale. The assessments above referred to are the assessments made by Robert A. Meeker, Samuel P. T. Wilbur and Harry B. MacDonald, the Commissioners of Assessments of the City of Plainfield heretofore appointed under the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to provide for the appointment of Commissioners of Assessments to assess damages and benefits under and by virtue of the act entitled 'An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State,' approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto," Approved February 8th, 1905, as ratified and confirmed by the Common Council of said city, August 5th, 1907, containing the assessments of damages and benefits or expenses as the case may be, for the making and constructing of sewers and appurtenances, (including house connections) under and by virtue of the act of the Legislature entitled "An act to provide for drainage and sewerage in cities of this State," Approved April 7th, 1890, and acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, and ordinances and other proceedings of the Common Council had under said acts of the Legislature, said report and assessments covering the whole of said system of sewerage and appurtenances then already completed (not covered by assessments heretofore made) in and through the following named streets and parts of streets, to wit:

VALEDICTORIAN'S RECORD

Success Has Marked Course of Miss Esther Crampton, P.H.S. Honor Girl.

THROUGH SCHOOL IN 3 YEARS.

Somerville Girl Has Won Prizes Every Year and Was School's Leading Student, Athlete and Actress—Her Speech.

Miss Esther Barton Crampton, of Somerville, is valedictorian of the class of 1908, Plainfield High School, and her declamation from the commencement platform of the New Plainfield theatre at the graduation exercises last night was a powerful address on the evils of child labor in the factories and mines.

Miss Crampton's appointment as valedictorian signfies that during her high school course, she ranked first in her class in scholarship. This is a particular honor in her case, for she went through school in three years, entering from the Somerville schools in her sophomore year.

Miss Crampton has taken what are considered to be the most difficult courses in the school curriculum, but has always maintained her high standing, particularly in the languages. She has won prizes every year she has been in school. At the end of her first year's work, she won first prizes in German and Caesar translation, the following year she took a first prize in advanced German and a second prize in Cicero. At the exercises last night she was awarded first prize in Vergil.

In athletics, too, the valedictorian has been a "star." For two years she has played guard on the girl's basket ball team, champions of the State. Last year she was manager of the team and this year was elected president of the Girl's Athletic Association of the school.

Miss Crampton took the part of "Miss Hardcastle," leading character, in the senior play, "She Stoops to Conquer," presented at the New Plainfield theatre this winter, and also had a part in the Junior play last year. Miss Crampton will enter Wellesley College in the fall.

The valedictory address in full follows:

Child Labor—A Disgrace and a Menace.

Child labor is a disgrace to the nation. That is a fact acknowledged by everybody except, perhaps, a few selfish manufacturers. But it is not only a disgrace, it is a menace to the nation's welfare. It is a disgrace; for it is a slaughter of the innocents, a menace, because it is slowly poisoning and corrupting the sources of the future life of the American people.

What is it which is happening to millions of little children in this civilized land—children who should be in school, developing their minds, and out of doors developing their bodies in healthful exercise? Go with me first to the South and then to the older industrial centers of the North. In North Carolina, poor, half-starved little children, almost babies some of them, work in the sweltering cotton mills all day long and during the rush season even a great part of the night. Never resting, running from one part of the machinery to another, closely watching the threads, in order to mend the broken ones—when the day's toil is over there is for them no healthful night's rest. The threads dance before their weary eyes and restful sleep is impossible. Poor, tired, heavy-eyed little workers—is it any wonder that after a sleepless night they lose their nimbleness? There is a cry. The whirring machinery is stopped. It goes on again, in a moment. This is merely an incident in the day's work. But a little child, scarcely nine years old, perhaps, is maimed for life! No more use now to the mill, she is cast adrift upon the world, broken in body and in spirit, before her life should well have begun. A physician accompanying a friend thru one of the mills shook his head sadly as they gazed around at the worn, shrunken bodies, often deformed thru lack of proper exercise. "In four years," he said, "most of these children will be dead and others will be in their places."

In New England mills, conditions, if not as disgraceful as in the South, are bad enough. Mr. Spahr tells us that he found hundreds of children at work there, but to his surprise apparently no men over forty or forty-five. The strain is so great that at the age of forty-five they are worn out and no longer useful.

The great coal strike a few years ago called atention to the appalling conditions in Pennsylvania. Thousands of boys under fourteen were employed in the coal mines in direct violation of the law of the State. Mr. Owen Lovejoy says, 'For nine hours a day these little fellows toil in the breaker, bending over a stream of coal which pours out a cloud of dust so thick that the light cannot penetrate. They are responsible for the exact separation of all slate and rock—depending often entirely on the sense of touch. They endure the incessant rattle of deafening, gigantic machinery. They suffer the stifling heat of summer at one season and the bitter blasts that sweep those mountain tops at another. They are conscious that the "boss" stands behind them with his stick to prompt to duty it the natural exuberance of childhood breaks out in playfulness, or if backache induces a moment of forgetfulness. They must learn to control the nausea caused by swallowing quanities of coal dust and by the feeling that one's throat and lungs are never clean!" These are experiences which men, perhaps, must endure in order that we may be supplied with this necessity of life, but to expose a child to such hardships is a crime that makes one wonder if we are living in a Christian country!

But let us come nearer home, to our own State. Excellent as New Jersey's Child Labor law is, it is defective in not forbidding the employment of boys at night work. A visit to the glass works of Southern New Jersey reveals the need of more stringent legislation. During the long hours of the night, in a low, badly ventilated shack, before the blast furnace, in the blistering heat, stands a glass blower. At his feet crouches a little boy busily employed in opening and shutting the hot molds. Near him stands another boy quickly breaking off the hot glass from the blow-pipe. Then another boy takes the glass from the mold and heats it so that it can be shaped by still another weary youth, who in turn gives to to another, who carries it out to be packed. All is hurry, bustle and confusion, with five boys doing this tiresome work, which simple machinery could accomplish in less than half the time. What a life! With not a moment for rest; cursed by their masters for the slightest fault; with body wearied by the continuous toil and nerves strained as they hurry to avoid the cruel blows and no less cruel curses, these little chaps wear out their lives in unceasing toil! After being exposed for hours to the excessive and unnatural heat, they go home in the chill damp of early morning to rest—no, not to rest, but to fall into a stupor from sheer exhaustion, only to be rudely awakened by the noise and confusion which the early morning always brings in the working sections. So their life drags on, until they are too old to work as boys, and, as they often have not learned enough to take a man's place and earn men's wages, they are discarded. Then they are lost in the tide of humanity or are heard of in the criminal courts.

This "slaughter of the innocents" is going on day after day and year after year in civilized America! What are these children? Without education, with broken health and a moral nature corrupted, these boys are to be our future citizens. These girls, with their bent, misshapen bodies and mental incapacity, are to be the mothers of a new generation of other citizens, who are to build the nation on the foundations our sturdy forefathers laid. How shall a race of industrial slaves maintain the national greatness and welfare of America?

Here then is the industrial situation. What is to be done about it? We are justly proud that our own State of New Jersey is at least in the van guard of reform. We have a law which provides that no children under fourteen years of age shall be employed in the mills and factories. This law is fairly enforced. Inspectors go thru the State guarding against the infringement of it. Another statute moreover, re-inforces and strengthens the child labor law; that which provides that children must attend school until fourteen years of age or, if they have not completed the grammar school course, until they are fifteen. We can indeed be proud of our State, which is far ahead of many others whose laws are lax and even at that loosely enforced. Yet we need a still better law and especially one prohibiting night work for boys from fourteen to eighteen.

And we must have more than law. Law without public sentiment back of it is useless; We must educate the community, therefore, to see that the law is enforced. Conditions in Southern New Jersey are largely due to the selfishness and indifference of the workingmen, whose own industrial nature, if they but knew it, depends on this reform. Conditions there and elsewhere are due, again, to the greed, or more often to the ignorance of parents who aid in the evasion of the law.

And indeed, is there not need that we should be aroused to our own share in the problem? "Back of the manufacturer filling his factory with cheap labor of children is the wholesaler, saying he must buy cheap or he will buy elsewhere. Back of him is the retailer. Back of him is the eager, careless, bargain hunting public." Can we not do a little to change this? Should not every woman at least know the facts, as she can readily learn them from the Consumers' League or some like source? This problem is one of many that touch the individual conscience. Surely we do not want to buy clothes, however good the bargain, if the cloth is spun by children whose very lives are woven into the web; if the garments are made by girls and women in a factory or sweat shop, at starvation wages; if the goods are sold by women whose salaries are so meagre that an easier but indefinitely degrading life stands ever before them as an alluring promise of relief.

Child labor is but one form of the great social problem of the day; and however we regard it, in the end we find it as a question in whose solution we must bear our share.

DUNELLEN'S GRADUATION

12 Grammar School Pupils Receive Diplomas at Borough Commencement.

Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer was the speaker at the commencement exercises of the Dunellen grammar schools at the Dunellen Presbyterian church last night, when twelve pupils received their diplomas. His topic was "Culture," and he spoke of the broadening influence of school education and its value in character building.

A feature of the exercises was the presentation of bronze medals for the pupil ranking highest in each class in scholarship and deportment. These medals are offered to schols all over the country by Mr. Sells, a shoe manufacturer of Chicago. Those who received the medals were Ruth Maurer, Lloyd Smith, Harold Noble, Peter Mohan, Blanche Teeling and Sarah Watson. Mathematics prizes were awarded to five pupils. A five dollar gold piece was given to Miss Gertrude Bowlby as an eighth year algebra prize, and another to Lloyd Smith, prize-winner in seventh year arithmetic. Miss Miss Florence Haver, won the prize in sixth year arithmetic; Miss Emeline Vail, the one for fifth year arithmetic and Miss Margaret Lapham for fourth year arithmetic. The last three received books as prizes.

The valedictory address was delivered by Miss Jessie Stites and the diplomas were presented by A. F. Todd, Jr., president of the Dunellen Board of Education. The program follows: Piano duett, the Misses Gertrude Giles and Estella Reynolds; invocation by Rev. W. W. Casselberry; recitation, "The Drunkard's Daughter," by Miss Della Fedderman; song, "Swing Song," by the school; recitation, "Self Reliance," Harold Frey; class history, Miss Laura Todd; dialogue, Brutus and Cassium in the quarrel scene, Edward Gray and Albert Ritterbusch; class prophecy, Miss Jeanette Neighbour; valedictory, Miss Jessie Stites; benediction by Rev. Henry N. Jordon, pastor of the New Market Seventh-Day Baptist church.

Diplomas were awarded Della Fedderman, Lucy Clawson, Jeanette Neighbour, Laura Todd, Jessie Stites, Nellie Vail, Belle Stites, Ruth Manrer, Edward Gray, Harold Frey, Russell Burdick and Albert Ritterbusch. Miss Rita Brokaw was in charge of the musical program and Miss Gertrude Giles acted as accompanist. Benjamin Dodwell, Harry Giddes, Edgar Starker, Corwin Apgar, Russell Runyon and Percy Gordon.

TIMBOITES TO HAVE A ROLLER CHAIR PARADE

Complying with a request from the general committee in charge of the Timbo Social Club's annual excursion to Atlantic City next Sunday, Mayor Stoy, of the sea shore resort, today granted a permit for the Plainfield organization to hold a roller chair parade on the boardwalk at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be headed by the Crescent Band, of Raritan, which the Timboites have engaged to furnishe a musical program on the going and coming railway trip, and all the members will be in line, clad in seersucker coats and lavender spats.

Position at the front of the column will be decided by popular vote of the club and the battle of ballots for the honor is now on. Founder Timbo was in the lead at 1 o'clock this afternoon with Bill Jukes a close second. Mike Lyons and Dennis O'Brien are also in the field and are counted upon to make a good showing by tomorrow night.

Tickets for the excursion have been limited to 250 and this number has practically been distributed. The few remaining will be sold by tomorrow noon. The committee has gone to greater expense than ever before in making plans and the junket is counted upon to be the most successful in the history of the club. The train, a solid vestibuled affair with "Puck" Dunham at the engine throttle and Frank Webster in charge, will leave the North Avenue Station at 7:30. Dinner will be served at the Islesworth Hotel and the start for home will be made at 10 o'clock. Beside the band, the committee has arranged for fifty magazines, 100 Sunday papers and forty checkerboards for the entertainment of the excursionists during the train ride each way.

FORTY-NINE GRADUATES

est curriculum standing during the entire High School course, Miss Esther Barton Crampton delivered the valedictory. Her topic was "Child Labor, A Disgrace and a Menace." The oration is produced in full in another column. At the conclusion of her address, Miss Crampton, turning to the class, said:

"Classmates, this is the last night that we shall be gathered together as the Seniors of dear old P. H. S. We have always loved our school. Not until now that the moment of parting has come do we realize how much we love it. We remember now only the happy and helpful things in our course. We fully appreciate what we have enjoyed, just as it passes out of our grasp. Classmates, as we part this evening each enters a different course of life. Some will be more successful than others, but wherever our duty may be, or whatever our success in meeting it, let us try never to forget the lessons we have learned here—lessons from things outside the curriculum as well as in it. Joined with the other alumni, let us strive to do our utmost for the advancement and welfare of the Plainfield High School, within the walls of which we have spent so many happy hours.

"In one of his poems Emerson gives us a splendid motto, which beautified his own life and has beautified the lives of thousands of others, who have made it their own:

'Without halting, without rest,
Lifting Better up to Best.'

"Let it be our parting word—a motto to remind us that after all this is a commencement of life, not simply the end of study. May that which has helped so many others help you and me in the days that are to come."

After a selection by the orchestra came the presentation of diplomas by President Lovell, of the Board of Education. This ceremony, the crowning reward of four years of school work, was the one to which each of the pupils had been looking forward. Applause greeted many of the popular members of the class as they came forward to take their sheep-skins. Those who received diplomas, with the various courses they specialized in, are:

Classical Course: Laura May Baker, Marjorie Mae Brown, Esther Barton Crampton, May Rogers Doane, John Wesley Dutcher, Charles Francis Foster, Marjorie May Harris, Rose Mary Nash, Matilda Srager.

Modern Language Course: Elsa Mae Cook, Sallo Mortimer Kahn, Eva Corsa Kelly, Percy La Barre Mygrant, Mose Rubenstein, Helen Sachar, Sara Louise Sanderson, Lillian Dickson Whitall.

General Course: Cornelia Laura Christofferson, Edna Eckert, George Henry Fisher, Jr., Carola Edna Hart, William Talbot Lambert, Bessie Louise Mitchell, Mary Elizabeth Pound, Henry Pound, William Vincent Rafferty, Rose Edith Rottberg, Isador Rothberg, Grace Srager, Eleanor Van Tuyl, Laura Estella Woolston.

Commercial Course: Ethel H. Brick, Edith Elliot, Katharine Helen Gray, Leslie Nolty Leland, Charles Henry Line, Orlando Hastings Lounsbury, Donald Cameron Morilmer, Mary Nesbit Mortimer, Augustus Crawford Nash, Wallace James Pearce, Elizabeth Chadwick Randall and Eleanor Ackerman Thompson.

An impressive tribute to the late Dr. J. B. Probasco, president of the Board of Education for fifteen years and an earnest worker for the interests of Plainfield schools was the presentation of a large photograph of him, heavily framed in gilded bronze. This was presented by Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, in behalf of the family, and was accepted in behalf of the Board of Education by President Lovell.

Charles B. Morse was head usher at the exercises, and was assisted by a corps of alumni of the school, as follows: A. D. Beers, Alden E. Moore, Vincent B. Miner, George Bentley, George Rittenhouse, Martin B. Stutsman, Joseph Gavett, Roy Woodhull, C. Bertram Leggett, William Taylor, Harry Sanderson, Fred Smith and Joseph Osgood.

Following the exercises was the annual reception and dance for the graduates at the Casino by the classes of 1906 and 1907. There were twenty-one dances, and the music was by Frank's orchestra. Supper was by Warnock. Nearly four hundred alumni and friends of the school took part in the dancing. The alumni committee in charge included Miss Antoinette Aalholm, Miss Eva Rogers, Miss Queena Talotson, Joseph Gavett, C. Betram Leggett, William Taylor and Joseph VanDeventer.

FREDA FOOLED THE COPS

Freda Richter, a thirteen-year-old girl living on East Second street, felt the need of some new finery a few days ago and as there was no prospect of its coming from her widowed mother she decided to get it on her own account. She went to the home of her sister, Mrs. Lawrence Mallinson, of Johnson avenue, and finding every one out, ransacked bureau drawers and other receptacles for money. She found $50 in a strong box that she took without giving any receipt for.

Miss Freda hied herself to town after the theft and in a very short time had gotten rid of $30, so she claimed. When the police received a complaint from the Mallinsons and followed up a clue they nabbed the girl, clad in a new gown, an M. W. hat and the customary gew-gaws. She gave back $20 and as the family refused to prefer a charge against her no further action was taken.

But the young lady was playing Foxy Quiller. She hadn't spent $30 but had put part of it away. Yesterday she brought it from a hiding place and without making a confidant of anyone, junketed over to South Beach for an outing. She evidently had it for the police of the resort picked her up late last night in the last stages of soda water and pop-corn intoxication. She had forgotten to save car fare and was figuring out a way to get across Staten Island sound when a cop took her in custody.

And once again Miss Freda worked a wise gag. Instead of giving the desk sergeant her right name she told them she was Freda Mallinson, believeing that word would be sent to her sister and that she would be gotten back home without the Plainfield police discovering who she was. Her scheme fell through, however, as Chief Kiely guessed her identity as soon as the South Beach authorities gave her description over the telephone. Mrs. Richter was informed and after visiting Sycamore street headquarters, this morning, started for South Beach with a look in her eyes that boded no good for Freda. She declared to the newspapermen in the station that her right arm is quite strong and that a couple of birch rods stand behind the door of the Richter woodshed.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local ball team should take a large delegation of rooters with them tomorrow to Crescent Oval, when they meet the Clinton Avenue team in the second of the series of games between the two teams. There is nothing that encourages a home team, when playing away from home, more than a band of rooters. The game, as far as baseball goes, will be one of the finest contests of the season. The home team won the first game of the series after a twelve-inning contest and it is needless to say Manager Dorflinger will make a strong bid for tomorrow's game so as to even matters up. Randolph is reported as being in fine trim, and all that Ortleib is expected to do is to repeat his performance of last Saturday at Flemington when he only allowed three scattering hits. Manager Alberts is satisfied that if he does Scotch Plains will be on the big end of the score when the game is over.

Judge Clark is still doing business in the matrimonial line at the same old stand. The latest couple to call and have the judge make two hearts beat as one were William Bonnell and Miss Julia West, both of Elizabeth, the marriage being performed Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Bonnell left for a trip to Niagara Falls, after which they will begin housekeeping in Elizabeth.

The home team will line-up against Clinton Avenue tomorrow as follows: Flannery, cf; Baldwin, ss; Allen, 1b; J. Alberts, 3b; H. Alberts, c; Frentz, 2b; Eller, cf; Reick, rf; Ortlieb, p. This may be changed by the substituting of some one in Baldwin's place, as he is still limping around with a sprained ankle, the result of a bad slide to second base in last Saturday's game.

Mrs. Adeline West, a former old resident here but for several years past a resident of Newark, suffered a stroke of paralysis at her home several days ago and her condition is considered serious. Mrs. West has many warm friends in town as well as the borough who regret to learn of her illness and hope for a speedy recovery.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF WARREN CHAPEL JUNIORS.

Taking part in the songs, recitations and catchising which marked the final meeting of the Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Warren Chapel, about seventy little mission workers rendered a delightful program at the chapel last night. The organization of which Mrs. J. O. McKelvey is superintendent, will resume its regular meetings in the fall. W. D. Murray gave an interesting talk on "Japan" for the children, showing curios and pictures of the life in the East.

Six of the society members received Bibles for perfect attendance at all the meetings of the year. These were Edna Green, Martha Smith, Grace Wakefield, Charles Wakefield, Edwin Windham and Helen Lee. Marjorie Chandler, Bertha Martin, Blanche Martin, Elsie Kurzhals, Lillie Smith and Hannah Stiglitz were absent from but two meetings, and their absence was caused by sickness. Ethel Brown, Charlotte Cox and Edna Smith, new members, have been present at all the meetings since they joined.

The chapel was beautifully decorated with flowers, daisies and crimson rambler roses predominating. After the opening exercises and an address of welcome by the superintendent, Lillie Smith read a poem of welcome in behalf of the society. This was followed by a song: "The Gospel Bells are Ringing" and there was a short catechising. After another song, "Holy Bible, Book Divine," seven of the members took part in a clever missionary recitation. These were Blanche Martin, Grace Cornwall, Hannah Stiglitz, Helen Terry, Louis Chandler, Elsie Kurzhals and Charlotte Cox. Then came a song, "We're the Warren Juniors True" and a Bible drill by twenty-five of the older pupils, "Sowing the Seed" by Edith Wheeler, Ida Wheeler, Louise Demarest, Gladys Brokaw, Edna Green, Letha Hoagland, Marjorie Chandler, Bertha Martin, Louise Seader, Grace Wakefield, Mattie Smith and Bertha Bodine. Rev. J. O. McKelvey spoke briefly of the work being done by the society, stating that 1,600 little people have attended the meetings since January 1.

Mrs. George H. Robins has gone to Lake George to spend a few weeks.

All the local fans will be at Crescent Oval tomorrow when Clinton Avenue will hook up with the Scotch Plains aggregation. A few weeks ago the 'Plains walked off with a victory after the hardest kind of a struggle, but the wise ones say that it will be different tomorrow. Randolph and O'Loughlin, who are in fine condition will be in the points for Clinton Avenue and Ortleib and Alberts will be the battery for the 'Plains.

The local Y. M. C. A. team will play at Orange tomorrow and Manager Listman hopes to return home with a great big victory. Scott and Ralph Schoonmaker will be the battery and they are expected to hold the heavy-hitting Orange boys down to a few hits.

The Juniors will play at Belle

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to Amend an Ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits,' adopted by the Common Council, July 1st, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907," a copy of which is subjoined to this notice, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at 8 o'clock p. m. on Monday, the sixth day of July, A. D. Nineteen Hundred and Eight, at which time and place prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.
J. T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., June 16, 1908.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with Permanent and Durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council July 1st, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 3 of an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with Permanent and Durable Brick Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council July 1st, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907, be amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the city do hereby, pursuant to the authority of an act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled 'An Act to authorize the improvement of streets and highways in cities of this State, and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same,' approved June 13, 1898, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, authorize the issuing of forty coupon municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield, of One Thousand Dollars each, amounting in all to Forty Thousand Dollars, which bonds shall be dated September 1st, 1907, shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, and be payable as follows, that is to say, on the first day of September of each of the years 1910 and 1911 four bonds of $1,000 each, and on the first day of September of each and every year from 1912 to 1918, both inclusive, two bonds of $1,000 each, and on the first day of September of each and every year from 1919 to 1924, both inclusive, three bonds of $1,000 each, which bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and bear the corporate seal of the city, attested by the City Clerk, and may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than par value, and there shall be raised by tax in each year hereafter such sum of money as may be necessary to pay the interest on all outstanding bonds, and the principal of such bonds as may mature during that year, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds."

AN ORDINANCE

For the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Macadam Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That the following streets and parts of streets of the City of Plainfield, shall be permanently improved with durable macadam pavement to be completely laid and constructed on or before the thirty-first day of October, 1908, said macadam pavement to be of the depth and width hereinafter specified, and to be in every respect equal to the macadamizing on Park Terrace in said City, and all work to be given out upon contract to the lowest responsible bidder, and only after bids therefor shall have been solicited and received according to law, all bids to specify prices for each of said streets or parts of streets separately:

Monroe Avenue, from the present macadam on West Seventh Street to the present macadam on West Eighth Street;

Section 2. That said streets and portions of streets described in Section 1 shall be macadamized for a width of sixteen feet and for a depth running from six inches at the center to four inches at the sides, excepting on West Third Street, where slag foundation has been laid, where the thickness of stone shall be two and one-half inches, and the macadamizing preparation shall be laid down to the grades already established by ordinance for said streets or portions of streets, respectively.

Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the City do hereby, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, authorize the issuing of seventeen coupon municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield, of One Thousand Dollars each, amounting in all to Seventeen Thousand Dollars, which bonds shall bear interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, and be payable three years from said date of issue with the option of the city to redeem or pay off the said bonds, or any one or more of them at any time after one year from date of issue, and before three years from said date of issue, on giving personal notice to the said holders of said bonds or thirty days' notice by advertisement in the official newspapers of the City, of the intention to make such redemption or payment, which bonds may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than par value, and the interest on said bonds shall be raised annually by taxation and the principal be paid by the City at maturity, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited, shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds.

Sec. 4. That after said improvements shall have been completed, the Common Council shall, pursuant to the statute in such case made and provided, apply to the Court of Common Pleas of the County of Union for the appointment of Commissioners to estimate and assess benefits upon the owners of the lots or parcels of land and real estate peculiarly benefited by such improvements, in proportion, as near as may be, to an amount equal to the amount of benefits actually acquired by the lands and real estate bordering on said streets or portions thereof respectively, by reason of such improvements respectively; and in case the costs and expenses aforesaid shall exceed the amount of said benefits, the excess thereof shall be paid by the City at large and raised by general tax; no property or owner thereof to be in any case assessed beyond the amount of benefit actually derived from said improvements.

Adopted by the Common Council May 4, 1908; Re adopted by the Common Council June 8, 1908, notwithstanding the objections of the Mayor.

Mead tomorrow afternoon and they expect to keep up their winning streak. Van Arsdale will pitch for the local aggregation.

Robertson, who at one time played first base for the Plainfield team, and who has since had a checkered career in the west, expects to return to the Wilkesbarre team soon.

McQuillen, formerly of the Jersey City club, is considered one of the bright stars in the National League this season. His pitching for the Phillies has attracted wide-spread attention. An opposing team has thus far failed to bat him out of the box and he stands on the firing line in a way that terrifies batsmen.

The Mono A. C. will go to Berkeley Heights tomorrow and try and wrest a victory from the team at that place. The Berkeley boys have a strong aggregation that is hard to beat. "Hub" Conover will do the twirling for the Monos.

HELD ANNUAL FESTIVAL.

Good Crowd at Ladies Auxiliary Affair Despite Counter Attractions.

The Ladies Auxiliary, No. 1, of St. Mary's parish, conducted the annual strawberry festival and dance in T. A. B. hall last night. The attendance was very good despite many counter attractions. Suhr's Imperial orchestra provided music for dancing and at one time fully 100 couples were on the floor. The affair broke up shortly before 2 o'clock.

The general committee in charge comprised Miss Katherine Kane, chairman; Mrs. J. J. Griffin, Mrs. James Keating, Mrs. Frank Burke and Mrs. John Casey. They were assisted by the Misses Mary Flately, Sarah Kenney, Marie Daley and Mary Keenan, who acted as waitresses in the serving of strawberries and cream.

Somerset Assessors Here.

A committee of the Somerset County Tax Board, including former Mayor N. B. Smalley, P. V. D. Van Doren, of Millstone, and Stewart A. Kenney, of Somerville is viewing properties with Borough Tax Assessor J. H. Cooley today with the purpose of adjusting the assessments at a higher rate.

STUDENTS AID FIREMEN

Members of Plainfield Business College Conduct Attractions at Carnival.

The students at the Plainfield Business College had charge of the attractions at the Firemen's Carnival, last night, and a host of young men and women were in evidence on the grounds. They worked zealously throughout the evening and had the satisfaction of knowing that the business enjoyed at the various shows was the best of the week. The crowd in attendance was well on toward the 10,000 mark.

It is a significant fact that all the attractions at the carnival are worthy of the patronage accorded them and the same people are visiting them every night. The Ferari animal show, the Hindu theatre, The Life of a Fireman, Leola, the Aztec girl, George the Turtle Boy and all the others continue to enjoy big business while the merry-go-rounds, Ferris wheel and "three shots for a nickle" gags keep busy all the time.

A new show was added to the list last night by the appearance of the Franklin council minstrels in a tabloid performance. They are in a tent on the east side of the grounds and played to several big audiences last night. Clarence Rittenhouse is the interlocutor, Harry Hoffman, George Rittenhouse, George Wilson and Frank Herrmann the end men, while Robert Reed, William Briggs and others are in the chorus. Musical Stewart gives a specialty number.

Several entries have been made for the prize baby contest to take place tomorrow afternoon and Manager Berger looks for fifteen or twenty contestants in all. The prizes are well worth trying for and are now on exhibition at the headquarters booth. Mothers bringing babies to take part will be admitted to all attractions free.

The students of the Plainfield Business College who assisted the firemen in conducting the shows, were the following:

In memory of the late Dr. J. B. Probasco, for eighteen years a member of the Plainfield Board of Education and for the past fifteen years its president, a handsome water color photograph of him, twenty by twenty-four inches in size, splendidly framed in gilded antique bronze, was presented to the Board of Education by his family at the commencement exercises in the New Plainfield theatre last night. The photograph is an excellent likeness reproduced by P. Frank Stone. Below the picture, which is to be hung at the High School, is a plate inscribed as follows: "John B. Probasco, M. D., President of the Board of Education, 1894-1908."

"Dr. Probasco is remembered by many in the community and by all associated with him during his lifetime as a very good friend, but especially is he held in regard as the friend to Plainfield's children. For fifteen years president of the Board of Education and for three years previous to that a member of the Board. Dr. Probasco held as his highest interest in life his work for the children of the Plainfield public schools. He was ever active for changes in the school which would benefit the pupils, and conscientiously heeded each and every suggestion made for their welfare. Plainfield needs no memorial of such a man, for he is never-to-be-forgotten in the memories of all who knew him, but this picture will ever serve as a reminder of his work to perpetrate the best in civilization.

"I therefore present this picture to the Board of Education in behalf of the family and as a memorial of his love for Plainfield's children."

"This portrait will be added to those of the other men who have so well served the city of Plainfield as members of the school board. Those who have served with Dr. Probasco do not need the sight of his features to remember him, but the picture will serve as a source of inspiration to those who follow us. It depicts a man who has served the interests of the schools right well in the past."

CLASS OF FOURTEEN THE FIRST TO COMPLETE 4 YRS.' COURSE AT BOROUGH HIGH SCHOOL

Rev. Dr. Charles L. Mead Makes Eloquent Address to Graduates on Purpose of Education.

Graduating from the life of school into the school of life, fourteen members of the North Plainfield High School, ten girls and four boys, received their diplomas from Superintendent James R. Joy, of the borough Board of Education, at the commencement exercises of the school held in the New Plainfield theatre last night. While this is not the largest class to graduate from the school, it represents the first graduating class whose members have completed the four year course.

The theatre was crowded to its capacity by the parents and friends of the graduates. Those who received diplomas were seated on the stage, which was banked with palms and cut flowers, with Supervising Principal Henry C. Krebs, Principal B. K. Phelps and the members of the Board of Education.

Fred Hillman McClintock, ranking second in the class in scholarship honors during his course, gave the valedictory address after the invocation had been pronounced by Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of the Grace M. E. church. His topic was "The Effect of Immigration on New York City." He said in part:

"Members of the Board of Education, teachers, parents, and friends, the class of nineteen hundred and eight extends to you a hearty welcome to these commencement exercises. Tonight is perhaps the last time the members of this class will gather together. We are going forth into the world, some directly to work and others to continue the preparation for their life's occupation. This is a time of rejoicing, but it is also a time of sadness for us.

"We are living so near the largest city in the United States that it should be of the greatest importance to us to know what a change has come over this metropolis on account of the great number of foreigners who have come to this country in the last few years. At the landing of every ship in New York harbor thousands of immigrants disembark. The majority remain in the already overcrowded districts. They come from every nation in the world in order to enjoy the freedom which is granted to everyone in the United States.

"These foreigners greatly influence the people living around them with their languages and habits. Their children mingle with the American born children of the neighborhood, who in the course of time are influenced to such an extent that they scarcely know how to speak their own language. The New York schools are filled to over-flowing with Italian and German children, so that there are, we may safely say, as many people in the city who speak some foreign tongue as there are who speak English.

"The financial affairs of New York are also greatly effected by foreigners. It is well known to you that the Chinamen come to this country merely to become rich. Many of them open laundries where they make quite a sum of money. They live on a few cents a day. In this way they hoard the greater part of that which they have earned until they have a considerable amount of wealth. Then they return to their mother country where they are thought to be rich because they have a few hundred dollars. Thus many thousands of dollars are carried out of New York every year. The Jews, who are known to be the shrewdest business men in the world, come to this country and make a fortune in a very short space of time. But we cannot say of them, like of the Chinamen, that they return to their native home. In fact the Jews have no mother country to return to, but their race is scattered over the entire universe. The greater part of them settle in the metropolis or its suburbs, and indeed, many become the truest and best of American citizens.

"It has been reported that in a single week in the year 1906 over 200,000 foreigners landed in New York. There are thousands upon thousands of them; there are more Jews in New York than there are in Jerusalem. There are more Italians than there in Rome. There are more Germans than there are in Berlin.

"Of all these vast number of foreigners, some have left their native country pursued by the law. They arrive at New York criminals, who have escaped ustice. The majority of these are Italians, because in Italy many feuds exist between different families."

"These men accustomed to crimes not only wreak their vengance upon their countrymen but also upon peacefully abiding American citizens. They kidnap their children and refuse to return them until a large ransom is paid. They force them to pay large sums, threatening to kill them if they decline to obey the commands.

"To find a cause for this condition of affairs we have but to remember that most of our low-class immigrants come from countries which are different from our own in several respects. Many of these foreigners have been told that America is a land of freedom. They, accustomed to oppression in their own land, think that this freedom means lawlessness. Thus they come to New York with this thought uppermost in their minds, that every man is for himself and none to control. They commit crimes and expect to go unpunished. Not only do they bring with them this atmosphere of crime and tendency toward lawlessness, but they also have a much lower standard of living than the average American. There are many foreigners there who could live better if they wished, but they have no desire for a clean healthy life. They have inherited tendencies which are not to be overcome in a generation or two. Coming in contact with our own Americans, will they not unconsciously set an example of a low standard of living?

"It must not be inferred that we are not duly sensible of the benefits our country has received through the many thousands of substantial foreigners who have become excellent citizens. During the Civil War there were as many foreigners in the Union armies as there were soldiers of all kinds in the Confederate armies. Some of our leading statesmen, professional and business men are born abroad. But in spite of these large numbers of good people, the swarms of ignorant and depraved immigrants are a most serious problem for our consideration."

Ranking highest of the fourteen in her school work, Miss Edna Doughty, the valedictorian, gave an excellen address on "The Ideals of the Times." Excerpts from her oration follow:

"Dear friends, we are met tonight, perhaps for the last time, to say good-bye to school days, and school association. Never in the past have these seemed so dear to us. We have even looked forward to this time, which was to part us from them, as our final release, in days when school lessons were a burden, and school routine seemed irksome. But as the of separation has approached, we have realized, more and more, how dear these ties were to us,—how hard it was going to be to break from them.

"So tonight, we do not feel the satisfaction, which, in the past, thinking of this hour, we have thought to feel. Instead, the pleasure with which we view our finished course is dimmed by the thought, that when we next enter North Plainfield High School, it must be as strangers, finding familiar faces vanished, new comers in familiar places.

"And beside the regret with which we part from the old regime, there is a dread of the responsibilities which we must assume, tonight, when we leave behind us the life of youth, and prepare to make ourselves good citizens of our nation,—to take up our share, however small, in the world's work. For each of us must have some part in this work, each have some lasting influence upon the world, and whether this influence shall be, as it is our duty to make it, good, and uplifting, only the future can tell. But we recognize the responsibility,—a responsibility greater, because the ideals of our times are growing higher and nobler, and, that we may fullfill our duty, we must be better men and women than the world would have demanded in the past.

"I know that there are many who do not believe this—many, who sigh over the degeneracy of the age, who long for the return of the 'good old times.' Such a belief, it seems to me, must mark a life that is a failure. For what hopes, what aspirations, can man cherish, if in his heart he believes that the world is growing baser, more evil? And such a belief is so unwarranted! Never was there a day which cherished ideals higher, finer, more beautiful, than those of the present.

"That we may realize this, let us look back over some of the epochs which stand prominent in history. By the religion shall you know the man, for in his worship he embodies his noblest ideals. So every one of you who has read the mythology of the Greeks, must realize how low, how narrow, was the conception of the multitude regarding nobility and

LEAL'S SCHOOL EXERCISES

Prof. L. H. Miller, of Princeton, Delivers Address to Two Graduates.

THE YALE CUP IS AWARDED.

Clarence R. Lawrence Wins Oratorical Prize—John C. Martin and Allan Fitz Randolph the Graduates.

Closing exercises of John Leal's School held at the Casino, last night, were marked by the graduation of two students, John C. Martin and Alan Fitz Randolph, both of whom will continue their education at Princeton University in the fall; seven prize essays, the awarding of the Yale cup by President E. A. Stevenson, of the Plainfield Yale Club, and other awards, an address by Prof. Lucius H. Miller, of Princeton Uuniversity, followed by a reception and dance.

The first part of the program was devoted to the prize-speaking as follows:

"The Pipes of Lucknow," Alan Fitz Randolph; "The Perfect Tribute," Howard M. Ladd; "Hiram Calkins," Lawrence S. Heely; "Columbus," Morris Brandegee; "The Old Man and Jim," John L. McDonough; "The Soul of the Violin," Clarence R. Lawrence; and "The Rising of 1776," Donald B. Fullerton.

Percy H. Stewart, Clifford W. McGee and H. L. DeForest were appointed judges and later in the evening in announcing the result awarded first prize to Clarence R. Lawrence, second prize to Lawrence S. Heely and honorable metnion to John L. McDonough. The large audience gave its approval by hearty applause.

Following two delightful violin selections by Clarence R. Lawrence, accompanied on the piano by Miss Margaret Leal, Prof. Lucius H. Miller was introduced as the speaker of the evening. He was a graduate of Leal's School, Class '93, and began by saying that Mr. Leal and his school would always have a warm place in his affection as he recalled the days when he was student there.

"The Purpose or Aim of a College Education," was the subject of his address and it was full of pointed truths tended to benefit the many boys present who have ambitions to enter college later on. He said that there are many young men who take a college course who are unable to give a college explanation as to what a college is for and at the same time it is hard to determine which is the best college or compare any two colleges, owing to the many elements of difference. Some people believe that a college is maintained for its baseball games, others that it consists of so many buildings, while still others believe that it is the faculty that makes such an institution.

Prof. Miller said that there are cases where all the family go to one college and they can see no good in any other institution. He did not think that a college necessarily had to be large, although it is not an objection. As to the difference between a college and university, he said that college presidents and the small boys disagree and it is not safe for professors to try and settle the argument. His definition of a college was an institution where there is a course of general study extending over a period of several years, together with all the light and association of a body of men brought together.

In defining the purpose of a college, Prof. Miller said that it is to give a finish to a man and make a cultured individual of him. It has been said that it is better to have gone and loafed than not to have gone at all, but the speaker said that he did not agree with the statement.

Speaking of the Eastern colleges, Prof. Miller said that there is a tendency to train a race of loafers, many believing that if they can join a college club and get a pin they have attained their ambition. It is this class of men that are despised by hard working men. A boy cannot be benefited by four years of idleness. Some people have the idea that a college consists of a gridiron, a baseball diamond, with a few building in the rear. The speaker said he could not agree with the president of Harvard as to athletics, for he couldn't be happy without a Yale game. However, he thought that perhaps the college had gone too far with its athletics.

"Life is a big game," continued Prof. Miller, "and we should learn it thoroughly. I admire college spirit and loyalty. It is a fine thing, but it is a mistake to spend too much time on athletics which will eventually make one a has-been. It is not the victory in athletics that counts, but the achievements in the various professions for which a college prepares a man. Many of our institutions, like some corporations,

PRESENT PYTHIAN ALTAR

SYMBOLIC OF FRATERNALISM.

Big Night for Plainfield Members of the Knights of Pythias—a Memorial Session.

Plainfield was the Mecca for members of the order of Knights of Pythias from all parts of the State, last night, when Olive Branch Lodge, No. 78, of Elizabeth, came to the city for the purpose of presenting the Pythian Charity altar to Perseverance Lodge, No. 74. The gathering was in the castle hall in the Babcock building and was one of the largest that has been conducted by the local organization in several years. In addition to the Elizabeth delegation, numbering sixty, there were Grand Lodge officers present and representatives from Linden Lodge, No. 2, of Linden; Reliance Lodge, No. 101, of Rahway; Euclid Lodge, No. 153 of Woodbridge; Somerset Lodge, No. 56, of Bound Brook; Lodge of the Castle, No. 82, of Somerville, and Unity Lodge, No. 102, of Plainfield

H. S. Smalley, of Bound Brook, deputy for District No. 20, was in charge of the meeting and early in the evening received Grand Chancellor Abram L. Klenert, of Paterson, together with the following members of his staff: Grand Vice-Chancellor Harry Heinrichs, of Paterson; Grand Prelate A. L. Drucker, of Elizabeth; Grand Keeper of Records and Seal Elmer E. Margerum, of Trenton; Grand Master of Arms Harry C. Keeler, of Newark, and Grand Inner Guard William D. Quick, of Somerville. In the course of the session, all the Grand Lodge officers made addresses in response to calls from Acting Chancellor Commander Berthold J. Schreiner, of Perseverance.

The Charity altar, which the Elizabethians brought to Plainfield after having it in custody for the past month, is a symbol of fraternalism that is intended to create enthusiasm for the benefit of the order and at the same time aid in a plan to secure funds for the erection of a home for aged and infirm Pythians. It was made and presented to Grand Chancellor Klenert by Grand Vice-Chancellor Heinrichs at the Grand Lodge session, February 20, of this year. The maker of it conceived the idea of having it passed from one lodge to another throughout the State and thus draw all closer together in bonds of fraternalism. At each presentation, donations for the proposed institution are received and a large fund is already in hand. Grand Chancellor Klenert gave the altar to his home lodge, Paterson, No. 119, of Paterson, and it has proceeded in turn as follows: Benevolent Lodge, No. 148, of Passaic; Admiral Farragut, No. 34, of Jersey City Heights; Ethic, No. 115, of Harrison; Apex, No. 148, of Roseville, and Olive Branch No. 78, of Elizabeth.

Next Monday night, Perseverance Lodge will convey the symbol to Lodge of the Castle, of Somerville, after which it will go to Neshanic, Flemington, Lambertville, Trenton, Stockton, Frenchtown, Phillipsburg, Belvidere, Oxford and Washington in the order given, reaching the last named place just before Labor Day. It will continue on after that until the Grand Lodge session in 1910, when it will be presented to the newly-elected head of the State order and the representatives in attendance will be called upon to formally accept the donations received for the home.

The presentation to Perseverance Lodge was made by Chancellor Commander Paulman, of Olive Branch, who afterward announced that two members of his organization, Major Charles Fredericks and Edward Petty, had made a receiving box for the altar that they wished to extend with it. Both were accepted by Acting Chancellor Commander Schreiner, who announced that Perseverance would be a watchful custodian and that the symbol would be lived up to at all times. In the course of the speech-making, Grand Prelate Drucker declared that the gathering was the largest he had ever seen since the Elizabeth lodges brought Miss Calanthe, the Pythian goat, to Plainfield eight years ago. It was looked upon by him, as another golden link in the chain that binds the Union county organizations in a neighborly grip.

While a social period was in progress, Master-at-Arms Keeler rendered a solo and several visitors gave selections on the piano. The out-of-town delegations were afterward escorted to the banquet hall where refreshments were served. The Elizabeth party, which included members of Harmony Lodge, No. 99, and

CARNIVAL ENDS TONIGHT

Firemen's Pension Fund Benefit Will Be Closed in a "Blaze of Glory."

A WEDDING ON THE GROUNDS.

Local Couple Will Be United in Marriage Before the Crowd to Win Manager Berger's $100 Bill.

The Firemen's big pension fund benefit carnival, which has been in progress at Darrow avenue and Fourth street for the past week, will be brought to a close tonight in a veritable "blaze of glory." Manager Berger has arranged for several eleventh hour surprises that will assist in entertaining the big crowd that is sure to attend and the general committee will surpass all previous efforts in providing for the people.

Principal among tonight's "headline' acts will be the crowning of the Carnival Queen, Miss Margaret Townley. This will take place at 8 o'clock and will be a novel proceedure. A little later, a young couple whose names have been withheld for the present, will be united in the bonds of matrimony to secure a $100 bil offered by Manager Berger. The ceremony will be performed by the Gretna Green justice, Hezekiah Hand, who has also promised to donate his fee to the bride. The main attractions on the grounds will present the usual high-class performances. A big crowd is in attendance at the carnival this afternoon, a host of children having accepted the invitation of Manager Berger and the firemen to be their guests. Most of them made a rush for the Katzenjammer castle and this palace of mysteries has been crowded with youngsters of all ages, shapes and sizes.

The attendance last night continued to be top-notch and business was on the boom all around the circle of shows. Everybody got their money's worth and everybody went away with the avowed intention of returning tonight.

Edward Lloyd, the "man who gives away watches," was the "candy kid" with a large percentage of the vistors last night. His method of "giving something for nothing" attracts the people like the honey barrel does the flies and the time-peices have been going over his counter in bunches. If you haven't paid him a visit you have missed one of the best things on the carnival grounds. "Ed" was here last year and he may be back again next Fall but it's best to have one of his watches in the meantime.

The Ferari animal show, the Hindu theatre, the Leola, Fighting the Flames and Katzenjammer attractions wil all give extra performances tonight in order to accommodate the belated attendants. The "breaking upp' will commence shortly after midnight as the carnival is booked for Passaic during the coming week.

KING'S DAUGHTERS HOLD LAWN PARTY AND SALE.

Under the auspices of the Benevolent Band of The King's Daughters, of which Mrs. Frank S. Martin is the president, a delightful lawn party and sale was held at the home of Mrs. Stephen A. Ginna on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. The spacious lawn and porch were attractively decorated with flowers and numerous small tables were placed about the grounds where refreshments were served. There were also several booths where cak, candy, flowrs, lemonade and aprons were sold.

Those in charge of the various booths were as follows: Ice cream, Mrs. E. E. Parvin; cake, Mrs. Electra Craft; candy, Mrs. Josephine L. Lapsley; flowers, Miss Elsie Martin; aprons, Mrs. Osmun Halsted; lemonade, Mrs. E. B. Shoemaker. They were assisted by other members of the Band, while a number of young women helped at waitreses. The affair netted $106 which sum will be used for the work of the City Union of The King's Daughters.

A Musical Prodigy.

Prof. W. Leon Lindsay, of Greensboro, N. C., announced as the greatest colored musical prodigy in the south, will give a concert at Reform Hall, Friday night, June 26. ACCIDENTLY SHOOTS SELF

WOUND IS NOT DANGEROUS.

Carnival Show Man Admits Ownership of Weapon—No Arrests Are Made.

"Hoist by his own petard" seems to be an apt aphorism to fit the case of Julius Richard, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Richard, of East Fourth street, who went to the Firemen's carnival at West Fourth street and Darrow avenue, last night, in search of excitement. He found plenty of it and today has his left arm in a sling as the result of a .32 calibre bullet from a pistol he stole going through one of his fingers.

The boy was wandering about the carnival grounds at about 7 o'clock and when no one was looking crept into the developing room of a photographing tent conducted by Edward Wakefield. The latter was busily engaged out front seeking patronage and young Richard had nobody to bother him. He noticed the pistol hanging on a peg, confiscated it and made a run to get away.

He had proceeded as far as the canvas wall encircling the grounds and was creeping under it to Darrow avenue when an unexpected slip discharged the weapon he was holding tightly. The bullet struck the index finger of the left hand and went clear through but it didn't stop Julius. He gave a scream of pain, scrambled to his feet and ran down West Fourth street as fast as he could go.

The report of the pistol was heard by Patrolman Saffron who hurried to make an investigation. He saw the boy make haste to get away and went in pursuit, catching him at Grant avenue. The little fellow's hands were covered with blood and the officer immediately took him to the office of Dr. Brennan, half a block distant. While the wound was being dressed, the victim told how it had come about, adding the information that he had thrown the pistol away. Saffron returned to the carnival grounds and picked the weapon up in a clump of weeds on Darrow avenue. When the physician had finished with Julius he was taken home.

When called upon by the police for an explanation of the pistol's presence in the tent, Wakefield said he always kept one within reach at carnivals. He had been attacked and robbed at one time, he said, and he had purchased the weapon for use in the event of a reocurrence. He was unaware that it had been stolen until so informed by Saffron. He was not arrested and neither was Julius as the belief exists that he received sufficient punishment for his act. The wound will not prove dangerous unless septic poisoning develops, a matter that is not at all likely.

DONALD C. MORTIMER GIVES FAREWELL RECEPTION

Donald Cameron Mortimer, of West Seventh street, who graduated with the class of '08 from the Plainfield High School and who will leave the city this afternoon to assume a position with a New England dairy concern at Boston, tendered a farewell reception to a party of friends at his home last night. Several hours were passed pleasantly in the playing of games and the enjoyment of music and recitations. Refreshments were served in conclusion and before departing the guests extended Mr. Mortimer many well wishes for future success, but expressed regret at his departure.

MISS TOWNLEY THE QUEEN

TOTAL CAST FOR HER 45,047.

With a rush of ballots at the last few moments that amounted almost to an avlanche, the Carnival Queen contest was concluded late last night with Miss Margaret Townley the winner. Votes were cast for her by the thousand and when the tabulators finished their work it was found that she had a grand total of 45,047. She was the candidate advanced by the local lodge of Elks and members of the order remained at the polls all through the evening to keep the pace for the other contestants.

Miss Ella Adams, the F. O. E. candidate, was a favorite at the last and for a time followed the pace set by Miss Townley. She held second place at the finish with 18,181. The Jr. O. U. A. M. nominee, Miss Mattie DeCamp, was third; Miss Sarah Hopewel, the Woodhull-Martin candidate, was fourth and Miss Margaret King, supported by the Foresters, was fifth.

The voting on the carnival grounds last night, continued openly until 10 o'clock at which time the contestants stood as follows: Miss Townley 10,132, Miss Houpewell 8,671, Miss DeCamp 7,339, Miss King 6,668 and Miss Adams 4,716. After that the counters adjourned to the West End engine house where secret voting was allowed, Manager Berger, Judge Runyon, Ephraim Compton, Captain William Townley, Raymond Guinn, Horace G. Adams and Lewis Feiring acting as a "board of canvassers." For a while it looked as though Miss Adams would be the winner but the opening of an envelope containing a $100 bill sent Miss Townley well to the front and two fifties following a little later made her position practically safe. The result of the secret balloting was announced as follows: Miss Townley 34,915, Miss Adams 13,465, Miss DeCamp 6,812, Miss Hopewell 2,716 and Miss King 897.

The official figures for the final result and which were announced to the waiting crowds at the carnival grounds were the following: Miss Townley 45,047, Miss Adams 18,181, Miss DeCamp 14,151, Miss Hopewell 11,387 and Miss King 7,565. The prize to be awarded the winner is a solitaire diamond ring while she will also be crowned Queen at the carnival tonight. She will be allowed to select her own attendants and they will be escorted to all the attractions on the grounds. Miss Adams will receive a handsome umbrella with handle of gold and inlaid pearl while Miss DeCamp will be presented with a sterling silver toilet set. The aggregate value of the prizes is $135.

FIRST PUBLIC COMMENCEMENT AT LOCAL BUSINESS COLLEGE.

Prof. A. S. Herr, of the Plainfield Business College, has made arrangements for the first public graduation exercises ever held at a business college in this city. Those who are entitled to receive diplomas, at this time, will include all who have left the college with good class records, and have proved successful in business, since the school has been under the management of Prof. Herr, and are able, at the present time, to pass the regular test in either the bookkeeping or stenographic subjects.

Following the death of Prof. A. A. Phelps, three years ago, Prof. Herr purchased the school, which was then located in the City National Bank building, from Miss A. C. Phelps. Under the careful, yet progressive, management of Prof. Herr, the school soon grew to such an extent that he was compelled to look around for more commodious quarters, and, after a careful survey of the various buildings in the city, the Woodhull & Martin building was chosen as the most desirable, and in May, 1907, the school removed from the bank building to the present location.

Mrs. Herr, in the capacity of vice-principal, is associated with Prof. Herr in the active management of the school, and also has entire charge of the English department. The exercises will be held the last week in July, and a number of prominent Plainfielders will be among the speakers.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Will Russell, who did such good work on the slab in last week's game, is again in the centre of the diamond today, when the local nine is playing the strong Company M nine at the Washington avenue grounds. The soldier boys looked familiar as they came on the field, for they are wearing the blue suits and yellow stockings of the disbanded Laurel A. C. team.

The summer schedule of services at the Presbyterian church will commence tomorrow, when Sunday-school will be held at 10:30 o'clock in the morning instead of 2:30 in the afternoon as customary during the cold weather. The regular morning service will be at 11 o'clock during the summer months, when all services are to be but an hour long.

Because the postponement of the special meeting to appropriate money and select plans for the new township school has been declared illegal according to the State law, no meeting will be held in the school tonight. The date for the postponed meeting has been regularly set by the members of the school board as Tuesday evening, June 20.

"Christ Changing Us" will be the topic of Rev. Henry N. Jordan's sermon at the covenant meeting and prayer service to be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church tonight. The pastor will administer the Holy Communion at the church next Sabbath morning.

Mrs. John Rice, superintendent of the Deaconesses' Home at Newark, will tell of the work there at the evening service in the Methodist church tomorrow. The service will be in charge of the Women's Home Missionary Society, and music will be a feature.

Harry Isigg and Hudson Wilson have started on a western trip and will be gone the entire summer. They are planning to go as far as Washington State, stopping at the large cities and points of interest en route.

WESTFIELD.

Mrs. Joseph Ferris, of Embree Crescent, entertained the members of the Social and Literary Circle last evening. The annual business meeting of the circle was held during the evening.

An athletic meet will be held by the Men's Club of the Westfield Methodist church this afternoon at the old baseball grounds.

The contractor has commenced the work of laying the sewer in Stanley Oval.

NORTH BRANCH.

Miss Anna A. Nelson, principal of the public school at Three Bridges, reports Furman Griffith, Helen Dilts, Rebecca Davis, Ethel Higgins, Cora Harsell, Reba Storr and Laura Wilton on the honor roll during the last school month.

Elmer Kline has returned to his home in Brooklyn, after spending a two weeks' vacation with relatives in North Branch Depot, Three Bridges and Somerville.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ten Eyck, of North Branch, are entertaining their daughter, Mrs. Edward Lewis, of Middletown, Del., for a few days.

Rev. George H. Stephens, of Philadelphia, has been visiting his sister, Miss Anna M. Stephens, at North Branch Depot for a few days.

Mrs. Bowers, widow of Rev. Nicholas Bowers, of Stirling, has gone to Pluckemin to make her home with Mrs. James Woods.

RARITAN.

Complaint is again made of depredations by visitors at Duke's Park. Not only women and children, but men are found guilty of stealing the flowers, despoiling the cherry and mulberry trees, climbing on the statuary and playing ball on the lawns. A youth was discovered yesterday near the mansion, where he had been fishing in the lake. Mr. Duke has employed officers, who will prosecute offenders.

Miss Flora Coyne, of Plainfield, has been visiting her brother, A. H. Coyne, this week.

Miss Margaret Gulick has been visiting relatives in Trenton.

SOMERVILLE.

Mrs. William Henderson has returned from St. Michael's Hospital, in Newark, where she had been staying for the past three weeks.

Miss Mollie Mennor, of Hornelsville, Pa., is a guest of Rev. and Mrs. A. E. Woods, on West High street.

Miss Mary Griggs has returned from Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where she graduated from Vassar College.

Misses Mary and Augusta Cortelyou have been guests of Miss Ida Van Camp at Neshanic.

Miss Lulu Porter has been visiting relatives at Annandale.

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS ARE FIXING UP BRIDGES

A special meeting of the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders was held Thursday afternoon. The bridge at Milltown was viewed after which organization was effected at the North Branch hotel. The only absentees were Walter M. Vreeland and Joel Codington.

Member William M. Demler moved that the bridge at Milltown be repaired and the masonry renewed and that a committee be appointed with power. Carried.

The committee selected included Edward B. Hoagland, Joseph Fitzga, J. S. Everett and William C. Paulson.

Andrew Lutkins moved that when the board adjourn it be to meet in North Plainfield to take up the bridge matter at the corner of Green Brook road and Somerset street on Tuesday, June 30, at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. So ordered.

The committee on the book typewriter machine for the Surrogate's office reported that the old machine cannot be rebuilt and recommended that the same be exchanged for a new machine. On motion the report was received and the recommendation adopted and the committee empowered to make such exchange at the best price it can obtain.

It was moved that bids be received by the board for the Van Nest bridge in Peapack and the bridge on West Union avenue at the regular meeting in the court room on Tuesday, July 14, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and opened at 2:30. Carried.

HELPFUL HINTS TO HURRIED HOUSEWIVES.

Prunes are greatly improved by being stewed in a little cider.

If you wish a cake to be light put it into a good hot oven at first, and let the heat diminish after the first twenty minutes.

If canned pears have a flat taste—and most pears do—they will be improved by adding stick cinnamon to them while cooking.

After using cold-water starch let it settle, then pour off the water and allow the starch to dry. When it is dry it can be replaced in the starch box for future use.

If old keys are kept in a box by themselves some of them will frequently come into play in unlocking a trunk or other receptacle the key to which has been lost.

In papering a room, remember that large patterns and dark colors will make it appear smaller, while a plain or striped paper, if a light hue, will give an impression of increased size.

A good floor stain that goes right into the wood and is very durable ismade of linseed oil colored with ground burnt umber. Rub thoroughly into the boards with a flannel pad, and next day polish with beeswax and turpentine.

The under oven in the range is a most convenient place in which to keep irons. They may be taken hot from the stove and placed there where they are out of the way. They are usually warm when taken out, thus heating up rapidly.

Fine linen, such as infants' clothing, pocket handkerchiefs, etc., that has become yellow, may be whitened by boiling in strong suds made with yellow soap and milk and water—half milk and half water. Boil for half an hour, wash in ordinary hot suds, rinse in clear hot water, then in cold blue water.

When a house is being done over paint is not infrequently spilt on doorsteps and it is sometimes found very difficult to remove. In that case make a strong solution of potash and wash the steps, simply leaving the solution to soak in. In a short time the paint will become soft and can be washed off with soap and water. Then use cold water. Paint which has been left on for some time will pield to this treatment.

Wm. J. Bryan on the Mystery of God

Here is a bit of philosophy from the pen, or lips, of William Jennings Bryan. There is a bit of religious philosophy in it which I most heartily commend to some who believe in nothing and to others who always want an explanation. He says: "I am not so much of a farmer as some people claim, but I have observed the watermelon seed. It has the power of drawing from the ground and through itself 200,00 times its weight; and when you can tell me how it takes this material and out of it colors and forms an outside surface beyond the imitation of art, and then forms in it a white rind and within that again a side of red heart, thickly inlaid with black seeds, each one of which in turn is capable of drawing through itself 200,000 times its weight—when you can explain to me the mystery of a watermelon, you can ask me to explain the mystery of God."

Dr. J. H. Buchanan Detained.

Because of the illness of his daughter, Mary Buchanan, who is confined to her home on Duer street with a severe attack of rheumatism, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan could not attend the conference of the State Medical Society held at Cape May yesterday. He was to have read a paper on "Some Observations on Bronchial Asthma," but in his absence the paper was read by the secretary of the society.

Correct Shoe Wear.

One can wear white buckskin, white canvas or white Russian leather shoes. White kid slippers are worn only during the evening or at an afternoon affair. Do not wear white shoes in the parks. Tan shoes are for afternoon wear with stylish dresses; black shoes are for morning wear.

New Vice-President at Seton Hall.

Bishop John J. O'Connor Thursday appointed the Rev. Thomas J. Martin as vice-president of Seton Hall College. He was ordained to the priesthood in December of last year.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The local option movement is being pushed in Salem County, meetings being held weekly in some parts of the county.

Mad dogs have cost Monroe Township, Gloucester County, over $400 for treatment of victims at Pasteur Institute and for cattle that were bitten.

While fishing from a small boat in the Delaware River off Beverly yesterday, Walter Leaming was run down by a launch and narrowly escaped drowning.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage, surrounded by a houseful of family and friends, at their home in Vineland, yesterday.

For allowing a horse to remain out all day Monday in the drenching rain on the road between Salem and Woodstown, where it had fallen the day previously, David Ford has been arrested for cruelty to animals.

Edmund Applegate, an aged teamster of May's Landing, was on his way home last evening when his horses ran away and threw him violently to the road. Several of his ribs are fractured and he is otherwise injured.

In the Atlantic County Court yesterday Judge Highbie sentenced Frank Thurston to one year in the State prison for carrying a deadly weapon. Louis Stadler, for assault and battery and larceny, got five years.

City Solicitor F. B. Davis states that the election ordered for next Tuesday in the Third Ward, Woodbury, to decide the fate of the voting machine must be held, notwithstanding the removal of the machine by the Secretary of State.

The large average of beets planted in the vicinity of Shiloh are not turning out well. They have come up white cow beets instead of the red one used for canning. The canners refuse to take them and the farmers are in a dilemma.

The body of the man found drowned at Washington Park was identified at the Camden morgue yesterday as that of George Crowther, eighty years old, Fifth and Calowhill street, Philadelphia. It is believed he accidentally fell into the river.

The funeral of Coroner Isadore Sontheimer, who was drowned in Mullica River, Sunday, took place in Atlantic City yesterday, prominent city and county officials acting as pallbearers and mourners. The body was taken to Philadelphia for interment.

George Brenner, four years old, is in St. Francis's Hospital, Trenton, suffering from lockjaw, thought to have been caused by a little scratch on one of his fingers, sustained while he was playing with his pet kitten. His condition is critical, but the physicians at the hospital have hopes of effecting a cure.

Stern & Silverman, representing the Shore Fast Line Railroad, have refused to accept the ordinance granting the Ocean City Railway Company the right to construct a connection at Eighth street, and Wesley avenue, Ocean City, passed by Council a few days ago. The ordinance limits the round trip fare to Atlantic City to forty-five cents, and it is said that this is the cause of its rejection.

The State Board of Health sent its ultimatum to City Recorder Hogate, of Millville, yesterday, telling him that unless the city speedly erects the sewage disposal plant it was commanded to erect months ago Attorney General McCarter has been instructed to begin suit. The Councilmen are in a quandry as to what to do for funds. The annual appropriations have been made and exceed the amount derived from taxes, the city owes a big debt and has many demands to meet.

P. C. C. House Committee.

The following women have been appointed members of the house committee at the Plainfield Country Club; Mrs. Townsend Rushmore, Mrs. A. A. Tilney, Mrs. Leighton Calkins, Mrs. Henry C. Irons, Miss Mary Wadsworth and Miss Ursula Rowland. The male members of the committee are as follows: Willard Wadsworth, (chairman) and A. A. Tilney. Plans are in progress to make the clubhouse and restaurant unusually attractive to members and guest and as soon as they are definitely decided upon they will be announced. Beginning today table d'hote luncheon and dinner will be served at seventy-five cents and $1 respectively. Members desiring accomodation should notify the steward twenty-four hours in advance.

Belvidere Wants Ballot Box.

The result of the special election held at Belvidere Thursday to decide whether or not the voting machine should be retained at elections showed that the machine is unpopular with most of the voters. Out of the 319 votes cast only 28 were in favor of the retention of the machine.

Wedding Fees to Build Church.

To start a fund for a new church building for the Putman Methodist Episcopal church, of New Brunswick, the Rev. Herbert J. Belting, the pastor, has made a personal donation of $100 and all the wedding fees received in the next two years.

S. S. Swackhamer will speak in the M. E. church, Neshanic, tomorrow night.

DO IT NOW!

When your house, barn or store has reached that stage where it is no longer protected from the elements, it requires painting not simply to hide the weather-beaten boards, but to penetrate and preserve the wood from further decay.

Don't delay the job, but do it now and do it right, by using the old reliable pure linseed oil paint which, when applied according to directions, not only penetrates the pores of the wood and retards decay, but also produces a beautiful glossy finish.

Before deciding on the paint you will use, no matter how much, please secure prices and color cards of MOORE'S HOUSE COLORS from our representative, DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Plainfield People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health is gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Cure the kidneys with the certain and safe remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, which has cured people right here in Plainfield.

Andrew Mattis, carpenter, of 127 West Fourth street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have been troubled for years by dull backache and pain in the back of my head, caused by kidney complaint. It was hurt severely some time ago by falling from a scaffold and the physicians thought my spine was injured. I think that fall injured my kidneys. As nothing else that I tried seemed to help my kidneys, I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills and got a supply at Randolph's Pharmacy. I have now taken nearly three boxes, and find that the backache and headaches have disappeared."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

If you want to see a good ball game go to Crescent Oval, this afternoon, when the Clinton Avenues and Scotch Plains will clash. The contest will be for blood and will be well worth the price of admission.

The Mono A. C. has scheduled a twilight game with Bound Brook for Wednesday afternoon, June 24, beginning at 6 o'clock. The contest will be played at Bound Brook.

Lave Cross, the former captain of the Philadelphia Athletics, has signed with the Shamokia Atlantic League team.

Seery, who caught fine ball for the Elizabeth Union League Club, is now playing with Mt. Carmel. He played several games in this city two years ago.

Catcher Crist, who was with Providence in 1906, has signed with Jersey City.

The Jersey City fans are dissatisfied with the management of Joe Bean. They like him as a player, but declare he has no managerial ability.

The numerous baseball teams in Plainfield and vicinity this season are developing many future baseball stars that are sure to be heard from. The fans who watch the games have been surprised at the fast work of the local players.

The Clinton Avenue lineup in the game against Scotch Plains today on Crescent Oval, will be as follows: O'Loughlin, c; Randolph, p; Barnes, 1b; Brit. Martin, 2b; Emery, 3b; Jack Martin, ss; Schott, Giles, Moffett and Gilman, outfield.

Tommy McCarthy has figured in his second trade of the season. After being transferred from Cincinnati to Pittsburg, the Pirates on Thursday swapped him to the Boston Nationals for young "Cy" Young.

It is the general opinion of experts that the Chicago Nationals have clearly demonstrated their right to first place by their superior fielding and stick work. They are past masters in the business and nothing short of a cyclone will stop them.

Joseph F. Londrigan, captain and second baseman of the University of Pennsylvania baseball team, has decided not to play professional ball and the Newark Eastern League club is knocked out of getting a fast infielder.

The Yankees cleared up a profit of $15,0000 in the recent series with the Chicago White Sox, although they won but one game.

GOLF.

The increasing popularity of golf at Van Cortlandt Park has led to a demand for more locker room, and to meet this requirement plans have just been perfected to enlarge the golf house. A fourteen-foot frontage will be added.

The Salisbury Golf Links at Garden City, since their improvement last season, are in excellent playing condition and have been used to a large extent during the past month. The members of the Midland Golf Club have arranged a series of point competitions for June, July and August, and in September the club championship will be played.

The Annual Staten Golf Championship will this year be held on the course of the Fox Hills Golf Club at Clifton, on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, June 25, 26, and 27. There will be two sets of sixteens, and no less than nine prizes will be competed for. The winner of the tournament will be allowed to hold the Branch Medal for one year. He also receives a silver cup as the winner of the first sixteen. There will also be a silver cup for the runner-up in the first sixteen, a gold medal for the low gross score in the qualifying round, a silver cup for the winner of the second sixteen, and silver cups for the winners of the beaten eights in the first and second sixteens.

The program for the Western Amateur Golf Championship has just been issued. The event will be held from July 13 to 18 on the links of the Rock Island Arsenal Golf Club, Illinois. The qualifying round will be thirty-six holes thirty-two to qualify, the winner to hold the championship title and the George R. Thorne trophy for the ensuing year. Several special events will be played during the week.

That the Nassau course is at its best these days is made evident by the recent phenomenal playing of Alec Smith, the club's professional, who one day last week made consecutive rounds of 70 and 66 for a total of 136. The latter beat the old thirty-six hole record, held by himself, by four strokes, while the 66 is only a stroke worse than Smith's sensational score of a year ago. In his recent performance Smith only had a single 6 in the entire day.

Continuation of play for the challenge trophies and regular competition for the President's, Golf Club and Summer cups, will be the attraction at the Park Golf Club today. There is unusual interest in the competition for the challenge trophies.

Play for the Spring Handicaps cups will be the feature at the Plainfield Country Club, today. Last week Dudley H. Barrows broke the course record in competition with a net score of 66 and efforts will be made today to equal those figures.

In a round for the Thomas cup for women at the Morris County Golf Club, Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Dudley Olcott carried off the honors. She finished 2 down and received three points toward the trophy. Miss C. Fouler was three down and received two points and Mrs. Wynant Vanderpool was four down and received one point. Mrs. J. Otis Post finished five down.

Lawrence Auchterlonie, of the Glenview Golf Club, Chicago, led in the first day's play in the Western open championship golf tournament, Thursday. The veteran came in in the morning with the low score of 74 and then surprised everybody by repeating in the afternoon for a 73. The total of 147 is a record for the course in competition.

There were twenty odd starters in the one day tournament open to members of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association on the links of the Richmond County Country Club, Thursday. In the main event, an eighteen hole medal play, handicap, the net prize was won by Mrs. James Barclay, of Hackensack, with a card of 105, 18-87. The gross score prize went to Miss Julia R. Mix, of Englewood, who returned a 97. Miss Mix also won the putting contest held on the court-golf enclosure. Although the contestants played from the women's tees they found it difficult to score over the hilly Staten Island course and a good many withdrew.

SCORE GRADUATED AT SOMERVILLE H. S.

With a class of twenty graduates, the largest in its history, the commencement exercises of the Somerville High School were held Thursday night in the assembly room of the public school building in that place. Friends of some of the graduates from Plainfield attended. The following were the members of the class:

Helen Livingston Baumgart, Eleanor Anne Brokaw, Helen Lloyd Case, Helen Rawson Cook, May Drinkwater, Martha Elmina Halstead, Bertha Cecilia Kinsey, Cora Viola Lane, Claremont Whitmee Masker, Charles Miller, Roy Rinehart, Mae Lillian Staats, Irving Schwed, Elmer Shapiro, Bessie Shapiro, Eva Alice Shapiro, Martha Celestia Savoye, Edna Hutchinson Tompkins, Albertine R. Wehrly, Charles S. Wehrly.

Prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. William C. Cranmer, pastor of the First Reformed church. There were music, essays and orations by Albertine Wehrly, Helen Cook, Edna Tompkins, Mae Staats, Bessie Shapiro, Elmer Shapiro, Cora Lane, and the diplomas were presented by L. M. Codington, President of the Board of Education.

WILLIAM JEFFERY HEAD OF IMPROVEMENT SOCIETY.

William Jeffery, "The Bungalow Man," was elected president of the Township Improvement Society of Berkeley Heights at an enthusiastic meeting held at the town Lyceum Wednesday night. He succeeds Frank C. Shaffer, who could not accept re-nomination on account of illness. Mr. Jeffery, Mr. Schaffer and Robert G. Rogers were chosen as governors of the society. Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson, president of the State Civil Service Commission and editor of the New York Tribune, a life-long resident of Berkeley Heights, spoke on the duties of good citizenship, and Mr. Jeffery was also called upon for an address.

In the course of his remarks, the newly-elected president summarized the plans of the society in future. He stated that it is the spirit of the society that any good man shall be endorsed by it for public office, regardless of his political party. The Berkeley Heights people are planning extensive education for their children and the plans were summarized by Mr. Jeffery. Within two months classes in parliamentary law will be organized for parents and children. A boys' orchestra and military company is to be formed, and the school board has been requested to improve educational facilities.

DOG OWNERS' IRE ROUSED.

Elizabeth, June 20.—The passage by the Board of Aldermen here of a dog ordinance, compelling the licensing of all dogs in the city at $1 per dog, went into effect June 2, and already 1,760 dogs have been registered and licensed, while a large number have been destroyed.

Complaints, however, are coming in against the dog catchers, who are accused of being too energetic. It is alleged that they are not satisfied with capturing unlicensed canines, but even seize some dogs which have been licensed and properly tagged. The catchers get fifty cents for each animal they capture, and an extra $1.50 if the dog is reclaimed.

Yesterday an indignant woman visited the city hall and made things lively there for a time over the unlawful seizure of her pet dog. She demanded from the city clerk the prompt restoration to her of the animal, then showed her certificate from the city to prove the license was paid, and that she had complied with the law, and threatened to sue the city. Clerk Kenah had a message sent to the keeper of the dog pound to send the animal to its owner. Another similar complaint came in shortly afterward.

Fire Destroys Bayonne Hotel.

George Wheeler's shore house and pavilion in First street and the Boulevard, Bayonne, was totally destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon. It was one of the best known resorts on the Jersey coast. Macdonald's hotel, near by, also caught fire, but was saved with slight loss. The loss on Wheeler's Hotel may reach $40,000.

Plainfield Council, United Commercial Travelers' Association, will hold a regular meeting tonight and have initiation.

NEW JERSEY'S CHAIRMANSHIP.

Senator Kean's magnaminous action in declining the election as chairman of the New Jersey delegation in favor of Governor Fort has brought him unstainted tributes not only from the press but from the New Idea men in every quarter of the State. It is to be regretted, however, that the Governor should have allowed himself to appear in the role of a place seeker, but as he saw fit to do so, every member of the delegation was only too glad to honor him after Mr. Kean had declined to serve.

It should not be overlooked at the same time, that there may have been some shrewd politics in the Senator's action for by giving way to the Governor he prevented the latter from becoming a member of the resolutions' committee. There is no doubt that he preferred another for that place in view of the debate on the anti-injunction plank, and that he accomplished his aim was seen when Thomas N. McCarter got the highly important and much cherished honor.

The nomination of William H. Taft means that the Republican victory at the polls next November will be the greatest achieved by that party. Never in the history of the country has a better qualified candidate been presented by any party. The only charge that has yet been made against him is that he is a loyal friend of Theodore Roosevelt, who is today the idol of the masses.

Depend upon it, those chronic kickers who impress upon you the idea that they will not vote for Taft will be the first step up to the ballot box and vote the straight Republican ticket. It has never been known to fail.

That very excellent authority on matters political, the Elizabeth Times, gives its readers the benefit of a great tip when it makes exclusive announcement that Theodore Roosevelt will be the Republican candidate in 1912.

That Major W. B. Martin will make a good showing as a member of the American rifle team at the Olympic contests in England is the fond hope of every member of Company K and of his admirers in general here.

Can it be true that "there's a reason" for allowing the vacant position among roundsmen to continue month in and month out? If so, the taxpayers have a right to know it.

That familiar saying about being able to judge persons by their clothes is certainly well founded when it comes to the sheath gown.

are not honest. In the first place I would emphasize efficiency in obtaining a college education. What the country wants today is men who can do things. It has been said that a college graduate is the most impracticable man in the world, which no doubt is true, but he will do the best work in the long run. He has more gray matter and can see further. The present conditions of the country demand college graduates. In the matter of hard work I believe that our Western colleges are ahead of us, man for man, and the Eastern college man should apply himself more studiously.

"A college man's education should include culture. Not the kind that tells him how to dress for certain occasions or how many cards to leave when making a call, but the kind that is obtained through the reading of good books. A man who doesn't read books lacks culture. A broad college course is a good thing for a man and I cannot urge too strongly the importance of students becoming efficient and cultured men of character."

After the address the various awards were made. E. A. Stevenson, as president of the Plainfield Yale Club, presented the Yale cup for the highest standing in scholarship and athletics for the past year to Russell K. Lawrence, while Mr. Leal presented a cup to Allen Heely for having the highest average in studies during the year. A prize was also presented to John C. Martin for general excellence and faithfulness. Other honor men for the year are R. H. Depew, Jr., Alan Fitz Randolph, D. B. Fullerton, W. W. Wilson, Russell K. Lawrence, C. A. Ball, Lyman Campbell. These prizes are for special attainment in different branches of study.

Following these announcements the floor was cleared of seats and dancing was enjoyed until an early hour this morning. Among the guests were many former graduates of the school.

During the evening Leal's School Alumni Association met, adopted a new constitution and by-laws and elected these officers for the year: President, Clifford W. McGee; vice-president, Charles W. King; secretary and treasurer, W. Lester Glenney.

CITY CONTRACTOR LOSES ON BRICK PAVING WORK

C. M. Meeker, who had the contract for brick paving the street in the business part of the city, has about completed arrangements to settle the various claims against him in connection with the work. The original contract price for the job was a little under $40,000, but with extras it has run a trifle over that amount.

When questioned today as to how Mr. Meeker would come out on his contract, City Engineer A. J. Gavett said that he thought he would lose about $1,000. This he attributes to numerous things that have entered into the work, such as delays, stormy weather, etc. Besides Mr. Meeker is still under bonds to make any needed repairs for a period of one year and this is sure to make an added expense.

Stil another fact that will prevent Mr. Meeker from making a profit is that he recently made an assignment to a Scotch Plains stone concern for several hundred dollars due on an old account. He authorized the Common Council to pay that amount out of the money due him on the brick contract.

Mr. Meeker is inclined to blame the Public Service Corporation for considerable delay caused on Watchung avenue and East and West Front street when it was putting in the double track. He says that barring that delay he could have completed his contract much sooner. On the other hand, it is maintained that the company saved Mr. Meeker considerable expense by excavating a good portion of the streets through which double tracks were laid. There was delay after delay from the day the work was started, the brick men being obliged to wait until the concrete foundation was laid and when Watchung avenue and Front street were reached matters were further complicated because Meeker's gang was compelled to wait until the trolley company got out of its way.

Mrs. Nicholas Brouard and daughter, Miss Daisy Brouard, of West Seventh street, accompanied by Mrs. Owens and Miss Owens, of New York, sailed today on the American Liner, St. Louis, for Guernsey, Channel Islands, where they will remain for three months. Mrs. Brouard and daughter obtained passage through Mulford Estil's agency.

FINE MOVING PICTURE MAN.

Elizabeth Firm Pays $100 for Violating Fire Ordinance in Not Having Seats Fastened.

For violation of the fire ordinance governing motion picture halls in Elizabeth, Sheppard & Neil, proprietors of nickel theatres at First and Fulton streets and No. 709 Elizabeth avenue, in Elizabeth, were yesterday fined $100 and costs. They were found guilty of not having the seats properly fastened in the hall in Elizabeth avenue. They pleaded guilty to a similar offence at their First street hall. The fine was $50 and costs in each offense.

City Attorney James C. Connolly represented the Board of Fire Commissioners, and John J. Griffin Sheppard & Neil. Specific charge was that, despite due notice being given them to have the seats properly fastened to the floor, they did not comply with the orders of the Board. The case was the first of its kind tried since the new fire ordinance was approved by the City Council. It was before Judge Owen P. Mahon.

An Approaching Wedding.

Announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Julia Frances Connolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Connolly, of West Fifth street, and George Anthony Callahan, of Woodland avenue. The ceremony will be performed in St. Mary's church, Wednesday afternoon, June 24, at 5:30. A large number of guests will be in attendance and a reception for relatives and near friends will follow at the home of the bride's parents.

Invented a Turbine Engine.

The world of science is at present greatly interested in a turbine engine, the invention of Charles A. Sturtevant, of this city. That it is a success is demonstrated by the fact that he has been offered a large sum of money for his patent by Boston capitalists and also by Lewis Nixon and other ship builders of national reputation. A working model is on exhibition at the business place of H. W. Marshall on East Front street.

Twenty-five Become Citizens.

Judge Atwater, in the Union County Court of Common Pleas, at a session which lasted all of Thursday for the purpose of naturalizing citizens, passed upon forty cases. Of this number twenty-five applicants for citizenship were admitted and fifteen were rejected. The court decided to hold another session in September, so as to give a final chance to all those foreigners in Union county who desire to become citizens.

AMUSEMENTS.

Torrid weather and humidity have no terrors for the patrons of "the Theatre of a Thousand Breezes," Proctor's Newark, the playhouse where the showsnever deteriorate nor comfort lacks. The week of June 22 is especially fortunate in having such a galaxy of stars and its lengthy program as the following well-known entertainers: W. J. Ferguson and Beatrice Moreland in their clever one act farce by Michael Morton entitled "Is Marriage a Failure;" Laddie Cliff, the Scotch boy comedian who captivated all England with his wit and eccentric dancing and whose success in America was instantaneous; Herbert Brooks and company in a mystifying illusion act of proportions never before attempted in the varieties; James Donald and Meta Carson offer their novel comedy singing especialty in Scottish dialect; Snyder and Buckley, the clever musical comedians, appear in a new act called "The Street Musician;" The Cycling Millards are past masters of bicycle and the unicycle; John F. Clark will tell some new tales in his own peculiar Celtic style; The Zarnes will demonstrate the benefit of physical culture in both man and woman in a series of marvelous gymnastic gyrations; and a new film of animated pictures will round out the bill.

NO PISTOLS SOLD IN TEXAS.

A cowboy walked into a hardware store in Austin, Tex., and asked for a good six-shooter.

"How much is it?" he asked when he had looked it over.

"I can't sell to you," the dealer replied, "but I will lease it to you for fifty years for $15."

"This is a dad blamed funny kind of a joint," the cowboy said. "I don't want to lease a gun; I want to own it."

He started to walk out, but was called back by the dealer, who explained that the last Legislature passed a low which imposes a tax of 50 per cent. on the gross proceeds from the sale of pistols.

"If I sold you this six-shooter for $15 I would have to pay the State a tax of $7.50," the hardware man explained. "I can lease it to you for fifty years and won't have to pay the State anything.

The cowboy saw the point and leased the gun.

The law which was enacted for the purpose of taxing pistols out of existence in Texas has been in effect more than nine months. During that period only two pistols have been sold in Texas, according to the tax receipt records of the State Comptroller's office.

One of these weapons was sold the other day in Amarillo for $15 and the dealer made a remittance of $7.50 tax on the sale. The other pistol was sold at Gainesville several weeks ago for $10, one-half of which sum passed into the coffers of the State.

It is said that dealers all over Texas are evading the new law by leasing pistols for periods of fifty years and more. Pistol toting is not openly practised in any part of Texas. Many men still wear six-shooters, but the weapons are hidden. There has been a wonderful change throughout the Southwest in this respect during the last fifteen or twenty years.

In the early days almost every native in that region wore one or two six-shooters in holsters attached to a belt around his waist. Then the moral wave which wiped out gambling and is about to do away with the saloon in Texas came along and the six-shooter lost its popularity.

Only a few days ago a man here was fined $100 for carrying a pistol, says a Texas exchange. Not a great many years ago $1 and costs was the usual punishment inflicted.

It is said that the fight against carrying pistols had greatly lessened the mortality rate in Texas. Murders are still committed, but there has been a decrease in the indiscriminate shooting and killing that formerly took place in the State.

FOUND GOLD NUGGET LARGER THAN HIS FIST.

A nugget of gold weighing more than five pounds has been found in an old placer in the Highland district by John Kern, and has been deposited in the bank of W. A. Clark & Co., in Butte, says the Anaconda Standard. Its exact weight is sixty ounces and seventeen pennyweights, Troy, and it is probably the largest nugget ever seen in Butte or mined near this city. It is a beauty, larger than an ordinary fist, and of irregular shape.

It was washed out one day by Mr. Kern on the site of the once famous old town of Highland City, fifteen or twenty miles south of Butte, in the old Highland district. Mr. Kern has been residing in that district nearly forty years and has washed out a great quantity of gold in that time, but never enough at any one time to make the recovery remarkable, and the nugget which he has just brought to Butte is the biggest find he has ever made.

When it became known among the old placer miners they visited the Clark bank in numbers to see the precious lump of the real stuff. They touched it tenderly, patted it admiringly and lifted and weighed it enviously. Men who had never seen gold in its native purity also called to get a peek at it.

Its value is $1,186.95.

NEWEST HINTS ON SUMMER FASHIONS.

We have returned to foulards in large spots, checks and all kinds of fanciful patterns, and many of them show printed borders. I think many of us feel that foulard is a fabric suitable only for middle age, but some of the new models must dispel this idea entirely.

Some models in foulard are cut on princess, or rather slightly empire, but tight in the front, and for practical wear have a short sleeveless coatee, with a trimming of fringe, which does away with all idea of dowdiness. Others are very simply made with the new tightly draped skirt, while a few, perhaps more usefully for walking, have a pleated skirt, simple blouse bodice and loose coatee. These in navy, green, purple, brown and brown and white are, after all, a very useful standby.

It is impossible at any time to conceive of life without shirts, but in the summer these indispensable garments assume their chief importance. This year of grace sees a new material pressed into service in the shape of that Shantung silk which has come and taken our hearts and wardrobes by storm. There is something absolutely fascinating about Shantung. The firmness of its texture alone makes it desirable, though it is never as smart as linen, lawn and the like.

Sometimes the prettiest notions in neckwear are in embroidered lawn, with perhaps real Irish crochet or real Cluny lace. They are sharing popularity with the neck ruffle of ribbon or feather or tulle. One of the neatest ideas is a wide neckband of satin ribbon, finished with a bunchy bow and ends of some six to ten inches long, which bow may place itself at the side of the centre of the back. And this ribbon band, which may be black or some color to mach the hat, is finished with a tiny lingerie collar of lawn or muslin, embroidered and lace-edged.

This is an age of clever simplicity. How surprised we should have been some time back at a straw aht, just a straw shape manipulated with straw, costing $15 to $30. But such a thing is quite usual at the exclusive milliners' now. Of course, it is in the skill and originality of the arrangement that the value or supposed value comes in, and also in the quality and make of the straw.

Dressy frocks are being carried out in voile de soie, collene, meteor crepe de chine, silk cashmere or painted chiffon; while the lingerie frocks are mainly in embroidered lawn or in net and lace, and always white rather than tinted. The lingerie frock and blouse are to be more popular than ever.

There is a new hat which has replaced the cloche of last season in the madness of its popularity, a popularity confined as yet to the most exclusive haunts of fashion. This is a pot-shaped affair without any brim at all, all crown, in fact, like a scrap basket, set low over the head so that no profile is revealed at one side at all, though the throat is not cut off. It is deep—not large in breadth—and it is tipped or bent up at one side to show the hair and face.

CANNED GOODS.

The visiting Englishman was surprised at the size of the orchards he saw in America. "What do you do with all the fruit?" he asked of a native. "We eat what we can and can what we can't," was the answer. (That the Englishmen on repeating this at home twisted it up and said "we eat what we can and put the rest up in tins" has no place here).

But the answer was to the point. Anything and everything that can be eaten in America is pretty certain to be canned in someway, in larger or smaller quantities, writes Dr. H. C. Stiefel, in the Monthly Bulletin of the dairy and food division. Thus of tomatoes alone over 150,000,000 cans are packed annually. Corn demands 1,000,000 cans, and so on down through the entire vegetable kingdom. In meats we find every edible kind canned, the feather world is well represented, while the ocean contributes well on to a dozen different kinds of canned food, from the kingly salmon down to the humble clam.

On the whole the packers give fair value for the price asked for their wares. This was shown by the analysis of a large number of samples of various kinds of canned vegetables and meats made for the dairy and food department by Dr. Stiefel. Tomatoes and corn, for instances, were packed solid without excessive water, the same with beans, peas, etc. In no case was any artificial coloring matter found; the tomatoes had their natural color, beans and peas were not greened artificially, and but one sample of corn was found that had been bleached by the use of sulphur.

The artificial sweetner, saccharine, and the preservatives, salicyclic acid, benzoic acid, etc., were not present in a single instance.

The canned meats were without boraz and true to name, with but one exception, a canned potted ham containing 4½ per cent. of starch. Starch was also present in varying quantities in the different "pates" and 'loafs" but these two designations are like charity, they can cover a multitude of sins. A "pigeon pate" may contain more of the pigeon or more starch just as the packer sees fit to manufacture, while "lamb loaf" may contain much starch, more water and just enought lamb to entitle it to the name. A Vienna sausage may be composed of starch water and meat in any proportion desired by the packer.

DO WE PUNISH OUR BOYS AS WE OUGHT?

Do mothers punish their children because they are behaving badly, or because they are annoying?

When the small boy is sent to his room in disgrace because he upset the flowers on the parlor table, broke the expensive vase and spilled water over the table cover and the two new books, is he being punished because he destroyed his mother's pretty things and made a great deal of extra work? The mother believes in all honesty that she is carrying out rightful ideas of discipline. But is she?

And the next day, when the same small boy passes a stray cur on the street and kicks it, wantonly and cruelly and causelessly, is the punishment that he receives half as severe?

In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred it is not. And yet the first bit of wrongdoing was simply boyish carelessness. Of a certainty the child has no right to upset a vase of flowers on the parlor table. Without doubt he must be taught to be quiet and well behaved, to respect the property rights of other persons, to work off the exceeding activity of his spirit out of doors. But there is nothing inherently wrong in upsetting a vase of flowers or in tracking mud in from the yard, or in forgetting to come home to dinner, or in doing any of the thousand and one small things that small boys are punished for.

In the second offense, however, there is something that should by all means be rooted out, an innate cowardice and cruelty, a thing that transgresses what should be one of the first instincts of a child's mind.

To be sure, it disturbs no one. It causes his parents no annoyance when a boy kicks a lost dog in the street. Most mothers reprove their little sons for offenses such as this, and that is all there is to it.

There is a very wise woman I know who has four little children. Frankly, the children are nuisances. They are always upsetting something or tossing up something or taking things to pieces to see what they are made of, and failing to put them together again. They have been known to interrupt a conversation. They coax to stay up longer when their mother tells them it is time to go to bed. The neighbors have been quoted as calling them "terrors."

But those children are absolutely honest. They are absolutely clean-minded. They have, from the oldest boy down to the baby, a certain sturdy sort of moral courage that would put an older person to shame.

Not one of them would ever hurt or tease a weaker thing. They are not particularly clever; they are not always obedient; they are by no means "well-behaved." But when they grow up they will be strong men and womanly women, those four youngsters.

"Sometimes I wish my children were actually nice and satisfactory, like the children next door," said their mother one day. "I never can make them put on pretty white things and sit down and look pretty in the afternoons; and they are always tearing things up.

"But when you have so many you can't teach them everything. And so I have tried to get hold of the essential points and let the lesser things go. I try to teach them the sort of lessons that are going to make them good men and women. And I try to train them to be honest and decent and brave."

But—it requires vast patience and unwavering perspective to be a mother like that.

The Age of Birds.

Birds of very small size and slender build not only live to a very old age, but in their old age are freer from accidents and sign of senility than is always the case among animals, says Le Matin of Paris. It used to be said that crows and carrion crows lived over one hundred years. If this statement seems rather exaggerated, there is no question that well naturalists speak of crows fifty, sixty or even seventy years old. Eagles, horned owls and herons attain similar ages, and Mr. Gurney, the English naturalist, cites a condor fifty-two years old, a horned owl of sixty-eight and a royal eagle that died in its fifty-sixth year. But the record of longlevity undoubtedly belongs to the parrot. M. Abrahams declares that an Amazon parrot reached the ripe old age of 102 years, and a Frenchman, M. Levaillat, tells us of a parrot, Jacko by name, that had lost its memory at sixty, its sight at ninety and had died at ninety-three. Tame birds live just as long. A swan reached the age of seventy—a tidy length of days, though considerably short of the 300 years which legends give to the age of swans. A wild goose attained the age of eighty years, and a tame duck, belonging to a Dr. Jean Chargot, died stil "robust" and without any signs of senescence, when over twenty-five years of age.

He Saw Papa.

"I'm sorry to say that I did."

"What did he say?"

"My dear, your father is not a man of words, but of deeds."—Pick Me Up.

Corporation Notice.

CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Call for sealed proposals for $95,000 School Bonds and $25,500 Police Station House Bonds.

Pursuant to resolutions adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular adjourned meeting thereof held June 8th, 1908, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 29th day of June, 1908, at eight o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 151 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, the Common Council of said city will receive and open sealed proposals for the purchase of the $95,000 of School Bonds called for by the resolutions adopted by the Common Council June 1st, 1908, and June 8th, 1908, and duly approved by the Mayor, and the $25,500 of Police Station House Bonds called for by resolutions adopted by the Common Council May 11th, 1908, and June 8th, 1908, and duly approved by the Mayor.

The School Bonds referred to are in denominations of $1,000 each, and will bear date July 1, 1908, and be payable July 1, 1958. The Police Station House Bonds referred to are in denominations of $500 each, and will bear date July 1, 1908, and be payable serially as follows: July 1, 1909, one bond, and July 1 of each year from 1910 to 1916, both inclusive, two bonds, and July 1 in each year from 1917 to 1928, both inclusive, three bonds. Both School Bonds and Police Station House Bonds will bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum (4½%) per annum, payable semi-annually. Principal and interest will be payable in gold coin of U. S. of the present standard of weight and fineness. The forms of both sets of bonds and coupons are on file in the office of the City Clerk and there open to inspection by bidders. The bonds will be delivered to the purchasers on July 1st, 1908, at the office of the City Treasurer of the City of Plainfield, N. J., or at the option of the purchasers on written notice to the City Clerk, at the office of the Columbia Trust Company in the City of New York.

A certified check for two per cent. (2%) of the face value of the bonds bid for, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield, N. J., must accompany each bid. All such checks except the checks of the party or parties whose bids shall be accepted will be promptly returned by the City Treasurer. If all bids are rejected, all checks will be returned. All proposals for bids must be submitted in the forms of proposal especially prepared for that purpose, copies of which may be obtained from the City Clerk or from the Columbia Trust Company in the City of New York. The legality of the issue has been examined by Delafield & Longfellow, Esqs., of New York City, whose favorable opinion will be furnished to the purchasers.

The bonds will be engraved under the supervision of and certified as to genuineness by the Columbia Trust Company of New York City. Each proposal together with the certified check accompanying the same shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope endorsed "proposal for bonds" and addressed "The Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J.," and delivered to the Common Council at the time and place specified in this advertisement.

No bid for less than par and accrued interest will be accepted.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council, together with that of waiving any informalities or defects.

At the time and place appointed, to wit, on Monday, June 29th, 1908, at eight o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the bids or sealed proposals and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, providing said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Common Council.

By order of the Common Council,
JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

WHY CHILDREN ARE DECEPTIVE.

Fear of Punishment Frequently Leads to Untruthfulness.

Untruthfulness in children sometimes arises through the fault of their elders, who suggest to them untruths, which children indorse from an innate sense of politeness and a wish to be agreeable. "Don't you like so and so?" says the elder, and the child agrees. "Isn't this pretty?" comes later on, and the child partly believes that it is pretty since the suggestion has been made, the child's idea regarding the article in question would have been that it was extremely ugly. A yet more fruitful source of untruthfulness lies in the fear of punishment, and this is particularly the case with children of delicate body or of nervous temperament. Children who are governed by love rather than by fear escape this temptation to lie, but when a child feels that punishment for a fault or failing is inevitable, it seems such a little thing to cover the frailty with a lie, and yet the child who lacks the moral courage to avow a fault suffers untold agonies of remorse for every lapse from truth. Let children be encouraged to own their faults, and even the most nervous can be made to do it, if sure that the confession takes away the punishment, or reduces it to such an extent that no bodily suffering is entailed.—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

FINISHED SERMON FOR HUBBY.

Wife's Readiness and Eloquence That Was Altogether Unappreciated.

"Speaking of wives' duties," said the Manayunk philosopher, "I once attended service at a Unitarian church in Brooklyn when the pastor's voice went back on him. Went back altogether, it did. He stood there before us in the pulpit silently opening and shutting his mouth like a fish.

"His wife came quickly from her pew, and mounting into the pulpit, she waved her husband aside, took up the sermon where he had left off, finished it eloquently and afterward brought the morning service to a conclusion with prayer."

"How very helpful that was," said a listener.

"Yet the husband didn't think so," said the philosopher. "He called it officious, was quite angry, said his wife had been trying to show off.

"The question is," the philosopher concluded, "can a wife in her helpful zeal go too far?"

Leech a Weather Prophet.

A leech confined in a vial of water will prove an excellent weather prophet.

If the weather is to continue fine the leech lies motionless at the bottom of the vial and rolled together in a spiral form.

If it is to rain, either before or after noon, it is found to have crept up to the top of its lodging, and there it remains till the weather is settled.

If we are to have wind, the poor prisoner gallops through his limpid habitation with amazing swiftness, and seldom rests till it begins to blow hard.

Sale of Opium in France.

According to the Echo de Paris, the government has under consideration a decree more strictly regulating the sale of opium than has hitherto been the case. The new decree will, it says, provide that henceforth only such apothecaries and druggists as receive special authorization may keep or sell opium. Furthermore, they must ascertain the object for which the drug is purchased, and keep a register of that object, as well as of the name and address of the buyer and the quantity sold.

Witch's Comb in a Window.

So many "precious" things are on sale every day that one grows rather skeptical about them. A curio shop uptown has in its window a comb with an alliterative and alluring legend that it was "worn by a witch." It is one of those high shell objects familiar in old portraits, and though it is not carved, as are many specimens, the card excites the interest of passers-by. Likely enough some girl who had ancestors in Salem, Mass., will buy the comb and proclaim it an heirloom.—New York Press.

Two Kinds of Fame.

When Haydon, the painter, visited Stratford, he held forth about Shakespeare to some rustics he met in a wayside inn. They told him that Stratford then contained "another wonderful fellow, one John Cooper."

"Why, what has he done?"

"Why, sur, I'll tell 'ee. He's lived 90 years in this here town, man and boy, and never had the toothache!"

Club for the Babies.

A Paris journalist has founded a babies' club. It is a spacious and pleasant building, with a garden and a clubhouse where games of all kinds are provided. There is a Punch and Judy show, and a cafe, where sweets, cakes, tea, milk and various kinds of lemonade are sold to members and their parents, while there are also many toy ships and a theater.

Ominous.

"The bookkeeper," said the junior partner, "has been married nearly four months now."

"Well," demanded the senior partner, "what of that?"

"Why, he hasn't asked for an increase in salary—"

"Heavens! We must have his accounts examined."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Strange that a [illegible] with bad habits.

A rich widow is monarch of every single man she surveys.

It is as much fear as morality that keeps many a man straight.

When you have no money is when you save a good deal of it.

Girls like love letters because there have to be answers written to them.

What a woman likes best about a novel is the fit of discontent it throws her into.

A man thinks things are nice on the stage which he would not tolerate for a minute in his wife.

Nearly everybody thinks that it will be time enough to reepnt after the fun has been had.

A girl just has to trust any man that always pretends he kissed her against her will.

A man will always believe you are flattering him unless you are speaking of his great intelligence or his good looks.

Nearly every woman believes it gives her social position to undergo an operation for appendicitis.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

SOME NEW DEFINITIONS.

Architect—A man who makes you believe you can't build even a hen house without him.

Broker—A man who separates you from your money.

Banker—A man who refuses your request for a loan so smoothly that you conclude you don't need the money.

Doctor—A man who makes you believe you are sick.

Dentist—A man who makes you forget all your other troubles.

Dressmaker—A woman who makes other women look pretty, whether they are or not.

Lawyer—A man who would make the devil a saint for a fee.

An honest man—Rarely met with in these days. The phrase is now used mainly as a joke.

DO YOUR WORK NOW.

Lose this day loitering—'twill be the same story

To-morrow—and the next more dilatory;

Then indecision brings its own delays,

And days are lost lamenting o'er lost days.

Are you in earnest? Seize this very minute—

Boldness (courage) has genius, power and magic in it.

Only engage, and then the mind grows heated—

Begin it, and the work will be completed.—Goethe's "Faust."

ABOUT PROMINENT PEOPLE.

Sousa, the conductor and composer, has never yet been persuaded to make a public speech.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth can sail a boat, ride to hounds, bind books, drive four-in-hand, run an automobile and speak five languages.

It is said that it was Charles M. Schwab's spirited singing of Scotch ballads that first drew Andrew Carnegie's attention to him.

King Leopold of Belgium, despite his age and gouty heel, rises at 6 a. m., and works for two hours before a breakfast that consists of dry bread, water, and an apple.

VERSE WORTH READING.

In Memory of a Humorist.

(Artemus Ward.)

Is he gone to the land of no laughter,
The man who made mirth for us all?
Proves death but a silent hereafter
From the sounds that delight and appall?
Once closed, have the eyes no more duty,
No more pleasure the exquisite ears?
Has the heart done o'erflowing with beauty
As the eyes have with tears?

Nay, if aught can be sure, what is surer,
Than that earth's good decays not with earth?
And of all the heart's springs none are purer
Than the spring of the fountain of mirth.
He that sounds it has pierced the heart's hollows,
The place where tears chose to sleep,
For the foam-flakes that dance in life's shallows
Are wrung from life's deep.

He came with a heart full of gladness,
From the glad-hearted land of the west;
Won our laughter, but not with mere madness,
Spake and joked with us, not in mere jest;
For the man in our heart lingered after,
When the merriment died in our ears,
And those who were loudest in laughter
Are silent in tears.

—Swinburne.

The Real Folks.

Folks that likes you—them's the kind
Worth a journey long to find,
'Cause it's something purty fine
To be standin' up in line
Where the chosen congregate
In the councils of the great.
Yet fame, somehow, doesn't seem
To bring mutual esteem.

I'll admit it must be good
For to have it understood
That you're one o' the select
Few considered quite correct,
Havin' people near an' fur
Bowin' low an' sayin' "sir"
Must be mighty soothin', still
'Druther hear jes' "Howdy, Bill!"

Folks that whispers in your ear
Compliments that ain't sincere;
Folks that use ye fur a day
Then jes' laugh an' turn away—
How we strive their praise to win,
Only to return agin
To the fellers that stan' true—
Folks that likes you' cause they do.

—Washington Star.

Sitting Out the Dance.

Time, the fiddler, plays the tune,
Merrily we prance,
Various the things we hear
Sitting out the dance.

What is Cupid and his word,
Love and all romance?
Gossip of the hallway stairs
Sitting out the dance.

What is fame bedimmed by slurs
Slander's deadly lance?
Gossip of the kitchen stairs
Sitting out the dance.

What are sermons finely spun,
Sects and creeds and chants?
Gossip of the golden stairs
Sitting out the dance.

—McLandburgh Wilson, in New York Sun.

Honesty.

When through the tangled wilderness of human doubts and fears,
Sorely pressed, in sin I wandered,
Human peace at once I squandered,
And in this helpless misery I wasted many years.

At last the storm broke on my track, my heart seemed free again;
But when I sought the quiet peace,
And bade the pain and turmoil cease,
The way seemed blocked and hedged about by many bands of men.

I thought to find a way without where I might rest awhile,
But even in this quiet spot
The words of men in riot shot,
Because a man turned back from sin and tried once more to smile.

—Elizabeth Allen Mallory.

The New Age.

When navies are forgotten
And fleets are useless things,
When the dove shall warm her bosom
Beneath the eagle's wings,

When memory of battles,
At last is strange and old,
When nations have one banner
And creeds have found one fold,

When the Hand that sprinkles midnight
With its powdered drift of suns
Has hushed this tiny tumult
Of sects and swords and guns;

Then Hate's last note of discord
In all God's worlds shall cease,
In the conquest which is service,
In the victory which is peace!

—Frederick Lawrence Knowles.

The Boy and the Sunbeam.

"I am washing my face in the sunshine,"
Said the baby who played on the floor,
Where a great shaft of light through the window
Of gold spread its generous store.
"I'm washing my face in the sunshine"—
He laughed in his innocent glee;
And the wee sturdy chap made a picture
'Twere well worth a journey to see.

The mother bent over and loved him
As only a mother knows how;
And she whispered a prayer as she kissed him:
"May it be with you ever as now,
May you turn to the sky and its shining,
Till the journey before you is done,
A face that is honest and happy
And bathed in the light of the sun!"

You Can Never Tell.

One man eschews tobacco and lives one hundred years.
Another man
Chews all he can,
And thus our moral queers.

One chap consumes no liquor and lives for years; but then
Here comes his pop,
A human mop,
And puts us out again.

For living long
Or being strong
There is no hide-bound rule.

—Washington Herald.

To Thee.

As soft as the down on the butterfly's wing,
As light as the foam on the sea,
As warm as the kiss of the summer sun
Is the thought I am sending to thee.

As bright as the rosy-tipped temples of Morn,
As sweet as the flowers on the lea,
As swift as the flight of the homing dove
Is the thought I am sending to thee.

As strong as the rush of the tempest fierce,
As fair as the moon o'er the sea,
As precious as gold to the miser old
Is the thought I am sending to thee.

PRAISED THE DOMESTIC BEER.

Good Joke on Connoisseurs of Popular Malted Beverage.

In an inconspicuous place in Yorkville there is a resort over which a German of ample proportions presides with the dignity which comes with the possession of a Franco-Prussian war medal. The place is not a club, tavern, hotel, saloon or restaurant, but a little of each, and its patrons, even the one American who goes there regularly, call it "Die Kneipe." A discussion as to the relative merits of the various brands of beer took place there a few nights ago which grew so heated that skat and pinochle games had to be halted for a time. The American contended that the views of the debaters were based on their loyalty to their respective birthplace more than on their knowledge of the beer which came from them, and to demonstrate this he entered into a conspiracy with the veteran landlord. All were invited to celebrate Mr. Yankee's birthday, and in honor of the occasion a barrel of "imported beer" was put on tap. It was nearly all gone before the knowing ones were informed that they had been drinking and praising the domestic product.

ARROGANCE OF THE WEALTHY.

PRiful Snobbishness Exhibited by One Rich Woman.

A family removed from the country to the outskirts of the city, and brought their chickens along. The good woman of the household sold a few eggs among her neighbors, charging 20 cents a dozen. She was perfectly content with the 20 cents; the neighbors were perfectly content with the eggs. However, informed by her laundress, a woman of wealth and position proposed to have some of those eggs.

"But it is ridiculous to pay only 20 cents a dozen!" she declared. "The idea! I am willing to pay 30, if they are fresh. I shall tell her so."

She sailed away in her auto—and evidently she "told her," for the next time that the laundress applied for eggs they were 30 cents.

It was the unfairness of the rich—the arrogance of wealth. She had money to waste, and she was not satisfied unless she was forcing it somewhere. Ten cents, to her, indicated the difference between wealth and poverty. So it did to the laundress—but from an opposite angle.—Edwin L. Sabin, in Lippincott's.

Odd Beliefs About Butchers.

"Butchers never serve on juries in murder trials," said a court crier. "They are always challenged if they try to, because they are thought to be cruel. They are thought to hold death too lightly. It is feared that they might vote carelessly to hang a man where strict justice demanded the man's release. Of course, I suppose, it isn't true, this belief about butchers, especially nowadays, when, thanks to the meat trust, butchers don't slaughter. But in the past, when every day they killed cows and sheep and calves, butchers must have inclined a little toward cruelty, at least toward recklessness regarding death—don't you think so?"

First Post Office.

The first letter post, in the modern acceptation of the word, seems to have been established in the Hanse towns in the early part of the thirteenth century. A line of letter-posts, connecting Austria with certain towns in Lombardy, followed in the reign of Emperor Maximilian. In 1481, when Edward IV. was at war with Scotland, a system of relays of horses was established in the north in order to provide the king with the latest news from the seat of war. The first regular post-route between England and Scotland was established by Charles I., in 1635.—New York American.

Enough Said.

"Tea and coffee," said the doctor, "are both bad for you. Your life will be shortened many years if you continue to drink such stuff."

"Oh, but doctor," she replied, "I couldn't think of getting along without a cup of coffee in the morning and a cup of tea at luncheon."

"Very well. I've told you as plainly as I can what the effect will be. And, furthermore, both tea and coffee are bad for your complexion."

"I shall never drink another drop of either."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Lord and Marquis.

The title lord is applied to five grades of English nobility, dukes, marquises, earls, viscounts and barons, so that we cannot say that a lord is higher or lower than a marquise. The grades of nobility in England run in the above order, with the addition of the baronet. The latter, however, does not receive the title of lord. The son of a duke is by courtesy a marquis, and the son of a marquis is similarly an earl.

The Fast Part.

Hi Tragedy—"Did I understand you to say Barnes is traveling in fast company just now?"

Lowe Comedy—I said he went out with a fasting company. That show he went out with is busted and trying to get home.

Confusing English.

"I see one of our battleships reported fast in the mud."

"Well?"

"I was just thinking that a ship fast in the mud ought to be a record breaker on the open sea."—Pick Me Up.

beauty. And the coarseness embodied in their religion, of necessity found its way into daily life. If there are two qualities which we today elevate above all others, they are honesty and love for one's fellowmen.

"Even in this last century, in our land, we have made great strides toward higher ideals. Think of taking some of our great reforms—movements that you cannot deny are reforms—the prohibition movement, the peace convention—think of taking them back sixty, seventy years. Imagine a Legislature of seventy years ago passing a law forbidding drinking, in a time when every gentleman was half or wholly a drunkard. And yet today not only is such a movement a possibility—it is a erality. Imagine a peace convention in days when they settled the most trival dispute with sword and pistol. And yet we have peace conventions today. Thing of our hospitals, our homes of refuge, our schools, carried back seventy years. Yet how could we do without them today?

"Today reformers are working all over the earth. They are crushing the evils of centuries, they are forcing vices once open to take upon themselves the semblance of ight. The nation takes up the cry of the reformer, the vices that the "good old times' never saw are being dragged before the people, and as their enormity is realized, are being forced out of existence.

"So I believe that present ideals have grown nobler and finer than those of past days. It is upon the growing generation that the responsibility for the ideals of the future must rest. We do not desire to take our position too seriously, yet we feel, as part of this growing generation, we have each of us a share in the shaping of the future. We enter a world better and purer by reason of those who have gone before us, and it is our duty to leave it to our children a little, ever so little, better, because we have lived in it. To this end our school training has shaped us. We shall strive to make our future such that our school may view it with pride. And we shall have made our lives successful, we shall have proved, in the highest way, our love, our gratitude, for our school, if we so live that posterity can say of each of us, that he was:

'One who never turned his back, but marched breast forward;
Never doubted clouds would break;
Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph;
Held we fall to rise, baffled to fight better;
Sleep to wake.'

And feeling that we shall reach as near to that ideal as it lies in us to attain, feeling that we shall so live our lives that they shall be a credit to our school, we can, with less regret, say goodbye to school days."

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Charles L. Mead, pastor of the Centennary Methodist church, of Newark. His address was a powerful argument for education.

Dr. Mead's topic was "The Purpose of Education" and he developed three major points in connection with his discourse,—the acquisition of knowledge, the application of knowledge and the inspiration of one's life work through knowledge. His points were all clearly established, and his address was marked by clear and forceful diction throughout.

"The trait of time is progress," said Dr. Mead at the outset of his address, and he went on to show how this is manifest in the material world and in the mental world. "What is it all for," he continued, "what does it all mean? Why is the boy sent to school? Why does the young man go to college? What is the purpose of all our endeavor in the work of school and college? Obviously the answer is the development of an effective personally."

He went on to state that the first of the three elements in the development of the individual is the acquisition of knowledge, stating that the knowledge of facts furnishes the foundation of one's life career. It also affords genuineness in preparation of one's life work. So many are the emergencies, he said, and so pressing the demands that he only is wise who is well prepared.

The second element was stated as the application of knowledge. In this connection, Dr. Mead said that one must not only be in the possession of facts, but must know how to best utilize these facts. The possession of knowledge constitutes the test of a man's value to the world, for success comes in knowing how. It is the basis of wealth, for it is not the mass of raw materials that pile up a fortune, but the brain that knows how to make use of them. Practical knowledge means the ability to think, and the speaker said that to develop this power, the finest function of education should be the goal of each one. Columbus, Morse and Field were cited as examples of men who possessed this power to think and made good use of it, the first by making two worlds, the others by making the two worlds one.

The inspiration of one's life work was treated at length by Dr. Mead as the third element of the development of the individuals. "No man is born into this world whose work is not born with him," quoted the speaker from Lowell. With the possession of facts and the power of applying those facts, there is begotten in the individual an inspiration for his task, which in its passion consumes the very life. Developing this idea, the speaker said that impelled by this inspiration, the possessor of such a mind can never be at rest. For him, there are always more worlds to conquer. In illustration Dr. Mead said that it is almost possible to see some minds develop, and cited West, the boy painter and Bach the boy musician, as examples of this wonderfully rapid mental growth.

Quoting from Carlyle, the speaker said: "Blessed is the man who has found his work! Let him ask no other blessedness." "The man whose mind is once awakened by the application of knowledge to the needs of life," Dr. Mead concluded, "never sleeps again in his honest endeavor to carry out ambitions regarding these aims. His mind becomes a mind on fire with eagerness and power,—inquiring, acquiring, growing to the end. No obstacles daunt it, no opposition stays it. It grapples with all difficulties, it climbs the rugged slopes of ignorance, ever struggling upward until at last it treads the heights of truth, a mighty conqueror."

Fred McClintock, salutatorian of the class, was the recipient of the only prize awarded at the exercises. This was the Yale cup, offered by the Plainfield Yale Club to the pupil of the senior class having the highest standing in scholarship and athletics in the school. In the absence of E. A. Stevenson, president of the cup, who was making a similar presentation at the commencement exercises of Leal's School, the presentation was by President James R. Joy, of the borough Board of Education. McClintock was captain of the school baseball nine and also played on the football and basket ball teams. The trophy is a handsome three handled loving cup, of pewter.

Concluding the commencement exercises was the presentation of diplomas, the awards for which the graduates have been working for the past four years. In presenting the sheep-skins, Mr. Joy took exception to the statement of the valedictorian in saying that after the exercises of the night the members of the class of 1908 would have no further claim on the school and must feel as strangers there. The president of the Board of Education stated that he wished this might not be, and assured the graduates that they would always be warmly welcomed by their teachers at the Somerset Street School. Those who received the diplomas were Lulu Mae Acken, Agnes Murray Cooley, Edna Dorothy Doughty, Roberta Mildred Fountain, Fred Hillman McClintock, Helen Fuller Parsons, Edna Catherine Swain, Mary Louise Andrews, William Everett Day, Ida Leontine Englehardt, Rebecca Thompson Kline, Eldon Davidson Miller, Clarence Runyon Steiner, Ethel Mildred Webster.

The benediction was by Rev. Dr. Mead. Music for the exercises was by the Y. M. C. A. orchestra, led by Martin A. Karff, Ellsworth Bennett was head usher and was assisted by William Woodruff, Arthur Woodruff, Harry Jackson, Malcolm Krewson, Percy Bailey, Preston Dunning, Roy Vanderbeek, Pierson Bailey, Elmer Gayle, Edmund LaPorte, Earle Humble and Jacob Abrams.

At the conclusion of the exercises, a dance was tendered the graduates at the Park Club by the classes of 1906 and 1907. Music was by Suhr's orchestra and there were twenty dances on the card. Supper was by Debele & Stahl. The alumni committee in charge of the affair was Miss Myra Emmons, Miss Lavina Hand, William Dunning and Frank Webster.

Volunteer Lodge, No. 110, of that city, left for home on a special chartered trolley car at 11:30.

VETERAN TROLLEY MAN HEART FAILURE VICTIM.

Samuel B. Ayers, one of the oldest employes in point of service of the local trolley system, died suddenly at his home on West Fourth street, yesterday afternoon, following an attack of heart trouble. He had been suffering from pleurisy for several days and had been off duty but was about town as usual. He was taken with afainting spell as he was returning home on a trolley car and passed away soon after reaching there.

Mr. Ayers was in his forty-ninth year and was a native of Hackettstown. He came to Plainfield from Maryland fifteen years ago and had since been employed as conductor on the city trolley lines, most of the time on a Fourth street run. He leaves a wife and one child, a daughter twelve years old. He was a member of the local Odd Fellows.

The funeral will be held at the late residence tomorrow and the burial will be at Hackettstown.

Y. M. C. A. PLAYS ORANGE IN STATE LEAGUUE TODAY.

The Y. M. C. A. nine is playing at Orange today in an effort to nose up closer to Newark in the race for the State pennant. The Orange team is just behind the local boys, holding third place. The Plainfielders took the 1:27 train from the North Avenue station, accompanied by Manager G. L. Listman and a few loyal rooters.

Elizabeth is playing at Newark today, and their standing bids fair to keep the Newark nine in first place with the 1,000 per cent. record unbroken. Summit plays at Trenton.

Wedding Anniversary Surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rogers, of West Fifth street, celebrated the twentieth anniversary of their wedding yesterday, and last night, they were given a surprise party in honor of the event. The bride and groom were wholly unaware of the intended visit, but were prepared for the guests, about twenty in number, relatives from Somerville and this city. The couple received many handsome presents. The evening was spent in a social manner, while added features were vocal and instrumental selections. Later supper was served.

Christian Debele, father of W. G. Debele, of Somerset street, is recovering from an attack of rheumatism. He celebrated his eightieth birthday about a week ago.

PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL'S TEAM WON TEN OF FIFTEEN HARD FOUGHT GAMES

Competing with schoolboy baseball teams ranking high in the State interscholastic baseball league, the Plainfield High School concluded its season with a record of ten wins out of fifteen regularly scheduled games. The schedule was the heaviest in the history of the school team, but except for a short mid-season slump, the wearers of the red and blue were able to put up a stiff fight for all their games.

Among the big scalps and laurel wreaths of the season are the wins from DeWitt Clinton High School, Morris High School, Montclair High School, Polly Prep, Bayonne High School and Pingry, not to mention the forest of local laurels derived by taking both games from the North Plainfield High School nine. Aside from the regularly scheduled games, the city school boys went out of their class to trim the Mono A. C. nine two practise games, but "Cliff" Randolph proved too much for them, and the Clinton Avenue game taught them to keep in scholastic baseball.

As captain of the nine, Chauncey R. Murphey, winner of the Yale Club cup, will be the biggest loss to the team by graduation. He has a good record in the box, althought he showed several disastrous slumps. With the stick he was generally to be relied upon as a pinch hitter, and ranks second in the batting averages. He ranks eighth in the fielding averages. Rubenstein and Dutcher are the only other players the team lost by graduation.

Manager Rafferty got to work early in the season scheduling games and secured the best schedule in the history of the school. He made the mistake of giving the players too much baseball, if anything, but the season's average shows that he knew what the team could do. G. Stanley Robins will be manager next year.

The averages, as prepared by Walter B. Caldwell, the official scorer for the nine, follow:

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS TO HOLD MEMORIAL SERVICES

The local Knights of Pythias lodges, Perseverance, No. 74, and Unity, No. 102, will unite in a memorial service to be held at the New Plainfield theatre tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The program will comprise an address by Rev. DeWitt C. Cobb, of Salem, one of the most prominent Pythians in the State; music by an instrumental trio and selection by a quartet in charge of Chas. L. Lewis. The Uniform Rank will attend in a body as well as the members of the two lodges while 1,000 invitations have been extended to friends.

The Uniformed Rank will hold its customary memorial exercises tomorrow afternoon, visiting the various cemeteries and decorating the graves of departed knights. The members will assemble at the North Avenue Station at 1:45 to meet P. Frank Shanley Company, of Rahway, and Rathbone Company, of Brooklyn. The assembled companies will then march to the North Plainfield cemetery, the Plainfield avenue cemetery and thence proceed by trolley to Hillside. Captain J. H. R. Hall will be in charge of the local Pythians.

To Play At Lake Hopatcong.

Ben LaVere, the borough bandmaster, has been appointed to sway the baton in front of his band at Lake Hopatcong. He will take his band of eighteen pieces to the Lake Sundays and give afternoon concerts there. W. C. Hope has endrosed the appointment, having been favorably impressed with the horse show music, where the local music master officiated. LaVere is arranging for instrumental and vocal soloists to eke out the weekly programs at the Lake.

Bishop Anderson Will Preach.

Bishop W. F. Anderson, of Chattanooga, will preach at the First M. E. church tomorrow night, and the congregations of the Monroe Avenue and Grace M. E. churches will attend the service. This will be Bishop Anderson's first visit here since his election to the Episcopacy and it will be attended with more than usual interest.

New P. T. C. Directors.

Frank H. Smith and C. Boardman Tyler have been chosen by the board of directors of the Plainfield Trust Company to fill vacancies in that body. Mr. Smith is the Republican chairman and register of deeds in Union county and is one of the most influential men in the section. Mr. Tyler is a New York lawyer.

To Bike to Fort George.

The week-end cycle trip of the Plainfield Cycle Club will be a run to Fort George, Staten Island, tomorrow. The wheelmen will start from the club rooms at 8 o'clock and go by way of Metuchen, getting dinner at Fort George. They will return by way of Elizabethport.

Dinner for Miss Anna Cory.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sheppard, of West Second street, gave a dinner party at their home last night in honor of Miss Anna Cory, of Syracuse, N. Y. Covers were laid for twelve. After the dinner an informal musical program was enjoyed.

Funeral of John Emmons.

The funeral of former Freeholder John Emmons was held at his late home on Stone street this morning. It was conducted by Rev. C. L. Goodrich and was largely attended. Burial will be made at New Germantown this afternoon.

Margaret F. Randolph.

Margaret F. Randolph, daughter of Stillman F. and Estelle Randolph, of Grant avenue, died last night at the parents' home. She was in her twelfth year. The funeral wil be held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

YOUNG HERO ON STUMPS SAVES TWO BOYS' LIVES

With stumps for legs and a stump for his right arm and his left hand minus several fingers, Joe Gilligan, 18 years old, swam to the rescue of two boys in the Gravel Pit pond and saved their lives yesterday afternoon at Morristown.

Alexander Patterson and Augustus Mohanan, 12 years old each, were upset from a boat in a pond at Morris Plains. Patterson could not swim and clasped the Monahan lad around the neck. Before he was dragged under Monahan cried lustily for help.

Gilligan was sitting with other boys under a tree but out of sight of the pond. He had been showing his friends the artificial limbs his parents had procured for him and had unstrapped them. Not stopping to put them on, he hustled to the pond, crying, "Hold fast! I'm coming!" Plunging in, he swam to the spot where the boys had come to the surface for the second time, grasped the two, pushed them apart, and swimming with one hand pushed the Patterson lad ashore.

Going back, Gilligan went for Monahan, who had been seized with cramps. He also was pushed ashore in safety, and the two bays carried their rescuer to his home, where he received dry clothing.

Gilligan ten years ago was run over by a trolley car in Brooklyn. He lost one leg above the knee and the other below the knee, his right arm was taken off at the elbow, and three fingers from his left hand. He learned to swim a few years ago, and has joined with the boys of the neighborhood in their games, even playing baseball after a fashion of his own creation.

GETS 2,300 VOLTS AND LIVES.

Electrician Revived by His Fellow-Workmen Pouring Water on Him.

Long Branch, N. J., June 20.—Charles Cornell, an electrician of New York city, received a charge of 2,300 volts in his body this morning and lives.

According to Supt. A. C. Swan, of the New Jersey Consolidated Water and Light Company, who was working beside Cornell in the company's plant. Cornell touched the heavily charged wire with his flinger and doubled up in a knot and was held rigid until the current was shut off.

He fell to the ground unconscious when the current was cut off and was thought to be dead. But fellow workmen dragged him outside on damp ground and poured water on him. He soon regained consciousness, and an hour later was walking about complaining of nothing but a headache.

Dunham Freed with Lecture.

"Cooney" Dunham, arrested by borough Marshal Lemuel Pope Thursday night in a hilariously intoxicated state, was released with suspended sentence at his hearing before Borough Recorder Dolliver last night.

—Among the performers at the Carnival this week are Larry Judge, Misses Bertie Storm, Clara Wilson, B. R. Gladon and Adelle Arzinger, of the Leola Show. They are guests at the Hotel Iroquois.

LAST SERMON ON CREED

Rev. Mr. Herring Concludes His Series of Twelve Talks on Confession of Faith.

"THE FORGIVENESS OF SIN."

Presbyterian Divine Explains Meaning of "Sin"—How God Pardons One for Sinning.

"I Believe in the Forgiveness of Sins," was the theme of Rev. Dr. C. E. Herrings' discourse at the First Presbyterian church, last night, it being one of the series on "The Apostles Creed," and he laid special emphasis on the Scriptual injunction that "Whatever a man soweth that shall he also reap." He spoke as follows:

"I want you to consider this statement of the Creed with that verse of Scripture which reads, 'Whatsoever a man soweth that shall he also reap.' You believe the latter, for it is not only a scriptural statement, it is the inevitable law of nature,—of a nature that knows no forgiveness; and yet what nature does not reveal our Lord teaches, for He declares that He is the Son of Man in that He has the power to forgive sins.

"Before we set ourselves to study the forgiveness of sins, let us consider the fact of sin.

"What is sin? 'Sin is the positive choice of self instead of God as the supreme end of our being.' Mulle defines sin 'as a turning away from the love of God to self seeking.' All the various forms of sin may be shown to have their root in selfishness.

"Then who is not a sinner if this definition of sin holds,—who is there among us, 'who can say that love to God has been the constant motive of his actions?'

"In proportion as a man progresses in the Christian life does he become conscious of the evil tendencies in his nature. Tholuck on the fiftieth anniversary of his professorship at Halle said to his students, 'In review of God's manifold blessings the thing I seem most to thank Him for is the conviction of sin,' and Sir John Newton was so conscious of his sinful possibilities that when he saw a murderer on his way to execution he said, 'there but for the grace of God goes John Newton.'

"If good men have such a consciousness of their failings and their sins, the absence of such consciousness on the part of other men must indicate the 'blindness which comes through continual transgression.'

"It is said of Edwin Forrest, the actor, that when he was accused of being converted at a certain revival he denied it and said that he had nothing to regret in his life, that his sins had been those of omission rather than commission. He said he would trust in the justice as well as in the mercy of God when His time came to die; yet Forrest we are told was arrogant, licentious and revengeful.

"We know the immoral life of Rousseau yet in his confession he says, 'No man can come to the throne of God and say, 'I am a better man than Rousseau,' ' and yet in his youth Rousseau was a petty thief, in his writings he advocated adultery and suicide. His children were all illegitimate and sent off to foundling asylums as soon as they were born.

"Chief Justice Thompson of Pennsylvania once said, 'If those who preach had been lawyers before entering the ministry, they would know and say far more about the depravity of the human heart than they do. The old doctrine of total depravity is the only thing that can explain the falsehoods, dishonesties, licentiousness and the murders of the world.'

"How then can God pardon sin? Our good resolutions can never blot out the stain of the past. It is true as Pilate said, 'What I have written I have written.' This is true of all a man's acts. A man in his sleeps walks over a precipice and is dashed to pieces. His ignorance of his danger does not save him. A selfish man accumulates a fortune and with it accumulates something else—a spirit of meanness which shackles all the righteousness and benevolence of his nature. A lustful man yields to temptation and thus weakens his will power to resist the next attack.

Nature does not pardon. Nature fastens on the shackles. Our Lord emphasized this truth when, in the parable of the Prodigal Son, the father said to the elder son, 'All that I have is thine.' He did not say this to the younger son for he had spent his part. His constitution had been undermined while he was sowing his wild oats and there was nothing that could restore it.

"What about the forgiveness of sin? I believe in the foregiveness of sins because I believe God is a loving Father. If sin has lead us away from God, Christ take us by the hand and leads us back to Him. A man falls a victim to some dread

MISS WEST BECOMES MRS. RICHARD DUYCKINCK

Miss Nanon West, sister of Mrs. Harry C. Christianson, of Fanwood, and Richard Bancker Duyckinck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead C. Duyckinck, of Crescent avenue, were married at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, at All Saints' church, Fanwood, th Rev. W. R. Mulford, the rector, officiating. The affair was attended by about 150 relatives and friends of the bride and groom.

The bride was gowned in white radium silk, trimmed with lace. She wore a tulle veil fastened with a spray of orange blossoms and carried white sweet peas. She was attended by Mrs. Laurens H. Van Buren, of this city as matron of honor. Her gown was of white embroidered batiste, trimmed with Irish lace. She wore a large hat to match, and carried a bouquet of white and lavendar sweet peas. The bride's sister was gowned in moire chiffon, trimmed with gold passmentrie and blue and wore a picture hat trimmed with tea roses.

The best man was James T. Emott, Jr., of Morristown, and the ushers were Charles H. Stoddard and Charles J. Breck, of New York. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Harry Christianson.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister in Fanwood, where the couple received the congratulations of their relatives and friends. During the evening supper was served. Mrs. Duyckinck was the recipient of a large number of gifts. The bride's gift from the groom was a diamond pendant. The matron of honor received an amethyst and pearl pin, while the best man and ushers were given topaz scarf stick pins.

After a wedding trip of three weeks duration, the bride and groom will take up their residence on Crescent avenue this city. Mrs. Duyckinck has a host of friends both here and at Fanwood. She was a teacher for several years at the Young Ladies' Seminary on West Seventh street, and is a young woman of many accomplishments. The groom is engaged in business in New York. Among the guests at the wedding were many Plainfielders.

WARREN CHAPEL PUPILS MARK CHILDREN'S DAY

Yesterday was Children's Day at Warren Chapel and Sunday school and church congregation merged for its celebration at the morning service. The edifice was beautifully decorated, roses being used in abundance. The program included several selections by the children, and addresses by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, Superintendent E. E. Parvin and Assistant Superintendent J. W. Gavett. Four children were received for Holy baptism, and the rite was performed by Rev. Mr. McKelvey. Thos who were baptized were Hilda Annette Leask, Edna Louise Seader, Herbert Louis Stites and Leslie Martin Stites.

Carols by the infant class of the Sunday school were "Children's Day" and "Birds are Singing." These were in charge of Miss Margaret Swain, the superintendent, and Miss Edna Swain acted as accompanist. There were recitations by Bertha Martin, Henrietta Stewart, Stanley Burner, Helen Terry and little Master VanWinkle, of the infant department. The infant class also sang the offertory and Assistant J. W. Gavett was in charge of the responsive reading, in which the smaller pupils took part.

Mr. McKelvey's talk was to the Sunday school pupils and he summarized the work of the school and its growth in the past year. Mr. Parvin's remarks also alluded to the work in the school, the membership of which has been greatly increased within the year.

Funeral of Mrs. Clawson.

The funeral of Mrs. Jonathan Clawson was held yesterday afternoon at her late home on Brook avenue. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Burial was made at Hillside, the following acting as pall bearers: James Martin, B. D. Newell, Alex Thorn, U. B. Crane, Lewis Barkalew and William Shotwell.

Miss Marion E. Dickinson a Bride.

Announcements have been received here of the marriage on Saturday at Newark, of Miss Marion Estil Dickinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Dickinson, and William Lewis Clarke, all of Newark. The bride was formerly a resident of this city, where her father for many years was engaged in the jewelry business.

BISHOP ANDERSON HERE

One of the New Heads of Methodism Addresses Three United Congregations.

AT THE FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

Rev. A. C. McCrea in Charge of Service—Rev. C. S. Kemble and Rev. O. J. Shoop Assist.

Welcoming Bishop W. F. Anderson to Plainfield, the combined congregations of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, Grace M. E. church and the First Methodist church thronged the First Methodist church to its utmost seating capacity last night on the occasion of his first visit here since his election to the Episcopacy. Bishop Anderson, who comes from Chattanooga, was leader of the college of Bishops in the conference of 1908. His theme was "The Place of Love in the Life of Man" and he proved a powerful, dramatic speaker, possessing great charm of delivery.

Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the church, officiated at the service, of which music was a feature. On the platform with the Bishop and himself were Rev. C. S. Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, and Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church.

In introducing the Bishop, Dr. McCrea took occasion to speak of his pleasure at seeing such a large number in the congregation. "It seems," he said, "that all local Methodists are extending a hearty welcome to the Bishop by being present tonight, and I appreciate the spirit of perfect unity and fraternity thus shown to exist between the Methodist churches."

Bishop Anderson's theme was "The Place of Love in the Life of Man," and his text was taken from John 4: 7-9. At the outset he spoke of God's boundless love to man, and stated that it was exemplified in three ways—as His environment, interpreter and endowment for the life of man. God carefully provides the ideal environment for mankind and things in this world, he said, but the Divine love is just as essential. Society has thus far failed to provide this love as its universal environment, and it is even but partially accepted by Christians. The church, established by the King of Love, is built on the principle of love, and furnishes an atmosphere for dear and lasting friendships in a community. Love is the solution of all the problems of the day.

"He is the best interpreter of life as God meant it," continued Bishop Anderson, in dealing with the second point, "who is the best lover. We can only thoroughly understand those whom we love. 'Love is blind,' we read, but I say that it is only love that sees things in their true light and understands their true relation. A loveless life is a shallow life; let a man shut out love and he is destined always to live on the surface of things. Let love master us, and we begin to see life as God means us to see it. Love is a necessity for any interpretation of God, the Divine Father."

Speaking of love as God's endowment for the life of man, the Bishop said that this is true both on the natural and on the religious side. It is natural for man to love something, he said, and it is the problem of his Christian teachers to lead him to love the right. This phase of love corresponds to the mother instinct in animals. The love of God as Jesus Christ Our Lord is also an endowment. The Christ love, the speaker said, is very broad; it loves the unloving, the unlovely and the unlovable. Love is life. Take from life the inspiration born of love, and there is nothing left.

"Love is not only the greatest thing in the world," Bishop Anderson concluded, "but it is the only thing in the world worth while. With love we have the fullest measure of life here and of the eternal life hereafter."

Union Church Services During July.

An effort is being made to hold union evening services during July in one of the following churches, the other three closing their edifices. The ministers of the different churches wil not occupy their pulpits but will exchange. The churches named are the First Baptist, the First Presbyterian, the First M. E. and Trinity Reformed.

W. J. Buttfield Wins Another Blue.

W. J. Buttfield, of Rockview avenue, who won a blue ribbon on Thursday at the International Horse Show at Olympia, England, with his horses, Miss Westcott and Miss Banahan, won the first prize for trotters on Friday with Miss Banahan.

Mr. and Mrs. V. W. Nash, Jr., returned yesterday from their wedding trip to Niagara Falls and are occupying their apartment in the Mulford biulding on North avenue.

UNION'S SENATOR TELLS OF PARTY'S CONVENTION

State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman returned home last night from Chicago, where last week he attended the National Republican Convention, as a district delegate. He was enthusiastic in his praise of the convention and the ticket placed in nomination. When interviewed by a reporter for The Daily Press this morning, he said that the best of feeling prevailed among the delegates.

"Taft and Sherman combine to make a strong ticket," said Mr. Ackerman. "'Big Bill' and 'Sunny Jim' will appeal to the voters I believe. The platform is both conservative and progressive. As for the nomination of a vice-president, if New York had not gotten together, New Jersey would have been second best."

Mr. Ackerman said that he extended the courtesy to James White, of Elizabeth, an alternate delegate, the privilege of a delegate during the vice-presidential contest, which permitted him to vote for Sherman. He also laid stress on the fact that President Roosevelt, Speaker Cannon, Vice-President Fairbanks and Senators LaFollette and Foraker lost no time in declaring, after the ticket was made, that Taft and Eherman were their choice and that they would do all in their power to elect the ticket in November.

Charles S. Sminck, who is Senator Ackerman's private secretary, also attended the convention. He returned home yesterday, expressing himself today as being much pleased with the result.

FIREMEN WILL CLEAR $1,000 FROM CARNIVAL

The local firemen's big carnival, for the benefit of their pension fund, was concluded Saturday night, after one of the biggest crowds of the entire week had enjoyed the attractions on the Darrow avenue grounds. The showmen and their assistants were kept busy handling the throngs and everybody went away thoroughly satisfied with all they had seen and heard.

While it is a little early yet to give any definite statement regarding the amount the firemen will clear from their effort, it is probable their profit will reach the $1,000 mark. This is beyond what they expected when they took hold of the local end of the carnival.

Saturday night at the grounds was attended by considerable excitement, most of it occasioned in he Ferari animal tent by "Sultan," the man-eating lion. The big beast sprang after Captain Clark as he was leaving the cage at the close of aperformance and lacerted his arm. The trainer slammed and barred the door just in time to escape more serious injury but the sight of blood and the roars of the other animals caused several women in the crowd to faint. They were taken care of by the police.

John Jacobs, a small boy employed by the carnival people, got caught in one of the wings by stepping too close to a support and had the muscles of his right arm torn. He was taken to Dr. Cregar's office and fixed up.

DEATH OF MRS. PEARSON.

Former Well Known Resident Dies at Daughter's Home in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Ellen Child Pearson, wife of John T. Pearson, a former well known resident of this city, died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bird, of Brooklyn. She was in her eightieth year and was the mother of Edward Pearson, of Second place. The family resided for a long time at South and Belvidere avenues and previous to removing to Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Pearson were prominent in local affairs.

The funeral will be held at Mrs. Bird's home Wednesday morning and the body will afterward be brought to this city for burial.

Bock—Gaddis Nuptials.

Miss Margaret Gaddis, daughter of Mrs. Louisa Gaddis, of Regent street, was the bride of Fred Bock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bock, of East Sixth street at a quiet wedding performed at the Warren Chapel parsonage by Rev. J. O. McKelvey at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The wedding was a quiet affair, only relatives and immediate friends of the couple being present. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gaddis acted at the attendants. The bride was gowned in Copenhagen blue, with hat and gloves to match. Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's mother, on Regent street. The couple will reside on Summit avenue.

Miss Mary Compton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Halstead Compton, of West Front street, is stopping for a time at Point Pleasant.

K. OF P. MEMORIAL SERVICE

Local Lodges Unite in Public Exercises at New Plainfield Theatre.

ADDRESS BL REV. DeW. C. COBB.

Uniformed Rank Decorates Graves of Departed Brothers at Afternoon Services.

Departing from the usual custom of conducting exercises semi-privately in remembrance of departed members, the Knights of Pythias lodges of the city united in a public memorial service last night. It was held in the New Plainfield theatre and was attended by nearly 1,000 people, although weather conditions were in opposition to indoor gatherings.

The members of the two organizations, Perseverance, No. 74, and Unity, No. 102, together with the uniformed rank, Crescent company, No. 13, occupied special seats in the front of the orchestra. The officers of the lodges, several visiting grand officers and special guests, occupied seats on the stage, attractively decorated for the occasion with palms and cut flowers by Carl Peterson. An instrumental trio, piano, violin and 'cello, in charge of Charles M. Suhr, rendered several selections and vocal numbers were given by a quartet composed of Mrs. Sellick, Miss Mary Collier, Charles L. Lewis and Alfred Hackett. Solos were also given by Mrs. Sellick and Mr. Hackett.

The address of the evening was given by Rev. DeWitt C. Cobb, of Salem, one of the best known Pythians in the state and the author of the burial and memorial service used by the uniformed rank throughout the country. He is an orator of exceptional ability and his discourse last night, based on the Pythian principles, friendship, charity and benevolence, made a deep impression on the audience. Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, offered prayer at the opening of the service and pronounced the benediction.

The committee in charge of the arrangements was composed of V. W. Nash, Jr., chairman; B. J. Schreiner, Manning F. Gano, J. B. Higgins, Robert H. Loughlin, John R. H. Hall, George W. Clark and Samuel J. Robinson.

The uniformed rank conducted its exercises over the graves of departed brothers, as in former years, during the afternoon. Crescent company was joined by P. Frank Shanley company, of Rahway, and a delegation from Rathbone company, of Brooklyn, the latter having a member buried in the Plainfield avenue cemetery. The visitors were met at the North avenue station at 1:45 and the procession afterward moved to the respective burial grounds, the Independent Fife and Drum corps leading. North Plainfield and the Plainfield avenue cemeteries were visited first after which the Knights went to Hillside and Scotch Plains by special trolley.

Captain John H. R. Hall was in command of the companies and he was assisted by his regular staff. The visitors were entertained at dinner following the exercises.

SPRING TERM EXERCISES AT GROSZMANN SCHOOL.

The spring term exercises of the Groszmann School for Nervous and Atypical Children, were held at the school at "Watchung Crest," Saturday afternoon. The gymnasium was decorated with cut flowers and ferns, while the stage front was executed in the school colors, maroon and white, offset with gold.

Several speakers addressed the audience, including Dr. Groszmann, Mrs. William M. Sandford, Jr., president of the Plainfield Mothers' Association; George W. V. Moy and Dr. Adolph Meyer, chief of the pathological department of the New York City Insane Asylum on Wards Island.

Following the speeches the pupils gave two dramatizations, "Princet and the Golden Blackbird," and "The Vision of Sir Launfal," and in addition there were gymnatic exercises and several drills, all of which were given in an excellent manner. Miss Elizabeth E. Farrell and Dr. Stephen S. Wise, of New York, who were expected to speak, were prevented by other engagemnts.

Miss Cathryn Mhelan Weds.

Announcement is made of the wedding of Cathryn Whelan, of 547 West Fifth street, and John McDonald, of Cranford, on Wednesday afternoon, June 24, at 5 o'clock at St. Mary's church.

TIMBO CLUB'S OUTING PROVES A BIG SUCCESS

Atlantic City, the greatest sea shore resort on the Jersey coast, sat up and took notice, yesterday morning, when 200 members and friends of the Timbo Social Club arrived at the Reading terminal in a special vestibuled train. The occasion was the fifth annual outing of the popular organization and it proved to be far more successful than any of its predecessors. Mayor Stoy received the pleasure-seekers at their entrance to town and after a cordial welcome to one and all, gave them "the keys to the city."

The run down to the resort was made in record time by Engineer "Puck" Dunham, of Dunellen. The train left the North avenue station at 7:45 and reached the terminal at 10:38. One stretch of thirty-one miles below Winslow Junction was covered in twenty-five minutes. The Timobites spent the day in enjoying the multitudinous attractions along the boardwalk, following an excellent course dinner at the Islesworth hotel. Just previous to the dining hour the entire delegation was photographed in a group for a picture that will adorn the club room.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stranzenbach, former well known Plainfielders who now occupy a cosy cottage in North Virginia avenue, kept open house for the visitors during the afternoon and many of the excursionists called to extend greetings. The host and hostess were assisted in entertaining by James Conway and Frank McIntyre, both of this city, who are spending the summer at the shore. All are looking good and corroborate the reports that Atlantic City air is revivifying.

The start for home was made at 10:15 last night and Plainfield was reached at 1:35 this morning. The train stopped both ways at Westfield, Elizabeth, Perth Amboy and Red Bank for the purpose of picking up friends of the club at those points.

The club committee in charge of arrangements comprised William Doud, Thomas Timbo, H. P. Greenwood, E. Y. Neighbor, James Conway and Archie Davie.

TROLLEY SCHEDULE HAS BEEN CHANGED

Netherwood trolley cars began this morning to run from the Netherwood station to Grant avenue and West Front street, and an extra car has been put on the line in order to allow for this schedule.

Another innovation in the system today is the abolishment of the central trolley stand at Watchung avenue, for years known as the "trolley depot." Arlington avenue cars now reverse the pole at Fourth street and Watchung avenue and al other cars pass by the stand after a moment's pause for railroad passengers. Between 11 and 3 o'clock, the Netherwood cars also reverse the pole at Fourth street and Watchung avenue, where the transfer point now is. Transfers will, however, be accepted at any point on the line between Somerset street and Front street and Watchung avenue and Fourth street.

The Fourth-Somerset street line suffers by the change, for a car has been taken off, and the schedule time for a round trip is now forty-five minutes instead of thirty. There was confusion during the early runs of the day, and lots of interrogation as to the new system, but the cars are running on good schedule this afternoon. The old schedule of running the last car to Netherwood has not been restored.

Mrs. Emma M. Hull.

Mrs. Emma M. Hull, widow of William H. H. Hull, died early this morning at the home of her son, Nelson Y. Hull, of East Second street. Heart trouble, from which she had long been as ufferer, was the cause of death. Mrs. Hull was born in this State in 1844 and had lived in Plainfield for forty years. She was a member of the First M. E. church and had been active in the work of its societies. Beside her son, the only near relative is a sister, Mrs. O. W. Schlereth, of Jersey City. The funeral will be held at Mr. Hull's home, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

In the City Court.

The following cases were disposed of in the city court this morning: John Pemppies, arrested by Patrolman Nolan, for disorderly conduct, fined $5; Frank Sheelein, drunkenness, $5 or twenty days; Jose Salve, of Raritan, arrested by Chief Kiely for disorderly conduct at the carnival grounds, sentence suspended.

DEDICATE A NEW CHURCH

Bishop McFaul and Other Catholic Dignitaries Take Part in Ceremony.

FATHER MORRIS PREACHER.

Visiting Priests from All Parts of Diocese at South Plainfield—Bishop Makes Address.

Attended by hundreds of devout Catholics from this city, Dunellen, South Plainfield and New Brunswick, the recently completed Sacred Heart church at South Plainfield was formally dedicated with impressive ceremonies by Bishop McFaul of the Trenton diocese yesterday morning. Visiting clergymen from all parts of the diocese were in attendance and the Holy Name societies of St. Mary's church, St. Joseph's church and St. John's church, of Dunellen, marched to the new edifice. There were about 150 in the parade, including a delegation of Hungarian Catholics from South Plainfield, in full regalia, with a band. A mammoth American flag was carried by the four corners at the head of the procession, and following it was the St. John's Holy Name Society of St. John's church, carrying a large, new banner.

Solemn high mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Farley, of St. John's church, Jersey City. He was formerly Father Smith's assistant at St. Mary's church. The deacon of the mass was Father Miller, of St. Joseph's and the sub-deacon Father Dettrich, of Bound Brook. Deacons of honor were Father Bogan of St. Mary's and Rev. Dr. Griffin, of Trenton, secretary to Bishop McFaul. The full choir of St. Mary's church rendered solemn mass with quartet and chorus. Miss Mary Agnes Smith, organist of St. Mary's church, was at the organ.

The speaker of the occasion was Rev. Father Morris, of Atlantic Highlands, who preached the dedication sermon. He spoke of the fitness of the new building as a place for the worship of the community. "The mind of man," he said, "has always looked out for the expression of religious impulses, even from the remote days of idol worship. The spirit of sacredness and loyalty to religion showed itself strongest in the erection of the beautiful temple by King Soloman."

The speaker's discourse dwelt especially on the real presence of the Eucharist. This real presence of the Son of God in the sacrament, he said, is either a fact or a fancy. If it is a fact, the reasonablness of the adoration follows, for the object of adoration is God only, according to the Catholic belief. For this reason, Father Morris said that in behalf of the Real Presence no structure is too handsome to house the Host. Concluding his sermon, he dwelt particularly on the spirit of the community which prompted the erection of the church, congratulating the congregation upon the realization of their desire.

Bishop McFaul spoke a few words of congratulation to the community at the conclusion of the solemn mass. He referred to the completion of the church at a great triumph and heartily thanked those who had given help and gifts for their co-operation. He spoke particularly of the generosity of P. J. McDonough, of South Plainfield, donor of the altar.

At the conclusion of the dedication service, the visiting priests were entertained at dinner at the home of Father Dunphy, in charge of St. John's church, Dunellen. Covers were laid for ten. Father Dunphy is temporarily in charge of the new church, and will conduct his first mass at Dunellen every Sunday and a second at the church of the Sacred Heart. The building was begun last November and was erected at a cost of about $7,000. It is a frame edifice with a foundation of brick and concrete.

Praches at Trinity.

Rev. Robert J. Hogan, of Schnectady, New York, exchanged pulpits with the temporary pastor, Rev. Dr. Johnson, at Trinity Reformed church yesterday, delivered scholarly sermons at the two services. Many pleasant words were spoken of the Schnectady divine by members of the congregation who thoroughly enjoyed his instructive discourses. Mr. Hogan has a most pleasing personality.

Franklin Matthews' Visit.

Franklin Matthews, of the New York Sun, who wen around South America from Hampton Roads to San Francisco, with Admiral "Bob" Evans, as the representative of the Sun, was the guest yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Runyon. Mr. Matthews will rejoin the fleet in San Francisco next week and accompany it in its coming globe encircling voyage.

On suspicion of being the man who struck Henry Addison, colored, on the head with a brick, causing his death, near Wilmington, Del., Glesipe Biscito was arrested in Camden last night by Policeman Troncone. He answers the description of the man wanted.

Nineteen graduates received diplomas at the annual commencement of the Millville High School, which was held Friday evening in the First Methodist Episcopal church. The address to the class was delivered by Dr. David B. Corson, assistant superintendent of Newark public schools.

Mrs. John H. Chew's suit for alimony against her husband, a former leading merchant of Camden, was not aired in the Camden Chancery Court Saturday, the case being settled in private. Chew is to pay his wife $6 weekly and her counsel fees and the costs of the suit.

While playing in a field the four-year-old son of Charles Starch, of Deerfield, was seriously gored by a bull. His mother, hearing the screams of her son, ran to the field nearby and fought the animal with a broom and rescued the child, who was badly bruised and cut, but, it is thought, will recover.

An hour before John Crowthers, eighty years old, was buried in the potter's field, Camden, yesterday, a stranger called at the office of morgue-keeper O'Brien and said that until about 1880 the aged man had all that money could secure. Domestic unhappiness drove him from England to Philadelphia, where he managed to eke out a miserable existence and ended his life by jumping overboard a few days ago.

LEAVE FOR ENGLAND.

Major and Mrs. Martin Sailed Saturday on Steamer St. Louis.

Major William B. Martin, of the Second Regiment, with Mrs. Martin, sailed Saturday morning from New York on the steamship St. Louis for England, as a member of the American Rifle Team representing this country at the Olympic shoot in Bisley. A large crowd assembled at the pier to bid the members of the team farewell. Many Elizabeth and Plainfield people, friends of the major, were among the crowd. Major Martin left Elizabeth at 7 o'clock Friday night for New York, meeting the other members of the team in the Hotel York, where final plans for the trip were perfected. He was joined there Saturday morning by Mrs. Martin. Just before the major left Elizabeth his office in Broad street was crowded with friends including several of his fellow officers of the Second Regiment. On arriving at Bisley the team will immediately begin practice, and will be on the range every day until the opening of the match, July 9.

PITTENGER PREDICTS GREATER ASBURY PARK.

Asbury Park, June 22.—at the annual dinner of the Asbury Park Hotel Keepers' Association, George W. Pittenger, president of the local Board of Trade, made a plea for a better class of hotels for Asbury Park. He predicted that in a short time Loch Arbor and other resorts north would be annexed to Asbury Park, and that the greater city would extend from Elberon, on the north, to Shark River, on the south. With more modern hotels the city would not be excelled by any other summer resort on the New Jersey coast.

H. E. Deneger, another speaker, urged the hotel men to further the scheme of a modern convention hall, in order that Asbury Park may have its share of National conventions.

—Walter Heidloff, who has resided on Allen place for the past few years, has sold his house to James Fleming, proprietor of the Union Meat Market on Somerset street, and formerly of Grandview avenue. Mr. Heidloff has purchased for himself a new home on Westervelt avenue, where he will reside in the future.

Eastern National League clubs were idle yesterday, no games being scheduled in this section. Some of the players participated in exhibition games, which were witnessed by thousands of spectators.

It is announced that the official count of the attendance at the game Saturday between Chicago and New York shows it to have been the largest on record, exceeding the number present at the game in the world's championship series between the Giants and the Athletics.

When the New York team departed from St. Louis for the East Fred Glade, the pitcher, remained behind. He was traded to New York by St. Louis and has not been in very good condition to work during the season. His reason for leaving the team was not made public.

Charley Malay, who played at Westfield and Scotch Plains a few years ago and has since been in fast company, is now with the Buffalo Eastern League Club.

Manager Bogart Conklin, of Somerville, is trying to engage "Phil" Smith as a regular pitcher for the season. He would make a good slab artist for the West Ends.

Crandall, of the New York Giants, has been about the most effective pitcher against the Chicagos, this season. He defeated the Cubs in Chicago and again at the Polo Grounds on Friday.

Baseball fans are the most fickle people in the world, especially is this true as regards the big league games. One minute a player is a hero and the next the crowd yells to have him taken out of the game. In a recent game in New York, George Wiltse retired the opposing side in one two three order and he was promptly hailed as a hero. In the next inning a couple of hits were secured off his delivery and the crowd persisted in his removal from the box.

The admirers of the Yankees have ceased offering excuses for the poor playing of Clark Griffith's aggregation, because there is no explanation to cover the case. The team has plenty of high-class players for every other position, but as a fan remarked recently, "they have the faculty of always doing the wrong thing at the right time." It is predicted that "Billy" Murray, now with the Philadelphia Nationals, will be the manager at the American League Park next season.

The Somerville fans have a feeling that Clinton Avenue is a little too strong for the West Ends. The score of the first game between the teams does not show much preference. The luck was with the Plainfield boys in that contest and everything broke right for them.

The West Ends, of Somerville, will be here on Saturday, July 11, and the fans are looking forward to a fine game with Clinton Avenue. Somerville will, as usual, be accompanied by a big crowd of rooters.

GOLF.

There is much to be said in favor of team matches in golf, yet neither the Plainfield Country Club or the Park Golf Club go strong on them. Last season the Parks did play two or three matches with Bound Brook, and there was one or two such competitions at the County Club.

There is scarcely a Saturday when a team match could not be played at either one of the local clubs. Many of the best players are on the links and it is not difficult to make up a team.

The fact that any member of the Park Golf Club can challenge the holder for anyone of the challenge trophies now in competition, has a tendency to increase the interest. Thus far this season the course has been crowded every Saturday with contestants either for the challenge trophies or cups in the weekly competitions.

Now that the regular house committee at the Plainfield Country Club has been enlarged by the appointment of several women, the members expect that there will be something doing in the social line. As chairman, Willard Wadsworth is planning a number of functions. The excellent service at the clubhouse restaurant is a big feature.

Thus far this season no attempt has been made to break the Cranford Golf Club course record, but it is said that some of the crack players will soon undertake the task.

In addition to the attractive schedule of golf events at the Westfield Golf Club, the social affairs at the clubhouse are a feature this season. Every Saturday night there is an attractive program to interest the members and friends.

POLITICS IN ELIZABETH.

Assembly Question Enters Into Councilmanic Probabilities to Be Settled Next Fall.

Elizabeth, June 22.—Recent announcements of probable changes in the make-up of the City Council have given rise to an early discussion of the political affairs of this city in connection with probable results in the fall campaign. The intention of Councilman John K. English, of the Eleventh Ward, and minority leader, to withdraw, as well as the news that Councilmen Ahearn, of the Third Ward, and Kennedy, of the Second, will retire, because they expect to move from their respective wards, indicates that at least three new members will take seats in City Council next year.

John R. Covington is out for two offices, both at once. His friends in the Covington Social Club are primarily booming him for Assembly, to succeed John R. Moxon, who will fight for renomination. If Covington misses the Assembly mark, his friends have decreed that he shall run for Councilman, to succeed Mr. English.

The Assembly question enters into councilmanic politics in another district also. A. W. Schwartz, Republican representative of the Twelfth Ward, is out for Moxon's scalp. Should success attend his candidacy Council will lose an aspirant for leader of the minority. President Collin's candidacy for Mayor, now an assured fact, may turn up the most interesting councilmanic situation of all, for Councilman from the Fourth Ward, but a lively fight for the presidency of the aldermanic body.

STRIKE PETERING OUT.

Less Than Forty Masons and Bricklayers of Elizabeth Now Out of Work.

Elizabeth, June 22.—The strike of masons and bricklayers in Elizabeth which has been in progress since April 1, is gradually petering out. There are about one hundred and thirty masons and bricklayers in this city, and of this number less than forty are now out of work. Several of the smaller bosses have given in to the strikers' demands, while forty of the latter have obtained employment in the construction of the big plant of the Standard Oil Company now being erected in Linden Township.

The striking carpenters have won a partial victory by the surrender of Contractor Michael Byrnes to the demands of the carpenters' union. Mr. Byrnes employs the largest number of men of any building contractor in Elizabeth. Because of his action in yielding to the strikers he has incurred the wrath of the other members of the Master Builders' Association, of which he was one of the organizers. The association at a meeting held on Wednesday night decided to drop Byrnes from its membership roll and, it is said, will endeavor to boycott him as much as possible.

KILLED BY CAVE-IN.

"Post-card Man" Smothered to Death by Sand and Loam.

Before the eyes of his aged and widowed mother, with whom he lived and whose support he was, Norman V. McClure, 28 years old, was smothered to death Friday afternoon at Toms River by the caving in of a well. He was buried beneath tons of sand and loam, and it took one hour and thirty-five minutes to dig out the hole and bring his body to the surface. His mother, after giving the alarm, became prostrated from the shock.

McClure was a graduate of the Toms River High School and was known all over Ocean county as "the post-card man." He was a photographer and traveled about the county taking photographs at the various summer and winter resorts and reproducing the scenes upon souvenir post cards.

Scheme Revealed By Mortgage.

What is believed by some to be an alleged fradulent scheme is behind the filing of a mortgage for $350,000 in the county clerk's office at Mt. Holly. The mortgage is given as security for an issue of bonds and covers among other things a number of building lots worth about 25 cents each, in Burlington county, in the pine district known as North Tuckerton, a hotbed of green flies and mosquitoes.

STONE ROADS.

Proposals are asked for the construction of a Macadam Road on Terrill Road, which is the dividing line between the City of Plainfield and the Borough and Township of Fanwood, Union County, New Jersey, from Green Brook to South Avenue.

The length of the roadway between said points is about 5,495 lineal feet. The width of the stonework is sixteen (16) feet.

Earth excavation, 7708 cubic yards.

Extra earth excavation for embankment, 4,054 cubic yards.

Eight inch macadam, 9587.2 square yards.

Six inch underdrains, 0.

Plans, profiles and specifications for this work may be examined at the office of the County Engineer, 201 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Bidders must enclose with their bids a certified check for $1,000.00, made payable to the Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., as a guarantee that if the contract be awarded to such bidder, the bidder will enter into an agreement with the Board of Chosen Freeholders for the performance of the work according to the specifications.

Bids for the above described work will be received and opened by the County Road Committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, New Jersey, at the Court House, Elizabeth, N. J., at 2:30 p. m., on Friday, July 3, 1908.

The said Board of Chosen Freeholders or its Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, as they may deem best for the interests of the county.

DEMOCRATIC PAPERS BOLT.

Greatly to their credit, not a single daily of any standing in Greater New York will support William Jennings Bryan should he be nominated at Denver next month. The Democratic papers there as in other great centres are doing their best to defeat his selection but as that ambition seems hopeless they have already announced their purpose of extending to him neither aid nor comfort during the forthcoming campaign.

A most aggressive fight has been waged by The World, which has conclusively shown that a third campaign for Bryan would mean a fourth successive disaster at a Presidential election. And now the Brooklyn Eagle courageously declares that it will have nothing to do with Bryan or Bryanism. The Eagle thus declares its position:

"For Mr. Bryan on no platform whatever will the Eagle be.

"For Mr. Bryan under no circumstances whatever will the Eagle be.

"For no platform and for no candidate whatever of Mr. Bryan's making or prescription will the Eagle be.

"The Eagle neither waited for Chicago to say the foregoing nor is it waiting for Denver to qualify the foregoing.

"It is but reiterated here and now to enable the Tribune to be under no doubt whatever on the subject.

"The Eagle is historically and logically Democratic, wholly anti-Bryan and wholly- anti-Populist."

"As goes New York, so goes the Union," for years has been a Presidential election maxim. If the rule holds good this November there need be no anxiety about Mr. Taft's chances. Without a spokesman in Gotham, the Nebraskan is in a sad plight, but no worse than he deserves.

Certainly the New York Journal is "eminently respectable" so far as its political policy is concerned when compared to the New York Sun. Its vicious and malicious attacks on the President of these United States cannot fail to merit the condemnation of the most rabid Roosevelt-hater.

Results of Play at Plainfield Country Club and Park Golf Club.

SOME GOOD SCORES MADE.

Qualifying Round for Club Championship and Competition for Handicup Cups.

The event of special interest at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday was the qualifying round for the club championship, first and second best eight scores to count. There was a large field in the competition and the scores were unusually close. W. Lester Glenney and his brother, Will T. Glenney returned the best score an 81 among the first eight to qualify. Those who qualified are as follows:

First eight—Will T. Glenney, 81; W. Lester Glenney, 81; C. B. Morgan, 84; Arthur Murphy, 85; Frank O. Reinhart, 87; Roger F. Murray, 89; H. D. Hibbard, 90; Stuart H. Patterson, 90.

Second eight—C. C. Burke, Sr., 92; W. D. Riggs, 93; Percy H. Stewart, 95; L. A. Chase, 97; George E. Cathcart, 98; Julius E. Erickson, 99; C. E. Halsted, 99; R. G. Morse, 99.

The first round match play will be the attraction next Saturday and the pairing are as follows:

First eight—Frank O. Reinhart and Arthur Murphy; Roger F. Murray and H. D. Hibbard; C. B. Morgan and W. Lester Glenney; Wi T. Glenney and Stuart H. Patterson. Second eight—George E. Cathcart and Percy H. Stewart; L. A. Chase and C. E. Halsted; R. G. Morse and W. D. Riggs; C. C. Burke, Sr., and Julius E. Erickson.

In the competition for the Spring Handicap cups, Classes A and B, the best cards were as follows:

Class A—Will T. Glenney, 81, 9-72; Stuart H. Patterson, 90, 17-73; Arthur Murphy, 8T5, 10-75; C. B. Morgan, 84, 7-77; W. Lester Glenney, 81, 4-77; C. C. Burke, Sr., 92, 15-77; Roger F. Murray, 89,12-77; Frank O. Reinhart, 87, 4-83.

There was continuation of play at the Park Glof Club, Saturday, for the challenge trophies, in addition to the regular weekly competition. The course was in fine condition and there was a large field out to enjoy the game. For the Hydewood Park cup, Charles B. Morse, challenger, defeated Walter C. McNaughton, holder, by 4 up and 2 to play; for trophy number two, W. R. Faber, holder, defeated Dr. A. W. Anderson, challenger, by 5 up and 3 to play; for trophy number four, Leon R. Thurlow, challenger, defeated W. V. Byard, holder, by 6 up and 5 to play.

The best scores returned for the President's, Golf Club and Summer cups were as follows:

W. R. Faber, 97, 15-82; A. W. Kenworthy, 100, 17-83; Charles B. Morse, 98, 14-84; Leon R. Thurlow, 99, 11-88; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 100, 11-89; Miss Lydia Loizeaux, 115, 23-92; E. A. Gano, 101, 8-93; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 103, 7-96; W. V. Byard, 107, 11-96; Walter C. McNaughton, 115, 16-99.

STATE TENNIS FINALS STOPPED BY DARKNESS

Darkness interrupted the final round of play in the men's doubles tennis tournament for the East Jersey title at the Country Club courts Saturday afternoon, when W. B. Cragin, Jr., and Willard Wadsworth opposed R. A. West and Dean Mathey, of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club for the title. The teams were about even and the match ran to four sets, each pair capturing two. At the end of the fourth set it was impossible to see the ball and the players have agreed to make a date to play over the entire match, best three sets out of five. The Plainfield team lost the first set, 4-6, won the second, 7-5, lost the third, 7-9, and won the last, 6-1. Darkness greatly hampered the play of the Elizabeth pair in the last set.

Wylie Brown and C. M. Chapo were put out of the tourney in the semi-final round by the Elizabeth pair. They lost in straight sets, 6-0 and 6-3. In the other half of the semi-finals, W. B. Cragin, Jr., and Willard Wadsworth, won from H. J. Cochran and A. D. Beers in straight sets, 6-3 and 6-2. These two teams are both composed of Country Club players.

The mixed double tournament in the East Jersey Association match is still unfiinished. An effort was made to complete the tournament, of which semi-final and final rounds still remained to be played, Friday, although but a single match was played. In this Miss Edna Wildey and W. B. Cragin, P. C. C. C., beat Mrs. S. F. Weaver and Will Barlow, Jr., Park Club, 6-1, 7-5 and 6-2. The match was played at the Park Club courts. In the other half of the emi-finals, Miss Mildred Wildey and C. M. Crapo will meet Mrs. A. H. Church and M. S. Charlock, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, and the winner of this match will play Miss Wildey and Cragin for the title.

With these two tournaments still unfinished lies a possibility of a total of fourteen points for the Country Club players. As runners-up in the two tournaments, teams in the men's doubles and mixed doubles have already won four of these points, and five points will be awarded to the team winning each tournament. The Elizabeth Town and Country club is putting up a hard fight for these points and the East Jersey trophy will either go to Plainfielders or wielders of the racket from "Betsytown."

The Misses Wildey, Mrs. S. F. Weaver and Dean Mathey are entered in the National tennic tournament, which starts at Philadelphia tomorrow and continues throughout the week, and this will delay the mixed doubles. The men's singles in the East Jersey tourney begin Saturday at Elizabeth, and as several local players are entered, the date of the conclusion of the two unfinished tournaments is as yet uncertain.

FATHER-IN-LAW HAS HIS NEW SON-IN-LAW ARRESTED.

Mike Pelligran, a resident of the Italian colony on Richmond street, appeared in the city court, this morning, as complainant against his son-in-law, George Fatrouros, the Greek fruit dealer. Testimony brought out the fact that a scuffle enused between the two on East Front street last Monday morning because of Pelligran's displeasure at Fatouros running away with his daughter, Mary Pelligran, the day previous and marrying her at Asbury Park.

The father said he didn't want the defendant for a son-in-law and he refused to believe that a ceremony had been performed. He called both Mr. and Mrs. Fatouros harsh names after they had shown him a wedding certificate and in his anger the bridegroom gave the old man a shove or two that upset him. He was not hurt physically but his feelings were injured and he went to the police.

Pelligran failed to make out a case after the matter was thoroughly aired and the complaint was dismissed. The father-in-law and his not-wanted son-in-law were advised to keep a good distance from each other unless they could reach an agreement over family visits.

Mrs. James E. Martine, of Kensington avenue, accompanied by Miss Katharine Duncan, of Newark, will leave Monday for Bailey's Island, Maine, where they will occupy a cottage for the summer months. Mr. Martine will be absent in the West, during which time he will attend the National Democratic convention to be held at Denver in July.

A. G. HOOLEY'S DOGS CAPTURE MORE PRIZES

The Meadowview Kennels, owned by Abram G. Hooley, of North Plainfield, was a keen competitor at Cedarhurst Kennel Club show held at Lawrence, L. I., Saturday and as in several previous shows the entries won a great many first prizes. This was the second largest outdoor show in America, being excelled only by the one at Wissahickon, Philadelphia.

The Meadowview Kennels won the following prizes with Meadowview Earl: First, limit class; first, open dogs bred in the United States and Canada; first, open dogs or bitches bred by exhibitor; first, open dogs; first, winners dogs and Lady Allister won first; open class, bred in the United States and Canada; first open, bitches; first, winners, bitches; winning also first brace stakes and cup for best brace of any kennel of setters and cup for the best English setter in show with Lady Allister and cup for best English setter bred in the United States or Canada, making in all three cups, six blue ribbons, two winners and three specials. The dogs were judged by the dean of setter judges, Mayor J. M. Taylor, of Rutherford.

FLAT ROBBED BY SNEAK THIEF.

Apartment of William B. Sharp Entered and Several Articles of Jewelry Taken.

While the family of William B. Sharp was absent from their apartment in the Stillman building, Saturday afternoon, a sneak thief gained entrance by using a skeleton key and ransacked the rooms for valuables. According to a report furnished the police the following jewelry were taken: A hunting case watch, three rings, a signet, sapphire and a gold band; a gold belt buckle, a gold locket and chain and small gold pins. The theft was committed some time between 2 and 6 o'clock.

The matter has been placed in the hands of Detective-Sergeant John Flynn, who is conducting an investigation.

Edward T. Wilson and family, of Sycamore avenue, have been spending a few days at Point of Woods, L. I.

Mrs. George W. Neff, of Fairview avenue, left yesterday for Maryland, where she will spend several weeks visiting relatives.

Miss Anna Rafferty, of Sandford avenue, a student at St. Elizabeth's College at Madison, is home for her summer vacation.

disease, the disease takes hold of his physical being and his life is in danger but a skilled physician applies restorative remedies, the progress of the disease is arrested and the man is started in the opposite direction. Christ is the Great Physician who does that very thing for the human soul. 'Forgiveness is not the reestablishment of health, it is the crisis of convalescence.' The sinner is pardoned that he may grow in spiritual health, pardoned that his soul may be fully restored. Forgiveness is not therefore complete salvation but the beginning of it. Salvation then is the process of restoration after Christ with His forgiveness has started us in the right path.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINFIELD AND FANWOOD.

Funeral services of Mrs. Adelia West, who died at her home in Newark on Wednesday afternoon, will be held from the Mount Pleasant Cemetery chapel this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. West suffered a paralytic stroke on Tuesday, owing to her advanced age but little hopes were entertained for her recovery. Her friends, both here and the borough, where she resided for many years, regret to learn of her death, as her many admirable qualities endeared her to all.

Owing to Baldwin being out of the game with a sprained ankle, Manager Alberts was obliged to play Jahn at short Saturday afternoon. Although Jahn's place has always been behind the bat, still he filled the position well, accepting every chance without an error. Baldwin's stick work, however, was missed, as he can generally be depended upon to line out a hit when it is needed.

The Uniform Rank, K. of P., of Plainfield, decorated the graves of the departed members of the order who are buried in the Baptist cemetery yesterday afternoon. The Knights were accompanied by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, the trip being made by special trolley.

The pulpit of the Baptist church was occupied yesterday by Rev. Mr. Richmond, of Jamica, L. I. The pulpit committee have not as yet decided upon a regular pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Muir, of Newark, spent the week end with Mrs. Muir's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Meyer.

The closing night of the Firemen's Carnival at Plainfield Saturday night was attended by a big representation from here.

The members of the Epworth League held their weekly meeting last night in the class rooms of the church.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held last night in the parlors of the church.

Mrs. Augusta Miller, of Front street, entertained friends from out of town Sunday.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The police stopped George Stillmore, of Newark, drving through Dunellen from Newark to Somerville yesterday because of the exhausted condition of his horse. The animal was completely "tuckered out" and seemed on the point of dropping in the harness. Stillmore was formally arrested on the charge of cruelty, but was later released on his own recognizance and after he had rested his horse, was allowed to proceed on the trip.

Funeral services of Mrs. Theodore W. Day, wife of T. W. Day, were held at her late home last evening at 6:30 o'clock. Rev. W. W. Casselberry officiated, and in connection with the service the Presbyterian church choir rendered two hymns,—"Lead Kindly Light" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." The body was removed to the Cypress Hills cemetery, L. I., today for interment.

Members of Mr. Chichester's Sunday school class of the Presbyterian church, organized as a baseball nine, defeated the ball team of A. F. Todd's class by a score of 10-8 Saturday afternoon on the old ball grounds. The game was closely contested throughout and a large delegation of the Sunday school pupils and teachers cheered from the side lines.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Sofield spent Sunday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. William H. Tabb, of West Brighton, Staten Island. Mrs. Sofield will spend the week there and before her return will visit at the home of Mrs. Fred A. Nelson, of New York city.

There has been a large advance sale of tickets for the Dunellen A. C., smoker to be held tonight at Jr. O. U. A. M. hall. The novel program, including boxing, wrestling and "gym stunts" has assured the success of the affair.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Yesterday evening the Baptist church people held their Children's Day exercises and the attendance taxed the capacity of the auditorium. The exercises were of a high order and were thoroughly enjoyed by all those present. A large proportion of the credit is due to Mrs. W. H. Manning, Miss Nellie Manning and Mrs. David Bigley. Frank Kellogg occupied the central chair.

The Plainfield "Tigers" drove to the village, jubilant, on Saturday afternoon. They returned otherwise later in the day; 15 to 9 was the score, and the locals made the 15.

Mr. William Voorhees and family have returned to Brooklyn after a pleasant week end visit with Mr. and Mrs. O. Thorne.

Mrs. W. Pace, of Front street, is suffering with quinsey sore throat.

Harrison A. C. Win Two Games.

The Harrison A. C. defeated the Independent A. C. of the borough Saturday afternoon by a score of 3 to 2. Yesterday morning the Harrison A. C. defeated Plainfield Stars by a score of 20 to 2.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR DEPARTED EAGLES

In touching tribute to the members who have died since the formation of the organization in this city eight years ago, a full turnout of members of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, held solemn memorial services at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon Grand Sir Herald Horace J. Martin, Sr., presided at the service, and the speakers were Past Grand Chief Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan and Rev. Ora J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church. The occasion was marked by special singing by a quartet consisting of Miss S. E. Raybert, Miss Winifred Carroll, E. D. Young and Carlos C. Gallup. Arthur L. Titsworth, organist of Trinity Reformed church, presided at the piano.

In a brief address previous to the introduction of Mr. Shoop, the principal speaker, Dr. Buchanan spoke of the fundamental object of the order as being to teach the Knights to lead better lives and to help their brothers. He upheld as parallel the principles of Christian love and Christian knighthoood. In referring to the lives of the five knights who have died since the local castle was founded, the Past Grand Chief took occasion to dwell especially upon the bravery and self-sacrifice of Vincent Gulick, the young motorman who stuck to his post when his car left the rails on East Front street five years ago and crashing into a post, killed him instantly, as he stood trying to check its speed.

Rev. Ora J. Shoop spoke upon the preparation for the life to come. He emphasized the mystery of death and spoke of the value of optimism, urging his hearers to secure peace by a happy adjustment of men and things in this world and the world to come. Immortality, he said, is accepted by the Christian as an article of faith, without argument, and he went on to say that this should be the attitude of the Christian Knight.

Life he defined as a blending of sorrow and pleasure, and he said that the successful man moulded his life to the theory that his career was full of the privileges of rare opportunity. Hereafter men have what they develop in their earthly life, for although earthly forms perish, men carry their characters with them, immortal, even as is the soul. The man who has hated himself and his environment in life, will have just such an attitude toward things in the hereafter. Just as the character of man is in life, just so is his soul attitude toward the hereafter.

Horace J. Martin, Sr., Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, E. D. Young, Walter H. Butz and Louis M. Hummer, who formed the committee in charge of the memorial service, acted as a detail to decorate the graves of the dead Knights, and visited the graves in the morning for this purpose.

THE INDETERMINATE SENTENCE

The indeterminate sentence, the probation system, and the juvenile court are established features of the modern penal system. The beneficience of these new methods of dealing with crime is rarely called in question nowadays. A State investigating commission in Maryland has, however, just submitted a report in which the indeterminate sentence is severely condemned and its adoption in that State is not recommended. The gist of the objections urged against the indeterminate sentence in this report is that a system under which the length of the term of imprisonment is not fixed definitely in advance, but is left to the judgment of the officials in charge, gives the prisoner a chance to impress on the authorities by "playing good." The clever criminal feigns "reformation," gets an early release and then returns chortling to his old ways. The Maryland commission puts the case thus: "The desire for liberty is, of course, the greatest desire of all prisoners. Unless the prisoner is a very dull fellow, he will obey the rules of the institution to which he is sent. This motive on his part will be quite as strong whether he is sent to a reformatory or to a penitenitary, where time is allowed to him for good behavior. At the reformatory the prisoner, whether through past enducation or native cleverness, may be getting the highest marks and have a most enviable record, and yet all the time by himself or with some other inmate be planning some crime to be executed immediately upon regaining his freedom. The natural and selfish desire of a prisoner at a reformatory to get better food and other benefits by promotion to the highest grade is, therefore, not necessarily an awakening of the moral nature of the man. His motives may be those of a hypocrite desiring all the comforts which he can obtain and especially looking forward to an early release." This is rather an argument against the careless administration of the indeterminate sentence than against the principal itself.

POINTS THAT THE LAW HAS NEVER SETTLED

It is not at all improbable that the advent of the airship will call for legal opinion on the question of what might be termed "aerial trespass." In other words, can a person be sued for trespass if he crosses another's property in an airship? An airship would certainly interfere with the column of air "superincumbent on the close of another," but does he own the "superincumbent colmun of air?" The search for precedents runs back to Lord Ellenborough's opinion upon the question, whether a man, by nailing to his own wall a board which overhangs his neighbor's field, is liable to action of trespass? In rendering a decision in the negative he said: "I once had occasion to rule that a man who, from the outside of a field discharged a gun into it, so that the shot must have struck the soil, was guilty of breaking and entering it. But I am by no means prepared to say that firing across a field in the air, no part of the contents touching it, amounts to a trespass."

A great many interesting legal points have come up in courts of justice, and many of them have never been definitely settled. When a man married the daughter of a widow whom his son had married, the question arose, can a man be his own grandfather? The proposition is stated thus: There was a widow and her daughter and a man and his son. The widow married the son and the daughter married the old man. The widow was therefore a mother to her husband's father, consequently grandmother to her own husband and the son became father to his own father and consequently grandfather to his father's son, i. e. himself. If it is admitted that the widow became the grandmother of her husband, it certainly follows that the son is his own grandfather, for the husband one one's grandfather and the son one one's father's mother is undoubtedly his grandfather and the son is surely the husband of his father's mother, and so it went, and still goes until there are as many answers as the years of Ann.

Somewhat related to this is the question of the birthday of a girl born at midnight. The point was whether a young lady born on the night of the 4th of January, after the house clock had struck twelve, while the parish clock was striking and before the clock of St. Paul's had struck, was born on the 4th or 5th of January. In the opinion of the judge before whom the case came—it was a case in which the date upon which the young lady reached her majority played an important part—the testimony of the house clock was applicable only to domestic, mostly culinary purposes. It was a guide for the cook, in reference to the dinner hour, but could not be received as evidence of the birth of a child. The parochial clock was much better in evidence and should be received if there was no better; but it was not to be put in competition with the metropolitan clock. Where that is present it must be received with implicit acquiescence. It was his opinion, therefore, that the young lady was born on the 4th of January, 1805, and that she attained her majority the instant the clock of St. Paul's struck twelve on the night of January ,3 1826.

The question, when is a pig a hog? has not been up for legal opinion as yet, but it recently gave the members of the City Council of a California town some trouble. The City Council of Redlands wanted to pass an ordinance regulating the number of swine which may be kept within the corporate limits, and the ordianace, as finally drawn up, limited the number to "two pigs." Councilman Ward started a discussion, that came near being endless, by asking the question, "When does a pig become a hog?" He pointed out that under the ordinance a man could keep as many hogs as he desired, so long as he had only two pigs. A majority was of the opinion that a pig was a young hog, but at what age it ceases to be a pig no one felt qualified to state; so they decided to change the wording to "two hogs."

One of the nice points of a serious nature was Cokes remarkable defense. It appeared in evidence that Coke and his servant, Woodburne, assaulted a Mr. Crisp, for the purpose of murdering him in order that Coke's wife might inherit his fortune, Crisp being her brother. They left him for dead, but he was discovered by some passing farmers and taken home, where he recovered. His face was badly disfigured, and action was brought against Coke and Woodburne for mayhem. Coke's defense was that he had attempted to murder Crisp, not to maim him, therefore, he could not be held on that charge. Lord Chief Justice King ruled to the contrary, however, and both men were executed.

Less serious, but more humorous, is the point raised in a case before a Chicago police magistrate as to whether or not an office boy worked. An optician by the name of Hardy was charged with working his office boy more than eight hours a day. Mr. Hardy contended that, although the boy did remain in the office more than eight hours, he did not work half that many hours; therefore, the law had not been violated. Justice Underwood held a different opinion, but in imposing a fine he said that his experience with office boys had been that there is little danger of their health being undermined by hard labor. Still, the law must be upheld. "Therefore," he continued, "I shall fine you $5 for allowing the boy to loaf around your office for more than eight hours a day."

Older court records afford many incidents in which the judge is called upon to decide nice points of law, some of them very humorous. In one case the question arose as to whether a donkey had stolen a boat or the boat had stolen the donkey. The donkey was owned by a miller, who neglected to tie him on one occasion. Wandering about in search of food, he came upon a fisherman's boat; in the bottom of which was a pool of tempting water. The donkey stepped in and the boat, being unfastened, immediately put off, floated down the stream and was never recovered. The miller claimed that his donkey had been lost through the fisherman's neglect in not tying his boat, and the fisherman claimed that his boat was lost through the carelessness of the miller in allowing his donkey to run at large. The question remains undecided.

Another incident in which a donkey figures was told by Demosthenes in order to gain the attention of an unwilling audience. Being hissed by a public meeting of Athenians, the Greek orator quieted them by announcing that he had a short story to tell them. "A certain youth," he said, "hired an ass in summer time to go from here to Megera. About noon, when the sun was very hot and both he that hired the ass and the owner were desirous of sitting in the shade of the ass, they each thrust the other away.

"The owner argued that he lent only the ass, but not the shadow. The hirer replied that, since he had hired the ass, all that belonged to the ass was his." Demosthenes turned as if to go away, but the mob called him back and begged him to proceed. He began with this retort: "How comes it to pass that you are desirous of hearing a story of the shadow of an ass and refuse to give ear to matters of greater moment?" The orator then made his speech, but he never told how the question was decided.

Protagoras, the ancient Greek sophist, was instrumental in supplying another unsettled point. A young man named Enathlus desired to learn eloquence and art of pleading and he bargained with Protagoras for instructions, agreeing to pay one-half of the fee down and the other half on the first day he gained a case. It took the young man so long to learn that his tutor came to the conclusion that he was delaying his start in business to avoid paying the other half of the fee, so Protagoras sued him for the money. When the case came up for trial Protagoras said to the young man: "You act most absurdly, young man, because in either case you must pay me. If the judges decide against you, you must pay, and if they decide for you, you must pay, for you will then have gained your case." "You are wrong" replied the young man. "I will win either way. If the judges are for me, I will not have to pay; and if they are against me I will not have to pay, for this last was the very bargain between us, namely, if I did not win my case." The judges considered the case inexplicable, and as they could not see their way to any decision they adjourned the case to a day that never came for any of the principals. On Protagoras's side it was a case of losing when he won and on the young student's side winning when he lost.

HANGING BASKETS FOR THE PORCH.

Take six tin cans and puncture holes through the middle of each and string them all on a heavy wire, making a hoop of cans. The holes can be driven through with a wire nail. Fasten the wire very tighth at the end and form a long double handle by which the basket can be suspended. Of course, holes must be punctured in the bottom of each can and they should be filled with good, rich dirt. Plant yellow ivy and sweet alyssium in the cans.

If the ivy is planted on the inside it grows in a heavy growth on the outside, and falls gracefully from the centre of the basket, while the white alyssium falls on the outside. The yellow flowers, mixed with the white ones, make a beautiful porch or yard ornament. Get flowers that have been started and give the basket an early start. It will be at its best late in the summer, though the flowers should blossom in a few weeks if the plants are large when set in.

Postmaster's Home is Burned.

Califon, June 22.—The residence of Postmaster Manches H. Hann, of Pleasant Grove, with contents was totally destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. The blaze originated, it is thought, from live coals in the basement. The family was awakened by noises of burning embers and made their escape. The loss is estimated at $5,000, insurance $1,000. The village has no fire protection.

Mrs. C. W. Parsons, formerly of the borough but now of Newark, has been spending several days with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Young, of Schnectady, N. Y., are visiting their daughter, Mrs. George T. Hughes, of Watchung.

...T AND WISDOM OF SYDNEY SMITH.

If you masthead a sailor for not doing his duty, why should you not weathercock a parishioner for refusing to pay tithes?

If you want to make much of a small income, always ask yourself these two questions: First, do I really want it? Second, can I do without it? These two questions, answered honestly, will double your fortune.

When I took my Yorkshire servants into Somersetshire, I found that they thought making a drink out of apples was a tempting of Providence, who had intended barley to be the only natural material for intoxication.

Why will not people remember the food? If they had lived before it, with the patriarchs, they might have talked any stuff they pleased; but do let them remember how little time they have under this new order of things!

The Scythians always ate their grandfathers. They behaved very respectfully to them for a long time; but as soon as their grandfathers became old and troublesome, and began to tell long stories, they immediately ate them.

Sydney Smith had been ill, and a friend, having called to see him, inquired what sort of a night he had passed. "Oh, horrid, horrid, my dear fellow! I dreamt I was chained to a rock and being talked to death by Harriet Martineau and Macaulay."

CYNIC PHILOSOPHY.

Nothing is impossible, except some people.

A bachelor doesn't marry because he is either too foolish or too wise.

The things that don't concern us are often the things that give us the most concern.

Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and others put up a successful bluff.

It makes some people unhappy to think that other people are not as happy as they are.

It sometimes happens that love grows cold before the bride gets the rice out of her hair.

Some people only want the best, but the happiest are those who make the best of what they have.

The only way a woman can successfully manage a man is to keep him from knowing she is doing it.

The man who makes up his mind to fight for his rights must expect to keep up the fight for the rest of his life.

Even the people who think twice before doing a thing often have another thought coming to them after they do it.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

Insanity on the part of the New York curb market is nothing but a simple relapse.

Singular that only a rich institution can afford a receiver and only a poor institution needs one.

Drink sour milk and live to be 100? Such diet ought to make the thought of early death a positive comfort.

When Chinese take to shooting each other in an American Chinatown the Chinese are the only ones who keep calm.

The only way to tame that fellow Castro would be to import, naturalize and assimilate him, and then elect him to congress.

Of course, the admirable traffic regulations that have done so much to promote safety and comfort must not be so construed as to hamper people who ride in their own carriages.

Nobody can blame the ungallant Gila monster for biting the hand that dissected it. However, the prejudice against this brand of lizard is based upon a startling absence of pulchritude, rather than on its venom. Its bite could not be fatal unless by scaring the bitten to death.

THINGS TO REMEMBER.

The fact that a parrot is green is no sure sign that he is not a bird of ripe experience.

The great drawback about yellow journalism is not that it is yellow, but that it is read.

Many a man is modesty itself until his children are born. It is then that he begins to put on heirs.

It may be true that money talks, but it is so frequently tight that its conversation is hardly worth repeating.

There is nothing so wonderful but that it might be more so. Niagara, for instance, would be far more marvelous if the water flowed the other way.

There is nothing that so destroys one's pride of ownership as the early morning call from the tax collector. —John Kendrick Bangs, in Success Magazine.

—or if you're already "started," we'll help you refurnish! We've been doing it for thousands of others for nearly 50 years at this same old, well known "73 Market Street" address, and certainly ought to have the knack by now! There's a lot of good common sense reasons for using us, these among others:

1st—Immense stocks of latest styles in every good grade to pick from.

2nd—Whether purchase is one or a hundred dollars, your account is equally welcome!

3rd—Prices are always plainly marked—and always the lowest, owing to enormous purchasing power.

4th—As little as $1.50 a week or $6.00 a month pays for $100 worth of goods—other amounts in proportion.

5th—We want your trade—and cordially invite comparisons!

VERDI AND HIS THRIFTY WAYS.

Great Composer Worried Over Small Hole in His "Best Coat."

Baron Edmondo Mayor des Planches, ambassador from Italy, told a new Verdi story at a dinner given in Washington recently. The great Maestro had just produced his opera "Aida" in Paris for the first time and the entire city was wild with enthusiasm. The president of France made it known that at the second performance the rosette of the Legion of Honor would be conferred on the illustrious composer, a great fete was gotten up to honor the event. The president made the presentation, and Verdi seemed overcome with emotion. Indeed, he fumbled with the rosette so long that one of the attendants of the president arose and, taking his penknife, made a neat slit in the coat and placed the button firmly in place. After the opera a grand banquet was given and everyone was concerned to see that the Maestro looked unhappy. He would lapse into fits of musing even during the most enthusiastic speeches, and would sigh and look doleful indeed. Finally an old friend got near him and asked solicitously what was troubling him. Verdi mused a long time and then explained sadly: "I do not see that you can do anything to help me and, indeed, I cannot see how I can help myself. I am just wondering what my wife will say to me when she sees this great hole in my best coat."

HAD STRONG TOUCH OF VANITY.

Old-Time Organ Blowers Who Took Their Work Seriously.

"The organ blower is passing—he will soon be like the armorer, extinct," said a musician. "It's a pity. He was a quaint type.

"Most of my blowers were simple-minded old chaps who firmly believed they must suit their blowing to the music. In soft, light passages they blew soft and light. When the crescendos thundered forth, they worked frantically, blowing with all their might and main.

"Often a facetious reporter on the local paper would refer to 'the excellent blowing of the organist's assistant, Mr. Bellows.' Then the blower in his vanity would develop all the affectations of a Paderewski or a Sousa. Now he'd blow delicately, a dreamy smile on his lips, his eyes half closed. The music would change to a march, and he'd stamp his foot in time, while up, down, up, down, the old bellows, in time also, would be jerked. At a climax his face would redden, he'd bend to his task, and blow so fast and furious that the organ would nearly burst."

Stole the Rattlesnake.

There is a sneak thief out in California who must have had an unpleasant surprise recently after a successful "pinch of a grip which he picked up in the railroad station at Los Angeles. The case had been set down by two miners whom the crook had followed, and he evidently thought he had made a haul of gold dust at the least. When the miners discovered the grip was gone they raised a commotion and told the police that they didn't care so much about the loss as the fear that some one would get hurt through the theft. They went on to explain that the grip contained nothing except an enormous live rattlesnake, and though no trace of the thief has come and nothing has been heard of the snake, the police and miners are still wondering how the crook looked when he opened the case to inspect his plunder.

A Tragedy in Arabia.

Once an old Arab out of stone carved a scarab, as a sort of good luck charm to wear. It was so artistic, such a bug realistic, that the sight of it gave him a scare—he thought he had got a case of "mania au potu" from the effects of a night before's tear. While feeling thus oreide he drank some bichloride, thinking the bug would dissolve then and there. But dope can't hurt scarabs, while it is bad for Arabs, and though they buried the Arab, the scarab felt fair.

Billville at the Play.

When Chauncey Olcott was here an old Billville farmer had a front seat at the play, and when he heard the line "He looketh death in the face and got a wife, the old man muttered audibly:

"Mebbe, ef he'd 'a' took a second look he'd 'a' changed his mind an' lived single!"

A Pleasure Foregone.

"Have you studied political economy?"

"No, sir," answered Senator Sorghum. "I'd like to, but I'm afraid my constituents would think I was amusing myself reading books instead of hustling for pensions and appropriations."—Washington Star.

Not Disappointed.

Adam Zawfox—What's got you so much interested in that there paper?

Job Sturky—I'm looking over this list of a hundred men that owns all the money in the country. I thought mebby my name would be there, but it ain't. Well, I didn't much 'xpect to find it, nohow.

Good Place for Him.

"What? You don't mean to say you are going to move out to Swamphurst?"

"Huh! You want to read the papers. There's more sickness there than in any other town in the vicinity."

"I know; I'm a physician."

KNEW MERITS OF HOT WATER.

Sagacious Denver Cat Sought Remedy for Internal Pains.

The story is told of a cat owned by Miss Willard of Denver, that has learned that the hot water bottle will ease pain. Tommy is 14 years old, which is pretty well along in years for a cat, and suffers from pains in his stomach, and the family have been in the habit of applying the hot water bottle to ease Tommy of his distress.

One night Miss Willard was awakened at a late hour by an incessant yowling that came from beside her bed. She hurriedly arose, turned on the light and then saw Tommy beating a path from her feet to the hallway and back again.

Tommy's mistress advanced toward her pet to take him up in her arms, but none of that for Tommy. The cat scampered right on down the hall, looking back at every jump to see that Miss Willard was following. When it reached the bathroom it led the way into the apartment, and when she turned on the light there was Tommy with the empty hot water bag between its forelegs.

A few minutes later the bag was filled with water heated to Tommy's liking, and he was fast asleep, purring his contentment.

If there is a smarter cat in Denver Miss Wallard would like to know where it lives.

SET FORTH HIS APPRECIATION.

Captain's Naive Testimony to the Worth of His Nurse.

Nurses in training have many hardships to bear, but perhaps none is worse than having to appear cheerful under all conditions. A sense of humor is perhaps as great an asset as a nurse can have, for it will help her over many a difficulty.

The daughter of a wealthy man up state became imbued with the desire to know how to earn her own living, and to that end she entered one of the large city hospitals as a nurse, says the New York Press. The work was to her liking, and, as she looked on the bright side of everything, she was generally in a happy frame of mind. Her particular "pet" was an old and illiterate sea captain, who was in the surgical ward with a broken arm which would not knit. He was a cheerful old fellow, and his droll remarks gained for him the good will of everybody. One day when the nurse had paid him some little attention, he said with an appreciative smile:

"Miss L. is the best waitress I ever had!"

Going Down.

A public school teacher in Philadelphia had occasion once to correct the pronunciation of a pupil of Scotch origin. The lad persisted in saying "doon" instead of "down." Finally, the instructor's patience becoming exhausted he shouted at the boy, "Down! Down! Down!"

The pupil in question remained undisturbed by this outburst, but another lad in the rear of the room quickly sprang to his feet, stuck out his hand in a mechanical way; then, suddenly exhibiting great embarrassment, sat down.

"Well, my boy," said the teacher, good-naturedly, "you must be a football enthusiast."

"Not exactly, sir," replied the boy, "I run the elevator down to Perkin's."—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

The Origin of Portugal.

About the year 1094 the name of Portugal appears in the annals. Alfonso VII. of Castile in that year signed over to Count Henry of Burgundy, who had left his native land to help fight the threatening Moor, the county of Portugal as a fief. The name Portugal comes directly from the Latin, signifying the Port of Cale—Cale being the old name for the town of Oporto. The brief of Alfonso marks the beginning of the separate existence of Portugal. Though for many years it was no more than a feudal dependence of Castile, nevertheless this child was the father of the later independent kingdom. In the year 1139 the lords of Portugal took the title of king and refused allegiance to any power, Moslem or Christian.—Rosary Magazine.

A Tight One.

On the score of economy he had refused her the dear little ermine stole—it cost but ninety—to go with her new gown.

Just then Rev. Dr. Fourthley passed the window, and to change an unpleasant subject, he said:

"Isn't it queer Fourthley never got married? I think he'd make a very good husband."

"He didn't make a very good one," she retorted, "when he married us."

An Apple Cure.

A curious investigation that is being made in England just now is to discover how far apples are of use in overcoming a taste for liquor.

The question is asked of medical men in all parts of the country. The large majority declared that they never had known a case of a person accustomed to the free use of apples who was a drunkard; and, inversely, those who were fond of alcohol rarely liked apples.

Mrs. Brown—Not at all; he's merely getting in form to beat the carpets.—Harper's Weekly.

Y.M.C.A. OVERWHELMS ORANGE; SCORE 15-1

Heavy hitting won for the Y. M. C. A. in a State league game wtih the Orange association nine Saturday afternoon, making a total of two three base hits, three two base hits and nine singles, and scoring fifteen runs while but a single Orange player circle the bags. Loizeaux carried off the batting laurels, with a three bagger, a two bagger and a single, and Conway also hit the ball for three and two sacks at a time.

Scoring a run every inning up to the fifth, the Plainfielders rested up there for the merry-go-round in the sixth, when two two-baggers, three singles and some good bast stealing netted six runs. McCloud made the only run for Orange in the ninth, when Peacock was hit for two singles. Conover gave but two hits in the five innings he was in the box. "Jack" Peacock was touched for five hits in the remaining four innings.

Newark won from Elizabeth, 7-4, and still heads the league with 1.000 per cent for four games. Summit beat Trenton 4-2, and Trenton and Elizabeth have yet to win league games. The score at Orange:

MONO F. C. WINNERS AT BERKELEY HEIGHTS

The Mono F. C. defeated the team at Berkeley Heights Saturday afternoon by a score of 10 to 8. The contest was a snappy one from start to finish in which the Plainfield boys displayed good head work. Features of the game were Dan. Randolph's catch at first, Evan's two base hit and Conover's pitching. "Hub" struck out seventeen men, fanning three men in each of the second, third and seventh innings. The lineup and score by innings:

SOLDIERS WIN FROM DUNELLEN A. C., 7-3

The strong Company M team of Somerville trimmed the Dunellen A. C. nine by a score of 7-3 in a well-played game at Dunellen Saturday afternoon. The game was clinched in the ninth by Gourman's two-bagger, when there were two on base. The hit came when the soldier third baseman had two strikes on him and he cleared the bags by a long hit to right field, scoring later on a wild throw by Giles in an effort to catch him as he stole third. The Dunellenites lost several opportunities to score by poor base running.

Russell was effective on the slab for the borough team, allowing nine hits and fanning ten batsmen. He allowed but two passes. The Dunellen team got ten hits, three of them by Miller, the left fielder, who had his batting eye right with him. Dunellen scored a run in the first and a couple of hits brought in the other two tallies in the fifth. The score:

HEAVY HITTING WINS FOR IOLA CLUB, 8-3

Two three-baggers, three two-baggers and eight singles, happily bunched, won for the Iola Club in a game with the Plainfield A. C. played at the Clinton Avenue ground Saturday afternoon. The score was 8-3 and the Iolas had the lead through the entire contest. Surpassing their opponents at the bat, the Iolas also had the advantage in the field, pulling off three pretty double plays and stealing six bases. They played errorless ball. Snyder had the advantage on the slab, keeping the six hits scattered, fanning eight, and allowing but two passes. The score:

CLINTON AVENUE, THREE SCOTCH PLAINS, ONE

Clinton Avenue had sweet revenge on Saturday when it defeated its old rivals, the Scotch Plains team on Crescent Oval by a score of 3 to 1 and thereby proved its superiority over the boys from down the line. When these teams first met earlier in the season the contest went twelve innings and then the 'Plains aggregation won out by one run. The defeat was not forgotten by the Clinton Avenues and they planned to "get even" on Saturday.

Clifford Randolph was in his best form and he held his opponents safe throughout the game. He fanned nine batsmen and did not walk a single man. He was supported in fine style by the team, the catching by O'Loughlin being a feature. Scotch Plains drew first and only blood in the sixth inning, when it tallied one run, but in the eighth the home team got busy and brought three runs across the plate, thanks to the two base hit of Emery, which came at the right time. The locals played without a single error and they were as steady as clock work.

The visitors also put up a great game and too much praise cannot be given Ortleib for his admirable work in the box, although he was touched for nine hits. Their inability to connect with Randolph's mysterious curves and twists was responsible for defeat. Later in the season the teams will play the "rubber" to decide the local championship. There was a large attendance at Saturday's game, many coming from Scotch Plains to witness the contest. The score:

BELLE MEAD DEFEATED BY PLAINFIELD JUNIORS.

The Juniors, of Plainfield, defeated the Belle Mead team at the latter place, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 5 to 3. The Juniors enjoyed their trip so much that a return game will be played at Belle Mead on July 18. The batteries were O. Dodge and Dixon for the Juniors and McManus and Hannon for Belle Mead. The Juniors made eleven hits and four errors, while their opponents made five hits and seven errors. The score by innings:

JERSEY CENTRAL'S EDITORIAL EXCURSION

PRESENT FOR WM. G. BESLER.

As the guests of the Jersey Central, the road made popular by the Besler management, nearly 300 representatives of newspaperdom along its lines in this State and Pennsylvania spent four enjoyable hours at beautiful Island Park, near Easton, Pa., on Saturday. Proprietors, editors, city editors and advertising managers and their wives mingled together with the railroad men who did everything in their power to make the event as pleasant as is annually the custom.

Special vestibuled trains were run from Point Pleasant and from Scranton, and the guests were picked up at intermediate stations and landed at Island Park along the Lehigh river about noon. The palatial "Central" car was attached to the rear of the train passing along this line and it was used as an observation car. One of the most enjoyable features of the trip was the general and warm-hearted sociability among the guests and the railroad men on the train. Those from Pennsylvania were landed at the park, but those from New Jersey took trolley cars at Phillipsburg and were given a good look at the prosperous little city of Easton.

The railroad was represented by W. G. Besler, of North Plainfield; vice-president and general manager; W. C. Hope, general passenger agent; C. W. Huntington, general superintendent; J. A. Taylor, general auditor; T. B. Koons, of this city, freight traffic manager; E. M. Snyder, general freight agent; E. E. Kerwin, superintendent New Jersey Central and Lehigh and Susquehanna division; G. H. Frech, superintendent New Jersey Southern division; C. F. Merrill, assistant superintendent Lehigh and Susquehanna division; H. E. Ruhe, district passenger agent; I. E. Whyte, district passenger agent; C. J. Gummersbach, district passenger agent; C. K. Armstrong, district passenger agent, and R. D. Carter, advertising agent.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Elderton and Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ballentyne, representing the Courier-News; Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Force, The Daily Press, and Mrs. Alfred Zimmerman, all of this city.

The two parties met at the Park about noon. The dinner served at Henthorn's Pavilion shortly after the guests' arrival was excellent, and the visitors did fullest justice to it. As the dinned was concluded, W. C. Hope rapped for order, and in a brief speech said nice things about the editors and the women and told them Island Park and everything on it was their for the day. W. G. Besler also made a neat speech.

During the dinner the feature of the day occurred in the presentation of a set of engrossed resolutions to Vice-President and General Manager William G. Besler, of the "Central." The presentation speech was made by B. E. Chapen, of Newark, and the resolutions were read by O. S. Heninger, of Allentown. Mr. Besler was visibly affected and responded feelingly.

The resolutions were as follows:

"In this testimonial the editors and publishers resident along the lines of the Central Railroad of New Jersey in the sister States of New Jersey and Pennsylvania testify their appreciation of the many courtesies received from William George Besler, vice-president and general manager.

"In full knowledge of the success attending his life work in railroad circles, a week begun amid humble surroundings, but now engaging his splendid abilities in directing the affairs of a great, growing and important highway of traffic, the editors and publishers located along the lines of the New Jersey Central embrace this opportunity, at the annual outing tendered them by his company on this the twentieth day of June, 1908, to express their high esteem and deep personal regard for Mr. Besler, to whose energy and intelligent direction is so largely due the present prominence of the New Jersey Central in the world of transportation and industry, and admiration for one who has won his way by force of personal worth and business merit, advancing step by step alike in the service of those who entrusted him with important duties and in the esteem of his business associates.

"During the six years that Mr. Bessler has been connected with the New Jersey Central he has shown a spirit of liberality toward the press, giving evidence that he realized its value and desired its aid in promoting the transportation enterprises that have done and are doing so much for the development and enrichment of our common country.

"We recognize the untiring zeal of Mr. Besler; view with equanimity the prospects of his attaining to still greater prominence in his chosen field of labor, and congratulate him upon the gratifying results which he and his efficient corps of subordinates have attained in upbuilding the 'Model Railroad' and in promoting the bond of friendship and mutual understanding now existing between two of the most important factors in the advancement of civilization, intelligence and prosperity—the railroad and the press."

The strikingly done resolutions were handsomely framed and were signed by all the editors.

After the dinner the guests took in the sights and attractions at the resort, and left the place at 4 o'clock.

On the way to the Park, the guests were given handsome badges entitling them to all the privileges of the resort. On the return trip, cigars were passed among the men and bunches of roses among the women.

Resolutions Presented to Our Fellow-townsman, Wm. G. Besler, by editors of New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

St. Mary's Defeat Monroe A. C.

St. Mary's team defeated Monroe A. C. Saturday afternoon by a score of 8 to 7, in a well-played contest. The losing team was credited with eleven errors which offset the sixteen hits. On the other hand St. Mary's aggregation made five hits and five errors. A feature was the pitching of Hallard, who fanned twelve men. In the last inning the Monroe A. C. had two men on bases, when Mulford made a hard drive for a home run, but Motley made a fine catch, which saved the game for his team.

$100 Damage at Morning Fire.

Spontaneous combuston, caused by the sun shining on a can of gasolene started a slight fire in the rear of G. O. Keller's cleaning establishment on Park avenue, this morning. A still alarm was turned in and the prompt response of the chemical engine put an end to the blaze. The damage is placed at $100. Another still alarm was turned in at 1:30 this afternoon for a supposed fire at 547 West Fifth street. It was found to be a back draugh.

Funeral of Samuel B. Ayers.

The funeral of Samuel B. Ayers, the veteran trolley conductor, was held at his late home on West Fourth street, yesterday afternoon. Rev. C. S. Kemble, of the Monroe Avenue church, was in charge, and many relatives and friends attended. The floral tributes included a large set piece from Mr. Ayres' fellow-employes on the local car lines. The body was sent to Hackettstown for burial this morning.

Linen Shower for Bride-Elect.

Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of Myrtle avenue, gave a linen shower at her home, Saturday evening in honor of Miss Eva C. Dunavan, of East Second street, whose marriage to F. Monroe Farnham, of Auburn, N. Y., will take place in the near future. There were fourteen guests from Montclair, Newark and this city.

FR. BOGAN MAKES ADDRESS.

Miss McCarthy Valedictorian and William Sullivan Salutatorian—The Program.

Receiving their diplomas from Father Bernard M. Bogan, five pupils of St. Mary's Commercial School were graduated at the exercises held in the school hall last night. They were Miss Nora McCarthy, Miss Mary Donnelly, Miss Elizabeth Mara, Charles Rhodier and William Sullivan. Of these Miss McCarthy had the highest standing during the school course and delivered the valedictory to her classmates. William Sullivan, ranking second, was the salutatorian. Relatives and friends of the graduates thronged the hall and greeted the various numbers on the program with keenest appreciation. Electric fans cooled the air and no one murmured because of heat.

The program, arranged by Fathers Bogan and Delahanty of the school, opened with a march, "Imperial' by Miss Mary Agnes Smith, organist of St. Mary's church. Following this came the salutatory, by William Sullivan, an essay and oration of considerable merit. The graduates then joined in a chorus song, "Gathering Flowers." A feature of the program was the tambourine drill and dance which followed. Eighteen girls of the school took part, and the drill was perfectly executed, winning merited applause. A comedy Fourth of July oration was next presented by William Sullivan, Bernard Hanrahan, Charles Rhodier, Garret Keating and Francis Cullin, five boys of the school, causing much merriment.

A piano solo, "The Polish Dance" was then played by Edward Hanrahan, after which followed three essays, "The Danger of Prosperity," Charles Rhodier; "True Womanhood," by Miss Mary Donnelly, and "Farewell to the Eighth Grade," by Miss Mary McMahon. This last essay was in the nature of a valedictory to the eighth grade. The valedictory to the commercial department followed, delivered by Miss Nora McCarthy. The program concluded with the conferring of prizes and degrees, with an address, by Father Bogan, and the singing of the class song.

Miss Nora McCarthy, the valedictorian was awarded the gold medal for excellence in studies in the commercial department, offered by the local lodge of Knights of Columbus. The gold medal for excellence in Christian doctrine went to Miss Elizabeth Parent, and Charles Rhodier received a five dollar gold piece for passing a 100 per cent. examination in arithmetic. The gift of Father Bogan was a gold class pin to each member of the graduating class. The pins are star shaped, inscribed "S. M., '08," and in the course of his presentation remarks he spoke of the pleasant fraternal relationship with each member of the class during the course: He further said:

"You are receiving your diplomas tonight in evidence of your proficiency in the studies outlined in the commercial department of your school. It is customary on such an occasion as this that a gifted orator be invited to address you as graduates, generally outlining the hope that the country at large places in graduates to work in the world—bidding graduates to go out into the world, right all wrongs, and destroy every possibility of unhappiness.

"My remarks will not be on such lines. I have been delivering it at great length for the past three years, and you are familiar with its points and have learned the spirit of it. Go out into the world, not to work the wonders usually wrought by the "sweet girl graduate" or "young boy just budding into noble manhood," but to carry into whatever circle you may find yourselves an influence for moral rectitude that shall inevitably find its proper recognition. You have been equipped with the reason for obedience for those who may be your superiors; you have been taught loyalty to your obligations with the realization that al 'obligation must center in Him from Whom we all came and to Whom we must all return.

"Therefore, dear children, wherever you find real authority exercised, whether it be in an office, a store, or in public life, whether by a Christian, an Athiest or a Pagan, your education has taught you to find in the authority, not the will of the individual, but of Almighty God. This is the supreme reason for your coming activity.

"Your diploma is your transport from St. Mary's Commercial School into the commercial world. See to it that your life be a credit to your school, your family, your country and your Creator."

"UNCLE DAN" HATFIELD HAS PASSED AWAY

Daniel G. Hatfield, familiarly known throughout Union and Middlesex counties as "Uncle Dan," died suddenly yesterday at his home on Seminary avenue, Rahway. He was seventy-five years old and for nearly half a century had been a familiar figure in Union county politics, being a staunch supporter of Democratic principles. He was widely acquainted in Plainfield and made regular trips to this city to call on his friends, particularly James E. Martine, who he greatly admired.

Mr. Hetfield leaves three sons and two daughters, living in Rahway. The funeral will be held at his late home Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

GOVERNOR FORT GIVES OUT TAFT'S MAJORITY

Governor Fort, back on the gubernatorial job after attending the Republican national convention, claimed at Trenton, yesterday that this State will go for Taft in November by at least 40,000 plurality. The Governor was busy all yesterday morning dictating letters, going over papers and looking after State affairs.

He said it was a fine convention and that it named a strong ticket. "Everything was lovely all through," he declared. "Nobody got mad and it came out all right. I greatly enjoyed the convention. It was really a rest for me, the first vacation I have had since I became Governor."

GROCER'S CLERK IS BITTEN BY A CANINE

Raymond Smith, aged sixteen years, residing on Duer street, the borough and employed by J. A. Smith & Bro., the grocers, was bitten in the leg by a dog yesterday morning, while delivering groceries at the home of Robert L. Hecht, at 533 Belvidere avenue. The young man was walking through the yard, when the dog, which belongs to Mr. Hecht attacked him, and fastened his teeth in the calf of the leg.

The lad kicked as vigorously as possible and finally succeeded in shaking the animal off. Returning to the store he reported the matter to his employers and at their suggestion he called at Dr. P. J. Zeglio's office and had the wound cauterized. He is now detained at his home. The physician does not apprehend that there will be any serious consequences, although the wound is a bad one. The owner of the dog has been acquainted with the circumstances and the animal will be closely watched.

New Realty Syndicate.

Articles for the incorporation of the Mutual Land Improvement Company, of Plainfield, were filed at the County Clerk's office, Elizabeth, yesterday by W. R. Codington as its agent. The capital stock of the new realty company is $100,000. The following ten Plainfielders have subscribed for ten shares apiece at $100 a share: J. D. Loizeaux, P. J. Zeglio, F. L. C. Martin, L. L. Manning, J. C. Manning, Peter Neuman, Chas. B. Pope, William R. Codington, David Hand and Ernest Hand.

May Play a Double-Header.

The Clinton Avenues would like to schedule a game for Saturday, an open date, and if satisfactory arrangements can be made, there will be a double header at Crescent Oval. The Y. M. C. A. team is scheduled to play the Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., on the Oval, it being one of the State League games, and if Clinton Avenue can get a contest with a good team, plans will be made play the game prior to that of the Y. M. C. A.

Local Men Begin Prison Terms.

Charles J. Wilbur and Ignace Roskovitz, both of this city, were taken to Trenton today by Warden Charles Dodd, of Elizabeth, to begin terms in the State prison. Wilbur will serve six years for criminal assault and Roskovitz two years for bicycle thefts. A pal of the latter, Peter Harsen, has been convicted on a similar charge and is awaiting sentence.

Rural Mail Carrier Run Down.

Leslie Lambert, a rural delivery mail carrier, was run down by a milk wagon as he was riding a bicycle at Park avenue and Second street, this morning. The front wheel of his machine was smashed and he was badly shaken up. Axel Johnson, driver for B. C. Firstbrook, was in charge of the rig, and promised to pay for the damage.

SOME EXCISE QUESTIONS

Fisk Commission Receiving Replies to Query Circular Sent Broadcast.

GATHERING DEFINITE DATA.

Important Information Being Compiled—First Session at Jersey City on July 6.

Replies are being received by the State Excise Commission, of which Mayor Charles J. Fisk is chairman, to questions propounded in a communication sent two weeks ago to all municipalities in New Jersey as well as to the executive heads of fifty of America's largest cities. The Commission will hold its first formal session at Jersey City on July 6 and by that time Mr. Fisk expects to be in a position to go ahead with the work as already mapped out.

These are the questions upon which the Commission seeks information:

"What is the minimum and maximum license fee charged in your municipality?

"How many saloon licenses are outstanding and in force on this date (June 1)?

"How many hotel, club and restaurant (where liquor is sold) licenses are outstanding and in force on this date?

"Are licenses granted by a court or by an excise board?

"If by an excise board, then how many members compose the same; are they elected or appointed?

"Give a reference to the statute under which your board operates.

"Give a statement of the total records for licenses granted in your municipality for the years 1907 and 1908.

"To what purposes is this money applied?

"What regulation, if any, is in force as to the opening and closing hours?

"How many transfers of license were made during the year last past?

"How many convictions, if any, for violation of the law have been had for the years last past?

"How many licenses have been revoked within the year last yast?

"Will you kindly annex a list of the powers of attorney or assignment of license (in blank) filed in your office?"

One of the purposes of the last two questions is to discover how great a proprietary interest the great breweries have in saloon property in this State.

EPISCOPAL CONVENTION TO MEET AT BOUND BROOK

The Convocation of New Brunswick representing the northern part of the Episcopal Diocese of New Jersey, which includes Plainfield and North Plainfield, will meet next Tuesday at St. Paul's church, Bound Brook. There will be Communion in the morning at 11 and atl o'clock luncheon wHl bes erved by the ladies in the Country Club house, for those who attend.

At 2:30 o'clock there will be a business meeting, followed by the discussion of an appointed topic. "The Emanuel Church Monument (Boston), for the healing of disease by mental suggestion."

The subject will be opened by a paper by Rev. H. H. Sleeper, Ph. D. In the evening there will be an interesting missionary service at which addresses will be made by the Rev. Messrs. H. M. P. Pearse, of Christ church, South Amboy, and Thomas A. Conover, of St. Bernard's church, Bernardsville.

All persons are invited to attend thes ervices and meetings at St. Paul's church.

Bovine Sightseer on Park Avenue.

Tiring of the monotony of the borough pasture lands, Miss Jersey Cow, a prize bovine, broke out of bonds last night and was arrested by Patrolman Nolan as she was gazing with envious eyes on the M. W. hats in a Park avenue store window. The gallant officer escorted her to the pound where she was still awaiting a claimant this morning.

Miss Alice E. Vroom a Bride.

Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Vroom, of 50 Stone street, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Alice Emery Vroom, to Edward P. Ammon, of Somerset street. The ceremony was performed on Saturday last by Rev. Dr. William I. Steans, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Westfield, at his home in that place.

TRAYNOR'S MYSTERIOUS FALL WRECKS HIS FACE

With a face that looked as if it had been in the center of a Kansas cyclone or manicured with a currycomb, John Traynor, who divides his time between Plainfield and Scotch Plains, was arraigned in the city court this morning on a disorderly conduct charge. He was picked up by the police on Leland avenue near Second street, last night, people in the vicinity having telephoned that a man was lying on the Cedar brook culvert in imminent danger of falling to the ground below.

Detective-Sergeant John Flynn made the arrest and at the time Traynor was perfectly sober, although he had been drinking. Blood was flowing from an ugly wound on the right side of his head, so large and deep that three fingers could be placed in it, his right eye was discolored and swollen and his cheek was lacerated. He claimed that two men had set upon him and given him a beating but his story was very much disconnected. He was taken to Dr. Lufburrow's office for treatment and afterward locked up.

Traynor admitted to Judge Runyon that the assault tale was a myth and that his injuries were brought by falling, but where he could not tell. He had been drinking a little at Scotch Plains, he said, and took the tumble somewhere on the road as he was walking to Plainfield.

"I don't see that we have any charge here," was the magistrate's comment, "but if I were you I'd go back to the doctor as quick as I could. You've got the most sorrowful looking face I've ever seen in this court and if I'm not mistaken it's going to get worse. You're discharged."

Traynor smiled a sickly smile and as he turned away confided to the officers that he was going to retire to private life until his physiognomy got through looking like a piece of beef steak.

HOLY CROSS CHOIR IN OPERETTA AND CONCERT

Carefully coached by Choirmaster H. Raymond Loder, of New York, the Holy Cross church choir will give its third annual concert at the Parish House tomorrow night, when Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston, violiniste, and Miss Mabel Maxson, pianist, will be the assisting artists. In connection with the concert will be the presentation of the one-act operetta, "Robinson Crusoe." Based upon the incidents of the book by T. W. Richardson, the music for this operetta has been written by Choirmaster Loder, including some rollicking mutineers' choruses, sailors' songs and solos. Russell Conroy will take the part of Robinson Crusoe. Herbert Stine will be "Captain Bailey, of the brig 'Betsy Jane'" and Carol Taylor will be identified "on stage" as "Bella," his one fair daughter, Ira Vail is to be "Jack Atkins," leader of a mutineers' band composed of Walter Klechlein, Carl Noble, Martin Manze, Augustus Vandeventer, Jr. and Raymond Mosher, and the immortal "Friday" will be Charles Cregar. Howard Riley wil be "the mysterious stranger," and Donald Ketcham wil take the part of "Belinda, a lady of color." "Hokee Pokee," king of the cannibal isles," will be George Ball, and Frederick Van Norden, Harold Noble, Donald Ketcham, Walter Thomas, Ericson Van Norden, and Evan Stevens will be the cannibal band. The sailor crew of the "Betsy Jane" will include Alien Diman, Edmond Wakefield, Walter Harrington, and Russell Brakeley. A Christian parrot, carefully trained by Rev. G. A. Warner, has been secured for "Robinson Crusoe's" solace.

The program follows: "Lady Bird," (Koschat), by the choir; "On the Road to Mandelay," (Damrosch), by Frederick Pope and choir; violin solo, "Romance," (Svendsen), by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston; "Pretty Twinkling, Starry Eyes," (van der Stucken), by the choir; solo, "Without Thee," (d'Hardelot), by K. M. Ball; "A Pleasant Wedding in Carintha," (Koschat), by the choir; violin solos: Andante, from Wieniawski's second concerto, and Serenade, (Pierne), by Mrs. Truell-Johnston. The choir selections will be by the ful church choir, numbering twenty-eight men and boys. The proceeds of the affair will be devoted to the choir boys' outing fund.

Shoved Through Window.

Robert Dennison and Howard Sergeant got into an altercation in the Hotel Kensington last night. Dennison claims that he shoved Sergeant through a plate glass window because the latter struck him. Sergeant's head was cut. Both men spent the night in jail and this morning Judge Runyon adjourned the hearing until Friday morning because the stories told by the two men were conflicting.

TRIED TO END HIS LIFE

Dennis O'Loughlin Slashed Himself in Throat and Wrist But Still Lives.

IT WAS SECOND ATTEMPT.

He Told a Yarn About Being Attacked by a Negro but Farewell Note Is Found in His Pocket.

For some reason as yet unknown to his family or the police, Dennis O'Loughlin, of West Second street, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon by slashing himself in the throat and wrist with a razor while seated in a clump of bushes along Green brook just off Giraud avenue. He was slowly bleeding to death when he was discovered at 2 o'clock by Thomas Muldowney, who promptly called Dr. Lufburrow to the scene and had his injuries dressed. He was later removed to Muhlenberg hospital where it was said he had been greatly weakened by loss of blood but was not in a serious condition.

O'Loughlin was conscious when Muldowney found him and declared that he had been attacked by a colored man as he was bathing his feet in the brook. There had been no provocation, he said, and immediately after slashing him the assailant fled. He claimed this to have taken place at 11 o'clock and when it was told the police it aroused the first suspicion that he was not speaking the truth as at the rate he was bleeding he would have been dead when discovered.

When Chief Kiely was informed of the case he went to the hospital and, in order to confirm his supicions searched O'Loughlin's clothing to see if it held a razor. Instead of a weapon he found a note in the man's handwriting, bidding his family farewell and telling them what to do with his body. He was not questioned further and this morning he was sent to is home, having recovered sufficiently.

O'Loughlin is about fifty years old and a mason by trade. Two years ago he made an attempt to end his life by drinking poison while at his home but the prompt application of emetics when he was found brought him around. His family had no suspicion that he contemplated a repetition of the act as his demeanor of late has been quiet and his disposition cheerful. He is married and has several children.

WATER PROBE REPORT, "NOT YET, BUT SOON"

Although the final report of the Water Commission, appointed many months ago by Mayor C. J. Fisk, is practically completed and ready for presentation to the Common Council, owing to a peculiar circumstance it will probably be some weeks before this can be done. It will be necessary to obtain the signatures of every member of the commission to the report before it goes to the Council, and as several of them are away just now, it will have to be sent to them for this purpose.

This means that the report must go to England, where John B. Dumont is now spending the summer with Mrs. Dumont. George H. Frost is also abroad and he, too, must sign the report. Other members of the commission are a great distance from Plainfield and they must be found for their signatures. It may require more than a month to get all the names of the commissioners to the paper and the chances are that it will not go to the Council before the last of August.

At the recent meeting of the commission, the final report of the engineering committee was presented and discussd informally by the members. The entire report is most comprehensive and covers every important detail of the subject. While it is understood from reliable sources that the commission will not recommend a municipal water plant for Plainfield, it is said that the members will make some valuable suggestions which will tend to give Plainfield an alternative that will help to solve the problem of a future water supply.

Anti-Saloon Meeting Tonight.

Emmett H. Curtis, who is one of the State leaders of the Anti-Saloon League, and who has just returned from Ohio, where with several other prominent men of that State led in the fight in the Legislature for local option, will be the principal speaker at the mass meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. tonight in the interest of the movement. S. S. Swackhamer will also speak. Mr. Curtis while in Ohio was successful in his fight and will give an account of his experience tonight. The public is invited.

KING EDWARD SEES BUTTFIELD HORSES WIN

King Edward and Queen Alexandra visited the International Horse Show at Olympia in London, yesterday afternoon, and all fashionable London seemed to have turned out to greet the royal party. The display of gowns was a wonderful color spectacle. The immense Olympia was packed, and even standing room was difficult to obtain. Among the features was the exhibition of American bred horses, to which the King paid marked attention, showing special interest in R. P. McGrann's prize winners Newsboy and Shopgirl which won ribbons a year ago in this city.

Yesterday's winners of first prizes included the trotters Miss Banahan and Miss Westcott, owned by W. J. Buttfield, of this city.

MONSIGNOR J. H. FOX PRAISES NOMINEE TAFT

Monsignor John H. Fox, vicar general of the Roman Catholic diocese of Trenton, paid a tribute on Sunday to the work accomplished by Secretary Taft in the Philippines. His remarks were made in a special sermon at the Cathedral to the Knights of Columbus, at the tenth anniversary of the establishment of the order in Trenton.

He referred to the conditions in the Philippines and said that Secretary Taft, in dealing with the problems which had there confronted him had shown a breadth of view and grasp of the true situation which afforded a worthy example in affairs of government.

LOCAL POLICE CAPTURE A BOY BICYCLE THIEF

At the request of the city police, Chief Marsh Weiss and Marshall Keller, of the borough, last night arrested George Suydam, fourteen years old, of Jefferson avenue, on two complaints of stealing bicycles. One is preferred by George Pope and the other by Harry Bogert, both of whom had their wheels taken within the past month. He was arraigned before Judge Runyon today and after admitting that he was the thief, was held in $200 bail for the grand jury.

The fact that Suydam is the culprit was discovered by Chief Kiely and Detective-Sergeant Flynn who found a young man who had purchased Bogert's wheel of the prisoner. When the borough officers went to get the boy his father saw them coming and after telling him to hide he sought to keep the police from entering. Chief Weiss had to force his way inside. In his search for young Suydam, the wheel belongingf to Pope was found under a bed, although it had been painted and changed about so much that the owner had difficulty in identifying it.

The elder Suydam was in court this morning and was very flippant when Chief Kiely informed him he was amenable to the law in abetting a theft. He retorted that he was at his own home and that no one had a right to enter it against his will. The man's attitude was extremely querulous throughout and resulted in Judge Runyon speaking to him sharply before the proceedings were over.

Fresh Air Camp to Open July 6.

The Netherwood Fresh Air Camp will be opened for the season on Monday, July 6, when Miss Sara Curry, the matron, together with a large number of city children, will take possession of the Home. A devotional and musical service will be held at the Home each Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the new and commodious pavilion. Meetings will also be held on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of each week. A summer carnival for the benefit of the camp will be held on the grounds, Saturday, July 4, afternoon and evening.

Park Avenue Baptist Supplies.

Rev. A. E. Finn, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will spend his vacation at Jeffersonville, Montgomery county, Penn. The supplies during hisabsence will be as follows: August 2, Rev. G. M. Shott, of Newark; 9, Rev. O. T. Steward, of Roxborough, Philadelphia; 16, Rev. F. W. Lockwood, of Pittsfield, Mass.; 23, Rev. Asa R. Dilts, of Lewell, Mass.; 30, Rev. Judson Conklin, of Trenton.

Borough Firm Dissovles.

The partnership of Kirch & Zimmerman, grocers, of Somerset street, has been dissolved, and the business is now being carried on by George Kirch, who bought out his partner.

MRS. BOE TO GET DIVORCE

Nelson Runyon as Master Recommends Decree Because of Desertion.

HUSBAND DRUNK ALMOST DAILY

He Flourished a Revolver at Her—Mr. Boe Made No Defense in the Suit.

Acting as a special master of the Court of Chancery on appointment of Chancellor Pitney, Counsellor Nelson Runyon has completed the taking of testimony in the proceedings for divorce brought by Lena Boe, of this city, against William Albert Boe, and recommends that the petition be granted. Desertion is the cause ascribed for the action while case of extreme cruelty and habitual intoxication are cited in the bill of complaint filed.

In her testimony, Mrs. Boe alleges that she was married in this city on April 5, 1897, and lived with her husband in North Plainfield until September 28, 1903, when Boe deserted her and has never lived with her since, failing also to provide for herself and child. She states further that his action was probably due to his dissipation as he was intoxicated for days at a time and lost an excellent position in Newark because of his drinking. Mrs. Boe continues that on September 28, 1903, her husband came home runk and that he flourished a revolver about his head, threatening to shoot her. When she became frightened and attempted to take the weapon from him, he struck her and she was forced to flee to the home of a neighbor for protection.

Boe did not appear or contest the action in any way. He is still living in this city. Mrs. Boe is the daughter of Michael Weber, a well known local market man.

Got Ideas for Equipment.

A delegation from the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders paid a visit to the Court House in Newark recently in order to get pointers as to the interior furnishings of Essex's edifice. They were conducted through the various offices and were impressed with the natures of the get up. In the party were Freeholders Edward B. Hoagland and Thomas E. Gibson, ex-Freeholder William J. Logan, a member of the building committee, Mr. Gordon, one of the architects, and clerk Arthur P. Sutphen.

Fined For Spilling Macadam.

Gaston McNeal, colored, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Chief Marshal Wiess, of the borough, for carlessness in spilling crushed stone along Somerset street, from his stone wagon. McNeal is a driver for B. F. Tallamy & Bro. and was warned in the morning not to load his wagon so full that the stone would spill. He was fined $2 at his hearing last night before Recorder Dolliver. The police have repeatedly warned stone wagon drivers about spilling macadam, which is a menace to auto tires.

A Three-Legged Chicken.

A three-legged chicken is the latest borough nature-fake. It is one of a brood of eleven hatched out Saturday by a hen belonging to A. Wolf, of Duer street. The fowl is as strong and healthy as the other members of the brood, and the third leg is well-formed and strong. It grows out from the side of the fowl's body, below the wing. The brood, with No. 11, the three legged phenomenon may be seen at Mr. Wolf's home, 245 Grove street.

Campers Off Tomorrow.

Six members of the boys department of the Y. M. C. A. will leave tomorrow morning to spend the week at Lake Hopatcong, where a camping site has been selected and tents will be put up. The boys will be accompanied by Boys' Secretary Charles B. Batchelor, and the party will leave on the 8:21 train for the lake.

An LL. D. for the Governor.

Governor J. Franklin Fort will receive the degree of LL. D. at Middlebury College, Middlebury, Vt., tomorrow, at which time Rev. Dr. J. M. Thomas, former pastor of a church at East Orange, where Gov. Fort attends, will be installed as president. The Governor will make an oration at the ceremonies.

Wheelmen Dine at Iroquois.

Fifteen members of the Royal Arcanum Wheelmen, of New York, enjoyed a weekly run to this city, Sunday, and took dinner at the Hotel Iroquois. The city is again becoming the Mecca for cycle runs and from one to three parties stop at the Iroquois regularly.

The meeting of the W. C. T. U., Thursday afternoon will be of an evangelistic nature and wil be led by the superintendent of that department, Mrs. G. N. VanNest.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS

BOUND BROOK AND VICINITY.

Isaac Morgan Lewis, of Rocky Hill, and Miss Ethel Everett, of Clinton, will be married at the home of the bride's parents today. After a short wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Lewis will come to Bound Brook to reside.

A special school meeting of the legal voters of Bound Brook will be held in the High Street School building tonight to vote on an appropriation for the ensuing year. The Board of Education ask for $7,000.

Dr. and Mrs. C. R. P. Fisher have been entertaining their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher, of Ausable Forks, N. Y., at their home at Somerset street and Mountain avenue, Bound Brook.

Lieutenant F. S. Green, of East Second street, Bound Brook, has been spending a week in camp with his regiment, the Twenty-third Infantry, National Guard of New York, at Pine Camp, Defernet, N. Y.

Mrs. T. M. Burns and daughter, Miss Edith Burns, of Steubenville, O., are being entertained at the manse of the Presbyterian church of Bound Brook, the home of Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Culp.

Mrs. S. F. Green and children, of East Second street, Bound Brook, are visiting relatives at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Rev. Thomas LaMonte, of Bound Brook, preached in the local Congregational church Sunday.

NORTH BRANCH.

Jacob Glazier, of Newark, owner of the hotel at Martinsville, has a rooster that is caring for fourteen motherless chicks. They are now his constant companions and he evinces the greatest anxiety over their welfare and takes as good care of them as the mother hen would. The novel sight attracts unusual attention, and Mr. Glazier has refused a good offer for the rooster and his brood. The mother was killed when the chicks were two days old by being run over by Mr. Glazier's automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Marion Van Derveer have returned to their home in North Branch from a visit to friends in New York.

Abram King, of Plainfield, has been spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Wood, in North Branch.

Mrs. Margaret Layton, of Pluckemin, is entertaining Mrs. Erastus Randall, of Newark.

Miss Laura Sutphen, of Gladstone, is a guest of Miss Edythe Lane, at Pluckemin.

WESTFIELD.

Considerable change will have to be made in the bridge over the brook on Broad street; owing to laying the telephone conduit. The county engineer and a committee of freeholders have looked over the situation and a report will be made at the next meeting of the freeholders. The bridge is too small to carry the water that flows in the brook in time of freshets.

At the last meeting of the season, Westfield Advance Club elected the following officers: Walter R. Darby, president; F. E. Wheeler, vice-president; Mrs. M. B. Dutcher, secretary, and H. E. D. Jackson, treasurer.

Accountants from New York have been engaged to audit Westfield town accounts. The fee to be paid for the service is $200.

Council will receive bids for laying 5,700 lineal feet of bluestone flagging at the meeting July 6.

RARITAN.

Russell Coleman was the winner of the General Frelinghuysen Chapter, D. A. R., prize of $5, which was offered to the pupil in the Raritan school having the highest average in United States history.

Miss Emma Keighley, of Middle Haddom, Conn., is a guest of Mrs. W. F. Peebles, in Raritan.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perlee have been entertaining Mr. Burniston, of Marlboro, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Kelly have been entertaining Miss Lizzie Smith, of Elizabeth.

Miss Esther Freck is a guest of her aunt, Mrs. J. H. Ireland, in Elizabeth.

Mrs. M. E. Driscoll has been spending a week in Philadelphia.

Miss Jennie Hickey is a guest of friends in Philadelphia.

SOMERVILLE.

Rev. J. Charles Hoeffer, a student at Drew Theological Seminary, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church Sunday in the absence of the pastor, A. J. Bliss, who is attending the college in New York State.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fritts are entertaining Mrs. Jacob Lair, of Trenton, and Mrs. William Bourke, of Lambertville.

Miss Anna Laughton has returned from Lake Hopatcong, where she has been spending a week with friends.

Mrs. Clarence Lane, of Bernardsville, is a guest of her mother, Mrs. Henry Mundy in South street.

Miss Mary Bolton, of Plainfield, is a guest of her sister, Mrs. C. M. Kane, in Somerville.

Guy Noble, of West High street, has been spending a week at Atlantic City.

Robert Messeler and George Nevius are staying at Lake Hopatcong.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The members of the Middlesex county tax board—Wmfl H. Schlesinger, Dr. Frank Crowther and B. Frank Samsel, have been busy making the rounds of the rural townships and boroughs for the past few weeks going over the work of the assessors and revising the values fixed where they deemed proper. Some changes have been made, but nothing like the sweeping changes of the past two years. In 1906 the values jumped nearly $10,000,000 in Middlesex and about $5,000,000 last year. This year it is likely that the raise will not be much over $2,000,000, which would make the total for the county something over $53,000,000. The members of the tax board are meeting with a good many demands for reduction of valuations this year, but it is not likely that many will be granted.

Novel in the extreme was the program presented in connection with the smoker held under the auspices of the Dunellen A. C. at Jr. O. U. A. M. Hall last night. The affair was largely attended, and after the weed got fuming, there were exhibitions of boxing, bag punching, wrestling and various "gym stunts." A neat sum was realized for the club from the sale of tickets.

W. H. Cheever, of Plainfield, has been awarded the contract of painting the outside of the schools at East Bound Brook, South Plainfield, Randolphville and the Union School, and will begin work within a week.

Raymond and John Dutcher will leave within a few days for Asbury Park, where they will have charge of their boat on Deal Lake for the summer.

Routine business was transacted at the regular meeting of Friendship Council last night, and a social hour followed the business session.

Charles H. Thornton, Jr., of New Market, is visiting at the home of his aunt, Mrs. William B. Smith, of Caldwell.

Charles S. Day and son, Master C. Howell, spent the week-end visiting friends in Philadelphia.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Deacon Theodore I. Runyon will lead the prayer meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church tomorrow night.

Rev. Edwin Shaw, pastor-elect of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will preach his first sermon as pastor Saturday, July 4.

For the rest of the summer the Sunday school of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will meet at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, instead of 12 o'clock noon.

Bradley Hall, of this city, sang at the First Baptist church, Sunday, in place of George Smith, who was called away by the death of Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Jonathan Clawson.

I. W. Travell, principal of the Plainfield High School, will give a talk on "Persia," at the monthly missionary meeting to be held at Warren chapel, tomorrow night

During the balance of the summer the Sunday school of the First Baptist church will meet at 9:30 o'clock Sunday morning, and the regular preaching service will be at 10:45 o'clock.

The Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church will observe the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper Sunday morning, and the preparatory service will be held Friday night, as usual at this time of the year.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, former editor of The Sabbath Recorder, is now in the West attending demnominational conferences. He will also attend the General Conference at Boulder, Col., August 26-31.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel will hold an ice cream festival at the chapel Thursday, afternoon and evening, beginning at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. There will also be an informal program of music.

At a recent meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church the assistant treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Johnson reported $27 as being received from the members. This is in place of the annual festival by the society.

By request, the Flag Day sermon delivered by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss at the First Baptist church on Sunday morning, June 14, has been printed for the congregation. Those who listened to Dr. Chambliss sermon Sunday morning on the subject "Is prayer Scientific," would like to see that in print also.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will meet Friday afternoon, at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, 927 Central avenue. Miss Ada Fountain will give the review of devotional topics. Miss Bessie Flanders will speak on "People and Customs of Siam," and Mrs. Robert Lowery will give a reading.

With the Conquest Mission service at the Park Avenue Baptist church Friday night, the weekly Christian Endeavor Society meetings will close for the summer. The Endeavorers will meet during the season with the mid-week prayer sirvice. Friday afternoon the Intermediate and Junior Christian Endeavor Society will hold its final meeting for the summer. An interesting program has been prepared. Mrs. Charles F. Dayton will lead the service Friday night.

HUMAN HAIR FROM CHINA.

Ships Reach New York with Gruesome Consignments Intended for Use as "Rats."

New York, June 23.—A ton of Chinese hair, intended for the "rats" of American women, formed part of the cargo of the big freighter Wray Castle, which has just arrived from the Far East. A portion of the hair came from the heads of Chinese bandits, who had been beheaded. The hair is valued at more than $5,000.

Hardly had the consignment of the Chinese hair been brought to the American docks on Staten Island before the British steamship Seneca arrived at Quarantine with twenty-two cases of Chinese pigtails, which, according to Captain Grimes, were collected in Chinese cemeteries by crafty Americans.

"The gathering of human hair in China," said Captain Grimes, "is quite an industry over there. When a Chinaman is buried he is placed in a hole in the ground in an upright position, with the head sticking out of the ground. The head is closely shaven except for the pigtail. The Chinese believe that their big Joss comes around in the night and takes the soul of the buried one to heaven by the pigtail.

"After the first visitation of the Americans with their shears the brothers and sisters of the buried Chinamen reported that Joss had been busy with their relatives, and were content in the belief that Joss had lifted the souls to heaven by the missing pigtails."

---P. H. Latourette, auctioneer will sell the household furniture at 1230 East Front street, tomorrow at 1:30 o'clock.

—Colliding with a wagon near Pleasantville, Staten Island, Robert Wood, a member of the Plainfield Cycle Club, got a bad fall on Sunday's run to Midland Beach, and smashed his wheel. Aside from some painful bruises, he was uninjured. The cyclists, fifteen in number, had a fine swim at Midland Beach, where they stopped for dinner. They returned by way of St. George and the ferry to Elizabethport.

Clinton Avenue continues its winning streak and is making a strong bid for the Central Jersey championship. Manager Dorflinger has repeatedly tried to schedule games with Flemington this season, but cannot. We wonder why? Scotch Plains had no trouble getting a game with the Hunterdon county boys.

Exceptional fielding, including all sorts of ornate catches and stops, marked the games played at the Polo Grounds last week. Just to show that he is not a "dead one" Mathewson shutout Chicago Saturday by a score of 4 to 0.

Every one of the four games in the last Philadelphia-Cincinnati series was a shutout and though the Phillies lost three of them they made as many runs in the game they won as the Reds did in their three wins. Which goes to show that runs often would come in useful if they could be used in some other game.

The Mono F. C. will play a twilight game with Bound Brook at the latter place tomorrow night. The contest will start at 6 o'clock, and it is expected that a large number of rooters will accompany the Plainfield aggregation. "Hub" Conover will pitch for the Monos.

"Lou" Wiltse pitched for Jersey City against Buffalo, Sunday, and lost by a score of 9 to 3, the defeat due solely to the wretched support given by the team. The Skeeters chalked up seven errors, Joe Bean making two misplays, and Gastmeyer three. Luck seems to be against Wiltse this season for in nearly every game he twirls the team goes up in the air preventing a victory.

The New York Giants failed to appear at Elizabeth as advertised. Frank Burke, who last year paid $500 for the protection of the National Commission, was the cause.

Fred Glade, former star twirler with the St. Louis Browns, was knocked out of the box by his old team mates, while pitching for the Yankees on Sunday. He was looked upon as the main stay of the Yankees but for some reason he has gone wrong, like several other members of the team.

In Sunday's game between the Boston and Chicago Americans, Boston drove Manuel to the tall timber early in the contest, but Altrock, who succeeded him, was steady and the Beaneaters were defeated by a score of 7 to 3. Burchell pitched for Boston and only nine hits were made off his delivery.

GOLF.

Although Dudley Barrows returned a net score of 66 in a recent competition at the Plainfield Country Club, his gross was 70 and he had a handicap of four. The previous best score was made by Robert Abbott, when he made a 65 from scratch, which in reality is the lowest made by an amateur in competition. The best professional record is a 64 made by "Marty" O'Loughlin. This has never been lowered. Frank O. Reinhart also returned a 65, but that was before the course was lengthened.

"Marty" O'Loughlin played his first regular game, since the injury to his wrist in the south, on the Plainfield Country Club course this morning. He made no effort to play a fast game. His wrist is about as strong as ever and he hopes to engage in several big tournaments this season.

The pairings for the first round match play, club championship, at the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, will be as follows: First eight—Frank O. Reinhart and Arthur Murphy, Roger F. Murray and H. D. Hibbard, C. B. Morgan and W. Lester Glenney, Will T. Glenney and S. H. Patterson. Second eight—C. E. Cathcart and P. H. Stewart, L. A. Chase and C. E. Halsted, R. G. Morse and W. D. Riggs, C. C. Burke, Sr., and Julius E. Erickson.

This week's competitive golf attraction will be the annual championship tournament of Staten Island, to be held at Fox Hills, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 25, 26 and 27. Although John M. Ward, who won the title several times, will not be a competitor this year, having resigned from the Fox Hills club, the field is not likely to lack in quality, for it is possible that some of the best players in the East will be found at the first tee on Thursday morning.

Included among the honorary members at Fox Hills are such well known amateurs as James D. Travers, of Montclair, the national champion; Findlay S. Douglas, of Nassau; Charles B. Macdonald and H. J. Whigham. It is not known as yet whether any of these experts will take part.

Speaking more strictly of the Staten Island "regulars," the most fancied wil probably be P. W. Kendall, Bert Allen, C. West Taintor and C. T. Stout. Both Allen and Kendall do their best playing over the hilly Clifton course.

Conditions call for an eighteen-hole medal play qualifying round, the first sixteen to qualify for the championship and the second sixteen for a cup. The winner of the championship will hold the Branch medal for one year, and will be presented with a replica to be kept by him permanently. He will also receive a cup as the winner of the first sixteen. The first match round will be at thirty-six holes.

Entries should be sent to the Fox Hills Golf Club by 6 p. m. on Wednesday or to A. H. Pogson, chairman of the tournament committee, No. 42 Broadway, this city, not later than today.

Gilman P. Tiffany, who won the Hudson River Golf Association championship title for the fifth year in succession at Briarcliff on Saturday, has been playing at the top of his game for the last few weeks. A recent demonstration of this was a record score of 74 he made over the links of the Twaafskill Golf Club, of Kingston.

The competitive season of the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club began on Saturday, and from now until October the cottage colony at Southampton will be kept busy following the white ball down among the sand dunes. The annual invitation tournament, on August 6, 7 and 8, will be the chief attraction. On August 15 the Shinnecock team will have a match with the Maidstone Golf Club over the former's links. The return match will be decided at Maidstone on August 29.

Thank heavens, we will soon be rid of that nauseating "Nick and Alice" business.

The latest recruit to the army of "also rans" in Jersey politics is the Independence League.

Mr. Bryan is making a strong bid for the labor vote but the American workingman never did take to anything that meant no work.

Judging by the rapidity in which they are coming his way, Governor Fort will soon be able to paper his library with LL. D. diplomas.

Frank S. Katzenbach is a fine fellow; all together too fine for any one to wish him such hard luck as to have his name coupled with that of W. J. Bryan on a Presidential ticket.

Montclair's "dog gone" ordinance has been put in effect. The town fathers of that community, however, are not entitled to a "bark" over their silly mandate that provides a penalty of $5 for every time a canine barks at night.

Governor Fort has made a four months in advance election prediction. In his opinion Mr. Taft will carry New Jersey by 40,000. Inasmuch as the Democrats have not held their convention as yet, of course, the governor is unable to state the trivial fact as to over whom this majority will be given.

BOTH MOTHER AND SON ARE SUING FOR DIVORCE.

Mother and son both suing for divorce from husband and wife is the feature of a novel situation which has developed in Court of Chancery litigation in Trenton. The complainants are Mrs. Mary Van Doren Smith and Clinton Smith, Jr., and the defendants are Clinton Smith, Sr., and Mrs. Lillian Cheeseman Smith, respectively, all well known Trenton people. The same lawyer is the representative of both mother and son who charge the husband and wife with desertion.

Novelty is added to this unusual combination of suits by reason of the fact that counsel wrote to the son and secured from him information on which to base an affidavit that service in the suit was made on the accused husband and father.

RAILROAD MEN CAPTURE ALLEGED PICKPOCKETS

Caught in the act of picking the pocket of a passenger on a Central Railroad train just at is was leaving the Jersey City terminal Sunday, Walter Metcalf, and Charles Murphy, of New York, were arrested by Detective Reagan, of the Central Railroad, and Patrolman Brown, of the Jersey City police. The men were taken to police headquarters in Jersey City, where they are held pending examination. Both men are well known to the New York and Jersey City police and their pictures are in the rogues' galleries of both cities. Inquiry will be instituted to see if the men know anything of a gang of crooks which has been operating along the Central Railroad between Plainfield and New York for some time. When arrested the men carried tickets which entitled them to free transportation to Westfield on an excursion run by a land company of that place to exploit its sale of lots.

The prisoners also answer in some particulars the description of men who were in the Elizabethport station of the Central Railroad some time ago when several passengers who were waiting for a train had their pockets picked for various sums.

Early Sunday morning a passenger on a train which left Jersey City for Plainfield discovered that his pocket had been picked of a considerable sum of money. He at once notified the conductor, who immediately communicated with the railroad police. The officers who were seeking the gang of crooks known to be operating along the road were at once put on the case.

Officer Reagan, who was stationed at the Jersey City terminal, kept a sharp lookout all morning, and shortly after 2 o'clock in the afternoon, he was rewarded for his trouble. While mingling with a crowd of passengers who were walking from the ferry to the outgoing trains he saw several men dodging in and out of the crowd in a suspicious manner.

Keeping right behind the men he gave Officer Brown a wink and together they watched the men enter the cars of a Westfield train. At the door of a smoker one of the suspected men is alleged to have made a grab for the pocket of the passenger directly ahead of him, and at the same time another fellow ran into the passenger, pushing him violently to one side. During the commotion caused by the push the fellow behind succeeded in bringing the man's wallet from his pocket and was putting it in his own pocket when seized by Officer Reagan. The other fellow who was attracting the vicitim's attention with apologies, was taken by Brown. The prisoners were at once hurried away from the crowd of passengers, who quickly found the cause of the trouble and threatened the captured men with violence.

On one of the prisoners was found a pocketbook containing $90, which was aterward identified as belonging to the man who had his pockets picked early in the day, besides various articles of jewelry. One man had $9.50 in a wallet.

REGULAR ARMY HOSPITAL CORPS FOR GUARDSMEN

One of the new regular army innovations for the National Guard of New Jersey this year will be a hospital corps for every regiment that appears on the camp ground at Sea Girt.

Special details of men for the duty have heretofore had charge of work of this character. Under the Dick bill, however, it has been necessary for Colonel Thomas S. Chambers, adjutant of the brigade staff, to issue orders directing the permanent transfer of a number of men from each regiment, troop and battery for service in a regular hospital corps.

These orders have just been forwarded to the officers in authority. Provision is made for the special uniforms that will be required in the duty of caring for and otherwise attending the sick and injured, and there is every other arrangement for the different corps to go to camp as fully equipped as are the hospital corps in the regular army.

According to the orders of Colonel Chambers, among those who will be appointed to permanent hospital work in the Second regiment, is Charles F. Phillips, of Company K. There will be eight separate corps in all, and all the men are transferred to the service of the official medical department. There will be special drills and experiment for the newly named corps this year and they will be given first instructions before the encampment opens.

Disappears with Pay Roll.

The police are searching for William A. Taylor, Jr., who disappeared Saturday morning after drawing $500 from the Commercial Trust Company, at Jersey City, to pay the employes of the Carrington Construction Company.

Special Rates to Asbury Park via New Jersey Central for G. A. R. Encampment, June 25 and 26. Round trip tickets from Plainfield $2.20; good going on any regular train, June 24, 25, 26, and returning to and including June 29. 6 23 3

LORD MEMORIAL FOUNTAIN ARCHITECT IS SELECTED.

John Russell Pope, of New York, has been selected as the architect for the Lord Memorial Fountain, which is to be erected at the corner of Grove and Main streets in Somerville on the county land and adjacent to the fine new Court House, which is now in course of construction.

Work on the new fountain will not be started until some old buildings now located on the site are torn down.

The Lord Memorial Fountain will perhaps be one of the finest of its kind in the State. It is to cost $13,000 and will be built in the main of white marble, but granite or bronze will be employed in the drinking basin for horses and in the base and other accessory parts.

The will of the late Miss Alliene Lord makes provision for a memorial which, in the words of the testatrix, is to be constructed in the form of "a drinking fountain I want erected on a good site in memory of my brother, John H. Lord." The executor of her estate, Hugh K. Gaston, Esq., of Somerville, was appointed to select the architect and procure a suitable design for the proposed memorial by means of competition and by his request his friend, J. Harper Smith of Somerville, was associated with him in conducting the competition.

The executor retained as his professional adviser is Warren P. Laird, Professor of Architecture in the University of Pennsylvania.

The competition was restricted to three architects, with the result that Mr. Pope was successful. The successful architect is to receive a fee of $250 and each of his competitors $100.

BOOMING KATZENBACH FOR SECOND PLACE.

New Jersey is to cut some figure in the Democratic national convention next month, for the Democrats of this state have about perfected their plans to put Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., of Trenton, in the running for vice president. They have ascertained that Katzenbach is acceptable both to Bryan and Johnson, and propose to get in to win.

Ever since Bryan made a visit here last May there has been talk about a long conversation he had with Mr. Katzenbach. Today it is said that Bryan was immensely pleased with the popularity of Mr. Katzenbach, and believed that in him he would have a running mate who would carry New Jersey and be a power in the conservative East.

Besides, the Bryan managers who are engineering the deal see in getting Katznbach for the tail of their ticket that he will get hold of the old Democratic vote of this state. Katzenbach is powerful. He defeated United States Senator Frank O. Briggs for Mayor of Trenton, although the Republican majority is usually overwhelming. Last year he came near defeating John Franklin Fort for Governor, although three years before the Republicans polled a majority for Stokes for Governor of 52,000 and for Roosevelt for President, 81,000.

Governor Fort was at the State House today, the first time since the Republican national convention. He predicts that New Jersey will go 40,000 for Taft and Sherman. When told that it was a strong possibility that Katzenbach would be the running mate of Bryan or Johnson and his attention called to the fact that Katzenbach came within 8,000 votes of defeating him for Governor, he refused to be quoted further.

BLACKSMITH SKIPPED OUT WITH A FARMER'S WIFE.

Cranbury is in the throes of the shock of its lifetime because the village blacksmith, James Dey, has eloped with Mrs. Laura Dolan, aged 22, wife of Edward Dolan, a neighbor of the blacksmith.

The couple disappeared last Thursday. At first the two disappearances failed to arouse comment, but later it was found that Dey had gone to Trenton and taken a car to New Brunswick, and that Mrs. Dolan had taken a car of the same line at Dayton. Frim this city they traveled together to Jersey City, where they were seen Saturday.

Mrs. Dolan's father and Constable Jacob Gordon went to Jersey City yesterday trying to find a trace of the pair. No complaints have been made but the friends of the parties concerned are anxious to bring them back.

Dey ran a blacksmith shop at Stuits' Corner, about a mile from Cranbury. He is 37 years of age and has a wife and two nearly grown up sons. Mrs. Dolan deserted her husband and three-year-old baby. Dalon is a farmer and fairly well off. There had been no suspicion of any intimacy between the couple.

Important Changes at Eden Musee.

Many important changes have taken place during the past few weeks at the Eden Musee of New York city. The interior has been changed and decorated with palms and greens so as to give the effect of a conservatory or summer garden. One of the most interesting portions of the Musee is the American gallery. This contains subjects of United history from the beginning of the Revolution to the present day. The groups and figures in this gallery have been completely renovated and nearly all of the figures supplied with new costumes. The rearrangement as taken place shows the groups in artistic manner as well as in chronological order. The groups representing American history have been made with much care and with a strict attention to detail. Among the groups are: "Settlement at Jamestown," "Pocahontas saving John Smith," "Spirit of '76," "Admiral Farragut at New Orleans," "Lincoln Freeing the Slaves," "Last Moments of John Brown," "Surrender of Lee," "Dewey at Manilla," and "Heroes of the American Army and Navy." With the approach of hot weather the Musee has installed a cooling apparatus through the interior and no matter how warm the weather is there are always cooling and refreshing breezes in the Musee. New moving pictures are received by every steamer and the entire new collection is placed on exhibition each week. The new pictures are scenes of travel in foreign countries, interesting bits of scenery, quaint and picturesque happenings and customs of people in strange lands. Other subjects are of a humorous character which are mystifying in the extreme. The afternoon and evening concerts have choice programs of classical and popular selections.

Convict Dies in Prison.

Andrew Banks, a negro convict, died yesterday at the State prison at Trenton of tubercolosis. He was sentenced from Middlesex county for three years for atrocious assault and battery. Coroner Bower will have the body buried in the prison cemetery.

TROLLEY WIRES FAILED TO BALK JENSEN'S WORK.

Perth Amboy, June 23.—Johan Jensen was recently awarded the contract for moving the public bandstand from City Hall Park to the corner of Fayette street and New Brunswick avenue, and to do the work he had to cross the trolley tracks on Smith street.

Without notifying the local representatives of the Public Service of his intentions, Jensen started work Saturday afternoon. He loaded the stand on an improvised dray, drawn by four horses, and started for its destination. The Saturday afternoon rush was on, but Jensen paid no heed to the remonstrance of employes of the trolley department of the corporation and drove his horses across the tracks when he reached Smith street. The heavy feed wire held the stand fast, the horses blocking the cars at Madison avenue, where the attempt to cross was made. Superintendent Huffnagel refused to cut any wires. Jensen then put his men on top of the band stand and they lifted the feed wire over the pagoda-like roof of the stand.

Once under the feed wire, the bandstand moved half a dozen feet and was then held fast by the trolley wire. To lift that was more of a task, as it was fully eight feet below the peak of the roof and it was half an hour later before the stand was released, and the blockade lifted. Cars were held nearly an hour.

Employes of the Public Service were busy Saturday afternoon and evening, and nearly all day Sunday repairing the damage to electric light wires which were in the path of the moving stand. Jensen says that he defies the Public Service Corporation to take any action against him.

FOUNDER BRADLEY TO START AN AUTO LINE.

Bradley Beach, June 23.—The season at this resort is advancing and both transient and permanent residents feel that the little borough is destined to have a profitable year. For the purpose of giving amusement and pleasure to the summer visitors, James H. Bradley has arrangements under way to run an automobile line between Fletcher Lake and Avon at the nominal fare of five cents. Whether the scheme will prove a paying proposition or not appears to be all one with Mr. Bradley.

He has evinced more than passing interest in the police department of the town also, and has purchased for Police Marshal Hickman a phaeton and a set of harness. Mr. Bradley formerly gave the officer a horse, but decided lately that the policeman did not appear to advantage astride the steed, hence the carriage.

Atlantic Casino here will be opened July 1 for the season and moving pictures will be shown there every evening except Sundays. On the same date the bowling alleys will be opened and it is the plan of the management to hold tournaments where ladies and gentlemen's prizes will be offered for the highest seashore score. The latter part of this week sill see the opening of Ellor's bathing pavilion. On Thursday of this week the Hotel La Reine will be opened. It has been newly remodeled and entirely renovated.

LETTER-CARRIERS DINE KELLY.

National President Guest of Honor at Banquet of Union County Association.

William B. Kelly, president of the National Association of Letter-carriers, was the guest of honor at a banquet in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, Saturday night, arranged by the letter-carriers of Union County. In his address, President Kelly praised Senator Kean for his work in the interests of the carriers. Charles Duffy, of Paterson, president of the State association, declared that the carriers were in sympathy with Potsmaster-General Meyer's effort in behalf of a parcels post. John A. Ryan was toastmaster. Other speakers were William S. O'Brien, president of the Elizabeth organization; James J. Gallagher, of the executive board of the national organization; John Hines, of Plainfield; Robert J. Winans, of Cranford; E. E. Ripley, of Plainfield; Alfred B. Cook, of Ranway; Thomas A. Butler, of Roselle; E. E. Heimmel, John Keimig and James J. Donavan, of Elizabeth. The committee of arrangements included John A. Sullivan, John J. Walsh, William G. Malsch, E. E. Ripley, A. Cook, Robert J. Winans, George C. Clark and George V. Kleinhans, of Roselle.

Gold stars were presented to Thomas R. Trimble and Charles E. Sanders, who will complete, on July 1, thirty-five years in the Elizabeth post office service.

Taft at Interstate Fair.

Frank Hitchcock, who managed the campaign that led to the nomination of William Howard Taft for President, has promised to do what he can to have the Republican candidate come to Trenton in the fall, during the week of the Inter-State Fair. The promise was made to Colonel A. R. Kuser, General C. E. Murray and Colonel Mahlon R. Margerum.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

Mr. and Mrs. John Dolbow, of Mannington, will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage next Saturday.

The board of inspectors of the State prison have completed plans for the equipment of the old parts of the prison with modern sanitary appliances.

One mad dog in Malaga has made all the other dogs mad because they must now wear muzzles under an edict uttered by the Township Committee.

Falling downstairs yesterday Mrs Margaret Owens, forty-five years old, of 409 Liberty street, Camden, sustained a fracture of the leg and was cared for at the Cooper Hospital.

The Atlantic City Press Club will entertain the legislative correspondents of Trenton next Friday on an outing. A trip over the water, a dinner and a tour of the boardwalk in roller chairs has been planned.

The Woodbury Council, at its special meeting Saturday night, rescinded its previous action in declaring the special voting machine election off in view of its removal, and the election will be held tomorrow.

Postoffice inspectors yesterday afternoon arrested Lewis Hewitt, of Atlantic City, a carrier for the last fourteen years, on the charge of robbing the mails. Decoy letters were sent, and one was found on the accused.

Because of the increase of railroad fares to seashore resorts, the Retail Grocers' Association of Trenton has abandoned the annual excursion to Atlantic City, which has been enjoyed by thousands of persons during the past fifteen years.

Many persons from Kensington visited the North Cramer Hill shore, East Camden, Sunday afternoon, and saw three women immersed in the Delaware by Rev. C. D. Sanseman, of Philadelphia. Rev. William Anderson, of Twenty-fourth and Wharton streets, Philadelphia, baptized three men and two women in the river Saturday night.

Rendered unconscious by a fall of about ten feet from a hay loft, at Trenton avenue and Line street, Camden, yesterday, George Daly, twenty-eight years old, was being kicked by a horse when a neighbor happened in the stable and had the injured man sent to Cooper Hospital. Physicians found severe lacerations of the face and chest, and a cut about the head.

Jake Shubert, connected with the theatrical corporation owned by the Shuberts threatens to bring action against Dr. Cochran and one of the employes of the Apollo Theatre, Atlantic City. He alleges that they attacked him while entering the theatre with friends, he having failed to show tickets. Policeman Appel, who separated the belligerents, saved a lively mix-up in the lobby of the theatre.

SMALL BOY'S WARDROBE.

Striped madras is a favorite material in the suits of the small boy.

The Russian blouse suits are nearly all made with the yoke, sailor collar and general finish of the Peter Thompson.

An original appearance is bestowed by the diagonal opening of the tunic.

Some of the smartest of these are in checks and stripes and conform to models of adult overcoats.

For the boy with the Lord Fauntleroy temperament white reefers are offered.

Black and white and navy blue and white stripes will form correct hosiery for the small boy.

The wide-brimmed straw sailor is inflected variously for his wear.

Local Option's New Champion.

After long and careful consideration Bishop Whitaker, of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Pennsylvania, has publicly taken a strong and practical position in favor of local option. In his message to the clergy upon the subject the Bishop said:

"For my part, I believe in the right of the majority to decide what policy shall be pursued in regard to the sale of intoxicants.

"To me it seems that the time has come when the majority of voters in any ward of a first-class city should be allowed to say whether liquor licenses shall be issued or not.

In the last analysis local option means simply the granting to the majority of voters, the right to exercise that power which, under our republican form of government, undeniably belongs to the majority.

"Upon this point I have no doubts whatever, and so, in the present situation, with conditions being what they are, I am for local option."—Bucks Co., Pa., Gazette.

Building Imaginary Railroad.

An imaginary railroad is being built between New Brunswick and Plainfield by the forty students of the engineering corps of Rutgers College. The corps of men is under the instruction of Professor Alfred A. Titsworth, Professor Richard C. Morris, of Rutgers, and Harold Segoine. The men are compelled to put in a work day of ten hours, and start at 8 a. m., quitting at 6 p. m.

BAMBERGER'S
THE ALWAYS BUSY STORE
MARKET, HALSEY & BANK STS.

New Jersey's Greatest Mail Order Organization.

We are justly proud of our mail order system. We feel that it is one of the strongest links in the chain of this great store's success. We want you to use it—test it thoroughly and allow us to demonstrate its many splendid advantages. The Bamberger mail order system is not the result of a day, but the culmination of years of painstaking effort. In fact, this branch of our business is so perfectly organized that you may shop as quickly by mail as in person. There are no delays—no errors—satisfaction is snugly packed with each parcel we send out. If you are not a patron (which is highly improbable) send in a trial order and you'll quickly realize the truth of the foregoing statements.

CHILDISH IMAGININGS.

Children and their susceptibility to impressions or suggestions, whether waking or sleeping, though with special reference to the latter, was the subject of a recent discourse before a class in psychotherapy. Much of what was related was the result of personal experiences, and the method used was sitting beside the child in its sleeping state and talking to it, always giving suggestions of both a positive and negative character. The treatment is usually for some specific thing; and while the operator would not attempt to handle a very young child whose mind had not yet reached an actually receptive or responsive state, he thought that young people, up to the age of 14 or 15 years, were peculiarly responsive to this sort of treatment.

It was shown by the speaker that in most cases the subjects receive the impressions which the operator intended to convey; that their subsequent life is shaped in accord with these suggestions and that they are meantime quite unaware of the method that has been utilized, although one story was related from the floor of a boy who was cured of the "moving picture" habit (he had developed an uncontrollable desire to attend these performances), who afterwards related that he had lost all desire to go to these shows because of a dream. The dream, as was explained, was the talk which his father had given him during a period of sleep.

Children are far more susceptible than grown folks. They live in a world of suggestion. It was wrong to give a child elaborate mechanical toys, for instance, which leaves nothing to the imagination. The flowers and fruits of imagination never should be repressed. He approved of fairy tales and Bible stories, but such things never should be told a child which would tend to shock or startle it. He also disapproved of allowing a child to read the morbid and criminal incidents in newspapers. Preferably it should be the mother who should operate on the child, and never a stranger with whose voice the child was not familiar. It should be told what it ought to do and what it ought not to do. Morbid fear is something of which a child's mind can be rid through this process. Unless such a case were properly handled there is danger of a child becoming abnormal and over-sensitive.

SHAVIAN SOCIALISM.

George Bernard Shaw comes to the front again with a brand-new interpretation of Socialism. "What the Socialist movement means," he explains, "is that agitation should go on until there is no such thing as unearned income." If Socialism really meant this, and only this, every right-minded man would be a Socialist. Clearly, an unearned income is an indefensible thing. It goes without saying that every form of monopoly or privilege which enables one man, or group of men, to eat bread in the sweat of other men's brows is iniquitous and ought to be abolished. Society ought to organize its economic institutions in such fashion that no one could reap where he had not sown—that no one could draw an income without rendering proportionately great service to society. Years ago William Morris propounded three simple principles of social organization, which he rightly held to be self-evident, to wit: There is a certain amount of work that has to be done in any society; every member ought to do his fair share; no work should be wasted. He might have added another principle, namely, no one onght to be permitted to draw pay unless he does his due stint of work. It would be idle to contend that the present organization of society realizes these principles. But it may fairly be argued that an economic system like the present, based on private property, personal liberty and individual responsibility, approximates more closely to their realization than could any socialistic regime of common ownership, social compulsion and collective responsibility. And it is furthermore reasonably clear that the improvement of society must come through constructive measures designed to strengthen and perfect the present system, rather than through a revolutionary overturn of the entire structure. Socialism strikes at the very foundations of the progress thus far attained. The aim of the socialist movement may be, as Mr. Shaw asserts, to put an end to unearned incomes, but its success would destroy the main incentives to productive effort and would extend to all members of society an invitation to become pensioners and parasites.

Leather Belts, Etc.

Leather belts are still worn, though you will need your mostly for wear with the heavy weight walking skirt and shirtwaist that you don on rainy days. The belt of the season is the lingerie or silk, and a few in woven designs look well with fancy shirtwaist costumes. The dotted belt that matches the linen collar is worn, though the eyelet enjoys no favoritism this season and the pretty ones have been thrust down into the basement counters of the large stores, where a handful can be purchased for the price of one last year.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will hold a regular meeting tonight.

AS MEANS OF IDENTIFICATION.

Mrs. Brady's Helpful Hint to Her Faithful "Micky."

The Bradys used to drive several miles to mass each Sunday in "the little thrap" with "th' ould gray mare." Micky, "the boy," a being of many summers, whom custom and a conservative tradition had, in spite of his uncertain years, always treated as the possessor of perpetual adolescence, drove. Next him sat Mrs. Brady, decorous in black, while scattered about the straw in the body of the vehicle, was a large assortment of "the childer"—Bradys of all ages, sexes and sizes, bare-legged and otherwise—each exuberant and articulate.

It remains to this day a disputed point among the Bradys as to what memory of earlier and more frisky days induced "th' ould gray mare" to behave as she did on this particular Sunday.

Rounding a corner, she swerved into the ditch, and before Micky, the boy, could cope with the situation, a pile of Bradys, vertical and horizontal, had been dumped into the ditch, with the little trap turned over and resting on top of the struggling heap.

Then, high above the babel of cries came Mrs. Brady's voice: "Pull me out, Micky, for the love o' hivin! The black legs is mine!" — Cleveland Leader.

MORE THAN THEY COULD STAND.

Fish Story Too Much Even for Hardened Listeners.

"Speaking about showers of fish," said the solemn-looking nature faker from his seat on the starchbox, "reminds me of the time we were marooned on an island in the blue Pacific. For two hours there was a shower of fresh mackerel and, strange to say, they all dropped into a salt lake on the mountainside. That brined them."

"Whew!" the old codgers chorused in unison.

"But that's not the strangest part of the story. Ten days later a cyclone came along, picked up the brined mackerel and dropped them into a hot spring. That boiled them; and, gentlemen, they were the finest boiled mackerel you ever tasted. I thought about sending some home to the folks, but—"

There was a sudden interruption and six strong men took the nature faker outside and ducked him in the horse trough.

Important Find of Old Coins.

In the side of an old well where it had lain undisturbed for 2,200 years, an earthenware jar containing 500 pieces of the time of Alexander the Great has been found, at Luxor, Egypt. One hundred of these were specimens of the silver tetradrachm of Alexander the Great, a coin corresponding in weight to our half dollar. The pieces are very thick and are made of silver of great purity. The obverse bears the head of Hercules in a lion's skin; the reverse shows Zenus seated in a chair. All bear the name of Alexander in Greek, Monograms and mint marks of great interest were found on many pieces of this lot, and some of the pieces bore the Greek word for the mint marks, designating the towns or cities where they were struck. The coins are all in very high relief, so that only two or three could be stacked together without their tumbling over.

Money in Growing Pecans.

Strung along at a few points north of Jackson on the Illinois Central a few years ago some enterprising gentlemen established pecan groves. We remember two years after one grove of about 5,900 trees was set out in a territory previously given over to commercial fertilizer, short staple cotton and poor white people. The natives were exceedingly amused that a man could be so visionary as to expect to get any returns for money thus invested. There were even more enlightened people who passed by on comfortable trains and smiled at the experiment. To-day that grove is keeping its owner in clover and he can go to Europe every summer if he is so inclined.—Meridian (Miss.) Star.

Air Pressure and Health.

Investigating the effect of compressed air on health, two British engineers have shown that a pressure of 92 pounds a square inch—more than six atmospheres—may be endured without unpleasant results. The pressure must be taken off at a uniform rate, however, at least 20 minutes being allowed for each 15 pounds of reduction, and capillary circulation in the body must be kept up by muscular exercise during compression. Slight temporary neuralgic pain in the arms was the only ill effect of the great pressure.

Play Has Historic Characters.

Alfred Testoni's new play, "Gioacetine Rossini," which was recently performed for the first time is described as the "life of the great master of music." In the fourth act, which is laid in Paris in 1860. Richard Wagner appears as one of the characters. He is still unknown and is spoken of as the embodiment of the glorious future, while Rossini is spoken of as the glorious past. A third in the group is Vincenzo Bellini. The title part was played by Erneste Jacconi.

Chinese Official Pawnshops.

Pawnbrokers in Peking, having refused to reduce their 50 per cent. rate of interest, the municipal board has opened official pawnshops, charging only 15 per cent.

We've been doing it for thousands of others for nearly 50 years at this same old, well known "73 Market Street" address, and certainly ought to have the knack by now! There's a lot of good common sense reasons for using us, these among others:

1st—Immense stocks of latest styles in every good grade to pick from.

2nd—Whether purchase is one or a hundred dollars, your account is equally welcome!

3rd—Prices are always plainly marked—and always the lowest, owing to enormous purchasing power.

4th—As little as $1.50 a week or $6.00 a month pays for $100 worth of goods—other amounts in proportion.

5th—We want your trade—and cordially invite comparisons!

IN THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

The Christian Literature society of China has appealed for funds for its new business premises in Shanghai.

The Salvation Army has secured the old town hall at Whitby, England, for its barracks, the rent to be a half crown a week.

The Nonconformists have won a decided victory for religious equality by securing the right to enter the new infirmary chapel at Newcastle, England.

The Baptist Union of Great Britain has sent a memorial to Emperor William in grateful acknowledgment of the protection he has extended to Baptists in Germany.

The centenary of the evangelical divine, Rev. John Newton, who died in 1807, has been especially observed recently at his own church, St. Mary Woolnoth, in London.

The Church of England Waifs and Strays society, of which King Edward is patron, has in 26 years been the means of rescuing and making provision for over 13,100 children.

Episcopal laymen in New York have founded what is to be known as the Church Workers' commons, being a school for the training of lay workers with three courses of study.

Mission work among the Zulus never had a better outlook than now, for the government of Natal is in harmony with the missionaries and anxious to aid them in every possible way.

Benevolent contributions of the Lutheran church for the past year were a little over one dollar per member, totaling $2,200,471, which is an increase of a quarter million over the previous year.

The German bishops are greatly aroused over the pope's recent encyclical regarding modernism and feel that insufficient study of the matter was given so far as the kaiser's empire is concerned.

SUNFLOWER PHILOSOPHY.

You can make up a quarrel, but it will always show where it is patched.

A man has so many enemies you don't dare say anything good about him.

Most people laugh, not when they want to, but when people think they ought.

There are not many men who think their wives have any sense in money matters.

It is your friends who pick you to pieces; other people are indifferent and let you alone.

We used to know an old bachelor who said he could always tell a married man by his hang-dog look.

Your friends may sometimes act mad because you do not come to see them, but they are not as mad as they seem.

There are times in every man's life when the way to earn his friendship and gratitude is to ask him no questions.

The first day a man is out of a job he aims to get the position of cashier in a bank; the second day he dreams of a clerkship, and the third day he is wretched because he can't get the janitorship.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Cleave to the good and use a cleaver on the bad.

It is all that some men can do to keep from being done.

Anyway, the self-made man hasn't anyone to blame but himself.

A lie must travel with some rapidity in order to avoid being nailed.

Life is too short for a man to do all the things his wife wants him to do.

The politeness of some men causes them to be looked upon with suspicion.

Isn't it funny how funny some comedians think people think they are?

What this world needs is an additional supply of men and women who talk less and say more.

If a woman can't say anything mean of a rival she is pretty sure to remark: "Well, she'll bear watching."

Every time we hear a man abused behind his back it reminds us of the fact that we all catch it when we are not present.—Chicago Daily News.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Rev. William Patterson of Bethany church, Philadelphia, has been recalled to his old pulpit in Cooke's church, Toronto.

Socialism preached by Rev. J. D. Long of the Parkside Presbyterian church at Flatbush, N. Y., has caused a number of members to leave.

The Salvation Army of San Francisco has "launched" a new meeting hall. It is built in the form of a great battleship and the sailors of the fleet will be entertained there when they arrive.

SUN'S RAYS ABOVE THE CLOUDS.

Balloonists Compelled to Shelter Faces from the Fierce Heat.

At the height of two miles the sun shines with a fierce intensity unknown below where the dust and the denser air scatter the rays which, thus diffused, lose their intensity while illuminating every nook and corner of our houses. At heights exceeding five miles this diffused light is mostly gone and the sun shines a glowing ball, sharply outlined in a sky of which the blue is so dark as to approach blackness. At the outer limits of the atmosphere the sun would appear a brilliant star of massive size among other stars; and if one stepped from its burning rays into shadow he would enter Egyptian darkness. At the height of a mile and a half we found it necessary to shelter our faces to prevent sunburn, although the air around us was but little warmer than that of the previous night, being about 45 degrees. As the afternoon wore on and the balloon began to cool and sink, we were obliged to throw out much sand, casting it away a scoopful at a time, and just after sunset it was even necessary to empty two or three bags at once.—Atlantic.

TRAITS OF AUSTRALIAN GIRLS.

Equally at Home in Saddle or Ballroom, Says Writer.

Many Australian girls live right up in the bush, or "stations," which are miles away from any town or village, and their time is largely occupied with riding and driving; they are as much at home on a horse as a duck is in the water, and think nothing of riding 20 miles or so to pay a visit, says a writer in Woman. Household duties claim a share of their time, however, and any day they are liable to be left without servants and with a house full of visitors, but are in no wise daunted by such an occurrence. Then the bush girl comes down to the capital for the season, and far from appearing a country bumpkin or a tomboy after her free and open-air life, she is as much at home in a ballroom as any town-bred girl, as neat and well dressed as if she had never ridden barebacked over wild tracts of country with little thought of appearances.

Circumstantial Evidence.

"You say you met the defendant on a street car, and that he had been drinking and gambling," said the attorney for the defense during the cross-examination.

"Yes," replied the witness.

"Did you see him take a drink?"

"No."

"Did you see him gambling?"

"No."

"Then how do you know," demanded the attorney, "that the defendant had been drinking and gambling?"

"Well," explained the witness, "he gave the conductor a blue chip for his car fare and told him to keep the change."—Lippincott's.

Family of Sixty Millions.

The most conspicuous trait which has been revealed in the character of the oyster is its abhorrence of race suicide. An extremely fat and vigorous oyster has been known to produce as many as 60,000,000 eggs, while 16,000,000 is a fair average. Suppose there were but a single pair of oysters at the beginning, how many would there be in the fifth generation if every egg developed? If you can get the correct answer, it will be just exactly 66,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000.—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

Decadence of Wagering in England.

We have lost our love of wagering, and perhaps this is not a matter for general regret. Yet it seems to me that there was much harmless merriment in the readiness with which men of all classes staked sums, according to the means at their disposal, to show that they had at any rate the courage of their opinions.

In these strenuous times few have the opinions, and fewer still the money with which to back them.—Fry's Magazine.

A Different Bird.

A Philadelphia school teacher was having a class in reading, and the subject was how an eagle had carried a small baby out of its cradle and taken it away to its nest on the mountains.

As the story seemed to impress the children, she tried to explain to them that it was only a story—that eagles did not carry off little children.

Just then a little hand was raised and a small boy remarked, "Please, teacher, the stork does that."

Prudence.

"So you have determined to civilize our country," said the swarthy native.

"We have," answered the resolute white man. "Now, tell me what feature of civilization interests you most?"

"Well, if you are absolutely determined to civilize us, I'd like to take out some life insurance."

Out of the Mouths of Babes.

Little Arthur stood peering down into the countenance of his baby sister, whom the nurse was singing to sleep.

"Say, nurse," he finally whispered, "it's nearly unconscious, isn't it?"

The nurse nodded in the affirmative, and sang on.

"Then don't sing any more, or you'll kill it."

THE MISSES WILDEY WINNERS AT TENNIS

Miss Edna Wildey and Miss Natalie Wildey and Mrs. A. H. McCarthy, of this city, figured prominently in the annual lawn tennis tournament for the championship of the United States in women's singles, doubles and mixed doubles which began yesterday on the courts of the Philadelphia Cricket Club. The entry list comprised a higher average of players than has ever before gathered for this event. Of the fifty-seven contestants in the singles, twenty-seven survived the first day's play.

In the women's singles, first round, Mrs. A. H. McCarthy, Plainfield, beat Miss Elizabeth Taylor, Philadelphia Cricket Club, by default; Miss Natalie Wildey, Plainfield, beat Mrs. Kern Dodge, Germantown Cricket Club, 7-5, 9-7, and Miss Edna Wildey, Plainfield, beat Miss Marion Cresswell, Philadelphia Cricket Club, by default. The play will be continued today.

Both the mixed doubles and the men's singles, an extra event, which will be started today, have record-breaking entry lists. Among those entered in these events are Beals C. Wright and W. J. Clothier, both former national champions; Wallace F. Johnson, Jr., the national interscholastic champion; Dr. E. B. Dewhurst, the Pennsylvania State champion and Irving C. Wright.

BASEBALL.

The Plainfield Giants and the Rahway Giants played a tie game on Saturday, the score being 9 to 9. The batteries were Moore and Hammond and Garner and Willis. The features were the batting of Carter and Warrick, of the home team and the fielding of Brown, of the visitors.

SOMERVILLE WINS FROM ELIZABETH, 16 INNINGS.

The West Ends, of Somerville, won their first game this season Saturday afternoon at Cammann Field, that place, when they defeated the Elizabeth A. C. by a score of 5 to 4, but they had to go sixteen innings to do it. It was by far the best game seen in Somerville this season. Pitcher Kraft having gone to High Bridge, Francis Bergen, son of Justice James J. Bergen, was on the slab for Somerville, and for sixteen innings held Elizabeth to six hits and struck out fifteen men. He only gave one free pass. With Frech catching it made the whole team composed of Somerville and Raritan players. Bergen is a student in the preparatory school at Princeton, and is developing rapidly into a first-class pitcher.

The score:

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

Old Newspapers.

Printers' Ink, in commenting on the oldest newspapers of the United States forgets the Elizabeth Daily Journal, which was established as the New Jersey Journal in 1779. The statement made that few newspapers in this country have rounded out a century of continuous existence, and that most all of them are published along the Atlantic coast, is probably true. At Portsmouth, N. H., the Gazette claims to be 152 years old; in Newport the Mercury has had an existence of 150 years. The semi-weekly edition of the Hartford Courant was established in 1764; the Salem, Mass., Gazette in 1768; and down in Annapolis, Md., the Gazette acknowledges 1745 as the year of its birth. Among the dailies that are 100 years old are the Baltimore American (1773) and the New York Evening Post (1801). Others which have been published for so many as 100 years, according to Rowell's American Newspaper Directory, are the following: Northmapton, Mass., Hampshire Gazette (1786); Philadelphia North American (1771); Saturday Evening Post (1728); Norwich, Conn., Courier (1796); New York Commercial Advertiser (1797), Commercial (1795); Catskill, N. Y., Recorder (1792); Trenton, N. J., Gazette (1792); Portland, Me., Advertiser (1785); Eastern Argus (1803); Doylestown, Pa., Intelligencer (1804), and Rutland, Vt., Herald (1794).

Interest in the question has recently been called to mind by the fact that two Western newspapers, one of which is the St. Louis Republic, will celebrate their hundredth anniversaries this year. In this connection the Journal has been asked, with other well-known dailies, to contribute a bit of its own history. —Elizabeth Journal.

Assemble for Diocesan Retreat.

Rectors of 110 churches in the Newark Diocese assembled at Seton Hall College, South Orange, yesterday morning for the first diocesan retreat of the year. The retreat is conducted by members of the Jesuit order and will continue until tomorrow. On the last day Bishop John J. O'Connor will attend the retreat and convene the triennial diocesan synod. At this time new diocesan rules will be announced, and the Bishop will appoint the priests recently ordained and name a successor to the Rev. Dr. Hugh P. Fleming, rector of St. John's Church, Orange. Dr. Fleming has retired as rector emeritus.

Mrs. Norman Fox, of New York, is spending some weeks at Netherwood.

FATALLY INJURED IN BOARDING A TRAIN.

Elizabeth, June 23.—William Riding, thirty-seven years old, married, and whose home is at 429 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn, was fatally injured at 11 o'clock Sunday night while trying to board a train at the Elizabethport Station of the Jersey Central.

He had been in Elizabeth during the past week looking for work and was on his way home when the acciden occurred.

His skull was fractured and one of his legs so badly crushed it will have to be amputated.

At the Alexian Hospital, where Riding was taken, it was said to-day no hope is entertained of his recovery.

GIRL'S ESCORT STABBED 16 TIME

Resented Italian's Alleged Insult and Knocked Him Down.

John C. Seiss, son of George Seiss, a hotelkeeper, of Hudson street, Hackensack, resented last night the seeming familiarity of a young Italian toward Miss Agnes Bishop, whom he was escorting home, and now he is in bed suffering from about sixteen stiletto wounds. His assailant, it is said, was Ernest Cavalerie, a friend of the young man.

Young Seiss demanded an opology and knocked the Italian down four times. As Miss Bishop was striving to separate the fighters Cavalerie, it is charged, pulled a stiletto and stabbed Seiss in the breast, shoulders and back. One wound was within half an inch of the heart. Cavalerie made his escape.

U. S. Grand Jury Session.

The United States Grand Jury held its final session yesterday at Trenton and will make its report to Judges Lanning and Cross of the Unied States Court. The foreman of this Grand Jury is Admiral John C. Reed of the U. S. Navy and who was in charge of the flagship Olympia and who would have been in command of the ship at the time of the battle of Manilla bay had he received his dispatches in time. Former United States Senator Blodgett is another member of the Grand Jury and William R. Sweeny is also a member and was chosen at sergeant-at-arms by Admiral Reed, who is foreman. Francis Bazley Lee, of Trenton, was chosen clerk.

Merry Widow Hat Saves Her.

Miss Sarah Watson, sister of City Recorder John Watson, was on her way to the Pennsylvania Railroad depot, at New Brunswick, yesterday, morning to go to New York, where she is employed as a stenographer, when a seven-pound hammer was dropped upon her head by some careless workman employed on a railroad bridge over French street. Miss Watson wore a Merry Widow hat and possess an abundant growth of hair, which was arranged pompadour, and this saved her skull. She was taken to her home in a carriage and attended by Dr. A. L. Smith.

Blue Ribbon Horses Sold.

One of the handsomest teams of horses ever seen in the city was sold yesterday at the Central livery on East Second street to J. W. Husted, of Peekskill, N. Y., through his representative, S. L. Monk. The animals are a seal brown color, perfectly matched and were the property of E. B. Allen, of Flemington. They are roadsters and have taken numerous blue ribbons at state shows. The consideration is said to have been $2,500.

THAT VEXING PROBLEM OF SEWAGE DISPOSAL

The Newark Evening News yesterday editorialy discussed the subject of sanitary sewage disposal in this fashion:

"The time is not far distant when a trunk sewer will have to be built to carry off the sewage of all the cities and towns in the Raritan River Valley. The subject has been given some consideration in past years, rather as a prospective than an immediate necessity, and plans have been outlined, but nothing definite has been proposed simply because the necessity for such a sewer had not become imperative.

"One of the schemes suggested was to build a trunk sewer from Dunellen or Plainfield, parallel with the Central Railroad, and large enough to carry away the sewage of Plainfield, Fanwood, Westfield, Cranford and Roselle and empty it into the State Island Sound somewhere between the cities of Elizabeth and Rahway. The scheme had good backing but failed to interest the municipalities most concerned.

"Now the conditions are considerably changed. The State Sewerage Commission and the State Board of Health have become interested in preventing the further pollution of the Raritan river, and several of the largest towns on the banks of that stream have been officially notified that they must stop emptying their sewage into it and defiling its waters. They have been given only two or three years in which to comply with this demand.

But all these towns and cities are growing rapidly, and their sewage is increasing proportionately. The need of some effectual, adequate and permanent means of disposing of their waste becomes more imperative with each succeeding year. Plainfield is about to construct over seven miles of new sewers, and Fanwood, Bound Brook, Scotch Plains, North Plainfield, Dunellen, Lincoln, Somerville, Raritan and New Brunswick are all interested in the subject of sewage disposal.

"There is a nice, costly engineering problem to be solved, if the State insists upon protecting the waters of the Raritan river from pollution. Disposal beds are already in operation at Plainfield, but a large number of towns situated in close proximity to each other would find it difficult and expensive to provide and maintain separate disposal beds. They will, in time, have to unite upon one great disposal system or else combine to build a trunk sewer.

"This is a matter that can be decided upon now, better than at any later period. Had something of the kind been done fifty years ago in the Passaic Valley, this river would not now be a tide of moving pollution, and the necessary trunk sewer would have been built, paid for and put in operation long since. The Raritan river is practically the only important stream in the State that has not been thoroughly polluted, but the towns and cities already named have grown so rapidly in recent years that a trunk sewer may be necessary to prevent the repetition of the awful, unsanitary mistake made in the Passaic Valley."

To Amputate His Thumb.

Charles H. Hall, the Watchung avenue druggist, will have his right thumb amputated by a New York specialist tomorrow as the result of an accident that happened about six months ago. At that time, Mr. Hall cut the thumb on an ice cream freezer and the bone has become affected as a result of the accident. Yesterday he had a piece of the bone removed in an operation at the hospital, but amputation will be necessary and he will go to New York tomorrow for the operation.

Bernard J. Morris Killed.

Bernard J. Morris, aged 29 years, a well-known young man of Elizabeth, was killed on the tracks of the New Jersey Central, that place this morning. He was attempting to cross the tracks in the freight yard, where several engines were drilling back and forth, and becoming confused stepped in front of an engine drawing two cars. His skull was crushed and the body considerably mangled. Death was instantly. Morris was a prominently member of the Ancient Order Hibernians.

WHO SHOULD OR SHOULD NOT WEAR EARRINGS.

The Earring Face—There's just such a thing, and in this day when the modes exact that every woman shall take unto herself the long pendant earrings, it is well to remember it. The wearing of earrings is, in fact, almost as much a matter of temperament as is the wearing of a mantilla. And a woman with a retrousse nose and a retreating chin, a woman with hard, sharp blue eyes and a mop of tow-colored hair is apt to look as irrevelant to a pair of long pendant earrings as wuld a fox terrier to a poodle's crimpled hair.

No, the kind of beauty demanded by this ornament is a langorous one, a contour of face that is Southern if not Oriental, and eyes that hold homething of the tragic in heir depths. One of the faces that seems to be made for these picturesque earrings is that of Mrs. Pat Campbell, to whose dark and alluring beauty they add the final emphasis. Bertha Kalish, too, in the play in which she recently appeared here, wore long pendants in her ears, which, swaying beneath the parted rolls of dark hair and against the pillar-like neck, seemed to express the disaster which haunted her brooding face.

Yes, the pendant earrings are decidedly for her of the dark parted hair and the tragic face. But as for the saucy and piquant woman, let her beware of hanging half a necklace from her ears.

A PECULIAR FACT.

Millinery has a different effect upon different people. While its cost may in a few instances drive some husbands mad, it seldom, if ever, happens that a woman regains her reasons through the means of a new hat.

Recently a gentlemtn whose wife was confined to a sanitarium because of a severe case of melancholia, and who the physicians declared was incurable, regained her reason in this way, says the Millinery Trade Review. Her husband called to take her home, and, observing that she was rather shabbly dressed, started out, with the assistance of a nurse, to secure a new hat and coat, that she might appear somewhat up to date. The poor woman was somewhat indifferent as to the appearance of the coat, but when the hat was placed upon her head she instinctively glanced at a mirror to see if her hat was on straight. She was delighted, and, weeping tears of joy, flung herself into her husband's arms, exclaiming: "I'm well again. I'm well again."

Something in her head, she said, "had snapped," and she was soon herself again. The formal of this case is that many a man's wife would be kept out of the sanitarium if they would let something in their wives' head "snap" instead of snapping their pocketbooks when asked for money for a new hat.

A VELVET CLEANING AGENT.

Anyone who has tried to keep a velvet hat or frock clean does not need to be told it is a dust collector. This trying trait may be turned to account.

A bit of velvet is a fine polisher for brass. It quickly removes the dust from woodwork, or shoes soiled from walking which do not need reblacking.

One housekeeper even uses a big piece of old velvet to rub her stove to a high polish after it has been blackened.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

FORMER PRESIDENT GROVER CLEVELAND IS DEAD

Grover Cleveland, former President of the United States, died suddenly at his home at Princeton at 8:40 o'clock this morning.

Dr. Joseph D. Bryant, of New York, paid him a visit yesterday, and it was given out that Mr. Cleveland was gaining strength.

Mrs. Cleveland was the only member of the family with him at the time of his death. The children are at Tamworth, N. H., with Mrs. Cleveland's mother, Mrs. Perrine.

Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland returned from Lakewood on June 1.

Grover Cleveland was the twenty-second President of the United States. He was three times nominated by the Democratic party for the highest office within the gift of the people and twice elected to that office.

Grover Cleveland was born in the little town of Caldwell, Essex county, New Jersey, on March 18, 1837. His father was Richard Falley Cleveland, a graduate of Yale University and a Presbyterian minister.

At the time of Cleveland's birth his father had charge of a parish at Caldwell, and he named his son Stephen Grover, after the Rev. Stephen Grover, who was one of the Rev. Mr. Cleveland's predecessors at Caldwell. But the first name was soon dropped and the boy was called by his parents simply Grover.

When Grover was 4 years old his father accepted a call to the town of Fayetteville, near Syracuse, N. Y. There the boy got some schooling at the Syracuse Academy. But is was necessary for him to become self-supporting at the earliest possible moment, and at the age of 14 he went to work as a clerk in a country store at Fayetteville.

Subsequently Cleveland's family removed to Clinton, N. Y. At the Clinton Academy Cleveland continued his education, and he had hopes of being able to enter Hamilton College. The death of his father, however, made this impossible, and when he was 17 he went to New York city and accepted the position of an assistant teacher at an institution for the bind.

The young man's cherished ambition however, was to become a lawyer, and in 1855 he borrowed $25 from a friend and started for Ohio, where he had heard of an opening in a lawyer's office. On his way West he stopped at Buffalo to see his uncle, Lewis F. Allen, a stock-breeder of that section. His uncle induced him to remain with him for awhile and assist him in the preparation of a work to be known as "The American Herd Book." For his services Cleveland received from his uncle $60.

In 1855 Cleveland entered the employ of the Buffalo law firm of Rogers, Bowen & Rogers, as a clerk and copyist. His salary was $4 a week.

Cleveland was elected assistant district attorney of Erie county, but was subsequently defeated for the district attorneyship. He was thirce chosen sheriff and then elected to the mayoralty.

Just as his conduct of Mayor of Buffalo had made him the Democratic party's logical candidate for the Governorship of New York, so his conduct as Governor made him a possibility to be reckoned with when the Democratic National Convention met in Chicago on July 8, 1884. He was nominated against James G. Blaine, the Republican candidate and was elected.

The Democratic party had not had a President of the United States seated in office for twenty-four years when Cleveland was inaugurated on March 4, 1885. Naturally the demand for Federal offices and Federal patronage was terrific, but to the surprise and consternation of the party leaders the President proceeded to pick his own advisers and in a general way to ignore the machines of his own party.

To the Congress of 1887-88 President Cleveland sent his famous tariff for revenue only message, a message that urged, in fact almost demanded, a sweeping revision of the tariff schedules to the point that duties should not be collected on the necessaries of life beyond the actual needs to meet the expenses of government economically administered.

Cleveland was renominated in 1888 without opposition in the national convention, but his tariff reform message and other official acts, especially his vetoes of private bills, had estranged him from the bosses and leaders of his party, and he was defeated for reelection by Benjamin Harrison, the Republican candidate. He was elected for the second time in 1892, after having been nominated as the Democratic candidate against Harrison, who was renominated by the Republicans.

In 1895 President Cleveland was called upon to deal with a great foreign problem. An insurrection in that year occurred in Cuba, then a Spanish possession. President Cleveland was urged by the Senate and the House of Representatives to recognize the insurgents as belligerents, the Congress passing a resolution to that effect. But he declined to do so.

The boundary dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela furnished the most exciting incident of the second Cleveland Administration. In July, 1895, Secretary of State Olney, through the United States 9mbassador at the Court of St. James's, informed Lord Salisbury, the British Premier, of the interest which the United States, in accordance with the Monroe Doctrine, took in the dispute; but Lord Salisbury replied that he could not see that the United States had any just concern in the matter, and refused to submit the entire boundary question to arbitration, as the United States wished. The despatches which had passed between Secretary Olney and Lord Salisbury were submitted by President Cleveland to the Congress on Dec. 17, 1895. In a special message from the Chief Executive which accompanied the submission of the correspondence President Cleveland declared that it was now the manifest duty of this country to appoint a commission to determine with exactitude the just boundary line between Venezuela and the Britisn possessions.

The British press and public waxed indignant at what they called America's insolent intervention, but

DAILY PRESS NAMED HIM

Grover Cleveland Gave This Paper Credit for Being First to Boom Him for 1902-6.

ADMITTED FACT IN A LETTER.

Banner Displayed by The Daily Press as He Passed Through City on March 6, 1889, Read, "Cleveland, 1902."

(From The Plainfield Daily Press of June 28, 1892.)

"Only because of the varied claims many people of many parts and by many papers have caused the rise in progress of a doubt as to by and where Grover Cleveland was first nominated for President in 1892, does The Daily Press put aside its natural and customary modesty to set at rest the question.

"The honor belongs to The Daily Press and the glory to Plainfield. On March 6, 1889, three years, three months and twenty-one days ago, a big banner was printed in this office, bearing the announcement of our faith and hope; "Cleveland 1892." It was swung to the breeze by the hands of two of the reportorial staff at the railroad station that afternoon, and was then brought back to where it hangs today on the walls of The Daily Press composing rooms. The following from these columns of March 6, 1889, explains the occasion of such early public expression of our desire and expectation:

"Mr. and Mrs. Grover Cleveland, and Mrs. Folsom, and Col. Lamont and his family, passed through Plainfield this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock on their way to New York.

"As the train dashed through this city, a large banner was displayed at the station inscribed,

"Cleveland in 1892."

"It caught the ex-President's eye as he gazed from the window, and he turned and bowed with a smiling face. Further proof is needless of our right to the honor of first naming Mr. Cleveland for the nomination that has just been so gloriously accorded him. His appreciation of The Daily Press esteem and admiration, he expressed as follows:

"J. A. Demarest, Esq.:

"Dear Sir—Your letter has been forwarded to me here, but the paper to which you refer has not reached me. I suppose it is at my office in New York.

"Though my only political concern is to see the Democratic party true to the Democratic faith and honest in its professed adherence to the cause of the people, I am not insensible to the evidence your note furnishes of your friendship to me personally.

Yours very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND."

The Great Democrat Clinches the Claim.

(From the New York Journalist.)

"The Daily Press of Plainfield, N. J., claims the honor of having first nominated Grover Cleveland for the present campaign for the Presidency. It recently published an article re-

Boiler on "Pennsy" Wrecking Locomotive Exploded at Stelton Yesterday.

NO CHANCE FOR ESCAPE.

Bodies of Locomotive's Crew Hurled Hundreds of Feet—Engine Killed Two Persons Two Years Ago.

Three members of the wrecking crew of the Pennsylvania Railroad, stationed at New Brunswick, were killed when the locomotive of the wrecking train blew up at Stelton soon before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The victims were:

William Roberts, engineer, of New street; John Holman, fireman, of 88 Huntington street; Robert Donnelly, flagman, of 188 Albany street.

The accident occurred on Track 2, a short distance west of Stelton. The engine, 363, was going toward Metuchen. It left New Brunswick at 12:30 to distribute ballast along the road, and was running very slowly. The three victims were in the cab, when without warning the locomotive boiler blew up. Just how the accident occurred is unknown.

The body of Engineer Roberts was found on the track. The body of Fireman Holman was blown into a cornfield 300 yards to the rear of the engine. A strange feature of the accident was that Holmans overalls, which he wore at the time of the accident, were found hanging in the telegraph wires thirty feet above the track. It is supposed that his body shot directly through the wires.

Donnelly was blown down the Stelton Lane Road, in what is known as the cut, near the bridge, a distance of 250 yards. All of the bodies were badly mangled. The locomotive which blew up is the same one that killed Mr. and Mrs. Isaac P. Dunn, two well known residents of Stelton, at the Stelton crossing as they were returning from services in the Baptist church there two years ago.

Y. W. C. A. GERMAN NIGHT.

Play German Games and Converse in That Tongue.

Last evening was "German Night" at the Young Women's Christian Association. Girls who claimed German as their "Vaterland" and girls who had been learning in association classes came together for a home night. There were forfeits for any who spoke English, so the poor unfortunates who did not know German had a sorry time of it. The German games, however, were strangely similar to the English ones and every one made merry.

Not the least attractive part of the evening was the few minutes before the party brokeup, when everyone gathered around the piano, and with Miss Helen Brown as accompanist, sang songs of the homeland.

The success of the evening was due in a large measure to Fraulein Frieda Michaelis, Fraulein Lisca Berndt and Miss Brown.

For Benefit of Day Nursery.

A fair and sale held a few days ago under the auspices of several children at the home of Mrs. Daniel R. Douglass, on Grove street, netted $7 for The Day Nursery, one of the charities supported by the City Union of The King's Daughters. Mrs. Douglass assisted by Mrs. H. G. Drew, was in charge of the affair and the children who were at the various booths and tables were as follows: Lucy Douglass, Helen Hummel, Rose Andrews, Ida Hummel, Florence Reed, Nora Reed, Florence Douglass, Randolph Douglass, Elsie Hodgskin, Henrietta Stuart, Marguerite Barkalew, Dorothy Martin, Hoyt Hopkinson, Mabel Douglass and Murray Campbell. Last night the company of children called at the home of Mrs. Anna M. Most, treasurer of the City Union and presented her with the $7, and received her thanks and commendation for their efforts.

Talk on Insects and Dumb Animals.

Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor of Trinity Refromed church, will conduct a service Sunday morning especially for the Sunday school. He hopes to have as many members of the school present as possible especiallly the younger ones, and he will give a talk to them on cruelty to insects, birds and dumb animals. In the evening, Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, accompanied by several little children, will be present and speak and sing.

Fair for Fresh Air Home.

Under the auspices of the Girls' Jolly Circle a fair and sale of ice cream will be held on Watchung avenue, nearly opposite Neuman Brother's grocery, Saturday afternoon and evening, the proceeds to be devoted to the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp.

SMALL BOY'S MISTAKE MAY COST HIM HIS LIFE

In an attempt to pilfer a little condensed milk from a can on the dining table at his home, last night, Henry Sauermilch, son of Jacob Sauermilch, of Scotch Plains, got hold of potassium of lye by mistake and may die as the result of swallowing a large quanity of it. The boy's mouth, throat and stomach were badly burned and his condition at noon time was serious. Dr. F. W. Westcott was called as soon as it was learned what the little fellow had done and the physician spent the greater part of the night with him.

The boy has been very fond of condensed milk and was in the habit of dipping spoonsful from a can at every opportunity. His mother forbade his doing it and last night he sought to get some without her knowing it. The dining room was in darkness at the time and instead of getting the condensed milk can he picked up the potassium of lye that had been inadvertently placed there by a member of the family a short time before. It was due to his haste to swallow some of the sweetening quickly that the caustic reached his stomach.

KNOCKED DOWN BY CAR, AGED MAN BADLY HURT

Struck by a south-bound trolley on Somerset street near Stonewall Jackson's stables, last night, Harvey S. Moore, of Madison avenue, was thrown heavily and lies at his home today suffering from his injuries and the shock. Mr. Moore, who is eighty-seven years of age, was crossing the track to board the car, accompanied by Jacob Long and his nephew, Samuel F. Moore, of Wilkesbarre, Pa. He was struck with great force, hurled against the other two, throwing them down. His right leg was severely gashed in the calf, the wound being eight inches in length, and necessitating eleven stitches to close it. His side was also badly bruised, but an examination showed no broken bones, and it is believed that he received no internal injuries.

The three had been together at Mr. Long's home for the evening and Mr. Long and young Mr. Moore took the old man out to the car. Seeing the car coming, they signalled for it to stop, but Mr. Long says that it continued at full speed, "about a mile a minute." Mr. Moore was struck as he was crossing the track and thrown against the other two, who were knocked down and bruised. The injured man was picked up by his companions and put on the trolley, taken directly to his home. Dr. M. B. Long was summoned and the gash in the injured man's leg was closed with eleven stitches.

He spent a sleepless night, but is resting more easily today.

Motorman Bates, who was in charge of the car, said today that his car was moving slowly, under brakes to stop for the two members of the party who had already crossed the track. He said that he inquired about Mr. Moore's injuries, but was told that he was all right, and took the injured man on board the car.

New Idea Men Delay.

The members of the New Idea party deciding that the present spell of warm weather is not conducive to arousing enthusiasm in political affairs, has indefinitely postponed its meeting for organization and adoption of campaign plans. It is now proposed to plan for a larger meeting in the near future to be addressed by several prominent speakers. This, it is believed, will attract those interested in political matters and result in the formation of a stronger organization. A meeting had been scheduled for last night after an attempt to arouse enthusiasm enough to hold one a week ago, had been made.

Elks Receive Invitations.

The members of Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., have been invited to take part in the installation of a new Elk lodge at Belleville, tomorrow night. District Deputy A. D. Findlay, of this city, will pass over the charter and the paraphernalia. The local lodge has also been invited to assist in the first anniversary exercises of Rahway lodge, Friday night, when a dinner, smoker and vaudeville show will be given at Rahway Inn.

Father Butscher Completes Visit.

Rev. Father John Butscher, who is an assistant to Dean McNulty at Paterson, returned to the latter city yesterday after a visit with local relatives. Father Butscher is a former Plainfielder and has been meeting with much success in his parish work at Paterson, to which place he was assigned after his graduation from Seton Hall.

LOCAL OPTIONISTS ACTIVE

ATTACK ON HUGH F. FOX.

Newarker Wants Plainfielder to Tell What Right He Has to Organize "Personal Liberty Leagues."

"Apathy on the part of Christian voters is directly responsible for the continuance of the liquor curse in this State," said Former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer, addressing nearly a hundred supporters of local option at the Y. M. C. A. auditorium last night. Despite the heat and the lack of liquid refreshment in accordance with the character of the meeting, Mr. Swackhamer and Rev. E. H. Curits, of Newark, who was the other speaker, held the interest of the gathering by powerful addresses on the local option movement, which will still be boomed in New Jersey.

"Being a Christian at the Ballot Box" was the topic of Mr. Swackhamer's address, which was a dramatic appeal for local option. "The blame for the liquor curse in New Jersey," he said, "does not lie with the liquor dealers or the brewers now, but with the voters, the Christians of the communities. The consciences of some of these are quieted by the fact that the big trade in liquor turns in $1,800,000 annually to the public treasury of the State, and helps to support our public institutions. But there is over one billion dollars actually spent to produce that revenue. The liquor curse is like a great disease plague in a community, and local option gives people an opportunity to stamp it out. According to law, a citizen cannot have on his premises anything that will cause injury to his neighbor, and yet the law allows the rum shops to ruin thousands of boys and girls every year. Over in England, statistics show that eighty-five per cent. of crime and pauperism is due directly to drink. Every Christian city should agitate this vital question and force it to an issue."

Following Mr. Swackhamer, Rev. Mr. Curtis took the rostrum. He has just returned from Ohio, where he has been successful in his work for the cause in securing the passage of a county local option law. A Methodist minister in Newark, Mr. Curtis is working for the Anti-Saloon League interests. He was leader of the local option forces in the campaign against Assemblyman Randolph Perkins in this county last year. His topic last night was "The People's Fight for a Fighting Chance," and at the outset he expressed his gratification for the result of the local option campaign in Union county last year. He spoke of the passage of the local option law in Ohio, when only eight dissenting votes were cast. "The feeling is strong out there in the Legislature," he said, "and a minister was received with hisses when he attempted to make an address in the legislature against local option.

"A Plainfield man high in the councils of the United States brewers," he said, "is going through New Jersey organizing so-called 'personal liberty clubs.' He has never taken trouble to explain to the local option people just where the 'personal liberty' comes in, or go into any detail as to the purpose of the club. He may try to form such a club in Plainfield, probably will, in fact. Such a move would be against the personal liberty of the Christian tax payer. A man's personal liberty ends where his neighbor's rights begin. I appeal to you tonight to stand together as Christian people for majority rule, for I believe that the majority never makes a mistake."

OWL CLUB TO OCCUPY ROSE COTAGE AT 'PATCONG.

Instead of camping out as has been the custom heretofore, the members of the Owl Social Club, the well known West End organization, have decided to try cottage life for a change this season. They have secured Rose Villa at Nolan's Point, Lake Hopatcong, and will occupy it from July 19 to Aug. 1. It is one of the most attractive cottages about the big water sheet and the members will give numerous house parties while they are in possession. The idea is something new as most organizations prefer to live under canvas while enjoying the summer outing.

The members of the club who will be included in the party are George Smith, George Schlick, Jacob Schlick, Frank Jellig, George Mead, Harry Wierenga, Charles Ryder, Edward Mattell and George Green.

—Included in the fine assortment of fruits at Neuman Brothers are Pocono Mountain huckleberries, Georgia peaches and fancy melons. Early morning deliveries.

AS TO POSTOFFICE SITE

Merchants Association Prefer Iroquois Hotel Property to the Durlach Tract.

IT IS MUCH MORE SUITABLE.

Board of Trade's Action Repudiated By Storekeepers Who Want a More Central Position for Building.

The Plainfield Merchants' Association at its regular meeting, last night refused to endorse the proposition to locate the new Federal building on the Durlach property at East Front street and Watchung avenue as the Board of Trade in hasty fashion did recently. The decision was reached after an animated discussion on the part of the members. It was the general opinion that the proposed site is not a good one chiefly on the ground that it stands two far from the centre of the business section. They considered the present location of the postoffice more central. Another objection was that the trolley cars turn off Front street into Watchung avenue, at that point, instead of continuing through East Front street.

While the merchants were unprepared to endorse any particular site, judging by the discussion they favored the one where the Hotel Iroquois now stands. The proposition to favor the Durlach property was presented by F. A. Duttenhoffer, and after the association declined to endorse it, he announced his purpose of circulating a petition urging nevertheless that that property be purchased for the postoffice building.

The association was again urged to lend its influence toward the movement to establish an automobile bus line between this city, South Plainfield and Metuchen and Milton Mendel, who has been agitating the proposition, was present to explain what has been accomplished. It was stated that a certain amount of capital would be necessary before the line could be put in operation but the association is not in a position at present to undertake the improvement from a financial standpoint.

Several other matters of minor importance were discussed and disposed of and a committee was appointed to look up certain propositions with a view to helping the association to carry out some of the objects for which it was organized.

DARROW AVENUE SCHOOL TO BE BEGUN AT ONCE.

Ground plans for the foundations of the new Darrow avenue school, at Darrow avenue and West Sixth street, were staked out yesterday afternoon, and the work of excavation will be begun at once. James W. Lanning, of Trenton, is the contractor, and the building is to be completed by August 18, 1909. The architects are Hale & Rogers, who prepared the plans for the new Plainfield High School building.

The Darrow Avenue School will have twelve rooms and an auditorium, accommodating 600 pupils. Pupils will go to it from the Washington school and some from the Irving school. In the fall, the Board of Education will take up the matter of the erection of another new building to relieve the crowded conditions in the West End.

Kitchen Shower for Miss Dunavan.

A kitchen surprise shower was tended to Miss Eva C. Dunavan at her home on East Second street, last night, by the S. S. S. Social Club, of which she is a member. The affair was planned by the Misses Minnie and Marie Hahn and about twenty members and friends were present. Miss Dunavan was out calling when the guests arrived and a telephone message brought her home, only to be greatly surprised by the unexpected invasion. The lawn was illuminated and decorated for the occasion and the young people enjoyed playing games there, after which all adjourned to the house where a musical program was given and refreshments were served. Miss Dunavan received a large collection of useful gifts.

Dennis O'Loughlin Recovering.

Dennis O'Loughlin, of West Second street, who the police say slashed himself with a razor Monday afternoon, was reported today as resting comfortably. He was greatly weakened by loss of blood but the cuts on his throat and wrist are not serious.

Borough Council Next Wednesday.

The Borough Council will hold its July meeting next Wednesday night, instead of Friday night, the set date for the session. The change is made so that salary warrants may be given out before the holiday.

PARTAKES OF ICE CREAM AND DEATH MAY RESULT.

The people of Beemerville, are greatly alarmed over the mysterious illness which has afflicted a number of those who attended the recent graduating exercises of the Beemerville Public School, and partook of the ice cream and cake served afterward.

It is generally believed that Charles Couse Sr., Charles Couse, Jr., one of the graduates, and Rev. W. G. Westervelt, of the Beemerville Presbyterian church, who became very ill the next day, were poisoned by the ice cream, which was purchased from Sussex Borough. Others have been stricken. Mr. Couse, Sr., will likely die. Dr. R. M. Curts, of the Paterson General Hospital, was notified and assisted by Dr. H. D. Van Gaasbeck and Dr. J. D. Haggerty, of Sussex, performed an operation. Mr. Couse has a sister, Miss Charlotte Couse, living in Newark.

WOMAN ABLAZE LEAPS FROM BURNING BOAT.

The naphtha launch Roy, owned by Sherman Zeluff, of Staten Island, had a narrow escape from destruction by fire near Elizabeth Monday. The boat was lying in Staten Island Sound at the foot of Elizabeth avenue, and on board of her were two women and four children. The gasoline tank of the vessel exploded and the flames rapidly spread.

The frightened women and children made a dash to get on the dock. The older woman's clothing caught fire, and the crew of the launch shouted to her to jump overboard She did so and was rescued by George Guerren, engineer of the boat, only slightly burned. Callman Decker, a fireman, of Elizabeth, got the other woman and the children safely off the burning craft. They all belonged on Staten Island, and their names were not learned. Firemen put out the blaze with their chemical apparatus. The damage to the launch was about $100.

Divorce Case Before Appeal Court.

Trenton, June 24.—Franklin W. Fort, son of the Governor, appeared in the Court of Errors and Appeals Monday as counsel for Florence Maud King, who is seeking a divorce from Charles Sandford King. She came to this State from New York for the purpose of instituting the divorce action, and although her two years had no permanent place of residence. The court of chancery declined to grant the divorce for this reason, and she took an appeal.

POWDER IS BURNED UP WITHOUT AN EXPLOSION.

Dover, June 24.—A two-story frame building was destroyed by fire at the Piccatinny Arsenal Monday afternoon. The building contained some powder, but there was no explosion, the powder burning with a great flare. The employes manned the fire-fighting apparatus and stood by to prevent the flames spreading. No one would go near enough to the burning building to reach it with a hose stream.

The structure was not a magazine, but one of the old buildings on the reservation. It had been recently remodeled and repaired to be used for general storage purposes. It is supposed that the fire was caused by spontaneous combustion.

JOHN MITCHELL NOT A POLITICAL CANDIDATE.

In a statement made public in Chicago yesterday, John Mitchell, former president of the United States Mine Workers of America, formally declined to run for the nomination for Governor of Illinois. Mitchell also put a quietus on efforts to get him to run for second place on the Democratic ticket with Bryan. Ill-health, it is said, makes it inadvisable for him to become involved in any political agitation.

For some time Mitchell has had under consideration a proposition to take charge and direct the work of the trade agreement department of the National Civic Federation. It is intimated that in all probability he will take up this work.

CARL WOLFF KNOWS HOW TO MAKE A FALL SAFELY.

While at work on a cross-connecting cable in an elevator shaft in a building on Front street, New York, Monday, Carl Wolff, an electrician, who resides in Denman place, East Summit, used a board as a bridge to work from. The board broke, and Wolff fell through the shaft to a landing four stories below.

He was picked up unconscious, but was soon revived, and it was found that he had sustained only a slight injury to the right knee. Only a few months ago Wolff had a similar fall, in which he escaped with an injury to the right knee, which laid him up for several days.

NEW JERSEY SQUEEZED.

Trenton, June 24.—Notice, which took away much of the kindly feeling which Jerseymen have been entertaining for the Jamestown Exposition, was received by the State House Commission here yesterday to the effect that the receiver of the big show has decided to make all the money possible out of the shipment of the New Jersey buildings from the exposition grounds to be erected at the State Home for Girls, this city.

The receiver's schedule includes a tax of 25 cents on every load of material to be removed from the grounds, a tax of 25 cents on every workman who enters the grounds and a daily charge of $2.50 for a man to keep count of the loads and laborers. All of this must be borne by the State. The State House Commission has already contracted for the removal and re-erection of the building at a cost of more than $12,000.

PERSONAL.

Miss Jennie Schmidt, of Bayonne, has returned home after a visit with friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Streuli, of Hillside avenue, will spend the summer in Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Heely, of North Plainfield, are planning to spend their vacation at Wolfboro, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murray, Sr., of Central avenue, are at Point Breeze Camp, Wolfboro, N. H., for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. Waring, of West Seventh street, will soon go to Easthampton, L. I., where they will occupy their cottage for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford D. Manning have returned from their wedding trip and are now residing in their new home at 20 Washington avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. King, of Watchung avenue, will sail on the White Star Line steamer Arabic for Liverpool tomorrow. They will be abroad several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hamilton Frost, of Franklin place, sailed today on the Majestic, of the White Star Line, for Southampton. They expect to remain abroad until August.

Mrs. C. W. Parsons, formerly of this city, but now of Newark, has returned home, accompanied by her daughter, who was graduated from the North Plainfield High School last week.

Miss Pauline Denton, of Washington avenue, has returned from Providence, R. I., where she attended the commencement exercises at Brown University. Her brother, Arthur Denton, was one of the graduates.

SENSIBLE AUTO COATS.

One of the latest developments is the use of cretonne in fashionable long auto coats. Although cretonne has been much used for cuffs and lapels and facings of the street suits, and though it has been variously implicated in millinery and in many feminine accessories, this present utilization is decidedly the most pretentious in its history. The cretonne of which these coats are made is far different from the humble stuff with which we became familiar in the days before its elevation.

The cretonne sells at $3 a yard and the coats are lined with the most lustrous of silks. To further correct any first impression of economy which might be given it may be added that buttons of enormous cost are frequently used on this cretonne wrap. As to the cretonne itself it is very wide—fifty inches or more—and is the kind known as "shadow." This describes the wonderful blurred effect given by these new materials, which are printed on backgrounds of cream, ecru and ivory.

The cretonne auto wrap suggests a whole list of coats made of this stuff, any of which might be suitable for seashore or mountain wear.

SOME STATE NEWS BRIEFS

A presumably mad dog was shot in Bordentown after it had bitten several other dogs and two cats Sunday night.

John Messop and Dean Williams, of Wenonah, were fined $2.50 each by Mayor Lorence for swearing in the park.

The towns of Union and West Hoboken, of Union County, have passed ordinances giving citizens the power to shoot stray dogs. The slaughter so far has not been very great.

By prying open a rear window thieves entered the home of W. Bryson at 625 Grant street, Camden, early yesterday morning and carried off jewelry of considerable value.

Although Frederick Hansen's hand was being crushed in the cogs of a windmill he was repairing at Vineland, he pluckily swung his body around and held the wheel until help came.

Bayonne society braved the heat last night, filled the opera house and applauded the members of Company L, Fourth Regiment, N. G. N. J., who appeared in a minstrel show for the benefit of the Newark Bay Club.

Samuel Kendle, of Millville, who fell asleep on the tracks of the Millville and Vineland Traction Company while waiting for a car and lost a foot under the car wheels a week ago, died Sunday night at the Emergency Hospital.

Having got their employers to consent to abolish Sunday funerals, in so far as the hiring of coaches is concerned, the members of the Coach Drivers' Association of Paterson have now decided that hereafter they will refuse to drive coaches at Sunday weddings or christenings.

Peter Parker was reappointed captain of the life guards in Atlantic City yesterday by the Mayor, but he divided the strand into two "beats" and also appointed Surgeon Bossert, who is in charge of field hospital on the beach at Mississippi avenue, captain of the force on the lower beach.

For nearly causing the death of their three-year-old girl by giving her whisky, and drinking so much liquor that they annoyed the neighbors, Bernard Campbell and his wife were sent to jail for three months by Recorder Stackhouse in Camden yesterday. The child was given in the charge of relatives.

George Harris, seven years old, of Atlantic City, took his father's pistol from a bureau drawer, Monday afternoon, to exhibit to his chum, Frank Scott, aged nine. He put his finger on the trigger and the weapon exploded. The bullet hit the little Scott boy in the leg and he had to be taken to the hospital.

Just before he left Camden for a trip to Ireland, several weeks ago, Matthew Murray, sixty-nine years old, said: "I'm going home to die." Yesterday his wife, who had accompanied him, returned to her home at 569 Line street, Camden, alone. A few days after the aged pair reached County Tyronne, where Mr. Murray was born, he was attacked with heart trouble and died in a few hours. He had been a resident of Camden for nearly half a century.

Three electric light poles belonging to the Pitman, Glassboro and Clayton Electric Light Company, at Clayton, were cut down yesterday by the owners of the properties on which they stood and on which are being laid cement sidewalks. The company, whose offices are at Pitman, is likely to get busy, as its franchise does not expire until June 10, 1909. The company claims the recent cutting of the wires of the Council chamber and the Mayor's office was a mistake of one of their workmen, but the people, feeling they have the sanction of Council, are not hesitating to cut the poles whenever an excuse offers.

Bids were opened Monday night by the Water Committee of Camden Council for an increase in the city's water supply of 5,000,000 gallons daily. T. A. Gillespie & Co., of New York, offered to build a plant and furnish the city with the additional supply at $300 a day, and to dispose of the plant to the city at any time for $750,000. This supply would come from the Big Timber Creek, below Clementon. M. P. Quinn, of Philadelphia, desired $195 a day, and would dispose of the plant with a supply of filtered water from Pensauken Creek. There was no discussion on the matter and the bids were laid over.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

After next Sunday the vested choir of the First M. E. church will take its customary summer vacation.

"He Knows the Burden," will be the subject of the prayer-meeting at the First Baptist church tonight.

The Young People's Association of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church has discontinued its weekly meetings until fall.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel will hold a strawberyy and ice cream festival at the chapel tomorrow afternoon and evening.

Rev. A. E. Finn and Geo. E. Hall, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, are attending the International Sunday-school convention being held at Louisville, Ky.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold its last meeting for the season Friday night. Mrs. Charles F. Dayton will be the leader.

The Clinton Avenues and Y. M. C. A. teams will meet on Crescent Oval, Saturday, July 4, and the contest should attract a large crowd, especially as Jim Scott will be on the slab for the association boys. He will be opposed by Clifford Randolph, who has always had it on the association team a little, and there is every indication that the contest will be a battle between pitchers.

George Wiltse pitching for the Giants on Monday against the Chicagos, won his game by a score of 7 to 1. He was opposed by Lundgren. Last Thursday these same pitchers were engaged in a contest and Wiltse was taken out of the box. The score then was 7 to 5 against the Giants.

On Saturday, July 11, the West Ends, of Somerville, will be here to meet the Clinton Avenues on Crescent Oval. In the first contest between these teams at Somerville, the Plainfield boys won by a score of 3 to 1.

The Y. M. C. A. team has a total of seven wins, instead of six, as reported yesterday. The boys are playing good ball now and it looks as thought they will continue to hold their own in the league under Manager Listman's direction.

According to unofficial figures Dougherty leads the American League in stolen bases and Wagner the National.

Johnny Kling thinks three clubs are in it for the National League pennant this year—Chicago, Pittsburg, and New York.

Jim Delehanty did not accompany the Washingtons from Detroit to Boston. He is ill and may be out of the game for a week.

Nick Carter, the pitcher who made such an impressive start with the Athletics this season, is now in a minor league. He has cast his lot with Monte Cross' Kansas City team.

"Crandall and Herzog," says a paragraph, "are the only McGraw youngsters to make good this season." Well, two youngsters making good a season is a pretty good proportion.

There is a lot of careless scoring around the circuits in the matter of the arrangement of the batting order. Half the time when changes are made the names are not placed in their proper order.

A report has it that Pitchers McGinnity and Glade are the two richest men among the professional baseball players. That being so, our New York teams are richer in dollars than in victories.

"A pitcher should derrick himself if he is not going right," says Heine Berger of the Clevelands oracularly. Maybe, but perhaps the manager would like to have something to say about it.

The Western trip just completed by the American League Eastern teams was one of the worst ever experienced by one section meeting another. The Easterners won fifteen and lost forty-seven games.

GOLF.

A large number of Wykagyl Country Club members are planning to take part in the qualifying round of the July tournament scheduled for next Saturday, June 27. They will have a chance to qualify in three classes to continue at match play during July. Match rounds will be at eighteen holes, and must be played not later than July 11, 18 and 25. First and second prizes are offered in each class. Under penalty of default, players must play off on or before the dates specified, unless an extension of time has been secured from the handicap and tournament committee. A request for an extension of time should be in writing, stating fully the reasons therefor, and if possible have the approval of the players interested.

On July 4 there will be a one-day handicap tournament. Qualifying round, nine holes handicap medal play. First eight in Class A to qualify for cup presented by Louis C. Goetting, chairman of the handicap and tournament committee; first eight in Class B to qualify for cup presented by C. W. Inslee, of the same committee; first eight in Class C to qualify for cup presented by T. V. Bermingham, of the committee. Those qualifying will play off at handicap match play, nine holes, ties to be decided according to method adopted, and posted by the tournament committee on day of contest. Competitors must be at tee ready to play at 9 o'clock a. m. The tournament committee reserves the right to start players on either first or second nine holes.

The annual open championship tournament of Massachusetts will be held over the links of the Country Club of Brookline, July 1 and 2. Entries will close on Friday of this week. In addition to the championship, an event may be added to the program for July 3. In this tournament a professional will play with an amateur in a best ball foursome without handicap. Only those who enter for the championship will be eligible to compete in this event.

The State championship is open to any professional who is a resident of Massachusetts or who is employed by a golf club in the State or to any amateur who is a member of a club belonging to the Massachusetts Golf Association. The conditions are medal play competition, seventy-two holes, thirty-six to be played on each day. Prizes in cash to professionals, or in plate to amateurs, will be awarded as follows: First prize, $80; second, $40; third, $20; fourth, $10.

The Massachusetts open championship was held at the Vesper Cricket Club of Lowell in 1905 for the first time and was won by Donald J. Ross, with a score of 320; in 1906 it was won by Aleck Ross at Wollaston, with a total score of 297, and last year at Brae Burn it was won again by Aleck Ross, after a tie with Gilbert Nicholls and David Brown. This year's entry list will include all those professionals who have figured in the competition in the past, and there will be several who have joined the professional ranks this year to increase the size of the field.

Thugs for whom the police are searching knocked down William A. Thornton on Belfield avenue, Atlantic City, yesterday and stripped him of a $1,000 diamond pin and a valuable ring. The finger was badly torn by the theives as they took the ring from him. Thornton believes he recognized one of the men, who will probably lead to the identification of the others.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

Grover Cleveland is dead. The sad news was flashed across the country, whose affairs he but recently so admirably administered, shortly after nine o'clock this morning. When the bulletins displayed in front of newspaper offices throughout the land announced the fact briefly, it is certain that every man, woman and child with any degree of patriotism showed some sign of sorrow.

Grover Cleveland was a statesman in the fullest sense of the word. Moreover, he was the "first man in the land." That distinction is usually given to the President during his term of office but the Sage of Princeton held the undisputed title until the day of his death. No matter how much some may have disagreed with him on partisan grounds, all held him in reverence.

The career of this great man was a shining example to American youth from start to finish for he typified this country's ideal. Born in New Jersey he first gained prominence locally in Buffalo, N. Y., as a successful shrievalty candidate. From that moment his rise was rapid. From the Governorship of New York to the Presidency of the United States was a quick stepping stone for the man of splendid qualities. The Sage of Princeton was the first Democrat to occupy the most exalted office in the gift of the American people since the time of James Buchanan. Samuel Tildon may have been rightly entitled to the chair, but he was not allowed to take his seat.

So well did he administer the nation's affairs with the assistance of an exceptional Cabinet that after being four years in retirement, Mr. Cleveland was again called upon by an intelligent citizenry to again take up the reins of government. His were epoch making years. Among the many good things that may be recorded during those times was the fact that he taught the nations of Europe not only respect for but to look up to the American Flag. The Bluefields incident was a single incident in this connection. But the crowning point in this truly great man's career was when he demonstrated that he was too good a Democrat to have anything to do with his party when it drifted from its time honored conservative Jeffersonian moorings and drifted to the populistic, demagogic radicalism under the leadership of William Jennings Bryan.

It was greatly to his credit when the Bryanistic so-called Democracy hissed Mr. Cleveland's name at its National convention in Chicago in 1896. He was a Democrat in political belief, but above party stood country first and last so far as he was concerned. And so he "washed his hands" of those who directed the radicalism cause, at the same time doing all in his might and power to aid those who as he believed were endeavoring to rescue the party so that it would again become "safe and sane."

Unlike most of our Presidents, Mr. Cleveland did not sink into oblivion or to use a favorite expression of his he did not pass into "innocuous desuetude" when he finally retired from the high office. Great business interests and seats of learning bid for his services, but he chose to pass the remaining years of his life at Princeton, where he became nominally identified with one of the greatest universities in our land. Not until the insurance companies of America stood in need of a man of extraordinary executive ability was he pursuaded to return to active life and at the call of these gigantic corporations he acted as their trustee after having reconstructed one of the largest in the group. During the last few months it was known that he was rapidly losing his physical strength and so when the sad news came this morning, it was not entirely unexpected.

Grover Cleveland was a rare type of citizen. He was of the kind that we stand in need of today and always will need to preserve American institutions He was a statesman; not a demogogue.

citing the fact of its making that nomination, and Managing Editor Demarest sent a copy to Mr. Cleveland for corroboration. The great Democrat clinches The Daily Press' claim to the honor, in the following letter:

Gray Gables, Buzzards' Bay, Mass., August 4, 1892.

"James A. Demarest, Esq.:

"My Dear Sir—I have received your letter inclosing a story with reference to a claim you make touching the suggestion of my candidacy for the Presidency in the present campaign. An examination of the evidence you present leaves me to concur with you, since there is an entire absence of any claim from any other source which seems to establish a prior right.

Yours very truly,
GROVER CLEVELAND."

FORT TO CALL EXTRA SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

Following a long conference yesterday afternoon between Governor Fort and Attorney General McCarter, at Trenton, the Governor practically said he would call a special session of the Legislature as soon as he returns from a flying visit to Vermont on Friday, at which time the pressing needs of the State institutions will be considered.

It is said that by an error the State Home for Girls was cut off in the Appropriation bill with $7,000 maintenance, when the figure the legislators intended was $29,000. The error was a clerical one. There are also extraordinary demands from some of the other institutions, which will be without funds to pay their bills unless relief is given. It is said that the Legislature to meet the demands for fancy commissions and political places, pared down the appropriations until a point has been reached where the State institutions cannot exist.

Besides these demands, the financial conditions of Jersey City, deprived of the revenues she failed to get from the railroads, has induced the legislators of that county to ask the Governor for a special session.

It is said that the Colby men may make the increase in fares to the seashore resorts the occasion for a protest at the extra session.

GOURLEY'S ILLNESS GRAVE.

Has Stomach Trouble and Operation May Be Necessary.

William B. Gourley, formerly chairman of the Democratic State Committee of New Jersey and prominent as a lawyer, is very ill at his home, "Dollymount," on the Notch road, near Paterson. Dr. McBride, who is now Mayor of Paterson, is attending Mr. Gourley. He admits that his condition is very serious. Mr. Gourley was stricken three weeks ago with stomach trouble. Dr. McBride says that it is feared that an abscess has formed between the right kidney and the appendix.

MONTCLAIR DOG'S CURFEW FUNNIEST THING YET

The Town Council at Montclair has adopted the curfew law for the dogs of the town which was introduced at the last meeting by Charles H. Hartshorne, a Jersey City lawyer, who is a member of the Council. The ordinance provides for the punishment of owners who allow their dogs to bark after 9 o'clock at night and before 6 o'clock in the morning. The penalty for the first offense is $5 fine, and for the second $10 fine and the destruction of the offending dog.

The ordinance, which goes into effect immediately, also provides a fine of $5 for the owner of a dog that bites a person in the streets. A fine of $10 is the penalty for the second offense.

H. H. Spies, of 119 Mountain avenue, in support of the contention that barking dogs are a nuisance in some sections of Montclair, informed the Council that a man living at the rear of his home has fifteen dogs, and frequently they are all barking at the same time during the night.

COURT LIMITS FRANCHISE.

Says They Expire on Sale to Private Person.

That franchises owned by a company lapse when a private person buys the property and fails to organize a corporation in accordance with the act of 1881 is held in an opinion filed by the Court of Appeals at Trenton, yesterday in the appeal of the Vineland Light, Heat and Power Company from a Chancery decree restraining it from opening streets in Vineland and the Township of Landis, Cumberland County.

The Vineland Gaslight Company became insolvent in 1884, and was purchased at receiver's sale by John R. Farnum, who conducted it until March 27, 1900, when he sold it to Arthur A. Holbrook. Four days later the latter conveyed it to the present company. The original corporation had been given the right to lay pipes in the streets of Vineland and Landis Township, but when the present company sought to lay pipes without the consent of the borough and township the proceedings were instituted.

PRETTY VEILS OF THE PRESENT MODE.

Veils at the present moment seem to hover on a borderland between material for hair trimming and complexion veiling.

The coarse, wide-open mesh, with its triangular darned spot, so coarse as almost to suggest that it was made of woven straw which threatened a few weeks ago to oust every other style, is undergoing a little modification, and in its latest guise the veil is made of finer thread, while the mesh is much less wide.

Some of the newest veils are those in the finest black thread with a darned spot, which almost gives the idea of a thickness in the mesh, while the hem is trimmed with very fine black Valenciennes lace barely an eighth of an inch in width, which is applique in two rows round the bottom at a distance of an inch or two from each other.

Another favorite is the plain veiling of Russian net, supplemented with an edging of fine black crochet insertion, while a double row of chenille spots is introduced above and forms a wide border, the veil being worn well down, so that the hem shows beneath and not above the chin. Many of the newest motor veils are edged with lace dyed the exact shade of the net or chiffon. This is in itself sufficiently wide to form an all-lace bow when the veil is brought down over the hat, twisted round the neck, and tied a little to the left side under the chin.

Though there are so many novelties, many women keep right on buying either the fine net or coarse mesh veiling with more or less dots—in some instances none at all.

SILKS FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Foulard is one of the old favorites.

Bordered taffetas are a popular choice.

Polka dots are more fashionable than ever.

The short, stout woman should adopt the hair line.

Mirage is one of the fancied of the new weaves.

The lace may be either cream or dyed to match the gown.

It should be remembered that these require little trimming.

Stripes will be much used in the quarter-inch and in the hair line.

The petite woman will look best in the narrow stripe of even width.

Handerkerchief corners will meet more exactly if the handkerchiefs are folded with the first crease on a line with the widthwise threads of the linen.

The Misses Edith and Lucile Meeker, of Minneapolis, are visiting their sister, Mrs. W. B. Marchant, of East Second street.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Deacon John M. Clayton, W. T. Piddington and John I. Nelson have been named as a committee to take charge of the Sunday-school excursion to Asbury Park next Thursday. This will be the first excursion of the season, and several boroughites are planning to go with the Sunday-schools for a day at the shore.

W. W. Giddes, who was made a local preacher by the unanimous vote of the congregation at the last quarterly Methodist conference, will preach his first regular sermon at the Somerville Methodist church Sunday. He will study with Rev. E. C. Dutcher.

Several boroughites are in New Brunswick today attending the trial of Charles Wyckoff, accused of selling liquor at retail when holding only a wholesale license. Several Dunellenites have been subpoenaed in the case, which is before the grand jury.

Claude Penrose has been chosen captain of the New Market Field Club baseball nine, succeeding W. T. Piddington, Jr., who tendered his resignation because he found he would have no time to play ball.

George Martin played several mandolin solos at an entertainment and festival given under the auspices of the Loyal Band of Trinity Reformed church at Debele Hall, North Plainfield, last night.

Marcus Dey is visiting at Montclair for a few days.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Trojans, who play the local ball team Saturday afternoon, are considered one of Elizabeth's fastest teams. As this is the first game on the home grounds in three weeks, there should be a good attendance of the fans.

Those who believe in street sprinkling and other improvements that the town does not have under a township government are still agitating the question of a borough. It will come some day and the sooner the better for the town.

John Warta, who has been spending several days with relatives and friends in town, has returned to his home at Siegfried, Pa.

Irving Queman, who fractured a small bone in his right foot several weeks ago, is able to be around with the aid of a cane.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held its semi-monthly meeting last night in the Library rooms.

An important meeting of the baseball team will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walpole, of Front street, have been entertaining Newark relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harper have been entertaining relatives from out of town.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The birthdays of Sadie and Arthur Randolph happened close together, the former's being on June 22 and the Arthur's on June 24. The two events were celebrated yesterday. A number of young people met at Sumner Randolph's to congratulate the two, and to enjoy a bountiful repast, which was spread in their honor. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elliot, Ethel and Mabel Pace, Alice and George Winters, Verna Allen, Robert Randolph, Elwood and Mildred Johnson, Philip Smith, and many others from Plainfield. Outdoor games were the order of the evening. The happy party broke up at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Mr. and Mrs. William Norman has just returned from an automobile trip, which extended over a few days, among the summer resorts along the Atlantic coast.

J. Cole, of South River, is spending a few days with his daughter, Mrs. William Norman.

Slocum's merry-go-round will be an attraction at the Fourth of July carnival.

Mrs. W. Pace is recovering from an attack of quinsy sore throat.

SPANK THE WIFE SPANKER.

Nine Women Hold Zeigler While Mrs. Z. Plies the Rubber.

New York, June 24.—Herman Zeigler, of 318 East Ninety-ninth street, unfolded a tale of woe in the Harlem police court yesterday afternoon.

Eight months ago he married a widow, who told the court he had spent most of his time drinking and beating her.

Mrs. Mary Schleiger yesterday formed a posse of nine women tenants and they intervened, when the sound of spanking was heard in the Zeigler flat.

The ten women laid hold of Zeigler and so disposed of his person as to afford a convenient and appropriate place for the operation, while Mrs. Zeigler piled a yard of garden hose with skill and precision.

SPIRITED AGED WOMAN AWAY IN AUTOMOBILE

The charge that Mrs. Elinora Volckwein, 80 years old, has been kidnapped, held against her will, and transported from place to place in an automobile while efforts were made to force her to change her will, is made by Mrs. Philip Render of South Amboy, who is supposed to be the benficiary under the will already made by the missing woman.

Mrs. Render has asked the police of South Amboy and other places to help her find Mrs. Volckwein, though she refuses to have warrants sworn out for the persons she declares are detaining the aged woman.

Mrs. Render is the daughter of Mrs. Ella Kulp, of South Amboy, by her second husband. Mrs. Kulp's first husband was a son of Mrs. Volckwein. The latter has no blood relatives living, and, it is said, made a will leaving all her property, estimated at $70,000, to Mrs. Rnder. The will is said to be in a safe deposit vault in Newark.

The making of the will, it is said, caused a breach between Mrs. Render and her mother, Mrs. Kulp. Mrs. Volckwein made her home with Mrs. Render. Several weeks ago she left the house and never returned. According to Mrs. Render the old woman was walking along the old Matawan Bridge Road, using crutches, when a black touring car swept down on her. The occupants picked her up and sped off with her.

Since then, according to Mrs. Render, the automobile and the missing woman have been seen at many different places, as far away as Buffalo and Washington. They have toured Staten Island, and stopped for short periods in Tottenville and Perth Amboy, and have been in Atlantic City. Mrs. Render says that a New York lawyer and two Italian doctors, also a nurse, have been with Mrs. Volckwein.

After several futile attempts to find the missing woman unaided Mrs. Render appealed to the South Amboy authorities.

DENOUNCES IDLE RICH AS CURSE TO COLLEGE

"The idle rich are a curse to the college, just as they are to the community. So are the idle poor. It is a question of efficiency rather than wealth. It is possible for the faculty to so arrange its standards and examinations that the college will not be an attractive place for either class."

In these words President Hadley at Yale yesterday, arraigned the idle student, holding out a veiled threat against the leisure class in college life, in his annual address to the Yale alumni gathered for commencement.

The president announced gifts amounting to $350,000, exclusive of the Blount estate, which will in itself reach in the neighborhood of that sum. About $200,000 of this came in gifts to the endowment and extension fund, $50,000 was left by the will of Benjamin D. Sullivan and $95,000 by the D. Willis James fund. The Blount fund comes from the estate of Archibald Henry Blount, of Orleton Manor, Herefordshire, England.

He also announced as "an event of the highest importance" the selection of Professor Frederic Scheetz Jones, of the University of Minnesota, to succeed Professor Wright as dean of the college, at the close of the next academic year.

BELCHER TO TRY FOR HIS FREEDOM.

Paterson's Former Mayor Claims That His Cumulative Sentence Was Illegal.

Paterson, June 24.—William H. Belcher, former Mayor of this city, who was sentenced to twelve years in State prison two years ago, is preparing a brief to submit to the Supreme Court, which, if agreed to by the justices, will result in his release in a few months.

Belcher's contention is his cumulative sentence of two years each on six counts will not stand. He claims that his full term should have been embodied in the first sentence, and that as he has already served this first sentence he should be freed. He intends to apply for a writ of habeas corpus from the court to be served on State Keeper Osborne of the prison demanding his release from custody. In his brief he cites the case of Boss Tweed, of New York city, who only served one year at Sing Sing, although given a cumulative sentence.

Belcher disappeared from Paterson July 29, 1905, after he had drawn his month's pay as Mayor. After his flight it was discovered that he was a forger and that he had almost wrecked the Manchester Building and Loan Association, of which he had been president for seventeen years. He returned July 30, 1906, and gave himself up, and was shortly after sentenced, pleading guilty to all the counts against him.

Miss Josephine Kissam, of Duer street, has returned home after a pleasant visit with relatives on Long Island.

SUCKED UNDER 'FLYER,' CHILD ESCAPES UNHURT

MILE-A-MINUTE TRAIN ROLLS TWO-YEAR-OLD GIRL 300 FEET ALONG TIES.

Chicago.—Lifted bodily from the ground, sucked under a mile-a-minute mail and express passenger train, rolled over and over along 300 feet of the roadbed while the train was being ground to a stop, and a few moments later lifted practically unhurt from between the rails.

This was the experience the other afternoon of two-year-old Julia Weigle, the miraculous escape from death occurring on the Chicago & Northwestern railway tracks at the North Forty-ninth street crossing, two blocks north of the Mayfair station. At six o'clock the child, fastened in a high chair, ate supper with her parents and little brother, Christian, as usual. She suffered a slight cut on the right side of her forehead, her lower lip was cracked and her legs and shoulders were scratched from the rolling along the cinder roadbed.

"How awfully dirty she was, though, when the policeman brought her home," said her mother. "I never saw her so dirty before."

The child's home is on North Forty-ninth avenue. Early in the afternoon Mrs. Weigle put her two children out in the front yard to play. Hardly had she gone into the house again when Christian, who is his sister's senior by one year, made up his mind to go up to the railroad tracks, half a block away, and see the "choo-choo" cars. Julia followed him.

The runaways, hardly tall enough to be seen in the grass along the right of way of the railroad, played undisturbed until 4:15 o'clock. Suddenly Christian heard a big "choo-choo" coming, and as he stepped back from the track he screamed for Julia to look. The girl rose from where she had been playing in the gravel near the end of one of the ties and in a flash was under the wheels of the flyer. She was drawn under the first coach, an express car. The train carried eight other coaches. All of them passed over the girl's body and the suction drew her along in the wake of the train for 300 feet before the engine finally was stopped. Meantime Christian had been knocked down and was struggling in the dust and weeds to get his bearings again. He was unhurt, however.

Allen Lewis, engineer of the train, caught a glimpse of the child just as the train whizzed past her and, knowing that the girl's position made it almost a certainty that she would be sucked under the coaches, applied the emergency brakes and brought the train to a standstill. He then leaped from the cab, ran back along the rails and picked up the girl. He took her to the Mayfair station and gave her to the agent, who turned her over to the police and in half an hour afterward she was safely at home again.

SNAKES BESIEGE SCHOOL.

Teacher and Pupils Wage Constant War on Reptiles.

New London, Wis.—There is no lull in the snake campaign siege upon the country school of Miss Florence Archibald, whose classroom was recently invaded by a big snake and her whole family. Miss Archibald was forced to dismiss her class, while she went after the monster pine snake which had crawled into the classroom.

The attacks of the snakes and other creeping and unlovely things are frequent in Miss Archibald's schoolhouse, which has seen its best days.

Within an ear shot of the house is a cemetery which is patrolled by snakes, and neither the teacher nor the children can go back and forth between the school and their homes without encountering some natural enemy of the animal world.

Bride Travels as a Man.

Chicago.—Max J. Bender of New York and a woman whom he claims is his wife and who was attired in the garb of a man, were arrested here the other day. They were discovered in a box car by railroad employes. The woman had cut off her hair and had the severed braid in one of the pockets of her coat. Bender said they were married in New York May 18 and were on their honeymoon trip to South Dakota, where they expected to establish their home. He said they had no money and had been compelled to resort to the box car for transportation.

HAPPY WOMEN.

Plenty of Them in Plainfield, and Good Reason for It.

Wouldn't any woman be happy,
After years of backache suffering,
Days of misery, nights of unrest,
The distress of urinary troubles,
She finds relief and cur?

No reason why any Plainfield reader should suffer in the face of evidence like this:

Mrs. Margaret Reville, of 732 West Third street, Plainfield, N. J., says: "For a long time I was troubled from a lame back and never found anything which gave me relief until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Pharmacy. In a short time after taking them I felt their good effects, and from then on I improved steadily. I gave a statement at that time telling what Doan's Kidney Pills did for me, and am glad to confirm everything I have previously said regarding the curative properties of this remedy. I used several other medicines to cure the lameness and aching in my back but got no relief until I took Doan's Kidney Pills. I give Doan's all the credit for my cure."

For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Furnace troubles are very real. A cold, uncomfortable house is a menace. You are risking colds—possibly pneumonia—and your coal bills are higher than they would be with a clean, bright fire. The will keep your house warm in every nook and corner. Never clog, leak gas or dust, and use only three-quarters of the coal with one half the trouble. Have any dealer in Boynton Furnaces explain their many superior points.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for steam or hot water. Also ranges.

PROPOSALS FOR COAL.

Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular adjourned meeting held Monday, June 15, 1908, notice is hereby given that the Common Council will meet on Monday, July 6th, 1908, at 8 o'clock p. m. at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at which time and place said Common Council will receive sealed proposals for furnishing coal for the Fire Department:

For furnishing 100 tons, more or less, Stove and Nut Coal, of quality equal to best Lehigh, delivered in bins at the various Engine Houses of the city.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals, the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Council.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

Proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Coal."

WHY JOHN LEFT THE SEANCE.

Communications Proffered Threatened to Be Too Personal.

"I guess my husband will not drag me off to any more spiritualistic seances after last night," said the lady in gray, spearing a slice of lemon for her tea. "You know he is just about overboard on the subject of mediums, clairvoyants, and 'seein' things at night,' as Eugene Field puts it. I have begged off on going ever since we were married. You know, of course, he was a widower when I married him. Last night I went, and behold, the first thing 'Little Papoose,' or whatever brand of Indian control it was, yelled out was that John's first wife was present right behind his chair, reaching out her hands to him and wanting to speak to him. I wish you could have seen John wriggle; he tried to shut the Indian up, but the first Mrs. Brown had a warning for him, and the Indian was bound to tell him. The warning was to 'look out for squaw with red hair.' Yes, my hair would be called red by those who are not familiar with the real auburn shade—Titian some artists have called my hair—and that did not help matters any. There seemed to be some news coming about other squaws in John's history, but we didn't stay to hear any more. Now John says he is firmly convinced that this spiritualism is all a grand fake."—New York Times.

BROUGHT THE DINNER DISHES.

Young Man's Action Astonished the Hotel Clerk.

At a certain Troy hotel a young man and woman from the country called for a room just after the dinner hour and were accommodated. The young man requested that dinner be sent to his wife and left the hotel for a few moments.

Meanwhile a waiter was sent to the lady's room with a bill of fare. She took it from the waiter, glanced over it with close scrutiny, and then, passing it back, remarked: "This ain't for me. I don't want it!"

Said the waiter: "Why, it's a bill of fare;" to which the young woman, who evidently hadn't traveled, again replied:

"Yes, but you have made a mistake. It ain't for me, I know. I don't want it."

Going downstairs the waiter met the young man and explained to him. He marked off a dinner and passed on. The meal was served, and shortly afterward the young husband came trudging unsteadily down to the office with the salver full of empty dishes in his hands, and depositing them in front of the astonished clerk, still further astonished him by the remark:

"Here's the dishes. We've got through."—Rehoboth Sunday Herald.

A Silver Lining.

Last summer I stayed overnight at a hotel in a town so small that the town marshal keeps the postoffice, department store, undertaking establishment, flour and feed and furniture emporium all under one roof, and that roof is only two stories high. I was sitting on the hotel porch waiting till the village hack met the ten o'clock train (then it could take me to the next town), when my landlady came running out on the porch in great excitement, waving a silver dime. 'What do you think, mister,' she said, fanning her red face with her apron; 'that chicken I'm goin' to fry for your lunch basket only cost me 11 cents. I paid 21 cents for it, and when I chopped its head off with the hatchet, this dime flew out of its craw.' How's that for the plot for a rural play?"—Exchange.

Sweet Fern Cure for Ivy Poison.

We have found that the common sweet fern which grows in every old pasture lot in New England makes a tea which will relieve the itch and pain of poison ivy poisoning within an hour or two. We simply pick the fresh leaves and boil them so as to make a strong tea, strain it, and use the cool tea to bathe the poisoned place, in cases of severe poison moistening a cloth and laying it on the place.

This recipe is so simple and so readily available to everybody and so prompt in its action that it cannot be given too much publicity.—New York Times.

A City and Its Press.

In some respects a modern city resembles a vast commercial house. In commerce advertisement is the secret of success, and the most successful coadjutors of the municipality in the development and puffing of a capital are the newspapers. And here again Berlin is lacking. Her press is on a hopelessly low level, impoverished, without enterprise, under the thumb of the authorities. In London, New York or Paris the press has a voice in the running of the city.—London Outlook.

The Real Thing.

"How do I know that you love me?"

"I walked all the way down Main street this evening to propose."

"What's that got to do with it?"

"I passed a solid mile of millinery and dry goods stores with windows full of price tags and I never faltered."—Houston Post.

CHAPTER I.

It is rather difficult in these days for a man who takes such scant interest in foreign affairs—trust a whilom diplomat for that!—to follow the continual geographical disturbances of European surfaces. Thus, I can not distinctly recall the exact location of the Grand Duchy of Barscheit or of the neighboring principality of Doppelkinn. It meets my needs and purposes, however, to say that Berlin and Vienna were easily accessible, and that a three hours' journey would bring you under the shadow of the Carpathian range, where, in my diplomatic days, I used often to hunt the "bear that walks like a man."

Barscheit was known among her sister states as "the meddler," the "maker of trouble," and the duke as "Old Grumpy"—Brummbar. To use a familiar Yankee expression, Barscheit had a finger in every pie. Whenever there was a political broth making, whether in Italy, Germany or Austria, Barscheit would snatch up a ladle and start in. She took care of her own affairs so easily that she had plenty of time to concern herself with the affairs of her neighbors. This is not to advance the opinion that Barscheit was wholly modern; far from it. The fault of Barscheit may be traced back to a certain historical pillar of salt, easily recalled by all those who attended Sunday school. "Rubbering" is a vulgar phrase, and I disdain to use it.

When a woman looks around it is invariably a portent of trouble; the man forgets his important engagement, and runs amuck, knocking over people, principles and principalities. If Aspasia had not observed Pericles that memorable day; if there had not been an oblique slant to Calypso's eyes as Ulysses passed her way; if the eager Delilah had not offered favorable comment on Samson's ringlets; in fact, if all the women in history and romance had gone about their affairs as they should have done, what uninteresting reading history would be to-day!

Now, this is a story of a woman who looked around, and of a man who did not keep his appointment on time; out of a grain of sand, a mountain. Of course there might have been other causes, but with these I'm not familiar.

This Duchy of Barscheit is worth looking into. Imagine a country with telegraph and telephone and medieval customs, a country with electric lights, railways, surface cars, hotel elevators and ancient laws! Something of the customs of the duchy must be told in the passing, though, for my part, I am vigorously against explanatory passages in stories of action. Barscheit bristled with militarism; the little man always imitates the big one, but lacks the big man's excuses. Militarism entered into and overshadowed the civic laws.

There were three things you might do without offense: you might bathe, eat and sleep, only you must not sleep out loud. The citizen of Barscheit was hemmed in by a set of laws which had their birth in the dark dungeons of the Inquisition. They congealed the blood of a man born and bred in a commercial country. If you broke a law, you were relentlessly punished; there was no mercy. In America we make laws and then hide them in dull-looking volumes which the public have neither the time nor the inclination to read. In this duchy of mine it was different; you ran into a law on every corner, in every park, in every public building: little oblong signs, enameled, which told you that you could not do something or other—"Forbidden!" The beauty of German laws is that when you learn all the things that you can not do, you begin to find out that the things you can do are not worth a hang in the doing.

As soon as a person learned to read he or she began life by reading these laws. If you could not read, so much the worse for you; you had to pay a guide who charged you almost as much as the full cost of the fine.

The opposition political party in the United States is always howling militarism, without the slightest idea of what militarism really is. One side, please, in Barscheit, when an officer comes along, or take the consequences. If you carelessly bumped into him, you were knocked down. If you objected, you were arrested. If you struck back, ten to one you received a beating with the flat of a saber. And never, never mistake the soldiery for the police; that is to say, never ask an officer to direct you to any place. This is regarded in the light of an insult. The cub lieutenants do more to keep a passable sidewalk—for the passage of said cub lieutenants—than all the magistrates put together. How they used to swagger up and down the Konigsstrasse, around the Platz, in and out of the restaurants! I remember doing some side-stepping myself, and I was a diplomat, supposed to be immune from the rank discourtesies of the military. But that was early in my career.

In a year not so remote as not to be readily recalled, the United States packed me off to Barscheit because I had an uncle who was a senator. Some papers were given me, the permission to hang out a shingle reading "American Consul," and the promise of my board and keep. My amusements were to be paid out of my own pocket. Straightway I purchased three horses, found a capable Japanese valet, and selected a cozy house near the barracks, which stood west of the Volksgarten, on a pretty lake. A beautiful road ran around this body of water, and it wasn't long ere the officers began to pass comments on the riding of "that wild American." As I detest what is known as park riding, you may very well believe that I circled the lake at a clip which must have opened the eyes of the easy-going officers. I grew quite chummy with a few of them, and I may speak of occasions when I did not step off the sidewalk as they came along. A man does more toward gaining the affection of foreigners by giving a good dinner now and then than by international law. I gained considerable fame by my little dinners at Muller's rathskeller, under the Continental hotel.

Six months passed, during which I rode, read, drove and dined, the actual labors of the consulate being cared for by a German clerk who knew more about the business than I did.

By this you will observe that diplomacy has degenerated into the gentle art of exciting jaded palates and of scribbling one's name across passports; I know of no better definition. I forget what the largess of my office was.

Presently there were terrible doings. The old reigning grand duke desired peace of mind; and moving determinedly toward this end, he declared in public that his niece, the young and tender Princess Hildegarde, should wed the Prince of Doppelkinn, whose vineyards gave him a fine income. This was finality; the avuncular guardian had waited long enough for his willful ward to make up her mind as to the selection of a suitable husband; now he determined to take a hand in the matter. And you shall see how well he managed it.

It is scarcely necessary for me to state that her highness had her own ideas of what a husband should be like, gathered, no doubt, from execrable translations from "Ouida" and the gentle Miss Braddon. A girl of 20 usually has a formidable regard for romance, and the princess was fully up to the manner of her kind. If she could not marry romantically, she refused to marry at all.

I can readily appreciate her uncle's perturbation. I do not know how many princelings she thrust into utter darkness. She would never marry a man who wore glasses; this one was too tall, that one too short; and when one happened along who was without visible earmarks or signs of being shop-worn her refusal was based upon just—"Because!"—a weapon as invincible as the fabled spear of Parsifal. She had spurned the addresses of Prince Mischler, laughed at those of the Count of —— — —— (the short dash indicates the presence of a hyphen) and General Muerrisch, of the emperor's body-guard, who was, I'm sure, good enough—in his own opinion—for any woman. Every train brought to the capital some suitor with a consonated, hyphenated name and a pedigree as long as a bore's idea of a funny story. But the princess did not care for pedigrees that were squint-eyed or bow-legged. One and all of them she cast aside as unworthy her consideration. Then, like the ancient worm, the duke turned. She should marry Doppelkinn, who, having no wife to do the honors in his castle, was wholly agreeable.

The Prince of Doppelkinn reigned over the neighboring principality. If you stood in the middle of it and were a baseball player, you could throw a stone across the frontier in any direction. But the vineyards were among the finest in Europe. The prince was a widower, and among his own people was affectionately styled "der Rotnasig," which, I believe, designates an illuminated proboscis. When he wasn't fishing for rainbow trout he was sleeping in his cellars. He was often missing at the monthly reviews, but nobody ever worried; they knew where to find him. And besides, he might just as well sleep in his cellars as in his carriage, for he never rode a horse if he could get out of doing so. He was really good-natured and easy-going, so long as no one crossed him severely; and you could tell him a joke once and depend upon his understanding it immediately, which is more than I can say for the duke.

Years and years ago the prince had had a son; but at the tender age of three the boy had run away from the castle confines, and no one ever heard of him again. The enemies of the prince whispered among themselves that the boy had run away to escape compulsory military service, but the boy's age precluded this accusation. The prince advertised, after the fashion of those times, sent out detectives and notified his various brothers; but his trouble went for nothing. Not the slightest trace of the boy could be found. So he was mourned for a season, regretted and then forgotten; the prince adopted the grape arbor.

I saw the prince once. I do not blame the Princess Hildegarde for her rebellion. The prince was not only old; he was fat and ugly, with little, elephant-like eyes that were always vein-shot, restless and full of mischief. He might have made a good father, but I have nothing to prove this. Those bottles of sparkling Moselle which he failed to dispose of to the American trade he gave to his brother in Barscheit or drank himself. He was 68 years old.

A nephew, three times removed, was waiting for the day when he should wabble around in the prince's shoes. He was a lieutenant in the duke's body-guard, a quick-tempered, heady chap. Well, he never wabbled around in his uncle's shoes, for he never got the chance.

I hadn't been in Barscheit a week before I heard a great deal about the princess. She was a famous horsewoman. This made me extremely anxious to meet her. Yet for nearly six months I never even got so much as a glimpse of her. Half of the six months she was traveling through Austria, and the other half she kept out of my way,—not intentionally; she knew nothing of my existence; simply, fate moved us about blindly. At court she was invariably indisposed, and at the first court ball she retired before I arrived. I got up at all times, galloped over all roads, but never did I see her. She rode alone, too, part of the time.

The one picture of her which I was lucky enough to see had been taken when she was six, and meant nothing to me in the way of identification. For all I knew I might have passed her on the road. She became to me the Princess in the Invisible Cloak, passing me often and doubtless deriding my efforts to discern her. My curiosity became alarming. I couldn't sleep for the thought of her. Finally we met, but the meeting was a great surprise to us both. This meeting happened during the great hubbub of which I have just written; and at the same time I met another who had great weight in my future affairs.

The princess and I became rather well acquainted. I was not a gentleman, according to her code, but, in the historic words of the drug clerk, I was something just as good. She honored me with a frank, disinterested friendship, which still exists. I have yet among my fading souvenirs of diplomatic service half a dozen notes commanding me to get up at dawn and ride around the lakes, something like 16 miles. She was almost as reckless a rider as myself. She was truly a famous rider, and a woman who sits well on a horse can never be aught but graceful. She was, in fact, youthful and charming, with the most magnificent black eyes I ever beheld in a Teutonic head; witty, besides, and a songstress of no ordinary talent. If I had been in love with her—which I solemnly vow I was not!—I should have called her beautiful and exhausted my store of complimentary adjectives.

The basic cause of all this turmoil, about which I am to spin my narrative, lay in her education. I hold that a German princess should never be educated save as a German. By this I mean to convey that her education should not go beyond German literature, German history, German veneration of laws, German manners and German passivity and docility. The Princess Hildegarde had been educated in England and France, which simplifies everything, or, I should say, to be exact, complicates everything.

She possessed a healthy contempt for that what-d'-ye-call-it that hedges in a king. Having mingled with English-speaking people, she returned to her native land, her brain filled with the importance of feminine liberty of thought and action. Hence, she became the bramble that prodded the grand duke whichever way he turned. His days were filled with horrors, his nights with mares which did not have box-stalls in his stables.

Never could he anticipate her in anything. On that day he placed guards around the palace she wrote verses or read modern fiction; the moment he relaxed his vigilance she was away on some heartrending escapade. Didn't she scandalize the nobility by dressing up a hussar and riding her famous black Mecklenburg cross-country? Hadn't she flirted outrageously with the French attache and deliberately turned her back on the Russian minister, at the very moment, too, when negotiations were going on between Russia and Barscheit relative to a small piece of land in the Balkans? And, most terrible of all to relate, hadn't she ridden a shining bicycle up the Konigsstrasse, in broad daylight, and in bifurcated skirts, besides? I shall never forget the indignation of the press at the time of this last escapade, the stroke of apoplexy which threatened the duke, and the room with the barred window which the princess occupied one whole week.

They burned the offensive bicycle in the courtyard of the palace, ceremoniously, too, and the princess had witnessed this solemn auto da fe from her barred window. It is no strain upon the imagination to conjure up the picture of her fine rage, her threatening hands, her compressed lips, her tearless, flashing eyes, as she saw her beautiful new wheel writhe and twist on the blazing fagots. But what the deuce was a poor duke to do with a niece like this?

For a time I feared that the United States and the Grand Duchy of Barscheit would sever diplomatic relations. The bicycle was, unfortunately, of American make, and the manufacturers wrote to me personally that they considered themselves grossly insulted over the action of the duke. Diplomatic notes were exchanged, and I finally prevailed upon the duke to state that he held the wheel harmless and that his anger had been directed solely against his niece. This letter was duly forwarded to the manufacturers, who, after the manner of their kind, carefully altered the phrasing and used it in their magazine advertisements. They were so far appeased that they offered me my selection from the private stock. Happily the duke never read anything but the Fliegende Blatter and Jugend, and thus war was averted.

Later an automobile agent visited the town—at the secret bidding of her highness—but he was so unceremoniously hustled over the frontier that his teeth must have rattled like a dancer's castanets. It was a great country for expeditiousness, as you will find, if you do me the honor to follow me to the end.

So the grand duke swore that his niece should wed Doppelkinn, and the princess vowed that she would not. The man who had charge of my horses said that one of the palace maids had recounted to him a dialogue which had taken place between the duke and his niece. As I was anxious to be off on the road I was compelled to listen to his gossip.

The Grand Duke—In two months' time you shall wed the Prince of Doppelkinn.

The Princess—What! that old red-nose? Never! I shall marry only where I love.

The Grand Duke—Only where you love! (Sneers.) One would think, to hear you talk, that you were capable of loving something.

The Princess—You have yet to learn. I warn you not to force me. I promise to do something scandalous. I will marry one of the people—a man.

The Grand Duke—Bah! (Swears softly on his way to the stables.)

But the princess had in her mind a plan which, had it gone through safely, would have added many gray hairs to the duke's scanty collection. It was a mighty ingenious plan, too, for a woman to figure out.

In his attitude toward the girl the duke stood alone. Behind his back his ministers wore out their shoes in waiting on the caprices of the girl, while the grand duchess, half-blind and half-deaf, openly worshiped her willful but wholly adorable niece, and abetted her in all her escapades. So far as the populace was concerned, she was the daughter of the favorite son, dead these 18 years, and that was enough for them. Whatever she did was right and proper. But the hard-headed duke had the power to say what should be what, and he willed it that the Princess Hildegarde should marry his old comrade in arms, the Prince of Doppelkinn.

MISSES WILDEY KEEP UP WINNING STREAK

As a result of the second day's play in the women's national lawn tennis tournament at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, yesterday, Miss Natalie Wildey and Miss Edna Wildey were among the survivors, having defeated some of the crack tennis players entered in the tournament. Their play was fast throughout.

In the second round of the women's singles, Miss Louise Hammond, New York beat Mrs. A. H. McCarthy, Plainfield, 2-6, 6-1, 6-3; Miss Natalie Wildey, Plainfield, beat Miss Mary Coates, Philadelphia, 1-6, 6-2, 6-3; Miss Edna Wildey, Plainfield, beat Miss Elsie Little, New York, 10-8, 6-3.

In the first round of the women's doubles, the Misses Wildey defeated Miss Borda and Miss Morris, Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-2, in one of the best matches of the day. The play will be continued today.

Juniors vs. Garwood A. C.

The Jr. O. U. A. M., baseball team wil play the Garwood A. C., Saturday afternoon on Hope Commons, at 3:30 o'clock, it being a return game. In the first contest the Juniors won out by a score of 11 to 6. The Garwood aggregation is composed of several players from the Roselle A. C., and is considered fast. However, the Juniors expect to score another victory. The lineup will be as follows: Juniors—Beekman, 2b; Newmiller, 3b; L. Dodge, ss; Dixon, c; Van Arsdale, 1b; Vanderbilt, cf; Lorton, rf; Hann, lf; O. Dodge, p. Garwood A. C.—Ash, 2b; Wood, 3b; Place, lf; Kean, 1b; Coal, rf; Odell, ss; Brown, cf; Hanson, c; Farrell, p.

Weddings at St. Mary's Church.

Nuptial mass will be celebrated twice at St. Mary's church this afternoon. The first will be at 5 o'clock when Miss Cathryn Whelan, of West Fifth street, and John McDonald, of Cranford, will be married. This will be followed at 5:30 by a ceremony that will unite Miss Julia Frances Connolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Connolly, of West Fifth street, and George Anthony Callahan, of Woodland avenue.

Will talk on Persia.

"Persia" will be the subject of an interesting lecture to be given at the monthly missionary meeting at Warren chapel tonight by Ira W. Travell. He has been making a special study of the subject and in view of the great disturbance in that country at present the talk should be especially instructive.

GROVER CLEVELAND IS DEAD

the Congress supported the President unanimously, and the boundary commission was appointed, and lost no time in getting to work. Whereupon Great Britain backed down from the attitude that she had first assumed, troversy to arbitration. The Venezuand agreed to submit the whole conelan arbitration treaty was signed in Washington on Feb. 2, 1896.

During the course of his second Administration President Cleveland was obliged to turn his attention to the financial depression existing in this country. The gold reserve was rapidly diminishing and business was in a state of panic. In August, 1893, President Cleveland called a special session of the Congress, and recommended the repeal of the Sherman act, passed in 1890, by which the Government was compelled to purchase monthly 4,500,000 ounces of silver, and pay for it in Treasury notes. The act was finally repealed by the Congress on Nov. 1, 1893.

President Cleveland used all the influence at his command to prevent the Democratic National Convention in 1896 from committing itself to the cause of free silver, and when William Jennings Bryan was finally nominated by the Democrats President Cleveland threw his support to the so-called National Democratic party, which clung to the gold standard and placed in the field as its candidates Palmer and Buckner.

After his retirement from public life Mr. Cleveland lived at Princeton.

In 1905 ex-President Cleveland was appointed by Thomas F. Ryan one of the three trustees for the majority stock of the Equitable Life Assurance Society which he held.

Boy's Foot Badly Cut by Glass.

Lloyd Harris, a South Plainfield boy, received a severe cut on the right foot, yesterday, by stepping on a piece of glass as he was walking without shoes or stockings along the bank of Spring Lake. It might have resulted seriously but for the fact that Dr. Fred J. Hughes, of the borough, chanced to pass by and was called to attend him. Several small arteries in the foot were severed and the physician declared that had he not received immediate attention the consequences would have been serious. It was an hour after the wound had been dressed before the boy could be removed to his home.

Three Unmuzzled Dogs Nabbed.

Borough Dog Catcher "Jim" Babbitt started his campaign against unmuzzled dogs early this morning, and rounded up three canines before breakfast. One of the trio was a setter, which was claimed this morning, another was a white bull terrier and the third a hound. After their capture, the animals were taken to the pound, which is an old brick building on Race street, near Somerset street. The early morning hours were enlivened by the vocal remonstrances of the three prisoners, chained in the pound.

Injured Playing Near Bonfire.

Roy Wood, aged thirteen years old, residing on Pearl street, was severely injured on the right arm while playing with a bonfire near his home, last night. In some unknown manner a cartridge had been dropped into the pile of brush before the fire was started and an explosion quickly followed. At the same instant a sharp piece of metal struck the boy's arm inflicting a deep cut. He was taken to Dr. A. H. Dundon's office, where the laceration was sutured. No serious results are anticipated.

Parker-Hoyt Nuptials.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Ethelwyn Hoyt, daughter of Dr. F. Hoyt, of New York, formerly of West Seventh street, this city, to Frederick W. Parker, of New Brunswick. The ceremony was peformed in the Collegiate church, New York, yesterday, by Rev. Dr. Henry E. Cobb and was attended by relatives and near friends. Mr. and Mrs. Parker will make their home in New Brunswick, the former being connected with the Janeway company of that city.

Lightning Strikes a Chimney.

During the thunder storm yesterday afternoon lightning struck the chimney at the home of John Mitchell on West Fifth street, shattering it to pieces and damaging the interior of the house to some extent. A number of children were playing about the house at the time and they all felt the shock more or less, while the members of the household ran out-of-doors believing that the structure was going to pieces. The damage will amount to a few hundred dollars.

William Kissam, of Long Island, is visiting his sister, Mrs. M. C. Barkalew, of Duer street.

MARYLAND COMMISSIONERS TO INSPECT LOCAL ROADS.

Governor Fort will entertain Governor Austin L. Crothers, of Maryland, and members of the Maryland Improved Road Commission during their visit to New Jersey to inspect its improved roads. The visitors will arrive at Camden on July 8 and will be met by Governor Fort, State Road Commissioner Frederick Gilkyson and State Road Supervisor Robert A. Meeker, and the tour of the State will be started in automobiles. The party will go along the White Horse turnpike, through Hammonton to Absecon, and will turn up the coast over the fine gravel road built by Ocean county and then go to Lakewood.

Camp Fort at Sea Girt will be reached late in the afternoon, and the party will be entertained at dinner and overnight at the summer capitol, formerly the New Jersey building at the St. Louis Exposition, which has been enlarged this season to provide ample accommodations for the Governor and his guests during the summer.

The next morning the party will go to Eatontown, where the Colts Neck road, in course of construction, will be inspected. From there they will go to Freehold, Hightstown, New Brunswick, and thence through Middlesex, Union, Essex and Hudson counties to Jersey City.

PASTOR SAYS GLASS OF BEER IS HARMLESS.

The Rev. Sydney Goodman, pastor of the Men's church, at Atlantic City, has caused an uprising among the temperance element by declaring in a sermon that a "glass of beer occasionally was harmless" to the man who had self-control.

When called to account Sunday, the pastor repeated his declaration and said that he did not advocate drinking. He made the statement when he was talking upon the subject of "Self control." The Rev. Mr. Goodman is the parson who smokes during services along with his big congregation of men.

BOY KILLED ON TRACK.

Quarreling with Brother, Did Not Hear Train.

Passaic, June 24.—While quarreling with his brother, John, Anthony Donkersloot, of 26 Sherman street, was struck by a westbound Erie express here last night and died from a fractured skull. With several others, the brothers had been swimming, and were returning on the railroad track.

None noticed the train until it was upon them. All jumped clear except Tony. He died in the General Hospital a few minutes after being admitted. The brothers argued over their comparative abilities as swimmers.

Howard Leggett Critically Ill.

Local friends received word from Morristown this morning that J. Howard Leggett, who recently underwent a severe surgical operation, had failed to rally from its and that his death is momentarily expected. He was still living shortly before noon but his family had abandoned all hope. Mr. Leggett was in the drug business in Plainfield for many years, succeeding R. M. Stelle at Front street and Park avenue and later removing to the Y. M. C. A. building.

Y. M. C. A. Boys Off to Camp.

Accompanied by Boys' Secretary H. Batchelor, Craig Blair, Robert Everett, Warren Butler, Jr., New Jenkins, Edward Voorhees and Raymond Boice left for Lake Hopatcong early this morning to spend the rest of the week in camp there. The association campers have a big tent with them and have their camp on Captain R. L. Edwards' property. They will break camp Saturday.

W. F. Arnold Enjoying Himself.

A postal card received from City Treasurer William F. Arnold, who, with his family, is abroad, states that he is having the time of his life. The car was mailed in Paris on June 12, and it shows an excellent view of "Cour du Carrousel," Paris. The family expect to return home about July 1.

Jersey Mayors to Meet.

Mayor Fisk has received an invitation from Mayor McBride, of Paterson, to attend the meeting of Jersey mayors to be held at Jersey City on Friday, July 2. A committee on plan and scope for organization will make a report at this time.

TRINITY SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS ENTERTAINMENT

The musical entertainment and festival held under the auspices of the "Loyal Band," Class No. 24, of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, at Debele's Hall last night, proved a most successful affair, and $35 was netted for the church. The festival was planned by a committee headed by Henry Seader, teacher of the class, and the eighteen members of the band turned out in force to make the entertainment a success.

Music was a feature of the program, and there were solos by George Rittenhouse, Mr. Jameson, Mr. Firstbrook and Clarence Rittenhouse. Excellent music was rendered by George Martin, of Dunellen, who played several mandolin solos, and Miss Louise Seader rendered a piano selection. Cook's orchestra furnished other music.

During the evening, cake, candy and lemonade were served by the refreshment committee, composed of Mrs. Edward Ross, Mrs. Walter Emmons, Mrs. J. M. Tier and Mrs. C. F. Colthar. Miss Mamie Kohler and Mrs. H. M. Huff acted as cashiers and Mrs. Clarence Bye, Mrs. Frank Bache, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Henry Seader, Mrs. W. J. Trembath, with the Misses Cora Miller, Mattie Rose, Ida Tier, Anna Bache, Clara Allen and Hattie Van Nest were the waitresses.

THE SUMMER VACATION.

In order to get best results from a vacation you should have a definite purpose in view, a purpose to do something in which you feel a real interest, for it you are not really interested in what you are doing it will afford you neither real comfort nor pleasure. Loafing is neither restful nor profitable to one who is used to a busy life. In fact, it becomes tiresome, positively irksome, so that vacation time seems long and the end welcome. Rest and recreation are found in some sort of pleasant activity, something different from that in which the person is daily engaged. But to stop all activity and settle down to eating, drinking, sleeping and lounging around, is to stop the recreation process and develop a tired, sluggish feeling. Therefore, you go on vacation with a desire and a determination to do something. What to read during vacation is one of the questions to be settled. Any old book won't do, nor will the latest novel, nor a magazine picked up at random. Nearly every one has in hand the reading of some particular book, or reading up on some particular subject. This gives a zest to vacation that makes it worth while, not only from a rest point of view, but as a real recreation. A change of scene is desirable because it is restful in that it relieves the strain, so to speak, of seeing and hearing the same things continuously. New faces, new sounds, new sight, all give new sensations. To go from a busy, noisy city into the quiet country is not always best, for the novelty soon wears off and then the changed scenes become tiresome, with no relief in sight. Continuous travel for several days is most tiresome for those who are not in the habit of making long journeys. The farm is hardly the place for one to go who has never been used to farm life. Things are so different from city life that one soon tires. Try if possible to find a place where you can exercise your hobby-horse. Nearly every one has a hobby aside from a regular trade or profession. If you have one, turn it loose and let it canter at will. Be sure it is no trifling matter to choose a place in which to spend your vacation and to so order it that it will be both pleasant and profitable.

BEWARE THE DUST-CATCHING BRIC-A-BRAC.

Did you ever hear of them? Or, what is worse, do you know them from experience? "Dust catchers" are bad enough when it comes to cleaning, but there is another side which is worse. In the hall, dining-room, parlor, library, the superfluous little ornaments that serve as such a magnet for flying particles of dust annoy only the maid or the housewife. But it is in the bedroom that the other side makes itself felt. Here they are unhealthy as they are unnecessary.

Not even the "fresh air crank" would demand the banishment from the sleeping rooms of the boy and girl the things that really make for attractive decoration.

But the average bedroom of the schoolboy or the schoolgirl—of young people in their teens—are filled with these unnecessary and unwholesome "dust catchers." From chandeliers, mantel-pieces and every available place, dangle dance-cards, programs and souvenirs. Pictures, so-called from a lack of more fitting name, cut from magazines, or given away with a pound of tea or a package of cigarettes, plaster the walls, tacked up with pins and often the edges not even cut smooth. College and school pennants, splendid decorations when properly hung, stuck up indiscriminately, generally over the one framed picture in the room, if it can boast this. Bits of ribbon, tin horns, dolls and gimcracks without end, all much the worse for wear each with the memory of some delightful evening, when John took you out for the first time, or when you met Mary. Souvenirs are all very well in their place, but their place is not hung up any which way in the bedroom, where at night you have to sleep and breathe the dust accumulated on all these unnecessary things.

If every boy and girl who lives in such a room as this, would get to work this house-cleaning time and rip up the second-rate pictures on the walls, pack away in shoe-boxes the dance-cards, etc., and go to work to make a clean, bright, artistic room in which to express his or her own individuality, they would not regret the effort when it is done.

JERSEYMEN PAY TRIBUTE

Gov Fort, Senator Kean and Ex-Senator Smith Point Out Cleveland's Virtues.

"WAS A MAN OF COURAGE."

New Jersey Should be Proud of Him, Says Kean—Jersey Was Proud of Him, Says Smith.

United States Senator John Kean returned to his home at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon from the Yale commencement. He said the death of former President Grover Cleveland was a great shock to him, as he was told only yesterday that he was getting along well. He added:

"I was in Congress for two years during his first term, was a frequent visitor to the White House, knew the President well, and had a very high opinion of him personally and as a public man. The stand which he took upon the currency question was certainly of the highest service to the country. He was a man who, when he once made up his mind as to his course, would stick to it. We have had several Presidents who have always been firm when the occassion demanded firm ness, but among them all Cleveland stands out distinctively."

"I think that as Mr. Cleveland was the only native born son of New Jersey to fill the office of President, the State should be proud of his achievements and proud to have had him return to make his home ere after laying aside the duties of his high office."

Of his New Jersey friends, one of his sincereest admirers was former Senator James Smith, Jr. In speaking of Mr. Cleveland's death, Mr. Smith said:

"Our country has lost in Grover Cleveland a very great man, honest to the core, a man of sound judgment, and an able statesman. He was a true, a most patriotic American, and he proved it when in the Venezuela controversy he made England back down.

"Mr. Cleveland was an excellent judge of men and elected the best for members of his cabinet. He was not always in full accord with some of the leaders of the Democratic party, but he was honest in his opinions, and when he had thoroughly investigated and considered a matter of national importance, and made his decision, he never receded from his position. That was a characteristic of him that won him honor in his own country and abroad.

"All people in New Jersey were proud of Grover Cleveland, who was born in Essex County in the village of Caldwell. His father was a Presbyterian minister, and the son inherited his father's sterling American principles."

From his home in East Orange, Governor Fort sent the following message to Mrs. Cleveland:

"The death of Mr. Cleveland is a distinct loss to the whole nation. In the name of all the people of New Jersey, whom I know would speak if they could, as well as for myself, I extend to you their and my profound sympathy."

Colonel Frederick Gilkyson, Assistant Adjutant General of the National Guard of New Jersey, representing Governor Fort, called at the Cleveland residence at Princeton in the afternoon personally to extend the Governor's condolences and also to offer on behalf of the Governor all or any part of the National Guard as an escort at Mr. Cleveland's funeral. Mrs. Cleveland sent word to Colonel Gilkyson through Professor Hibben thanking the Governor for his courtesy, but declining the offer of a military escort, saying the funeral would be private.

"I think that as time goes on Mr. Cleveland's name will be linked with those of Washington, Franklin, Jefferson, Lincoln and the others who are revered as the greatest men America has produced," said Mayor Samuel Townsend, of North Plainfield, today. "He was a most remarkable man. When you think of how he was assailed when courageously discharging his duties as Chief Magistrate of this Nation and then consider how he lived to see the day when the whole people learned to fully appreciate his sterling worth, it is most extraordinary. He made good his opportunities and was a splendid type of American citizenship. His party might have been in power today had it followed his teachings instead of becoming Populistic."

While on his way to pay a promised visit to him, James E. Martine learned of the death of the sage of Princeton. The "farmer-orator" had gotten as far as New Brunswick when he noticed a bulletin posted announcing Cleveland's death but he continued on and spent the remainder of the day talking with the late Democratic chieftain's neighbors at

MISS CATHRINE WHELAN BRIDE OF JOHN M'DONALD

The marriage of Miss Catherine Whelan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Whelan, of West Fifth street, and John McDonald, of Cranford, took place in St. Mary's church yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rev. Father B. M. Bogan performed the ceremony and it was witnessed by a gathering of friends from New York, Newark, Easton, Atlantic City, Cranford, Roselle and Plainfield.

Miss Whelan was attended by Miss Agnes Egan, of Syracuse, N. Y., while Bertram Crane, of Newark, was best man. Joseph Whelan, William McNam, Michael Kiely and Alexander McDonald acted as ushers. The bride's gown was of white net over white silk and her bouquet of white roses. Miss Egan wore white aeolian and carried carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after the ceremony and at its conclusion, Mr. and Mrs. McDonald took their departure amid showers of rice for a month's stay at Atlantic City. On returning they will reside temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. Whelan. In an exchange of gifts in the bridal party, the groom gave the bride a diamond brooch while the latter presented her attendant with a gold ring. The wedding presents received by the bride and groom included silverware, cut glass and checks.

ASBURY PARK GAY FOR G.A.R. ENCAMPMENT

The annual three days' encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, department of New Jersey, opened at Asbury Park last night with a meeting of the council of administration, composed of D. D. Keefe, of Newark; W. L. Marsh, Elizabeth; T. J. McDonald, Jersey City; the Rev. Eugene Hill, Passaic, and J. F. R. Wood, Newark.

Among the local Grand Army men at the convention today are Captain W. C. Smith and family, of Grandview avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Struthers, of West Front. Captain Smith and his party made the trip to Asbury Park by automobile.

An address of welcome was made by Mayor T. Frank Appleby this morning in the beach casino, after which a business session was held. This afternoon the delegates and visiting members will parade on the boardwalk and through several of the principal streets to the corner of Grand and Cookman avenues, where a soldiers' monument erected some years ago, will be dedicated to C. K. Hall Post 41, of Asbury Park.

This shaft represents a soldier at parade rest and is of heroic size, surmounting a plain shaft twenty feet high. The granite in the monument and the base surrounding it came from the quarries at French Creek, Cherber county, Pa., owned by George Potts, a member of C. K. Hall Post, and now living at Ocean Grove. The Rev. William T. Abbott, chaplain of the local post, will make the dedicatory address. In the evening a campfire will be held in the beach arcade.

Friday morning will be devoted to business and election of officers. Department Commander Henry M. Nevins, prosecutor of Monmouth county, will make the opening address. Mr. Nevins is a candidate for commander-in-chief of the national G. A. R., which will hold its encampment at Toledo, Ohio, this summer.

There are 11 G. A. R. posts in New Jersey, with a membership of 4,500. It is expected about one-third to one-half that number will attend the encampment here.

The hotels, city buildings and stores in the business section are decorated with flags in honor of the veterans' visit and encampment.

Mrs. A. H. Lewis at Watch Hill.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis has moved his invalid wife to their cottage at Watch Hill, R. I., where the sufferer may receive the benefit of the cool sea breezes during the heated season. For more than eight years Mrs. Lewis has lain helpless and practically speechless, while kind, loving hands have ministered unto her. Dr. Lewis will attend the next three associations in the interest of the tract society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

New Trolleys for Local Lines.

It is reliably reported that the local trolley lines are to be equipped with new cars which will be modern and up-to-date in every particular. The Public Service Corporation has been equipping its Newark and Jersey lines with the pay-as-you-enter cars and the report is that within a short time new cars will reach Plainfield.

CITY WILL BE A FARMER

Councilmanic Committee Decides to Raise Produce on a Forty Acre Tract.

CHANGES AT POOR FARM.

Mr. and Mrs. Tunis Huff Engaged to Take Charge of Industrial Home on July 1.

The Councilmanic Alms committee being dissatisfied with the small returns from the forty acre farm located near the Industrial Home, has decided to engage in the farming business on a more extensive scale with a view to at least getting sufficient produce themefrom to provide for the inmates of the Home. In the past the farming idea has not been pushed to any great extent, and in consequence the committee, through Overseer-of-the-Poor A. D. Ayres, has been obliged to purchase things which should be raised on the farm.

The committee has engaged Mr. and Mrs. Tunis Huff, who reside near Finderne and on July 1 they will take charge of the Industrial Home. Mrs. Huff will look after the Home as a matron, while Mr. Huff, who is a practical farmer, will manage the farm and the men at the Home will do the work under his direction. In this way the city hopes to save considerable money each year. Mr. and Mrs. Huff will succeed Mr. and Mrs. I. D. TenEyck, who have been at the Home for a number of years. It is said that owing to Mr. Ten Eyck's advanced age he is unable to actively engage in farming and for this reason it was thought best to employ a man who can do this work. The new superintendent will be appointed at the July meeting of the Common Council. Mr. and Mrs. Ten Eyck will continue to reside in Plainfield. Mr. Huff is a son-in-law of Henry Hummer, who for many years has been in charge of the poor farm in Piscataway Township.

EDWARD J. PERRIN, JR., WEDS MISS GARDNER.

Miss Dorothy Gardner, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Coope Gardner, of New York city, and Edward J. Perrin, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Perrin, of North Plainfield, were married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. Stephen C. Millett, at Irvington-on-the-Hudson. Rev. Royal Phelps Balcon, rector of the Episcopal church of that place, performed the ceremony, in the presence of the relatives and immediate friends of the couple. There were no attendants.

Following the ceremony a wedding luncheon was served, and later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Perrin left for Atlantic City. They will reside in this city.

The Site-Seeker Out Next Week.

The first number of "The Site-Seeker," the new real estate monthly magazine, quarterly issues of which are to form the official organ of the Plainfield Board of Trade, will be issued Thursday, July 2. The first issue will be Plainfield number, in the interests of the Board of Trade, illustrated with local views showing tracts under development. Francis K. Anderson, city editor of the Elizabeth Times, is editor of the publication, and Alden E. Moore, of The Daily Press is its manager.

Talked About Persia.

Ira W. Travell, principal of the Plainfield High School, gave an interesting talk on "Persia," at the monthly missionary meeting in Warren chapel, last night. By aid of the map he explained to the audience exactly where the missionaries of the Presbyterian church are located and he also gave much valuable information regarding the recent troubles in that country. Despite the stormy weather there was a large attendance of people.

Exploding Lamp Causes Slight Fire.

The explosion of a lamp at the home of Hampton Probasco, colored, of 1018 West Third street, resulted in a still alarm being turned in at 10:15 last night. Apparatus from West End house and Chief Doane responded but the blaze had been extinguished before their arrival. The damage was trifling.

Suydam Boy Bailed Out.

George Suydam, the North Plainfield boy who was held in $200 bail by Judge Runyon after he had admitted stealing two bicycles, was released from jail yesterday. The necessary bond was furnished by Henry DeMott.

OPERETTA AND CONCERT BY HOLY CROSS CHOIR

Elaborately staged, cleverly acted and showing genuine musical comedy talent on the part of the twenty-three choir boys who took part, the one-act operetta "Robinson Crusoe" presented by the Holy Cross choir in connection with a concert at the church Parish House last night proved a complete success, and about $75 was netted for the boys' camp as a result of the clever production. H. Raymond Loder, who wrote the words and music for the operetta, based on the book of T. W. Richardson, was directly responsible for the success of the production. He has worked hard with the boys. All details of staging and costuming, as well as the various dances, which scored hits with the audience, were from his suggestion and the boys showed the results of careful training. He was at the piano and furnished the music for the operetta.

A feature of the performance was the dancing and of the dances those by Russell Conroy and Charles Kregar, as "Robinson Crusoe" and Friday," as well as George Ball's dance as "Hokee Pokee, the cannibal king," are worthy of especial mention. The sailors' dance, by four of the choir, and the dance of the mutineers also won merited applause. The costuming was elaborate and effective and the stage setting was foliage and crimson rambler roses.

The first part of the program was a concert, in which the choir of twenty-nine men and boys was assisted by Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnson, violiniste, and Miss Mabel Maxson, who acter as accompanist. Mrs. Truell-Johnson won the keenest appreciation by her selections, showing her to possess superior technique and appreciation. "On the Road to Mandelay," by Frederick J. Pope, with the chorus by the choir, was the vocal success of the program, with Mr. Ball's solo "Without Thee." The program follows:

"Lady Bird," (Koschat), the choir; "On the road to Mandaley," (Damrosch), Mr. Pope and choir; Romance, (Svendsen), Mrs. Violet-Tuell-Johnston; "Pretty Twinkling, Starry Eyes," (van der Stucken), the choir; "Without Thee," (d'Hardelot) Mr. Ball; "A Pleasant Wedding in Carinthia," (Kooschat), the choir; (a) Andante, (Second concerto), (Wieniawski), (b) Serenade, (Pirene), Mrs. Violet Truell-Johnston.

"Robinson Crusoe:"—"Robinson Crusoe," a shipwrecked sailor, Russell Conroy; "Captain Bailey," of the brig Betsey Jane, Herbert Stine; "Bella," his one fair daughter, Carol Taylor; "Jack Atkins," a mutineer, Ira Vail; "Friday," a cannibal, Charles Kregar; "The Mysterious Stranger," Howard Riley; "Belinda," a lady of color, Donald Ketcham; "Hokee Pokee," King of the Cannibal Isles, George Ball.

Cannibals—Frederic Van Norden, Harold Noble, Donald Ketcham, Walter Thomas, Ericson Van Norden, and Evans Stevens.

The parrot—A remarkable bird, borrowed for the occasion.

JERSEY CITY'S "BOOST DAY."

Occupants of 99 Automobiles See the Town and its Industries.

Yesterday was "boost day" in Jersey City and Hudson County. The boosting was immediately in charge of the Board of Real Estate Brokers of Jersey City. With the brokers the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange took a hand and incidentally a good part of the population of Jersey City and the other Hudson County communities helped out with flags and lung power.

The Committee of Thirty from the Real Estate Board, headed by Thomas A. Ryer, had decided that all Jersey City needed was to be shown off properly, and so had provided ninety-nine automobiles, in which 400 of the real estate men and their friends inspected the manufacturing interests of the town.

After passing the big manufacturing establishments near the water front, the procession reached the City Hall, where Frank Stevens, President of the Board of Brokers, introduced the visitors to Mayor Wittpenn, who, with the other Hudson Luncheon was served at the Jersey Club, after which the automobile route led south through the rapidly developing sections of Greenville and Bayonne to Bergen Point. The return trip was made by way of the boulevard, taking in the westerly part of Hudson County, and ended at the Hoboken terminal of the Hudson tunnels.

Elston M. French and William Jeffery were local members of the real estate exchange who made the trip.

Miss Bertha Beck, of this city, has been visiting at the home of Absalom Apgar, at Hampton Junction.

HORSE'S KICK KILLS MAN

George McIntee Lives But a Day After Being Struck in Abdomen.

DIES IN MUHLENBERG HOSPITAL

Victim Found in Great Pain on Brook Bank by Policeman—Leaves Relatives Living in Connecticut.

George McIntee, a driver employed by Mrs. Catherine Burke, of West Front street, died in Muhlenberg hospital, last night, as the result of being kicked in the abdomen by a horse twenty four hours previous. The injury was regarded lightly by him at first and his failure to secure medical attendance immediately caused him intense agony before he was given treatment. The body was removed to Cole's undertaking rooms as the man's relatives, who are believed to be in Greenwich, Conn., have not been located.

McIntee had been a resident of the city for the past twelve years and for the greater part of the time worked for Mrs. Burke. He was attending to her horses about 8 o'clock Tuesday night when a daughter of his employer came to speak to him and he warned her not to get too near one of the animals standing close to the door.

"That horse just kicked me," he remarked, "and nearly knocked me out for awhile."

Nothing more was said about the incident but yesterday morning it was recalled when McIntee failed to appear for work at the regular time. A search of the premises failed to disclose him and it was thought he had gone somewhere to be treated. At 4:30 yesterday afternoon as Patrolman Andrew Saffron was proceeding along the south bank of Green brook, near Clinton avenue, in search of indiscret bathers, he found McIntee beneath a tree, evidently in great pain. The sufferer told him he had been kicked by a horse and that he had been lying at the spot since the night before, having picked it out as a cool place to rest. The injury from the kick rapidly grew worse and when he realized his condition was serious he was unable to arise or call for assistance.

The patrolman called Dr. Lufburrow to the scene and the physician stated at once that McIntee should be removed to the hospital. He was taken there in the patrol wagon but began sinking rapidly after his admission and died at 8 o'clock. He was forty-five years old and leaves a wife and other relatives in Connecticut. Beside working for Mrs. Burke he had been employed at various times by George O. Stevens and William Baldwin and was well known in the West End.

MISS MADGE FRITZ BRIDE OF FRANK DENTZ.

Miss Madge Fritz, daughter of Mrs. Adams Fritz, of Somerville, and Frank Dentz, of Summit avenue, North Plainfield, ewere married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, by the Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. The affair was attended by a large number of guests, including about twenty-five from this city.

The bride was attended by Miss Lulu Dentz, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, and Frank Dood, of Elizabeth, was the best man. Following the ceremony a reception was held and a wedding supper was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Dentz left to enjoy a honeymoon at the seashore. They will reside in North Plainfield, the groom being employed at the Manhattan Hotel on Somerset street.

Severely Bitten by a Dog.

Milton Arnesberg, of Netherwood avenue, was severely bitten by a dog belonging to John Fort, of Cottage place, yesterday afternoon as he entered the yard of the owner's home. Arnesberg reported the matter to the police after his wounds had been cauterized and Chief Kiely ordered the dog chained up and closely watched for any appearance of rabies.

Horse Thieves at Brunswick.

The local police received a message from headquarters at New Brunswick at 5:15 this morning, asking them to be on the lookout for a team of horses that had been stolen. The animals were described as a light sorrel with white face and white left hind leg and a chunky bay with a shaggy mane. The team was seen going in this direction.

Who Lost This Wheel?

Theodore Pruden, of East Third street, found a bicycle at North and Watchung avenues, last night, that he turned over to the police. The owner may have it by applying at headquarters and proving property.

MISS JULIA CONNOLLY IS NOW MRS. CALLAHAN

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends in St. Mary's church at 5:30, yesterday afternoon, Miss Julia Frances Connolly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Connolly, of West Fifth street, and Anthony G. Callahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Callahan, of Woodland avenue, were united in marriage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father B. M. Bogan.

Miss Connolly was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Connolly, and was gowned in white silk trimmed with cluney lace. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas. The bridesmaid carried carnations and wore white batiste with simple trimmings. The best man was William H. Callahan, brother of the groom, while John and Thomas Connolly, brothers of the bride, were the ushers. Miss Connolly was given away by her father.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Callahan were tendered a reception at the home of the latter's parents. They left last night for a two weeks' wedding trip and at its conclusion will make their home in Brooklyn, where the groom is the proprietor of a hotel on Fulton street. The young couple received a large and valuable assortment of wedding gifts.

BOY CONVICTS PLOT MURDER TO ESCAPE

Through the divulging of the plans of John Kennedy and Joseph Krouchey, two boys, sentenced to the Rahway Reformatory, they were yesterday prevented from escaping as they were being taken to that institution by Constable Applegate. A "trusty" told Headkeeper Van Horn at the jail that the boys had plotted to overpower the constable while en route to the penitentiary, take his keys away from him and secure their liberty.

A telephone message to the railroad station resulted in Applegate calling in a policeman and searching his prisoners.

They found pieces of iron that they had wrenched from their beds in their pockets, so distributed that no matter how they were handcuffed they could get at one of the pieces of iron.

The "trusty" says the boys decided to kill the constable to secure their liberty, if they had to resort to that extreme. They have been returned to the jail here, and charges will be preferred against thm.

MUST PAY BILL TWICE.

Lopresti Settled With Agent Without Authority.

There is a noticeable lull in district court business these days. At the regular session this morning there was only one contested case and several others were adjourned. The contested case was that of Stern & Sallberg Co., of New York, against John Lopresti, of Watchung avenue, the claim being for $6.75 for a quantity of candy purchased by the defendant. H. C. Runyon represented the plaintiff and Charles J. McNabb the defendant. Judgment was given the plaintiff for full amount.

The evidence showed that Lopresti in dealing with the company had paid an agent for the candy purchased, when he had been instructed not to do so. A few days later the agent left the company's employ and Lopresti was notified of that fact. It was held by the court that he should have paid the company direct and his failure to do this made him liable for the amount claimed.

Gave a Farewell Party.

A lawn party was given at the residence of Councilman and Mrs. W. L. Gloak, on East Second street, yesterday afternoon, in honor of Mrs Mackay and her two sons, who sail for Europe July 4. There was a large gathering of friends, which included Mrs. Westwood, of Hoboken, sister of Mrs. Gloak; also her cousin, Mrs. Richmond, of Jersey City; Miss Anderson, of New York, Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Wilson, of Plainfield. An enjoyable time was spent with games, instrumental and vocal selections, including "The Old Scotch Airs," which were brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne."

Hunt Club's New Steward.

The Watchung Hunt Club has obtained the services of Herbert H. Weatherly as manager and steward. He has been the steward of the Richmond Golf Club, England, the Chicago Yacht Club, Chicago, and the commissary of the 10th Royal Hussars. He recently resigned as steward of Saranac Inn, in the Adirondacks, to take the management of the hunt club. At the regular meeting of the club last night sixteen new members were elected, bringing the total membership close to the limit.

FUNERAL TO BE PRIVATE

Grover Cleveland Will Be Laid at Rest at Princeton Tomorrow Afternoon.

MR. ROOSEVELT TO BE PRESENT

Widow Receives Thousands of Messages from America and Abroad—Flags at Half Mast.

Grover Cleveland will be buried at Princeton in the Cleveland plot in the old Princeton cemetery, where, under a little ivy covered mound, now lies the body of his eldest daughter, Ruth, who died here at Westland in January, 1904. The funeral service will be held at his late home at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Doubtless the extreme privacy with which the funeral will be conducted is owing in part to the fact that the university is in recess. President Wilson is on the ocean on his way to Scotland and the faculty, trustees and students are widely scattered. Had the university been in session it is likely that there would have been a demand for an academic funeral so strong that even Mrs. Cleveland would scarcely have felt like resisting it.

Telegrams of condolence and sympathy have been coming into Princeton. The two telegraph companies have delivered more than 5,000 such messages, and they are still coming from every corner of America and from over the sea.

All over Princeton the flags are at half mast, as indeed they are throughout the State of New Jersey. At the entrance to the drive that leads up from Bayard lane to the Cleveland house stands a solitary policeman, stationed there to see that no mere curiosity seekers have access to the house.

Among the earliest messages sent out by Mrs. Cleveland was one to President Roosevelt. It was made known at the Cleveland home yesterday that the President had announced his determination to be present at the funeral.

The coffin in which the late President will rest is exceedingly plain. It is of heavy quartered oak with ponderous handles of silver. It is devoid of ornaments. On the lid is a plain silver plate bearing this inscription:

Grover Cleveland,
March 18, 1837.
June 24, 1908.

Mrs. Cleveland had told Undertaker Stead, of Princeton, who ordered the coffin, that the less display about the coffin the better.

In addition to the message from President Roosevelt the shower of messages to Mrs. Cleveland included telegrams from Richard Olney, who was President Cleveland's Secretary of State in the Venezuelan affair; St. Clair McKelway, Judge George Gray, William F. Sheehan, Governor Hughes, Vice-President Fairbanks, David R. Francis, Governor Glenn of North Carolina, Secretary Straus, Andrew Carnegie, Mayor McClellan, ex-Senator James Smith, Jr., Gov. Harris of Ohio, Gen. E. A. McAlpin, Robert S. Norris, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, George Westinghouse, R. C. Hoyt, Alton B. Parker, Gov. Fort of New Jersey, Senator Culberson of Texas, John S. Wise, President Butler of Columbia, Herbert L. Satterlee, H. B. Hollins, Rear Admiral Evans, ex-Justice Morgan J. O'Brien and Charles W. Goodyear.

Of the relatives, Mr. Cleveland's nephew, Cleveland Bacon, was at the house last night, and Miss Rose Cleveland, the sister of the former President, who was mistress of the White House until Mr. Cleveland's marriage, is expected today. There are two other sisters—Mrs. N. B. Bacon, of Toledo, O., and Mrs. Mary Cleveland Hoyt, of Omaha, Neb., who may arrive tomorrow.

Among the messages received this morning was one from Gov. Hoke Smith, of Georgia, who asked if the members of Cleveland's old Cabinet were to be present at the funeral. A reply was sent from the Cleveland home that those members of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet who wished to come would be welcomed.

Fined $3 for Soaking Neighbor.

On complaint of Robert Wood, a neighbor, Miss Elizabeth Lane, who lives at Pearl street and Watchung avenue, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Marshal Lemuel Pope of the borough force. At her hearing last night before Borough Recorder Dolliver, Wood testified that she had thrown water on him. Miss Lane was fined $3.

Thieves Take Automobile.

Washington, June 25.—When the garage next to the St. Cloud Hotel was visited this morning, it was discovered that the place had been entered during the night and the automobile of D. M. Perry stolen. The thieves had knocked out one of the window panes and unlatched the window. After gaining entrance to the garage they broke the windows in the closet containing the batteries of Mr. Perry's Buick machine. It is thought local parties are responsible for the theft and two well known characters who are suspected, have left town. Word has been sent to all surrounding towns and cities.

REDUCED TAX VALUATION.

State Board Fixes Figure at $25,300 in Perth Amboy Trust Company Case.

New Brunswick, June 25.—The State Board of Equalization of Taxes yesterday morning reduced the taxable valuation of the Perth Amboy Trust Company to $25,300, wiping out the assessment fixed by the Perth Amboy taxing authorities at $140,000.

City Attorney C. C. Hommann, of Perth Amboy, in view of the recent decision of the Court of Errors in such a case, did not contest Adrain Lyon's motion to have the assessment because a Supreme Court decision gave it authority, and now the Court of Errors have reversed the decision and makes the tax unlawful. The wide decision deprives Perth Amboy of taxes amounting to $1,600.

The decision is to the effect that if the trust companies show that any portion of their capital and surplus is invested in non-taxable securities that portion is exempt from taxation.

The Trust Company of New Brunswick has appealed from this city's valuation of its property, and J. Kearny Rice will present its case to the State Board on Wednesday, July 8.

Madison Township taxing authorities and the County Board of Taxation are at odds over the taxation of the property of the Susquehanna Coal Company in that township. Assessor Brown, of Madison, assessed the property at $30,000. The State board came here to hear about the case yesterday, the Susquehanna Railroad Company having appealed the increase. That Madison is satisfied with a $30,000 valuation became evident when no one appeared to represent that township. The railroad was represented by lawyers, who stated that the reason that Madison was not represented was because it did not oppose the reduction. The case was adjourned so that the township could be heard.

NO CORONER'S PROBE FOR RAILROAD TRAGEDY.

New Brunswick, June 25.—Coroner Moke stated yesterday that there would be no inquest held in the cases of the three victims of the locomotive explosion on the Pennsylvania Railroad at Stelton Tuesday. County Physician J. L. Suydam advised the coroner to have an inquest if the families of the dead men, Engineer William Roberts, Fireman John J. Holman and Flagman Robert Donnelly, desired it.

The coroner visited their homes and found that none of the relatives desired an inquest, since those who could tell about the accident's cause are all dead. A report reached the coroner that the engine had been condemned and was rusty. He investigated this, finding those who were said to have circulated the story, and they denied making any such statement. The railroad's investigation will probably be the only one made.

A sad feature of Holman's death is the fact that he was to have been married shortly.

The funerals of Engineer Roberts and Fireman Holman will be held this afternoon from their late homes. The funeral of Flagman Donnelly will be held tomorrow morning at St. Peter's church. A delegation of railroad men will attend the funerals.

$5,000,000 RELIGIOUS FUND.

Diocesan Offerings to be Put on St. Paul's Altar by 250 Bishops.

The Pan-Anglican Congress closed in London last night with a mass meeting for women in Albert Hall, which was presided over by the Bishop of London. The day was spent in several large devotional meetings. A thanksgiving service was held at noon today, at which 250 Bishops from all parts of the world walked in solemn procession and laid the offerings for their dioceses on the high altar.

It is currently reported that the fund thus provided may amount to $5,000,000.

Pitcher Siever, of Detroit, has been sold to Indianapolis in part pay for Pitcher Marquard.

The last trip of the New York Americans in the west was the most disastrous since the formation of the club and the wildest enthusiast and supporter of the team has lost confidence. It is said that a shake-up will soon be forthcoming.

Pitcher Hazelton, formerly of the Dartmouth College team, has signed with the Boston Americans. He was accused last year of playing semi-professional ball.

The New York Americans have turned Pitcher Case Patten back to the Boston team. President John I. Taylor asserts that New York has no right to do this and has submitted the matter to President Ban Johnson for a decision.

The Yankees will soon return to their stamping ground for a series of games and it is almost hope against hope that they will strike a winning streak.

The Netherwood Stars will play the Scotch Plains seconds Fourth of July morning on the Hunter avenue diamond at Scotch Plains.

The Brooklyn Nationals, although they have one of the best pitching staffs in either league, have been playing in the hardest kind of luck, losing many contests by one or two runs.

The Philadelphia sporting writers have opened wide the flood gates of criticism against the Athletics and the National League Club representing that city. Both teams have been having a bad slump and nothing seems to be able to stop them on their downward course.

The local Y. M. C. A. team will meet the Elizabeth Association nine at Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon. It will be the first meeting of these teams this year.

GOLF.

While the entries closed last night for the Staten Island championship, those who neglected that formality, were allowed to start if they arrived before 10 o'clock at the Fox Hills Golf Club, this morning. The committee has added a cup for the third sixteen in the qualifying round and also for the beaten eight in that division.

Miss Lillian French, champion of the Women's Western Golf Association, has been forbidden by her physician to participate in any tournaments this year. In consequence she will be unable to defend her title or to be one of the Western team at Chevy Chase in October for the matches to precede the women's national championship.

A commendable idea in the handicapping at the Hollywood Golf Club this season is that for men; they will be based on the par of the course, which is 72, and for women on the bogey score of 78. Yesterday, July 1, 15, August 5 and 26 there will be medal play competitions for women. The qualifying round for the women's championship, four to keep on in matches, will be on August 12. There are week end events for the men and a special competition on July 4, but their championship will not begin until September 5. The first eight will qualify for the title and cup, the second eight for the Hollywood and the third eight for the West End cup. The green committee is made up of Arthur McAleenan, chairman; J. J. O'Donohue, Jr., Frank E. Henderson and H. Content, ex-officio. John Young has been succeeded at Hollywood as professional by Oliver Wood, a home bred youth, formerly head caddie, and who golfs in good style.

Play for the president's cup at the Yountakah Country Club is close to the ending. In the semi-final F. A. Marcellus beat F. C. Williams, 4 up and 2 to play. He will now play in the final with either H. G. Giles or W. G. Phillips. There is a close race on for the governor's cup for the best six net scores made during May and June. J. A. Williar is now leading with an average of 73½ and A. L. Clark is second with 74. The Yountakah team has been very successful, winning five of the six matches played. As an appreciation of the club's pride in their work Mrs. George H. Ryall gave a cup for the members of the team. Four qualified, Dr. H. C. Reynolds, George Ryall, Jr., A. L. Clark and E. J. Luce. At match play Ryall beat Reynolds, 4 up and 3 to play, and Clark won from Luce by 2 up. In the final Ryall won from Clark, 2 up and 1 to play.

PRESIDENT'S PROCLAMATION.

Oyster Bay, L. I., June 25.—This proclamation was issued by the President yesterday immediately on head of Mr. Cleveland's death:

A PROCLAMATION.

The White House,
June 24, 1908.

To the People of the United States:

Grover Cleveland, President of the United States from 1885 to 1889 and again from 1893 to 1897, died at 8:40 o'clock this morning at his home in Princeton, N. J. In his death the Nation has been deprived of one of its greatest citizens.

By profession a lawyer, his chief services to his country were rendered during a long, varied, and honorable career in public life. As Mayor of his city, as Governor of his State, and twice as President, he showed signal powers as an administrator, coupled with entire devotion to the country's good, and a courage that quailed before no hostility when once he was convinced where his duty lay. Since his retirement from the Presidency he has continued well and faithfully to serve his countrymen by the simplicity, dignity, and uprightness of his private life.

In testimony of the respect in which his memory is held by the Government and people of the United States, I do hereby direct that the flags on the White House and the several departmental buildings be displayed at half mast for a period of thirty days, and that suitable military and naval honors, under the orders of the Secretaries of War and of the Navy, be rendered on the day of the funeral.

Done this twenty-fourth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eight and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-second.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

By the President.
ALVEY A. ADEE,
Acting Secretary of State.

A STATE'S TRIBUTE.

It would be highly appropriate and in every way a fitting recognition of the services he rendered his country as well as the great credit he reflected upon his native State, if the people of New Jersey caused a statue of Grover Cleveland to be placed in front of the State Capitol at Trenton. The recent Republican State convention on motion of its junior Senator, seconded by its senior Senator, unanimously passed resolutions praying for the speedy recovery of 'a distinguished son of New Jersey." Grover Cleveland was more than a distinguished son; he was the most distinguished son in his time, and it will not be denied that an appropriation for a monument to his memory either from State funds or by popular subscription would meet with general approval from Sussex to Cape May.

AS TO POSTOFFICE SITE.

The Plainfield Merchants Association has the right idea when it protests against the location of the proposed Federal building at East Front street and Watchung avenue. The Iroquois Hotel property in Park avenue is a thousand times more suitable. It is in the very centre of the business section and on a thoroughfare that is bound to be, in the near future if it is not at the present time, the main avenue of trade in the city.

Naturally the newspaper world was curious to learn what editorial treatment Grover Cleveland's death would receive at the New York Sun office. Seldom has there been such a display of personal bitterness as that which characterized that paper after the late Charles A. Dana "fell out" with Cleveland. There was nothing too contemptuous for it to say about the Democratic leader during the latter's official career at Washington, but it is safe to say that the misuse of a newspaper for such a purpose never gained it any friends and finally The Sun people realized the fact.

By way of reference and apology of that unfortunate policy, The Sun today says:

"In other days the ideas of Mr. Cleveland and those of this newspaper with regard to many things were notoriously not in accord. This circumstance possibly makes it proper to say now what it will always be pleasant for us to remember, namely that the personal braech ceased to exist years ago, and The Sun has long numbered Grover Cleveland among its constant readers and faithful friends. Peace to the ashes of the good man and great leader, and may the generations hold his name and the memory of his deeds in jjust and high esteem."

Certainly The Sun is to be commended for its courage and its fairness, although is comes rather at a late day.

Can anyone tell us why it is that the city flags are not at half mast?

Princeton.

"Mr. Cleveland had often invited me to visit him and I had promised to do so for I loved that man as much as I disagreed with his party beliefs. It occurred to me yesterday morning that I would take a run down and see him after I had learned the day before that he was improving. When I got to New Brunswick I learned of his sudden end. In many respects Mr. Cleveland was the greatest man of the day. There was nothing little or small in his make-up; he was every inch a man—a man of extraordinary courage and ability. I think it is safe to say that he will take his place along side of Jefferson, Calhoun and Tilden in the hall of Democratic fame."

Small Change.

Small amounts saved up each day and put at interest would surprise most anyone who has not taken the forethought to put it in figures. Five cents saved back each and every day, and put in the savings bank at four per cent. interest, in five years would amount to $100; in ten years to $225; in twenty years to $565. Ten cents a day would grow in the same time to $200, $450 and $1,130. Some men, and boys too, think they can pay ten cents a day for car fares and not mind it, just to save a few minutes walk. The writer once knew a business man who made it a regular practice, for years without number, to spend twenty-five cents a day for cigars. This used as suggested, would amount in five years to $500; in ten years to $1,125 and in twenty years to $2,825.

Many a man and some boys could, if they just would, save up at least one of the specified amounts and that to their physical advantage and possibly some day to the gain of their home comforts.—(Contributed.)

Trenton Firm Get Contract.

The Board of State Prison Inspectors on Tuesday awarded to Piper Brothers, Trenton plumbers, the contract for placing 200 new porcelain closets in the old wing of the prison. The accepted bid was $22,289, being lower than a number of others, including George J Tobin, of this city, who has had many State contracts.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

From present indications the base ball team will lose its manager, Joseph Albert, who also has covered third base for the team this season. The Rahway A. C. team has made Joe a tempting offer to play Saturdays and Sundays and he has about decided to accept. While the loss of him at third will no doubt weaken the team to a certain extent, still the fans do not blame him for making what he can out of the game.

Lester Lamacan, of New York, is spending several weeks with Franklin Lee, who is home from school for his summer vacation.

Henry Sommilch, the young son of Jacob Sommilch, of Barth avenue, who was accidently poisoned Tuesday night, by swallowing a spoonful of potassium of lye, in mistake for condensed milk, was reported to be improving nicely last night. Dr. Westcott, who is in charge, has pronounced the little fellow out of danger, unless other complications arise.

A Plainfield couple were united in marriage Monday night by Judge Clark at his home on Front street. The couple enjoined the Judge to secrecy before the knot was tied, stating that they did not want their friends to know of the nuptial event until they return from their honeymoon trip to Atlantic City.

The members of the B. Y. P. U and a number of their friends enjoyed a day's outing yesterday picnicing on the shores of the lake, at New Market. A pleasant day was had by all who attended.

Benjamin Clark, an old and respected resident here, who has been ill for several weeks, suffering from a complication of diseases, was taken to Muhlenberg Hopsital yesterday for treatment.

Only one game of ball has as yet been booked by the local ball team for July 4, the All-stars of Newark, being the attraction for the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jamison, of Front street, have returned from a visit with relatives in New York State.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Charles Wyckoff, the Dunellen hotel keeper, pleaded non vult to the charge of illegal liquor selling at his hearing before Judge Booraem at New Brunswick yesterday. Senator George Silzer was Wyckoff's attorney and several boroughites were subpoenaed as witnesses. The sentence has not yet been imposed. The charge is retail selling under a license permitting only wholesale selling. It is reported that a writ of habeas corpus has been issued for Peter Trainor, the bartender of the place and action will be taken against him.

The committee from William G. Holton Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. is rapidly completing arrangements for the lodgemen's Fourth of July celebration. Athletic games will be the feature in the afternoon, and in the evening there will be a mammoth display of fireworks.

A supper and social was held in connection with the monthly business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Seventh Day Baptist church yesterday afternoon. The members were entertained at the home of Mrs. Walter Dunn, of New Market.

The improvements on Friendship Hall, New Market, are now practically completed. They include exterior painting and interior painting and papering. The work has been done by Liscomb Sheppard, of Elizabeth.

The regular monthly meeting of the Defender Fire Company will be held in the borough building tonight.

(Additional suburban news on page 2.)

Religious Assembly at Mt. Tabor.

Under the auspices of the Newark Annual Conference an assembly will be conducted at Mt. Tabor, Morris county, from July 22 to August 2. Speakers of prominence have been engaged, among whom will be Rev. Dr. W. L. Watkinson, the famous preacher, lecturer and author of England, who will deliver addresses and sermons on six days of the assembly. Prof. Hugh Black, of Union Theological Seminary, and Rev. Dr. U. B. McLeod, of Edinburgh, Scotland, will preach several times. Rev. Dr. Edward Reed, president of Dickinson College, and Rev. Dr. Homer C. Stuntz, assistant secretary of the Missionary Society of the Methodist church, and other speakers will deliver addresses. Professors Isaac H. Meredith, choir master of the Hanson Place Methodist church, Brooklyn, assisted by a large chorus choir, will havec harge of the singing. Special arrangements have been made for the entertainment of guests. By communicating with Rev. R. K. Boyd, at Mt. Tabor, tents can be procurred for those who desire them.

PRISONERS SWEAR THAT THIS JAIL IS HAUNTED

GRINNING GOBLIN SWINGS TO AND FRO NIGHTLY ALONG GRATING OF CELLS.

Asheville, N. C.—A petition signed by all the prisoners, white and black, in the county jail, has been sent to the jailer and the sheriff appealing for protection from "evil spirits," which the prisoners declare haunt the jail.

In the morning when Jailer Mitchell unlocked the jail doors he was met by a wild-eyed bunch of prisoners begging to be removed. They declare that evil spirits pay nightly visits to the jail.

Both Sheriff Hunter and Jailer Mitchell admit that the prisoners had grounds for their appeal, as they, too,

The Evil Spirit Swung To and Fro Along the Grating.

had heard noises which they were unable to account for.

The previous night the prisoners say was the most harrowing. An evil spirit appeared and swung to and fro along the iron grating of the cages from midnight until two or three o'clock in the morning. Bob Boone and Will Miller, two of the prisoners, fainted. The others hid under the bedclothes.

"Rev." W. G. Whitaker, charged with forgery, says it was a "demon" and it grinned at them through the iron bars. It moved its lips, but could not speak. It poked a hand through the iron grating and every time it swung to the cage it would grin in a most diabolical manner, while the negroes moaned and prayed.

The prisoners say that every night they hear the trap fall, meaning by this the trap of the gallows on which a negro was recently hanged. Sheriff Hunter promised the prisoners that they will be moved to the new jail building as soon as it is completed.

WINS CASH AND A BRIDE.

Italian Count Also Gets $20,000 by Walking Around World.

Spokane, Wash.—Count Della Ginesti Reggio Salvadore, who started on a tour of the world seven years ago to win $20,000 in a wager with another Italian nobleman, has come to Spokane, wooed and won an olive complexioned damsel of the land of his birth, and will pass a couple of years in preparing the manuscripts of a series of books dealing with the incidents of his experiences and travels around the inhabited globe.

The money he won as the result of his long hike has been paid to a charitable institution in Italy.

The count and his girl wife are living on Monroe street, where they have established a comfortable home. While the young countess entertains lavishly her titled husband is busy with his secretary and living "the ordinary life," as he calls it. He passes part of the time tramping among the hills and fishing in the near-by streams. Count Reggio declares he has visited every city of importance in the United States and Canada, and he speaks of them with knowledge that could not have been acquired in any other manner.

OIL KING TO BUILD HOSPITAL.

Large Institution to Treat Obscure Diseases Planned.

New York.—Plans have been made for a large hospital to be conducted in connection with the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research. Borings have been made south of the present building, where there are extensive outcroppings of rock. It is likely that the foundations will be laid at that point, as the site will command a view of the river and at the same time give the patients the full benefit of the breeze from the stream.

It is understood that the project has been approved by John D. Rockefeller, who established the institute, and that funds will be provided by him. The institute was founded primarily for investigation of cerebro-spinal meningitis, with the object of finding a cure for that mysterious disease.

In many ways the hospital will be unique. Its patients will be those suffering from obscure diseases. Both grown people and children will be admitted. The objects of the hospital will be, first to cure ailments which have failed, to respond to ordinary treatment, and second, to afford material for observation by the scientists at work in the institute.

GIRL TRAMPS THROUGH BOGS TO SAVE CLAIM

WALKS 20 MILES TO ATTEND HEARING IN A CONTEST FOR HER HOMESTEAD.

Crookston, Minn.—On a race to save her claim in the vicinity of Fram post office, about 20 miles inland east of Middle River, Minn., and burdened with heavy grips, Miss Eva Johnson, the assistant postmistress at Vining, in Otter Tail county, plunged on feet through eight and one-half miles of the heaviest bogs of the north country and won.

Contest had been brought against her by parties who were not acquainted with her location, and she was scheduled to appear at Fram post office to answer the contest or it would have gone by default to the contestant. She settled on the claim some time ago, later obtained the assistant postmistresship of the Vining post office, and as a result has spent her time in government employ. On that account the homestead laws permit her final proof without actual residence on the claim.

She heard of the contest and went to Middle River, where she was unable to secure a team that would brave the swamps. Accordingly she walked the 20 miles to Fram post office, eight and a half miles of which route is through some of the worst swamp in the north country and surrounded on all sides by impassable muskeg.

Her grips contained papers and clothing and weighed about 50 pounds. She says that she was compelled to rest from time to time. She reached Fram just half an hour before the case was called and appeared in person before the court. The road is almost impassable for horses, which often go through the floating bog. Miss Johnson returned in a buggy with Attorney N. B. Moran of Crookstown, who was in Fram on business. The Crookstown attorney spent almost all his time at the head of the plunging horses trying to get back to Middle River.

COWPUNCHER WAS A GIRL.

She Fooled All but Her Sweetheart for Two Years.

Pullman, Neb.—"Bob" Ellsworth, a handsome young cowpuncher who has been riding in northwestern Nebraska for nearly two years, has turned out to be a woman and is now the wife of "Jim" Spearman, a dashing young man with whom she has worked for the last eight or ten months.

Wearing the apparel of a cowboy, her hair cropped close to her shapely head and her face bronzed by exposure to sun and wind, the young lady, whose name was Minnie Turner, was believed to be a man by everybody who worked and associated with her save the young cowboy who is now her husband. To him she revealed the secret of her sex immediately after they became acquainted. A day or two ago the couple mounted their broncbos and went off to be married. They have gone out to the Pacific coast on a wedding journey and will settle in Montana when they return.

Tramp Saves a Fast Train.

Winsted, Conn.—The express leaving here over the New York & New Haven railroad at 7 a. m. was saved from wreck on Dutchman's curve, in Torrington, ten miles south of here, by "Springfield Mike" Rolland, a tramp.

While strolling on the track, "Mike" discovered that a foot of rail had either been cut or broken on the curve. He heard the approaching express whistle and ran up the track waving a bandanna. Engineer Finkle saw the danger signal in time to stop the express as it was taking the curve.

All the members of the crew from Conductor Dalley down and many passengers showered Rolland with thanks. The hero said he had often ridden as "blind baggage" and felt indebted to the railroad.

Snake in Nest Bites Girl.

Hopeville, Ia.—Reaching into a nest where she expected to find a part of the day's laying of eggs Hazel, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Morgan, was bitten by a snake. The reptile, coiled in the nest, sank its fangs into the flesh of her hand and she is in a critical condition.

After the snake had been killed a China nest egg was discovered in its body, which it had swallowed from the hen's nest.

STONE ROADS.

Proposals are asked for the construction of a Macadam Road on Terrill Road, which is the dividing line between the City of Plainfield and the Borough and Township of Fanwood, Union County, New Jersey, from Green Brook to South Avenue.

The length of the roadway between said points is about 5,495 lineal feet. The width of the stonework is sixteen (16) feet.

The estimated quantities of the items of the work are as follows:

Earth excavation, 770¾ cubic yards.

Extra earth excavation for embankment, 4,054 cubic yards.

Eight inch macadam, 9587.2 square yards.

Six inch underdrains, 0.

Plans, profiles and specifications for this work may be examined at the office of the County Engineer, 201 Park Avenue, Plainfield, N. J.

Bidders must enclose with their bids a certified check for $1,000.00, made payable to the Director of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J., as a guarantee that if the contract be awarded to such bidder, the bidder will enter into an agreement with the Board of Chosen Freeholders for the performance of the work according to the specifications.

Bids for the above described work will be received and opened by the County Road Committee of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, New Jersey, at the Court House, Elizabeth, N. J., at 2:30 p. m., on Friday, July 3, 1908.

The said Board of Chosen Freeholders or its Committee reserves the right to reject any or all bids, as they may deem best for the interests of the county.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 28, 1908.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Foreign missions. Henry Martyn and missions in India.—I Cor. ii. 1-16.

Henry Martyn was born in Truro, Cornwall, England, Feb 18, 1781. He received a splendid academic education, attending the grammar school in his native town and graduating from St. John's college, Cambridge. He won several prizes for exceptional scholarship in 1801, the prize for the greatest proficiency in mathematics; in 1802 he was chosen fellow of his college and won first prize for the best Latin composition. It was his intention to devote his unusual talents to the law, but God interfered with his plans and made of him a great missionary. This change was brought about by the sudden death of his father and mother and the faithful preaching and counsels of the university preacher, which led to his conversion and dedication to the ministry. Two incidents influenced him to become a missionary. One was the remark of his pastor as to the great good that had been accomplished by a single missionary in India—William Carey, "the consecrated cobbler." The other factor in determining his life work was the reading of the "Life of David Brainerd," an early missionary in America.

Martyn was ordained to the ministry in the Church of England. At first he was curate to the university preacher, but still longed for the missionary field. Financial disaster overtook him, and he accepted a chaplaincy in the East India company, and thus through another seeming adverse providence of God attained his heart's desire. He preached to his own countrymen in India and learned the languages of the people of the empire and preached to them, at the same time translating the Book of Common Prayer, the parables of Christ and, last of all, the entire New Testament into the Hindoostanee language and later into the Persian and Arabic tongues. He was most faithful as a missionary and irresistible in argument. "Henry Martyn," said a Persian, "was never beaten in argument; he was a good man, a man of God." During his labors he suffered much from illness and while on his way to England, seeking health, was taken sick with a plague then raging and died at Tokat, Turkey, and was buried there. Thus he not only dedicated his splendid talents to the saving of heathendom, but gave his life in the service of his Master as a missionary. His life and his work should be an inspiration to all young people interested in the advancement of Christ's kingdom.

Newest C. E. Editor.

The latest accession to the ranks of Christian Endeavor editors is Mr. E. J. Powell of Newport in Wales. Mr. Powell has launched the Christian Endeavor Optimist, the official organ of the Welsh National union, a paper that is destined to play a large part in the increasing development and usefulness of Christian Endeavor in the land of its issue. Mr. Powell is also a member of the British Christian Endeavor council, a man of affairs and a highly esteemed Christian gentleman, who has done heroic service for the cause of Christ already.

The Heart of Christian Endeavor.

Every healthy man has two lungs and two eyes and two ears and two hands, but only one heart. A two hearted man would be a monstrosity. So Christian Endeavor has but one heart, though it has any number of eyes and ears and as many hands as Briareus. As Paul told that old Christian Endeavor society in Colossae and as he tells us today, that heart is love—love to God in Christ, on whom we should "set our affections," and love to one another, "forbearing one another and forgiving one another."

The pulsations of this heart sends life, as Paul also tells us, into all the other parts of the Christian Endeavor body—hands, feet, eyes and ears, as the natural heart sends its blood to every organ.

This heart of Christian Endeavor leads us to do right as children and parents, as wives and husbands, as masters and servants. It enables us to "continue in prayer," to season our gracious speech "with salt," to "do all in the name of the Lord Jesus." And the blessed result is that the "peace of God rules in our hearts," and we are "thankful."—Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark.

CHAPTER II.

As I have already remarked, I used frequently to take long rides into the country, and sometimes I did not return till the following day. My clerk was always on duty, and the work never appeared to make him round-shouldered.

I had ridden horses for years, but to throw a leg over a good mount was to me one of the greatest pleasures in the world. I delighted in stopping at the old feudal inns, of studying the stolid German peasant, of drinking from steins uncracked these hundred years, of inspecting ancient armor and gathering trifling romances attached thereto. And often I have had the courage to stop at some quaint, crumbling Schloss or castle and ask for a night's lodging for myself and horse. Seldom, if ever, did I meet with a refusal.

I possessed the whimsical habit of picking out strange roads and riding on till night swooped down from the snow-capped mountains. I had a bit of poetry in my system that had never been completely worked out, and I was always imagining that at the very next Schloss or inn I was to hit upon some delectable adventure. I was only 28, and inordinately fond of my Dumas.

I rode in gray whipcord breeches, tan boots, a blue serge coat, white stock, and never a hat or cap till the snow blew. I used to laugh when the peasants asked leave to lend me a cap or to run back and find the one I had presumably lost.

One night the delectable adventure for which I was always seeking came my way, and I was wholly unprepared for it.

I had taken the south highway—that which seeks the valley beyond the lake. The moonfilm lay misty upon everything: on the far-off lake, on the great upheavals of stone and glacier above me, on the long white road that stretched out before me, ribbon-wise. High up the snow on the mountains resembled huge opals set in amethyst. I was easily 25 miles from the city; that is to say, I had been in the saddle some six hours. Nobody but a king's messenger will ride a horse more than five miles an hour. I cast about for a place to spend the night. There was no tavern in sight, and the hovels I had passed during the last hour offered no shelter for my horse. Suddenly, around a bend in the road, I saw the haven I was seeking. It was a rambling, tottering old castle, standing in the center of a cluster of firs; and the tiles of the roofs and the ivy of the towers were shining silver with the heavy fall of dew.

Lady Chloe sniffed her kind, whinnied, and broke into a trot. She knew sooner than I that there was life beyond the turn. We rode up to the gate, and I dismounted and stretched myself. I tried the gate. The lock hung loose, like a paralytic hand. Evidently those inside had nothing to fear from those outside. I grasped an iron bar and pushed in the gate, Chloe following knowingly at my heels. I could feel the crumbling rust on my gloves. Chloe whinnied again, and there came an answering whinny from somewhere in the rear of the castle. Somebody must be inside, I reasoned.

There were lights in the left wing, but this part of the castle was surrounded by an empty moat, damp and weedy. This was not to be entered save by a ladder. There was a great central door, however, which had a modern appearance. The approach was a broad graveled walk. I tied Lady Chloe to a tree, knotted the bridle-reins above her neck to prevent her from putting her restless feet into them, and proceeded toward the door.

"I Beheld Two Faces in Profile, as It Were."

Of all the nights this was the one on which my usually lively imagination reposed. I was hungry and tired, and I dare say my little mare was. I wasn't looking for an adventure; I didn't want any adventure; I wanted nothing in the world but a meal and a bed. But for the chill of the night air—the breath of the mountain is cold at night—I should have been perfectly willing to sleep in the open. Down drawbridge, up portcullis!

I boldly climbed the steps and groped around for the knocker. It was broken and useless, like the lock on the gate. And never a bell could I find. I swore softly and became impatient. People in Barscheit did not usually live in this slovenly fashion. What sort of place was this?

Suddenly I grew erect, every fiber in my body tense and expectant.

A voice, lifted in song! A great penetrating yet silkily mellow voice; a soprano; heavenly, not to say ghostly, coming as it did from the heart of this gloomy ruin of stone and iron. The jewel song from Faust, too! How the voice rose, fell, soared again with intoxicating waves of sound! What permeating sweetness! I stood there, a solitary listener, as far as I knew, bewildered, my heart beating hard and fast. I forgot my hunger.

Had I stumbled upon one of my dreams at last? Had Romance suddenly relented, as a coquette sometimes relents? For a space I knew not what to do. Then, with a shrug—I have never been accused of lacking courage—I tried once more, by the aid of a match, to locate a bell. There was absolutely nothing; and the beating of my riding crop on the panels of that huge door would have been as noisy as a feather. I grasped the knob and turned it impatiently. Behold! the door opened without sound, and I stepped into the hallway, which was velvet black.

The wonderful voice went on. I paused, with hands outstretched. Supposing I bumped into something! I took a step forward, another and another; I swung my crop in a half circle; all was vacancy. I took another step, this time in the direction of the voice—and started back with a smothered curse. Bang-ang! I had run into a suit of old armor, the shield of which had clattered to the stone floor. As I have observed, I am not a coward, but I had all I could do to keep my legs—which were stirrup-weary, anyhow—from knocking under me!

Silence!

The song died. All over that great rambling structure not even the reassuring chirp of a cricket! I stood perfectly still. What the deuce should I do? Turn back? As I formed this question in my mind a draft of wind slammed the door shut. I was in for it, sure enough; I was positive that I could never find that door again. There was nothing to do but wait, and wait with straining ears. Here were mysterious inhabitants—they might be revolutionists, conspirators, counterfeiters.

Heaven knows how long I waited.

Soon I heard a laugh, light, infectious, fearless! Then I heard a voice, soft and pleading:

"Don't go; in mercy's name, don't go, Gretchen! You may be killed!"

English! I had actually heard a voice speak my native tongue.

"Nonsense, Betty! I am not afraid of any ghost that ever walked, rode or floated."

"Ghost? It may be a burglar!"

"Or Steinbock! We shall find nothing."

Indeed!

"Nothing but a rat, bugling about in the armor." The laughter came again. "You are not afraid, Betty?"

"Only cautious. But how can you laugh? A rat?" cried a voice rather anxiously. "Why, they are as big as dogs!"

"But arrant cowards."

So! one of these voices spoke English as its birthright; the other spoke with an accent, that is to say, by adoption. Into what had I fallen? Whither had my hunger brought me? I was soon to learn.

There came a faint thread of light on one side of the hall, such as may be likened to that which filters under a door-sill. Presently this was followed by the sound of jangling brass rings. A heavy velvet portiere—which I, being in darkness, had not discovered—slipped back. My glance, rather blinded, was first directed toward the flame of the candle. Then I lowered it—and surrendered for ever and for ever!

I beheld two faces in profile, as it were, one side in darkness, the other tinted and glowing like ancient ivory. I honestly confess to you that in all my wanderings—and they have been frequent and many—I never saw such an enchanting picture or two more exquisite faces. One peered forth with hesitant bravery; the other—she who held the candle—with cold, tranquil inquiry.

All my fears, such as they were, left me instantly. Besides, I was not without a certain amount of gallantry and humor. I stepped squarely into the light and bowed.

"Ladies, I am indeed not a ghost, but I promise you that I shall be if I am not offered something to eat at once!"

Tableau!

"What are you doing here?" asked she with the candle, her midnight eyes drawing down her brows into a frown of displeasure.

I bowed. "To begin with, I find a gate unlocked, and being curious, I open it; then I find a door unlatched, and I enter. Under these unusual circumstances I am forced to ask the same question of you: what are you doing here in this ruined castle? If it isn't ruined, it is deserted, which amounts to the same thing." This was impertinent, especially on the part of a self-invited guest.

"That is my affair, sir. I have a right here, now and at all times." Her voice was cold and authoritative. "There is an inn six miles farther down the road; this is a private residence. Certainly you can not remain here over night."

"Six miles?" I echoed dismally. "Madam, if I have seemed impertinent, pardon me. I have been in the saddle six hours. I have ridden nearly 30 miles since noon. I am dead with fatigue. At least give me time to rest a bit before taking up the way again. I admit that the manner of my entrance was informal; but how was I to know? There was not even a knocker on the door by which to make known my presence to you." The truth is, I did not want to go at once. No one likes to stumble into an adventure—enchanting as this promised to be—and immediately pop out of it. An idea came to me, serviceable rather than brilliant. "I am an American. My German is poor. I speak no French. I have lost my way, it would seem; I am hungry and tired. To ride six miles farther now is a physical impossibility; and I am very fond of my horse."

"He says he is hungry, Gretchen," said the English girl, dropping easily into the French language as a vehicle of speech. (I was a wretch, I know, but I simply could not help telling that lie; I didn't want to go; and they might be conspirators.) "Besides," went on the girl, "he looks like a gentleman."

"We can not always tell a gentleman in the candle-light," replied Gretchen, eyeing me critically and shrewdly and suspiciously.

As for me, I gazed from one to the other, inquiringly, after the manner of one who hears a tongue not understandable.

"He's rather nice," was the English girl's comment; "and his eyes strike me as being too steady to be dishonest."

I had the decency to burn in the ears. I had taken the step, so now I could not draw back. I sincerely hoped that they would not exchange any embarrassing confidences. When alone women converse upon many peculiar topics; and conversing in a tongue which they supposed to be unknown to me, these two were virtually alone.

"But, my dear child," the other returned argumentatively, "we can not offer hospitality to a strange man this night of all nights. Think of what is to be accomplished."

(So something was to be accomplished? I was right, then, in deceiving them. To accomplish something on a night like this, far from habitation, had all the air of a conspiracy.)

"Feed him and his horse, and I'll undertake to get rid of him before that detestable Steinbock comes. Besides, he might prove a valuable witness in drawing up the papers."

(Papers?)

"I never thought of that. It will not do to trust Steinbock wholly." Gretchen turned her searching eyes once more upon me. I confess that I had some difficulty in steadying my own. There are some persons to whom one can not lie successfully; one of them stood before me. But I rather fancy I passed through the ordeal with at least half a victory. "Will you go your way after an hour's rest?" she asked, speaking in the familiar tongue.

"I promise." It was easy to make this promise. I wasn't a diplomat for nothing. I knew how to hang on, to dodge under, to go about.

"Follow me," Gretchen commanded briefly.

(Who was she? What was going on?)

We passed through the gloomy salon. A damp, musty odor struck my sense of smell. I was positive that the castle was uninhabited, save for this night. Three candles burned on the mantel, giving to the gloom a mysterious, palpitating effect. The room beyond was the dining-room, richly paneled in wine-colored mahogany. This was better; it was cheerful. A log crackled in the fireplace. There were plenty of candles. There was a piano, too. This belonged to the castle; a heavy tarpaulin covering lay heaped at one side. There was a mahogany sideboard that would have sent a collector of antiques into raptures, and a table upon which lay the remains of a fine supper. My mouth watered. I counted over the good things: roast pheasant, pink ham, a sea-food salad, asparagus, white bread and unsalted butter, an alcohol-burner over which hung a tea-pot, and besides all this there was a pint of La Rose which was but half-emptied. Have you ever been in the saddle half a day? If you have, you will readily appreciate the appetite that was warring with my curiosity.

"Eat," bade she who was called Gretchen, shortly.

"And my horse?"

"Where is it?"

"Tied to a tree by the gate."

She struck a Chinese gong. From the kitchen appeared an elderly servitor who looked to me more fitted to handle a saber than a carving knife; at least, the scar on his cheek impressed me with this idea. (I found out later that he was an old soldier, who lived alone in the castle as caretaker.)

"Take this gentleman's horse to the stables and feed him," said Gretchen. "You will find the animal by the gate."

With a questioning glance at me the old fellow bowed and made off.

I sat down, and the two women brought the various plates and placed them within reach. Their beautiful hands flashed before my eyes and now and then a sleeve brushed my shoulder.

"Thank you," I murmured. "I will eat first, and then make my apologies."

This remark caught the fancy of Gretchen. She laughed. It was the same laughter I had heard while standing in the great hall.

"Will you drink tea, or would you prefer to finish this Bordeaux?" she asked pleasantly.

"The wine, if you please; otherwise the effect of the meal and the long hours in the wind will produce sleepiness. And it would be frightfully discourteous on my part to fall asleep in my chair. I am very hard to awake."

The English girl poured out the wine and passed the goblet to me. I touched my lips to the glass, and bent my head politely. Then I resolutely proceeded to attack the pheasant and ham. I must prove to these women that at least I was honest in regard to my hunger. I succeeded in causing a formidable portion of the food to disappear.

And then I noticed that neither of the young women seated herself while I ate. I understood. There was no hostility in this action; nothing but formality. They declined to sit in the presence of an unwelcome stranger, thus denying his equality from a social point of view. I readily accepted this decision on their part. They didn't know who I was. They stood together by the fireplace and carried on a conversation in low tones.

How shall I describe them? The elder of the two, the one who seemed to possess all the authority, could not have been more than 20. Her figure was rather matured, yet it was delicate. Her hair was tawny, her skin olive in shade and richly tinted at the cheekbones. Her eyes, half framed by thick, black-arching brows, reminded me of woodland pools in the dusk of the evening,—depths unknown, cool, refreshing in repose. The chin was resolute, the mouth was large but shapely and brilliant, the nose possessed the delicate nostrils characteristic of all sensitive beings—that is to say, thoroughbreds; altogether a confusing, bewildering beauty. At one moment I believed her to be Latin, at the next I was positive that she was Teutonic. I could not discover a single weak point, unless impulsiveness shall be called weakness; this sign of impulsiveness was visible in the lips.

The other—well, I couldn't help it. It was Kismet, fate, the turn in the road, what you will. I fell heels over head in love with her at once. She was charming, exquisite, one of those delicate creatures who always appear in enchantments; a Bouguereau child grown into womanhood, made to fit the protecting frame of a man's arms. Love steals into the heart when we least expect him; and before we are aware, the sly little god has unpacked his trunk and taken possession!

Eyes she had as blue as the Ægean sea on windy days, blue as the cloud-winnowed sky of a winter's twilight, blue as sapphires—Irish eyes! Her hair was as dark and silken as a plume from the wings of night. (Did I not say that I had some poetry in my system?) The shape of her mouth—Never mind; I can recall only the mad desire to kiss it. A graceful figure, a proud head, a slender hand, a foot so small that I wondered if it really poised, balanced or supported her young body. Tender she must be, and loving, enclitical rather than erect like her authoritative companion. She was adorable.

All this inventory of feminine charms was taken by furtive glances, sometimes caught—or were they taking an inventory of myself? Presently my appetite became singularly submissive. Hunger often is satisfied by the feeding of the eyes. I dropped my napkin on the table and pushed back my chair. My hostesses ceased conversing.

"Ladies," said I courteously, "I offer you my sincere apologies for this innocent intrusion." I looked at my watch. "I believe that you gave me an hour's respite. So, then, I have 30 minutes to my account."

The women gazed at each other. One laughed, and the other smiled; it was the English girl who laughed this time. I liked the sound of it better than any I had yet heard.

(Pardon another parenthesis. I hope you haven't begun to think I am the hero of this comedy. Let it be furthest from your thoughts. I am only a passive bystander.)

"I sincerely trust that your hunger is appeased," said the one who had smiled.

"It is, thank you." I absently fumbled in my coat pockets, then guiltily dropped my hands. What a terrible thing habit is!

"You may smoke," said the Bouguereau child who was grown into womanhood. Wasn't that fine of her? And wasn't it rather observant, too? I learned later that she had a brother who was fond of tobacco. To her eyes my movement was a familiar one.

"With your kind permission," said I gratefully. I hadn't had a smoke in four hours.

I owned a single good cigar, the last of my importation. I lighted it and blew forth a snowy billow of heavenly aroma. I know something about human nature, even the feminine side of it. A presentable young man with a roll of aromatic tobacco seldom fails to win the confidence of those about him. With that cloud of smoke the raw edge of formality smoothed down.

"Had you any particular destination?" asked Gretchen.

"None at all. The road took my fancy, and I simply followed it."

"Ah! that is one of the pleasures of riding—to go wherever the inclination bids. I ride."

We were getting on famously.

"Do you take long journeys?" I inquired.

TWO VICTORIES FOR THE MISSES WILDEY

Only eight players out of the field of fifty-seven remain in the women's national lawn tennis championship tournament, now in progress at the Philadelphia Cricket Club, St. Martin's, and although the Misses Natalie and Edna Wildey were defeated in the women's singles, third round, they were victorious in the second round of the women's doubles and the first round of the mixed doubles.

In the third round of the women's singles, Mrs. Barger-Wallach, Newport Casino, beat Miss Natalie Wildey, 6-4, 6-3; Miss Margaret Johnson, Staten Island, beat Miss Edna Wildey 3-6, 7-5, 6-2.

In the second round of the women's doubles the Misses Wildey beat Mrs. W. H. Pouch and Miss Elizabeth Moore, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, while in the first round of the mixed doubles, Miss Edna Wildey and Dean Mathey beat Miss Margaret Johnson and W. H. Rowland, 6-4, 6-3. The succeeding rounds will be played today.

Double Header at Crescent Oval.

Arrangements have been completed whereby a double-header baseball game will be played at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon. The first game will be between Clinton Avenue and the Mono Field Club, to be followed by a contest between the Plainfield and Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. teams. These games should attract a large crowd as both of them are sure to be good ones.

ABANDON ANNUAL COMMUNION AT THEIR MOTHER CHURCH.

Local Christian Scientists have been advised that the annual communion season of "the mother church," The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, has been abolished. In former years the communion service of the Boston church has afforded an occasion for large gatherings of Christian Scientists from all parts of the world. The change was first made known through the following statement, which Mrs. Eddy gave out to the press:

The house of The Mother Church seats only five thousand people, and its membership includes forty-eight thousand communicants, hence the following:

"The branch churches continue their communion seasons, but there shall be no more communion seasons in the Mother Church that has blossomed into spiritual beauty—communion universal and divine. 'For who hath known the Mind of the Lord that he may instruct Him? But we have the Mind of Christ.' 1 Cor. 2: 16."

This was followed by a second statement from Mrs. Eddy which reads as follows:

"Beloved Christian Scientists: Relinquishing a material form of communion advances it spiritually. The maerial is a 'Suffer it to be so now' and is abandoned as soon as God's way-shower, Christ, points the advanced step. This instructs us how to be abased and how to abound. Dropping the communion of the Mother Church does not prevent its distant members from attending this church occasionally.

"MARY BAKER G. EDDY."

Funeral of Mrs. Hull.

The funeral of Mrs. Emma M. Hull, widow of William H. H. Hull, was held yesterday afternoon at the home of her son, Nelson Y. Hull, of East Second street. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea in the presence of a gathering of relatives and friends and was very simple. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being Daniel Schenck, George Watts, William B. Sharp and Samuel Bingaman.

S.S.A.L. TENNIS TOURNEY

Tennis Players from Five Churches to Compete for Cup and Medals.

IN SINGLES AND DOUBLES.

A. D. Beers, M. H. Long and William Briggs Entered in Singles—Beers and Long Paired in Doubles.

With thirty-two entries, including some of the fastest tennis players of city and borough, the Sunday School Athletic League tournament in singles will be commenced at once, and play in the first round is to be completed by July 1. Fourteen teams are entered in the doubles and the First Baptist, First Presbyterian, Seventh Day Baptist, Congregational, and Crescent Avenue churches will all compete for the silver cup and medals offered by the league. Because there are no courts which can be set aside for the tournament play, matches will be played on the various courts of city and borough, the singles concluding by July 15, and the doubles three days later.

Five points will be awarded winners in both singles and doubles, and two points the runners-up. The Sunday school winning the greatest number of points will receive a handsome pewter trophy. The winner of the singles and the members of the winning team in doubles will each receive a silver medal, and bronze medals will be awarded the runners-up. Among the entries are Albert D. Beers, singles champion of the Country Club, who will play for Crescent Avenue, Monroe H. Long and E. M. Daniel, second, fast Park Club players, and William Briggs. Long and Beers are paired together in the doubles.

Drawings in the singles, announced by Physical Director G. L. Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., show the matches for the first round as follows:

Fred Gray, First Presbyterian, against L. Powlison, First Baptist; A. Dunning, First Presbyterian, against Rollin Williams, Seventh Day Baptist; William Briggs, First Baptist, against Fred Lounsbury, First Presbyterian; Hollis Cubberly, First Baptist, against Fred McClintock, First Presbyterian; Floyd Miller, First Baptist, against F. O. Dunning, First Presbyterian; Theodore Davis, Seventh Day Baptist, against A. C. Newman, Congregational; Guion Fountain, First Baptist, against H. V. Askor, First Presbyterian; George M. Clark, Seventh Day Baptist, against R. D. Rice; Congregational; Gideon Fountain, First Baptist, against E. M. Daniels, 2nd, Crescent Avenue; C. L. Slocum, Crescent Avenue, against Arthur Spicer, Seventh Day Baptist; Charles Neagle, Seventh Day, against M. H. Long, Crescent Avenue; Jerry Manning, First Baptist, against Chauncey Murphey, First Presbyterian; Milton St. John, Seventh Day Baptist, against W. Dunning, First Presbyterian; Dr. O. B. Whitford, Seventh Day Baptist, against A. F. Randolph, Crescent Avenue; N. O. Moore, Seventh Day Baptist, against A. D. Beers, Crescent Avenue; Starr Burdick, Seventh Day Baptist, against M. Rushmore, Crescent Avenue.

Doubles: F. Miller and L. Powlison, First Baptist, against A. and W. Dunning, First Presbyterian; F. Gray and F. McClintock, First Presbyterian, against R. D. Rice and A. C. Newman, Congregational; A. F. Randolph and M. Rushmore, Crescent Avenue, against Starr Burdick and George Clark, Seventh Day Baptist; C. L. Slocum and E. M. Daniel, Crescent Avenue, against Arthur Briggs and Jerry Manning, First Baptist; M. H. Long and A. D. Beers, Crescent Avenue, against F. O. Dunning and C. Murphey, First Presbyterian; Theodore Davis and Dr. O. B. Whitford, Seventh Day Baptist, against G. and G. H. Fountain, First Baptist; Rollin Williams and Arthur Spicer, Seventh Day Baptist, against W. Briggs and J. Manning, First Baptist.

TO MERGE WITH WELLESLEY.

Boston Normal School to Come in—A New $100,000 Gymnasium, Too.

That the Boston Normal School of Gymnastics will be merged with Wellesley College and a gymnasium built at a cost of $100,000 was the announcement made by President Carolino Hazard yesterday afternoon, just previous to the closing of the Wellesley commencement exercises.

President Hazard said that an endowment of $100,000 for this purpose upon provision that a suitable gymnasium be built is in sight. "Friends and graduates have responded generously, and by March, 1909, the fund will be completed," said she. "At least this amount will be needed to erect a gymnasium of suitable size and equipment."

In this year's class at Wellesley there are 246 graduates.

AMHERST'S COMMENCEMENT.

Exercises Open with the Planting of the Ivy—Alumni Meet.

The class day exercises of Amherst College yesterday were favored with pleasant weather. The exercises opened with the planting of the ivy by Heath E. White, President of the senior class. James P. Fleming delivered the ivy oration, and the ivy poem was read by William Halls, in the college hall. Edward Powley delivered the class oration, and Holbroow Bonney delivered the class poem.

During the afternoon the seniors assembled in the grove and listened to the jocular compositions of their class-mates. The grove oration by Frederick P. Smith and the grove poem by William I. Washburn were delivered.

Endeavorers Business Meeting.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Hope chapel held the quarterly business meeting, last night, during which reports were presented by the various officers and committees. All showed the organization to be in a flourishing condition. An appropriation of $5 was voted for the mission work among local Italians and an additional $10 will be made up individually by the members. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by a committee composed of the Misses Elsie Slorah, Elsie Rimmer and Clara Hunter and Frank Rimmer.

Babbit Still Hustling.

Dog Catcher Babbitt, of the borough, rounded up four more unmuzzled dogs this morning and is a zealous worker, clearing the North Plainfield streets of vagrant canines. Two of the specimens corralled today have the distemper, and as their owners do not want them back, they will be shot. Two of the three animals nabbed yesterday have not yet been redeemed. "Jim" is working alone this season, but is as crafty as ever in gathering the canine violators of the borough ordinance.

An Early Morning Mad Dog Scare.

A resident near Putnam avenue and Richmond street telephoned police headquarters at 6:30 this morning that a mad dog was cavorting about the neighborhood and that a sure-shot officer with a gun would be gladly welcomed. Patrolman Sweeney was sent to the scene and located the canine in short order. One bullet did the trick. So far as known, the dog did not bite any others.

Sauermilch Boy Recovering.

Henry Sauermilch, the young son of Jacob Sauermilch, of Scotch Plains who swallowed a quantity of potassium lye in mistake for condensed milk, was declared out of danger today. When first taken in charge by Dr. Westcott his condition was very serious but the physician remained with him almost constantly and successfully overcame the effects of the solution.

CABIN CAN BE BOUGHT CHEAP.

Poor Place of Abode, However, for Nervous People.

A woman librarian tells this tale: "Last summer I was down in the mountains of Virginia at one of the many 'sweet springs,' once a famous watering-place for 'de quality.' One morning in my rambles I found a most delightful log cabin cozily tucked away on a ledge with a view that I knew would inspire me to grander, better things. There was a big living room, a kitchen, and two bedrooms, a porch hung in wild, sweet honeysuckle, a well and even an old-fashioned fireplace, that I immediately saw with blazing logs when I should hold house parties in my mountain home. I inquired and found I could buy the cabin for $400 and was determined to own it before the sun set behind the big blue western mountains. I went back to prowl around it once more.

"As I came around to the back door I saw a little mountain girl in blue gingham dress and pink sunbonnet sitting there. 'Howdy,' she drawled in the mountaineer accent. 'How do you do, little girl, do you live near here?' 'Yussum, we-alls live up in that air haouse up yondah. Do you-all live here?' 'No,' I said, 'but it is a pretty place, is it not?' 'Yussum, we-all did live here, onct.' 'Oh! you did, and what made you move?' I asked, idly. 'Copperheads,' she said, looking interested. 'There's a nest of copperheads under the stone in that air flah-place, and the faster you-all kills 'em the faster they-all comes. I'll bet paw killed 400 snakes that wriggled up outer that floor.'

"The 'For Sale Cheap' sign still hangs on my little mountain cabin."

HOW LONG DO BANK NOTES LIVE?

Generally But a Short Time—Where Institution Makes Profit.

What is the life of a Bank of England note? According to an official of the bank, the average life or period that a note was out was, for a £5 note, 62 days; a £10 note, 58 days; £20 to £100 note, 30 days; £200 to £500 note, 11 days; £1,000 note, 55 days.

A little consideration will be sufficient to convince any one that the authorities of the bank must reap a very handsome sum year by year from their note issue. Think, however, what thousands of notes are destroyed—say, by fire or shipwreck—and consequently are never presented for payment. A gentleman who has recently retired from an important post in the city has in his possession a genuine £1 Bank of England note bearing date February 9, 1758. Had this money been invested on the usual deposit rates the bank would have credited some one's account since then with an amount well over £2,000.—London Tit-Bits.

Uses of a London Church.

The church of All Hallows, London, England, presents a strange appearance every morning. The building is opened early for the accommodation of girls and women who arrive in the city by the "workmen's" trains, which frequently are run at such an hour as to compel the passengers to make a long wait after arriving in the city for their places of business to open. A short service is conducted and then the congregation is permitted and even encouraged to employ themselves with needlework or with reading. The women and girls are provided with reading matter, though care is taken that it shall not be too narrow in its range.

The Magic of Odd Numbers.

"Even in the matter of weighing groceries there seems a magic in odd numbers," said a housekeeper. "Most of the packages of salt, sugar, coffee and other commodities that grocers keep on hand to facilitate trade contain an odd number of pounds. If you are in a hurry and ask for a made-up package of almost any kind of groceries tradesmen can accommodate you with a one-pound, three-pound, or a five-pound package; but the chances are that if you want two pounds or four pounds of anything it will have to be weighed to order."

The Peak of Tenerife.

The Peak of Tenerife, as seen from the ocean or the other islands of the Canary group, may be described as the highest mountain for its height in the world. This is owing to the fact that, viewed from a little distance, it sweeps right up from the very sea level, and thus the whole 12,200 feet of its elevation are seen at one glance without, as in the case of the giants of the Alps or the Rockies, one having first to ascend some four or five thousand feet before obtaining a view of it.

Vocation.

Every man has his own vocation. There is one direction in which all space is open to him. He has faculties silently inviting him thither to endless exertion. He is like a ship in a river; he runs against obstructions on every side but one; and on that side all obstruction is taken away, and he sweeps serenely over a deepening channel into an infinite sea.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

Shot Out.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Michael Colvin.

Mrs. Michael Colvin, of Somerville, died at her home yesterday, aged forty years. The funeral services will be held at the Catholic church in Somerville tomorrow morning at 10:30. A husband and five sons and two daughters survive her. James Colvin, of West End avenue, is a brother-in-law.

Mrs. John Kelly.

Mrs. Catherine Kelly, wife of John Kelly, of New street, died yesterday in Roosevelt Hospital, New York. She was taken to the institution a week ago for the purpose of undergoing an operation but failed to rally after it had been performed. Mrs. Kelly had been a resident of the city for a long time and had many acquaintances, especially in the West End where she had lived for the past thirty years. She leaves one son, John Kelly, and two daughters, the Misses Annie and Catherine Kelly. The funeral wil be held in St. Mary's church, Saturday morning at nine o'clock and burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

PERSONAL.

Miss Margaret Rafferty, of Grove street, has returned home after a two weeks visit with friends in Pittsburg.

Mrs. Hannah Y. Flanders, of Grove street, has gone to Lake Huron, where she will spend the summer with friends.

C. Clarence Rocap, of West Front street, has returned from Cornell University, where he was graduated last week in the mechanical course with a degree of M. E.

Miss Carolyn Coombs, of Linden avenue, has returned home after spending a few weeks with relatives at York, Pa. She is accompanied by her sister, Miss Combs.

William Douglas, of West Eighth street, a student at the Colorado School of Mines, is spending his summer vacation at his home. He was a member of the class of 1906, P. H. S.

Miss Helen Stahlberger, of Central avenue, and instructor in German in the North Plainfield High School, has gone to her home in Auburn, N. Y., to spend the summer vacation.

Miss Elizabeth Frobel, of this city, will sail on Thursday, July 9, on one of the Scandinavian-American Line steamers. She will spend a month abroad, returning home on the same steamer. She purchased her tickets of Mulford Estil, of Park avenue.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The last meeting until Fall of the Ladies Missionary Society of Hope chapel was held yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. J. Wharton, of West Sixth street. A large number of members were present. Refreshments were served in conclusion. The Liberty Band will furnish music for the festival to be held on the lawn at Warren chapel tonight under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the chapel. There will also be a sale of cake and candy. The festival will begin at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Union Evening Services During July.

Four local churches, the First Presbyterian, Trinity Reformed, First M. E., and First Baptist, have arranged to hold union evening services during July. The first service will be held at the First Presbyterian church Sunday night, July 5, when Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will preach. The second service will be held at the First M. E. church, and Rev. Dr. John H. Raven, of New Brunswick, will occupy the pulpit. Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, will preach at the third service to be held at the First Baptist church. The last service will be held at Trinity Reformed church and Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring will preach.

Small Boy Runs Away.

Francis McCarthy, the ten-year-old son of William McCarthy, of East Sixth street, disappeared from his home Monday and has not been heard from since. He ran away on a previous occasion and was located in Paterson.

A NEW FEMININE FAD.

"Wordly Woman," writing in the London Graphic, calls attention to a new feminine perplexity, which would seem to be about as vaxatious as might be imagined.

"Wordly Woman" says: "Bright colors have come in; they are the rage, the obsession. Every enormity in impossible blues and greens which were naively worn in the hideous days of the Second Empire has been revived, and that in spite of Art and Liberty. We never outgrow bad taste, it seems. Even pretty white blouses are covered with a brilliant chiffon veiling, and hats are in a shrieking cerise or fulltoned violet, both vastly unbecoming. To correct such errors there is nothing for it but powder and paint."

So, now if you see ladies ambling along the street with their countenances elaborately kalsomined in bright purple or cerise tints, we may know that is simply for the sake of bringing the complexion up to a sufficiently lurid tone to harmonize with the headgear. Yet, "Worldly Woman" confesses her ignorance as to "whether one makes up because one must wear the fashionable vile colors, or whether one flaunts the colors to show how much may be dared with paint." Thus is revealed to us the uncertainty of the feminine mind—or perhaps it is subtlety.

Anyway, this particular fad has its compensations, for in this little announcement from London it is learned that it affords a fine way of "rising superior" to a too-perfect complexion. A dainty complexion, it seems, renders these loud colors impossible, and the dainty complexions, like the poor ones, have to be fersoed with drug store colors to bring them up to the mark. All complexions are thus reduced to the same dire necessity for artificial devices, and this is surely a benefit to the great majority.

And it is a benefit to those of the dainty complexions, too, for it is also learned that "a pretty skin is an everlasting stumbling block in the manifestation of one's soul, since a temperament was never yet known to wear a pink and white complexion and temperaments are almost as fashionable as large hats."

MEMORIAL TO CLEVELAND

Governor, U. S. Senators, Congressmen and Other Citizens Form Committee.

MONUMENT IN THIS STATE.

Plan, National in Scope, Outlined by Former Senator James Smith, Jr.—Daily Press to Assist.

The Daily Press, at the invitation of the Newark Morning Star, has consented to serve on a committee of State newspapers to promote the proposition for the erection of a National monument in memory of Grover Cleveland. Already the most distinguished officeholders and private citizens throughout the State without regard to party have willingly consented to form the New Jersey representation on the National board which will supervise the collection of funds and arrange for the erection of a monument that will be a credit to the Nation.

In yesterday's issue, The Daily Press suggested that the people of New Jersey contribute the necessary funds for the erection of a statute to Mr. Cleveland's memory at the State capitol. The Newark Morning Star, however, had previously suggested a tribute of the same kind to be of a National scope, and as Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., the editor of the Star and a man of extraordinary executive ability, has taken the matter under his personal supervision, there is not the least doubt that the people of these United States will come to his aid in bringing about a realization of his plans.

These men have agreed to serve as New Jersey representatives on the monument committee:

Governor John Franklin Fort, East Orange.
United States Senator Frank O. Briggs, Trenton.
United States Senator John Kean, Elizabeth.
Former Governor Franklin Murphy, Newark.
Former Governor John W. Griggs, Paterson.
Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., Newark.
Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., Trenton.
Robert S. Hudspeth, Jersey City.
Congressman R. Wayne Parker, Newark.
Congressman Le Gage Pratt, East Orange.
Congressman Charles Newell Fowler, Elizabeth.
Congressman Benjamin F. Howell, New Brunswick.
Congressman William Hughes, Paterson.
State Senator Joseph Sherman Frelinghuysen, Raritan.
State Senator John Hinchliffe, Paterson.
James E. Martine, Plainfield.
Former Governor Edward Casper Stokes, Trenton.
State Senator Everett Colby, West Orange.
Judge James F. Minturn, Hoboken.
State Senator Thomas J. Hillery, Boonton.
Mayor Jacob Haussling, Newark.
State Senator Johnston Cornish, Washington.
Vice-Chancellor Frederick W. Stevens, Morristown.
Chief Justice William S. Gummere, Newark.
George R. Gray, Newark.
Judge James Brooks Dill, East Orange.
Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter, Newark.
Quartermaster C. Edward Murray, Trenton.
Winton C. Garison, Newark.
William Katzeler, Newark.
Lawrence M. Fagan, Hoboken.
Colonel Edwin W. Stevens, Hoboken.
Mayor H. Otto Wittpenn, Jersey City.
Peter Campbell, Newark.

Editor J. E. Crowell, of the Paterson Morrning Call, wired The Star: "I would like to see the proposed movement for a Cleveland monument a success, and the prospect meets with my approval, and you may rely on me for cooperation, but while appreciating the invitation to serve on the committee, the duties of my position, which keep me busy day and night, prevent acceptance. Your enterprise in being so early in the field is highly commendable, and backed by the influence of such a man as former Senator Smith, I cannot conceive of failure."

Editor Hugh Boyd, of the New Brunswick Home News, telegraphed: "The Cleveland monument proposition meets with my warmest indorsement. Contemplated absence abroad will prevent my acceptance of membership on the committee."

Editor A. L. Force, of the Plainfield Daily Press, said: "Your plan for a Cleveland monument has our hearty indorsement. We will gladly serve on the committee."

BOROUGHITES COMPLAIN ABOUT TROLLEY SERVICE

Since the fourth trolley car has been taken off the Somerset street line, boroughites have been placing powerful and well-directed kicks against the service they now get, and it is probable that Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed will take action for the restoration of the extra car. Those who have been making the complaints state that the cars run at such a high rate of speed on Somerset street that it is hard to hail them.

Mayor Samuel Townsend, of the borough, had a confab with Traffic Manager Luhrs, of the P. S. C. in the Council chamber this morning and informed him of the complaints. Mr. Luhrs said that the cars run no faster than they did under the old system of four cars on the line instead of three. He stated that when when there were four cars in use on the line, there were waits of three or four minutes on each of the switches, and that the fourth car was taken off because there was no need for it. Speaking of the running time, Mr. Luhrs said that the northbound Somerset street cars left the Front street corner on the hour and fifteen minutes and that the start from the end of the line at Johnston's Drive was made at four minutes before the hour and at fifteen minutes thereafter. Mr. Reed will investigate the complaints about the service and the matter will come up for discussion at the Council meeting next Wednesday night.

WARREN ENDEAVORERS HOLD FINE FESTIVAL

For the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase window screens, the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel held a successful ice cream festival and sale of candy, lemonade and flowers on the lawn adjoining the chapel, yesterday afternoon and last night. Under the direction of Theodore Martin, who was the general chairman of the affair, the spacious lawn was attractively decorated with booths, flags and bunting, while numerous incandescent lights were scattered throughout the grounds. The attendance was large and the patronage so liberal that the society accomplished its object.

An extra attraction in the evening was the fine program of music by the Liberty Band, under the leadership of David Lawson. All of the popular airs were included and the crowd enjjoyed them greatly.

Theodore Martin was chairman of the festival and those in charge of the various booths were as follows:

Ice cream—Charles Windham, Charles Bryan, Alexander Galloway. Cake—Mrs. John Schenck, Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey, Mrs. Theodore Martin, Mrs. J. H. Green, Mrs. Fred Winn, Miss Wakefield, Mrs. J. W. Gavett and Mrs. Gibson Smith. Candy—Miss Nora Schenck, Miss McKain, Miss Galloway, Miss Windham, Mrs. William Kinney. Lemonade—Alfred Everitt, Miss Mamie Kohler, Miss Helen VanDenberg. May Bennett was the cashier. Miss Adele Kirby, Miss Harriet Squires and Miss Dolly Bolsterli were in charge of the waitresses who were as follows:

The Misses Adelaide Stiglitz, Cornelia Christoffersen, Tillie Coddington, Sadie Wilson, Florence Newmiller, Belle Mantz, Grace Cranston, Anna Neilson, Florence King, Lizzie Betzhold, Cassie Deter, Try Mattox, Anna Mattox, Elizabeth Kline, Catherine Neilson, Maizie Mair, Mabel Wakefield, Gertrude Mair, Minnie Gulick, Mary Stites, Emma Roantree, Florence Windham and Harriet Smith.

The committee in charge of the decorations comprised Theodore Martin, Alfred Everitt, Fred Winn, Francis Caldwell, Charles Bryan and Henry Dressit. Others assisting were Francis Whiteley and Earl Smith. In the arrangement to screen the chapel windows the Missionary and Aid Society has agreed to meet half the expense and the Endeavor Society will pay the other half.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich to Preach.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church, will occupy the pulpit of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. His text will be Isoiah 33:4, and the theme, "What the Sea Said to Me." It is expected that the new pastor, Rev. Edwin Shaw, of Milton, Wis., will preach his first sermon at the church on Sabbath day, July 5, and also adminster the communion service.

NEW ELECTION DISTRICT

North Plainfield Council Will Act on Ordinance to Have Third District.

BY VOTING MACHINE CHANGE.

Return to Ballot System Will Mean Lots of Work for Tellers With Over 600 Voters in the Two Districts.

The agitation for the abolishment of voting machines at the North Plainfield elections has revived the question of a third election district in the borough, and an ordinance providing for the new district will be proposed at the meeting of the borough fathers to be held next Wednesday night. Each of the two districts now existing has more than 600 registered voters, and the State law specified that whenever this is the case another election district may be created. The proposed third district will include the section of the borough lying north of Greenbrook road and Mountain avenue, reaching north and north-west to the borough line.

The special election to decide whether or not the voting machines shall be abolished will be held Tuesday, July 21 and there is little question as to the outcome of the voting. It is the feeling of the majority of the voters in each party that the voting machines must go. In the automatic voting, there is an automatic counting of votes, but if the boroughites decide to go back to the marked ballot system, the counting of the ballots will be no small task with the large number of voters in each election district. This is how the agitation for the third district came about.

Somerset street is at present the boundary between the first and second election districts, which splits the borough from north to south. The boundary for the new district will run from east to west, and thus will take voters from each of the two districts, cutting the registry lists down to less than 600 in each case and lightening the work of the tellers after the polls close election night.

Borough voters are united in their desire for the new district and as far as can be learned there is no opposition to the proposed ordinance which will be brought up for its first reading next week. Even should the voting machines be retained, which seems decidedly improbable, it is likely that the new district will be created, although the actual need for it will not be as great in such a case.

POOR JERSEY MALIGNED BY A SCRAPPY NEGRO.

Charles Eaton, a disreputable-looking negro, from New York, was arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged by Roundsman Higgins with drunkenness and disorderly conduct at the North Avenue station last night. The officer stated that the prisoner had asked the ticket agent about a train and when given the information answered back with an oath that it couldn't come too quick as he was tired of Jersey and wanted to get out of it. He followed this up with a general upbraiding of the state and everyone in it until he was arrested.

When Judge Runyon asked Eaton what he had to say about the matter, he denied being drunk and added that it wouldn't make any difference anyway as the officer had lied and his word would be given the preference.

"O, is that so?" remarked His Honor; "Well, if you were sober when you acted as you did I'll just make it $10 or twenty days and if you are tired of Jersey I assure you the feeling is mutual."

Eaton was without funds so the state will have to stand for him until he gets out of jail.

Going Abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Sander, of Passaic, formerly of this city, will leave tomorrow on the Hamburg-America Line Patricia. They will spend the summer in Germany, Switzerland and France, returning from Cherbourg on the Blucher, due in New York, September 6.

Clinton Avenues to Play at Newark.

Failing to complete the arrangements for a game with the Mono A. C. nine at Crescent Oval tomorrow previous to the Y. M. C. A.-Elizabeth game, the Clinton Avenue team will meet the Jefferson A. A. nine, at Witzel's Grove, Newark, tomorrow afternoon. The occasion will be the opening of the new grounds of the Newark team at the grove.

Y. W. C. A. Outing to New Market.

The Y. W. C. A. Outing Club will go to New Market tomorrow afternoon, for an outing by the lake. Supper will be prepared by the members of the party and boating will be a feature of the afternoon's pleasure. The party will take the 2:30 trolley from the stand tomorrow.

ST. GABRIEL'S CLOSES

Academy's Furnishings Removed Today to Mount St. Mary's College.

PLANS FOR THE OPENING.

St. Joseph's College, Bordentown, Will Be Transferred to New Building Which Opens in September.

St. Gabriel's Academy on Manning avenue, North Plainfield, was closed today and the furnishings are being moved to Mount St. Mary's College, which is situated midway on the incline between the foot of Watchung Mountains and the crest. Formal possession of the college will be taken next month by St. Joseph's College at Bordentown, when preparations wil be started at once getting the building in readiness for the opening in September.

The college at the time of opening will be capable of accommodating one hundred students. The Sisters wil provide a conveyance for day pupils between Plainfield and the college, stopping at the railroad stations and trolley lines and other convenient points.

The music and painting classes will be continued at the Convent, 43 Manning avenue, for those only who cannot spare the time to go to the college. A separate department will be established for the education and training of small boys from six to twelve years of age. The branches taught will fit them so that at the age of twelve years they may enter any high school or preparatory institution.

A girl entering Mount St. Mary's College will receive a ful collegiate course equal in every way to any of the established colleges. The usual studies will be taught, including a commercial course.

DOG CATCHER NETS CANINE AFTER AN EXCITING CHASE.

After an exciting chase by wagon from Plainfield avenue and Front street to Central avenue and Front, Fred Keiderling, the city's new dog catcher, yesterday netted a canine belonging to George Fatos, a fruit dealer. The animal was trotting along beneath its owner's rig when Keiderling spotted it and turning his own horse about he started to bring it home.

Fatos sought to save his pet by whipping up and pursuer and pursued went up Front street with a clatter that brought residents all along the line to the door. When near Central avenue, Keiderling got the lead and by stopping suddenly managed to get the dog in his net. Fatos thought he might be arrested for trying to get teh animal away and drove off down Grove street without making any protest.

Keiderling has been dog catcher only a few days but has effected more captures than all his predecessors this season. One of his assistants had a tussle with ac olored man over a dog yesterday and the latter will be arraigned in court tomorrow for his interference.

His Auto Wrecked.

The red touring car owned by Elston M. French of Somerset street was badly damaged on the automobile tour through Hudson County under the auspices of the New Jersey—New York Real Estate Exchange Wednesday, when another car crashed into it from the front as it stood in a Jersey City street. The lamps were smashed and the mechanism of the front part of the machine badly damaged. Mr. French places the damage at $300. Walter Kettenring, his chauffeur, was seated in the car at the tome, but escaped uninjured. The machine was taken to a New York garage.

Bungalow Man's Dinner.

William Jeffery, the buugalow man, will entertain one hundred friends at a real bungalow dinner in the bungalow dining room in the woods of Berkeley Heights Monday afternoon, July 6. All the guests will be prominent New Jersey men. In a similar way Mr. Jeffery will entertain one hundred members of the New Jersey, New York Real Estate Exchange at Berkeley Heights on July 10, the affair to be in honor of Otto Kempner, president of the exchange.

MR. CLEVELAND'S FUNERAL

Former Plainfield Pastor Assists at Simple Services over His Remains.

DISTINGUISHED PALL BEARERS.

Obsequies, Devoid of Pomp, at Princeton This Afternoon—President Roosevelt Among Mourners.

The funeral services of Grover Cleveland, former President of the United States, take place at his late home, "Westland," Princeton, this afternoon at 5 o'clock. Only 200 intimate friends will be present, the wish of the widow being for a private funeral. Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States, and Governors Hughes, of New York, and Fort, of New Jersey, are among the mourners.

Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton University, has charge of the funeral services. Assisting him principally are Rev. Dr. William R.

Grover Cleveland.

Richards, pastor of te Fift Avenue Brick Presbyterian church, New York, who made the Crescent Avenue church, this city, famous throughout New Jersey during his nineteen years' pastorate here. Among the other Presbyterian divines taking part in the service are Rev. Dr. M. D. Barlett, pastor of the West Farms church, New York, and Rev. Dr. Sylvester W. Peach, pastor of the Princeton church.

The Pall Bearers.

These are the pall bearers: Mayor George B. McClellan, New York; Commodore E. C. Benedict, New York; Richard Watson Gilder, New York; Professor John H. Finley, New York; Professor Paul Van Dyke, Princeton; Professor Andrew F. West, Princeton; Professor John G. Hibben, Princeton; Paul Morton, New York; Junius S. Morgan, Princeton; A. D. Russell, Princeton; Professor Howard McLenahan, Princeton; Bayard Stockton, Princeton.

More than 2,000 telegrams have been received at the Cleveland home. Messages from the following were given out today:

Baron Takahira, the Japanese ambassador at Washington; William Jennings Bryan, Brooker T. Washington, Cardinal Gibbons, A. W. Terrill, former minister to Turkey; C. R. Breckenridge, former minister to Russia; Governor Stuart, of Pennsylvania; Mrs. Mary Lloyd Harrison, widow of President Harrison, and Allen Marquapd, of Frankfort, Germany.

Governor Hughes, of New York; Governor Fort, of New Jersey, and Governor Hoke Smith, of Georgia, wired Mrs. Cleveland asking permission to attend the funeral. Governor Smith stated that he had been a member of Mr. Cleveland's Cabinet and desired to pay his respects to the memory of his dead friend in person. Mrs. Cleveland replied to the three Governors that she would be glad to have them present.

Dr. Vandyke's Tribute.

Dr. Henry Vandyke, of Princeton University, called at Westland during the afternoon and was with Mrs. Cleveland some time, offering sympathy in her hour of bereavement.

Mrs. Cleveland requested him to officiate at tomorrow's services and to take general charge of the religious ceremonies attending the funeral. Later Dr. Vandyke wrote the following tribute to Mr. Cleveland:

"To us who have known Mr. Cleveland intimately his death means, first of all, the loss of one who had the genius of friendship. The largeness of his heart, warmth of his sympathy with younger men, his sense of personal loyalty, his splendid naturalness and directness, the qualities that come out in daily intercourse, made us feel the sterling worth of his manhood.

"In his relation to Princeton University he rendered a great service very modestly. Not a college man himself, he fully recognized the value of the American colleges in the development of American manhood.

DEATH FOLLOWS DRINKING POTASSIUM LYE MIXTURE

Henry Sauermilch, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sauermilch, of Scotch Plains, who drank mixture of potassium of lye in mistake for condensed milk, died at the parents' home last night. To all appearance he became much better yesterday morning but toward night a portion of the solution remaining in the stomach affected the vital organs and death ensued at 11:30.

As told in Wednesday's Daily Press, the boy was very fond of condensed milk and was in the habit of dipping spoonsful out of the can whenever the opportunity offered. His mother forbade his doing it and Tuesday night he sought to take some on the sly while the dining room was in darkness. Mrs. Sauermilch had been cleaning with the mixture of potash and the can containing it was inadvertently left on the table. The little fellow mistook it for the milk and swallowed a large quantity before she realized its nature.

Dr. F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood, was summoned as soon as the family learned of what had occurred and he spent the greater part of Tuesday night in an effort to save the boy's life, although he stated at the outset that his chances were slight. The lye burned through the stomach coating despite his efforts to prevent it and it became impossible to stop its progress. The mother is prostrated as a result of the fatality. There are four other children in the family.

The funeral will be held at the parents' home on Bartle avenue, Sunday afternoon.

SNEAK THIEVES AGAIN ROB A STILLMAN FLAT

Sneak thieves again invaded the Stillman building some time between Wednesday afternoon and yesterday morning and robbed te hapartment occupied by A. E. Willard. According to the police report the following articles were taken: one pair gold link cuff buttons, one gold signet ring with monogram "W," a watch fob with Royal Arcanum emblem and a nickelplated Colt's revolver.

Members of the family were away from the apartment during the greater part of the day and the loss was not discovered until late yesterday morning. The police were notified and are at work on the case.

The apartment occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William B. Sharp, adjoining the Willard flat, was entered last Saturday, and a similar quantity of jewelry was taken. Both robberies were accomplished while the members of the family were absent, entrance being gained by the use of a skeleton key. The police believe both jobs are the work of the same parties.

IN A TRANCE WHEN WEDDED

Woman Seeks Annulment of Ceremony Performed By Plainfield Pastor.

BRIDE OF SIXTEEN YEARS.

Miss Helen Nelson, of Perth Amboy, Says She Knows Nothing of Marriage to Man Who Deserted Her.

Declaring that she was married in a trance, from which she did not recover for hours, Miss Helen Nelson, of Perth Amboy, insists that she knows nothing of the ceremony, of a wild ride that preceded it or of a supper for four celebrating the event, although she was the central figure in it all. She says that she knows only of her awakening two days afterward and her desertion by the man who called himself her husband, John Myer Jorgensen, who is now believed to be in Troy, N. Y.

As a result the young woman has brought suit, through her counsel, Peter A. Peterson, of Perth Amboy, for annulment of the marriage on the technical legal grounds that she was but sixteen years old, when the wedding occurred.

An interesting feature of the wedding is that Rev. Charles S. Kemble, now pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, married the couple on May 4, 1907, when he was pastor of the Park M. E. church, Elizabeth. Mr. Kemble and his family are out of town for the day and it was impossible to get any information from the minister regarding the marriage.

Miss Nelson's lawyer, it is said, filed her bill shortly after the wedding, and was met by a demurrer from Jorgensen's attorneys. The case was argued before Vice-Chancellor Emery, who yesterday handed down an opinion in which the demurrer was dismissed and the girl is free to continue her suit.

Miss Nelson says that her memory is a blank concerning the events on the day of her wedding and two succeeding days. But investigation by her counsel proved the truth of Jorgensen's statements. There had been a hurried ride to Elizabeth, a hasty marriage, quickened by the fear that perhaps the bride's parents might be hot on the trail, a supper celebration and finally the desertion.

NETHERWOOD CAMP SERVICE AT TRINITY CHURCH SUNDAY.

A special service in the interest of the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, which will open for the season Monday Monday, July 6, will be held at Trinity Reformed church Sunday evening. Dr. Henry S. Sauerbrey, of New York, one of the most active supporters of the work in the city, will speak of the work carried on by Miss Sara Curry, the matron, on the lower East Side. Dr. Sauerbrey has visited many of the homes of the camp children, and will tell of the conditions found there. He is especially interested in the work with the boys at the Netherwood Camp, and will organize a special department of boys' work.

Miss Curry, with a delegation of children from the East Side will be present; she will speak and there will be recitations and songs by the children. George E. Hall, vice president of the Camp, will speak of the plans for the season. Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson will be in charge of the service, at which music will be a feature. The offering will be for the benefit of Miss Curry's work.

Will Receive Bids for Bonds.

The Common Council will hold its second adjourned meeting Monday night for the purpose of receiving bids for the various issues of bonds authorized during the past few weeks. These bonds will cover the cost of construction for the new Darrow avenue public school, the brick pavement and the $17,000 for the macadamizing of certain streets in the residential section of the city. The finance committee anticipates a ready sale of the bonds.

Engages in Business for Himself.

Murray Burtis, formerly a member of the Borough Council, and who for twenty-five years was employed as a travelling salesman for a big wholesale linen house in New York, has started in business for himself at 48 and 50 White street, New York, dealing in housekeeping linens and handkerchiefs. The many years of experience Mr. Burtis has had in this business will enable him to be successful.

Burial of George McIntee.

The body of George McIntee, who died as the result of being kicked by a horse, was buried yesterday afternoon. The police have been unable to locate his relatives.

"Phil" Smith has evidently "caught on" with Bound Brook for the season. He is in good condition and should pitch winning ball.

Rain interferred with the twilight game scheduled for Wednesday night between the Mono F. C. and Bound Brook. It will be played later.

Baseball fans are having a feast this week in double-headers. The Giants have been engaged with the Bostons, in several double-headers.

Clark Griffith has retired as manager of the Yankees, and he will be succeeded by "Kid" Elberfield for the present. "Old Fox" has never been able to make good as a manager for Frank Farrell and has decided to quit. Several changes in the makeup of the team are rumored.

On Fourth of July the Y. M. C. A. and Clinton Avenues will meet at Crescent Oval in the afternoon for the first time this season. Another game of interest here that day will be between the Clinton Avenues and Jr. O. U. A. M. nines in the morning.

For some unknown reason "Lou" Wiltse seems unable to pitch winning ball for Jersey City. On Wednesday pitching against Montreal his team was defeated by a score of 14 to 6, although the Canadians only gathered nine hits off his delivery. His team was credited with four errors.

The Trenton Tri-State League club under the management of Arthur Irwin, will represent Elizabeth for the rest of the season so far as Sunday ball is concerned and some fine games have been scheduled. Irwin has leased Frank Burke's grounds. Among the teams to be played at the 'Port are the Cincinnatis, Pittsburgs and other major as well as minor league clubs.

A Monument to Grover Cleveland.

A monument to Grover Cleveland will be the natural expression of the national sentiment, and The Star submits the proposition to the American people. We believe that enough subscriptions could be obtained within a few months to pay for the erection of one of the finest memorials ever put up in this country. Grover Cleveland was born at Caldwell in this county, and a noble shaft there in commemoration of his memory would be a shrine for visitors in the future. He loved the beautiful university town of Princeton, and there also he was beloved, and Princeton might worthily claim a site for his memorial. But the site would still be on the soil of the State which witnessed the former President's birth. It is here, too, that a monument fund should originate. It will be a national fund to pay for a national monument, for Grover Cleveland belonged to the nation, and it is for the people of the nation to pay him this tribute.—Newark Star.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Park Avenue Baptist church will hold its final meeting for the season tonight. During the warm weather its meeting will be combined with the Wednesday night service.

On account of the G. A. R. Encampment and the W. R. C. convention being held at Asbury Park this week, the Women's Relief Corps will not hold a meeting tonight.

GOV. FORT'S PROCLAMATION.

Trenton, June 26.—Governor Fort yesterday issued the following proclamation upon the death of Grover Cleveland:

Grover Cleveland, the twenty-second and twenty-fourth President of the United States, died at his home in Princeton in this State on Wednesday, the twenty-fourth instant. Twice President of the republic, he filled that great office with honor and marked ability. His was a high order of statesmanship.. He has left a legacy of independence and courage in official life that will live with the life of the republic. He lived to see the bitterness of political assault upon him cease and to know the fact that all the people held him as official, citizen and man in the highest esteem. And nowhere is this more true than in New Jersey, within whose territory he was born and now has died. His tenacity of purpose, loyalty to conviction and zeal for the public weal have been and will always remain an inspiration to American youth.

The death of such a man demands more than ordinary notice, therefore I, John Franklin Fort, Governor of the State of New Jersey, do hereby make public proclamation of the fact of the death of Grover Cleveland, and in recognition of his distinguished service to his country do hereby direct that the flag be flown at half-staff upon all the public buildings of the State for thirty days from this date, and do further recommend that like action be taken by all officials on county and municipal buildings until and including the day of his funeral, and that upon the day of the funeral all State, county and municipal offices be closed after 12 o'clock midday, and I do further recommend that during the hour fixed for the funeral ceremonies all business, so far as possible, be suspended, that the people of our State may take thought upon the rightful place of a worthy public servant in the affection of all good citizens. Given under my hand and the great seal of the State of New Jersey at Trenton, this twenty-fifth day of June, in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and eight, and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and thirty-second.

JOHN FRANKLIN FORT.

PUBLIC OFFICES CLOSED

State, County and Municipal Business Suspended Out of Respect to Cleveland.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION.

Fort Requests That General Business Be Suspended at Time of Funeral So Far as Is Possible.

As a mark of respect to a late President of the United States and to "a distinguished son of New Jersey," Governor Fort by proclamation ordered all State offices closed at noon today and requested that similar action be taken so far as county and municipal offices were concerned. In addition, he requested that, as far as possible, all business be suspended within the State during the time of the funeral of Mr. Cleveland this afternoon.

In obedience to this instruction, Mayor Samuel Townsend, who yesterday ordered all borough flags at half mast, early this morning ordered all borough offices closed at noon and requested that business be suspended, wherever possible, between 5 and 6 this afternoon. Shortly afterwards, Mayor Charles J. Fisk ordered the city flags at half-mast and after ordering all municipal offices closed at noon, requqested that business be suspended, wherever possible, during the time of the funeral at Princeton. The orders of both mayors were promptly carried into effect. The Daily Press office will be closed this afternoon from 5 until 6 o'clock.

All the offices of Union county in Elizabeth were closed promptly at noon, as were the municipal offices in that city as well as in other towns throughout the county. At Trenton, every State office was closed up and the same condition prevailed generally throughout the State.

MEMORIAL TO CLEVELAND

ton True American, telegraphed:

"Future generations will write the name of Grover Cleveland as large as the names of Thomas Jefferson, and his contemporaries wil heartily approve a movement such as The Star has inaugurated for the establishment in Caldwell of a suitable tribute to his memory. I shall be glad to assist in your enterprise in whatever way I can, though I feel that some one with wider personal acquaintance and larger experience might more properly be chosen for your committee."

THE FORUM.

Grover Cleveland.

Editor, The Daily Press:—

You do well to eulogize Grover Cleveland. You have stated succinctly and proven to the mind of any one even to those who could have been uninformed that he was a great man and being a New Jersey man, should indeed be fittingly honored by the people of his native State. His fearless, positive character predominated more than once, yet strong enough always to insist on nothing but the right. His was a great mind, a big heart born of the country.

Let all countrymen look up, stand fast for that which is right and true as he did. Yes, Grover Cleveland, the man of sterling qualities has paser on. Those of us who can never hope to attain even such greatness let us not mourn, but learn to love more and more the man who knew what to do, when and how to do it.

WILLIAM JEFFERY.

Another Colored Baptist Church.

The dissenting faction of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, colored, which has been meeting at Reform Hall under the leadership of Rev. M. A. Alexander, former pastor of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, has been forced to give up its quarters there, owing to proposed improvements, and the small company of worshippers have purchased a lot on West Fourth street, between Liberty street and Plainfield avenue, where it is proposed to erect an edifice to be known as the Shiloh Baptist church. The flock expect to have the structure completed and ready for occupancy early in the fall.

Will Know the House, Next Time.

Thomas Conway, an itinerant seller of soap and perfumes, was fined $5 in the city court, this morning, for peddling without a license. The complaint against him was made by Mayor Fisk, at whose home he stopped yesterday afternoon and who recognized him as an old offender who had been arrested several times within the past two years. When arraigned, Conway begged for a fine in place of imprisonment and the judge obliged.

Case Adjourned One Week.

At the request of the parties implicated, the case against Robert Dennison and Howard Sergeant for breaking a large window in the Kensington, was adjourned for one week in the city court this morning. Lawyer John P. Owens, appearing for Dennison, stated that the damage will be paid for and that the complaint will probably be withdrawn.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The Eleanor B. Smith farm, recently bought in by C. E. Tinsman, has been sold by him to James T. Penfield and Mortimer B. Culhane, of the Bronx, and plans have been made for opening up the land as a realty tract. The property is situated on the New Market road, opposite the Whittier school, and consists of thirty-three acres. The house is to be extensively remodelled for the purchasers' residence, and the tract will be graded and eventually cut up into building lots. Mr. Tinsman is the resident manager.

Dishing his bicycle in the trolley tracks on North avenue, eleven-year-old Eddie Paff, son of Thomas Paff, of Scotch Plains, got a bad fall Wednesday afternoon. His left knee was badly cut and his hands and face bruised. The boy was returning from a picnic at New Market, and was riding at good speed when his bicycle slipped and he was thrown headlong. He was able to ride home.

Joseph Wallen, for four years in the employ of the Dunellen Lumber and Stone Company as driver, has resigned his position, and will return to his home in Scandinavia at once. Joseph Garletson, also a Slav, has taken his position with the local firm.

Rev. George H. Gardner preached yesterday at the dedication of the Baptist church at South River. His topic was "Truths that Need Emphasis." He was formerly pastor of the Baptist church at South River.

The New Market F. C. will play the Highland Park nine on the village diamond tomorrow afternoon. The Dunellen A. C. will go to East Millstone for the week's game.

William J. Winges, William H. Taylor and Joseph Blatz, of Plainfield, went with Gus Barfus to Tom's River and Lakewood in his automobile yesterday.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The base ball team held a business meeting last night in the parlors of the Central Hotel. Joseph Albert's resignation as manager of the team was accepted with regret. George Frentz, who managed the team last season was elected to fill the vacancy. Considerable other business relating to the season's schedule of games was also transacted at the meeting. Manager Albert will play his last game with the team tomorrow afternoon.

For the first time in three weeks the local fans will be able to enjoy a game tomorrow. The home team playing the Trojans of Elizabeth at 3:30. The lineup will be Flannery, lf; Baldwin, ss; J. Albert, 3b; Halbert, c; Allen, 1b; G. Frentz, 2b; Ellis, cf; Rieck, rf; Ortlieb, p.

Mrs. William Woods and children, who have been making an extended visit with Mrs. Wood's mother, Mrs. James H. Buckley, have returned to their home, at Taunton, Mass.

A large party from Elizabeth enjoyed an outing and dance last night at Deegan's pavillion, adjoining the Inn. The trip was made in two special cars.

The weekly prayer and praise meeting of the Baptist church will be held tonight in the Baptist church.

The number of the Epworth League hold a business meeting tonight in the Methodist church.

Brant Johnstown has returned from a weeks stay at Asbury Park.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

There was a good attendance at the meeting of the Fourth of July celebration committee which met in Temperance hall last evening. The reports of the different sub-committees were very satisfactory and the arrangements of every detail are almost perfected.

The regular meeting of the Good Government Club will be held Friday evening, June 26, at 8 o'clock. Members are earnestly requested to attend all meetings and to bring their friends.

The children's play for "Miss Matilda's School" was rehearsed last night and will be given tonight.

G. Cole has returned to his home in South River after a brief stay with his daughter, Mrs. W. Norman.

John Linaberry badly wrenched his foot by twisting it on a frog on the Lehigh Valley railroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorne have returned from a visit to friends in Elizabeth.

"His counsel was always full of common sense. His influence was always exercised in favor of democracy and unity and fair play and hard work as the true element of an American college. His loss will be deeply felt in the councils of Princeton.

His Civic Conscience.

"My own acquaintance with him dates back to his first term in the White House. I have special admiration for him as a good sportsman, an honest angler and a lover of out-of-door life. His sense of humor was delightful. To those who knew him only in the deliberate dignity of his public life—a dignity which he regarded as a part of his duty as a public servant—the charm of his personal talk would have been a surprise.

"He was one of the best story tellers that I have ever known. He had a quick perception of everything that was really quaint and humorous and a remarkable gift of reproducing.

"But the center of Mr. Cleveland's personality was his magnificent civic conscience. He was a great man; not by virtue of extraordinary qualities, but by his possession of the great common qualities of manhood in an extraordinary degree. His honesty was constitutional. His courage was in the blood. His own desire was to serve his country with the best of his ability. And to him his country meant the common people and the commonwealth. Very few men have ever been permitted to render such a great service to the republic."

The death mask of the former President was taken yesterday. Soon after death had occurred Mrs. Cleveland sent for Edwin Wilson, a sculptor connected with Princeton University. Mr. Wilson finished the mask today.

Protection for President.

At the request of Mrs. Cleveland and to insure the safety of President Roosevelt and also Vice-President Fairbanks, Governor Fort yesterday ordered out Companies A, B, E and L of the Second Regiment, and also the Monmouth Mounted Guards, to perform police duty at Princeton. The troops arrived early this morning under command of Colonel Frederick Gilkyson, assistant adjutant-general of the National Guard, and took post along the line chosen for the funeral procession, but will not act as escort.

By special invitation of President Roosevelt, Governor Fort met the President, joining his party to attend the funeral. The Governor met Mr. Roosevelt at the station at Princeton.

New Jersey will honor Mr. Cleveland with a magnificent floral piece.

Just before the adjournment of the Court of Errors and Appeals at Trenton yesterday Chancellor Pitney announced that, in accordance with the proclamation issued by Governor Fort and in honor of the memory of former President Grover Cleveland, the court would rise at noon today and adjourn until next Monday.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS

The election on the voting machines will be held at Clayton on July 14, notwithstanding that the secretary of State has ordered it removed.

Edward Mullica, a seventy-seven-year old farmer, of Ewan, keeps up with men half his age. He has ditched and cleared about ten acres of meadow land this spring and summer.

Nellie Vander Heyden, twelve years old, of 130 East Main street, Paterson, was bitten on the left arm by a heat-crazed dog yesterday afternoon. The wounds were cleaned and cauterized at the General Hospital.

Pleading guilty to a charge of assault and battery on Lizzie Jefferson and breaking her jaw, Alfred Davis colored, was sentenced to one year in State prison by Judge Joline in the Camden Criminal Court yesterday.

Walter Peterson, of Bridgeton, was committed to the county jail, charged with assault and battery on his mother at Williamstown. It is also alleged he attempted to hold up Samuel Foreman, the mail-carrier of Sicklerville.

Termed by the court as a confirmed criminal, Jeremiah Watson, colored, was sentenced to State prison for one year by Judge Joline in Camden yesterday for the larcency of a valuable set of harness, which he sold for fifty cents.

Mayor Ladd, of Woodbury, has been authorized by the Council to purchase a couple of bloodhounds to run down criminals in assault cases, but no provision has been made for their care and the Mayor wants to know about this before he proceeds further.

In the Circuit Court at May's Landing yesterday a jury in the case of Frank Garrett against the Shore Fast Line of Atlantic City, returned a verdict of $5,000 damages. Garrett was struck by an Atlantic City car of the Fast Line at a grade crossing at Linwood and received injuries that he will carry to his grave. Suit was brought for $10,000.

Several prostrations from the heat occurred Wednesday in Millville. John Loper, an aged citizen and former marshal, died. Mr. Loper had been in poor health for some time, but the weather doubtlessly hastened his death. Many of the glass factories were crippled owing to the scarcity of help. The men stopped work at noon and all efforts to induce them to resume in the afternoon were of no avail.

In order to avoid a collision with a North Cramer Hill trolley car an automobilist ran into an electric light pole at Fourth and Penn streets Camden, last night with such force that the arc light fell to the street in many pieces. Dangling wires from the light became so dangerous in the darkness that followed that Policeman Wilbur was placed on guard just in time to save several persons from serious shock. The automobile disappeared, but slightly damaged.

In default of $1,500 bail Antonia Valess, twenty-seven years old, of Leesburg, N. Y., was committed to the Camden County jail yesterday by Recorder Stackhouse to answer a charge of murderous assault on Minnie May Miller on a trolley car Tuesday night. It developed yesterday that he attacked the woman because she informed him that she was a married woman, after she had promised to become his bride. He told the recorder that he still loved the woman and that he would manfully bear what punishment was given him for the crime.

BASEBALL.

Mrs. W. W. Warnock, of Craig place, has been entertaining her sister, Mrs. S. H. Lawrence, of Leonia.

Miss Beulah Rogers, of Brooklyn, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. David Rogers, of West Second street.

Miss Edna Leighty, of West Fourth street, is entertaining her cousin, Miss Margaret Leighty, of Peekskill, N. Y.

Frank Shaffer, of Berkeley Heights, who recently underwent an operation at Muhlenberg Hospital, is improving rapidly.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Hight, of West Sixth street, left today for Montreal, Quebec, where they will visit relatives until the first of August.

Freeholder and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur, of Westervelt avenue, are planning to spend a portion of the summer at their cottage "Elkwood," Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. F. L. Dencklau, of Monroe avenue, left yesterday for a two weeks' visit with relatives at Norristown, Pa. She will also spend a week at the home of her uncle, Duncan Forsyth, of Baltimore, before returning.

Rev. and Mrs. John R. Vannatta, of Clarksboro, have been spending a few days at the home of the latter's brother, Martin Cronce, of Essex street. They left today for Pittstown, Hunterdon county, accompanied by Mr. Cronce, who will spend some time there as the guest of his brother.

—Philip McGuire, formerly with the Public Service Corporation in this city, now holds an excellent position with the company in Newark, being in charge of the department of construction and supplies.

CREAM.

"Often. It is the most exhilarating of sports," said the Enchantment. "The scenery changes; there are so many things that charm and engage your interest; the mountains, the waterways, the old ruins. Have you ever whistled to the horses afield and watched them come galloping down to the wall? It is fine. In England—" But her mouth closed suddenly. She was talking to a stranger.

I love enthusiasm in a woman. It colors her cheeks and makes her eyes sparkle. I grew a bit bolder.

"I heard a wonderful voice as I approached the castle," said I.

Gretchen shrugged.

"I haven't heard its equal outside Berlin or Paris," I went on.

"Paris?" said Gretchen, laying a neat little trap for me into which my conceit was soon to tumble me. "Paris is a marvelous city."

"There is no city to equal it. Inasmuch as we three shall never meet again, will you not do me the honor to repeat that jewel song from Faust?" My audacity did not impress her in the least.

"You can scarcely expect me to give a supper to a stranger and then sing for him, besides," said Gretchen, a chill again stealing into her tones. "These Americans!" she observed to her companion in French.

I laid aside my cigar, approached the piano, and sat down. I struck a few chords and found the instrument to be in remarkable good order. I played a Chopin "Polonaise," I tinkled Grieg's "Papillon," then I ceased.

"That is to pay for my supper," I explained.

Next I played Le Courier, and when I had finished that I turned again, rising.

"That is to pay for my horse's supper," I said.

Gretchen's good humor returned.

"Whoever you are, sir," her tone no longer repellent, "you are amusing. Pray, tell us whom we have the honor to entertain?"

"I haven't the vaguest idea who my hostess is,"—evasively.

"It is quite out of the question. You are the intruder."

"Call me Mr. Intruder, then," said I.

It was, you will agree, a novel adventure. I was beginning to enjoy it hugely.

"Who do you suppose this fellow is?" Gretchen asked.

"He says he is an American, and I believe he is. What Americans are in Barscheit?"

"I know of none at all. What shall we do to get rid of him?"

All this was carried on with unstudied rudeness. They were women of high and noble quality; and as I was an interloper, I could take no exception to a conversation in a language I had stated I did not understand. If they were rude, I had acted in a manner unbecoming a gentleman. Still, I was somewhat on the defensive. I took out my watch. My hour was up.

"I regret that I must be off," I said ruefully. "It is much pleasanter here than on the road."

"I can not ask you to remain here. You will find the inn a very comfortable place for the night," was Gretchen's suggestion.

"Before I go, may I ask in what manner I might serve as a witness?" Ere the words had fully crossed my lips I recognized that my smartness had caused me to commit an unpardonable blunder for a man who wished to show up well in an adventure of this sort. (But fate had a hand in it, as presently you shall see.)

Gretchen laughed, but the sound was harsh and metallic. She turned to her companion, who was staring at me with startled eyes.

"What did I tell you? You can not tell a gentleman in the candle-light." To me she said: "I thought as much. You have heard Faust in Paris, but you know nothing of the French language. You claimed to be a gentleman, yet you have permitted us to converse in French."

"Was it polite of you to use it?" I asked. "All this," with a wave of the hand, "appears mysterious. This is not a residence one would expect to find inhabited—and by two charming women!" I bowed. "Your presence here is even less satisfactorily explained than mine. If I denied the knowledge of French it was because I wasn't sure of my surroundings. It was done in self-defense rather than in the desire to play a trick. And in this language you speak of witnesses, of papers, of the coming of a man you do not trust. It looks very much like a conspiracy." I gathered up my gloves and riding-crop. I believed that I had extricated myself rather well.

"This is my castle," said Gretchen, gently shaking off the warning hand of her companion. "If I desire to occupy it for a night, who shall gainsay me? If I leave the latches down, that is due to the fact that I have no one to fear. Now, sir, you have eaten the bread of my table, and I demand to know who you are. If you do not tell me at once, I shall be forced to confine you here till I am ready to leave."

"Confine me!"—nonplussed. This was more than I had reckoned on.

"Yes." She reached out to strike the gong. (I can not be blamed for surrendering so tamely. I didn't know that the old servitor was the only man around.)

"I am the American consul at Barscheit."

The two women drew together instinctively, as if one desired to protect the other from some unknown calamity. What the deuce was it all about? All at once Gretchen thrust aside her friend and approached. The table was between us, and she rested her hands upon it. Our glances met and clashed.

"Did the duke send you here?" she demanded repellently.

"The duke?" I was getting deeper than ever. "The duke?"

"Yes. I am the Princess Hildegarde."

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that an Ordinance entitled "An Ordinance to Amend an Ordinance entitled 'An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with Permanent and Durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits,' adopted by the Common Council, July 1st, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907," a copy of which is subjoined to this notice, has been introduced before the Common Council, read the second time, and ordered engrossed preparatory to its third reading, and that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt such ordinance at the regular meeting of the Common Council to be held in the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, N. J., at 8 o'clock p. m. on Monday, the sixth day of July, A. D. Nineteen Hundred and Eight, at which time and place prior to the adoption of said ordinance, said ordinance will be considered by the Common Council and all persons interested may be heard before the Common Council with reference to the proposed ordinance.

By order of the Common Council.
J. T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., June 16, 1908.

AN ORDINANCE

To amend an Ordinance, entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with Permanent and Durable Brick Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council July 1st, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907.

The Inhabitants of the City of Plainfield, by their Common Council, do enact as follows:

Section 1. That Section 3 of an ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield with Permanent and Durable Brick Pavement, and to Provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council July 1st, 1907, and approved by the Mayor July 1st, 1907, be amended so as to read as follows:

"Sec. 3. That for the purpose of obtaining money by the sale of bonds hereinafter specified for the permanent improvement of said streets and parts of streets as aforesaid, in advance of the collection of assessments for benefits, the Common Council of the city do hereby, pursuant to the authority of an act of the Legislature of the State of New Jersey, entitled 'An Act to authorize the improvement of streets and highways in cities of this State, and to provide for the payment of the expense of the same,' approved June 13, 1898, and the acts amendatory thereof and supplemental thereto, authorize the issuing of forty coupon municipal bonds of the City of Plainfield, of One Thousand Dollars each, amounting in all to Forty Thousand Dollars, which bonds shall be dated September 1st, 1907, shall bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum per annum, payable semi-annually, and be payable as follows, that is to say, on the first day of September of each of the years 1910 and 1911 four bonds of $1,000 each, and on the first day of September of each and every year from 1912 to 1918, both inclusive, two bonds of $1,000 each, and on the first day of September of each and every year from 1919 to 1924, both inclusive, three bonds of $1,000 each, which bonds shall be signed by the Mayor and bear the corporate seal of the city, attested by the City Clerk, and may severally or collectively be sold for an amount not less than par value, and there shall be raised by tax in each year hereafter such sum of money as may be necessary to pay the interest on all outstanding bonds, and the principal of such bonds as may mature during that year, and the money derived from the assessments upon the property benefited shall, when collected, be held as a fund toward the payment of said bonds." 6 19 2f

—or if you're already "started," we'll help you refurnish! We've been doing it for thousands of others for nearly 50 years at this same old, well known "73 Market Street" address, and certainly ought to have the knack by now! There's a lot of good common sense reasons for using us, these among others:

1st—Immense stocks of latest styles in every good grade to pick from.
2nd—Whether purchase is one or a hundred dollars, your account is equally welcome!
3rd—Prices are always plainly marked—and always the lowest, owing to enormous purchasing power.
4th—As little as $1.50 a week or $6.00 a month pays for $100 worth of goods—other amounts in proportion.
5th—We want your trade—and cordially invite comparisons!

"Kid" Lawrence Leaves the City.

John A. Lawrence, who has been advertising manager of the New Plainfield theatre for the past year, resigned the position yesterday in order to act in a similar capacity for the Adelphia and Lyric theatres, Philadelphia. During his stay in this city he made many friends who, while regretting his departure, are pleased to note his advancement. He left for Quarkertown today.

—Lots of fruit specials at Neuman Brothers tomorrow; choice Jersey strawberries, Pocono mountain huckleberries, Georgia peaches and extra nice melons. Everything strictly fresh and delivered early.

FREE MATINEE RACES AT DRIVING PARK TOMORROW

Lovers of horse racing will be interested in the free matinee race meet to be held at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, tomorrow afternoon, under the auspices of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Association. The card will comprise four events and includes many of the best horses to be found in this city and vicinity. The Association is making a great effort to furnish good clean sport and should receive the support of Plainfielders who enjoy first class-racing. The Saturday races will be a feature throughout the season.

A stella attraction wil be held on the Fourth of July when the program wil include two runnings races, one steeplechase and three trotting and pacing races. Purses amounting to more than $800 will be offered as prizes and a record-breaking crowd is anticipated. The entry list will close in a few days. The entries for tomorrow's races will be as follows:

Class A.—Aron B., A. C. Blair; Live Wire, Thomas Brantingham. Class B.—New Haven, Harry Evans; Maud C., R. L. Edwards; Aloysia, Newton B. Smalley; Lady Onward, Thomas Brantingham. Class C.—Sidney Leland, J. B. Guttridge; Albert D., Nelson Giles; Ben. Butler, H. Uhrhahn; Lawless, James Lawless; Helen Nelson, J. B. Osborn. Class D.—Lady Sidnut, C. B. Smith; Edgemark Surprise, John Case; Harmonia, C. C. Brower; Jenner, Phil Jenners; Bobby B., William Fergerfson; The Maid, J. B. Osborn; Willie, W. L. Smalley, Jr., Miss Percy, Percy Brown.

BASEBALL.

Plainfield vs. Elizabeth.

The local baseball attraction of greatest interest tomorrow will be the contest at Crescent Oval between the Plainfield and Elizabeth Y. M. C. A., teams. This will be one of the championship games in the State Association League and is sure to be a good one. Both clubs have been putting up a good article of ball and the county seat boys will come here prepared to win, if possible. Jack Peacock wil probably twirl for Plainfield. The game will be called at 4 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. vs. Clinton Avenue.

There is considerable interest in the approaching contest between the Y. M. C. and Clinton Avenues to be played at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon, July 4. Jim Scott is being held in reserve by the association club for this game and it is his fond hope that he will be able to defeat his old team-mates. He will be opposed by Clifford Randolph.

The Trojan Athletic Club, of Elizabeth, which will play the Scotch Plains team at the latter place tomorrow, will be a "dark horse" aggregation, it being the first contest with any local club this year. A fast game is expected. The probable lineup will be as follows: Exlaiben, 1b; Haury, 2b; Rankin, rf; Leach, cf; Trotter, 3b; Botner, ss; Bender, lf-p; Boeltze, c; Wagstaff, p; substitues, Skidmore, rf; Decker, lf; Cecil, c.

MISSES WILDEY WIN OUT IN WOMEN'S DOUBLES.

The Misses Natalie and Edna Wildey are still factors in the national tennis tournament which has been in progress in Philadelphia, this week, although they were beaten in women's singles and Miss Natalie Wildey and Dean Mathey were beaten in the mixed doubles.

In the third round of the women's doubles the Misses Wildey defeated Mrs. A. H. Miles and Miss Erra Marcus, Danforth Tennis Club, 6-4, 7-5. In the fourth round of the mixed doubles, Mrs. A. H. Miles and I. C. Wright, defeated Miss Natalie Wildey and Dean Mathey, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1. The Plainfield pair will continue to play today in the women's doubles and their friends are hoping for success.

Noonday Chimney Blaze.

An alarm was received at fire headquarters shortly before noon today for a blaze in the house at 527 South Second street, owned by Abram Kunzman. The trouble was found to be a burning chimney and was stopped by the use of chemicals. The alarm was turned in from box 46 and for some reason was not sounded properly.

Two Months' Trip Abroad.

A. V. D. Honeyman, of North avenue, has completed arrangements for a two months' trip abroad, with a party of twenty people. They will sail from New York on the North German Lloyd steamer Koenig Luise on Saturday, July 4, for Naples, and during the trip abroad will visit Italy, Switzerland, Holland and England.

Liberty Band to Play.

The Liberty Band, of this city, which is making excellent progress, has been engaged to furnish music for the Fourth of July celebration at South Plainfield on Saturday night, July 4. In the afternoon the band will play at the matinee races to be held at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, under the auspices of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Association.

ENDS A LONG SERVICE

Charles W. Runyon Resigns After Twenty-six Years Work for Phone Co.

SET UP FIRST TELEPHONE.

Soon After He Took Charge of Local Plant There 124 Telephones and Now There Are 3,500.

Completing a continuous service of twenty-six years, during which time he held positions in the operating department, that of general foreman and for many years as manager of the local exchange, Charles W. Runyon, of the New Madison, yesterday severed his connection with the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company. He has plans for the future, but they have not been definitely decided upon as yet.

During his long period of service Mr. Runyon has lived to see the business of the telephone company grow to immense proportions. He entered the employ of the company in the operating department at Jersey City, in 1882, where he remained for a few years. In the meantime the late Percy Ohl, who was then residing here, had temporarily been put in charge of the company's interest, until Mr. Runyon was transferred here. After that the business began to grow steadily.

The first telephone in Plainfield to be connected with the local exchange was placed in The Daily Press office and Mr. Runyon set the instrument up. At that time the exchange was located on the top floor of the building at Park avenue and Front street. A little later the exchange was moved to North Avenue, opposite the station.

Soon after Mr. Runyon came here there were 124 telephones in this district, and today there 3,500, which includes Plainfield, Westfield, Bound Brook, and Somerville. In the early days there was but one trunk line to New York, by the way of Rahway, and today there are ten trunk lines to the Metropolis. Originally there was one operator at the exchange. Now there are twenty-five.

The exchange remained on North avenue for eight years, when the company purchased a piece of property on Park avenue to meet the growing needs. In time the company outgrew these quarters and it was then decided to erect a modern up-to-date building equipped with the latest appliances. The structure has been in service about a year and is considered one of the finest owned by the company. During his service with the company, Mr. Runyon spent two years at Morristown and two years at Elizabeth, while for six years he was a general formean of construction work.

To Mr. Runyon belongs the credit of building up the company's business in this district, it being due to his efforts that the list of subscribers grew so rapidly and the other business assumed such large proportions. He was instrumental in having the company's wires placed underground and a great many concessions made to the company by people in Plainfield were obtained by Mr. Runyon. He was held in esteem by all who came in contact with him and his host of friends regret that he has severed his connection with the company.

R. J. SCHREINER NEW HEAD OF PERSEVERANCE LODGE.

The following officers were elected by Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., last night: Chancellor commander, Berthold J. Schreiner; vice-chancellor, Charles A. Peterson; master of the work, V. W. Nash, Jr.; prelate, George Leighs; master at arms, John Kenney; inner guard, Robert Newton Crane; outer guard, Peter Strem. The installation will take place next Friday night.

Following the business meeting, the members enjoyed a social session and smoker, during which an informal program was given. The lodge enjoyed a box of cigars from the retiring chancellor commander, V. W. Nash, Jr., in honor of his entrance to the ranks of the benedicts.

Taking Business Course.

The following have entered the Plainfield Business College during the past month for either the regular school course, or special instruction in some one subject: The Misses Grace Bryant, Helen Southard, Josephine Martin, May Birmingham, Kathryn Samson, Ruth Faber and William Brown, Charles Smith, William La Tourette, Herman Thheis, R. H. Bird and Thomas Bebout.

TO USE ASPHALTINE ON LOCAL STREETS

The Councilmanic street committee has completed arrangements for the improvement of North avenue, which thoroughfare is to be treated with Asphaltine, a preparation intended to keep the dust down. A portion of Park avenue below the brick pavement is also to be similarly treated. Chairman Gloak, as well as the other members of the street committee are convinced that the work will prove satisfactory. They visited East Orange some time ago, where Munn avenue, a busy thoroughfare, had been treated with asphaltine and after considerable use was shown to have come up to all expectations.

The work here will be done within the next two weeks. If the scheme proves sucessful there is no doubt the asphaltine will be generally used on the streets here thus doing away with the sprinkling carts.

STATE G. A. R MOURNS FOR GROVER CLEVELAND

New Jersey veterans, in camp at Asbury Park, indulged in a lively discussion yesterday on a resolution asking that the battleship Maine, sunk in Havana harbor, be raised and the bodies of the sailors and marines entombed in its wrecked hull be given Christian burial. Although the committee had reported adversely on the resolution, it was adopted.

Resolutions of condolence on the death of former President Grover Cleveland, asking the President to withhold his approval of any action calculated to consolidate the different pension agents against the interest of the members of the G. A. R. and a final resolution opposed to having captured Confederate flags returned were adopted.

These officers were elected: State Commander, John Forman, of Flemington; senior vice commander, William W. Mendell, of Cranford; Junior vice commander, Robert M. Hillman, of Camden, his defeated opponent being William J. Furze, of Garfield Post, Newark; medical director, Dr. R. F. Dana, of Trenton, in whose favor Dr. Hugh P. Roden, of Newark, also a candidate, retired, Dr. Dana's election being unanimous; council of administration, David D. Keefe, Newark; Eugene Hill, Passaic; W. L. Marsh, Elizabeth; Bishop W. Mains, Atlantic City, and A. L. Winans, Vineland; delegates to national encampment to be held in Toledo, O., in August, M. D. Kelly, Jersey City; Forman J. Reynolds, Newark; Henry Clugston, Trenton; Israel Fish, Camden; John W. Chandler, Red Bank; George R. Bunten, Perth Amboy; P. J. Lydecker, Paterson; Uriah Seeley, Newark; Joseph Brant, New Brunswick and R. D. Brower, of Millburn, Newark.

ALL IS HARMONY.

So Far as Taft's Concerned at Least.

When Frank H. Smith, county chairman, calls together the Republicans of Union county for a notification meeting to give indorsement to the Republican national ticket, he will undoubtedly have the enthusiastic support of the New Idea faction of the party.

Independent Republicans claim to be the original Taft men of New Jersey and are rejoicing over his nomination. Whatever may be their differences with the county machine, they are willing to unite in any movement pledging Republican support to Taft and Sherman. Mr. Smith said yesterday that he would call a meeting of the executive committee early next week to decide upon action relative to the proposed ratification meeting.

Plainfield Horse at Wilkes-Barre.

Plainfield was represented in the Wilkes-Barre Driving Club races yesterday, by C. C. Brower, of Plainfield, who drove "Prince," b. g., by "Prince Medium." Mr. Brower went to WilkesBarre to capture the time mark, but was unsuccessful, finishing 3, 4 and 2.

Alms Committee to Meet.

The Councilmanic Alms committee will meet tonight to dicusss matters relative to the proposed changes to be made July 1 at the Industrial Home, when a new superintendent will be put in charge.

The Thirteenth Arrival.

Mr. and Mrs. John Geary, of South Plainfield, became the parents of a bouncing baby daughter this morning. The new arrival is the thirteenth child in the family, all of whom are living.

Peerless Orchestra Dance.

About fifty couples attended the dance given by the Peerless Orchestra at Debele's Hall last night. Harold Cook was chairman of the committee in charge of the affair.

EFFECT OF "HARD TIMES"?

Fewer Plainfielders Taking Their Customary Summer Outings This Year.

DECREASE IS NOTICEABLE.

Furnished Houses Appear to Be a Drug on the Market—Ocean Travel, However, Heavier.

Whether it be because this is a Presidential election year, because the money market is "tight," or because the advertising by the Board of Trade has made people appreciate "The City Beautiful," Plainfielders are not leaving town on vacations as generally as last year this time. The summer exodus should be well under way by this time, but the "baggage smashers" report fewer trunks to wrestle with, and the postoffice has been notified of fewer changes of addresses than last year.

Of those who have left town, an increased percentage are trans-Atlantic travelers and sailing days have seen party after party of Plainfielders start "across the pond," to spend the summer months in travel. There is a noticeable predominance of summer vacationists who are going to mountain resorts, and little outgoing baggage is despatched to the shore, in comparison to the trunks handled for the mountain resorts.

Metropolitan folks are not coming to Plainfield in as great numbers this year as in summers previous. Many Plainfielders rent their homes while they are away for the summer, but it is hard this year to find New Yorkers to take the places. One local real estate man has had fifty houses placed in his management for summer rental, and has only been able to find tenants for about a dozen. The summer cottages on the mountain, however, have their usual quota and the "summer boarding places" report the same number of boarders.

A particularly popular plan for short summer vacations this season is week-end automobile trips and many Plainfielders who own automobiles have already been off on such trips. These touring car parties cover lots of territory on the runs, which many local motorists have with week-end regularity.

TWO S. S. AS GUESTS OF KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, having been restless for some time past, have decided to take a new turn and their members are now working like beavers for the success of the excursion which will be given on August 6. The destination is Asbury Park and the notice of time and full details will be given later.

A feature of the excursion will be that all of the Sunday school pupils in St. Mary's and St. Joseph's parishes will be given free transportation. This will be a great treat, as it has never been the cusom before, owing to the very large number of children that have to be cared for. The knights however, have taken this task upon themselves. Some very new features will be introduced that will probably set a new plan for excursionists, providing for the comfort of all who will attend the excursion, and make it a day of rest in every sense.

Defeated in Semi-Final Round.

In the third round of the championship doubles of the national tennis tournament in Philadelphia, yesterday, the Misses Wildey defeated Mrs. Miles and Miss Erra Marcus, 6-4, 7-5, only to be defeated in the semi-final round by Miss E. Sears and Miss M. Curtis, 6-3, 6-1. The semi-final match is described by the Philadelphia papers as being easy fo the winning pair, the Plainfielders evidently not playing their usual game. The Misses Wildey deserve much credit for the way in which they reached the semi-final stages, meeting many of the strongest players in this part of the country.

Union Services During July.

A series of union services has been decided upon by the pastors of the First Presbyterian, First Baptist, First M. E. and Trinity Reformed churches, to be held Sunday evenings during July. The schedule will be as follows: July 5, First Presbyterian church, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss preacher; July 12, First M. E. church, Rev. Dr. J. H. Raven, of New Brunswick, preacher; July 19, First Baptist church, Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea preacher; July 26, Trinity Reformed church, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring preacher.

UNDER $200 BOND, BOY STEALS A WATCH

George Suydam, the fourteen-year old North Plainfielder who was released under $200 bail Tuesday to appear before the grand jury on the charge of stealing two bicycles, is again a fugitive from the borough police, charged this time with stealing a silver watch belonging to James Carline, an Italian neighbor of the boy's on Jefferson avenue. The theft was committed in broad daylight today when Suydam's accomplices were his two little brothers, aged four and six years.

The lad's bold theft was reported to Chief Marshal Weiss, of the North Plainfield police shortly after nine o'clock today. The officer went to the home of Ferdinand Valadioti, an Italian living near the Suydam home on Jefferson avenue, and learned that Mrs. Marie Valadioti had seen young Suydam jump out of the window with Carline's watch just a few minutes before and run off with his brothers across the fields. Mrs. Carline said that at the time there was no one in the house. Carline, who boards with the Valadiotis, was off at work, and she was out in the field gathering brush.

She noticed the two small brother of Suydam prowling around the rear of the house, apparently on the lookout. Suspicious of mischief, she started toward the house, when the little fellows raised the alarm. Mrs. Valadioti then saw young George Suydam jump out of the rear window, making a quick get-away. In climbing over the sill, the young house breaker tripped and fell to the ground. She saw him drop the watch but he instantly picked it up and darted across the fields. The woman started in pursuit, but was soon outdistanced by the boys, who ran toward the mountain.

An examination of the house showed that the boy had found a pocketbook, but had thrown it down again upon discovering that there was no money in it. The watch was an open face silver time-piece, to which was attached a short piece of chain.

Suydam was arrested by the Plainfield police Monday, charged with stealing bicycles belonging to George Pope and Harry Bogert. Judge Runyon fixed the boy's bond at $200, and the money was supplied by Henry DeMott. City and borough police are on the boy's trail for the theft of the watch.

APPROPRIATED A COW.

East End Boys Get in Trouble by Trying to take the Bovine to the Pound.

Frank Peterson, colored, and Bert Mattox, white, two boys living in the East End, were arraigned in the city court, this morning, charged with disorderly conduct by Patrolman Saffron. Ther breach of behavior consisted of appropriating a cow belonging to Mrs. Dixon, of Park Lane, and attempting to take the bovine to the pound for whatever reward there might be in it. The animal was staked in a field and is one that on two similar occasions the owner has had to pay a dollar or two to get back after it was taken away by boys.

The defendants claimed the cow had broken loose and was wrecking a potato patch when they caught it. As they had been in jail since early yesterday afternoon, Judge Runyon let them go with a reprimand.

To Preach Hospital Sermon.

Rev. O. J. Shoop, pastor of Grace M. E. church, will preach a sepcial jubilee sermon at the morning service tomorrow, in the interests of the Methodist Hospital, of Brooklyn. This is jubilee year for the hospital and many of the pastors of churches who have a part in the work of supporting the Brooklyn hospital, set aside a Sunday for a hospital sermon. Mr. Shoop's topic will be "The Good Samaritan in Modern Times," and the hour of service will be 11 o'clock. In the evening, the topic will be "The At-homeness of Jesus." The service will be at 7:45 o'clock, and music will be a feature.

Going Home to Be Married.

Prof. Hauck, of John Leal's School, sailed today on the Red Star Line steamer Kroonland, to spend the summer at his old home in Heidleberg, Germany. While abroad Prof. Hauck will be married and in the fall will return to Plainfield with his bride, whose home is near Heidleberg. Mr. Hauck will continue to teach at Leal's School next year. He purchased his steamer tickets through the agency of Mulford Estil.

Edmund V. Hollingsworthh.

Edmund V. Hollingswort, formerly of Brooklyn, died in North Plainfield last night after a brief illness. Mr. Hollingsworth is survived by a brother and two sisters. The funeral will be at the home of his brother, Loftus Hollingsworth, at Scotch Plains, on Monday afternoon. Burial will be in the family plot at Hillside.

DOESN'T RECALL WEDDING

Officiating Minister Comments on Bride's Statement That She was in a Trance.

THE LAW COMPLIED WITH.

Rev. Mr. Kemble Says Helen Nelson's Case May Be One of "Marriage in Haste; Repent at Leisure."

Rev. Charles S. Kemble, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, who on May 4, 1907, married Miss Helen Nelson, of Perth Amboy, and John Myer Jorgensen, while he was pastor of the Park M. E. church, Elizabeth, was question today regarding the bride's declaration that she was in a trance when she was married and remained so for two days afterward and on the grounds that she was sixteen years old and was deserted by her husband now seeks an annulment of the ceremony.

Mr. Kemble said that he could not at this time recall the particular case, but in his opinion it must have been a repetition of the old saying, "Marry in haste, repent at leisure." He felt sure that it must have been a hasty marriage, but the fact that the couple was accompanied by two friends as witnesses proved to his mind that all were not in a trance or dazed condition.

"I always insist that prospective brides and grooms comply strictly with the law," added Mr. Kemble. "If the young woman is willing to take an affirmation that she is eighteen years old and the groom that he is of legal age and everything appears to be all right otherwise, I do not hesitate to perform the ceremony. In this particular case it seems that there had been a hurried ride to Elizabeth and a desire on the part of the couple to be married. They must have satisfied me that all the legal requirements were complied with or I certainly would not have consented to officiate. While in Elizabeth I married a great many couples and it would be difficult to recall off-hand incidents associated with the ceremony of any particular wedding, especially as far back as a year ago."

MRS. NISCHWITZ VICTIM OF A PLEASANT SURPRISE.

Mrs. Henry Nischwitz, of Fairview avenue, was given a surprise party last night by a number of friends who called unexpectedly at her home. The affair had been arranged by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bellis, and was carried out with great success, the victim being summoned to the darkened parlor where the participants were gathered, to light the gas. When it was turned on she received a greeting that almost made her collapse but she quickly recovered and acknowledged the surprise.

The evening was spent in playing cards and listening to an informal program of vocal and instrumental music. Refreshments were served in conclusion. During an intermission, Mrs. Nischwitz was presented with a chafing dish and a handsome piece of cut glass.

Those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Bellis, of Somerville; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Boyer, Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Schleif, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Neff, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Hildesheim, Mr. and Mrs. John Brower, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bellis and Henry Nischwitz.

Will Talk About Grover Cleveland.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor, will occupy his pulpit at the First Baptist church tomorrow, morning and night. In the morning at 10:45 o'clock his sermon will be suggested by the death of former President Grover Cleveland, and in the evening at 7:45 o'clock the topic will be "A Favor Requested of a Departing Friend." The Sunday-school will meet at 9:30 o'clock in the morning.

Funeral of Mrs. Kelly.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Kelly, wife of John Kelly, of New street, was held this morning in St. Mary's church. The mass was said by Rev. Father Bogan in the presence of a gathering of relaaives and friends. Burial was made in St. Mary's cemetery, the following acting as pall bearers: Thomas Carty, James Carty, John Galbraith, Frank Day, Martin Reagan and John Gallagher.

Unclaimed Dogs Shot.

Dog Catcher James Babbitt, of the borough, shot six unclaimed and unmuzzled canines at the pound today. The animals were kept for three days after their capture, awaiting identification. There are now eleven dogs unredeemed at the pound.

LOCAL POLICE CAPTURE GIRL FROM STATE HOME

Lizzie Ferguson, a seventeen-year-old girl who escaped from the State Home at Trenton a few days ago, was captured at Willow Grove, last night by Chief Kiely and Chief Marshal Weiss. She was locked up at the Sycamore street headquarters until this morning, when Chief Kiely took her back to the institution.

Word that the girl might come to Plainfield was telephoned by the Trenton police who stated that her father had been working in the borough and that she would probably go to him for help. The two police chiefs found that she had been town but that she had gone to the home of Mrs. Frank Wood at Willow Grove. They drove there in a rig and just as they reached the house, the Ferguson girl and a man who proved to be her father, darted out of a back door and attempted to get away. The display of a couple of revolvers brought them to a halt.

The officers had no charge against the parent but he showed marked fear of arrest and waiting a favorable opportunity as the girl was being questioned, he made a bolt for liberty. He was not pursued and the last the police saw of him he was streaking it like a forty-horse-power auto toward Rahway.

The Ferguson girl is said to have been committed from Newark for incorrigibility and that she has made several attempts to gain her freedom since her commitment.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS SENT BY NEW JERSEY

One of the most elaborate and artistic of the scores of floral pieces at the funeral of former President Grover Cleveland at Princeton yesterday was the one sent by New Jersey. It was made at Ribsam's in Trenton, and was taken to Princeton in a wagon which was specially equipped for its transportation.

The piece is a panel five feet high and nearly four feet wide. In the centre there is a spray of honor made of orchids, extending from a point near the lower left hand corner almost to the upper right hand corner. This spray is set off by a handsome background of white carnations, white roses, lavender sweet peas, lilies of the valley and several varieties of ferns of more delicate species. The whole color scheme of the piece is lavender, green and white. The corners of the panel are decorated with bows of lavender silk crepe. On the top of the piece is a card with the coat of arms of New Jersey in gold, and under that the word "Sympathy." The card is tied with a bow of lavender silk ribbon.

In accordance with Adjutant-General R. H. Breintnall's order a salute of thirteen guns was fired at sunrise yesterday. At intervals of thirty minutes a salute of one gun was fired. At sunset a salute of forty-five guns were fired from the river bank in the rear of the State house.

ATWATER SENTENCES FOR SEVEN PRISONERS.

Seven prisoners were arraigned in the Union County Court this morning for sentence by Judge Atwater. Peter Harsen, of this city, found giulty of stealing bicycles, three months in the county jail; Charles Lyons, of Rahway, son of Patrick Lyons, formerly of this city, convicted of a serious offense, sent to State Home for boys; Fred Thomas, Sr., colored, keeping disorderly place at Keystone Hotel, Elizabeth, four months in the county jail and $250 fine; John Smith, larcency, one year in State Prison; Henry Boesling, stealing a horse, one year State Prison; Herbert Simms, unlawfully taking a horse, two months in county jail; Charles Rhoads, embezzlement of $400, sent to Rahway Reformatory.

Jag Artist Beats a Boy.

Frank Walsh, of Plainfield avenue, was arrested by Patrolman Saffron at noon today on a drunk and disorderly charge. He was being taken home by a small boy and developing a sudden fit of temper started to beat the child. The little fellow would have fared badly but for the arrival of Saffron.

Found the Boy, But Where?

Joseph Nash, fifteen years old, whose relatives have been searching for him the past ten years, was located yesterday at a Presbyterian Orphan Asylum in this city, according to a dispatch in an Elizabeth newspaper. No such institution is known here.

Victim of Diphtheria.

Harold H. Bohl, the six-year-old son of Henry and Florence Bohl, of East Fifth street, died this morning from diphtheria. The funeral will be private.

FOR CLEVELAND MEMORIAL

Roosevelt Endorses Movement to Raise a Monument to Great Jerseyman.

ERNEST R. ACKERMAN'S VIEWS.

Lauding the Late President, Plainfielder Sends His Check for $20 for the Cause.

Hearty response had been accorded the proposition to erect a monument in his native State, New Jersey, to the memory of President Grover Cleveland, the only Jerseyman that ever became Chief Magistrate of the Nation. President Roosevelt, Mayor George B. McClellan, E. C. Benedict, Secretary Cortelyou, in addition to the distinguished list published in this paper yesterday, have announced that the scheme will have their hearty support.

As already announced the plan is of National scope and an effort will be made to make New Jersey the banner State among the contributors. There is no political significance in the movement. Governor Fort, Senators Kean and Briggs and a large number of other prominent men have consented to become members of the State committee.

Enclosed with his check for twenty dollars, this comment was received from Ernest R. Ackerman this morning:

"I favor the movement to honor the memory of President Cleveland. He stood firmly and a a very critical time for the integrity and honor of the United States with regards to its currency and its obligations abroad."

Mite boxes were placed in a number of business houses in the central part of the city today. The purpose is to allow those who feel that they can give a dollar or less opportunity to do so in this way. Contributions, no matter how small, however, will be welcomed at this office and acknowledgement made as promptly as received.

THIS TANGLED SKEIN IS NOW UNRAVELED

Vice-Chancellor Stevens has filed an opinion adverse to the complaint in a suit brought by James L. Throckmorton, on behalf of the Caldwell National Bank, of which he is cashier, to foreclose a mortgage for $3,000, made by the Ernest H. Bennett Land and Improvement Company to Walter P. Lindsley, one-time president of the bank named. Lindsley assigned the mortgage to the bank as collateral security for notes which had been discounted by the bank for his benefit a year ago.

Lindsley disappeared from Newark, where he practised law, about two years ago. The suit just decided revolved around a land deal which Lindsley was instrumental in bringing about in the summer of 1905, by which the Bennett Land and Improvement Company, whose legal adviser Lindsley was at the time, exchanged a property at High street and Central avenue for property on Park avenue, this city, owned by Mr. and Mrs. William J. Mehaffey, for whom Lindsley was also counsel.

It was represented to the Mehaffeys by Lindsley, it is said, that there were two mortgages on the Plainfield property, aggregating $20,000 and that both had a year to run. Lindsley objected to this and said he would not consider the matter unless time for payment was extended for three years. Later, it is said, Lindsley told Mehaffey it had been arranged and on the strength of this the deal was made.

The vice-chancellor says of theh transaction tat it was "designed to defraud Mrs. Mehaffey out of her property and on the discovery of it the land company was willing to make restitution and did make restitution to the extent of its ability. But the principal or only fraud doer, the one who derived the greatest benefit from the fraud, did not. In view of this situation it is argued that Mrs. Mehaffey has more than a latent equity.

MRS. TIMSON IN RUNAWAY.

Bound Brook Woman Severely Hurt in New York.

New York, June 27.—Mrs. Mercedes Timson, of Bound Brook, N. J., was thrown out of a carriage when the horses ran away yesterday afternoon in Manhattan avenue, near 11th street, and severely injured. She was riding with Mildred D. Mason, of 126 West Eighty-sixth street.

One of her arms was broken, in addition to other hurts. She was sent to St. Luke's Hospital. Mr. Mason was not hurt.

The voters of Mannington Township, Salem county, will hold a special election Tuesday, July 7, to decide upon the retention or rejection of the voting machine.

Jersey City Women's College Club this year voted $100 to any qualified young woman who desired to go to college. It has been awarded to Miss Nellie Paschall, of Greenville.

Mrs. Eleanor Sheets, a well-known resident of Salem, was found dead at her home yesterday. It is supposed she died some time Tuesday. Heart disease is said to have been the cause of death.

The four-year-old daughter of Ray Springer, who was in his boat which capsized off Paulsboro a year ago, when two persons were drowned, has just begun to regain her speech, which she lost through fright.

The Millville Board of Education has received notice from State Superintendent Baxter that the proposed manual training course has been approved, and the State is ready to make a liberal appropriation for its installation.

Governor Edwin Stuart, of Pennsylvania, visited his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sparks, at their home, in Millville, yesterday, on his way to Cape May City to attend the meeting of the Pennsylvania Bar Association.

While no arrests have yet been made, it is said some discharged laborers are suspected of placing the tie on the track between Woodbury and Wenonah, and which came near wrecking an electric train a few nights ago.

Suffering from an overdose of a poisonous drug she had taken for medicinal purposes, Harriet Redding, nineteen years old, was admitted to Cooper Hospital, Camden, yesterday. Prompt action of the physicians saved her life.

Fearing that a dog which bit six-year-old Anna Mathews, of 131 Mt. Vernon street, Camden, in the face last Saturday, was suffering with the rabies, Superintendent Jeffries had the little girl removed to the Pasteur Institute yesterday.

While Charles Yardley and a companion were fishing in Malaga pond yesterday afternoon the attempted to change seats, and the boat was overturned. Yardley, unable to swim, sank before his companion could render him assistance.

Jumping into the Delaware from the Jefferson street wharf, Camden, last night, William Kamp, twenty-two years old, of Viola and Jefferson streets, sank from sight. He had decided to cool off after stopping work in a nearby industrial plant.

The cannon recently erected on the monument lot at Lambertville will be dedicated on Thursday evening, July 2, when the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, Patriotic Sons of America and Company F, Second Regiment, will take part in the ceremonies.

Joseph Bleakly, aged forty-four, a brakeman on the Reading Railway, was instantly killed at Williamstown Junction yesterday, when caught between two cars, which were being drilled. His body was taken to his home in Camden, where a widow and daughter awaited it.

Upon the recommendation of Prosecutor Scovel that an example should be made of foreigners who are too free with the use of deadly weapons, Judge Joline, in the Camden Criminal Court, yesterday, sentenced Anton Sedorski to one year in State prison for stabbing John Lisowski during a fight.

Oscar Larsen, who shot and killed Hugh Gregori, the steward of the schooner R. G. Dunn, on June 15; Joseph Farley, wanted to answer a charge of breaking and entering, and Walter Coleman, accused of highway robbery, all of whom were arrested in Philadelphia, were taken to Camden yesterday on requisition.

AMUSEMENTS.

Vaudeville's "Best" will be a large factor in causing the patrons of Proctor's Newark Playhouse to forget the heated period next week, then too the temperature of the theatre is always from ten to fifteen degrees cooler than outside. Some of the more popular performers who wil help further merriment are Al Leech and his Three Rosebuds in a new version of their laughable singing and dancing skit. Jeannette Lowrie late with "The Free Lance," "Mary's Lamb," and "Yama" will sing some of her greatest song successes and wear some stunning gowns. After a year of stellar work in the legtimate Zelma Rawlston will return to vaudeville with a sketch written especially for her by Edward Ellner, who is Daniel Frohman's general stage director, entitled "Hannah of Havana." Miss Rawlston will have excellent support. Francis Sedgwick and company will present a laughable farce in one act "Too Many Husbands." The Swedish American quartette are four fresh young voiced people whose rendition of the latest ballads will be a welcome feature. Lyons and Parks the former a young Newarker, will sing and dance in a pleasing manner. Lyons is also a talented harpist. Espey, Dutton and Espey are a trio of clever comedy bicyclists. These artists with new animated pictures and other acts of live merit wil round out the program.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Rev. George H. Gardner's series of "Summer Night Sermons" will be continued tomorrow night, when the second discourse of the series will be given. The topic will be "A Basket of Fruit." These services are creating considerable talk in the borough because at the request of the pastor, who desires to make the services informal and allow everybody to be as comfortable as possible, several of the men in the congregation removed their coats last Sunday night, and a large percentage of the women came to church without hats.

Mrs. E. E. Fitch, of Boston, and Miss Francis E. Gardner are sojourning at the home of their parents, Rev. and Mrs. George Gardner, of New Market. Miss Gardner, who is at the State Normal School at New Britain, Conn., will spend the entire summer at New Market.

Ethan Rogers, a student at Alfred University, is home for the summer vacation.

ELOPED FROM SANITARIUM.

Glen Gardner Superintendent Arrived Just in Time to Forbid the Banns.

Glen Gardner, June 27.—It would appear that Cupid has been up to tricks at the State Sanitarium for Tuberculosis Diseases at this place A few nights ago a man and woman, both inmates of the institution, disappeared. They went to the Spruce Run parsonage and asked the pastor, Rev. J. I. Hummer, to make them man and wife.

The superintendent and matron of the institution were notified and drove post haste to the parsonage, arriving just in time to forbid the banns.

The bride-elect was bundled off on the next train, accompanied by the matron, to her home, which, it is said, is in Trenton. The would-be bridegroom was told to pack his trunk and leave as speedily as possible.

Mrs. John H. Stevens, of Watchung avenue, has returned from a visit with the Misses Gallagher, of Raritan.

ONLY ONE "BEST."

Plainfield People Gives Credit Where Credit Is Due.

People of Plainfield who suffer with sick kidneys and bad backs want a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. The best is Doan's Kidney Pills, a medicine for the kidneys only, made from pure roots and herbs, and the only one that is backed by cures in Plainfield. Here's Plainfield testimony:

Adolph Thomas, machinist, living at 206 Spooner avenue, Plainfield, N. J., says: "I have had for several years considerable trouble from a most severe form of rheumatism. Having heard that Doan's Kidney Pills were good for rheumatic troubles arising from the kidneys I got a supply at Randolph's drug store and began using them. I have taken in all three boxes of this remedy and must say that they have acted like a charm in my case. Not only have I been relieved of the pains that troubled me, but my kidneys have been strengthened."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Fire Notice

The residents of the City of Plainfield are requested to clear their yards and cellars of all inflammable materials before the Fourth of July.

Owners or occupants of factories, stores, etc., are particularly requested to give this matter their prompt attention, and thereby reduce the danger of fire.

Corporation Notice.

CITY OF PLAINFIELD, N. J.

Call for sealed proposals for $95,000 School Bonds and $25,500 Police Station House Bonds.

Pursuant to resolutions adopted by the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, at a regular adjourned meeting thereof held June 8th, 1908, notice is hereby given that on Monday, the 29th day of June, 1908, at eight o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 151 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, New Jersey, the Common Council of said city will receive and open sealed proposals for the purchase of the $95,000 of School Bonds called for by the resolutions adopted by the Common Council June 1st, 1908, and June 8th, 1908, and duly approved by the Mayor, and the $23,500 of Police Station House Bonds called for by resolutions adopted by the Common Council May 11th, 1908, and June 8th, 1908, and duly approved by the Mayor.

The School Bonds referred to are in denominations of $1,000 each, and will bear date July 1, 1908, and be payable July 1, 1958. The Police Station House Bonds referred to are in denominations of $500 each, and will bear date July 1, 1908, and be payable serially as follows: July 1, 1909, one bond, and July 1 of each year from 1910 to 1916, both inclusive, two bonds, and July 1 in each year from 1917 to 1928, both inclusive, three bonds. Both School Bonds and Police Station House Bonds will bear interest at the rate of four and one-half per centum (4½%) per annum, payable semi-annually. Principal and interest will be payable in gold coin of U. S. of the present standard of weight and fineness. The forms of both sets of bonds and coupons are on file in the office of the City Clerk and there open to inspection by bidders. The bonds will be delivered to the purchasers on July 1st, 1908, at the office of the City Treasurer of the City of Plainfield, N. J., or at the option of the purchasers on written notice to the City Clerk, at the office of the Columbia Trust Company in the City of New York.

A certified check for two per cent. (2%) of the face value of the bonds bid for, payable to the Treasurer of the City of Plainfield, N. J., must accompany each bid. All such checks except the checks of the party or parties whose bids shall be accepted will be promptly returned by the City Treasurer. If all bids are rejected, all checks will be returned. All proposals for bids must be submitted in the forms of proposal especially prepared for that purpose, copies of which may be obtained from the City Clerk or from the Columbia Trust Company in the City of New York. The legality of the issue has been examined by Delafield & Longfellow, Esqs., of New York City, whose favorable opinion will be furnished to the purchasers.

The bonds will be engraved under the supervision of and certified as to genuineness by the Columbia Trust Company of New York City. Each proposal together with the certified check accompanying the same shall be enclosed in a sealed envelope endorsed "proposal for bonds" and addressed "The Common Council of the City of Plainfield, N. J.," and delivered to the Common Council at the time and place specified in this advertisement.

No bid for less than par and accrued interest will be accepted.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council, together with that of waiving any informalities or defects.

At the time and place appointed, to wit, on Monday, June 29th, 1908, at eight o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 151 North Avenue, Plainfield, N. J., the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the bids or sealed proposals and publicly announce the contents in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, providing said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of the prices and terms upon the minutes of the Common Council.

Dated June 12th, 1908.

By order of the Common Council,

JAMES T. MacMURRAY, City Clerk.

Herzog, who left the Giants and went to his home in Pennsylvania, because of an insulting remark made to him by McGraw, is likely to return to the team. It appears that the player is extremely sensitive and could not stand the gaff. McGraw, it is said, will apologize.

The Clinton Avenues are playing the Jefferson A. A., at Newark, this afternoon, opening the new ball park of the latter club.

William Traffley, at one time a well known baseball player and manager, is dead in Denver, Col., a victim of tuberculosis. He managed Baltimore for a time and piloted the Des Moines (Iowa) team in 1896, when the club won twenty-five consecutive games.

Under the new management of Norman Elberfield, the Yankees are showing improvement in their work. On Thursday in Philadelphia the team played the best ball since going west. Sallings, of the Newark Eastern League club denies that he is to become manager of the Yankees.

Instead of playing the Jr. O. U. A. M., team at Crescent Oval Fourth of July morning, the Clinton Avenues have scheduled a game with the strong Newark Stars. The latter club has been cleaning up everything in this part of the State, but the locals will give them a good run for their money.

The Chicago Nationals are destined to have a stormy time of it before they reach their home grounds and they may not have such a strong hold on first place.

Crandall, of the New York Giants' pitching staff, had his hitherto unscarred reputation blasted at the Polo Grounds on Thursday, when Boston knocked him out of the box and won the game by a score of 14 to 10.

The Yankees will soon be back on their own grounds and their friends are looking for reversal in form which will bring a string of victories to the club.

The Juniors will play the Garwood A. C., at the latter place this afternoon. The last contest between these teams was won by the Plainfield boys.

The Trenton and Johnstown Tri-State League Clubs will play at Elizabethport, tomorrow afternoon.

GOLF.

Matters continue to progress steadily at the Peconic Bay "ideal" course, from which so much is expected. C. B. Macdonald goes to Shinnecock Hills regularly to direct the work, and parties of the subscribers are occasional visitors to look things over. The grass is having the full season to grow and in the fall the bunkers will be put in.

In a four ball match that included the two Wheelers and W. Nichols, the Brooklawn Country Club professional, George F. Sparling, made the new record for that course of 71 on Tuesday. The Bridgeport links is of nine holes, distances 271, 227, 495, 343, 223, 612, 167, 310 and 321 yards, and in splendid condition this season. For the round of 2,969 yards the bogey is 80 and the par score 74. Sparling made the first circuit in 36, and he cut this a stroke the second time by getting a 4 on the foruth. Brooklawn compels plenty of playing, and while hilly it is a fair course, using the term as the opposite of a tricky, unfair one, so often met with where the holes are somewhat of the short order.

A suggestion has more than once been voted down at the Metropolitan Golf Association meetings to permit visiting from links to links by the presentation of a personal card or a card from one's club secretary. At many clubs, especially at the summer resorts, the object has been attained by the institution of transient privileges for one day, a week or longer. The Salisbury Plains course at Garden City, besides being the home of the Midland Golf Club, is open to transients who happen that way and have any golfing affiliations at all. At the clubs that do not so actively feature transient play the custom is that a day visitor must be a non-resident and be introduced by a member, in person or by a letter to the house clerk. However admitted, the statutory charge is $1 for a day's use of the course.

The results of the second round of match play for the vice-president's cup presented by G. W. Lembke of the Fox Hills Golf Club were as follows: H. F. Ives beat F. S. Pusey, 5 up and 4 to play; Dr. A. H. Thomas beat C. Joost, Jr., 3 up and 2 to play; J. A. Jarvin beat G. E. Fawcett, 4 up and 2 to play; F. Bruce beat J. P. Ryan, 1 up.

A. Z. Huntington, the Metropolitan Golf Association crack player of a decade ago, forms with W. E. Woodruff and H. H. Pease the tournament committee of the Wyoming Valley Country Club of Wilkesbarre, Pa., which holds its annual open amature tournament next Friday and Saturday. The course is of nine holes, 2,900 yards, with a splendid fair green, but not bunkered overmuch and putting greens at least thirty yards square. The match players will qualify in sets of eight, and New Yorkers will be welcomed.

The annual invitation tournament of the Deal Golf and Country Club will be on August 20 to 22. The Deal members will play throughout that month except on the tournament Saturday for a cup presented by P. W. Kendall.

Continuation of play for the club championship and the weekly competition for the Spring Handicap cups will be the attraction at the Plainfield Country Club, today. The championship contest should result in several low scores.

There will be plenty doing at the Park Golf Club, this afternoon, when the members will engage in play for the several challenge trophies, as well as for the President's Golf Club and Summer cups.

Women golfers of the Forest Hill Field Club played for prizes under difficulties Wednesday afternoon. Handsome trophies had been offered for an eighteen-hole medal play handicap, and despite the heat quite a number started out bravely.

As it often happens in golf as well as in other branches, "the early bird catches the worm." At all events, Mrs. H. B. Salmon, with a card of 113, 20—93, and Mrs. C. H. Dickson with 118, 20—98, got around before the storm. These cards were the best returned, and, while there were other contestants, who might have done as well or better, the matter must ever remain in doubt, as the violent storm which broke about 5 o'clock caused many to run to cover, completely forgetting for the time being all about the prizes.

Later on, however, when the clubhouse was reached and the unfortunate ones got to talking it over, the point was raised that it wasn't fair to rule out a number who had been so unfortunate as to get caught in the storm. One of the committeemen heard their complaints with becoming deference and respect and gave assurances that the matter would be considered, but golf rules are golf rules and the chances are that prizes will go to the women whose scores were given above.

Golfers generally will be surprised to learn that Will Anderson, the former Baltusrol professional, now connected with the Onwentsia Club, was seriously ill in the spring. His recovery must have been complete, however, else he could hardly have succeeded in winning the Western open title at St. Louis last week with the unusually low score of 299.

On July 2, 3 and 4 the Apawamis Club of Rye, N. Y., will run off its invitation tournament. Conditions call for a thirty-six-hole medal play qualification round. The Apawamis Club had to omit its tourney last summer because of the burning of its clubhouse.

SHAMROCKS WILL GROW IN NEW JERSEY SOD

The fond delusion of many loyal sons of Erin that the shamrock will grow nowhere but in the "ould sod" has been dispelled, for William Mack of New Brunswick, has a fine collection of them that were nurtured and raised in good New Jersey soil.

These dainty sprigs of green sprung from some shamrock seed which was sent to John F. Downing, former assistant postmaster of New Brunswick, of that city, by the Editor of the Home News from Ireland last summer. Mr. Downing proposed to see if they could be turned to practical use, so gave them to Mr. Mack. The latter is a driver for George Kuhn, the cigar manufacturer of George street, and is also an expert florist, having one of the choicest and best kept gardens in town. The way Mr. Mack experimented with these shamrocks was a revelation. He had to try them very carefully in various kinds of soil to find out what they liked best, and finally had to mix several kinds of soil together. It was hard and exacting work, but the florist persevered and was rewarded by a bed of sixty shamrock plants.

Not content with that he took up each of the tiny shoots and put it into a separate flower pot and tended each one as carefully as he would the choicest orchid. All prospered finely and Mr. Mack has been able to present a number of his friends with a shamrock whose genuineness is beyond question, and which is actually thriving in American soil.

In a short time each of the plants will send up a tiny flower. Mr. Mack hopes to get more seed from these and will continue his shamrock raising industry.

Mr. Boyd also sent some shamrock seed to John White, of the New Brunswick post office, who is also endeavoring to raise them.

BATTLE WITH MAD CAT.

Family Pet Attacks Woman Near Blairstown and Has to Be Shot.

Blairstown, June 27.—As the family of Edgar Albertson gathered for supper at their home in Far View last night, a large Maltese cat that for years had been suddenly furious and attacked one of the women.

The animal snarled and ran about with teeth exposed and seemed about ready to spring upon her, when Mr. Albertson rushed to her rescue with a chair and succeeded in beating off the cat. After a fierce fight in was driven from the porch, fighting and attempting to spring all the while, until a shotgun was procured and the cat was killed. A few moments before this occurrence the eighteen-month old baby of the family had been playing with the cat, and had been encouraged to make friends with the animal by the family.

REFORMATORY SCHOOL CLOSING

State Institution Scholars at Rahway Share in Final Exercises.

Rahway, June 27.—The closing exercises of the seventh term of the Reformatory Institution School, held yesterday, were largely attended. An industrial exhibit of work done by the inmates was opened in assembly hall and exercises were held yesterday afternoon. An address was made by Rev. Dr. D. S. Hamilton, followed by a debate, vocal solos, recitations, musical features and dancing.

The judges of the debate were Rev. Dr. George B. Wright, commissioner of charities and corrections; Richard H. Wilson, president New Jersey Reformatory Commission, and Rev. Dr. Edward C. Griffin, acting instructor. Battalion drill and dress parade followed.

DID NOT WED IN HASTE.

Mt. Holly, June 27.—A marriage that took place in this city last evening ended a courtship covering a period of twenty-five years. The bridegroom was Philip McGarven, of Philadelphia, and the bride Miss Maria Leddie, of Mt. Holly. The latter had been employed at the residence of John R. Howell for twelve years. Yesterday morning Miss Leddie was missing. Mrs. Howell found a note from her in which she stated that she was going to get married. She went to Philadelphia and met her lover. Returning to Mt. Holly in the evening they were married by Rev. Peter J. Hart.

The couple fell in love while attending school together in Ireland.

A Timely Hint.

During the hot summer months we are apt to abuse our stomachs. We are frequently tempted too eat too much fruit, or drink too much ice water or other chilled beverages. The stomach quickly rebels against abuses of this kind and gets out of order.

During the hot weather great care and moderation should be exercised in eating and drinking. If, however, your stomach should get out of order, Cooper's New Discovery, which can be obtained at all druggists, is a very efficacious remedy. It is one of the best stomach remedies on the market, and rarely fails to restore a disordered stomach to a normal condition.

FINDS FORMER SERVANT WEARING STOLEN GOWN.

Summit, June 27.—When Mrs. George A. Fischer went to her room in her home at 23 Montclair avenue last night she discovered a rose-colored silken dinner gown valued at $75 was missing, also a half dozen costly summer dresses, with many silken undergarments and a costly "Merry Widow" hat.

Mrs. Fischer notified the police, and Officer MacNamara was put on the case. He learned that Lulu Soup a colored servant, who had worked for Mrs. Fischer about three weeks, had been discharged yesterday and, aided by Mr. and Mrs. Fischer, he began a search about town for the girl.

As they walked along Railroad avenue Mrs. Fischer saw her former servant dressed in the new dinner gown and hat standing in the centre of an admiring group of colored men at a merry-go-round in Railroad avenue.

When the girl saw Mrs. Fischer she made a dash, but she was arrested and taken to the police station. There a search disclosed Lulu was wearing one of the silk undergarments, and the other dresses were later recovered in a house in Cestnut avenue. The girl gave her address as 20 Cook avenue, Madison, and gave her age as sixteen years. She was committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury.

LENTZ HITS COUNTY BOARD.

Says It Had no Right to Jack Up Assessments.

Bayonne, June 27.—Major Carl Lentz, at the session of the State Board of Equal Eaxation here Thursday, raked the county board over the coals. It heard more than forty appeals from taxes levied on residential property, and in each instance granted the reduction asked on the ground that the assessment was grossly excessive and that the increase was improperly made. The appeal heard are but a small proportion of those filed. It is estimated that if the board follows its rulings of yesterday the total redustions on residential property will aggregate $2,000,000.

It transpired when the first case was heard that the increases were not made according to the judgment of the local assessor, Arias Brooke, but were arbitrarily ordered by the County Board for the Equalization of Taxes.

Major Lentz became highly incensed when he learned the method pursued by the county board, which, without specifying parcels of property to be assessed, arbitrarily ordered the local assessor to increase the ratables of Bayonne by $2,721,000.

He said the county board had exceeded its authority and had no warrant in law for its act. He said that had an appeal been taken when the order of the county board was made, the State board would have reversed its order.

REV. E. J. MEEKER RESIGNS.

Quits Pastorate of Highland Park Refromed Church, New Brunswick.

New Brunswick, June 27.—Rev. E. J. Meeker has resigned as pastor of the Highland Park Reformed church, the resignation to take effect on August first. The cause is ill health. He has been pastor of the Highland Park Reformed church since 1904, this being his third charge since he was licensed to preach in 1899. He was born in Succasunna in 1868 and graduated from Rutgers College here in 1896.

Three years later he finished his course at the Theological Seminary. That year he became pastor of the Reformed church at Mohawk, N. Y., and the following year went to Fort Herkimer. He came to Highland Park church from that charge. He and Mrs. Meeker will return to their former home at Sprakerville, N. Y., for the present.

FATHER'S ADVICE IN WILL.

Gilbert Lafayette Crowell Tells His Children to Live in Unity and Read Psalm 133.

Jersey City, June 27.—The will of Gilbert Lafayette Crowell, father of Town Attorney J. Franklin Crowell, of Kearny, was probated before Surrogate John P. Egan yesterday afternoon. After giving to his grandson, Gilbert Crowell Beech, of 2816 Kenmore avenue, Chicago, his gold watch and chain, and all his household goods to his son, Gilbert L. Crowell, Jr., he directs that all the residue of his real and personal estate be divided between his children, Mina D. C. Parker, Joseph F. Crowell, Margaret U. Nichols, Anthony A. Crowell, Gilbert Lafayette Crowell Jr., and Gilbert C. and Elizabeth Beech, children of his deceased daughter, Caroline M. Beech.

Near the end of the will Mr. Crowell gave his parting advice to his children, in which he said:

"I hope and pray that my children, one and all, will be satisfied with what I have done, and wish all to live in unity with each other, and I commend them to read the 133d Psalm and live up to it as far as possible."

The will was made June 11 last, the witnesses being Frank Koch and Emil Stremlan, both of Kearny.

The Trojans of Elizabeth are playing the locals on the home grounds this afternoon.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The Good Government Club held its monthly business meeting last evening in Temperance Hall. The principal matter under dicussion was the proposed auto-bus line. This subject was introduced by Milton Mendel in an able speech in which he presented the careful preliminary work that had been done; the interest displayed by private residents, and business men in this village, in Metuchen, and in Plainfield; and the general outlook for the scheme. The club, after hearing Mr. Mendel, promised its hearty support. The remainder of the evening was chiefly devoted to the consideration of the forthcoming Independence Day celebration. Posters for this event, it was remarked, had already been sent to Somerville, Metuchen, New Brunswick, New Market, Plainfield and indeed throughout a wide area; and arrangements for a great gathering were nearing completion.

The Baptist pulpit will be occupied as usual tomorrow by the Rev. C. W. F. Attlee. The subjects of the sermons will be: Morning, "Turning, Serving, Waiting;" afternoon, "A Study from the Psalms of David." The pastor will be in charge of the Christian Endeavor meeting on Sunday evening. The topic will be "Henry Martyn, and Missions in India."

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorne are spending the week end in Orange, with relatives.

WATER TRUST BLOCKED.

Jersey City Denies it Privilege of Laying Main in Street.

Jersey City, June 27.—The East Jersey Water Company, through its selling agent, the North Hudson Water Company, was again blocked yesterday by Mayor Wittpenn and the Street and Water Board in its effort to supply the Lackawanna Railroad with water.

The application was made for the company by ex-Senator William D. Edwards, who asked consent to lay a water main across West Side avenue. He said the company wanted to be on friendly terms with Jersey City.

Mayor Wittpen replied that the recent action in West Hudson towns did not bear out Mr. Edward's assertion. He mentioned the steps taken by Harrison in extending a fifteen-year contract with the water company, which has ten years yet to go, for ten years more at the of $82.50 a million gallons. Harrison, the Mayor said, used over 3,000,000 gallons a day and Jersey City offered to supply water at $60 a million gallons.

Mayor Wittpenn declared that the action of the Harrison officials in extending the contract must have been prompted by the water compny because it burdened the town $22.50 for each million gallons used for the next twenty years.

REJECTED BY W. J. BRYAN.

Francis and Bailey Undesirable Running Mates.

Lincoln, Neb., June 27.—William J. Bryan today rejected the suggestion of David R. Francis as a possible Vice-Presidential nominee or as a possible manager of the Democratic Presidential campaign. Mr. Brinton, of Denver, one of the zealous friends of Francis, called on Bryan and was told that Mr. Francis would not be acceptable, so far as the Nebraskan himself is concerned, either for the second place on the national ticket or as the campaign manager, because of his Standard Oil interests.

Senator Joseph Weldon Bailey, of Texas, also was stamped "unavailable" when he was suggested as temporary chairman of the convention or chairman of the committee on resolutions. Bryan declared too prominently in the Water-Pierce Oil Company affairs in his home State.

RAILROAD BOOM.

New Jersey to Get Part of Lackawanna Improvements.

The Lackawanna Railroad Company has decided to make $11,000,000 worth of improvements, beginning at once, and involving the employment of thousands of men. Much of this vast sum will be spent in New Jersey. The board of directors has ordered the construction at once of a cut-off line from Lake Hopatcong to Slateford, Pa., a distance of twenty-eight miles, and shortening the route to Buffalo by eleven miles.

Millions of dollars will be spent in terminal facilities. Most of the improvements have been ordered to be started at once in anticipation of the great increase in business this fall. All crops are expected to surpass record mark. For that reason the Lackawanna is ordering the immediate construction of much new rolling stock, including locomotives and freighht cars.

WINS $4,000 VERDICT.

Walker Gets Damages, but Trolley Company May Appeal.

A verdict of $4,000 was returned by a jury in favor of William C. Walker in the Circuit Court at Newark, Thursday afternoon at the trial of his action for $5,000 damages against the Public Service Railway Company.

Walker lives in Bloomfield and on October 26, 1906, was one of the victims of a collision between two trolley cars in that place. His principal injury was to the right eye, although his head and back were hurt.

It is likely that the case will be appealed because of the size of the verdict.

HAY NEAR FUNERAL PYRE.

Set on Fire by Boys—Sleeping Driver Badly Scorched.

Jersey City, June 27.—Alexander Smith, a driver for Contractor M. T. Connolly, had a narrow escape from death by fire Thursday at Grand street and Bramhall avenue, when a gang of boys set fire to hay on a wagon in which Smith was dozing.

The fire surrounded Smith as he lay in the hay, and before he awoke to a full realization of his danger he was considerably burned. An alarm was telephoned to Engine Company No. 8, and the firemen extinguished the blaze with chemical streams.

Schoolboy a Pastor.

New Brunswick, June 27.—Harry Relyea, son of Edward S. Relyea, of thhis city, and grandson of Rev. Milton Relyea, for many years a member of the New Jersey Methodist Conference, has been assigned to the pastorate of the Methodist church at Lavanlette, Ocean county. The assignment was made by Rev. Dr. J. B. Handley, presiding elder of the district. Young Relyea has just been graduated from the local high school. He has often been called upon during the past two years to fill pulpits and was made a local preacher while still in school. He will enter Drew Seminary in September.

LEGISLATIVE CLUB ATLANTIC'S GUEST.

Atlantic City, June 27.—Trenton newspaper men, members of the New Jersey Legislative Club were guests of the city yesterday on an outing, which included inspection of the new inland waterways to be deepened for the use of local and visiting yachtsman. After a lunch at the Atlantic City Yacht Club, where the visitors were guests of Mayor Stoy and Commodore Kuernle, the inspection trip was made aboard the yacht Maud J., Captain Johnson, of Anglesea, which had been sent here for the occasion.

The visitors were given a rolling-chair ride on the boardwalk this evening and were entertained by proprietors of several favorite cafes. An impromptu luncheon at the Old Vienna completed the entertainment program of the visit.

By committee on bridge on Berkeley Heights road, New Providence.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your committee on bridge on road leading from Berkeley to Union Village by the Sates place, would respectfully report that they have made a thorough examination of the said bridge and found it in a dangerous condition, and recommend that the said bridge be replaced with an iron beam, brick or concrete arch bridge at an expense not exceeding $400.

Respectfully submitted,
BRADFORD JONES,
PETER H. MEISEL,
JOHN H. STEPHAN,
Committee.

Freeholder Wilbur moved that the report be received and recommendation be adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the committee on Westfield avenue bridge, Union township, as follows:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, N. J.:

Gentlemen—The committee on Westfield avenue bridge, near Walter Mooney's hotel, respectfully reports that it has examined the bld bridge and finds it in very bad condition, and would recommend a new bridge with stone walls, iron beams and brick arches at a cost not to exceed $1,000.

NOAH WOODRUFF,
J. LOGAN FAY,
ELSTON DARBY,
Committee.

Freeholder Cady moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the County Road Committee:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—Your committee on County Roads would report that the bids for the State Aid road on North Broad street and on West Grand street were received by the Committee on County roads on May 26, 1908, and the work was awarded to the following named contractors, they being the lowest bidders for the work:

North Broad street, etc., awarded to E. C. Humphrey & Co., of Hackensack, N. J.

West Grand street, etc., awarded to James C. Park, of Cranford, N. J.

Respectfully submitted,
E. K. ADAMS,
GEORGE B. CLADEK,
THOMAS J. PIERSON,
HENRY KROUSE,
S. P. T. MILBUR,
County Road Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Cady received and placed on file.

By committee on Willow avenue bridge, Roselle Park.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County:

Gentlemen—Your committee, appointed with power, would respectfully report that it has examined the old bridge on Willow avenue and found it in very bad condition and contracted for a new bridge with James G. Moore for the sum of $198.

NOAH WOODRUFF,
JOSEPH PERRY,
J. HERVEY DOANE,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur received and placed on file.

By the Committee on Curtis street bridge, Linden.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your committee appointed to investigate the need of a bridge at Curtis street, over West Brook, Linden, N. J., would respectfully report that it has examined the site of the proposed bridge, and finds that the street is graded and that there is now a temporary bridge at the place which was built by the owners of lands there.

Your committee revorts that is of the opinion that a new bridge should be built at the place named, and would recommend that such action be taken by the board.

Your committee would recommend the construction of a new bridge, either of steel beam construction or of concrete arch construction, twenty-five feet span by thirty-six feet wide at a cost not to exceed the sum of $2,500.

HENRY KROUSE,
CHARLES A. SMITH,
D. P. McGOVERN,
Committee.

Freeholder Wilbur moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the County Road Committee:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—The County Road Committee would respectfully report on the matter of the application of the N. Y. and N. J. Telephone Company in reference to putting subways along the county roads in Westfield that the application has been granted.

E. K. ADAMS,
HENRY KROUSE,
S. P. T. WILBUR,
GEORGE B. CLADEK,
THOMAS J. PIERSON,
County Road Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Cady, received and placed on file.

Freeholder Jones reported progress on Division avenue bridge in New Providence township.

Freeholder Smith reported progress on South Broad street bridge in the town of Westfield.

New Business.

By Freeholder Doane:

Resolved. That the plans and specifications for headstones for marking graves of deceased soldiers, sailors or marines to be furnished by the Board of Chosen Freeholders in accordance with the provisions of an act entitled "An act respecting the burial of the bodies of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines, and marking their graves with suitable headstones, and the care and preservation of their graves," approved March 20, 1902, designed to be used in Winfield Scott Post Burial Plot in Hillside Cemetery, Plainfield, Union county, New Jersey, be and the same are hereby approved; and be it further

Resolved, That a properly prepared draft in duplicate of such design and suecifications duly certified by the clerk of this board be forwarded to the office of the Adjutant General of the State of New Jersey for the approval of the authorities designated in said act; and be it further

Resolved, that the design hereby submitted and approved, be applicable only to the location above referred to, namely, in Winfield Scott Post Burial Plot in Hillside Cemetery, Plainfield, N. J.; and be it further

Resolved, That the cost of said headstones shall not exceed fifteen dollars each as provided for in said act.

Freeholder Cladek moved the adoption of the foregoing resolutions, which was duly seconded.

Copies of the plan and specifications as provided in the foregoing resolutions, were submitted, also the following letter was read from the Adjutant General:

Trenton, May 11, 1908.

Mr. William R. Codington,
Plainfield, New Jersey.

Sir—I have yours of May 1 relative to headstones at the graves of soldiers, sailors and marines, buried or to be buried, in the soldiers' plot in Hillside Cemetery, Plainfield, New Jersey.

You ask whether, by the act approved March 20, 1902, and the approved design for such headstones (Circular No. 3, May 8, 1902), there is a limit to one form of stone in every county throughout the State.

In reply you are informed that the intention of the authorities mentioned in the act and who approve the design, material and cost of such headstone is, that the headstones furnished by the county authorities should be of the dsign approved by them and be uniform in all the counties of the State.

You also ask whether a stone of the character and design set forth in a design and specifications submitted with wour communication could not be designated for your particular location—Hillside Cemetery—instead of the design approved by the Governor, Adjutant General and Quartermaster-General.

You are informed that there appears to be no objection to the plan and specifications you submit, provided the Board of Freeholders rst approves them, by resolution; that a properly pepared draft in duplicate of such design and specifications from the Board of Freeholders be submitted to this office for the approval of the authorities designated in the act; that they specify in writing that the design they approve shall only be applicable to the one location—Hillside Cemetery, Plainfield, New Jersey—and that the cost of the same shal not be more than the amount, $15, provided in the act. Designs are returned.

Respectfully,
R. BREINTNALL,
The Adjutant-General.

Freeholder Doane also explained that the stone mentioned in the foregoing resolutions was a flat one, and rested level with the top of the ground, it being the only style of stone that the cemetery authorities would permit to be used in the said plot.

Rfter some further discussion Freeholder Cladek's motion was adopted, receiving eighteen ayes, one not voting and one absent.

By Freeholder Robison:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to meet a committee from Somerset county, to examine the line bridges on Green Brook, between Fanwood, Union county, and North Plainfield, Somerset county, with regard to painting and repairing same and report at next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Robison, Maurer and Doane.

By Freeholder Cladek:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—The bridge over the south branch of the Rahway River on St. George avenue, Rahway, N. J., is at the present time inadequate for the present traffic; therefore be it

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to investigate the same for the purpose of widening and strengthening, or the building of a new bridge, and report at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Stephan the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Cladek, Adams, Wilbur, Woodruff and Fay.

By Freeholder Darby:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appoited to inspect and report the condition of bridge on Mountain road, No. 2, in the Borough of Mountainside, N. J., and report at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Adams the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Darby, Jones and McGovern.

By Freeholder Stephan:

Resolved that a committee of three be appointed to examine and report the condition of Hazelwood avenue bridge, in the City of Rahway, and also the probable cost of repairing the same.

On motion of Freeholder Wilbur the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Stephan, Darby and Perry.

By Freeholder Meisel:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine the bridge on Westfield avenue, Springfield Township, over Taylor,'s Brook, the committee to report at the next meeting as to the advisability of rebuilding a portion of the same together with an estimate of the probable cost.

On motion of Freeholder Perry the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Meisel, Krouse and Pierson.

By Freeholder Wilbur:

Resolved, That a committe of five be appointed by the Director of this board to look after the expenditure of county money under and by virtue of an act entitled "An act respecting the burial of theb odies of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines, the marking of their graves with suitable headstones and the care and preservaion of their graves," approved March 20, 1902; said committee to be a standing committee and make report to this board.

On motion of Freeholder Cady the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The Director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Wilbur, Cady, Smith, Pierson and Cladek.

Freeholder eMisel said he desired to bring before the board the condition of the tracks of the Morris County Traction Company on Morris avenue, and also to call attention to the entire failure of the said company to live up to the conditions as imposed under the franchise granted to said company. Engineer Bauer being present, said that it had been his intention to go over the road with the engineer of the said company and map out the work necessary to be done in order to put the tracks and road in proper condition, but owing to a great amount of other county business he had been unable so to do as yet, but hoped to do so at a very early date.

Freeholder Meisel then gave notice that he would ask at the next meeting of this board for a revocation of the franchise granted to said company, it being understood that the County Attorney meanwhile would communicate with said company relative to the present condition of affairs.

The following bills, properly audited and approved, were read and on roll call unanimously ordered paid, viz:

CHAPTER III.

The Princess Hildegarde of Barscheit! My gloves and riding-crop slipped from my nerveless fingers to the floor. A numbing, wilting sensation wrinkled my spine. The Princess Hildegarde of Bascheit! She stood opposite me, the woman—ought I not to say girl?—for whom I had been seeking, after a fashion, all these months! The beautiful madcap who took the duchy by the ears, every now and then, and tweaked them! The princess herself, here in this lonely old castle into which I had so carelessly stumbled! Romance, enchantment! Oddly enough, the picture of her riding a bicycle flashed through my brain, and this was followed by another, equally engaging, of the hussar who rode cross-country, to the horror of the conservative element at court.

"The Princess Hildegarde!" I murmured stupidly.

"Yes. I have asked you a question, sir. Or shall I put the question in French?"—ironically. "Was it the duke who sent you here?"

There was a look in her superb eyes which told me that it would have been to her infinite pleasure to run a sword through my black and villainous heart. Presently I recovered. With forced calm I stooped and collected my gloves and crop.

"Your highness, what the deuce has the duke to do with my affairs, or I with his? As an American, you would scarcely expect me to meddle with your private affairs. You are the last person in the world I thought to meet this night. I represent the United States in this country, and though I am inordinately young, I have acquired the habit of attending to my own affairs."

From the angry face in front of me I turned to the dismayed face beyond.

"'Wait!' She Commanded."

There must have been a question in my glance. The young woman drew herself up proudly.

"I am the Honorable Betty Moore." (The princess' schoolmate in England!)

Her highness stood biting the knuckle of a forefinger, undecided as to what path of action to enter, to reach a satisfactory end. My very rudeness convinced her more than anything else that I spoke the truth.

"How, then, did you select this particular road?"—still entertaining some doubt.

"It is a highway, free to all. But I have already explained that," I answered quietly. I moved deliberately toward the door, but with a cat-like movement she sprang in front of me. "Well, your highness?"

"Wait!" she commanded, extending an authoritative arm (lovely, too!). "Since you are here, and since you know who I am, you must remain."

"Must?" I repeated, taken aback.

"Must! My presence here ought not to be known to any one. When you witness that which shall take place here to-night, you will understand." Her tone lost its evenness; it trembled and became a bit wild.

"In what manner may I be of service to your highness?" I asked pleasantly, laying aside my gloves and crop again. "I can easily give you my word of honor as a gentleman not to report your presence here; but if I am forced to remain, I certainly demand—"

"Desire," she corrected, the old fire in her eyes.

"Thank you. I desire, then, to know the full reason; for I can not be a party to anything which may reflect upon the consulate. For myself, I do not care." What hare-brained escapade was now in the air?

The princess walked over to the mantel and rested her arms upon it, staring wide-eyed into the fire. Several minutes passed. I waited patiently; but, to tell the truth, I was on fire with curiosity. At length my patience was rewarded.

"You have heard that I am to marry the Prince of Doppelkinn?" she began.

I nodded.

"Doubtless you have also heard of my determination not to marry him?" she went on.

Again I nodded.

"Well, I am not going to marry him."

I was seized with the desire to laugh but dared not. What had all this to do with my detention in the castle?

"Betty," said the princess, turning imploringly to her companion (what a change!), "you tell him."

"I?" The Honorable Betty drew back.

(Had they kidnapped old Doppelkinn? I wondered.)

"I can not tell him," cried her highness miserably, "I simply can not. You must do it, Betty. It is now absolutely necessary that he should know everything; it is absolutely vital that he be present. Perhaps heaven has sent him. Do you understand? Now, tell him!"

And, wonders to behold! she who but a few minutes gone had been a princess in everything, cold, seeing, tranquil, she fled from the room. (Decidedly this was growing interesting. What had they done?) Thus, the Honorable Betty Moore and his excellency, the American consul at Barscheit, were left staring into each other's eyes fully a minute.

"You will, of course, pledge me your word of honor?" She who had recently been timid now become cool and even-pulsed.

"If in pledging it I am asked to do nothing to discredit my office. I am not an independent individual,"—smiling to put her more at ease. (I haven't the least doubt that I would have committed any sort of folly had she required it of me.)

"You have my word, sir, that you will be asked to do nothing dishonorable. On the other hand, you will confer a great favor upon her highness, who is in deep trouble and is seeking a way to escape it."

"Command me," said I promptly.

"Her highness is being forced into marriage with a man who is old enough to be her grandfather. She holds him in horror, and will go to any length to make this marriage an impossibility. For my part, I have tried to convince her of the futility of resisting her royal uncle's will." (Sensible little Britisher!) "What she is about to do will be known only to four persons, one of whom is a downright rascal."

"A rascal?" slipped my lips, half-unconsciously. "I trust that I haven't given you that impression," I added eagerly. (A rascal? The plot was thickening to formidable opaqueness.)

"No, no!" she cried hastily, with a flash of summer on her lips. (What is more charming than an English woman with a clear sense of the humorous?) "You haven't given me that impression at all."

"Thank you." My vanity expanded under the genial warmth of this knowledge. It was quite possible that she looked upon me favorably.

"To proceed. There is to be a kind of mock marriage here to-night, and you are to witness it." She watched me sharply.

I frowned.

"Patience! Not literally a mock marriage but the filling out of a bogus certificate."

"I do not understand at all."

"You have heard of Hermann Steinbock, a cashiered officer?"

"Yes. I understand that he is the rascal to whom you refer."

"Well, this certificate is to be filled out completely. To outwit the duke, her highness commits—"

"A forgery."

"It is a terrible thing to do, but she has gone too far to withdraw now. She is to become the wife of Hermann Steinbock. She wishes to show the certificate to the duke."

"But the banns have not been made public."

"That does not matter."

"But why detain me?" I was growing restless. It was all folly, and no good would come of it.

"It is necessary that a gentleman should be present. The caretaker is not a gentleman. I have said that Steinbock is a rascal. As I review the events, I begin to look upon your arrival as timely. Steinbock is not a reliable quantity."

"I begin to perceive."

"He is to receive 1,000 crowns for his part in the ceremony; then he is to leave the country."

"But the priest's signature, the notary's seal, the iron-clad formalities which attend all these things!" I stammered.

"You will recollect that her highness is a princess of the blood. Seldom is she refused anything in Barscheit." She went to a small secretary and produced a certificate, duly sealed and signed. There lacked nothing but Steinbock's name.

"But the rascal will boast about it! He may blackmail all of you. He may convince the public that he has really married her highness."

"I think not. We have not moved in this blindly. Steinbock we know to have forged the name of the minister of finance. We hold this sword above his head. And if he should speak or boast of it, your word would hold greater weight than his. Do you understand now?"

"Yes, I understand. But I believe that I am genuinely sorry to have blundered into this castle to-night."

"Oh, if you lack courage!" carelessly.

I laughed. "I am not afraid of 20 Steinbocks."

Her laughter echoed mine. "Come, Mr. —— By the way, I believe I do not know your name."

"Warrington—Arthur Warrington."

"That is a very good English name, and a gentleman possessing it will never leave two women in a predicament like this. You will understand that we dare not trust any one at court. Relative to her highness, the duke succeeds in bribing all."

"But a rascal like Steinbock!"

"I know,"—a bit wearily.

"It is pardonable to say that I believe her highness has been very foolish."

The girl made a gesture which conceded the fact. "It is too late to retreat, as I have told you. Steinbock is already on the way. We must trust him. But you?"

"After all, what does a consulate amount to?"

LITERARY

Mix two pounds of whiting and one half ounce of oleic acid with a gallon of gasoline. Stir and mix thoroughly In this compound soak flannel rags of the desired size, then wring out and hang up to dry, being careful to keep them away from a fire or open flame. These cloths will give a fine gloss to silverware, will not soil the hands and will preserve their polishing qualities indefinitely.—Woman's Home Companion for July.

A real war is going on in the heart of our own country. In four states men are burning and blowing up buildings, up-rooting fields, and shooting to kill, if need be. Mr. Day Allen Willey has made an investigation of the Tobacco War and its causes for the Metropolitan Magazine. His article, "The Night Riders" appears in the July number. Professor Hugo Munsterberg, of Harvard University, the celebrated scientist, has an article in the same number on "Hypnotism and Freedom," which weighs the value of hypnotism as a curative agent. An article of great interest is "The Passing of the Ferries," by Jackson Cross, splendidly illustrated with photographic studies by Alvin Langdon Coburn. "Waterloo Today," by Robert Howard Russell, compares the battlefield as it was when Napoleon's army thundered across it, with its present state.

The current number of the popular outdoor magazine Recreation is a special Vacation Number of double size and full to the brim of good things for people who take vacations, whether they have much or little to spend.

The cover is a fine reproduction in full colors of a photograph of a deer swimming across a river. Several forms of this Vacation Number are printed in art tone inks in colors, which bring out the fine illustrations in an unusually attractive manner.

Scribner's Magazine for July opens with a stirring outdoor article by William T. Hornaday, the author of "Camp Fires in the Canadian Rockies," and Curator of the New York Zoological Park. He describes, with many pictures, a famouse trip in the Bad-lands of Montana in pursuit of mule deer. The article is full of adventure and humor by the way, and is fully illustrated by L. A. Huffman, who accompanied the expedition. This is the first of several papers by Mr. Hornaday called "Diversions in Picturesque Game-Lands." A short serial by James B. Connolly begins in this number under the title —"An Olympic Victor." It has to do with the modern Games at Athens and the hero is the winner of the Marathon Run. Mr. Connolly was himself a competitor in the Games and was the first American to win in the contest. It is doubtful whether there has ever been a more stirring description of an athletic contest than in this serial. Castaigne has made a wonderful series of pictures for the serial.

There has never been a period in American history when the public was more eager to learn the attitude of its leaders than in the present election year. In the July Everybody's Lincoln Steffens holds up for the inspection of the voter the views of Mr. Bryan and Governor Johnson, the most prominent of the Democratic leaders. To Mr. Steffens's searching questions have come definite, clear-cut answers—there could be no evasion, no misunderstanding evasion, no misinterpretation of the meaning of each question. The article is strong—as strong as was its predecessor in the June number, where the Republican leaders gave their views upon "What the Matter is in America and What to do About it." Then, too, Charles Edward Russell presents in "The Tenements of Trinity Church" a powerful arraignment of the methods employed by a Christian church towards the wretched dwellers upon its vast and lucrative property.

The July American Magazine is crowded with good reading. "Mr. Dooley" writes a platform for the Democratic party, and has fun with Bryan, Governor Johnson and the other candidates. Octave Mirbeau, writing on "Animals and Automobiles," tells of a motorist's experiences with the beasts of the raod—horses, cows, chickens, dogs, geese, mules and men. A. Poppini's illustrations for this article are as clever as genius can make them. George Fitch describes a visit with Roosevelt, and McCutcheon's cartoons add to the gaiety of the article. G. Stanley Hall writes wonderfully and yet very plainly, about race suicide and the instruction of children during adolescence. Ray Stannard Baker describes "The Black Man's Silent Power."

The South is perpetually interesting. So much, at least, its severest critics concede. It used to be interesting because it was unlike the rest of the country, and insisted on remaining so. It is interesting still; academic and other students of institutions continue to discover and explore it, and seem to find readers for their reports. But the reason if different. Although still measurably peculiar, it now attracts the philosophically minded because it is changing. No other part of the country, in fact, presents today quite such a spectacle of transitions.—From William Garrott Brown's "The South and the Saloon" in the July Century.

An especially noteworthy issue is the Red Book Magazine for July. The leading story, "The Sun Gazer" is one of the best Charles G. D. Roberts, the famous nature-writer, has ever offered his thousands of admirers, and is followed by a Western story in a very new vein by H. T. George Norton, entitled "Node of the Arrow L." A "long short tale" of fashionable country-home life in England, in which a young American figures prominently is "A Week-End" by Mrs. Burton Harrison. Two timely tales concerned with patriotism are "The House of Peace," a striking pictorial presentation of the drama of Lee's surrender, by Clara E. Laughlin, and a most amusing skit by Robert Sloss, entitled "Melanchthon's Peaceful Fourth."

Vacation time is here again, and when you go on your holiday you will be looking for reading matter to while away an occasional lazy hour. At such times one wants something bright and entertaining, and, above all, complete. This description covers the July Lippincott's Magazine.

The leading novelette by Mrs. John Van Vorst is entitled "Second Quality"—this name applies neither to plot or treatment, but rather to the stripe of society people, so-called, who are for the most part foreign born. They rally round the hero, an American millionaire, who goes to Europe to spend his money, and to make friends, which he has neglected to do earlier in life owing to peculiar domestic conditions. The story's denouement is novel and dramatic, while it fully satisfies one's sens of justice; and the sweet, pure love scenes throughout the narrative present a pleasing contrast to its grosser side.

In the July number of "Success Magazine" Michael Williams discusses the body's power of resisting disease, under the title of "Our Billions of Invisible Friends." E. S. Martin's article, "The American Girl Out-of-Doors," is illustrated by Charles Dana Gibson and Francis Day. Samuel Merwin concludes his series on the opium evil in China with an article entitled "Great Britain—the Foe of Reform." W. G. Fitz-Gerald describes elephant-hunting in East Africa, and Will Irwin tells about clairvoyants, under the title, "The Easiest Money There Is." The subject of Orison Swett Marden's editorial is "Expect Great Things of Yourself." The stories of the month are "The Uncertain Heart," by Elliot Flower; "Makin' Me Fadder Enjoy," by Ernest Poole; "Bill and the Magic Coral," by John Fleming Wilson; "The Cloth of Her Country," by Alfred Damon Runyon, and "Lentala," by W. C. Morrow. There are poems by Edmund Vance Cooke, called "The Scapegoat," and "An Apology for Baseball."

The Republican party is not yet ready to surrender bodily to the threats of the union leaders, no matter how powerful may be the influences brought to bear. There is gratifying proof of that in the memorial of the eighteen Republicans to the committee on resolutions of the Chicago convention, asking for the inclusion in its platform of a plank affirming confidence in the courts.—American Industries for June.

NATIONAL COPPER PLANT GOES UNDER THE HAMMER.

The buildings, lands and machinery of the National Copper Company, which went into the hands of a receiver some months ago, went under the hammer at 2 o'clock yesterday in the Courthouse, Nathan R. Leavitt trustee, conducting the sale.

The National Company's plant occupies a tract of land comprising 1,841 acres, and is situated near Bayway, in the southern end of Elizabeth. Its purchase price, it is said, on good authority, was about $2,000. The machinery cost, it is said nearly $50,000, but is not expected to bring anything like that sum.

The sale is held by virtue of an order of the United States District Court and the land is described as situated "on the northwest side of South Front street, 265x25 feet front running back to Amboy avenue, frontage on Amboy avenue, 116x61, and lying on the south side of the Baltimore and New York Railroad, Central sidings."

There went under the hammer the building which consists of one store house, engine room, motor room, foundry; machinery, including gas engines, pumping, machines, briquetting mill smelters, boilers, blowers, hand drill, mixers, conveying machines and other apparatus used in smelting and refining plant.

Rats Will Be a Thing of the Past in Missouri When Winn's Virus Grows Busy.

St. Louis, June 27.—Assistant Health Commissioner Winn announced last night that on Monday he will begin a crusade which he expects will exterminate rats in St. Louis. He has discovered a new virus which he believes will eradicate the pest. Rats from several parts of the city will be inoculated with the virus, and if his theory works, he says within a few months rodents will be unknown in the city. The plan which Dr. Winn will try, is to inoculate several live rats with the virus in a similar manner that a person is vaccinated. He will scrape a leg of the rodent and inject the serum. The virus will cause the rodent to become very sick and get a high fever. The fever will cause it to seek fresh air and thus prevent it from dying in its hole. The disease which is produced by the serum is highly contagious to rats.

Experiments which the physician has made shows the odor emanating from a "patient" attracts other rodents and they in turn become affected with the malady. The rat dies, however, practically without pain.

WOMAN PUTS THIEF OUT.

Lands on His Jaw and He Goes Down For the Count.

Jersey City, June 27.—Mrs. Catherine Callahan, of 161 Wayne street, foiled a would-be purse-snatcher, yesterday morning, by landing a hard right punch on the jaw which sent him to the pavement in a heap.

Mrs. Callahan was walking along Jersey avenue when a well-dressed man, apparently about 25 years old, slipped up beside her and attempted to snatch her pocketbook from her hand. She held on to the purse and sent in a swift right to the theif's jaw, sending him to the pavement for the count. Then she went in search of a policeman. When she found one, the man had recovered from the effects of her blow and had disappeared. In Mrs. Callahan's pocketbook was $30.

Bloodhound Mad in County Jail.

A bloodhound that has been kept in the county jail at Mount Holly to run down murderers became mad this morning and attacked William Sweeney, its keeper. The dog jumped at Sweeney's throat, but he fought it off with a stick and took refuge in the bakehouse. There was great excitement among the prisoners, who remained in their cells all day. The dog belongs to former Assemblymen M. E. Mallack.

Mrs. Mary E. Van Arsdale and son, Phillip V. Van Arsdale, of East Front street, have returned from a visit with Rev. and Mrs. Garret M. Conover, of Rocky Hill.

WOULD STOP CAT CALLS.

Montclair Woman Wants Feline Ordinance Passed Now.

Now that the Montclair dog ordinance has gone into effect, whereby owners of dogs are liable to a fine if their canines should bark above a whisper between the hours of 9 o'clock at night and 6 o'clock the next morning, the Town Council will likely be appealed to for ordinances to stop all kinds of nuicances.

Mrs. T. H. Lord, of 157 Valley road wants to know if the Jersey City lawyer, Charles H. Hartshorne, who fathered the ordinance requiring all dogs to be brought in at the ringing of the curfew bell, will kindly propose a similar one for cats. "Never have I heard anything to compare with the horrible shrieks of the cats of Montclair," said Mrs. Lord.

HURT IN RUNAWAY.

Brake Fails to Work on Steep Hill and Wagon is Wrecked.

Hackensack, June 27.—Joseph Lorenzo, 18 years old, received a compound fracture of a leg, his brother, Tony, 14, had an arm broken and dislocated, and Eugene Lawrence, 13, was badly bruised and cut in a runaway yesterday on a steep hill near Englewood.

The boys, all of whom live here, were in a Macy wagon coming down the hill when the brake refused to work and the wagon crowded on the horses, causing them to run away. The wagon struck against a tree, was wrecked, and the boys were hurled out.

Ball Fractures Leaguer's Skull.

James Murray, right fielder of the Buffalo Eastern League team, is in St. James's Hospital, Newark, with a fracture of the skull as a result of being hit by a pitched ball in the first inning of the game with Newark yesterday afternoon. "Tom" Hughes had two strikes and three balls on Murray, when he threw a swift inshoot which struck the batter just above the left ear. Murray fell, and Drs. Underwood, Crane and Lowy worked over him for half an hour without a sign of returning consciousness. The player was then removed to the hospital, where it was said later he was in a serious condition.

Pope Receives Philadelphians.

Rome, June 27.—The Pope today gave audience to Archbishop Ryan and clergy of Philadelphia, who presented to him their congratulations upon his jubilee and thanked him for the honor conferred upon the archdiocese by the elevation of Monsignor Kennedy, who is rector of the American College at Rome, to the episcopate.

Friends of A. C. Bechstein, of Park avenue learned with regret today that he again last night, had a hemorrhage of the nose. A specialist from New York is attending Mr. Bechstein and no serious results are apprehended.

LACKAWANNA MANDAMUSED

Ignored Commission's Order to Reopen Wyoming Station.

Trenton, June 27.—The Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company was made defendant in mandamus proceedings instituted in the Supreme Court yesterday by the State Board of Railroad Commissioners through the Attorney-General's department. The action is the first brought by the Railroad Commission to enforce its orders under the law creating the board, and will serve to test that statute, there having been some question as to how for the powers of the board extended.

An alternative writ of mandamus was issued against the Lackawanna Company directing it forthwith to comply with an order issued by the State Railroad Commission April 28 last, or show cause at the opening of the next term of the Supreme Court, November 3, why it should not comply therewith.

The order of April 28 directed the Lackawanna Company to reopen its station at Wyoming, N. J., and to furnish adequate train service to the residents of that place. The order has not been complied with.

PREMATURE DISPLAY.

Cigarette Touches Off $2,500 of Fireworks in Englewood.

Englewood, June 27.—A cigarette is believed to have been the cuse of wrecking the store of Robert Livingston, at 68 Palisade avenue, yesterday and destroying $2,500 worth of fireworks. Livingston and his nephew were in the store when the first explosion came, and scurried out. The former escaped with a few cuts on his hand and the boy was uninjured.

They had hardly reached the street when bombs and syrockets went off inr apid succession, ripping the building and setting it afiire.

OLD MAN'S HURTS FATAL.

John Rae, Injured on Broad Street, Dies in Hospital.

John Rae, 80 years old, who fell from a Broad street car in Newark, June 16, died in the City Hospital yesterday. From papers in his pockets it was found the aged man had been an engineer in the U. S. Navy during the Civil War. He had been drawing a pension. He also had a discharge paper from the National Home for Disabled Soldiers.

The police have been asked to find Rae's relatives.

BLOODHOUNDS RUN JAIL.

Get Uncontrollable; Put Keepers to Flight in Mt. Holly.

Mt. Holly, June 27.—Bloodhounds used in the pursuit of criminals became uncontrollable while confined at the jail today and created a panic. They routed the keepers, who fled precipitately from the building, leaving the bloodhounds in possession.

Burglars Held in Heavy Bail.

Bayonne, June 27.—John Coyle, of 129 Garfield avenue, and John Carr, of 98 Brown place, Jersey City, were held yesterday morning in $5,000 bail each by Recorder Lazarus, charged with having assaulted and robbed Mrs. Mildred Cody, of 54 Trask avenue, wife of Maurice J. Cody, editor of the Paper Trade Journal. The crime was committed on June 15 when Mrs. Cody entered her home after a shopping trip to New York. She tackled the thieves but was beaten and kicked into insensibility. Carr and Coyle denied the charge.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Communion services will be held at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church tomorrow morning.

Rev. Dr. Samuel Graham, of Newark, will preach at the First Presbyteian chuch tomorrow morning, and the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring, will occupy his pulpit in the evening.

The First Baptist church Sunday-school will meet tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock and the preaching service will be held at 10:45 o'clock. The evening service will be at 7:45 o'clock as usual.

Rev. E. B. Maynard will preach at the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock and Rev. J. W. Mitchell will preach in the evening at 7:45 o'clock. Sunday-school will meet at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Rev. Asa R. Dilts, of Lowell, Mass., who will occupy the pulpit of the Park Avenue Baptist church on Sunday, August 23, was for several years pastor of this church, and he was warm friends here who are always glad of the opportunity to hear him preach.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Monroe Avenue church held the last meeting of the season last night. After the transaction of business a social time was enjoyed. At the first meeting in October the society will make arrangements for a harvest home.

The Young Women's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, on Central avenue, yesterday afternoon. Miss Ada Fountain gave a review of the devotional topics, Miss Bessie Flanders read a paper on "People and Customs of Siam," and Mrs. Robert Lowry gave a reading.

AN UNHERALDED HEROINE.

A story in two chapters comes out of the West. In the first chapter a misuse of public funds and a betrayal of an official trust figure. In the second chapter devotion, self-sacrifice and heroism in petticoats crop out. Something like a decade ago Henry Barton was city treasurer of Munice, Ind. He went out of office disgraced. His accounts were short. Money which should have gone into the municipal treasury went elsewhere. Bondsmen paid up a part of the deficiency, and Barton hiked out to Los Angeles, where he has since been living with his family. This is chapter No. 1, and it's a dark chapter. Buet Barton has a daughter, who is a stenographer in Los Angeles, and who for years has been scrubbing the stain off the family name. She set out to square her father's accounts with the Indiana city. Whenever she accumulated a surplus of $25 from her earnings she hastened to forward it to the Muncie officials. Persistently, patiently and uncomplainingly she has pursued the hard task, and one instalment after another has been paid. The Muncie officials offered to ancel the debt, but Miss Barton declined to accept the suggestion. She kept pegging away and paying up. This week the last dollar of the father's shortage was made good by the daughter. This is chapter No. 2, and it's a bright chapter. Miss Marguerite Barton is a genuine heroine. The qualities which she displayed in voluntarily assuming and discharging an obligation disclose a fine piece of womanhood and reveal a splendid chastity of honor. The self-sacrifice which she underwent to clear the stigma from the family name shines forth like a torch gilding the mountain top. No battlefield ever brought out a better brand of heroism than was displayed by Miss Barton, who trod the winepress alone, and who was not spurred on by excitement, by music and by an obvious opportunity to win martial glory.

THE CURLING IRON AND THE HAIRDRESSER.

A hairdresser has declared that the curling iron made the hairdressers wealthy.

"My customers," said he, "curl their hair at home and burn it off. Then they come to me to buy artificial hair. Each curling iron sold is worth $50 to a hairdresser, for it means that the woman will come to him for repairs.

"Yet the curling iron is all right if you do not get it too hot, and if you keep it moving. Te professional hairdresser perpetually turns the iron so that it does not rust the hair. Rust is the term applied to that peculiar reddish condition of the hair when it has been curled too often with the hot iron.

"The hairdresser takes a lock of hair in the tongs and gently lifts it; then he clasps it tightly and twists its lowly and carefully until, with the utmost caution, he deposits a curl of hair upon the forehead. How differently the amatuer works.

"The amateur bent upon hair curling takes a lock in the tongs and grasps it as though it was something trying to escape. She clasps the tongs with a tight hand and twists the lock right down to the scalp; she stands and holds the iron, letting it do its full share of damage. Lock after lock is twisted up in this way, and the hair is both scorched and tortured.

"Nor does she curl it as well. The hair is peculiar in that it needs to be coaxed."

HELPFUL HINTS FOR THE HOUSEHOLD.

A brisk rubbing with alcohol and salt will freshen the soiled coat collar marvelously.

The skin from a boiled ham will be more easily removed if as soon as being taken from the boiling liquor the ham be plunged into cool water for a moment.

Casters on the legs of the kitchen table will be found a great convenience. When this article of furniture is to be moved there will be no danger of straining one's self.

Chiffon and other sheer material can be stitched more satisfactorily if under the hem to be stitched one puts a piece of newspaper. This can easily be removed when the stitching is finished.

When cooking new green peas add a few pods to them and you will find the flavor improved.

A neat string box comes in leather. It has the usual opening in the cover for the string itself to come through, and on the side is an extra pocket into which is fitted a pair of scissors.

Do not cut heavy cord or cardboard with scissors, for it will spread the blades and destroy the usefulness of the scissors. Keep a knife for this purpose.

Orange Paper Absorbs Rivals.

Additional changes in the newspaper field were announced yesterday. "The Orange Chronicle," which passed last week into the control of a company of which Harlan P. Brush, formerly consul at Milan, Italy, is president, has purchased "The Orange Journal," "The East Orange Gazette" and "The South Orange Bulletin," all of which will con consolidated with "The Chronicle."

Kuser Head of Bridge Board.

Trenton, June 26.—At a meeting of the Hudson River Bridge Commission yesterday, Colonel A. R. Kuser was chosen president and F. N. Everhard secretary. Alfred B. Boller, of East Orange, will be engineer for the board. Other members of the commission present were F. R. Long and E. D. Smith.

Cleaning and Polishing.

To polish plate glass and remove slight scratches, rub the surface gently, first with a clean pad of the fine cotton-wool, and afterward with a similar pad covered with velvet which has covered with a fine rouge. The surface, will, under this treatment, acquire a polish of great brilliancy, quite free from any scratches.

PASSING OF THE SALOON

By REV. A. C. DIXON, D. D., Pastor of the Chicago Ave. (Moody's) Church, Chicago.

I have studied conditions in the south, where the saloon is being swept away by a cyclone of ballots. The explanation is easy.

1. It is the revolt of knowledge against ignorance. The evil effects of alcohol have been taught in home, school, Sunday school and church till the new generation of voters are convinced that it ought to be banished from the earth. "It is the growth of manhood," said a leader in the movement.

2. It is the revolt of home love against the home destroyer. The southern people love their homes and they have determined that the destroyer shall be destroyed.

Liberty Against Slavery.

3. It is the revolt of liberty lovers against the slavery of their fellows. "A Liberty League" pleads for the perpetuity of the saloon, which makes more slaves than any other institution on earth. Drunkards are slaves of appetite, and 100,000 of them are killed every year by their cruel master. Liberty to fill coffers by selling what enslaves manhood and womanhood is as un-American as it is un-Christian, and the people are waking up to the fact.

Humanity Against Barbarity.

4. It is the revolt of humanity against barbarity. The saloon is the mother and fosterer of lunacy, idiocy, pauperism and crime. It is not humane but rather barbarous to legalize and protect the cause of these great evils. The highest civilization seeks to prevent, so that cure shall not be needed.

Church Lovers Against Church Haters.

5. It is the revolt of Bible and church lovers against Bible and church haters. The champion blasphemer of Chicago, who evidently hates the Bible and the church, is also the champion of the saloon. Though he asserts that he does not believe in the historic existence of Jesus, he draws his little argument from his turning water into wine and informs us that Jesus commanded his followers to use intoxicating wine in the Lord's Supper. In this he shows his usual capacity for ignorance. He ought to know that the contents of the sacramental cup are nowhere called wine, but the "fruit of the vine," and alcohol is not a fruit of the vine, but the rotten fruit of a process of decomposition which takes place after the juice has been removed from the vine. He ought also to know that fermented wine was never used in the Passover feast, for every Jew was required to remove from his house all leaven in solids or liquids. He ought also to know that the unfermented juice of the grape was the beverage of kings as is seen by the fact that the butler pressed the grapes into Pharaoh's cup. (Gen. 40:11.)

Business Sagacity Against Illusion.

6. It is the revolt of business sagacity against the illusion that the saloon helps business. Asheville, N. C., voted the saloon out last October, and the only business embarrassed, I am informed, is jailkeeping and chaingang overseeing.

Patriotism Against Lawlessness.

7. It is the revolt of patriotism against lawlessness. The plea that "prohibition does not prohibit" is proving a boomerang to the liquor traffic, for the people are beginning to see that it really means "we will not obey law." The ruler of this country does not live in the White House or a governor's mansion, or sit in a wig and gown on the judge's bench. The sovereign that rules president, governor, judge and mayor is LAW, and a conspiracy against the enforcement of law is beginning to be seen in its true light as treason against the life of our American ruler. The state of Georgia, through its representatives in the legislature, drove the saloon out, and the city of Atlanta has not been discussing whether it will obey the law of the state. Atlanta has had enough of secession, and her patriotic citizens believe in state sovereignty over the city.

But let us remember that the great mission of Christ and the church is to the individual, and we would lead drunkard, moderate drinker, liquor seller and liquor voter to the "Lamb of God that taketh away the sin of the world." If all men would get right with God through Jesus Christ the great problems which perplex the public mind would soon be settled.

Drunkenness Ruins Homes.

Hon. Carroll D. Wright, while United States commissioner of labor, made the following assertion: "I have looked into a thousand homes of the working people of Europe; I do not know how many in this country. I have tried to find the best and the worst; and while, as I say, the worst exists, and as bad as under any system, or as bad as in any age, I have never had to look beyond the inmates to find the cause; and in every case, so far as my observation goes, drunkenness was at the bottom of the misery and not the industrial system or the industrial conditions surrounding the men and their families."

CARE OF HOUSE PLANTS.

Ornamental house plants, such as ferns, foliage and flowers too delicate to place in the yard, even in the steam-heated flat in winter, if the proper moisture is given. A fine spray is absolutely necessary for keeping the leaves clean on the upper and lower sides of plants. It also washes off all insects.

Rain water contains a certain percentage of ammonia ingredients that is essential to plant life and also acts as a fertilizer. This is so essential that house plants should be treated with fresh rain water when possible or ammonia should be added to the water when flowers are washed.

Young chrysanthemums plants grow much stronger when treated with ammonia baths. Being denied all advantages of outdoor plants, the house plant clamors for proper nourishment and not merely the daily bath. Plant food is very inexpensive and can be bought from any reliable seed house. It should be used at least once a week for strengthening the flowers.

All flowers grown in the house must have plenty of air, though they should not be in a draught, and sunshine is absolutely necessary, though only in the forenoon.

FOR THE SUPERSTITIOUS.

If when washing dishes you forget an article it is a sign you will hear of a wedding.

If you sing while making bread you will cry before it is eaten.

If your apron becomes untied it is an indication that somebody is speaking of you.

To forget to put coffee in the coffee pot is the sign of a coming gift.

To accidentally place the teakettle on the stove with the spout toward the back is a sign of company.

If a coal of fire falls on the floor it is a sign of stranger is coming to see you.

If, after sweeping a room, the broom is accidentally left in a corner, strangers will visit the house that day.

Ban on Hackensack Sunday Ball.

MATERIAL RESURRECTION

Rev. Dr. Herring Gives the Thirteenth Talk in Series on the Creed.

AS TO THE OTHER WORLD.

"Because Heaven Is So Human a Place, We Shall Recognize Our Friends," Says Minister.

Interesting instruction relating to the resurrection of the body was the feature of the sermon by Rev. Dr. C. E. Herring at the First Presbyterian church, last night, it being another discourse in the series on "The Apostles Creed." Taking for his theme "The Resurrection of the Body," Dr. Herring spoke as follows:

"The Resurrection of the Body—You believe in the resurrection of the soul—You believe that though the body perishes, that which was the life of the body lives. You believe that your dear ones have not died but that they have gone in to the heavenly world even though you have placed their bodies in the grave. But the resurrection of the body, of what particular value is that thought to your practical life?

"There must be some helpfulness in the thought of the resurrection of the body or else it would not be found as an article of the creed, and it would not be in the creed unless it was a great revelation in Scripture.

"The creed, therefore, teaches this great truth in the other world we shall have material bodies. The wish of the disciples of the Lord was not that they might live again in another world simply but that they might have materials bodies in that world. They wished that their spirits might not be found 'naked,' but clothed upon with their heavenly bodies. That was the thought of Job when he said: 'I know that my Redeemer liveth and that from my flesh I shall see God.' He could not think of a life that was apart from some sort of a body. Flesh and blood shall not inherit the kingdom of God but a body shall;—a body that shall be best suited to the needs of the soul. It is said that 'there is no known form of energy apart from matter.' Mind is apart from matter, but mind expresses itself through matter. It is sientific as well as Scriptural therefore to believe that our future existence shall be a bodily existence.

"When we speak of an embodied existence in the future, we do not mean that our bodies shall be in every respect as our present bodies. It has been suggested that they may be similar to that form of matter and which is called ether. This ether is called matter and yet it seems to be under different laws from that which we ordinarily call matter. This etheric matter is the medium of wireless telegraph and the X-ray. The X-ray is able to penetrate silid substances 'as water through a sieve.' The old laws of matter do not hold when we define ether as matter. It may be that our future bidies shall be composed of matter similar to the ether that pervades all space.

"Our Lord's resurrection body is suggestive as to the character of our future bodies. It was the body that had been crucified. Doubting Thomas was convinced of that when he saw the print of the nails; yet that body possessed powers which it never possessed before. With this body our Lord appears in a lighted room with closed doors; the doors being locked by the disciples for fear of their enemies. With this same body he becomes visible and then invisible. At one moment he is walking with two disciples on the way to Emmaus and the next He is fifty miles distant. Forty days later he ascends in bodily form to heaven.

"It is perfectly sientific to believe that there are embodied souls which cannot be seen with the eye of sense. It is possible to photograph a star that is invisible to the eye. There may be embodied beings about us which 'thrill and throb with life and to whom our life may seem almost a sleep.'

"Perhaps you have said how can God gather the material particles that once formed our earthly bodies and resurrect them all at the last day. I don't believe He does. Paul illustrates the resurrection by a grain of wheat. A grain of wheat is planted. It dies but by its very dying it lives and God gives it another body. By what divine alchemy God develops the new body we don't know. A man of seventy has had a number of bodies but he is conscious of possessing only the one. Through all these changes his identity has been preserved. Sir Oliver Lodge has said 'identity of material particles does not constitute the person and they are not essential to the identity of the body.'

"There is practical helpfulness in the thought of the resurrection of the body. It reveals to me that after

NARROW ESCAPE AT FIRE

After Being Buried Beneath Debris, George Burnett is Rescued Just in Time.

FIRE AT A WATCHUNG FARM.

Trying to Save Furniture, Man Comes Near Being Roasted to Death—Loss on Building Is $5,000.

Fire caused by a defective chimney flue, completely destroyed the large twelve-room farmhouse owned and occupied by John Burnett near Watchung, Saturday afternoon, and it was only by the hardest kind of work on the part of Mr. Burnett, his brother, George Burnett, and Philip Coates, that the furniture on the first floor of the dwelling was saved.

George Burnett while fighting the flames in the parlor in an effort to save the goods, narrowly escaped being burned to death. The ceiling and heavy timbers overhead gave way and smothered him beneath the debris. A moment before the crash came he was seen by his brother and Coates and at the risk of their lives they rushed in and finally rescued the victim. He was revived in a few minutes, although his clothes were partially burned off his body was slightly scorched. His injuries are not serious.

It was shortly after noon while Mr. Burnett and his family were at dinner that the fire was discovered by George Burnett and Mr. Coates. They were walking toward the house when they noticed the smoke and flames coming from the roof near the chimney. They quickly informed the family. All hands then got busy saving the contents as far as possible. The house was worth about $5,000 and is a total loss. It was covered by $1,500 insurance.

SUYDAM BOY CAUGHT, TO GO TO REFORMATORY

George Suydam, the fourteen-year-old boy who stole a silver watch from James Carline, of Jefferson avenue, Saturday morning, was caught by Chief Marshal Weiss four hours after the robbery was committed and is now a prisoner in a borough court cell. The boy was under $200 bail to appear before the grand jury for stealing two bicycles last Tuesday when he stole the watch.

The arrest was made Saturday afternoon, when Chief Weiss nabbed him near Regan's barn on Harrison street. This is within a short distance of the house he robbed and also near his home. Questioned about his motive in robbery, young Suydam said that he stole the watch because he wanted to know what time it was. Since his arrest he has been a prisoner in a borough cell. Both his father and mother have visited him, the latter bringing a great bunch of roses. The boy seems sullen, sitting idly listening to the ravings of John McMurtrie in an adjourning cell.

Mayor Samuel Townsend is much interested in the boy, believing him to be a degenerate. It is probable that he will be committed to the Rahway reformatory. Henry DeMott, who is Suydam's bondsman, has been persuaded to withdraw his bond, and the borough police will turn the boy over to the city cops for committal.

July 4 at Watchung Hunt Club.

Under the auspices of the Watchung Hunt Club, a lawn fete and dance, will be held at the commodious new home of the club, Saturday afternoon and evening. On that day the members will be privileged to entertain any guests to which they may wish to extend an invitation. Cards of invitation may be obtained from Lewis G. Timpson, secretary. Music will be provided afternoon and evening and table d'hote luncheon and dinner will be served. A stage will run between trolley terminus, Seventh street and Monroe avenue and the clubhouse.

Summer Home for City Girls.

Miles Roberts, of this city, and Mrs. Burton E. Moore, of Winsted, Conn., owners of the Miles Loomis place in Riverton, Conn., consisting of 100 acres and a large farm house, have given the use of the place to the Union Settlement of New York, and a number of working girls will spend the rest of thes ummer there. It is planned to make thep lace a permanent outing camp for New York city girls. Mr. Roberts is treasurer of the well-known Tunxis Club at Tolland, Mass., where a number of Plainfielders spend their summers.

CLEVELAND AS HIS TEXT

Rev. Dr. Chambliss Eulogizes Dead President as "One who Did not Play to Galleries."

HIS AN ILLUSTRIOUS RECORD.

Public Opinion Rights Itself Always Declares the First Baptist's Scholarly Pastor.

That the good men do really does live after them and that public opinion can always be depended upon to right itself were the lessons contained in a sermon on Grover Cleveland, preached by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss to a large congregation at the First Baptist church yesterday morning. That the great Jerseyman was never a self seeker at the cost of principle or that he ever played to the galleries in the discharge of his sworn duty were two thoughts brought out by the scholarly divine.

"Every man is heard from again after he dies," said Dr. Chambliss. "If there is one thing more than another which Grover Cleveland, being dead is yet saying to the men of this generation it is that the praise of men is not the supreme good. That it is better to be scorned, hated, and if need be, hounded, into the darkest caves of obscurity, than to sit in the most exalted station, in the broad light of popular favor, with the ghost of a strangled conscience for a companion; with the finger of outraged principle pointing at him in contempt and the voice of wounded truth crying in his soul, 'Coward' and 'Traitor.'

"The praise of men is not an unworthy object of desire or effort. Mr. Cleveland did not despise it, all of us want it, and to the average man or woman it is sweet. But it has never been the way of men worthy of the name to say, 'I must have distinction, and the applause of my fellow men at whatever cost.'

"From the first day that Grover Cleveland entered public office to the last, he never spoke a word, or wrote a line, or did an act, or assumed an attitude that looked like 'playing to the galleries,' or that had in it a trace of pandering to the passions, or the prejudices of the multitude. Or that could be construed as self-seeking at the cost of what he believed to be the truth or the right.

"One not of the same political faith, but eminent in business says of him:

'Grover Cleveland was the highest type of public servant, and it is to be regretted that we have so few men of his sturdy character in public life. He was a patroit rather than a partisan, and his moral courage to do what he thought ws best for his country regardless of party, was the beginning of the independent thought throughout the United States, which is now such a factor in national affairs.'

"Another of our ablest men says: 'In the death of Mr. Cleveland the loss is nothing less than national, and his countrymen everywhere, irrespective of party, will realize that there has gone from us a great and notable figure—a statesman unexcelled for patroitism, for lofty cinvictions of public duty, and for courage to put them into effect.'

"Another says: 'His whole public career was a demonstration of political courage, which, as President Roosevelt says, truly says, qualed before no hostility when once he was convinced where his duty lay.'

"Very glad are we that this 'happy warrior' whose conflicts were as stern as any that are waged on ensanguined fields did not sleep without his fame—did not have to feel at last that he left a dead and unprofitable name; that he lived long enough to know that this Republic was not ungrateful, but gave him a full measure of confidence and affection in return for the steadfast integrity and unselfish devotion with which he had served the interests of the whole people.

"The story of the life which we recall today is but one among many in our national records to illustrate the sureness with which public opinion rights itself at last, and comes back to lay the crown at the feet of the man who deserved it. What a reversal of popular feeling and judgment have the last twelve years witnessed with reference to the character and work of Grover Cleveland! What a contrast between the Cimmerian darkness into which his name had been flung, and the shining mountain peak of fame to which the sober second thought and large true heart of the American people without distinction of party, had lifted him in recent years!

"God be thanked that we can remember this one of the three great Presidents as we do the other two others, not only for his massive strength and soundness of political character, but as a man who feared the Lord, honored His word, and did not deny His name."

CHURCH DEACON GONE; HIS WIFE IS WORRIED

Nathan Pollard, colored, residing on West Third street, has been missing from his home for over a week and his wife is growing anxious as to his whereabouts. He was superintendent of the Mt. Olive tBaptis church Sunday-school and also one of the deacons of the church and was one of the best known among the colored population of the city.

Just prior to leaving the city he asked his employers for a few days off and the request was readily granted. Since then nothing has been heard from him. It was rumored today that he had been in Philadelphia, but this could not be verified. Mrs. Pollard has made extensive inquiries about her husband, but to no purpose and she is now afraid that something has happened which would prevent his returning home.

CRAP GAME BROKEN UP; COP GETS EIGHT PRISONERS

Patrolman Andrew Saffron was sleuthing along Green Brook near Washington avenue, late yesterday morning, when he discovered a group of young men and boys absorbed in some kind of a game. It didn't look like checkers or chess and a circuitous movement revealed the fact that the bunch was enjoying the pastime of "shooting the bones," commonly known as crap. Cop Andy figured out that there were too many players for him to bag alone so he called for re-enforcements, Patrol Driver O'Gorman responding with his trusty hurry-up wagon.

The two bluecoats steathily crept through the tall grass after the crowd like Sioux Indians on a scalp hunting expedition but experienced crap shooters have sources of inside information that nobody knows about. Saffron and O'Gorman were hunching along and chuckling to themselves over the prospect of a big entry to their credit on the police blotter when the bones suddenly ceased flipping. The next instant a mixture of white and black humanity was cutting wide gaps in the atmosphere in its efforts to get over the line to Somerset county. The boys went by wild leaps and bounds and nothing short of a stone wall a mile high could have stopped them.

The two cops said "curses, curses, curses" and started in pursuit but like the old cow's tail they were away behind. Saffron tried to go three ways at once and found himself running around in a circle, finally giving up without any quarry. O'Gorman disregarded city and borough dividing lines and by wading the brook, nabbed Irving Cassett, who stopped to look around, firmly believing the officers would never dare to get into Townsend territory. He was the only prisoner bagged and was borne off to Sycamore street in triumph.

Whether or not Casset got frightened and gave the officers a line on his companions in crime or whether they recognized some of the fleeing figures is not known but at any rate the pair started on a house-to-house canvass of the West End as soon as the lone bone artist was safely tagged. As a result, the following lawbreakers were lined up with Cassett before Judge Runyon this morning: Charles Cassett, Oscar Green, Hazelwood Pollard, and Cornelius Webley, all colored; Edward Galbraith, William Knight and Eddie O'Loughlin, white. They admitted being in the bunch that Saffron and O'Gorman tried to corral and were let go on suspended sentence after His Honor had pointed out the awful consequences of gambling on the Sabbath and warning them that a repetition of the offense, if caught, would mean a jail sentence.

The entire delegation filed out with looks of satisfaction on their faces with the exception of Galbraith. His parents believed they had ought to have a lawyer to present his side of the case and plead for leniency and as everybody knows, lawyers don't do this for nothing. The legal light earned his fee by stepping forward and saying, "Judge, my client pleads non vult," as that is all that was asked of him. That's why Galbraith refused to be comforted when his companions chuckled and chortled.

Plainfield Members Petit Jury.

Sheriff Lawrence in the Union County Court, this morning, announced the members of the petit jury, which commencing today will serve for two weeks. The Plainfield members are as follows: John J. Kenney, Fred T. Dickerson, William Craig, Jr., W. W. Wilson, Fred Endress, John Bushnell, Enoch Hardingham, Albert T. Raymond, Norman K. Barnes, Harry B. MacDonald, Abram Van Cleef, John M. Wyman, William H. Fullerton.

CLEVELAND FUND GROWING

Contributions Coming in for Erection of Monument to Great Jerseyman.

COMMENDED BY SUBSCRIBERS.

Donations Received by Papers All Through the State—Mite Boxes Placed in This City.

Contributions are coming in in good shape for the Cleveland monument fund, several having been received at this office today. The outlook is most encouraging. Former United States Senator James Smith, Jr., who originated the splendid idea of raising a lasting memorial to the only Jerseyman that ever became a President of these United States, is giving much of his valuable time to perfecting plans for the realization of the worthy object. As already explained in these columns, the proposition is one of National scope and is devoid of political significance. It is a patriotic movement to honor the memory of a man who grandly fulfilled the duties of a chief magistrate of this nation.

These contributions have been received at this office:—

Ernest R. Ackerman	$20
The Daily Press	10
David J. Carney	10
Prof. A. S. Herr	10

Mite boxes have been scattered about the city, where those who feel inclined to make anonymous contributions are enabled to do so. A list of places where these boxes have been located will be published in tomorrow's issue.

The Newark Morning Star, which is giving special attention to the monument fund, announces today a list of newspaper offices, in addition to its own and that of The Daily Press, where funds will be received.

Persons resident in other cities of this state may send contributions to the papers in their own locality that are supporting the movement. These are Passaic Herald, Passaic News, Long Branch Daily Record, New Brunswick Home News, Trenton True American, Trenton State Gazette, Camden Post-Telegram, Jersey City Journal, Morristown Independent, Hackensack Democrat, Cape May Wave, Cape May Star, Freehold Democrat, Freehold Inquirer, Lakewood Citizen, Lakewood Times and Journal, Toms River Courier, Toms River Democrat, Elizabeth Times, Bridgeton News, Bridgeton Pioneer, Salem Standard, Salem Sunbeam, Rutherford American, Millville Republican, Newton Herald and Newton Register.

Enclosed with his check for ten dollars Prof. A. S. Herr, of the Plainfield Business College paid this tribute to Mr. Cleveland:

"Grover Cleveland from boyhood and all through his public and private life has exemplified the highest and truest type of American manhood and citizenship. His moral and mental ability, coupled with a desire and will to rise above party-politics, in order to achieve the highest good for the entire nation, places him upon that high plane occupied by the most revered and honored of our country's sons.

"Every loyal citizen of New Jersey, especially, and also the nation as a whole, wil honor themselves by acknowledging the greatness of the example and character of Grover Cleveland, by contributing to this fund with which to perpetuate his memory."

With his check for ten dollars, David J. Carney, proprietor of the Monarch Printing Company, wrote: I am only too glad to contribute my mite to such a worthy cause. With such men as James Smith, Jr., interested in the cause, which I understand is non-partisan, I feel sure that the object will be speedily accomplished."

Somerset Council Elects.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., has elected these officers for the ensuing term: Councilor, John W. Goff; vice-councilor, F. E. Soper, Sr.; conductor, L. C. R. Dunham; warden, Arthur Joy; inside sentinel, Wesley Garthwaite; outside sentinel, F. G. Welch; recording secretary, Walter G. Walker; financial secretary, Jessie M. Scull; treasurer, P. H. Latourette; assistant recording secretary, Lewis Mulford; trustee, F. G. Welch; representative to New Jersey Benefit Association, Geo. Wilson.

Training for Race Meets.

P. J. Simmons, the colored championship bicycle rider of the State, is training every day on Mountain avenue for the race meet at Asbury Park, July 4. He will also ride at Madison Square Garden, July 13. He challenges any rider in Plainfield or vicinity.

PASSENGERS WERE JARRED

Trolley Car 1,940 Leaves the Track and Occupants Get a Bad Shaking Up.

SEVERAL SLIGHTLY INJURED.

Stone on a Rail Said to Have Caused the Jump—Accident Occurred Saturday Night on Front Street Line.

Main line trolley car No. 1,940, westbound at 11:20 Saturday night, jumped the track at DeKalb avenue and Front street as it was running at a medium rate of speed. It was swung across the space between the rails and the sidewalk and brought up against the curb with a resounding crash. The cars was well filled with passengers and although all were more or less badly shaken up none were seriously injured. The list obtained by the police shows that the following suffered the most:

Mrs. Michael Nolan, Dunellen, severe contusions and cuts; Thomas Brennan, Dunellen, arm sprained and head cut; Newton Meyers, New Market, cuts on head and side bruised. An unknown colored man, who refused to give his name, was rendered partially unconscious by his head striking the back of a seat and a gash was inflicted in his cheek.

The car was in charge of Conductor Adam Young and Motorman William Tinshon. The latter was unable to tell what caused the jump but it is believed to have been a stone on the track. At the point where the accident occurred, there is a down grade and the macadam is in a very loosened condition.

Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy was in the vicinity when the car left the rails and sent in a hurry call for Dr. Albert Pittis, the Public Service physician. He reached the scene in a very short time and attended to the people whose names are given. The others proceeded to their homes as soon as they recovered their composure.

The car was slightly damaged by thec ollision with the curb but was replaced by the emergency crew after an hour's work.

FIRECRACKERS CAUSE A $250 BARN BLAZE

A fire believed to have been started by boys shooting off Fourth of July crackers partially destroyed the Shirley & Johnston stables at the foot of Compton's alley, late Saturday afternoon, and but for prompt work on the part of the city fire department wuld have resulted in a serious blaze. A continuous chain of buildings extends about the vicinity and being of frame construction they would have furnished ready fuel for the flames.

The blaze was discovered at 6:10 by Robert Reed, employed by Shirley & Johnson, who immediately turned in an alarm, at the same time yelling for assistance to save the contents of the structures. The barn and wagon sheds occupied by W. W. Warnock are directly next to where the fire was and Mr. Warnock managed to keep the flames from his property by using a stable hose. He stuck to the job despite the heat and blinding smoke until the apparatus arrived. The firemen worked half an hour before the blaze was finally extinguished.

At one stage of the fire, the shutters and window ledges of old Music Hall became ignited and caused considerable excitement by the prospect of the one-time theatre being burned. A couple of drenchings from the hose stopped the trouble in that direction.

The damage is placed at $250 and is covered by insurance. William M. Stillman owns the property and also the Music Hall building. Shirley & Johnston's loss is slight as all the horses, wagons and harnesses were out at the time the fire started.

Warning From Prosecutor Swift.

Chief of Police Kiely has received notice from Prosecutor Swift calling his attention to the fact that all shop dealers must keep a record of every gun and pistol sold and that the name and address of the purchaser must be kept in a book open to inspection. The chief has issued the customary warning to this effect as just previous to the Fourth large quantities of revolvers are sold.

RAVES IN BOROUGH CELL

John McMurtrie Believes a Band of Whiskey Distillers Seek His Life.

HEAT AND DRINK DID IT.

Manning Avenue Man to Be Examined Today and Committed to the Trenton Asylum.

Hourly awaiting the arrival of seven husky moonshine whiskey distillers, whom he believes seek his life, John McMurtrie, 55 years old, of Manning avenue, is a restless prisoner in a borough court cell, where he has been raving since Saturday morning. Drink and hot weather are the cause of the man's hallucinations, and he is believed to be permanently insane. Borough Physician A. H. Dundon and Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan will make an examination this afternoon, and the man will doubtless be taken to the State asylum at Trenton tomorrow.

McMurtrie's hallucination is that certain men who, he says, sought his life Friday night, are coming to headquarters to kill him. He is utterly discouraged with the attitude of indifference displayed by the police in following his "tip" and anticipating the law breakers and would-be murderers, who number about thirty. He came to Chief Marshal Weiss' house early Saturday morning, arousing the Chief to tell him how he had narrowly escaped with his life. According to his story, he and his wife were overcome at their Manning avenue home, chloroformed, and carried away by the marauders, who distilled whiskey as the two lay bound on the mountain. Details as to the number of the gang vary, but McMurtrie is sure that they were distilling whiskey. The leader, he says, is a Mexican, and although he says it was pitch dark, he can describe seven of the band. He thinks his wife is mentally weak, because she does not remember the wild trip. He told Chief Weiss this morning that seven members of the band would come to headquarters today and distil whiskey in the court room, and he warned the police officer to flee.

All day yesterday, McMurtrie paced his cell, never resting, never silent. During the night, he says, he was visited by a cat and "lots of kittens." The cat wore a wig and a bonnet, with rings on her "hands." The kittens all wore shoes and stockings. Deputy Tax Collector Thomas Finney has been detailed to watch the man, who had a scheme this morning of making over the cell room so as to save the use of three iron bolts now in one of the doors.

FIRST WEDDING HELD IN SOUTH PLAINFIELD CHURCH.

The first wedding at St. Mary's curch, the new Catholic edifice dedicated at South Plainfield a week ago, took place there Saturday morning, when Miss Julia Boldowska, of Craig place, this city, and Frank Krawecki, of South Plainfield, were married by Father Dunphy, of Dunellen.

The bride was atended by Miss Apolania Kapala, of Duer street, and the best man was Michael Bazek, of South Plainfield. More than three hundred guests attended the ceremony, after which a reception was held at Higgins' Hotel. Dancing, which was the feature, was started at 12 o'clock noon and continued until midnight.

In the meantime a sumptuous repast was served.

The bride received numerous gifts. She is employed as a maid at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Thiers on Craig place, and she will remain there for the present. Her husband is employed at the cold storage plant, South Plainfield, and will continue his residence there. In the near future the couple will go to housekeeping at South Plainfield.

It is seldom that a team is compelled to change both pitcher and catcher in the same inning. It happened to the local team, however, in the game on Saturday afternoon. Ortleib injured one of his pitching fingers trying to pick up an infield hit. A few minutes later H. Albert was put out of business by a collision with a base runner at the plate. J. Albert and Allen went in and finished the battery work.

Funeral services of Henry, the seven-year old son of Jacob Sauermilch, who died Friday, from the result of swallowing a spoonful of lye, in mistake for condensed milk, were held yesterday afternoon from the parent's home on Barth avenue. Interment was made in the Baptist cemetery.

It is hardly likely that the town flag will float from the flag pole on the Fourth. The guy rope was pulled out of the pully when the flag was taken down on Decoration Day. Owing to the age of the pole it is considered unsafe to allow any one to climb it to replace the ropes.

Rev. Mr. Stewart, of Brooklyn, preached at both the morning and evening services at the Baptist church yesterday. At the morning service the annual collection for State missions was taken.

The Aeolian Company's employes living in town are taking an enforced vacation of two weeks and possibly longer, while the annual account of stock is taken.

Mrs. Edward L. Hand chaperoned twenty of the boys and girls at a picnic held Saturday on the Johnston Farm, along Green Brook.

The weekly meeting of the Epworth League was held last night in the Methodist church. John Wade led the meeting.

Joseph Gray, a former reesident here, but now of Newark, was the guest Saturday, of friends in town.

Edward Johnston led the weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U., last night at the Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff entertained relatives from out of town, over Sunday.

Miss Nellie Reick has returned from a two weeks stay at Asbury Park.

FOOTPADS SHOOT CAMDEN FARMER.

Camden, June 29.—The kindness of William Hollmyer, a farmer, 33 years old, in giving two men a ride in his wagon on his way home early yesterday morning came near costing him his life. The men proved to be footpads, and, after attempting to rob the good natured farmer, they fired a shot point-blank at his heart, and it caused a wound in his breast from which he is suffering in Cooper Hospital.

His life was probably saved by a suspender buckle. As the farmer drove along Federal street, this city, the men approached him from the sidewalk and asked him which way he was going. He told them he was driving to his home in Delaware Township.

"We're going the other side of Delaware Township; will you accommodate us with a ride?" asked one of the men.

"Certainly," was the reply; "get in; there's plenty of room."

When the team reached Ellisburg the farmer became tired of riding and decided to walk a short distance. Several minutes later the men jumped from the vehicle and caught Hollmyer by both arms. As the farmer was about to strike one of the men the other drew a revolver and fired the shot. Another team was coming about this time and the highwaymen fled.

Occupants of the other vehicle assisted the injured farmer to his home and later he was taken to the hospital. Physicians were unable to locate the bullet. It was stated tonight that while the wounded man's condition is serious, there is hope for recovery.

Funeral of William Foley, Jr.

Bound Brook, June 29.—The funeral of William Foley, Jr., thirty-nine years old, who died from sunstroke at his home in Canal street Thursday night, was held this morning in St. Joseph's Catholic church, of Bound Brook, when services with high requiem mass were conducted by the rector, Rev. W. F. Dittrich. Interment was made in Gateville Cemetery. Mr. Foley was the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Foley Sr., of this place. Besides his parents he leaves a widow and five small children, a sister, Mrs. Albert Cushion, of Carbondale, Pa., and a brother, John Foley, of this borough.

BOUND BROOK EXPECTANT.

Rousing Celebration Is Planned Fourth of July on Historic Campgrounds.

Four bands and the entire population of Bound Brook will march through the streets and up the mountain side July 4, to the historic camp grounds, now laid out as a park, where George Washington was quartered in the winter of 1778-1779.

Young men of the town are to appear as a mounted troop wearing Continental uniforms. Patriotic floats, the State militia, the local fire department and all the automobiles and carriages for miles around will be in line. After the review of the parade and the speechmaking the big crowds will listen to a concert by the Old Guard Band of New York.

All the neighboring towns have been invited to participate in the celebration. Among the chief guests of the Washington Camp Ground Association will be Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson, orator of the day, and State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen.

PENNSY WAKES UP.

Begins Dredging Its Neglected Canal in New Brunswick.

New Brunswick, June 29.—The Pennsylvania Railroad has at last begun to dredge the Delaware and Raritan Canal here. For years the canal along this city has been filling with the mud carried into it by rain, and in some places, especially opposite the docks, the water has become so shallow that it was impossible to dock boats and barges. Although the business men affected have made complaints, and called attention of the Pennsylvania Railroad to this fact, no attempt up to this week has been made to dredge it for a long time.

The dredger is now at work making the depth uniform at all places along the water front. The uniform depth is nine feet, and near the docks it was only five or six feet deep. It is thought that recent activity of Senator George S. Silzer in regard to the canal has awakeden the railroad officials.

AMPUTATED LEG CREMATED.

Ashes, in Urn, Await Coming of Rest of Body Some Day.

Elizabeth, June 29.—The right leg of R. L. Meeking, a New York Central Railroad conductor, was incinerated at the Rose Hill cemetery by direction of the owner, and the ashes placed in an urn to await the addition of the ashes of his body.

About a week ago Mr. Meekin, while at work in the New York Central yards at Yonkers, had his leg crushed between the bumpers. He was taken to a Bronx hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate the member. When he recovered from the operation Mr. Meekin gave orders that an undertaker be called and that the limb be placed in a specially constructed casket and cremated.

The cremation was witnessed by several members of Mr. Meekin's family, although the erstwhile owner of the leg was not in attendance.

LOOKING FOR TWISTERS.

In the region where tornadoes are common, which is a pretty large territory, nearly every family has one member who has a highly developed fear of storms. When warm weather and the cyclone put in their appearance the scary one begins the preparation of a safe retreat, probably in the cellar under the house, or, if he happens to be a thirty-third degree member of the Amalgamated Order of Fraidcats, he has a cave lined with reinforced concrete constructed somewhere in the back yard. In his cave or cellar retreat the coward puts a bed, and i, he has it bad, he is apt to lay in a stock of provisions and a barrel of water. During the day the other members of the family have a good deal of fun chaffing the coward, but he gets even at night by disturbing their sleep. Among other peculiarities of the cyclone coward is an optical illusion which possesses him about the time the bass begin to bite. From then until harvest time every cloud he sees assumes a funnel shape and he is sure we are going to have a twister. And he never misses a cloud. When he sees one he gets up, gathers up his clothes and the insurance papers and proceeds to try to herd the family to safety. If the coward happens to be the man of the house he sometimes succeeds in dragging the sleeping wife and children to the cellar while he looks out the door until a gentle shower begins to fall. But if the coward is the wife she never has much success with the old man beyond getting him angry, and because of her duty to the children she takes them to the 'fraid hole, abandoning the husband to his fate—and sleep. About once in 2,000,000 times the cyclone coward makes a good bet, and his name is numbered with the survivors. But it costs him a lot of good sleep.

CREMATED IN BED.

Scores of Tenants Rescued From Burning Tenement.

Paterson, June 29.—John Mahoney, a silk worker, 35 years old, was burned to death early yesterday in a tenement at 12 Passaic street and a score of Italian women and children were rescued by firemen.

Mahoney occupied rooms in the basement for two months. He was alone when he retired last night, and it is presumed that the fire was caused by the smouldering ashes of a pipe or cigar.

The building was aflame when the alarm was given. The firemen found a struggling mass of women and children in the tenement. All were taken out uninjured. When Fireman Harrison entered the basement rooms he found the body of Mahoney on the charred ruins of the bed.

WOMAN CUTS HER THROAT.

Driven to Frenzy by False Stories Told About Her.

Atlantic City, June 29.—False stories about Mrs. Mary Matsinger, who keeps a lodging house at 2414 Trenwith terrace, drove her into a frenzy, during which she drew a razor across her throat, and is in a critical condition.

George Willard, a lodger, was asleep in his room when the woman, with her throat cut, entered and shook him. He yelled in terror and dashed down the stairs. He called a doctor, who hastily stopped the flow of blood and rushed the woman to the City Hospital.

Pastor Married 15 years.

Whitehouse, June 29.—The Rev. John T. Scott, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Lamington, with his wife, celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of his wedding Saturday by entertaining about 150 guests, including relatives and friends and members of his congregation. A musical and literary program was rendered by some of the guests and supper was served by a city caterer. The couple were the recipients of many gifts. The Rev. and Mrs. Scott were married at Richmond, Jefferson county, O., by the Rev. S. G. Lloyd, and have since lived at Bellefonte and Franklin Springs, Pa., where Mr. Scott had charges before coming to Lamington. Mrs. Scott was a Miss Ford.

J. D. Loizeaux, of this city, conducted the Gospel services at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, Watchung, last night.

WHITE WAIST SALE

We never bought so many waists in a single purchase!
We never bought so many for a Mid-Summer Sale—snowy mountains of 'em!

But when conditions arise such as have been created by the business lull, when manufacturers are put to their wits' ends to keep their workers employed, when sacrifices of profits must be made all around to make business "go," opportunities come that tempt the hardest shelled pessimist—and progressive, wide-awake establishments such as this one are not likely to be left at the post in the race after the best things these conditions create.

This purchase of Summer Waists is a case in point.

The makers, M. Haber & Co., of Philadelphia, probably the biggest of the waist making concerns of the country, present these reasons for selling us this lot of 14,000 waists so cheaply.

M. Haber & Co., had an opportunity to buy fine embroideries from a great New York importer's [Loeb & Schoenfold] at less than half their actual worth if they could clear up a tremendous lot of them. Haber & Co. bought the embroideries. Then they told their work people they could give employment to the entire force for weeks at somewhat lower wages, and, believing half a loaf better than none, the workers accepted the proposition.

Result---High-class White Waists at Half Their Value.

More than twenty-five winsome, dainty styles of waists are in this collection—all strictly perfect, made of fine, sheer lawns and the nicest sort of embroideries, fully thirty-five patterns of embroideries being employed, from fine open work to the solid and blind embroidery. Many of the waists are made with neat, alternating tucks; several models have dainty yokes of embroidery, richly designated; others are embellished with insertions of embroidery.

Group 1—Contains three pretty styles with entire fronts of all-over embroidery; regular $1 waists for only 50c

Group 2—Embraces eight splendid styles with fronts of all-over embroidery; in a variety of patterns; regular $1.50 to $1.75 values for 69c

Group 3—Embraces five beautiful models in yoke effects and ten pretty models with entire fronts of daintiest embroideries; $2 and $2.50 kind for $1

Group 4—Contains five excellent styles; one model with entire waist of all-over embroidery, others with yoke effects, and with entire fronts of embroidery; regular $3 kinds for $1.50

GOLF.

The events at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday will include the concluding rounds of play for the club championship, in addition to the competition for the Independence Day handicap, 18 holes, medal play, morning or afternoon, with prizes for the best gross and best net scores in each class, A and B.

There will be a number of special competitions at the Park Golf Club on July 4, including an appraoching and putting contest, mixed doubles, for members and friends. There will also be all-day competition for the Holiday cup.

In addition to the sepcial events on the course at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, there will be a tea at the clubhouse in the afternoon and a dinner dance in the evening with other attractions. The social affairs will be in charge of the house committee of which Willard Wadsworth is the chairman.

Numerous special competitions will be held at the Westfield Golf Club on Independence Day, together with social features at the clubhouse.

Without a doubt one of the finest golf links in the State is that of the Plainfield Country Club, where special care is constantly exercised in the cutting of the grass and rolling of the greens. The club officials are now planning several improvements which will add to the comfort and convenience of the members and their friends.

"Marty" O'Loughlin is devoting cosiderable time these days to getting in condition for some of the big tournaments to be held during the season. His injured arm is rapidly gaining strength and he can drive almost as far as at any time in his career.

Among the steady and consistent players at the Plainfield Country Club is C. B. Morgan. He is back at his game in earnest and his scores are generally among the lowest returned each week.

COAL CARS SAVED STATION.

Freight Wreck at Swartswood Blocked Susquehanna Tracks for Hours.

Newton, June 29.—A string of coal cars standing on a siding saved the station of the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad from complete demolition in a freight wreck early Saturday morning. Freight train No. 61, with engine No. 867, in charge of Theodore Grove, conductor, and James Ford, engineer, both of Stroudsburg, was running fast down grade past the Swartswood Station at 4:30 Saturday morning, going to Stroudsburg, when a brake beam on one of the cars in the middle of the train dropped and hit the point of the switch to a siding. The engine and part of the train went ahead on the main line rails, but the last six cars were derailed.

They were smashed to kindling. One car was so completely demolished it was impossible to determine its number. Two of the flying cars hit the station, smashing in the side of the waiting-room and demolishing the telegraph office. No one was in the station. Only a short time ago the night operator was transferred to the Swartswood Junction Station, some distance away.

The entire station would have been destroyed by the wreckage but for the coal cars on the siding. They blocked most of the derailed cars. None of the train crew was hurt. A double wrecking crew of 200 men was sent from Stroudsburg and it took eight hours to clear the single-track road. Pasengers on train No. 2, from Stroudsburg, walked around the wreck, and were taken to Jersey City on a train made up at Beaver Lake.

WISHED CHAPEL ON FARM.

Miss Stiger, of Whitehouse, Leaves Bequest by Will and Makes Other Gifts.

Whitehouse, June 29.—The will of Miss Hannah Maria Stiger, who died recently at her home at the foot of Pickell's Mountain, between this place and Lebanon, has been offered for probate in the Hunterdon County Orphans' Court. There are a number of public bequests.

Somerset Hospital in Somerville is to receive $1,000 in cash, the Methodist church at Lebanon, $1,000 to build a chapel near a chestnut tree on her farm on the Easton and New Brunswick turnpike, near Pottersville; the American Bible Society, $1,000; Miss Stiger's sister, Mrs. Jerome Emmons, of New Germantown, $1,000; her brother, John N. Stiger, with whom she had lived all her life, an annuity of $400 and the use of the homestead farm during his life, and at his death the whole balance of the proceeds of the estate goes to the American Bible Society of New York.

SPECIAL SESSION UNLIKELY.

Governor Thinks Money Trouble Can Be Tided Over.

Trenton, June 29.—A special session of the New Jersey Legislature is now believed to be unlikely.

Governor Fort thinks that some arrangement can be made whereby State institutions now out of funds can be tided over until the beginning of the new fiscal year, and until the Hudson county railroad tax muddle has been satisfactorily adjusted.

The Jersey City Journal sporting writer has been criticizing the listless playing of the Skeeters behind the several pitchers who have been working of late, adding that the best twirler cannot hope to win under such conditions.

At a recent game between the Jersey City and Montreal Eastern League clubs eight thousand school children witnessed the contest.

Buffalo now holds the lead in the Eastern League race by a good margin, having won thirty-one games and lost twenty-two.

McCarthy, formerly with the Newarks, is making good with the Boston Nationals, when he gets an opportunity to work in the box.

McGinnity was right there with the goods on Friday when he shutout the Bostons by a score of 2 to 0. He let his opponents down with three hits.

The Yankees are back to the Hilltop again for a long series of games and it is hoped that they may improve their playing and standing in the league.

Francis Bergen has been doing such good work for Somerville, Manager Conklin is quite likely to use him throughout the season.

The fans may not appreciate the fact, but it is true nevertheless that the Clinton Avenues are playing fast ball, as good as any semi-professional club in this part of the State.

The contest at Crescent Oval Fourth of July afternoon between the Clinton Avenues and Y. M. C. A. will be for blood. Randolph and Scott will be the opposing pitchers.

Saturday, July 11, the West Ends, of Somerville, will meet Clinton Avenue on Crescent Oval. The contest is being looked forward to with great interest by the fans. In the first clash between these clubs the Plainfield boys won by a score of 3 to 1.

DEAD SHAD IN DELAWARE.

Trenton, June 29.—Fishing experts seem unable to account for the thousands of dead shad which are being round in the upper Delaware River, near the Water Gap. Both the National Bureau of Fisheries at Washington and the New Jersey State Fish and Game Commission are at work on the case. Walter H. Fell, secretary of the State board, received today from Washington a reply to his inquiries relative to the probable cause of the trouble.

"It is not unusual," says the letter, "to find a number of dead fish—shad, bass, perch, blue gill, etc.—at spawning time. The mortality among many fishes as the spawning season approaches is often greater than at any other season, and that may be the condition in the present instance. It may be due, also, to some possible pollution of the stream."

The Federal bureau asks that specimens of the dead fish be forwarded to Washington for examination, and expresses its willingness to do anything possible to protect the fish from further fatalities.

death I do not lose my personal identity. I am not absorbed into the world soul. The next world therefore is a very human world. The body in that world will be better suited to the needs of the soul.

"It reveals again this truth that the other world is a place of infinite progress. There we shall ever be advancingfi not only in holiness but in knowledge. Part of the happiness of that world will be as in the discovery of new secrets of God's great universe.

"Because heaven is so human a place, we shal recognize the friends whom it will be our supreme joy to meet. No! We shall not be swallowed up into the divine essence and thus lose all our identity; we shall be embodied souls and the conditions about us shall be so human that our friends and dear ones shall know us and we shall know them."

TELLER STEALS $20,000.

Admits He Lost it in Atlantic City Bucket Shops.

Atlantic City, June 29.—Robert Ohnmeiss, Jr., assistant treasurer and paying teller of the Marine Trust Company, of this city, was arrested here Saturday night and sent to jail in default of $11,000 bail, after he had confessed to taking $20,500 from the bank vaults to use in stock operations, which he had conducted in Boardwalk bucketshops. The specific charge is that of stealing $5,500 which he raised on a draft drawn on another local bank.

His father, who is president of the Egg Harbor Commercial Bank and a capitalist, has offered bail, but must furnish an indorser. The young banker and his wife have been married but a few years and are among the most prominent young society people of the resort. The wife has visited her husband in his cell, but is now prostrated and may not recover from the shock.

Banking Commissioner David O. Watkins has taken charge of the case and issued a statement tonight to the effect that none of the bonds or other securities of the bank had been touched. Bonding companies will make up half of the loss and the company will not be affected by the defalcation.

CRANFORD JAIL-BREAKER CAUGHT IN NEW YORK.

Cranford, June 29.—County Detective John A. Galatian arrested Frank McGhee, colored, at Broad and Wall streets, New York, Saturday afternoon. McGhee was taken before Magistarte Howe, of the Tombs Police Court, who held him on a charge of burglary.

McGhee is accused of having robbed the house of Herman Lusardi in Cranford of $400 worth of jewelry a year ago. He escaped from the Cranford Jail on November 14, 1907.

McGhee was working as a messenger for a banking house when arrested. Prosecutor Swift, of Union County, will institute proceedings to have McGhee extradited.

MAD DOG CHASES BOY.

Jumps Through Screen Door But is Clubbed to Death.

Trenton, June 29.—Mrs. John Mather, of Fairview Park, and Charles Votta, of Broad street Park, are undergoing treatment to prevent hydrophobia as the result of having been bitten by a small dog which ran amuck in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Mather screamed for help when the dog atacked her, and her son, John Mather, Jr., ran to her assistance with a club. The dog turned on the young man and the latter ran into the kitchen and closed the screen door. The dog followed and jumped through the screen, but the resistance of the screen stayed his speep and gave Mather a chance to club him to death.

PRIDE DRIVES TO SUICIDE.

Jersey City Man Kills Himself in Fairmount Park, Philadelphia.

Jersey City, June 29.—From Philadelphia word was received at police headquarters last night that a man who committed suicide in Fairmount Park had in his possession a card bearing the name of J. Weintrob, 388 Jackson avenue, this city.

At that address J. Weintrob, who is engaged in the stationery business, said that the suicide was probably his brother Samuel, who left home five weeks ago. Samuel was 23 years old, and went to Philadelphia in search of employment. His brother expressed the opinion that he had been unsuccessful and being too proud to let his relatives know of his failure killed himself.

Couldn't Parade; a Suicide.

Trenton, June 29.—Andrew Smith, 70 years old, for many years an employee of the Roebling concern, committed suicide Saturday by hanging himself to a door in his bedroom. His body was found by his son. Smith had been ill for some time with muscular rheumatism. He mourned because he would not be able to parade with his fellow employes next Tuesday, when the John A. Roebling memorial monument is to be dedicated in Cadwalader Park.

A DISAPPEARING DIAMOND.

After being thrice lost, a solitaire diamond ring belonging to Mrs. Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, the novelist, of Metuchen, seems to be gone for good. Mrs. Freeman, on retiring one night last winter, placed the ring beneath some orange peel in a saucer. She did not miss the ring until the following evening. Then she sought for it in vain. Letty, the negro maid, was promptly summoned. "Letty," said Mrs. Freeman, solemnly, "where did you put the orange peel which was on the table last night?" "Please, Mrs. Freeman, Ah done put it in de furnace." The furnace was raked out, and the ashes were sifted. Finally a gleam of light was discovered among the clinkers. The gold of the ring was slightly tarnished, and when Mrs. Freeman took it to a jeweler he said that the stone might have to be repolished, but that it was otherwise unharmed. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman were staying in New York at the old Fifth Avenue Hotel. Mrs. Freeman thought it would safeguard her rings if she pinned them with a huge safety pin to her at. In the morning she put them on again. An hour later she discovered that the same solitaire diamond which underwent the cooking process was missing. Mrs. Freeman sank into a chair, and then Dr. Freeman saw the diamond on the brim of Mrs. Freeman's hat. The third adventure proved the last. Mrs. Freeman recently gave a bridge luncheon. Some twenty-five guests were bidden and she planned to treat them to a Fairweather cake. Mrs. Freeman used her hands in its composition. Not until that night when the festivity was over was the loss of the ill-fated ring known. The maid instantly recalled that she had seen "Miss Dolly mixin' the cake with her ring on." The conclusion was inevitable; the ring had gone into the cake. The cake had been eaten. Since then Dr. and Mrs. Freeman have been anxiously watching the obituary columns of the newspapers.

RAILROADS NEVER STRONGER.

American railroads have never passed through a financial depression so serious with so few casualties and with so few railroad bankruptcies. Railroad receiverships are the measure of railroad stability. These receiverships are many or few, according as railroads can or cannot meet their obligations. In 1893, when the panic came in August, there were seventy-four receiverships of railroads, with 20,340 miles of track, and capital, shares and bonds of $1,781,00,000. This was one-sixth of the mileage and of the total capital of our railroads, which which went into the hands of receivers within five months after the crash. Railroads which have gone into the hands of receiverships up to date, or nearly five months after the October crash, number seven instead of seventy-four. They have a mileage of 5,938 miles and total capital of $860,000,000. This is less than 3 per cent., or one-thirty-third of the mileage in the country, and about 6 per cent., or about one-seventeenth of the total railroad capital. There is no comparison between these figures. Where our railroads went down by the score in 1893, after the panic of that year, the railroad systems of the United States have this year shown a strength, an ability to meet their obligations and a capacity to maintain their credit never before displayed. If thereir revenues and their control of their business had been jeopardized by the legislation of the last three years they could not have done this. The fact that they have shows that the tens of thousands who are buying their shares in small quantities at the present range of prices are wiser than those who held that our railroads had been injured by legislation, which has, as a matter of fact, increased general public confidence in them, or the Pennsylvania would not have added 16,000 to its shareholders, and other railroads in proportion.

WHEN TRAVELING.

A set of underclothes of brown linen or pongee does not show the dust and dirt and can be readily washed.

A small bag of leather with small scissors, thimble, needles and thread is always useful.

Net bows edged with satin ribbon are in all sizes and shapes.

Velvet one-half inch wide with bead tassels on each end, gives a very pretty finish to a lace collar. The ends may be crossed and knotted in front.

High Gibson collars and bows of Irish crochet, although expensive in the shops, are easily made.

Rosettes for lingerie are fastened on with small safety pins instead of sewing them.

A large dragon-fly of enamel is beautiful when put among the folds of a dark jabot.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Umpire Harding, who dealt out the decisions in the New Market game Saturday is being fitted with eye-glasses today, and is also taking lessons in "the manly art of self-defence." His decisions were the causes of several verbal combats during the game with the Highland Park A. C. and both teams seemed to find plenty of fault.

It was cool at the First Baptist church last night, so coatless men and hatless women were not in evidence at Rev. George H. Gardner's "Summer Night Sermon" as they were last week. There was a large congregation, and the music was excellent.

The third and last bans for the wedding of Andrew Ferrence and Miss Mary Merenick were read at St. John's church yesterday. The wedding will be tonight and the ceremony will be performed by Father Dunphy.

Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Dutcher and family left today for Ocean Grove, where they will spend the summer vacation. Raymond and John Dutcher will again have their boat on Wesley Lake, as in previous years.

H. L. Dunham, Frank Burdick and Raymond Millard have been named as the committee to take charge of the Seventh-Day Baptist Sunday-school excursion to Asbury Park Thursday.

The Holy Name Cadets attended mass at St. John's church yesterday morning in a body. Father Dunphy was the celebrant.

Frank Guyre has returned after spending a week in the Catskills.

DR. JOHNSON TALKS ON KINDNESS TO ANIMALS

Addressing his remarks especially to the children of the Sunday-school, who attended the service in a body, Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson preached a powerful sermon on kindness to dumb animals yesterday morning at Trinity Reformed church. "Be Gentle to the Weak" was the theme of the speaker's discourse, and he urged the pupils to remember that dumb animals have feelings just as people, and suffer just as much when hurt. His text was from Proverbs 10: 12. The Delitch interpretation of this passage is "A righteous man knows how his cattle feel," and this was the central thought of Dr. Johnson's discourse.

He spoke of the value of training by parents and teachers to make children realize the fact that some of the things they do thoughtlessly give pain to dumb animals. He said that Ernest Thompson-Seton's books do a great deal to humanize animals so as to mimize this thoughtless cruelty, and told the children to read such animal stories. He spoke of many of the really cruel things done by young people as entirely thoughtless and urged them to appreciate the feelings of dumb animals by imagining themselves subjected to the same pain. He illustrated his talk with many instances of this thoughtless cruelty, repeating the incident that first made him appreciate animal suffering.

The service was attended by practically the entire Sunday-school, the pupils marching into the church from the Sunday-school room and taking seats in the front of the church.

MISS SADIE FRUCHT BRIDE OF LEO ZEISEL.

Miss Sadie Frucht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Frucht, of Park avenue, and Leo Zeisel, of New York, were married at the Synagogue on New street, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the presence of 400 relatives and friends from Philadelphia, New York, Brooklyn and this city. Rabbi Davidson, of this city, assisted by a rabbi from New York, performed the ceremony, a feature of which was the singing of the bridal chorus of seven boys. The bride was gowned in white silk, en train; wore a tulle veil and carried a bouquet of white roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at Saengerbund Hall on Somerset street, where the bride and groom received congratulations; supper was served and dancing was continued until the early hours of the morning. After a honeymoon the couple will reside in this city.

15th Regt. Vets Meet.

The executive and monument committees of the Fifteenth Regiment, New Jersey Volunteers' Veteran Association was held in Newark, Saturday, when reports were presented on the recent excursion in the south and the erection of a monument at Salem Church, Virginia, as well as a marker near Bloody Angle, Spottsylvania, an appropriation of $6,500 having been made by the last Legislature for this purpose. The association accepted the invitation of Newaton, Sussex county, to hold the next reunion at that place on Thursday, September 29.

LAWN FETE NETS $100 FOR NETHERWOOD CAMP

As the result of a lawn fete held Saturday afternoon on the lawn of 510 Watchung avenue, $100 was netted for the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp. The affair was planned by a girls' club and workers' circle of which Miss Clara Neuman is president. Gayly decorated booths were placed on the lawn and about a dozen members of the club and their friends were in charge.

At the fancy booth were the Misses Mildred Brownlee, Margaret Mortimer and Clara Neuman; the candy booth was in charge of Miss Mabel Loizeaux, assisted by Miss Esther Brownlee and Mrs. George Mantz. Miss Marion Dorthy was in charge at the lemonade well. Ice cream and cake were sold at a prettily decorated booth by Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. Peter Neuman and Miss Julia Clark. Tables were set on the lawn for serving these refreshments and the members of the band acted as waitresses. A feature of the affair was a booth where Colgate articles, soaps, powder and cologne, were offered for sale. This was in charge of Miss Marguerite Sampter.

MRS. SARAH L. CLIFFTON, OLDEST RESIDENT, DEAD

Mrs. Sarah L. Clifton, widow of William Clifton, and regarded as Plainfield's oldest resident, died this morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mary C. Whitall, of Thornton avenue. Death was due to her advanced age, her relatives having been aware of a gradual failing for the past three weeks.

Mrs. Clifton was born in Plainfield in 1811 on what is now Mountain avenue, the home of her parents being near the Scotch Plains line. She was the daughter of James and Rachel Vail, who were among the earliest settlers in this section. When a young woman she was married to Dr. Philip Dakin and went to Columbus, O. After his death she returned East and was later married to William Clifton, then a resident of Quakertown, this State. Since his death she had resided at Langhorne, Pa., and Waynesville, O., returning to Plainfield from the latter place years ago. She had made her home there with a daughter.

Mrs. Clifton is survived by two sons, William Dakin, of Somerville, and Charles B. Clifton, of this city, also two daughters, Mrs. Mary Whitall, at whose home she died, and Mrs. Ella Furnas, of East Orange. She was a member of the Society of Friends (Hicksite) and the funeral will be held in the Watchung avenue meeting house, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

TRINITY SERVICE FOR NETHERWOOD CAMP WORK

Attended by Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Little Missionary's Day Nursery in New York city, and the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, and a dozen children from the lower East Side of New York, where her work is carried on, a service in the interests of the camp was held at Trinity Reformed church last night. Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson presided and the principal speaker was Dr. H. S. Sauerbrey, of New York. Dr. Sauerbrey is much interested in the work of Miss Curry among the poor children in the tenement house districts and gave avivid description of the conditions in the crowded homes on the East Side. He spoke of the value of the summer vacation at Netherwood to the children, the babies and the overworked mothers and urged the congregation to support Miss Curry's work at Netherwood.

Miss Curry also spoke briefly of the work and George E. Hall, vice-president of the camp association here outlined the plans for the season, stating that the camp wil open Monday, July 6. The children from New York presented a program of songs and recitations, and were greeted with the keenest appreciation.

Music was a feature of the service and the full choir of Trinity Reformed church was assisted by an orchestra of six pieces. Those who played were Miss Marjorie Brown, Miss Arline Brown and A. S. Mosher, violins, E. D. Young, cornet, Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan, bass viol, and Elmer Wheeler, flute. The offering proved a substantial financial aid to the work of Miss Curry among the New York poor.

STRAY HINTS ON SUMMER FASHIONS.

Jackets are being made without any sleeves, the blouse sleeves of net, mousseline or ruffles being sufficient. A pretty idea is to cut the armhole in a wide V-shape, showing an underwaist and sleeves of a different color and material.

Lingerie hats are extremely chic for summer wear, but are much larger than those seen before. Their trimming is a combination of tulle, net and flowers. The embriidered top is placed over a tightly wired frame of point d'esprit showing the edge of the brim bound with satin.

Nets used for guimpes, waists and gowns are embroidered in heavy dots in black and white. Filet is embroidered in long articles ETAONNN broidered in long stitches in white or color; white and ecru net is woven in narrow stripes; filet for dresses and coats is embroidered in gold and chenille and netc flowered and figured are much in evidence in millinery and dresses.

Bows of lawn embroidered with tiny French dots of a delicate color are very popular to wear with almost every tolette except an evening gown. A turndown linen collar embroidered in white and matching color is the correct finish. The little butterfly bow of white lawn embroidered in a color and having a scalloped edge has not lost its popularity.

Flowers used in millinery this season are the most perfect reproductions of nature that have ever been seen. Daises, cowslips, sunflflowers and pond lilies, orchids, geraniums and hydrangeas are used in great quantities and with much foliage. One can scarcely find a flower that is not worn.

Fans are seen in the most exquisite designs and colorings and the ones imported from Japan and Africa are perhaps the most beautiful. They are generally made of silk, hand painted in Japanese scenes representing a tea garden or festival and many other scenes. The Japanese carve fans entirely of ivory, and the Africans make them of ostrich feathers in natural colors and which are mounted in bone or ivory.

Funeral of Henry Sauermilch.

The funeral of Henry Sauermilch, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sauermilch, of Scotch Plains, who died from the accidental drinking of potassium of lye, was held at the parents home yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. C. H. Schneegas, of this city, assisted by Rev. Mr. Dietrich, pastor of the Scotch Plains Methodist church. Burial was made in the Scotch Plains cemetery, the following playmates of the little boy acting as pall bearers: R. Bruchman, W. Reynolds, W. Baird, A. Meyer, F. Clark and M. Saunders.

Trolley Car Hits Wagon.

A main line trolley car collided with a wagon belonging to William Chamberlin at Second and Richmond streets, Saturday afternoon. Chamberlain and three other men in the rig, together with a dog, were pitched out and the wagon was damaged. A pot of paint in the vehicle was thrown over the group and their clothing was ruined by it.

CASKET FALLS; BODY ROLLS OUT

GREWSOME ACCIDENT OCCURS AT BURIAL OF ITALIAN NEAR MT. WASHINGTON, O.

FUNERAL ENDS IN A RIOT

Mourners, Frenzied by Awful Sight, Imagine Corpse Was Dumped Purposely and Considerable Fighting Results.

Cincinnati.—The funeral of Gamaro Ailleo, a young Italian, at the Fruit Hill cemetery, near Mt. Washington the other day, resulted in a riot and Clem Davis, who owns a general store at Fruit Hill, was forced to flee for his life and barricade the doors of his store to escape the fury of nearly 100 Italian laborers who sought his life.

Ailleo was killed some days ago by Frank Cramer, a resident of Moscow. Cramer escaped, and feeling between the Americans and Italians has been very bitter since the shooting. The man died at the hospital, and after waiting some time to hear from Italy from the young man's parents it was decided to bury the body at Fruit Hill cemetery temporarily.

Almost every Italian in the vicinity attended the obsequies. The burial ritual had been read and the body was being lowered into the grave by the sexton of the cemetery and Davis had been called by the sexton to assist in the burial.

Just as they began to lower the body the strap which Davis was holding broke and the coffin went to the bottom of the grave with a crash. The whole side of the casket was broken out and the body rolled under the casket.

With a wild yell a dozen friends of the dead man simultaneously started after Davis. They accused him of being friendly to Cramer, who killed the man, and, seizing a number of clubs, they started after him. Davis, however, proved fleet of foot and outdistanced his pursuers. He ran into his store and barricaded the doors, while the irate Italians tried in vain to gain an entrance. They hurled clubs at the building and loudly yelled that if they did not kill him then they would at some future time. The entire settlement was aroused and many Americans gathered near the scene, but no one sought to quell the excited mob. After keeping Davis a prisoner in his store for several hours the Italians returned to the graveyard. They fixed up the broken coffin and replaced the corpse.

They fastened the lid of the box at the bottom of the grave and, seizing spades which were to have been used by the sexton and Davis, shoveled the dirt into the grave. The sexton fled while the Italians were chasing Davis.

Girl Elopes on Her Rollers.

Asheville, N. C.—Miss Annie Lee, 17 years old, a pretty schoolgirl, daughter of Mrs. Robert E. Lee, escaped under the closest watch set by her parents and eloped with Charles M. Strouse, a popular young man, to Landurm, S. C., where they were married.

Miss Lee went to a skating rink several nights ago and was, as usual, accompanied by a member of her family.

After putting on her skates she skated from one end of the hall to the other and out of a rear door into the arms of her fiance, who had a carriage waiting.

Dog's Caress Wakes Her.

Waterbury, Conn.—Maud Hudner, 12 years old, daughter of Edward Hudner, living near Greystone, arose in her sleep the other night and, donning scant attire, walked along the turnpike for a quarter of a mile. She would not have been missed had not a shepherd dog barked until the family was alarmed. Father and son met the girl, awakened by the dog's caresses, running for home in a frightened state. Since then she has been hysterical.

Turns Over in Bed; Breaks Legs.

Harrisburg, Pa.—Miss Margaret Kramer of Philadelphia fractured both legs while turning over in bed. Miss Kramer was the guest of her brother, Dr. Charles F. Kramer, a prominent druggist, for some time, and had been suffering from rheumatism.

Did You Burn Too Much Coal?

It's cheaper to have a good furnace, to say nothing of the comfort. The best furnace is the

BOYNTON

The Furnace with the Square Fire Pot

It has the only fire pot that furnishes perfect combustion, burns all the coal cleanly, without clinkers or clogging, and at the same time saves coal and labor. Look up a Boynton dealer and ask him to explain.

There are BOYNTON heating plants of all kinds. Ask about our Round or Sectional Boilers for steam or hot water. Also ranges.

By virtue of the above-stated writ of fieri facias to me directed I shall expose for sale by public vendue, at the Sheriff's office, in the Courthouse, in the city of Elizabeth, N. J., on at two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, all those tracts or parcels of land and premises hereinafter particularly described, situate, lying and being in the city of Plainfield, in the county of Union and State of New Jersey:

The First Tract—Beginning at a stone in the middle of Third street and corner of a lot recently conveyed to Edgar T. Randolph; thence with the middle of Third street northeasterly fifty (50) feet to a stone and corner of other lands of said Westervelt; thence southerly and parallel with said Randolph's line one hundred and thirty-three (133) feet, more or less, to a stone in the line of lands of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey; thence along said company's line southwesterly fifty (50) feet, more or less, to a stone and said Randolph's corner; thence northwesterly along his line on hundred and thirty-seven (137) feet, more or less, to the beginning. Being lot No. twelve, in deed from Thomas Forsyth, Sheriff of Union county, to said Job M. Winans, dated June 6, 1883, and recorded in book 162 of deeds for Union county, on pages 221, etc., and being the second lot described in a certain deed of quit-claim made by Meeker Wood and Susan Wood, his wife, to said Job M. Winans, dated June 21, 1888, and recorded in book 199 of deeds for Union county, on pages 327, etc.

The Second Tract—Beginning at a stake in the southeasterly side of lands conveyed by the parties of the first part to Peter Cassidy, by deed dated November 4, 1887, said point being one hundred and eighteen (118) feet, more or less, southeasterly from the easterly side of Third street; thence northeasterly along rear of lands of now or formerly Burdick and Jeannette Peterson ninety (90) feet, more or less; thence southeasterly ninety-five and fifty-five one-hundredths (95.55) feet, more or less, to lands conveyed by the parties of the first part to James Amerman by deed dated September 21, 1889; thence southwesterly along said lands of said Amerman twenty-six and twenty-three one-hundredths (26.23) feet to a stake and westerly corner of said Amerman; thence sotheasterly still along said Amerman's land five (5) feet, more or less, to the northerly corner of lands conveyed by the parties of the first part to Calvin Neighbor by deed dated February 26, 1890; thence southwesterly along said lands of said Neighbor and also lands conveyed by the parties of the first part to William H. Connett by deed dated January 24, 1889, and lands conveyed by the parties of the first part to Catherine McGinley by deed dated January 5, 1889, eighty (80) feet, more or less, to a point; thence northwesterly sixty-three (63) feet, more or less, to the place of beginning.

Being part of the premises conveyed by the Central Jersey Railroad Company of New Jersey to the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company by deed dated January 1, 1872, and recorded in the Clerk's office of Union county February 27, 1872, in book 66 of deeds for said county, pages 185, etc. Also by deed in part from the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey to the Central Jersey Land Improvement Company by deed dated August 25, 1874, and recorded in the Clerk's office of Union county on February 10, 1875, in book 95 of deeds of said county, pages 520, etc.

ADVICE WORTH LISTENING TO.

Generally It at Least Helps One to Make Up His Mind.

You may disregard advice, but listen to it.

Don't scoff at it, no matter who the person is that makes it.

Many a fool has helped a wise man. Even the worst advice presents one side of a question.

An astute man said that he always wanted advice, not to follow it, but to help him make up his mind. If you once get this idea about it you will be much the gainer in the battle of life. No one person can present all the points of view, and a person about to take an important step should be able to know what is all around the horizon.

Listen to everything everybody has to say, if you have the time; if not, always listen to anything that is presented strongly, whether or not it agrees with your opinion.

And above all things never scoff at the criticism, with its implied advice, of an enemy. There you get your weakest points exposed. If you are wise you will be thankful for the opportunity to strengthen them.

SEES DOWNFALL OF THE BELL.

Metal Tubes Will Supersede It, According to Clergyman.

"It will not be many years," says a St. Louis clergyman, "before bells for church use will be almost unknown. Even now, when a church desires something to answer the purpose of the bell, the trustees do not buy bells, but tubes, some made of bell metal, other of a composite of several metals. The metal tubes are hung in steeples and struck with a hammer. They give a clear, full note, just like a bell, only more resonant. They never crack with cold or heat, and what is a still greater recommendation, never get out of tone. There is a chime in the city with one or two bells so horribly out of tune that they set people's teeth on edge. Such discord in a chime of metal tubes would be unknown, and besides, the tone is so much more agreeable than that of the bell that any one who ever hears the two can not fail to prefer the tube. It sounds like a great organ pipe, so that when one of these chimes is played the impression is that of a huge organ far up in the sky."

Friday and the Soothsayer.

Two women who wished to make an appointment with a fortune teller who was pronounced "just splendid" by everybody who had patronized her, were advised by the seer to come on Friday.

"That is, if you are not superstitious about Friday," she said. "Most people are. They regard Friday as such an unlucky day that they won't even have their fortune told them for fear they will hear something unlucky. That is why I advise you to come on that day. I will have plenty of time, and won't have to put your cases through with such a rush."

Moon Regarded as a Deity.

Among the early peoples of Mesopotamia all of the heavenly bodies were regarded as deities, but the moon, because of the variety of the shapes which it assumes, was the chief of them all. Special reverence was therefore paid it and some of the oldest and most important of the Babylonian temples, as at Ur and Haran, were devoted to its worship. Thus the crescent, the symbol by which the moon god was represented, was supposed to have the power to avert evil, and then together with the star it formed the word for incantation.

Entitled to the Best.

Tipping is admitted to be a bad habit, but it is firmly established. A young fellow who took his best girl to supper felt that he must conform to custom, and handed out his coin with liberality, so that no one in the restaurant was overlooked. After they had been swung through the revolving door she said:

"Did you give that man at the door anything?"

"No. Why?"

"He ought to have had the most. He let us out."

The Word Post.

Many persons wonder how we got the word "post" as applied to the mails. It comes from the Latin positus, which means placed; therefore it is a fixed station. From this it came to mean an established conveyance of letters from one station to another, and the place from which the letters were sent out came to be called the postoffice. "Post-haste," a word used by Shakespeare, means speed in traveling, like that of post or a courier.

Commission.

Walter had been collecting coins for some time, and one morning at breakfast he asked:

"Papa, do you go down town to make money?"

"Yes," said his father. "Why?"

"I wish you would make me a set of United States gold dollars," said Walter.

Dancing Defined.

Charles had been looking on at a dance for the first time in his life.

When he reached home he said: "Aunty, it wasn't a bit like I thought it would be. I thought when people danced they jumped up and down—but they didn't. They just took each other by the waist and skated."—Harper's.

This seemed to be answer enough. She extended her hand in a royal fashion. I took it in one of mine, bent and kissed it respectfully. Apparently she had expected the old-fashioned handshake familiar to our common race, for I observed that she started as my lips came into contact with the back of her hand. As for me, when my lips touched the satin flesh I knew that it was all over.

"Your highness!" she called.

The princess returned. She looked at me with a mixture of fierceness and defiance, humility and supplication. I had always supposed her to be a sort of hobbledehoy; instead, she was one of those rare creatures who possess all the varying moods of the sex. I could readily imagine all the young fellows falling violently in love with her; all the young fellows save one. I glanced furtively at the Honorable Betty.

"He knows all?" asked her highness, her chin tilted aggressively.

"Everything."

"What must you think of me?" There was that in her highness' tone tone which dared me to express any opinion that was not totally complimentary.

"I am not sufficiently well-born to pass an opinion upon your highness' actions," I replied, with excusable irony.

"Excellent!" she exclaimed. "I have grown weary of sycophants. You are not afraid of me at all."

"Not in the slightest degree," I declared.

"You will not regret what you are about to do. I can make it very pleasant for you in Barscheit—or very unpleasant." But this threatening supplement was made harmless by the accompanying smile.

"May I offer the advice of rather a worldly man?"

"Well?"

"When Steinbock comes bid him go about his business."

The Honorable Betty nodded approvingly, but her highness shrugged.

"Since you are decided," and I bowed. "Now, what time does this fellow put in his appearance?"

Her highness beamed upon the Honorable Betty. "I like the way he says 'this fellow;' it reassures me. He is due at nine o'clock; that is to say, in half an hour. I will give you these directions. I do not wish Steinbock to know of your presence here. You will hide in the salon, close to the portieres, within call. Moreover, I shall have to impose upon you the disagreeable duty of playing the listener. Let nothing escape your ear or your eye. I am not certain of this fellow Steinbock, though I hold a sword above his head."

"But where are your men?" I asked.

She smiled. "There is no one here but Leopold."

"Your highness to meet Steinbock alone?"

"I have no fear of him; he knows who I am."

"Everything shall be done as you wish." I secretly hoped I might have the opportunity to punch Steinbock's head.

"Thank you." The transition of her moods always left me in wonder. "Play something; it is impossible to talk." She perched herself on the broad arm of the Honorable Betty's chair, and her arm rested lightly but affectionately on her shoulder.

It was something for a man to gain the confidence, in so short a time, of two such women. I felt as brave as Bayard. So I sat down before the piano and played. My two accomplishments are horseback riding and music, and I candidly tell you that I am as reckless at one as at the other. I had a good memory. I played something from Chaminade, as her fancies are always airy and agreeable and unmelancholy. I was attacking "The Flatterer" when her highness touched my arm.

"Hark!"

We all listened intently. The sound of beating hoofs came distinctly. A single horseman was galloping along the highway toward the castle. The sound grew nearer and nearer; presently it ceased. I rose quietly.

"It is time I hid myself, for doubtless this rider is the man."

The princess paled for a moment, while her companion nervously plucked at the edges of her handkerchief.

"Go," said the former, "and be watchful."

I then took up my position behind the portieres. Truly I had stumbled into an adventure; but how to stumble out again? If the duke got wind of it, it would mean my recall, and I was of a mind, just then, that I was going to be particularly fond of Barscheit.

All was silent. A door closed, and then came the tread of feet. I peered through the portieres shortly to see the entrance of two men, one of whom was the old caretaker. His companion was a dark, handsome fellow, of Hungarian gypsy type. There was a devil-may-care air about him that fitted him well. It was Steinbock. He was dressed with scrupulous care, in spite of the fact that he wore riding clothes. It is possible that he recognized the importance of the event. One did not write one's name under a princess' signature every day, even in mockery. There was a half-smile on his face that

"'Your Highness Sees That I Am Prompt.'"

I did not like.

"Your highness sees that I am prompt,"—uncovering.

"It is well. Let us proceed at once to conclude the matter in hand," she said.

"Wholly at your service!"

(Hang the fellow's impudence! How dared he use that jovial tone?)

I heard the crackle of parchment. The certificate was being unfolded. (It occurred to me that while she was about it the princess might just as well have forged the rascal's name and wholly dispensed with his services. The whole affair struck me as being ineffective; nothing would come of it. If she tried to make the duke believe that she had married Steinbock, her uncle would probe the matter to the bottom, and in the end cover her with ridicule. But you can not tell a young woman anything, when she is a princess and in the habit of having her own way. It is remarkable how stupid clever women can be at times. The Honorable Betty understood, but her highness would not be convinced. Thus she suffered this needless affront. Pardon this parenthesis, but when one talks from behind a curtain the parenthesis is the only available thing.) There was silence. I saw Steinbock poise the pen, then scribble on the parchment. It was done. I stirred restlessly.

"There!" cried Steinbock. His voice did not lack a certain triumph. "And now for the duplicate!"

Her highness stuffed the document into the bosom of her dress. "There will be no duplicate." The frigidity of her tones would have congealed the blood of an ordinary rascal. But Steinbock was not ordinary.

"But suppose the duke comes to me for verification?" he reasoned.

"You will be on the other side of the frontier. Here are your thousand crowns."

The barb of her contempt penetrated even his thick epidermis. His smile hardened.

"I was once a gentleman; I did not always accept money for aiding in shady transactions."

"Neither your sentiments nor your opinions are required. Now, observe me carefully," continued her highness. "I shall give you 24 hours to cross the frontier in any direction you choose. If after that time you are found in Barscheit, I promise to hand you over to the police."

"It has been a great day," said the rascal, with a laugh. "A thousand crowns!"

I separated the portieres an inch. He stood at the side of the piano, upon which he leaned an elbow. He was certainly handsome, much sought after by women of a low class. The princess stood at Steinbock's left and the Honorable Betty at his right, erect, their faces expressing nothing, so forced was the respose.

"I never expected so great an honor. To wed a princess, when that princess is your highness! Faith, it is fine!"

"You may go at once," interrupted her highness, her voice rising a key. "Remember, you have only 24 hours between you and prison. You waste valuable time."

"What! you wish to be rid of me so soon? Why, this is the bridal night. One does not part with one's wife at this rate."

Leopold, the caretaker, made a warning gesture.

"Come, Leopold, I must have my jest," laughed Steinbock.

"Within certain bounds," returned the old man phlegmatically. "It is high time you were off. You are foolhardy to match your chances with justice. Prison stares you in the face."

"Bah! Do you believe it?"

"It is a positive fact," added the princess.

"But to leave like this has the pang of death!" Steinbock remonstrated. "What! shall I be off without having even kissed the bride?"

"The bargain is concluded on all sides; you have your thousand crowns."

"But not love's tribute. I must have that. It is worth a thousand crowns. Besides," with a perceptible change in his manner, "shall I forget the contempt with which you have always looked upon me, even in the old days that were fair and prosperous? Scarcely! Opportunity is a thing that can not be permitted to pass thus lightly." Then I observed his nose wrinkle; he was sniffing. "Tobacco! I did not know that you smoked, Leopold."

"Be gone!" cried the old fellow, his hands opening and shutting.

"Presently!" With a laugh he sprang toward her highness, but Leopold was too quick for him.

There was a short struggle, and I saw the valiant old man reel, fall and strike his head on the stone of the hearth. He lay perfectly motionless. So unexpected was this scene to my eyes that for a time I was without any particular sense of movement. I stood like stone. With an evil laugh Steinbock sprang toward her highness again. Quick as light she snatched up my crop, which lay on the table, and struck the rascal full across the eyes, again and again and again, following him as he stepped backward. Her defense was magnificent. But, as fate determined to have it, Steinbock finally succeeded in wresting the stick from her grasp. He was wild with pain and chagrin. It was then I awoke to the fact that I was needed.

I rushed out, hot with anger. I caught Steinbock by the collar just in time to prevent his lips from touching her cheek. I flung him to the floor, and knelt upon his chest. I am ashamed to confess it, but I recollect slapping the fellow's face as he struggled under me.

"You scoundrel!" I cried, breathing hard.

"Kill him!" whispered her highness. She was furious; the blood of her marauding ancestors swept over her cheeks, and if ever I saw murder in a woman's eyes it was at that moment.

"Hush, Hildegarde, hush!" The English girl caught the princess in her arms and drew her back. "Don't let me hear you talk like that. It is all over."

"Get up," I said to Steinbock, as I set him free.

He crawled to his feet. He was very much disordered, and there were livid welts on his face. He shook himself, eyeing me evilly. There was murder in his eyes, too.

"Empty your pockets of those thousand crowns!"—peremptorily.

"I was certain that I smelled tobacco," he sneered. "It would seem that there are other bridegrooms than myself."

"Those crowns, or I'll break every bone in your body!" I balled my fists. Nothing would have pleased me better at that moment than to pummel the life out of him.

Slowly he drew out the purse. It was one of those limp silk affairs so much affected by our ancestors. He balanced it on his hand. Its ends bulged with gold and bank-notes. Before I was aware of his intentions, he swung one end of it in so deft a manner that it struck me squarely between the eyes. With a crash of glass he disappeared through the window. The blow dazed me only for a moment, and I was hot to be on his tracks. The Honorable Betty stopped me.

"He may shoot you!" she cried. "Don't go.!"

Although half through the window, I crawled back, brushing my sleeves. Something warm trickled down my nose.

"You have been cut!" exclaimed her highness.

"It is nothing. I beg of you to let me follow. It will be all over with that fellow at large."

"Not at all." Her highness' eyes sparkled wickedly. "He will make for the nearest frontier. He knows now that I shall not hesitate a moment to put his affairs in the hands of the police."

"Struck Me Squarely Between the Eyes."

"He will boast of what he has done."

"Not till he has spent those thousand crowns." She crossed the room and knelt at the side of Leopold, dashing some water into his face. Presently he opened his eyes. "He is only stunned. Poor Leopold!"

I helped the old man to his feet, and he rubbed the back of his head grimly. He drew a revolver from his pocket.

"I had forgotten all about it," he said contritely. "Shall I follow him, your highness?"

"Let him go. It doesn't matter now. Betty, you were right, as you always are. I have played the part of a silly fool. I would have my own way in the matter. Well, I have this worthless paper. At least I can frighten the duke, and that is something."

"Oh, my dear, if only you would have listened to my advice!" the other girl said. There was deep discouragement in her tones. "I warned you so often that it would come to this end."

"Let us drop the matter entirely," said her highness.

I gazed admiringly at her—to see her sink suddenly into a chair and weep abandonedly! Leopold eyed her mournfully while the English girl rushed to her side and flung her arms around her soothingly.

"I am very unhappy," said the princess, lifting her head and shaking the tears from her eyes. "I am harassed on all sides; I am not allowed any will of my own. I wish I were a peasant!— Thank you, thank you! But for you that wretch would have kissed me." She held out her hand to me, and I bent to one knee as I kissed it. She was worthy to be the wife of the finest fellow in all the world. I was very sorry for her, and thought many uncomplimentary things of the duke.

"I shall not ask you to forget my weakness," she said.

"It is already forgotten, your highness."

Under such circumstances I met the Princess Hildegarde of Barscheit; and I never betrayed her confidence until this writing, when I have her express permission.

Of Hermann Steinbock I never saw anything more. Thus the only villain passes from the scene. As I have repeatedly remarked, doubtless to your weariness, this is not my story at all; but in parenthesis I may add that between the Honorable Betty Moore and myself there sprang up a friendship which later ripened into something infinitely stronger.

This, then, was the state of affairs when, one month later, Max Scharfenstein poked his handsome blond head over the frontier of Barscheit; cue (as the dramatist would say), enter hero.

CHAPTER IV.

He came straight to the consulate and I was so glad to see him that I sat him down in front of the sideboard and left orders that I was at home to no one. We had been classmates and roommates at college, and two better friends never lived. We spent the whole night in recounting the good old days, sighed a little over the departed ones, and praised or criticized the living. Hadn't they been times, though? The nights we had stolen up to Philadelphia to see the shows, the great Thanksgiving games in New York, the commencements, and all that!

Max had come out of the far west. He was a foundling who had been adopted by a wealthy German ranchman named Scharfenstein, which name Max assumed as his own, it being as good as any. Nobody knew anything about Max's antecedents, but he was so big and handsome and jolly that no one cared a hang. For all that he did not know his parentage, he was a gentleman, something that has to be bred in the bone. Once or twice I remember seeing him angry; in anger he was arrogant, deadly, but calm. He was a god in track-linen, for he was what few big men are, quick and agile. The big fellow who is catlike in his movements is the most formidable of athletes. One thing that invariably amused me was his inordinate love of uniforms. He would always stop when he saw a soldier or the picture of one, and his love of arms was little short of a mania. He was an expert fencer and a dead shot besides. (Pardon the parenthesis, but I feel it my duty to warn you that nobody fights a duel in this little history, and nobody gets killed.)

On leaving college he went in for medicine, and his appearance in the capital city of Barscheit was due obviously to the great medical college, famous the world over for its nerve specialists. This was Max's first adventure in the land of gutturals. I explained to him, and partly unraveled, the tangle of laws; as to the language, he spoke that, not like a native, but as one.

Max was very fond of the society of women, and at college we used to twit him about it, for he was always eager to meet a new face, trusting that the new one might be the ideal for which he was searching.

"Well, you old Dutchman," said I, "have you ever found that ideal woman of yours?"

"Bah!"—lighting a pipe. "She will never be found. A horse and a trusty dog for me; those two you may eventually grow to understand. Of course, I don't say, if the woman came along —the right one—I mightn't go under. I'm philosopher enough to admit that possibility. I want her tall, hair like cornsilk, eyes like the corn-flower, of brilliant intellect, reserved, and dignified, and patient. I want a woman, not humorous, but who understands humor, and I have never heard of one. So, you see, it's all smoke; and I never talk woman these times unless I'm smoking,"—with a gesture which explained that he had given up the idea altogether. "A doctor sees so much of women that he finally sees nothing of woman."

"Oh, if you resort to epigrams, I can see that it's all over."

Preserving Asparagus.

Select heads of asparagus as perfect as possible in every way. Wilted vegetables will not can icely. In fact, the difficulties of canning vegetables like asparagus are so great it scarcely pays for the rtouble. It rarely keeps well and is hard to do. Trim and prepare the asparagus. Place is uncooded in the cans, filling as evenly as possible. Steam constantly for four hours. Fill the cans with boiling water. Screw on the covers as tightly as possible and stand away to cool, being very careful not to put them in a draft of air. When cold, tighten the covers and keep where it is dark and cool.

ELIZABETH IS DEFEATED

Plainfield Y. M. C. A. Team Humbles the County Seat Aggregation.

IN STATE LEAGUE GAME.

Local Nine Wins by Score of 11 to 6 on Crescent Oval—Making Good Scores During Contest.

Elizabeth went one peg lower in the State baseball league Saturday afternoon, when the Y. M. C. A. nine trimmed them by a score of 11-6 at Crescent Oval. The Elizabethans still have their first victory to get and have four defeats to their discredit to date. Newark won on a forfeit from Trenton, a disagreement arising when the score stood 4-4 in the game played at Newark. This keeps the Newark association's 1,000 per cent. record unbroken, and they have a string of five victories. Orange came up to third place in the league by trimming Summit, 8-1.

The Elizabeth tail-enders put up a hard fight for Saturday's game here and played strong baseball up to the fifth. They scored in the second on Jacot's error and goose-egged the local nine for four sessions. In the fifth, three hits and two passes, luckily sandwished, brought in three Y. M. C. A. runners and gave the locals the lead. After thus breaking the line of seros, the Y. M. C. A. scored in every inning to the end. Heavy hiting in the seventh, when Scott and Jacot made two-baggers and Loizeaux and Ralph Schoomaker hit safe ones, brought in four runs, but a double play cut off what looked like a scoring fest in the eighth, three hits and six stolen bases netting three runs. Conover's home run was a feature, which helped keep the local nine in second place by a big margin.

Aside from this four-sack bingle, Conover did good work in the box, fanning twelve Elizabethans and being touched for eight hits, four of which came in the eigth and ninth. He was given good support, except in the second. Gorman, in the centre of the diamond for the visitors, was easy after the fourth. His bends were located for fifteen hits, and he fooled but six batters. The details:

CLINTON AVENUES DEFEAT JEFFERSONS AT NEWARK

The Clinton Avenues journey to Newark Saturday afternoon, where they assisted the Jefferson A. A. in opening its new ball grounds and incidentally added another scalp to their long string captured this season. They defeated the Essex county boys by a score of 7 to 2 in one of the best played games of the season. Clifford Randolph, as usual, had a large share in the victory, striking out thirteen men and allowing but five hits, while the Plainfield contingent touched Leary up for thirteen hits, which included two home runs, one by Dick Scott, who took Giles' place in the field, and the other by Barnes.

The score might have been much larger had it not been for the fast fielding of the Jeffersons. Clinton Avenue had thirteen men left on bases as a result of this. The Plainfield team almost played an errorless game, but one error being credited and that to Barnes. The game attracted a large crowd of friends of the home team, but they were generous and applauded the fine work of the visitors. The Jeffersons were much pleased with the opening game and afterward they complimented the Clinton Avenues for the fine contest, although they regretted losing it. The score:

Iolas Defeat Monroe A. C.

Heavy hitting enabled the Iola Club to defeat the Monroe A. C., Saturday afternoon, by a score of 15 to 4. Inability on the part of the losing team to connect with Snyder's curves was responsible for the result. The Iolas blanked their opponents for six innings, while they steadily added to their own score. Score by innings:

PLAINFIELD A. C. WINS IN THE NINTH INNING

The Plainfield A. C. defeated the Harrison A. C., Saturday afternoon on the Clinton avenue diamond, by the score of 2 to 1. Both pitchers were in excellent condition, Slocum, of the winning team striking out sixteen men and Reinman had twelve strike-outs to his credit. Both sides played hard for victory, which was obtained in the ninth inning with two men out. The score:

SCOTCH PLAINS WINS BY A CLOSE DECISION

With the game well in hand up to the ninth inning, the Scotch Plains team came near losing to the Trojans, of Elizabeth, in a well-played contest at the 'Plains, Saturday afternoon. Only a close decision in which the home team was favored saved a tie scroe and possible defeat. The Trojans came to town determined to take the measure of the home aggregation, which has only met defeat once this season. To make sure of it the regular battery was "benched," and Langstaff and Seary, of the defunct Elizabeth Union League club, were substituted.

For six innings it looked as though they would accomplish the purpose, or at least hold their own as neither side had scored. In their half of the sixth inning the 'Plains team found Langstaff and when the dust cleared away, five runs had come over the plate. Flannery, first up, was walked. Joe Alberts advanced him on a single to left. Frentz followed with another, too hot for thes hort-stop to handle and Flannery scored on this hit. H. Alberts put a red hot one to Langstaff and Joe Albert scored from third. Seary tried to catch H. Albert off first and by the time the ball was returned, Frentz scored on the play. H. Albert and Allen also scored before the visitors settled down.

The Trojans scored two runs in their half of the seventh on a couple of hits and errors. In the ninth with thes core 5 to 2 in their favor, the home team infield went up in the air. The first three men up hit little infield hits, but managed to get by with them. At the time the questionable decision was made. The score stood 4 to 5, three men on bases and no out for the Trojans. A "Texas leaguer" fly was knocked to left field. Reick came in on the ball and just as he caught it, fell. Many thought it was a "trapped" ball. Reick threw the ball to third base and the infielders caught every man before he could get back on the hit. The decision did not meet with the approval of the Elizabeth rooters, as they had backed their team heavily.

The decision stood, however, Umpire Kenny being supported by a great many spectators, whoc laimed that Reick caught the ball fairly. Had the play come at any other stage of the game no question would have been raised.

HIGHLANDS SWAMPED NEW MARKET, SCORE 15-2

The Highland A. C. nine had an easy time with the New Market Field Club team Saturday, winning a one-sided game at New Market by a score of 15-2. Fulton proved no puzzle for the Highland batters, who gathered in ten singles, including a home run by Wunderlich and a two-base hit by Kyle. The Highlanders nailed up their laurels in the first, scoring four runs. They added three more in the fouth and four more batters came home in the seventh and ninth. The New Market team scored the two runs in the fifth, when Pennington and Fulton completed the circuit. The home team made ten errors, while seven misplays were tallied against the Highlands. The score:

HARD-FOUGHT MATCHES IN C.C. WOMEN'S TENNIS

Mrs. S. F. Weaver, paired with Miss Barbara Fleming, won the women's doubles tennis title at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday morning by defeating the Misses Mildred and Jenet Wildey in the final round on the club courts. The match scores were 6-4 and 6-2. There were eight teams of club players entered and the play was fast, including some brilliant tennis in several closely contested matches. The winners will receive trophy cups as the season's title holders, and there are also awards for the runners-up.

All were two set matches except the one where the winners met Mr. Francis Frost and Miss Elsie Goddard in the first round. It took three sets to decide which pair was to continue play in the second round, and the scores were 6-2, 5-7 and 6-2. These are the scores:

First round: Miss Mildred and Miss Janet Wildey beat Miss Nellie Valiant and Miss Euphemia Bakewell, 6-3, 6-1; Miss Edna Brown and Miss Antoinette Barclay beat Miss Margaret Hayes and Miss Caroline Martin, 6-3, 6-4; Mrs. S. F. Weaver and Miss Barbara Fleming beat Mrs. Francis Frost and Miss Elsie Goddard, 6-2, 5-7, 6-2; Mrs. Daniel Runkle beat Miss Marion Brown and Miss Catherine Titus, 7-5, 6-1.

The Misses Wildey beat Miss Brown and Miss Barclay, 6-0, 6-1; Mrs. Weaver and Miss Fleming won from Miss Kaufman and Mrs. Runkle by default. Mrs. Weaver and Miss Fleming beat the Misses Wildey, 6-4, 6-2.

SIX CUP CONTESTS AT PARK GOLF CLUB

The largest field of the season was out at the Park Golf Club, Saturday afternoon to take part in the numerous events scheduled for the day. The course was in the best of condition making play a real pleasure. There continued to be great interest in the competition for the challenge trophies which was started earlier in the season.

For challenge trophy number 1, Walter C. McNaughton, holder, defeated W. R. Faber, challenger, by 5 up and 3 to play; for trophy number 3, Leon R. Thurlow, challenger, defeated Dr. A. W. Anderson, holder, by 3 up and 1 to play; for trophy number 5, Miss Lydie E. Loizeaux, challenger, defeated W. V. Byard, holder, by 5 up and 3 to play.

The play for the Summer cup was concluded, W. R. Faber being the winner with a total of eleven points. These scores were returned for the President's Golf Club and Summer cups:

Walter C. McNaughton, 89, 16-73; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 97, 14-83; Charles A. Reed, 88, 4-84; W. R. Faber, 93, 9-84; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 93, 9-84; A. W. Kenworthy, 98, 13-85; Leon R. Thurlow, 96, 10-86; R. V. Carpenter, 108, 21-87; Miss Lydie E. Loizeaux, 111, 24-87; Charles B. Morse, 103, 11-92; W. V. Byard, 107, 13-94; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 107, 11-96.

There was also play for the Green committee cup, women's handicap, nine holes. The best cars were as follows:

Mrs. F. W. Jones, 65, 25-40; Miss Harriett I. Shreve, 62, 18-44; Mrs. C. L. Goodrich, 70, 20-50; Miss Grace A. Ten Eyck, 75, 25-50; Miss Lydie E. Loizeaux, 54, 0-54.

The pairings for next Saturday's play follow: Hydewood Park Challenge cup, C. B. Morse, holder, challenged by W. C. McNaughton; for ttrophy number 2, W. R. Faber, holder, challenged by Leon R. Thurlow; for trophy number 4, Dr. A. W. Anderson, challenged by Miss Lydie E. Loizeaux.

Among those scoring points for the Summer cup, the competition for which was concluded on Saturday, follow: W. R. Faber, 11 points; W. C. McNaughton, 10; Dr. A. W. Anderson, 10; C. B. Morse, 8; W. V. Byard, 8; Dr. H. K. Carroll, 7.

FIRST ROUND FOR CLUB'S CHAMPIONSHIP

The delightful weather conditions attracted a large field to the Plainfield Country Club, Saturday, when the chief event was the first round match play for the club championship, first and second eights. The play was fast throughout and good scores were made. In the first eight, Frank O. Reinhart beat Arthur Murphy, by 1 up; H. D. Hibbard beat Roger F. Murray, by 4 up and 3 to play; W. Lester Glenney beat C. B. Morgan, by 6 up and 4 to play; W. T. Glenney beat S. H. Patterson, by default.

Second eight—Percy H Stewart beat George E. Cathcart, by 4 up and 2 to play; L. A. Chase beat C. E. Halsted, by 2 up; W. D. Riggs beat R. G. Morse, by 1 up; Julius E. Erickson beat C. C. Burke, Sr., by default.

There was also the weekly competition for the Spring Handicap cups, Class A and B. In the former class H. D. Hibbard won first honors with a net score of 69, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges finished second with a 70, while Frank O. Reinhart was third with a 77. In Class B, George S. Clay was first with a 76, A. E. Barclay was second with a 77 and D. H. Rowland third with an 84. The leading scores follow:

Class A—H. D. Hibbard, 78, 9-69; Dr. B, VanD. Hedges, 84, 14-70; Frank O. Reinhart, 81, 4-77; W. T Glenney, 88, 9-79; H. C. Munger, 96, 16-80.

Class B—George S. Clay, 103, 27-76; A. E. Barclay, 98, 21-77; D. H. Rowland, 102, 18-84; W. B. Tyler, 107, 22-85.

DUNELLEN TROUNCED AT EAST MILLSTONE

The Dunellen Field's Club nine was defeated Saturday by the East Millstone team, at the latter place, by a score of 9 to 3. The absence of Miller, Dunellen's star twirler, made conscideerable difference to the team and a lot of shifting was necessary. The Dunellen boys gave a miserable exhibition of base running in the second inning, when four hits and a base on balls only netted them one run. The feature of the contest was the pitching of Masterson, the former Rutgers College twirler, and the catching by Kane; a one-hand running catch by Kitchen, East Millstone's right fielder, of a long drive, which robbed Dunellen of a home run and the all-round work of Dodwell. The score by innings:

East M....0 1 0 0 3 1 2 2 x—9 10 1
D. F. C. ..1 1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0—3 7 8

Batteries—Russell and Dodwell; Masterson and Kane.

Cranford Defeats West Ends.

The Cranford F. C. played the West Ends, of Somerville, at the latter place, Saturday afternoon and had no trouble in defeating the home team by a score of 7 to 2. A large crowd was out to witness the contest, which was too one-sided to be interesting. The score by innings:

R.H.E.
Co. M. ....0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0—2

A. D. BEERS IN STATE TENNIS SEMI FINALS

Albert D. Beers, singles champion of the Plainfield Country Club, is the only local player still in the East Jersey title tennis tourney, begun at the Elizabeth Town and Country Club courts Saturday. He defeated H. B. Littell in a hard fought match in the second round Saturday, by scores of 6-0, 7-9 and 11-9. He will play in the semi-final round Saturday afternoon at Elizabeth.

The following summaries show how the other Country Club players fared in the State title event:

First round: T. M. Day beat C. H. Kyte, Fanwood, 6-0, 6-2; H. J. Cochran, beat Miles Charlock, E. T. and C. C., 10-8, 6-0; C. M. Crapo beat George Coyne, 6-1, 6-4; A. D. Beers beat N. H. Egleston, 6-1, 6-2; John Cissel, E. T. and C. C., beat S. J. Merrihew by default; W. B. Cragin beat E. F. Ferris, E. T. and C. C., 6-1, 6-3.

Second round: H. McK. Glazebrook, E. T. and C. C., beat H. J. Cochran, 6-3, 6-4; Denham beat Crapo, 6-1, 4-6, 6-0; Beers beat H. B. Littell, 6-0, 7-9, 11-9; West beat Cragin, 8-6, 97.

Soldier Boys Defeated.

Company M, of Somerville, went to Whitehouse Station, Saturday afternoon and was defeated by the strong team at that place in a twelve inning contest by a score of 3 to 2. Harney for the home team fanned twenty-two batsmen. The score by innings:

W. S. ....1 0 0 1 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 1—3
Co. M. ...0 0 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0 0 0—2

Batteries—Harney and Mathews; McCarty and Lavering.

St. Mary's Defeat Marion A. C.

St. Mary's baseball team won its fourth straight victory Saturday, by defeating the Marion A. C., at Lincoln, by the score of 6 to 5. The feature was the heavy hitting of the Plainfield team. The score by innings:

St. Mary's.....1 0 0 1 0 0 0 3 1—6
Marion A. C.....2 0 0 3 0 0 0 0 0—5

$100,000 FIRE AT JERSEY CITY TODAY

Fire in the dry goods district of Jersey City this morning did about $100,000 damage. Two firemen were severely injured while fighting the blaze. They were William Brannigan of Engine Company 4 and John Bolen of Truck 2. They were caught under a falling wall and their legs were broken.

The fire started in a three-story framed building at 173 Newark avenue.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by a defective electric light wire in the structure. The losses are: William Grossman, stock, $15,000; Gilmore & O'Keefe, $25,000; J. T. Sack, stock, $20,000; Joseph Perlmutter, stock, $10,000; on each building, $5,000. The losses are partly covered by insurance.

Local Elks Going to Dallas.

A. D. Findlay and George O. Stevens, the latter a delegate, will attend the reunion and convention of the Lodge of Elks to be held at Dallas, Texas, July 12 to 19, as representatives of Plainfield lodge. It is expected that delegations from Rahway, New Brunswick, Trenton, Lambertville, Philadelhpia, Pawtucket, R. I.; Woonsocket, R. I.; New Haven, Stanford, Bridgeport, Hartford, Conn., and Elizabeth, as well as Mr. Findley and Mr. Stevens from this city, will accompany the Newark delegation which will go to the convention in a special train.

Hit in the Eye by Foul-Tip.

William Stenzenberger, the ten-year-old son of Anton Stenzenberger, of Watchung avenue, was hit in the eye by a foul-tip while watching the baseball game between the Plainfield and Elizabeth Y. M. C. A. teams at Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, and was removed to the hospital for treatment. At first it was thougt that the boy's eye-sight had been destroyed, but an examination showed that the blow did not injure the sight, simply bruising the parts close to the eye. He was able to return to his home today.

Perfect Day for Eclipse.

Yesterday was a perfect one for the eclipse of the sun. The sky was not marred by clouds as the moon's shadow covered its strong rays.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the German St. Peter's Lutheran church will meet at the home of Mrs. Ruscke, 431 West Sixth street, Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

ASK FOR MORE STEAMERS

Business Men Petition City Fathers to Improve Fire Fighting Facilities.

FIRE COMMITTEE TO ACT.

Water Company President to Answer Council's Communication in Person—Other Matters Considered.

Deploring what they termed a great lack of water pressure with which to fight fires, a petition signed by A. L. Murphy and a number of merchants and other business local men, was presented to the Common Council at the adjourned meeting last night, urging the city to purchase one or two first-class powerful steamers as a protections to the business section of Plainfield from fire. The failure of the fire department as it alleges to have sufficient pressure at Saturday night's fire, when Shirley and Johnson's barn was destroyed, was cited as an illustration showing the alleged need of better protection.

The petition also called attention to the allegation that the Babcock building was destroyed for similar reasons, as was also the Letcher house at Netherwood, as they declared, and the petitioners urge immediate action. The matter was referred to the fire and building committee.

A petition presented by William H. Olmsted, asking for permission to erect a temporary canvas awning on the west corner of Watchung avenue and East Fourth street, as a protection to people in stormy and hot weather while waiting for the trolley; also as an advertisement informing the people that he will occupy a building to be erected at that site, was granted after considerable discussion, in which Mr. Buxton and Mr. Montgomery favored the improvement. The awning will cover the sidewalk and be of sufficient height to permit persons to pass back and forth freely without obstruction.

Again urging the Council to adjust a sanitary sewer assessment on property owned by him in the Netherwood district, Ernest Sharp presented another petition to the Council. He offers to dedicate Gresham road as a public thoroughfare, lay sidewalks there and otherwise improve the street. Tthe matter was referred to the finance committee.

Mayor Burton P. Hall, of Fanwood acknowledged the receipt of the communication from the Coucil regarding the proposed trunk line sanitary sewer and stated that it would be presented to the Fanwood Council at the July meeting.

President Frank Bergen, of the Plainfield-Union Water Supply Company, again replied to a communication from the Council regarding the local water supply for fire purposes and the necessity of keeping hydrants in first-class order, stating that the hydrants are regularly inspected and that any trouble with them is due to other uses to which they are put. He added that there were inaccurate statements in the communication sent to him and if the Council would appoint a time he would like to talk the matter over personally with the members, instead of through correspondence. The letter was filed and a conference will be arranged.

Regarding an advertised sale of his property at Woodland avenue and Park Lane for an unpaid sewer assessment, J. H. VanDeventer stated that he has paid his assessment for sewers on Woodland avenue and did not think he should be assessed on Park Lane. He asked for an adjustment of the matter and postponement of sale. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

A remonstrance was received from J. T. Vail and others as to the wretched condition of the trolley rails on Putnam avenue; also a switch on the Netherwood line, adding that the Public Service Corporation, although promising to improve the same, had never done so. They said that the present condition of the tracks is a great annoyonce. The matter was referred to the street committee.

Petitions were received from the Vaing Auto Machine and Repair Company, of 416 Sycamore street and the Morris Auto Company, of 149 East Fourth street, asking for permission to place 1,000 gallon gasolene tanks underneath the sidewalks in front of their places of business from which autos could be supplied with gasolene. The petitions were referred to the street committee.

According to a resolution offered by Mr. Gloak, and adopted, Monday night, July 13, was fixed as the time when the Council will receive bids for macadamizing certain streets, incorporated in a recently adopted ordinance. Other resolutions by the same member, which were adopted, called for an appropriation of $40 with which to wire the pumping station on Randolph road and equip

CITY RETRENCHING, EH? FIRE CHIEF'S TRIP PAID

According to the annual custom, the Common Council at its adjourned meeting last night, appropriated $150 to send Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, to the convention of international fire chiefs to be held next month in Columbus, Ohio. The motion appropriating this sum was offered by Councilman Herbert Buxton, of the finance committee, and it was adopted without opposition.

Only recently, Chief P. S. Kiely, of the police department, was given a similar vacation. The Council appropriated $150 to send him to Detroit, where he attended a convention of international police chiefs. Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield Public schools, is also sent annually to the convention of public school superintendents, the Board of Education appropriating a sum of money for that purpose. Last year City Engineer A. L. Gavett was sent to a convention held for the purpose of discussing matters pertaining to streets and sewers. He was not over enthusiastic about spending the city's money for such a purpose. On his return he refunded the amount left over from the trip to the city treasurer.

MISS EVA DUNAVAN, F. M. FARNHAM'S BRIDE

Miss Eva C. Dunavan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred B. Dunavan, of East Second street, and Franklin Monroe Farnham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farnham, of Auburn, N. Y., were married at 7:30 o'clock, last night, at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Musson, pastor of Faith chapel, and an intimate friend of the bride's family.

The bride was gowned in white French batiste, trimmed with Mechlin lace, and she carried a boquet of bride roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Elsie May Dunavan, whose gown was of pink French batiste, trimmed with Mechlin lace. Her bouquet was of pink roses. The best man was Prof. Clarence A. Ricker, of Jacob Tome Institute, Port Deposit, Md., and Alfred W. Dunavan, brother of the bride was an usher.

The home was attractively decorated for the affair, there being a profusion of greens, cut flowers, roses and daises. The ceremony was performed in the parlor, beneath an arch of greens and cut flowers, with a background of foliage. The same color scheme was carried out in the dining-room.

The bridal party entered the parlor while the Lohengrin wedding march was played on the piano by Miss May Randolph, an aunt to the bride. Following the ceremony, a reception was held, when the bride and groom received the congratulations of the guests, and supper was served. The bride was the recipient of a large collection of valuable and useful gifts, including cut-glass, silverware, goldware, linen, furniture and numerous other things.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Farnham left the city to enjoy a honeymoon trip. Upon their return they will reside with the bride's parents until fall when they will begin housekeeping. The bride is well-known and popular in a large circle of acquaintances and has been an active member of Trinity Reformed church, the Sunday school and Christian Endeavor Society. The groom has been a resident of this city for some time and holds an excellent position with a contracting firm at Westfield. There were guests present at the wedding from New York, Brooklyn, Newark, Somerville and this city.

HOT SESSION IN COURT

Counter-plaintiffs Pass the Lie Repeatedly in Denying Accusations.

TWO CASES TRIED AT ONCE.

Mrs. Rosalsky Has Special Officer Berlowitz Arrested and Then Finds Himself a Defendant.

Mrs. Lena Rosalsky, who conducts a small store at Spooner avenue and Third street, and Harry Berlowitz, the special policeman who has a habit of breaking into print every little while, appeared in the city court this morning as counter-complainants against each other. The hearing developed one of the hottest sessions that has been before Judge Runyon in a couple of weeks as Mrs. Rosalsky has a fiery temper and Berlowitz can declare himself in positive terms under pressure. They called one another "liar" every ten seconds and on seven distinct occasions the special officer threatened to use his authority and lock the woman up. The magistrate sought in vain to keep the two winthin bounds and finally adjourned the case until Thursday morning to allow witnesses to be secured to straighten out the tangle.

Mrs. Rosalsky appeared before Judge Runyon yesterday morning and had a warrant issued for Berlowitz, charging that he has been persistently annoying her by calling at her store and threatening to have her arrested for alleged offenses. Yesterday afternoon, after he was made aware of the woman's accusation, Berlowitz went to the Board of Health and preferred complaint against Mrs. Rosalsky for selling sour cream. He claimed that he bought some at her store last Thursday and that when he reached home it was a menace to health. He also stated that she had sold him sour sandwiches.

Judge Runyon had the complainant-defendants tell their respective stories jointly in order to try the two cases at once. Mrs. Rosalsky, who is an attractive young matron with snappy black eyes, gave a straightforward account of what seemed to be persecution at the hands of the special officer. She had no one to corroborate her statements but under examination from His Honor made out a strong case. When Berlowitz took the stand he admitted that he did not go to the Board of Health about the sour cream until after Mrs. Rosalsky had preferred her charge although the purchase was made last Thursday. In side statements he asserted that his threats to arrest her were due to her habit of using bad language and he brought two small boys before the desk to substantiate what he said. They told the judge that they had heard Mrs. Rosalsky swear at Berlowitz on several occasions. This she denied in vigorous terms. It developed a point that His Honor wanted to clear up and was one of the reasons why he put the case over. He also stated that he did not regard in a favorable light the action of Berlowitz in not taking any action in the sour cream matter until a warrant had been served upon him.

Berlowitz is the special officer who was knocked unconscious by a stone hurled at him by a boy at Third street and Spooner avenue several months ago. He attempted to drive a crowd of youngsters away from the store now conducted by Mrs. Rosalsky and was felled as he was dragging one of them as a prisoner to a police box to call the patrol wagon. He remained unconscious for twenty-four hours and had a narrow escape from death.

Funeral of Edmund Hollingsworth.

The funeral of Edmund V. Hollingsworth, who died last Friday after a brief illness, was held at the home of his brother, Loftus Hollingsworth, of Scotch Plains, yesterday afternoon. The service was in charge of Rev. J. W. Musson, of Faith chapel, this city, assisted by Rev. W. W. Deitrich, pastor of the Scotch Plains Methodist church, and was attended by a large number of relatives and friends from Brooklyn where Mr. Hollingsworth had been prominent in business for many years. There were numerous handsome floral tributes. Burial was made in Hillside cemetery, the casket being borne by porters and escorted by six nephews of the deceased.

Camping at Halsey Island.

William Coddington, William Hoffman and Wallace Morton, of this city, have established "Camp There-He-Gops" on Halsey Island, Lake Hopatcong. The tents were pitched yesterday and they will be joined later by several other young men later in the week.

$5 FINE FOR SHOOTING OFF GIANT CRACKERS

Premature celebration of the Fourth of July cost Lewis Dixon, a West End youth, a $5 fine in the city court, this morning. He was arrested by Patrolman Messler, last night, as he was in the act of setting off a giant dynamite cracker on West Front street. Storekeepers in the vicinity had complained that he had discharged two others equally as big a short time previous on Madison avenue near the Jackson building.

In disposing of the case, Judge Runyon declared that under no circumstances would he tolerate the shooting of fireworks of any kind in the "closed season." He added that he favored a safe and sane Fourth and he believed he would be acting for the best interests of the people in placing a damper on the enthusiasm of young men and boys who jeopardize the lives of citizens by discharging giant crackers before or after the noisy holiday.

NEW SUPERINTENDENT AT THE POOR FARM

The recently-suggested changes made by the Alms committee were reported to the Common Council at its adjourned meeting, last night by Chairman Charles C. Randolph. The resignations of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. TenEyck were received and accepted and Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wolverton were engaged to take their places at an annual salary of $500. The change becomes effective at once.

Mr. Wolverton is a son-in-law of Henry Hummer, superintendent of the Piscataway Poor Farm, and his wife had fourteen years experience on that farm with the indigent poor. Mr. Wolverton is expected to oversee the farming at the Industrial Home, while his wife wil act as matron. The change is expected to result in a great saving in the running of the Home.

M'MURTY A DIPSOMANIAC, REMOVED TO ASYLUM

Still raving about the band of whiskey distillers, whom, he thinks, seek his life, John B. McMurtry, of Manning avenue, was removed to the State Insane Asylum at Trenton today after three days' imprisonment in a borough cell. He was examined by Dr. J. Hervey Buchanan in his cell last night, and was pronounced insane. The man's condition, the doctor said, is due to drink and heat, and he is permanently a dipsomaniac.

The trip to Trenton was made by auto, with Charles Pope at the wheel. With McMurtry were Chief Marshal George Weiss, of the borough police, and Fire Chief Howard Woolston. The man was violent when removed from his cell for the trip and was strapped into the machine, with his hands to his sides. He still raved about the whiskey distillers, and wanted to organize a posse of citizens, with bulldogs and guns, to hunt up their places on the mountain.

During the absence of Chief Marshal Weiss from duty, Borough Marshal Lemuel Pope is wearing the badge of supreme police authority in North Plainfield.

BOROUGH SCHOOL BONDS PAID, A BIG BUDGET OF BILLS, TOO.

Financial business took up the greater part of the session at the monthly meeting of the North Plainfield Board of Education held at the Somerset Street School last night, and bonds amounting to $3,500, due July 1, were ordered paid, together with interest amounting to $1,287.50 on other bonds outstanding. The monthly budget of bills, including this bond money, amounted to about $6,000.

J. Herbert Case, as chairman of the building and grounds committee, reported several repairs completed and under way and estimates will be secured for other necessary repais duing the summer. Edmund Rushmore was the only member of the board absent.

Benefit Dance Netted $32.

The recent benefit dance given for Henry Alexander, colored, who, several months ago lost both his legs on the railroad, netted $32 and that sum will go toward a fund to purchase wooden legs for him. The dance was largely attended and a success. The committee in charge comprised Alexander Stills, chairman; William Mays, William Mayhew, William Randolph, Robert Stevens and James Smith.

Mrs. Robert Lowry, of East Seventh street, has gone of Northfield, Mass., to spend a short time.

INHERIT LARGE FORTUNE

Plainfielders Heirs of Las Vegas, N. M., Millionaire who Died a Year Ago.

A DELAY IN SETTLEMENT.

Wealthy Testator a Frequent Visitor to Plainfield, Buried at Franklin, Mass.

Mrs. Daniel Vermeule, of Orange place, is said to be one of the several heirs under the will of her nephew, Henry W. Green, who died in Las Vegas, New Mexico, last July. At the time of his death he was reputed to be worth more than one million dollars and since then the work of settling up the estate has been in progress.

Mr. Green was a native of Brooklyn, but lived in Franklin, Mass., for a great many years. He inherited his large fortune from relatives and spent most of his time traveling. His health failed and he went to Las Vegas to recuperate, but instead the climate was not beneficial and he died there. The remains were taken to Franklin, Mass., where the funeral and burial took place.

It is said that on account of the peculiarity of the laws in New Mexico, there has been considerable delay in settling up the estate, but it is believed that the heirs will soon come into possession of the estate as bequeathed by Mr. Green.

Among those who are said to be heirs are Frank Vermeule and Mrs. Margaret Pierson, son and daughter of Mrs. Daniel Vermeule. Mrs. Pierson is now with her husband, Lieut. Pierson in the Philippines, where they will remain until next May.

Several ago Mr. Green was accustomed to visit Plainfield occasionally and he had a number of friends in this city.

BISHOP SCARBOROUGH TO LAY CORNERSTONE AT ROSELLE.

Right Reverend John Scarborough Bishop of New Jersey, will lay the cornerstone of the new St. Luke's church at Roselle this afternoon, when clergymen from various parts of the State will attend the ceremonies, which will take place at 5 o'clock. Nine priests will be present in their robes, with the complete vestries of four churches. Among the vestrymen is to be Mayor McQuoid, of Roselle.

The cornerstone of the old church of St. Luke the Evangelist, which is to be replaced by the new structure, was removed yesterday. The architects of the new edifice are Squires & Wynkoop, of which Fred Squires, of this city is a member. The new church is to cost $30,000.

Surrendered by Bondsman.

George Suydam, the North Plainfield youth who has a mania for stealing everything that isn't anchored with a chain or steel cable, was surrendered to the local police by his bondsman, Henry DeMott, yesterday afternoon. He was locked up at headquarters and this moring Judge Runyon committed him to the county jail while arrangements are being made to send him to the Jamesburg reformatory. The charge specified against him is the theft of two bicycles.

Borough Cop's House Robbed.

Entering the house of Special Officer John Reinmann, of Harrison street, thieves got a valuable gold watch and $12 in money early Sunday morning. The entrance was effected shortly before dawn when a window in the rear of the house was unlocked with a knife-blade. Nothing on the first floor was disturbed, but the watch and money were taken from William Reinmann's bedroom. The timepiece belonged to the boy and was valued at $50.

Our State Prison Worst.

During the course of a talk to members of the New Jersey Woman's Press Club, at her home in Montclair, a few days ago, Mrs. Maude Ballington Booth took occasion to say that New Jersey has one of the worst State prisons in the United States. She said that consumption had increased at an alarming rate among the convicts there.

Odd Fellows Elect Officers.

In the election of officers by Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., last night, Simon Mantz was made noble grand. The installation will take place at the next regular meeting.

Senator to Go Abroad.

State Senator and Mrs. Ernest R. Ackerman, of West Eighth street, will sail on the Baltic, of the White Star Line, early in July for a trip abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flynn, of New York, are spending a week at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Catherine Flynn, of West Fourth street.

SMALL BOYS ACCUSED OF STARTING STABLE FIRE

Charged by the police with having been responsible for the fire that partially destroyed the Shirley and Johnston stables in Compton's alley, Saturday afternoon, four small boys, Harold Willard, Tony Sabino, George Martial and Vincent Mullen, were arraigned in the city court this morning. Detective-Sergeant Flynn stated to Judge Runyon that the quartet, together with several others, had been shooting firecrackers and "snakes" about the premises just previous to the time the blaze was discovered in one of the buildings and that it was due to sparks from the Fourth of July affairs getting in the loose straw.

The boys admitted being about the premises, but accused each other of having discharged the fireworks. Vincent Mullen, an exceptionally bright little fellow, asserted that Harold Willard brought a box of cracker and snakes to the barn and that one of the latter sizzed its way into an open door. Harold stated in turn that another boy, Clarence Cheshire, was the one who had done the firing and Judge Runyon adjourned the case in order to have him brought in court. The defendants were accordingly released in their own recognizance until Thursday morning.

DR. C. B. LUFBURROW WEDS MISS MATHEWSON

Dr. Charles Brownwell Lufburrow, of West Front street, and Miss Elizabeth Caroline Mathewson, niece of Dr. Charles Brenton Mathewson, of Sandford avenue, were quietly married at 10:30 this morning at Holy Cross church. Rev. George A. Warner, the rector, officiated. Only the relatives and a few close friends of the couple were present.

The bride was gowned in a light tan crepe de chine traveling dress with hat to match. She carried a prayer book which had belonged to her grandmother, the late Mr. Caroline Brenton Greene, of Rhole Island. Bride and groom were unattended. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Dr. Chas. Brenton Mathewson. Among those at the church were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lufburrow, of West Front street, parents of the groom, his sisters, the Misses Jennie and Nellie Lufburrow, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Reed. The chancel was beautifully decorated with masses of cut flowers and palms.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple went to Metuchen by automobile, and will spend their honeymoon in Nova Scotia. At their return in about two weeks, they will take up their residence at 441 West Front street.

The bride is the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. William B. Mathewson, formerly residents of this city. She is a member of the First Baptist church choir and has taken part in several amateur productions here recently. Dr. Lufburrow is city physician and has an extensive practise. He has won many friends during his residence in Plainfield. Since the destruction of their home at Locust Grove by fire, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lufburrow and their daughters, the Misses Jennie and Nellie Lufburrow, will reside at their new home on West Front street.

COUNCILMEN DISCUSS NEW TROLLEY SCHEDULE.

Mr. Suydam inquired of Mr. Mygatt, through President Tolles, at last night's Council meeting, as to whether the recent trolley changes are giving satisfaction. His query brought forth a quick reply from Mr. Buxton, who stated that he now has a seven and half minute schedule on West Front street, thereby enabling him to catch the 8:30 o'clock train every morning. He said that he was much pleased with the change and hoped it would be continued.

Mr. Suydam's opinion was that the patrons of the Fourth and Somerset street lines are inconvenienced, but Mr. Mygatt expressed the opinion that the change is an improvement and he thought if the company was given time everybody would be pleased with the new schedule.

Philip Sheridan a Benedict.

Philip Sheridan, an employe of the Eastern Bottling Company, was married Sunday afternoon to Miss Bridget Dugan, of the Bronx, at St. Jerome's church, New York. Immediately following the ceremony the couple left for Atlantic City, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will reside n this city.

PLAINFIELD'S BONDS BRING BIG PREMIUM

School Issue, $95,000 Fetches $99,075.50 and Police Issue for $25,000, Net $25,823.

KOUNTZE BROTHERS GET ALL.

New York Firm's Total Bid for the Two Lots $124,899.35—List of the Bidders.

The entire authorized issue of $95,000 school bonds and $25,000 police station bonds, was awarded to Kountze Brothers, of New York, at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, last night, their bid being the most advantageous. The firm stated in presenting its bid that it wanted all or none, and after a conference of the finance committee and other members of the Council, it was decided to give the concern all the bonds.

On the issue of $95,000 school bonds the firm bid $104.29 and interest, aggregating $99,075.50, which includes a premium of $4,075.50. On the police station bonds the bid was $101.27 and interest, amounting to $25,823.85, which includes a premium of $323.85. The total premium is $4,399.35, which is considered exceptionally good.

After the situation was learned, Mayor C. J. Fisk called in the representatives of the other bidding concerns, explained it to them and prompt action of the Council returned to each the certified check presented with the bid.

The other bids received in their order follow:

H. L. Crawford & Co., New York, school bonds, $102,913; police station bonds, $100,393; John D. Everett & Co., New York, school bonds, $97,441.50; police station bonds, $25,540.90. R. M. Grant & Co., New York, school bonds, $97,968.75. M. W. Harris & Co., New York, school bonds, $96,510.50. A. B. Leach & Co., New York, school bonds, $97,640.05; police station bonds, $25,596.65. Plainfield Trust Company, school bonds, $98,335; police station bonds, $25,650. Blodgett, Blodgett, Merritt & Co., New York, school bonds, $95,978.50. Morris County Savings Bank, police station bonds, $25,828.95; for $25,000 worth of school bonds, $25,585. Emery, Anderson & Co., Cleveland, Ohio, school bonds, $98,500.

After a recess was taken to consider the bids, Council reconvened and a resolution was offered by Mr. Mygatt and adopted, awarding the whole issue to Kountze Brothers at their aggregate bid of $124,899.35, including interest. Another resolution by the same member which was adopted, authorized the return of the certified checks to the unsuccessful bidders.

CRESCENT AVE COMMITTEE DISCUSSES CHURCH IMPROVEME

Final discussion of the plans for the improvements at the Crescent Avenue church occupied the church renovating committee at a meeting held in the lecture room last night. There have been no changes since the first announcements were made about the proposed improvements, and about half of the amount necessary has already been subscribed by members of the congregation.

The contracts for the work will be awarded at a meeting of the trustees of the church to be held Friday night. The work of re-modeling is to be begun the following week and will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible, so that the renovation will be completed late in the fall. The members of the church renovation committee are Harry G. Runkle, Edward H. Ladd, Jr., William A. Garrigues, Rev. J. S. Zelie, Mr. and Mrs. John F. Harman, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, and Mrs. John Gray Foster.

Held for Bicycle Tmeft.

Cornelius Thornton, a colored boy living on West Third street, was arraigned in the city court today, charged with the theft of a bicycle from A. B. Cantor. He admitted his guilt and was committed to await the action of the juvenile court on Saturday, July 11.

City Treasurer Returns.

Keep the Kitchen Cool

Why swelter over a glowing range in a stuffy kitchen, when a new Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove will do the family cooking without raising the temperature enough to be noticeable?

By putting a "New Perfection" in and allowing the range fire to go out, you may make this summer's kitchen work not only bearable, but actually a pleasure. The produces an intense heat under the kettle or in the oven, but does not radiate heat in all directions as a coal range does—hence is used with comfort on the hottest summer day. Made in three sizes, and warranted. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

NEW PERFECTION

The Rayo Lamp comes as near lamp perfection as it's possible to get. Gives a clear, bright light that reaches the farthest corner of a good sized living-room. Well made throughout of nickeled brass; perfectly safe and very ornamental. Warranted in every particular. If not with your dealer, write our nearest agency.

SEARCH FOR RIVAL OF DROWNED MAN.

Paterson, June 30.—The police are looking for Joseph Rirota, of 253 River street, whom they want to question about the death of Konstad Winkowski, of 225 River street, who was his successful rival in the regard of Miss Rosina Tomera, 19 years old and pretty.

The two men, who attended a picnic at Luddy's Grove, Singac, Sunday, went in bathing in the shallow lake. Witnesses say they saw Rirota come out alone. Winkowski was not seen to come out of the water, and after his dead body was found the story spread that he had been held under the surface until he drowned. When the body was examined a number of deep impressions were found on the throat, as though made by fingers.

DEATH IN OVERLOADED BOAT.

Jesse Williamson Lost Life—Five Companions Had Close Call.

Trenton, June 30.—Jesse Williamson, twenty-nine years old, was drowned late Saturday night in the Delaware River, at the foot of Lalor street. Williamson, with five companions, had spent the day cruising in a motor boat and on their return the whole party crowded into the small rowboat which served as tender. The rowboat was leaky and the heavy load made it very unwieldly. It shipped large quantities of water, and some distance from the shore it sunk.

All were good swimmers, but Williamson was seized with a cramp and was drowned before he even cried for help. His companions were not aware of his fate until after they had reached shore and found he was not following them at a distance, as they supposed. The body was not recovered for an hour. The drowned man leaves a family of four small children, the youngest of whom is a baby five months old, and the eldest seven years of age.

CHOKES DOG TO DEATH.

Sick Animal Sank Teeth in Policeman's Club in Park.

Jersey City, June 30.—Policeman Charles Bonnell, of the Second Precinct, showed his grit Sunday in Hamilton Park, when he choked a dog to death with his hands. The dog, an unlicensed one, had been loitering around the park all morning. In the afternoon, shortly after the park benches were filled with mothers and their children seeking air, the dog became sick. Snapping and snarling, it went about the pathways of the park. In every place, however, it was given a clear pathway.

Bonnell, who does day duty in the park, attracted by the barks of the dog and the general excitement, made his way to the scene. The animal snapped at him as he approached it with his drawn club, and sprang, fastening its teeth in the club.

Bonnell quickly grasped the animal by the neck, threw it to the ground and gradually squeezed the life out of it.

SAVED MATTRESSES FIRST.

Trenton Italians Had Used Bedding as Savings Banks.

Trenton, June 30.—Exciting scenes marked a fire at the home of Joseph Latts, 223 Elmer street, early Sunday morning. The heat awoke the sleepers. Latts and his wife and fifteen boarders, scantily attired, started in to remove all the household goods. They grabbed the mattresses first. The majority of the Italians keep their money sewed up in cornhusk mattresses.

Men rushed downstairs with chairs and tables and there were several collisions. One man was carrying a mattress when it caught fire. He threw a bucket of water on the blaze and continued on a run up the street with the bedding. Latts and his boarders finished dressing in the street after the former had sent word to the fire headquarters. The firemen extinguished the blaze with small damage to the building.

Miss Agnes Bailey, of Jackson avenue, who underwent an operation at her home last Thursday, is much improved.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED.

Explosion Followed Attempt to Fill Benzine Can on Supposedly "Cold" Stove.

Rahway, June 30.—Mrs. Benjamin Underhill, of Grand street, was seriously burned about the arms and lower limbs Saturday, through the explosion of a benzine can that she was filling on a stove where the fire was supposed to be out. The funnel overturned, a quantity of the liquid ran into the stove and on to a live coal and the explosion followed.

Keron Coffey and David Stamford saw the blazing woman come rushing from the house. They rolled her in the grass and wrapped blankets about her, smothering the flames. Mr. Underhill, who was in the barn, came to their aid, and also extinguished the flames in the house. Mrs. Underhill, who is being treated by Drs. C. B. Holmes and F. W. Sell, is recovering.

An unusual play was made on Saturday at Bound Brook between the team of that place and the Second Signal Corps, of Brooklyn, it being a triple play made by the home team with three men on bases. The third baseman, catcher and first baseman figured in the play. The home team with Phil. Smith in the box defeated the visitors by a score of 10 to 1.

Mike Donlin, of the Giants, is considered very fast on the bases this season and is also hitting the ball hard.

Chase, of the Yankees, can get as much speed in that forearm throw from the shoulder of his as most players can with a full swing.

The Yankees are the only players in either big league that have not won a game from every other team. They have yet to beat St. Louis.

Joe Kelly's new catcher Graham, made an excellent impression when the Bostons played in New York. He loomed up strong as a hitter. Bill Dahlen is also playing a fast, clean game these days.

The Giants are ahead on every series except those with Pittsburg and St. Louis. They have thrown it into the Cubs good and proper and yet the Cubs owe their position largely to the way they have swatted the Cardinals, who have been troublesome to the Giants.

The Clinton Avenues have scheduled a number of strong games for the rest of the season as follows: July 4, a. m., Newark Stars here; p. m., Y. M. C. A., Crescent Oval; July 11, Somerville, Crescent Oval; July 18, at Scotch Plains; July 25, Somerville, Crescent Oval; July 29, Somerville at Somerville; August 1, at High Bridge; August 8, High Bridge at Crescent Oval; August 15, at Rahway; August 22, Scotch Plains, Crescent Oval; August 29, open; Labor Day, a. m., Rahway, Crescent Oval; p. m., Elizabeth A. C., Crescent Oval. On September 5, they will play the famous McNulty Brothers team from Brooklyn, and on October 3, will meet the local Y. M. C. A. for the second time.

GOLF.

There were 180 entries for the British open championship at Prestwick. In divisions of ninety they played a qualifying round of thirty-six holes, leaving sixty-five to compete for the title and six money prizes at seventy-two holes and medal play. E. Gray, hitherto unknown in the competition, led for the first eighteen holes with 68, a new record for Prestwick, James Braid being second to him with 70. At thirty-six holes Braid led with 142 to Gray's 147. The latter now needed an 83 and dropped back, and J. H. Taylor, the former champion, was also scoring badly. At the third round the leaders were Braid, 219; T. Ball, 225; E. Ray, 225; Alexander Herd, 327, and Arnaud Massy at the same total. Massy is the French professional who won in 1907 and this was the only time he was near the leader. The final placing of the six in the money was: Braid, 291; T. Ball, 299; E. Ray, 301; Alexander Herd, 302; Harry Vardon, 306, and D. Kinnell, 306.

On the third hole in the third round it seemed as if Braid were to lose his lead, for he sliced his tee shot with cleek into the rough short of the hazard, and on his third sent the ball out of bounds, the tally being eight for the hole. After that Braid had a 2, and by a fine recovery managed to get a good score, although it was his highest round by five strokes. Braid's rounds were in 70, 72, 77, 72, the total being the lowest ever recorded in the competition. It was Braid's fourth victory for the title, and of those in the money Harry Vardon and Alexder Herd have also held the championship.

A general handicap list, with 514 players rated, has been issued by C. H. Zimmerman, H. H. Whaples and C. H. Seely, the handicap committee of the League of Connecticut Golf Clubs. Seely, who has won the Connecticut title three times, and is now for the second time the Metropolitan Golf Association champion, and W. K. Shepard, of New Haven, a former champion, are the scratch men. On the one mark are S. H. Patterson, another former champion; A. C. Wheeler and R. H. Hovey. Those rated at two are C. H. Zimmerman, R. S. White, 2d, S. D. Bowers, E. S. and N. R. Bronson, R. C. Carroll, R. W. and R. D. Cutler, W. B. Ely, S. J. Graham, J. G. and Winthrop Jackson, Dr. Carl Martin (a former title holder), W. J. Nichols, E. S. Parmelee, H. S. and R. L. Redfield, W. A. Rice, R. E. Sprott, C. Tredennick, C. Truesdale, H. H. Whaples and W. B. Wheeler. The Connecticut championship tournament will be held at the New Haven Country Club course, July 8-11.

This week's special tournament will be at the Apawamis Club, Rye, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The qualifying round and the Saturday handicap will each be at thirty-six holes of medal play. All the match plays will be at eighteen holes, and the semi-finalists will not be allowed in the handicap. The entries close with the committee on Wednesday noon. Three sixteens will qualify for cup, and there will be a runner-up prize for the first sixteen, with the usual low score, best gross score and handicap net score prizes. The rebuilt clubhouse will be formally opened, except the sleeping rooms, on Thursday. It has been put up at a cost of $40,000, to replace the house destroyed by fire late in 1906.

THE FOURTH AT PERTH AMBOY.

Board of Trade and Raritan Yacht Club Plan Celebration.

Perth Amboy, June 30.—For the first time in nearly twenty years an attempt is being made to have a Fourth of July celebration in this city. The recently organized Board of Trade has taken up the project and has asked for public subscriptions for fireworks and music.

The Raritan Yacht Club is planning a marine parade and a regatta for the afternoon, and at night there will be fireworks and a dance at the clubhouse. The Rahway Yacht Club has promised to send at least twenty boats to participate in the parade and races.

The first union service of four churches, First M. E., First Baptist, Trinity Reformed and First Presbyterian, will be held Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church and Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss will preach.

ASTRONOMICAL EVENTS.
Sun sets 7:31, rises 4:28.

IS IT NOT EXTRAVAGANCE?

If the members of the Common Council only knew with what indignation the average taxpayer views their practise of using the city's money to defray the expenses of heads of the various departments who are given permission to attend various conventions, they would not be so hasty in thus appropriating the taxpayers' money. It is not many moons since the mayor sounded a note of warning to the city fathers, declaring that conditions demand a policy of retrenchment on the part of the city. It might be al very well to send this or that man to attend some convention were the local banks loaded with surpluses of the city but when the municipality is not properly policed; when the fire department's work is handicapped by lack of sufficient apparatus; when the householders can not have the benefit of a sanitary garbage disposal system and then the municipality is without other needed improvements, it seems an unwarranted extravagance.

Only last night, the Common Council appropriated $150 for the expense for the head of a department to attend one of these conventions at Columbus, Ohio. Some few weeks ago, it gave another department head a similar amount to attend another gathering at Detroit, Mich. It is also the custom to likewise treat other heads of departments. And so it goes. Of course, it may be granted that some things may be learned at these conventions but as the proceedings are all published in full for the convenience of those interested, it is hard to see the wisdom of thus appropriating tax funds when all agree that a policy of retrenchment is imperative at this time.

Some Pensions Increased.

Among the additional pensions that have been granted in this Congresisonal district, according to notice recently forwarded to Congressman Ira W. Wood, are the following: Christopher D. Pope, North Plainfield, increased at $15 per month, under the act of February 6, 1907; Heny B. Romel, Liberty Corner, increased pension at $12 per month, under act of February 6, 1907; Mrs. Mary VanVeighte, Bound Brook, widow's pension at $12 per month.

CLEVELAND MONUMENT FUND STEADILY GROWING

Additional contributions have been received today for the Cleveland monument fund which is being raised throughout the State. The Daily Press acknowledges a contribution of five dollars from The White Store and like amounts from "The Bungalow Man," and from the Hotel Iroquois, bringing the total up to sixty-five dollars.

In Newark, $110 has been raised, although the project was first mentioned a few days ago. So it is in other parts of the State where funds are being raised. As related in these columns, there is no political significance in the movement whose sole purpose it is to pay a deserving tribute to the only Jerseyman that ever became President of the United States. Governor Fort is the head of the State committee and his colleagues are numbered among the leading citizens of New Jersey.

These contributions have been received at this office:

Ernest R. Ackerman	$20

David J. Carney	10
Prof. A. S. Herr	10

CHURCH PEOPLE TO WORK AT NETHERWOOD CAMP CARNIVAL

Local Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian churches are taking an active interest in the Fourth of July Carnival to be held at the Netherwood Fresh Air Camp, and members of the various church societies will be in charge of the booths on the camp grounds. Mrs. J. C. Pierson, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church will be assisted by a corps of church women at the fancy booth; Mrs. S. A. George, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, is to be in charge of the fish pond; Mrs. Benjamin Hadley, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, is chairman of the candy booth. There is to be a mystery booth in charge of Miss Marion Hall, of the First Baptist church, and Robert McCready will be the carnival fortune teller. Robert Love, of the West End Tabernacle, will be the boss of the weighing machine and a tin type photo gallery will be in charge of Dr. H. S. Saurbrey, of New York city.

Good things to eat and drink will be dispensed from other booths where Mrs. Scriven, of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, will be in charge of the refreshment booth; J. M. Hawkins, of the Park avenue Baptist church, ice cream booth; Miss Mina Bock, of Warren Chapel, fruit booth; Herbert Henry, Scotch Plains Baptist church, lemonade well; Miss Florence G. Hawkins, Park Avenue Baptist church, cake table; L. W. Randolph, Faith Chapel, grape juice booth.

CROWDS WILL VISIT BOUND BROOK JULY 4.

Bound Brook is not spending its money for fireworks this year, as it is to celebrate the Fourth in a more dignified manner. Four bands and the entire population will march through the streets and up the mountain side to the historic camp grounds, now laid out as a park, where George Washington was quartered in the winter of 1778-1779.

Young men of the town are to appear as a mounted troop wearing Continental uniforms. Patriotic floats, the State militia, the local fire department and all the automobiles and carriages for miles around will be in line. After the review of the parade and the speechmaking the big crowd will listen to a concert by the Old Guard Band, of New York.

All the neighboring towns have been invited to participate in the celebration, and the pretty little town of Bound Brook will probably entertain a larger crowd than it has ever known. Among the chief guests of the Washington Camp Grounds association will be Dr. Willis Fletcher Johnson, orator of the day; State Senator Frelinghuysen and Colonel Dungan.

FOVERNOR FORT GOING TO SEA GIRT.

Beginning tomorrow morning, New Jersey's State capitol will be in the administration on the State camp grounds at Sea Girt. Governor Fort has completed arrangements to move into the Governor's cottage, or the Little White House, with his official family and the executive bag and baggage, and to remain there until the end of the summer or military encampment season. He is at his offices in Trenton today, and, on leaving there, will go to Sea Girt.

Thomas DeMeza, of West Second street, leaves tomorrow for Lake Hopatcong to spend a two weeks' vacation.

A FEW FROM ABROAD.

The latest French undertaking in Madagascar is a dredging out of the southern end of the Ikopa River to make it navigable. "The benefit," explains Consul Carter, "will be the connection with the railway at Tananariva, thereby enabling the natives to bring down in pirogues their produce, chiefly rice, from the Isotry district, and at the same time supplying a flow of water sufficient for the irrigation of the rice fields of South Tananariva.

The Ameer of Cabul, about whose loyalty there is some talk at the moment, rivals the German Emperor in regard to versatility—at any rate, so far as hobbies and pastimes are concerned. Motoring, horse racing, shooting and cricket are his favorite outdoor recreations, and there is nothing he likes so much indoors as a good game of bridge—and he is a fairly expert player—or to sit down at the piano and sing a song for the entertainment of the party. The Ameer, too, rather prides himself upon his skill as a carpenter and drill sergeant, and it was his fondness for gunnery practise which caused him to lose the fingers of his left hand.

More than half of the folks in ancient Bagdad do not sleep on beds and have no beds to sleep on. "These poor people rest on blankets spread on the floors in the winter and on the roofs in the summer," writes Consul Magelssen. "Owing to the excessive (summer) heat of these regions sleep is made impossible elsewhere than on the roof or in the open gardens. It is an interesting sight to see how the women at sunset emerge from their houses to prepare the evening meal on the roof, and spread the bedding for the night. Inasmuch as the climate is very dry, there is little to fear from exposure to the night air. While a considerable number of the roofs are surrounded by lattice work to insure a certain amount of privacy, by far the larger number are quite exposed to the gaze of curious and inquisitive neighbors."

Irrigation in Peru has been carried on since before the days of Atahualpa, 400 years ago, but not on a scale compared with what is now contemplated. For some time past, reports Charles M. Pepper, our special agent at Lima, experts from the United States Geological Survey and from the Reclamation Service have been in Peru, employed by that Government to investigate the possibilities of irrigation. It is found that 2,500,000 acres between the mountains and the sea can be successfully irrigated. The marvelous fertility of the land and the fine climate promise success in the highest degree. Peru's rivers, which are to be utilized, flow down from snowy mountains and cross the arid country just as in our own arid regions. To that extent the American West and the western part of Peru have many features in common.

OF CAUSUAL CONCERN.

An Atchison woman has such success with her bread making it is predicted she will eventually cause the death of her family. When she puts the bread to rise it doesn't stop rising and unless quickly attended to overflows everything in the house. It recently covered everything in the kitchen and was rising into a bedroom where several of the family lay sleeping, when the woman returned from town just in time and worked it down, saving the lives of her family.

There are two stories about the Rev. Frank W. Sanford, the Elijah of Shiloh hilltop. One is that he's in Palestine and poverty. The other is that he has rounded Cape Horn in his yacht and is now residing—in comfort—at Takahuano, Chile. He either has or hasn't said that the world will come to an end in October next.

Lackawanna county, Pa., has one woman officeholder, and, best of all, she is considered one of the best in the business, if officeholding can be called a business, and many believe it can. She is Mrs. Olive Wedeman, of Madison township, who has been a member of the school board for the past two years, and will probably be chosen to succeed herself at the expiration of her term.

To relieve Elmer Weil, of Pottsville, Pa., of heart trouble surgeons at the Pottsville hospital sawed out three of his ribs which had been pressing on the organ, exposing to view in full operation its pulsations. Weil, who is 25 years of age, stood the operation well, and the surgeons say he will entirely regain his health.

A RELIABLE MASSAGE CREAM.

Massage the face with a cream made of four ounces of mutton tallow, one and a quarter ounces of glycerine, half a dram of tincture of benzoine, a quarter of a dram of spirits of camphor, an eighth of a dram of Russian isinglass and a half-ounce of rose water.

The tallow should be melted in a basin set in a hot water bath, and when the liquid is strained the glycerine is added and then the alum. The rose water is heated in china or glass and the isinglass dissolved in it. The two mixtures are combined and the benzoine and camphor added while the liquid is warm. Stirring should be constant during the last of the mixing. Pour into covered jars and use as any cold cream.

Proposals for Macadamizing.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Common Council at the Council Chamber, No. 149 North Avenue, in the City of Plainfield, at 8 o'clock p. m., on Monday, the thirteenth day of July, 1908, for doing the work and furnishing the materials for the macadamizing contemplated in the ordinance entitled "An Ordinance for the Permanent Improvement of Certain Streets and Portions of Streets of the City of Plainfield, with permanent and durable Macadam Pavement, and to provide the Necessary Funds in Advance of the Collection of Assessments for Benefits," adopted by the Common Council, May 4, 1908, and re-adopted June 8, 1908, notwithstanding the objections of the Mayor, and as provided for in the specifications on file in the office of the Street Commissioner.

Upon receipt of the bids or proposals the Common Council will immediately proceed to unseal the same and publicly announce the contents thereof in the presence of the parties bidding or their agents, provided said parties or agents choose to be then and there present, and also make proper record of said prices and terms.

The right to reject any or all bids is expressly reserved by the Common Council.

A separate price must be named for each street, and proposals should be endorsed "Proposals for Macadamizing."

JAMES T. MacMURRAY,
City Clerk.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Front street and Park avenue received an oil sprinkling yesterday, the expense of the work, is being borne by the property owners who have determined to seek relief from the dust nuisance which they have been compelled to bear, since automobiling became so popular. The oil is only an experiment, but the residents hope that it will at least give temporary relief.

Funeral services of Edmund V. Hollingsworth, who died in Plainfield at 2:30, Friday, were held yesterday afternoon from the home of his brother, Loftus Hollingsworth. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery.

The local ball team play the All-stars of Newark Saturday afternoon, on the home grounds. The All-stars have been meeting the local for several seasons past, and always put up a fast article of baseball.

The members of St. Mary's Parish, Stormy Hill, hold a lawn fete on the lawn adjoining the vestry, tomorrow afternoon and evening.

A picked team from here and Plainfield was defeated by the Palmers at Elizabeth Sunday afternoon, the score being 8-4.

George Archibald, of Westfield, has been visiting his father, John Archibold, of Washington Valley.

Fanwood B. E. Company holds its regular monthly meeting in the Company rooms tohorrow night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

On Sunday afternoon between fifty and sixty lots were sold at South Plainfield Heights. Two special trains were run from New York and several stages were run from the district around Plainfield, all of which were filled with home-seekers. The acreage round here is rapidly being taken up for building purposes.

L. Arrowsmith has sustained a serious injury to his hand. He was carrying a board in which were several nails, and as he slipped into a depression in the road he loosened his hold on the board which slid across his hand and one of the nails cut it open from the base of the thumb to the root of the little finger.

The topic of the pastor's address at the prayer meeting, which will be held in the Baptist church, will be "Protestants, Then and Now."

On Wednesday night the final meeting of the Independance Day celebration committee will be held in Temperance hall.

the same for electric lighting, and $50 was appropriated for painting the city sprinkling carts.

An ordinance was presented by Mr. Gloak providing for the opening of Kensington avenue, from Prospect to Park avenues, a distance of a half mile. It was read for information and will be taken up at the July meeting for the purpose of adoption. in the meantime copies of it will be sent to all the interested property owners.

In accordance with a resolution offered by Mr. Buxton and adopted, $30 was appropriated for the care of the town clock for one year. The contract was renewed with L. Moraller & Son, the Park avenue jewelers, for this work.

SOME OLD ENGLISH SPORTSMEN.

To those who knew him in his later years it is difficult even to think of the late Duke of Westminster as a fighter. Yet he was very useful with his fists as a boy, and the three who played so prominent a part in the celebrated fight between the Duke of Westminster and the late Lord Derby have now each joined the majority. The spectator was the Hon. Francis Lawley, and the three boys were journeying home from school in a coach when the two future dukes commenced quarreling and fought it out at the first inn they came to where the vehicle stopped long enough. The Duke of Westminster, known as Jack in those days, and the most difficult youth at Oxford to get out of bed in the morning, proved himself the better man.

All three were at Oxford, and Mr. Lawley had £20,000 worth of engravings, all of religious subjects in his ante-room. Mr. Lawley cared little for money, and it was his habit to send a crossing sweeper with a check to his banker. When the sweeper was called in a case which decided the ownership of Gemma di Vergy and he had to look at the handwriting of a check, he did so through a pair of gold-rimmed eyeglasses taken from his waistcoat pocket.—Baily's Magazine.

No Doubt of It.

Teacher—Now, Johnny, what was Washington's farewell address?

Johnny—Heaven.—New York Sun.

RHAPSODY OF A YOUNG LAWYER.

Here at my roll-top desk I sit and bend me o'er a legal tome and have a pleasant sense, to-wit, that I am really quite at home. The peace we cannot understand has claimed my spirit more and more; I yield at last to its demand—I like the interesting law. The steady drone of city streets floats gently through my window-pane; if I look out, my vision meets the sunshine and blue sky again. I much prefer these heavy books. Hark—some one enters at my door—a lovely lady, by her looks—I like the pretty, fluffy law.

"Ah, pardon me," the lady says. "A legal question bothers me." But all this time she does not raise her heavy veil the least degree. Imagination takes me fast through fame, romance, and fees galore—ambition realized at last!!! I like the fragrant, juicy law.

She adds: "I've just got my divorce from Bill and now I want to know when can I marry Jack? Of course, you understand how these things go."

"To-day," sigh I.

Says she: "Your fee?"

"One dollar."

"Here—I'm glad I saw your sign. Good-day."

Thus exit She.

I like the dreary, heavy law.—Green Bag.

One Woman's Wrongs.

Mrs. Smallpurse (who found only a few dimes in her husband's pockets that morning)—I am just sick of this plodding along year after year. Why don't you do something to make money?

Mr. Smallpurse—I can't make any more than a living at my business, no matter how hard I work.

Mrs. Smallpurse—Then do something else. Invent something. Any American can invent.

Mr. Smallpurse (some months after)—My dear, I've hit it, and I've got a patent. My fortune is made.

Mrs. Smallpurse (delightedly)—Isn't that grand! What did you invent?

Mr. Smallpurse—I have invented a barbed-wire safety pocket for husbands.—New York Weekly.

Rather Discouraging.

Mr. Slim (hunting for a new boarding-house)—Is the lady of the house in?

Servant—No; she's gone for a policeman.

"What are the terms for board here?"

"Cash."

"I mean how much a week?"

"Ten an' 15 a week, 'cording to room."

"I presume she makes a reduction for people who stay a month or two."

"I don't know. No one ever stays that long."—New York Weekly.

THE ONLY WAY.

Brown—Jobson is the wealthiest man in town, and he made it all by writing poetry.

Green—Impossible!

Brown—It's so. A rich widow who doted on poetry became infatuated with the stuff he wrote, and married him.

A Good Excuse.

Mother—How often have I told you, Mary, that you must eat the crust with the bread? Now you've left it again. The time will come when you will be very glad to eat crusts.

Mary (ten years old)—Yes, mother, and that's why I'm saving them now.

One Resolution Busted.

"John! John! wake up," called an excited wife. "I know there are burglars in the house."

"There you go again," muttered the irate husband. "And you promised to swear off all that nonsense."—Detroit Free Press.

Historical Note.

"Pa," asked Mr. Henpeck's little boy, "why did Patrick Henry say, 'Give me liberty or give me death?'"

"He may have been out five minutes after the curfew rang the night before."—Chicago Record-Herald.

In the Running.

Bill—Cheer up! She says you're first in her affections, doesn't she?

Tom—Yes—but I'm worrying about a fellow who seems to be an uncomfortably close second.—Cleveland Leader.

Wonderful, Indeed!

Patience—She's a most wonderful woman.

Patrice—Why so?

"She speaks four languages. Just think of keeping a secret in four languages."—Yonkers Statesman.

Selfish Alex.

Bill—It is said that Alexander the Great, when on a campaign, ate the rations of a common soldier.

Jill—And did the poor soldier get nothing?—Yonkers Statesman.

USE YOUR INDIVIDUALITY WHEN FRAMING PICTURES.

Perhaps nothing so stamps a house with the individuality that grace tables and mantels. Be the soft cushions arranged ever so well, the chairs placed in the most cozy fashion, the lamps in just the right spots, if there are no photographs, no pictures, the whole aspect of the place will be uninhabited.

For this reason it is advisable to take photographs to even the most temporary of summer homes, and there are many attractive ways to arrange these pictures so that they will not be injured by the dampness that drifts through open windows, whether at seashore, mountain or country.

Small ones, for instance, may be fastened on a strip of unbleashed linen and hung so that they will not be bent or torn. They may also be mounted on linen-covered cardboard and protected by glass. This last is a particularly good way to care for those of a large size.

Another way is to get a stiff piece of cardboard—any box lid will do—and cover the corners with triangular pockets of linen, into which the pictures may be slipped. The general effect is good, and the photographs is thereby saved from destruction.

A large frame for several photographs may be made by taking the top and bottom of a carboard box—for then both pieces will be of the same size—cutting holes in one of them the proper shape for the pictures and leaving the other for the back of the frame. Cover them both with cretonne, wich may be pasted on; put them together and bind them with braid, which no dampness can displace. The cretonne mal be fitted around the holes by cutting it so there will be one-half inch to snip, turn in and paste to the under side—thus leaving no unsightly puckers.

LOSS IN DOMESTICITY.

"The entry of women into the industrial world has already produced a revolution the effects of which no man can as yet properly estimate," said a speaker at a meeting in Boston last Sunday. "Certainly no man can deny the right of any woman to earn her own living, to prepare herself for any calling and to compete with her own sex as well as the opposite sex in the battle for a living. But it ought to be taken for granted also that if this is to be the case she must submit to the same economic laws, suffer the same economical penalties and be governed by the same economic changes to which all laborers are subjected. What has until now held the natural operation of economic laws from women who work has been the fact that they have not really been in competition with men, but have simply underbid men in the labor market and so have reduced to that extent the standard of living and wages. And this raises the question whether the family mutuality, domesticity and all that makes a family life can survive with the women of the world actually in its economic strife. That there has been a general loss of domesticity, with all that this word implies, is beyond reasonable doubt also. It has been, as it must be, harder to maintain a home where both members have important interests outside of it. The organization for social influence, for education and for reform work of women has been so palpably beneficial that no one would pretend to deny the vast influence which clubs and societies of all kinds have had on the life of the world. But women's advance before the law has steadily made progress without her asking. Her increasing powers at law have all been granted by men, moved by a sense of justice, without coercion, and it is safe to say that this movement will continue."

THE CAB THAT WAITED

By DON MARK LEMON

(Copyright, by Shortstory Pub. Co.)

Cutting the envelope and drawing out the folded sheet within, he read:

Bronson Stables: Send Jerry with cab to my house to take me to North Station to see a friend off, and wait till I return. PETER RUGGLES.

He called up the foreman of the stables through the speaking tube and gave him the order. "And mind you, Jones, see that Jerry is on time," he supplemented, for it was well known at Bronson's that Ruggles' motto was, Follow orders though it break owners. Ruggles had once threatened to sue the Bronson Stables for failing to follow orders, and the clerk had been cautioned to see that Ruggles' orders should thereafter be followed to the letter—though it might break Ruggles.

Promptly at three-thirty "Cheery" Jerry, who had faithfully served the Bronson Stables since its incipiency, drew rein at the handsome stone residence of Peter Ruggles, and just then Ruggles, carrying a large magnifying glass in his hand, came hurriedly down the steps and entered the cab.

The station was reached in about 20 minutes, and, without waiting for Jerry to dismount from his box, Peter Ruggles opened the door of the cab and leaped out.

"Wait here till I return, Jerry."

"Thim be me orders, sor—till ye return."

"That's my man!" Saying which, Peter Ruggles hurried into the station. He had received a telegram to the effect that a former classmate would pass through the city that afternoon, and if he would be at the North Station at four ten he could have a few words on old times. This classmate was on his way "down east" and had with him a very fine specimen of an exceedingly rare beetle which Peter Ruggles wouldn't have missed seeing for the presidency of a rubber trust. For Peter Ruggles, 40 years of age, wealthy, eccentric, a bachelor and a scholar, had one passion—beetles.

The friend came, accompanied by his sister, a beautiful young lady with large gray eyes, and Peter Ruggles, drawing the magnifying glass from his pocket, proceeded to examine the beetle.

"Where did you get it?" was his first query, after a thorough scrutiny of the precious specimen.

"It was sent to me from Maine." The friend leaned over and spoke in an undertone, as one who confides to another where vast treasures are to be found. "They say there are more like it to be had down there, and I'm on my way now to find them."

Peter Ruggles gave a start, stared hard at the beetle, then at his friend; then by accident his eyes rested for a moment on the face of the young lady with the large gray eyes, and arising hastily he cried: "Others like it to be found! You certainly don't mean it!"

"I do."

"Down in Maine?"

"Down in Maine."

"Then I shall start at once for Maine!"

"Will you join us?"

Again by the merest chance the eyes of Peter Ruggles rested on the face of the young lady with the large gray eyes. "I will," he said.

The two men shook hands over the compact, and a few minutes later the train drew out for "down east," carrying Peter Ruggles' classmate, his classmate's sister, and Peter Ruggles himself, in search of an exceedingly rare variety of—beetle.

From the next station Ruggles telegraphed to his housekeeper, informing her that he would be absent from home for several weeks, and that she might shut up house for the time being and go to her sister's.

Meantime Jerry waited with his cab, and four o'clock passed; then five, then six, and still he waited. Once before the honest Irishman waited eight mortal hours for Peter Ruggles, while that gentleman was detained by a highly interesting game of whist, and not willing to be outdone by himself, Jerry sat on his box and waited.

Seven o'clock—eight—nine—ten,—Jerry had got down once at nine and stretched his legs a bit,—but no Peter Ruggles. Eleven—twelve,—and the driver still remained like a sentry at his post. At one o'clock he left his cab a moment to get a hot drink and a bite of midnight lunch. Then he returned to his box and waited through the night, his horse falling fast asleep in the shafts.

"Me orders are to wait, an' th' divil take me if I don't wait to Doomsday!" was his cheery, if half-sleepy, comment to an inquiring fellow-cabby.

With the morning Jerry was rather drowsy, in spite of the fact that he had snatched several cat-naps during the night, and was also a little disgruntled by his long vigil. He decided to telephone the stables. He did so, and the answer came: "Will send another cab to relieve you. Orders are to wait."

A little later the relief arrived, and Jerry turned his horse's head stableward.

When night came and with it no sign of Peter Ruggles, a messenger was sent to that gentleman's home for instructions, to learn that the housekeeper had closed up the mansion and gone to her sister's.

Again the Bronson Stables referred to the written order of their patron, and as it stated positively that the cab was to wait, the cab waited, Jerry taking the relief watch through the following night with the same cab that had driven Ruggles to the North station.

Another day passed and no Peter Ruggles appeared; then another; then still another, the two cabs and their drivers waiting in turn. Then a week passed—two weeks—three weeks—one month! At the end of the month a bill for 31 days and nights of cab hire was filed against Peter Ruggles, less 10 per cent. discount for monthly service.

Down in Maine, Peter Ruggles, his old classmate, and a certain young lady with large gray eyes, were engaged in hunting for an exceedingly rare specimen of—beetle—and another month of delightful spring weather passed quickly by. Meantime Jerry and his relief, as well as the two cab horses, had fallen quite in love with their peaceful and meditative occupation of waiting, and, in the beautiful line of Milton, they felt how true it is that "they also serve who only stand—or sit—and wait."

The first of July came, and still the cabs waited in their turn—how many stables could be depended upon to serve their customers so faithfully?—then came the glorious Fourth, when Jerry's horse attempted for the first time to run away.

What if he should not be waiting when Peter Ruggles returned! Jerry gasped at the thought. Then week succeeded week, until the thirty-first of July had passed, when a third monthly bill for cab service was charged to the account of Peter Ruggles.

On the morning of the second of August, as Jerry nodded peacefully on his box, a gentleman leading a lady by the arm came toward him from one of the doors of the North station. In a moment the man on the box was all alert. He leaped down from his seat and opened the cab door, and Ruggles—for the gentleman was none other than Peter Ruggles—came forward and hailing Jerry as if he had been gone scarcely ten minutes instead of three long months, gently deposited the lady in the cab. Then entering the vehicle, holding in one hand a box which no doubt contained specimens of certain exceedingly rare beetles, Peter Ruggles thrust out his head with the brief direction, "Home, Jerry."

"Yis, sor; home!" Jerry climbed upon his box and, cracking his whip loudly, drove down the street.

The next morning at breakfast Ruggles found a bill beside his plate. It read as follows:

Peter Ruggles, Esq.
To Bronson Stables, Dr.

For cab services from three p. m. May 1, 1905, to nine a. m. August 2, 1905.
92 days 6 hours; at $10 per day....	$ 925.00
93 nights: at $12 per night.....	1,116.00
	$2,041.00
Less 10% monthly discount.....	204.10
	$1,836.90

Ruggles studied the bill awhile, then wrote across its face: "Mistake. Have been away from home three months."

He rang for the butler, and gave him the bill. "Thompson, take this to the Bronson Stables."

The following morning Ruggles again found the bill beside his plate. It was accompanied this time by a brief note, which read:

Peter Ruggles, Esq.—Dear Sir: We quote your order of May 1—"Send Jerry with cab to my house to take me to the North Station to see a friend off, and wait till I return."

Jerry and the cab waited.

Respectfully,
THE BRONSON STABLES.

Ruggles' hand went to his vest pocket. "Ah!" he exclaimed. "So Jerry and the cab waited! Very well." He took out a pencil and O. K.'d the bill. Then, addressing the young lady with large gray eyes, who was seated opposite him, he said:

"Dearest, I only wish this bill were larger, for then our honeymoon would have been longer!"

Showing Our Monkey Blood.

The batsman, congratulated on his home run, slapped himself proudly on the chest and began to boast of still finer home runs that he had made in the past.

"Did you see that gesture—the stricken breast?" said an ethnologist of Harvard. "Whenever we make that gesture in our vanity, we prove the Darwinian theory up to the hilt.

"You know the gorilla. Kipling and Du Chaillu describe him. An enormous ape that in his indomitable bravado beats his breast with a sound like the rolling of the muffled drums of Memorial day.

"As big as a bull, as swift as a cat, as powerful as an elephant, the gorilla believes himself unconquerable, and in the vain-glory of that belief he inflates his lungs and beats his swollen breast till the jungle rings like a gong.

"We, in our moments of foolish and excessive vanity, inflate our lungs and slap our swollen breasts.

"Thus, alas, we show the monkey blood in us."

Sinful Waste.

PRETTY, BUT DID THEY MEAN IT?

Wrinkles disfigure a woman less than ill nature.—Dupuy.

Two smiles that approach each other end in a kiss.—Victor Hugo.

All the reasons of men are not worth one sentiment of woman.—Voltaire.

Women may be pardoned for lack of common sense. The culprit in them is the heart.—Stahl.

A woman is seldom tenderer to a man than immediately after she has deceived him.—Anonymous.

A man must be a fool who does not succeed in making a woman believe that which flatters her.—Balzac.

Women, deceived by men, want to marry them; it is a kind of revenge, as good as any other.—Beaumanoir.

I have seen faces of women that were fair to look upon, yet one could see that the icicles were forming around these women's hearts.—Holmes.

A woman is happy and attains all that she desires when she captivates a man; hence the object of her life is to master the art of captivating men.—Tolstoi.

The life of a woman can be divided into three epochs: In the first she dreams of love, in the second she experiences it, in the third she regrets it.—Saint-Prosper.

BY OUR OWN SAGE.

Many a man's reform needs reforming.

If you are going to kick at all do it with your whole sole.

Even the Prohibitionist is apt to indulge in a little whine.

The Lord made bachelors merely to tantalize the married men with envy.

The beauty about castles in the air is that we are our own landlords.

You can't say of a man who uses cheap perfumery that he has no common scents.

Many a fellow wonders why it is called cold cash when it burns a hole in his pocket.

Sometimes you come across a man whose best friends are those who know him least.

Some people are so constituted that it would be odd if they were not trying to get even.

The doctor may be quite intimate with a patient, and yet cut him dead when he performs an autopsy.

A horse has to be broken before you can drive him, but it seems to be quite different with the automobile.

JUST THOUGHTS.

Some men acquire their popularity with a club.

When soldiers respond to bugle calls do they come to blows?

The ties of wedlock—the kind a man's wife makes for him.

Many a fellow who is ambitious to become a prize fighter makes a poor fist of it.

Many a man treats his friends in a barroom better than he treats his wife at home.

Every woman lives to congratulate herself that there was one man she didn't marry.

A man may acquire the habit of taking everything as it comes from dining at a table d'hote.

A woman with an account at a department store can generally be depended upon to fill the bill.

There is nothing new under the sun, especially to the woman who has been married three or four times.

BACHELOR GIRL'S REFLECTIONS.

Getting married is so easy that most men are suspicious of it.

A man's idea of an engagement is a chance to find out whether or not he really enjoys kissing that particular girl.

A man thinks that by marrying a woman he proves he loves her, and that therefore nothing more need ever be said about it.

It's not his understanding of the plot of the opera that makes a man appreciate it, but the "understanding" of the chorus ladies.

A mother-in-law may be the serpent in the Garden of Eden; but if it hadn't been for the serpent whom would Adam have had to blame for all his troubles?

When two people marry they "lock their hearts together and throw away the key;" then they begin looking around for some old legal nail to pick the lock with.

"All over. I'm so used to being alone that I shouldn't know what to do with a wife." He puffed seriously.

Ah! the futility of our desires, of our castles, of our dreams! The complacency with which we jog along in what we deem to be our own particular groove! I recall a girl friend of my youth who was going to be a celibate, a great reformer, and toward that end was studying for the pulpit. She is now the mother of several children, the most peaceful and unorative woman I know. You see, humanity goes whirring over various sidetracks, thinking them to be the main line, till fate puts its peculiar but happy hand to the switch. Scharfenstein had been plugging away over rusty nails and grass-grown ties—till he came to Barscheit.

"Hope is the wings of the heart," said I, when I thought the pause had grown long enough. "You still hope?"

"In a way. If I recollect, you had an affair once,"—shrewdly.

I smoked on. I wasn't quite ready to speak.

"You were always on the hunt for ideals, too, as I remember; hope you'll find her."

"Max, my boy, I am solemnly convinced that I have."

"Good Lord, you don't mean to tell me that you are hooked?" he cried.

"I see no reason why you should use that particular tone," I answered stiffly.

"Oh, come now; tell me all about it. Who is she, and when's the wedding?"

"I don't know when the wedding's going to be, but I'm mighty sure that I have met the one girl. Max, there never was a girl like her. Witty she is, and wise; as beautiful as a summer's dawn; merry and brave; rides, drives, plays the 'cello, dances like a moon-shadow; and all that,"—with a wave of the hand.

"You've got it bad. Remember how you used to write poetry at college? Who is she if I may ask?"

"The Honorable Betty Moore, at present the guest of her highness, the Princess Hildegarde,"—with pardonable pride.

Max whistled. "You're a lucky beggar. One by one we turn traitor to our native land. A Britisher! I never should have believed it of you, of the man whose class declamation was on the firey subject of patriotism. But is it all on one side?"

"I don't know, Max; sometimes I think so, and then I don't."

"How long have you known her?"

"Little more than a month."

"A month? Everything moves swiftly these days, except European railway cars."

"There's a romance, Max, but another besides her is concerned, and I can not tell you. Some day, when everything quiets down, I'll get you into a corner with a bottle, and you will find it worth while."

"The bottle?"

"Both."

"From rumors I've heard, this princess is a great one for larks; rides bicycles and automobiles, and generally raises the deuce. What sort is she?"

"If you are going to remain in Barscheit, my boy, take a friendly warning. Do not make any foolish attempt to see her. She is more fascinating than a roulette table."

This was a sly dig. Max smiled. A recent letter from him had told of an encounter with the goddess at Monte Carlo. Fortune had been all things but favorable.

"I'm not afraid of your princess; besides, I came here to study."

"And study hard, my boy, study hard. Her highness is not the only pretty woman in Barscheit. There's a raft of them."

"I'll paddle close to the shore," with a smile.

"By the way, I'll wake you up Thursday."

"How"—lazily.

"A bout at Mueller's Rathskeller. Half a dozen American lads, one of whom is called home. Just fixed up his passports for him. You'll be as welcome as the flowers in the spring. Some of the lads will be in your classes."

"Put me down. It will be like old times. I went to the reunion last June. Everything was in its place but you. Hang it, why can't time always go on as it did then?"

"Time, unlike our watches, never has to go to the jeweler's for repairs," said I owlishly.

Max leaned over, took my bull-terrier by the neck and deposited him on his lap.

"Good pup, Artie—if he's anything like his master. Three years, my boy, since I saw you. And here you are, doing nothing and lallygagging at court with the nobility. I wish I had an uncle who was a senator. 'Pull' is everything these days."

"You Dutchman, I won this place on my own merit,"—indignantly.

"Forget it!"—grinning.

"You are impertinent."

"But truthful, always."

And then we smoked a while in silence. The silent friend is the best of the lot. He knows that he hasn't got to talk unless he wants to, and likewise that it is during these lapses of speech that the vine of friendship grows and tightens about the heart. When you sit beside a man and feel that you need not labor to entertain him it's a good sign that you thoroughly understand each other. I was first to speak.

"I don't understand why you should go in for medicine so thoroughly. It can't be money, for heaven knows your father left you a yearly income which alone would be a fortune to me."

"Chivalry shivers these days; the chill of money is on everything. A man must do something—a man who is neither a sloth nor a fool. A man must have something to put his whole heart into; and I despise money as money. I give away the bulk of my income."

"Marry, and then you will not have to," I said flippantly.

"You're a sad dog. Do you know, I've been thinking about epigrams."

"No!"

"Yes. I find that an epigram is produced by the same cause that produces the pearl in the oyster."

"That is to say, a healthy mentality never superinduces an epigram? Fudge!" said I, yanking the pup from his lap to mine. "According to your diagnosis, your own mind is diseased."

"Have I cracked an epigram?"—with pained surprise.

"Well, you nearly bent one," I compromised.

Then we both laughed, and the pup started up and licked my face before I could prevent him.

"Did I ever show you this?"—taking out a locket which was attached to one end of his watch chain. He passed the trinket to me.

"What is it?" I asked, turning it over and over.

"It's the one slender link that connects me with my babyhood. It was around my neck when Scharfenstein picked me up. Open it and look at the face inside."

I did so. A woman's face peered up at me. It might have been beautiful but for the troubled eyes and the drooping lips. It was German in type, evidently of high breeding, possessing the subtle lines which distinguish the face of the noble from the peasant's. From the woman's face I glanced at Max's. The eyes were something alike.

"Who do you think it is?" I asked, when I had studied the face sufficiently to satisfy my curiosity.

"I've a sneaking idea that it may be my mother. Scharfenstein found me toddling about in a railroad station, and that locket was the only thing about me that might be used in the matter of identification. You will observe that there is no lettering, not even the jeweler's usual carat mark to qualify the gold. I recall nothing; life with me dates only from the wide plains and grazing cattle. I was born either in Germany or Austria. That's all I know. And to tell you the honest truth, boy, it's the reason I've placed my woman ideal so high. So long as I place her over my head I'm not foolish enough to weaken into thinking I can have her. What woman wants a man without a name?"

"You poor old Dutchman, you! You can buy a genealogy with your income. And a woman nowadays marries the man, the man. It's only horses, dogs and cattle that we buy for their pedigrees. Come; you ought to have a strawberry mark on your arm," I suggested lightly; for there were times when Max brooded over the mystery which enveloped his birth.

In reply he rolled up his sleeve and bared a mighty arm. Where the vaccination scar usually is I saw a red patch, like a burn. I leaned over and examined it. It was a four-pointed scar, with a perfect circle around it. Somehow, it seemed to me that this was not the first time I had seen this peculiar mark. I did not recollect ever seeing it on Max's arm. Where had I seen it, then?

"It looks like a burn," I ventured to suggest.

"It is. I wish I knew what it signifies. Scharfenstein said that it was positively fresh when he found me. He said I cried a good deal and kept telling him that I was Max. Maybe I'm an anarchist and don't know it,"—with half a smile.

"It's a curious scar. Hang me, but I've seen the device somewhere before!"

"You have?"—eagerly. "Where, where?"

"I don't know; possibly I saw it on your arm in the old days."

He sank back in his chair. Silence, during which the smoke thickened and the pup whined softly in his sleep. Out upon the night the cathedral bell boomed the third hour of morning.

"If you don't mind, Artie," said Max, yawning, "I'll turn in. I've been traveling for the past fortnight."

"Take a ride on Dandy in the morning. He'll hold your weight nicely. I can't go with you, as I've a lame ankle."

"I'll be in the saddle at dawn. All I need is a couple of hours between sheets."

As I prodded my pillow into a comfortable wad under my cheek I wondered where I had seen that particular brand. It was a brand. I knew that I had seen it somewhere, but my memory danced away when I endeavored to halter it. Soon I fell asleep, dreaming of Somebody who wasn't Max Scharfenstein, by a long shot.

CHAPTER V.

That same evening the grand duke's valet knocked on the door leading into the princess' apartments, and when the door opened he gravely announced that his serene highness desired to speak to the Princess Hildegarde. It was a command. For some reason, known best to herself, the princess chose to obey it.

"Say that I shall be there presently," she said, dismissing the valet.

As she entered her uncle's study—so called because of its dust-laden bookshelves, though the duke sometimes disturbed their contents to steady the leg of an unbalanced chair or table—he laid down his pipe and dismissed his small company of card players.

"I did not expect to see you so soon," he began. "A woman's curiosity sometimes has its value. It takes little to arouse it, but a great deal to allay it."

"You have not summoned me to make smart speeches, simply because I have been educated up to them?"—truculently.

"No. I have not summoned you to talk smart, a word much in evidence in Barscheit since your return from England. For once I am going to use a woman's prerogative. I have changed my mind."

The Princess Hildegarde trembled with delight. She could put but one meaning to his words.

"The marriage will not take place next month."

"Uncle!"—rapturously.

"Wait a moment,"—grimly. "It shall take place next week."

"I warn you not to force me to the altar," cried the girl, trembling this time with a cold fury.

"My child, you are too young in spirit and too old in mind to be allowed a gateless pasture. In harness you will do very well." He took up his pipe and primed it. It was rather embarrassing to look the girl in the eye. "You shall wed Doppelkinn next week."

"You will find it rather embarrassing to drag me to the altar,"—evenly.

"You will not," he replied, "create a scandal of such magnitude. You are untamable, but you are proud."

The girl remained silent. In her heart she knew that he had spoken truly. She could never make a scene in the cathedral. But she was determined never to enter it. She wondered if she should produce the bogus certificate. She decided to wait and see if there were no other loophole of escape. Old Rotnasig? Not if she died!

When these two talked without apparent heat it was with unalterable fixedness of purpose. They were of a common race. The duke was determined that she should wed Doppelkinn; she was equally determined that she should not. The gentleman with the algebraic bump may figure this out to suit himself.

"Have you no pity?"

"My reason overshadows it. You do not suppose that I take any especial

"Is He Dead?" She Asked.

pleasure in forcing you? But you leave me no other method."

"I am a young girl, and he is an old man."

"That is immaterial. Besides, the fact has gone abroad. It is now irrevocable."

"I promise to go out and ask the first man I see to marry me!" she declared.

"Pray heaven, it may be Doppelkinn!" said the duke drolly.

"Oh, do not doubt that I have the courage and the recklessness. I would not care if he were young, but the prince is old enough to be my father."

"You are not obliged to call him husband." The duke possessed a sparkle to-night which was unusual in him. Perhaps he had won some of the state moneys which he had paid out to his ministers that day. "Let us not waste any time," he added.

"I shall not waste any,"—ominously.

"Order your gown from Vienna, or Paris, or from wherever you will. Don't haggle over the price; let it be a good one; I'm willing to go deep for it."

"You loved my aunt once,"—a broken note in her voice.

"I love her still,"—not unkindly; "but I must have peace in the house. Observe what you have so far accomplished in the matter of creating turmoil." The duke took up a paper.

"My sins?"—contemptuously.

"Let us call them your transgressions. Listen. You have ridden a horse as a man rides it; you have ridden bicycles in public streets; you have stolen away to a masked ball; you ran away from school in Paris and visited heaven knows whom; you have bribed sentries to let you in when you were out late; you have thrust aside the laws as if they meant nothing; you have trifled with the state papers and caused the body politic to break up a meeting as a consequence of the laughter."

The girl, as she recollected this day to which he referred, laughed long and joyously. He waited patiently till she had done, and I am not sure that his mouth did not twist under his beard. "Foreign education is the cause of all this," he said finally. "Those cursed French and English schools have ruined you. And I was fool enough to send you to them. This is the end."

"Or the beginning,"—rebelliously.

"Doppelkinn is mild and kind."

"Mild and kind! One would think that you were marrying me to a horse! Well, I shall not enter the cathedral."

"How will you avoid it?"—calmly.

"I shall find a way; wait and see." She was determined.

"I shall wait." Then, with a sudden softening, for he loved the girl after his fashion: "I am growing old, my child. If I should die, what would become of you? I have no son; your Uncle Franz, who is but a year or two younger than I am, would reign, and he would not tolerate your madcap ways. You must marry at once. I love you in spite of your willfulness. But you have shown yourself incapable of loving. Doppelkinn is wealthy. You shall marry him."

"I will run away, uncle,"—decidedly.

"I have notified the frontiers,"—tranquilly. "From now on you will be watched. It is the inevitable, my child, and even I have to bow to that."

She touched the paper in her bosom, but paused.

"Moreover, I have decided," went on the duke, "to send the Honorable Betty Moore back to England."

"Betty?"

"Yes. She is a charming young person, but she is altogether too sympathetic. She abets you in all you do. Her English independence does not conform with my ideas. After the wedding I shall notify her father."

"Everything, everything! My friends, my liberty, the right God gives to every woman—to love whom she will! And you, my uncle, rob me of these things! What if I should tell you that marriage with me is now impossible?"—her lips growing thin.

"I should not be very much surprised."

"Please look at this, then, and you will understand why I can not marry Doppelkinn." She thrust the bogus certificate into his hands.

The duke read it carefully, not a muscle in his face disturbed. Finally he looked up with a terrifying smile.

"Poor, foolish child! What a terrible thing this might have turned out to be!"

"What do you mean?"

"Mean? Do you suppose anything like this could take place without my hearing of it? And such a dishonest, unscrupulous rascal! Some day I shall thank the American consul personally for his part in the affair. I was waiting to see when you would produce this. You virtually placed your honor and reputation, which I know to be above reproach, into the keeping of a man who would sell his soul for a thousand crowns."

The girl felt her knees give way, and she sat down. Tears slowly welled up in her eyes and overflowed, blurring everything.

The duke got up and went over to his desk, rummaging among the papers. He returned to the girl with a letter.

"Read that, and learn the treachery of the man you trusted."

The letter was written by Steinbock. In it he disclosed all. It was a venomous, insulting letter. The girl crushed it in her hand.

"Is he dead?" she asked, all the bitterness in her heart surging to her lips.

"To Barscheit,"—briefly. "Now, what shall I do with this?"—tapping the bogus certificate.

"Give it to me," said the girl wearily. She ripped it into halves, into quarters, into infinitesimal squares, and tossed them into the waste-basket. "I am the unhappiest girl in the world."

"I am sorry," replied the grand duke. "It isn't as if I had forced Doppelkinn on you without first letting you have your choice. You have rejected the princes of a dozen wealthy countries. We are not as the common people; we can not marry where we will. I shall announce that the marriage will take place next week."

"Do not send my friend away," she pleaded, apparently tamed.

"I will promise to give the matter thought. Good night."

She turned away without a word and left him. When he roared at her she knew by experience that he was harmless; but this quiet determination meant the exclusion of any further argument. There was no escape unless she ran away. She wept on her pillow that night, not so much at the thought of wedding Doppelkinn as at the fact that Prince Charming had evidently missed the last train and was never coming to wake her up, or, if he did come, it would be when it was too late. How many times had she conjured him up, as she rode in the fresh fairness of the mornings! How manly he was and how his voice thrilled her! Her horse was suddenly to run away, he was to rescue her, and then demand her hand in marriage as a fitting reward. Sometimes he had black hair and eyes, but more often he was big and tall, with yellow hair and the bluest eyes in all the world.

LOU WILTSE WANTS TO QUIT JERSEY CITY TEAM

Disgusted with the kind of ball being played by the Jersey City Eastern League Club, "Lou" Wiltse, of this city, who is on the pitching staff, is making efforts to change his berth to one of the big league clubs. He says that he is in the best condition ever and able to pitch winning ball with a good team behind him. He has pitched eight games for Jersey City, winning four and losing four, which puts him in the .500 class, but in every game he has worked, the team has made between five and ten errors, enough to discourage any twirler.

Eugene McCann, formerly a pitcher for the same club, has succeeded Joe Bean as manager, but little improvement is expected because of the poor material in the lineup. A baseball expert in speaking of the "Skeeters" says that the club at present is outclassed by every other one in the league and a general shakeup is needed to bring it up to the standard.

Wiltse went over to New York today to have a talk with Manager McGraw with a view to getting a "try-out" with the Giants. He is confident that he can make good. He says that he has perfect control, all sorts of curves and he adds that he can work the "spit" ball so that it will fool the best of batsmen. Within the past few days he has received numerous offers from other clubs, including one from Toronto, but he would prefer to play nearer home, if possible, and feels confident that he will get a trial with the Giants.

Local Y. M. C. A. Close Second.

The standing to date in the Y. M. C. A. State League shows Plainfield to be a close second with four victories and one defeat, and a percentage of .800. Newark still leads with five victories and no defeats, giving the team 1,000 per cent. The standing:

C. B. MORSE RETAINS CUP AFTER AN EXCITING MATCH.

One of the best golf matches of the season was played at the Park Golf Club, yesterday, when Walter C. McNaughton, challenger, met Charles B. Morse, holder, in the play-off for the Hydewood Park challenge cup, which was scheduled for Fourth of July. By mutual consent the match was arranged for yesterday. At the conclusion of the eighteen holes, the cards showed that Mr. Morse had won by 2 up and 1 to play.

The match was so close throughout that it was won and lost on the putting greens. At the end of the first nine holes, Mr. McNaughton was 1 up, and from the turn the match was nip and tuck. The winner had a score of 94, while his opponent turned in a card of 95.

Crack Golfers at Park Golf Club.

The Park Golf Club has extended an invitation to Frank O. Reinhart, of the Plainfield Country Club, and A. G. Lockwood, of New York, to play a match on the club course some day to be decided upon by the players. Mr. Reinhart has expressed a desire to go over the course and it is possible he may make a new record. Mr. Lockwood was New England champion in golf for five years, and his presence on the local course should be attended with more than usual interest. The pair will be the guests of Charles B. Morse on the day of play and the trio, with possibly a fourth player, may engage in the match.

OAK TREE'S OLD PUPILS HOLD A JOLLY REUNION

Mrs. Alexander D. Ayers, of this city, was among the sixty persons who attended a reunion of the pupils of the old public school at Oak Tree, held at Boynton Beach, yesterday. For forty-three years Bethune Duncan has been instructor in the school. He is one of the best-known school teachers in New Jersey. About two months ago some of the pupils, who are now advanced in years, conceived the idea of holding a reunion and after considerable effort about sixty pupils were found in New York, Brooklyn, Pennsylvania, Long Island and New Jersey.

Two of those present were eighty-nine years old, while the youngest pupil was about fifty years of age. They all had a jolly good time, recalling interesting incidents of boyhood and girlhood days at Oak Tree. The entire day was spent in a social way and at noon dinner was served. It is quite likely that the affair will be made an annual one, and steps toward that end were taken yesterday. Among those present were representatives of the Campbell, Kelly, Munn, Paine, Force and Noe families.

Harrison A. C. Has an Outing.

The Harrison A. C., the well-known Prideville baseball organization, held its first annual outing on the Jefferson avenue grounds, Sunday. A feature of the affair was a baseball game between the married and single members of the club in which the former won. On Sunday, July 12, the Harrisons will hold another outing in honor of the installation of their new officers.

New Team for Fire Engine.

Fire Cheif T. O. Doane and chairman Buxton, of the Councilmanic fire committee, yesterday purchased a new team of horses for the city fire engine. They were bought from Fiss, Doerr and Carroll, the New York dealers, and will be delivered tomorrow. The animals are grays and weigh 2,600 pounds.

Rosevelt Not to Attend.

President Roosevelt will not visit Sea Girt this year. Governor Fort has done everything he could to persuade the president to go there during the State encampment, which starts July 11, but has received a definite answer that the president will not come.

OVERSEERS OF THE POOR TO HOLD A CONFERENCE

Overseer of the Poor Barck, of Hoboken, who succeeded in killing Assembly bill No. 72, which was introduced in the Legislature last winter, providing radical changes in the poor departments of the State, was in Plainfield yesterday in conference with Overseer of the Poor A. D. Ayers. State Senator Everett Colby was especially interested in the enactment of the measure presented last winter, but consented to its withdrawal upon the condition that the overseers of the poor generally unite upon a bill as a substitute, one that would contain most of the important features of the other bill.

It is now the plan to arrange for a general conference of all the overseers of the poor, with a view to drafting a bill that will better meet the requirements of the departments. It is admitted that a revision of the poor laws is greatly needed and efforts will be made to bring this about so that those who will be affected will be treated fairly. The poor department heads thus far seen are in favor of the proposed conference and as soon as all of them can be reached a time for the meeting will be fixed.

"WE'RE-GOING-TO-WIN-JIM" FOR "BRYAN AND SULZER"

James E. Martine, the "farmer orator," who is an alternate-at-large from New Jersey to the Democratic National Convention and an enthusiastic Bryanite, called on Robert Davis, the Democratic boss of Hudson county, yesterday at Jersey City to enlist the support of the Hudson delegation in booming Representative William Sulzer, of New York, for second place on the national ticket. He prophesied that Bryan and Sulzer would make a combination that could not be beaten.

Davis had been seriously considering Lieutenant Governor Chanler of New York, but Martine declared that Chanler was too wealthy to be popular. Davis was not convinced. Davis got in a rap at his old foe, ex-Senator James Smith, who, he said, had decided to go to Denver, but would have to be on the outside, looking in, as the Bryan bandwagon was overcrowded, and there would be no room for eleventh hour converts.

PLAINFIELD BOY'S LIFE IS SAVED BY HIS COUSIN

Hugh Wylie, fourteen years old, son of Rev. Samuel Beattie Wylie, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of New Castle, Del., made a daring attempt to save his cousin, James Peacock, of this city, from drowning Saturday near New Castle. Hundreds of persons saw the boys in swimming and saw Peacock throw up his hands and call for help. But they were too far off and Wylie went to his assistance and caught him after he had gone down twice. Although his cousin probably was fifty pounds the heavier of the two, Wylie held him and called for help until William Hanson went out in his boat and aided the nearly exhausted lad.

Peacock was unconscious and unable to help himself.

AN INVENTION TO FEED HORSES BY CLOCKWORK.

A provision merchant in Oldham has invented an ingenious contrivance by which, it is stated, he is able to feed his horses without personal attendance, through the medium of a 4s. 6d. American alarm clock, says Tit-Bits.

In a small office adjoining the stable the clock is placed on a shelf. Attached to the winding-up key is a piece of copper wire, and this is fastened to a small brass roller that runs over a wooden rod. At the end of the rod is a heavyweight. When the clock "goes off" the wheel is drawn over the rod and releases the weight, which falls to the floor.

The corn box is filled overnight, and immediately the weight is released a small door at the bottom of the box flies open and the corn falls into the manger. The horses never fail to rise at the sound of the alarm, knowing what is to follow, and when the drivers turn up, say, at 7 or 8 o'clock, the animals are ready for taking the shafts. Another advantage to be gained by the method is that the horses need never be placed in the shafts before the breakfast has had time to digest.

WHEN THE OLD LADY WILTED.

Florist's Simple Explanation as to His "Remarkable" Plant.

With a firm tread and a masterful air a lady strode into the shop of a London florist. Her choice fell on a remarkably green palm in an ornamental pot.

"Will it flourish in the sunshine?" she inquired of the shop assistant, with a sharp glance from her eagle eye.

"Yes, madam," was the courteous response.

"Don't say it will if it won't," snapped she, amiably. "If it does well in the sun, will the shade hurt it?"

"Oh, no, madam!"

"What!" she exclaimed, with a triumphant, now-I've-caught-you air. "You tell me it will thrive equally well in sun or shade? Young man, you don't know your business! Fetch your employer!"

The owner of the establishment was instantly summoned. Even he quailed before her, but for all that he backed up his employe's statement.

"Then it's a really remarkable and accommodating plant!" she commented, waxing sarcastic. "My good man, it's both ridiculous and unnatural!"

"That's just it," interrupted the floral expert. "It's an artificial plant."

ILL HEALTH AND MORBIDNESS.

Unfortunate Result of Intense Passion for Sympathy.

One of the tendencies of ill health is to make one morbid. People who are constantly thinking about their ailments, worrying about their troubles, suffering pain, often develop a morbid passion for sympathy. They want to tell everybody of their aches and pains, to describe their symptoms, says a writer. Have you ever known a woman who has acquired the doctor habit, a woman who loves nothing in the world quite so well as an opportunity to tell the doctor of her ailments? She has poured them out to unwilling ears, to forced listeners, till she longs for some one who can really appreciate it all, who sympathizes with her in her troubles; so she sends for the doctor or goes to see him. This becomes almost a mania with some women, who have few outside activities to divert them. Their minds naturally revert to themselves and they think of their unfortunate condition until they become saturated with the poisoned thought.

Human Pincushions.

"I was in an uptown tearoom where the scenery is all out of proportion to the amount served you," said a New York clubman. "I was dallying with some ice cream when my spoon struck a common, everyday pin in the bottom of the frozen stuff. I gave a little wave and a waiter slipped to my side. 'See, a pin in this ice cream,' I said.' 'Why, I might have swallowed that.' He took the glass and disappeared. When he returned he reminded me of an undertaker, he was that solemn. 'That pin has lost a man his job, sir,' he said. 'Well,' I replied, 'I am sorry for that, but it might have cost me my life, when you come to think of it.' 'Yes, sir,' said the waiter, meekly. Then, 'You see, sir, most of the folks that eats here just sips their ice cream and don't chew it.'"

"Rest Cure" in England.

"Sleep and be beautiful! Rest and preserve your charms!" That is what wise Englishwomen are saying to themselves nowadays and what they are doing most religiously. Many make a point of lying down for half an hour before luncheon and before dinner, or after eating, if it suits them better, on a couch heaped with cushions. And to make the rest sweet the cushions are filled with fragrant herbs and flower petals. Some very dainty women have cushions packed with rose leaves. Lavender tops are used, too, and pine needles, which have always been famed as sleep inducers. Some women insist that hops, loosely stuffed in the cushion covers, are the best thing to make one drowsy.

Essentials of a Great Man.

You can not substitute any epithet for great, when you are talking of great men. Greatness is not general dexterity carried to any extent; nor proficiency in any one subject of human endeavor. There are great astronomers, great scholars, great painters, even great poets, who are very far from great men. Greatness can do without success, and with it. William is greater in his retreats than Marlborough in his victories. On the other hand, the uniformity of Caesar's success does not dull his greatness. Greatness is not in the circumstances, but in the man.—Arthur Helps.

Poor Bobby!

"My son," said Bobby's father, "you should always remember and emulate the busy bee."

Ten minutes later Bobby was caught in the neighbor's apple tree gathering blossoms. After being peppered with salt by the irate neighbor he was taken down behind the barn and soundly thrashed.

"That's what you get for emulating the busy bee," he sobbed. "Next time I am going to emulate the lazy toad and sit in the grass and do nothing."

Doubts About It.

"Bangs' daughter had such expensive tastes that I suppose it is a relief to him to get her married off so well."

"I don't know about that."

"Why not?"

"She was always on his hands, but when I saw him taking her up the aisle, she was on his arm."

TO ADD TO THE TROUSSEAU.

Two baby pins, fastened by a bar of gold one inch and a half long, serve to double purpose—fastening the collar and supporting the neck.

A long liberty scarf of Persian design can be worn with almost every gown.

Shirtwaist sets of three studs and cuffs links are of pearl or gold.

Turquoise matrix scarf pins in odd shapes are set in dull gold.
